'Tis true he was with fetters born,
But break them if you can,
And give him not one look of scorn—
Remember—he's a man.

When you see "the rough, hard hand," Besmeared with daily toil,
Oh! never at a distance stand,
For fear that I should soil.
He will not bear to be despised,
The meanest never can,
Or even to be "patronized"—
Remember—he's a man.

When'er you meet, in life's rough track,
A brother gone astray
Stretch forth a hand to bring him back—
Turn not the other way;
There is no shame in humble birth,
Then help it when you can;
And e'en the meanest wretch on earth—
Remember—he's a man.

THE CAPTAIN'S SACRIFICE.
Two years passed, and the captain of the Flying Arrow was captain of a propeller which brought passengers merchandise from the upper lakes. Those who knew him best were aware that he was pressed down by some great sorrow, but no one had known his grief except his mother. He had told her his story, and she fell upon his neck and wept for him, "as one whom his mother had comforted." But she was now at rest.

The propeller was passing out of the last lock in the Welland, and George was forward, watching her carefully, when passengers came on board. He had not time to attend to them then; but when the boat was fairly out of Dalhousie, and the mate could take care of her, he went into the dining saloon, for the dinner bell was ringing. They had few first-cabin passengers that day, though the steerage was full to overflowing. Most of these had already taken their seats, and George had begun to carve the meat, when the door leading to the ladies' cabin opened, and a young men. If the others had never called the lake, I wouldn't blame them so much. But—I don't like this. Go into the cabin."

The wind began to rise in fitful gusts, and the steamer was rushing through the water at her best speed, the foam piling itself in great masses about her entrance. Below, the great heart throbbed and beat, while the firemen, smoke-begrimed and perspiring, piled wood in the furnace, and the engineer obeyed the order which came through the speaking tube to put on speed. Night came on, and the waves seemed to go down for a moment, and it was almost a calm, and then, without a moment's warning, the squall struck them on the beam. Many a sailing craft went down in that fierce gust, and even the steamer felt it. As she heeled to leeward, and every thing upon the windward side went thundering across the deck, a wail of despair was heard among the passengers. But, in obedience to the captain's order, the steamer's course was changed so that its bow pointed "into the wind's eye," while the fierce squall roared about her, and a watery deluge swept across her decks. George Manly, drenched by the icy flood, but bold and confident, kept his station behind the wheel-house, holding in one hand the speaking tube, and in the other a trumpet, for in the roar of the elements no human voice could have any power. A confused shout arose as a crowd of drenched passengers came rushing forward.

"Silence there, fore and aft!" cried the young sailor. "Watkins, take those people aft. What do they mean by this conduct when we are busy?"

The mate drove his confused flock before him to the after-cabin, locked them in, and pocketed the key, in spite of their remonstrances. He knew that they were safe if in that dark night they did not meet some other craft upward bound. The captain kept his lights up, the pyramid of colored lamps which tells of the coming of a steamer, and anxiously watched for those other lights which he must avoid. Sea after sea deluged them, and swept the deck clean of every thing not secure; but the sturdy sailors laughed at them. George called the first mate to his place, gave him the trumpet, and went into his cabin, for a night-glass, when he was aware that some one was sitting on a stool in the forward cabin looking out at the window, and trying in vain to pierce the thickness beyond.

"Who is this?" he said.

"It is I, George," said the musical voice he had so loved to hear. "I could not say in the cabin among the crowd of frightened people. Let me stay here."

"If you like it better," he answered. "Where is the child, and Gale?"

"They are in the cabin. Gale is not afraid, and is trying to calm those poor frightened souls. He is a brave man, George."

"I know it," said George, slowly. "I—"

Crash! Every thing seemed to reel as this wall long ago, and carried it him, directed to her. He had written pencil beneath it, "Teach the little to think kindly of the man whose he bears." Myra never forgot that proud in the after-days her son reverent memory of no man more than that young hero who died in the dark that other lives might be saved.

THE END.

THE PHYSIQUE OF CANADIAN
(From Brown's "Emigrant and Sp man in Canada.")

A comparison between the climate the United States and of Canada, as amplified by the physique and appearances of the people, is very strongly in favor of the latter climate. A climate suitable to the forest, as we have seen also that one most suitable to the growth of grasses and to the health of cattle. is also most favourable to man, who seems to benefit by a certain amount of humidity in the atmosphere as much as the forest tree. Thus the natives of forest regions in North America are robust and ruddy, while those of the treeless regions are lanky and yellow. The world cannot produce specimens of manhood than are to be met with in the backwoods of Canada, more especially in the lumber districts. Canadian born men are, if anything, harder than the Old Country people, and more especially in the lumber districts. They are hardy, robust, and vigorous, presenting a very striking contrast to their next neighbors.

Although the colonies are better known and more thought about in the Old Country than they were a short time ago, there is a certain amount of mist to be cleared away. Untravelled and unthorough Englishmen are apt to suppose that because the two countries lie side by side on the map of the New World, separated through many degrees by only an imaginary boundary line, that therefore citizens of Canada and of the United States must be almost identical in physique, appearance, habits, character, and so on. There cannot be a greater mistake. Canadians are simply Englishmen who have been taken out of the nursery and transplanted into a new field. The strongest plants are generally chosen by the gardener for planting out, so emigration it is generally the men of most strength, spirit, energy, and ambition that leave the Old Country to pursue their fortunes in the new. Conquer the wilderness and make homesteads of it, is an occupation calculated to stimulate, and not to subdue, those qualities of mind and body, such as self-reliance, energy, patience, on the one hand, and hardness, strength, and activity on the other, which are supposed to be characteristics of Englishmen. There is much difference between the United States citizen and the Canadian, as between the Englishman and the Frenchman. By blood the American of

Every Accommodation for Commercial Travellers.

35.

A. P. FARRELL,
PROPRIETOR.

McDONALD HOUSE, (Late Clark House) BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.
Buss to and from the cars. 39-1.

CUMMING'S

Specific for the Hair.

BRISCOE & SHUTTOCK, Proprietors
for Canada, No. 11, King Street,
West Toronto.

MAC. BOTTING,

Hair Dresser, Dundas Street. Napanee,
Sole Agent for Napanee and Counties of Lennox and Adlington. 42.

Land for Sale.

30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and Wild Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres; also of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low prices and easy terms.
Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets Napanee.

JAMES F. BARTLES.

Napanee, Sept. 12th, 1876.

UNDERTAKING.

THE subscriber begs leave to notify his friends and the public generally that he has removed to his farm, at Moscow, and has complete arrangements for keeping on hand, at all times

READY MADE COFFINS

of every size and shape.

SHROUDS ALWAYS ON HAND

and every other funeral requisite.

A FIRST CLASS HEARSE

always ready free of charge, and prompt attention to all orders.

MILES STORMS.

A. PETERS, ODESSA,

DEALER IN

Sash, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese Boxes, Tubs, Fekins, etc.

I am now making a very superior article in a sashed cheese box, which I will sell at 12c. All orders intrusted to me will receive prompt attention

POTTER BROS.,

LIVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE BRISCOE HOUSE.)

NAPANEE, ONT.

We keep nothing but First-Class Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE PRICES

J. NO. A. REID

VET. SURGEON

Where'er you meet, in life's rough track,
A brother gone astray
Stretch forth a hand to bring him back—
Turn not the other way;
There is no shame in humble birth,
Then help it when you can;
And e'en the meanest wretch on earth—
Remember—he's a man.

THE CAPTAIN'S SACRIFICE.

Two years passed, and the captain of the Flying Arrow was captain of a propeller which brought passengers merchandise from the upper lakes. Those who knew him best were aware that he was pressed down by some great sorrow, but no one had known his grief except his mother. He had told her his story, and she fell upon his neck and wept for him, "as one whom his mother had comforted." But she was now at rest.

The propeller was passing out of the last lock in the Welland, and George was forward, watching her carefully, when passengers came on board. He had not time to attend to them then; but when the boat was fairly out of Dalhousie, and the mate could take care of her, he went into the dining saloon, for the dinner bell was ringing. They had few first-cabin passengers that day, though the steerage was full to overflowing. Most of these had already taken their seats, and George had begun to carve the meat, when the door leading to the ladies' cabin opened, and a gentleman came in, followed by a lady. The carving-knife dropped from George Manly's hand; for Myra stood before him, with the flush of happiness upon her cheek, and her eyes dancing with fun as they sought out George's face. They came forward, and he rose quickly, and greeted them as if they had been his brother and sister. Myra was heartily glad to see him, and asked him questions of her old home, her father, and friends, and George answered her as well as he could. He could not see that she had changed in any respect—a little more matronly in figure, perhaps, but nothing more. Her eyes had the same old light in them which he remembered so well, and her voice was as sweet as ever. When dinner was over, Myra rose with an important air, and beckoned George to come.

"I have something to show you, Sir. You are to come with me at once, and tell me what you think."

George followed her mechanically into the ladies' cabin. A nurse sat upon a sofa near the upper end of the cabin, holding in her arms a baby—Myra's child. The young mother was down upon her knees beside it, pressing her lips to the sweet mouth of the child, which crowded and stretched out its little hands to her.

"Why don't you speak to him, George?" she said, pouting. "You don't hardly look at him, you wicked creature, and you don't know what his name is."

"How could I know?" said George, "I hope he has a good name."

"He has the name of a good man and a brave one," she answered.

"Your father's?"

"George Gale Merrick. Now what do you think of it? I would have it, George, because I want, when my little child is old enough to understand what I mean, to point him out a model, and I want no better one than I have found."

The little fellow was stretching out his hands to George, who could not resist the child's pleading gesture, and took the little fellow in his arms. His voice broke as he tried to speak.

"You don't know how I feel it," he said, "that you should name your little child after me. I am not likely to have one by my own fireside, and it will be something to remember with pleasure in my lonely voyage that somewhere on the earth there lives a child who bears my name."

"George," said Myra, inexpressibly touched by the melancholy cadence of his voice, "why do you live a lonely life? There are dozens of girls I know who would be proud to be your wife."

Forward.

"Silence there, for a moment," cried the young sailor. "Watkins, take those people aft. What do they mean by this conduct when we are busy?"

The mate drove his confused flock before him to the after-cabin, locked them in, and pocketed the key, in spite of their remonstrances. He knew that they were safe if in that dark night they did not meet some other craft upward bound. The captain kept his lights up, the pyramid of colored lamps which tells of the coming of a steamer, and anxiously watched for those other lights which he must avoid. Sea after sea deluged them, and swept the deck clean of every thing not secure; but the sturdy sailors laughed at them. George called the first mate to his place, gave him the trumpet, and went into his cabin for a night-glass, when he was aware that some one was sitting on a stool in the forward cabin looking out at the window, and trying in vain to pierce the thickness beyond.

"Who is this?" he said.

"It is I, George," said the musical voice he had so loved to hear. "I could not stay in the cabin among the crowd of frightened people. Let me stay here."

"If you like it better," he answered. "Where is the child, and Gale?"

"They are in the cabin. Gale is not afraid, and is trying to calm those poor frightened souls. He is a brave man, George."

"I know it," said George, slowly. "I—"
"Crash! Every thing seemed to reel as a lightning stroke had touched the steamer and shivered her at once. A wild, piercing cry, heard above the roar and rush of the tempest, a terrible, agonizing scream from half a hundred throats, told what had happened. Some unfortunate craft at the mercy of the waves, without lights, or unable to raise them, had met the steamer in full career. There can be no conception of the terrible forces of such a meeting. The crashing timber, the shrieks of brave men, rose above the turmoil of nature. Then the steamer reeled on, staggering like a drunken man, and the unfortunate craft was blotted out. George had caught Myra, and held her close until the first tumult had subsided, and he felt the steamer gliding on unobstructed, when he released her, and rushed out into the sea, and took command of the steamer again. For two hours they rushed on, and the storm subsided, when the mate came to him, and whispered, in a horrified voice,

"We have sprung a leak!"

For a single instant the two men looked at each other in horrified surprise, and then George sprang for his trumpet. "To the pumps!" he cried. "Work with a will, men!"

They worked as only men can who are fighting for their lives. But, fast as they labored, the water poured in faster than the pumps could draw it out. It gained, inch by inch, and George hurried about, preparing the boats for the salvation of the passengers. The storm had subsided as quickly as it rose, but though they now looked idly upon the waves, they felt that they were doomed.

"Get out the boats!" cried the sailors. "Pumps can't save us. The steamer must go down."

They made a rush for the boat on the starboard quarter, but George Manly stood before it, a revolver in his hand, and warned them sternly back: "I am captain of this boat yet, and my passengers shall be saved first, my crew next, and myself last of all. But the man who lays a finger upon any of these boats, except I order it, is a dead man."

They quailed before the determined captain, and when he called for certain ones to help lower away the boat, they quietly obeyed him. One by one frightened passengers descended, until there was only room left for the four rowers and the mate who was to command the boat. "Away with you," said George. "You've a compass, Watkins?"

"Ay, ay, Sir. God bless you, captain."

The boat was pushed off, and the remaining one was lowered. It was larger than the one which had just left the water from the Old Country people, as fleshy; they are hardy, robust, and, presenting a very striking contrast to their next neighbors.

Although the colonies are better known and more thought about in the Old Country than they were a short time ago, there is a certain amount of mist cleared away. Untravelled and untutored Englishmen are apt to suppose because the two countries lie side by side on the map of the New World, separated through many degrees by only an imaginary boundary line, that therefore citizens of Canada and of the United States must be almost identical in physique, appearance, habits, character, so on. There cannot be a greater mistake. Canadians are simply Englishmen who have been taken out of the nursery and transplanted into a new field. The strongest plants are generally chosen by the gardener for planting out, so emigration it is generally the most strength, spirit, energy, and ambition that leave the Old Country to their fortunes in the new. Conquer the wilderness and make homesteads of it, is an occupation calculated to stimulate, and not to subdue, those qualities of mind and body, such as self-reliance, patience, on the one hand, hardness, strength, and activity on the other, which are supposed to be characteristics of Englishmen. There is much difference between the United States citizen and the Canadian, as between the Englishman and the Frenchman. By blood the American of to-day is a strange mixture of all the Old World races—European, Asiatic, and African. He is famed and feared all over the world for his cleverness and shrewdness or cunning. But the least observant traveller cannot fail to discover that he has cultivated his brains at the expense of his body. The citizen of the United States has also fought against and conquered the wilderness; but he has done this not with his own strong arms, the Canadian, but with the hands of Chinamen, the African, and the Indian.

I suppose in considering the future of the two peoples, an ethnologist would study the woman more than the man. There is quite as great a difference between the American woman and Canadian woman as between the American woman who have not to work for their living do so as school teachers, as clerks in post offices, in shops in any way in fact where physical exertion can be dispensed with. The American woman has perfectly regular rather sharp features, and when young is undoubtedly very prettily bloomed, however rapidly fades away and she is an old woman at thirty. She has only one, or at most two children. The Canadian woman is a marked contrast. She is, in appearance, quite Englishwoman—generally a blond. Canadian ladies are fully as much addicted to outdoor pursuits and amusements as are English ladies. Even in depths of winter they have their walks on their snow shoeing, tobogganing, or skating parties. Thanks to more healthy mode of life, to their robust constitutions, and to their healthy climate they preserve their good looks to the last. As to the poorer woman in Canada they have no Chinamen, negroes, or Irishmen to work for them and so they are compelled to attend to their own household and dairies, and this seems to be well with them. Unlike the American there seems to be no limit to their faith and no end to their good looks, the middle-aged Canadian woman (if an expression can be applied to the sex) presents a great contrast to worn-out and faded American women a similar unmentionable age, as can possibly be imagined.

THE QUEEN ON THE EDUCATION OF HER DAUGHTER.

READY MADE COFFINS

of every size and shape.
SHROUDS ALWAYS ON HAND
 and every other funeral requisite.
A FIRST CLASS HEARSE
 always ready free of charge, and prompt attention to all orders.
MILES STORMS.

A. PETERS, ODESSA,

DEALER IN
 Sash, Doors, and Mouldings, Greece Boxes, Tubs, Pickins, etc.
 I am now making a very superior article in a sawed cheese box, which I will sell at 12c. All orders entrusted to me will receive prompt attention

POTTER BROS., LIVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE PRISCO HOUSE.)
NAPANEE, ONT.
 We keep nothing but First-Class Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE PRICES

Ino. A. Reid

VET. SURGEON
NAPANEE, ONT.
 GRADUATE OF

Ontario Veterinary College.
 May be consulted on all diseases of Domesticated Animals, personally at Campbell House or by letter.

TERMS MODERATE
 OFFICE—Warner Block

WESTERN ASSURANCE COMPANY.

Incorporated 1851.

CAPITAL, $800,000.
 With power to increase to $1,000,000.

FIRE AND MARINE.

HEAD OFFICE: Toronto, Ont.

President.
 HON. JOHN McMURRICH.
Vice-President.
 CHARLES MAGRATH
Directors.
 JAS. MICHIE, Esq. NOAH BARNHART, Esq.
 JOHN FISKIN, Esq. ROBT. BEATTY, Esq.
 A. M. SMITH, Esq. Wm. GOODERHAM, Jr., Esq.
BERNARD HALDAN, Managing Director.
FRED'G. C. LOVEACE, Secretary.
 Wm. BLIGHT, Fire Inspector.
 JAMES PRINGLE, General Agent.
 Marine Inspector.

Insurances effected at the lowest current rates on Buildings, Merchandise, and other property, against loss or damage by fire.
 On Hull Cargo, and Freight against the perils of Inland Navigation.
 On Cargo Risks with the Maritime Provinces by sail or steam.
 On Cargoes by steamers to British Ports.
W. V. DETLOR,
 Agent for Napanee

as well as he could. He could not see that she had changed in any respect—a little more matronly in figure, perhaps, but nothing more. Her eyes had the same old light in them which he remembered so well, and her voice was as sweet as ever. When dinner was over, Myra rose with an important air, and beckoned George to come.

"I have something to show you, Sir. You are to come with me at once, and tell me what you think."

George followed her mechanically into the ladies' cabin. A nurse sat upon a sofa near the upper end of the cabin, holding in her arms a baby—Myra's child. The young mother was down upon her knees beside it, pressing her lips to the sweet mouth of the child, which crowded and stretched out its little hands to her.

"Why don't you speak to him, George?" she said, pouting. "You don't hardly look at him, you wicked creature, and you don't know what his name is."

"How could I know?" said George, "I hope he has a good name."

"He has the name of a good man and a brave one," she answered.

"Your father's?"

"George Gale Merrick. Now what do you think of it? I would have it, George, because I want, when my little child is old enough to understand what I mean, to point him out a model, and I want no better one than I have found."

The little fellow was stretching out his hands to George, who could not resist the child's pleading gesture, and took the little fellow in his arms. His voice broke as he tried to speak.

"You don't know how I feel it," he said, "that you should name your little child after me. I am not likely to have one by my own fireside, and it will be something to remember with pleasure in my lonely voyages that somewhere on the earth there lives a child who bears my name."

"George," said Myra, inexpressibly touched by the melancholy cadence of his voice, "why do you live a lonely life? There are dozens of girls I know who would be proud to be your wife."

"It can never be," he said, gently. And the solemn way seemed to take up and sound the melancholy words. Myra had never dreamed of the true solution of George Manly's sorrow. In their intercourse she had looked at him as one immeasurably above her, to whom her childish chatter was simply amusing. But that he should have loved her! she would have laughed at the idea. Yet as she saw George standing there, gazing upon the sweet face of the child, an indefinite suggestion crossed her mind as to the cause of his gloom. Through the day he came to the cabin often; and once when Myra missed the child, the nurse told her that "the captain" had taken it on deck. She went out to look for him, and found him seated in the shadow of the cabin, the arms of the boy about his neck, and its little face pressed against his bearded cheek.

"I knew you had stolen him," said Myra. But the boy clung to his new protector, and crowded defiance to his mother. She drew a deck chair near the rail, looking out across the tranquil water. They were just steaming past Charlotte, and the long line of green coast lay bright before their eyes. George, looking at the northern sky, gave a sudden start, and a new trouble came into his face. He did not like the appearance of the sky. He had seen it look like that before terrific squalls, and he went away to prepare for danger. The sun set in a blazing sky, but it was the wrong kind of red—a lurid, fiery glare. The sailors shook their heads and looked significantly at each other. Myra, surprised by these strange glances, asked,

"What is the matter, George?"
 "A capful of wind yonder, perhaps—nothing to speak of. You go into your cabin and never mind it. If there is any real danger, I will be first one to tell you, never fear. Take her into the cabin, Gale, and don't mind the chatter of my above the turmoil of nature. Then the steamer reeled on, staggering like a drunken man, and the unfortunate craft was blotted out. George had caught Myra, and held her close until the first tumult had subsided, and he felt the steamer gliding on unobstructed, when he released her, and rushed out into the night, and took command of the steamer again. For two hours they rushed on, and the storm subsided, when the mate came to him, and whispered, in a horrified voice,

"We have sprung a leak!"

For a single instant the two men looked at each other in horrified surprise, and then George sprang for his trumpet. "To the pumps!" he cried. "Work with a will, men."

They worked as only men can who are fighting for their lives. But, fast as they labored, the water poured in faster than the pumps could draw it out. It gained, inch by inch, and George hurried about, preparing the boats for the salvation of the passengers. The storm had subsided as quickly as it rose, but though they now rocked idly upon the waves, they felt that they were doomed.

"Get out the boats!" cried the sailors. "Pumps can't save us. The steamer must go down."

They made a rush for the boat on the starboard quarter, but George Manly stood before it, a revolver in his hand, and warned them sternly back: "I am captain of this boat yet, and my passengers shall be saved first, my crew next, and myself last of all. But the man who lays a finger upon any of these boats, except I order it, is a dead man."

They quailed before the determined captain, and when he called for certain ones to help lower away the boat, they quietly obeyed him. One by one frightened passengers descended, until there was only room left for the four rowers and the mate who was to command the boat. "Away with you," said George. "You've a compass, Watkins?"

"Ay, ay, Sir. God bless you, captain!"
 The boat was pushed off, and the remaining one was lowered. It was larger than the one which had just left the steamer, but not large enough to hold all. George, with his own hand, placed Myra in the boat, and put the child in her arms. No one remained upon the steamer except Myra's husband and Manly. The sailors began to grumble.

"Come along, cap. She is getting heavy. But both of you can't come in this boat; she won't stand it."

"I know it," said George, calmly. "I am not going with you. Gale Merrick get into that boat. The steamer will not be afloat in fifteen minutes."

"I will not go," said Gale.
 "You must," replied George, almost fiercely. "And before you go I want you to take this letter. When you know that I am dead, give it to your wife. If I live, return it to me."

He thrust the sealed letter into the hand of the husband, and seizing him suddenly, forced him into the boat, and cast off the painter. The boat and steamer parted in the darkness, and George Manly remained upon the ill-fated craft, happy in the consciousness that he had heard her voice praying them to return and save him. He was glad they did not attempt it. The boat was loaded heavily already, and his weight would be too much. Climbing to the quarter-deck, he sat calmly down and awaited his fate. The last they saw of him, under the glare of the steamer's lamps, was his hands stretched out in a mute gesture of farewell. Living, no man ever saw him again, and it was two days after when they found his body upon the sands. When he was buried, Myra's husband brought the package which this brave man forced into his hand upon that fearful night, and opened it. He had written hastily in pencil,

"Myra—Farewell until the coming of a brighter morning."
 George.

Inclosed was a will, bequeathing all his property to Myra. He had made the Canadian, but with the hands of a Chinaman, the African, and the man.

I suppose in considering the future of the two peoples, an ethnologist would study the woman more than the man. There is quite as great a difference between the American women and Canadian women as between the American women who have not to for they object to any sort of exercise except, perhaps dancing. They ne walk nor ride. They go by rail and in carriages. They object even to work of looking after and superintending a house, and on that account prefer to live in hotels. Those who are obliged to work for their living do so as school teachers, as clerks in post offices, in any way in fact where physical exercise can be dispensed with. The American woman has perfectly regular rather sharp features, and when young is undoubtedly very pretty, but the bloom, however rapidly fades, and she is an old woman at thirty. She has only one, or at most two children. The Canadian woman is a marked contrast. She is, in appearance, quite an Englishwoman—generally a little Canadian ladies are fully as much addicted to outdoor pursuits and amusements as are English ladies. Even in the depths of winter they have their walks on their snow shoes, tramping, or skating parties. Thanks to more healthy modes of life, to their robust constitutions, and to their healthy children they preserve their good looks to the last. As to the poorer woman in Canada, they have no Chinamen, negroes, or men to work for them and so they are compelled to attend to their own household and dairies, and this seems to well with them. Unlike the American there seems to be no limit to their fires and no end to their good looks, the middle-aged Canadian woman (if an expression can be applied to the sex) presents as great a contrast to worn-out and faded American women as a similar unmentionable age can possibly be imagined.

THE QUEEN ON THE EDUCATION OF HER DAUGHTER.

"I am quite clear that she should be taught to have great reverence for and for religion, but that she should feel the feeling of devotion and love to our Heavenly Father encourages earthly children to have for Him, not one of fear and trembling; and the thoughts of death and an after should not be represented in an alarm and forbidding view, and that she should be made to know as yet no difference of creeds, and not think that she can pray on her knees, or that those who do not kneel are less fervent and devoted than their prayers." While the Queen was guided in all things relating to the education of the Royal children the Prince's wishes, Her Majesty time to time places upon record, in writing, her own views upon the subject: these memoranda, the education of the head is well provided for, but the education of the heart is dwelt upon as a primary importance. One of the letters dated 4th of March, 1844, winds up thus:—"The greatest maxim of all is—the children should be brought up simply, and in as domestic a way as possible: that (not interfering with lessons) they should be as much as possible with their parents, and learn place their greatest confidence in the all things." The question of the education of the Royal children is also dwelt upon repeatedly and anxiously. That this is best to a child, day by day, at its mother's knees, was the Queen's conviction. So early as 1844, however, the pressure of public duty made it impossible to this part of the education of the Prince Royal wholly within her own hands is already a hard case for me," Her Majesty says, in a memorandum of November of that year, "that my occupations prevent me being with her when she says her prayers."—Life of Prince Consort.

Chatham Express & Mail

Mr. Lohr

Express.

"IT SNOWS."

"It snows! it snows! From out the sky
The feathered flakes how fast they fly!
Like little birds, that don't know why
They're on the chase; from place to place,
While neither can the other trace.
It snows! it snows! A merry play Is o'er us in the air to-day!"

"As dancers in an airy hall
That hasn't room to hold them all,
While some kept up, and others fall,
The atoms shift, then thick and swift,
They drive along to form the drift.
That waving up so dazzling white,
Is rising like a wall of white."

"But now the wind comes whistling loud,
To snatch and waft it as a cloud,
Or giant phantom in a shroud.
It spreads, it curls, it mounts, and whirls;
At length a mighty wind unfurls,
And then, away!—but where, none knows.
Or ever will. It snows! it snows!"

"To-morrow will the storm be done;
Then out will come the golden sun.
And we will see upon the run,
Before his beams, in sparkling streams,
What now a curtain o'er him seems.
And thus with life it ever goes!
'Tis shade and shine! It snows it snows!"

TRUE HEROISM.

Instances of heroism in the prosecution of medical science, and the discharge of professional duty, are happily by no means uncommon. Surgeons who will brave the dangers and horrors of the battle field in order to tend the sick and wounded, themselves suffering great hardships and privation—who will adventure with exploring expeditions into regions of eternal ice—who will, never shrink from fever dens when pestilence is raging—who will, brave fire-damp for humanity and honor's sake—who will, in fact, even submit to experiments upon themselves for the well-being of others are among the greatest benefactors of the human race. Many such there have been and many such at this hour. The rector of Chesham in Cheshire, has just drawn attention to an act of great self-denial on the part of a medical student, and we are pleased to record it prominently in our columns, for the reason that honor ought to be given where honor is due. A poor factory operative had undergone amputation of the right leg in the Manchester Infirmary. He was in an emaciated condition, the hemorrhage was excessive, the poor man was evidently sinking and the cause was about to be abandoned as perfectly hopeless one, when it was suggested that an infusion of new blood might probably be instrumental in saving his life. There-upon, a student named Irvine volunteered to be bled, and twenty-five ounces of the burdens carried horizontally by the men? vital fluid were taken from him, at serious risk to himself, and infused into the system of the dying patient. The Rev. gentleman hearing in this case, made it his duty to visit the Infirmary, when he found the patient out of danger and slowly progressing towards convalescence. "Need we wonder," exclaims the writer, "that the noble band of English doctors on the battle fields in Turkey should reflect such credit upon our national character as the pioneer of Christianity, when a mere stripling at home does not hesitate to peril his own life for the sake of his fellow men?" The incident, natural and simple as it was, yet serves to recall the magnanimous conduct of the great Sir Philip Sydney, who when dying gloriously on the field of Zutphen, gave to an humble comrade, who was wounded and lying

($1.00 per annum, if paid in advance.

THE GREATEST NUMBER."

DAY, JAN. 26, 1877.

NO. 44.

If the lubbers had never sailed like I wouldn't blame them so much.
I don't like this. Go into the

A wind began to rise in fitful gusts, the steamer was rushing through the at her best speed, the foam piling in great masses about her cut-Below, the great heart throbbed beat, while the firemen, smoke-med and perspiring, piled wood in rnnace, and the engineer obeyed the which came through the speaking to put on speed. Night came on, he waves seemed to go down for a out, and it was almost a calm, and without a moment's warning, the l struck them on the beam. Many ing craft went down in that fierce and even the steamer felt it. As ealed to leeward, and every thing the windward side went thundering the deck, a wall of despair was among the passengers. But, in ence to the captain's order, the er's course was changed so that its ointed "into the wind's eye," while eece squall roared about her, and a y deluge swept across her decks.
ge Manly, drenched by the icy flood, old and confident, kept his station d the wheel-house, holding in one the speaking tube, and in the other net, for in the roar of the elements man voice could have any power.
fused shout arose as a crowd of led passengers came rushing forlence there, fore and aft!" cried ung sailor. "Watkins, take those aft. What do they mean by this et when we are busy?"

mate drove his confused flock be-im to the after-cabin, locked them d pocketed the key, in spite of their strances. He knew that they safe if in that dark night they di-eet some other craft upward bound.
aptain kept his lights up, the pyraf colored lamps which tells of the g of a steamer, and anxiously ed for those other lights which he avoid. Sea after sea deluged them, ept the deck clean of every thing cure; but the sturdy sailors laughed
m. George called the first mate to ace, gave him the trumpet, and nto his cabin for a night-glass, when s aware that some one was sitting tool in the forward cabin looking the window, and trying in vain to the thickness beyond.
ho is this?" he said.
is I, George," said the musical voice I so loved to hear. "I could not n the cabin among the crowd of ned people. Let me stay here."
you like it better," he answered.
ro is the child, and Gale?"
ey are in the cabin. Gale is not and is trying to calm those poor med souls. He is a brave man, e."
now it," said George, slowly. "I—sh! Every thing seemed to real as this will long ago, and carried it with him, directed to her. He had writt n pencil beneath it, "Teach the little child to think kindly of the man whose name he bears." Myra never forgot that prayer, and in the after-days her son revered the memory of no man more than that of the young hero who died in the darkness that other lives might be saved.

THE END.

THE PHYSIQUE OF CANADIANS.

(From Brown's "Emigrant and Sportsman in Canada.")

A comparison between the climate of the United States and of Canada, as exemplified by the physique and appearances of the people, is very strongly in favor of the latter climate. A climate suitable to the forest, as we have seen, is also that one most suitable to the growth of grasses and to the health of cattle. It is also most favourable to man, who appears to benefit by a certain amount of humidity in the atmosphere as much as the forest tree. Thus the natives of the forest regions in North America are robust and ruddy, while those of the prairies and treeless regions are lanky and yellow. The world cannot produce finer specimens of manhood than are to be met with in the backwoods of Canada, more especially in the lumber districts.
Canadian-born men are, if anything, taller than the Old Country people, and less fleshy: they are hardy, robust, and vigorous, presenting a very striking contrast to their next neighbors.

Although the colonies are better known and more thought about in the Old Country than they were a short time ago, still there is a certain amount of mist to be cleared away. Untravelled and unthinking Englishmen are apt to suppose that because the two countries lie side by side on the map of the New World, separated through many degrees by only an imaginary boundary line, that therefore the citizens of Canada and of the United States must be almost identical in physique, appearance, habits, character, and so on. There cannot be a greater mistake. Canadians are simply Englishmen who have been taken out of the nursery and transplanted into a new field. As the strongest plants are generally chosen by the gardener for planting out, so in emigration it is generally the men of most strength, spirit, energy, and ambition that leave the Old Country to push their fortunes in the new. Conquering the wilderness and make homesteads out of it, is an occupation calculated to stimulate, and not to subdue, those qualities of mind and body, such as self-reliance, energy, patience, on the one hand, and hardiness, strength, and activity on the other, which are supposed to be characteristics of Englishmen. There is as much difference between the United States citizen and the Canadian, as between the Englishman and the Frenchman. By blood the American of to-day

SWIFT JUSTICE IN RUSSIA.

A merchant left St. Petersburg to travel across Europe. In the course of his journey he arrived at Warsaw. Being furnished with a letter of introduction, he repaired to the house of one of the chief citizens there, and was courteously received. He stayed at Warsaw for a week, and his host showed him everything worth seeing in the town. Indeed the visitor was quite overwhelmed by the unusual amount of kindness, rarely shown to any but a friend of long standing. At length the pleasant visit drew to a close, and after breakfast the guest expressed his wish to see some parts of the town of which he had heard.

But, said he, I have with me a small box of great value that I do not like to risk in such places; if it were my own I would not be so particular; but it was intrusted to me by a friend who requested me to deliver it to a person in another town. It contains diamonds and other valuables. Would you do me the great favor of taking charge of it for this day?

The host, with his usual urbanity, agreed to this proposal, and the merchant departed with a light heart on his tour of inspection.

Next morning, after breakfast, he cordially thanked his kind entertainers for their zealous hospitality, and added that,
as he was about to depart, he would now resume his charge of the box, which had never before quitted his person since he had received it from his owner. The host and hostess started at him in well acted amazement.

What box? asked the host. I remember no box; do you, my dear? turning to his wife.

No, she said, I have no recollection of any box whatever.

What was it like? asked the host. Perhaps you left it in your room.

But on the merchant persisting that it was what the host himself it had been left, on returning to his hostess and trying to make her recollect the circumstances, both, after appealing to each other several times, and fortifying each other in their denial, became cold and distant and began hinting that something must have happened to the merchant to induce him to persist in so strange a delusion. As the host touched his forehead with a significant glance, the poor man remembered that he was in a strange city, and the ground seemed slipping from under his feet; danger to himself loomed up in the distance, and he hastened from the house in alarm.
Straight to the police he went and stated his case. The official listened impertur-bably to the whole story and then asked:

You gave up the valuable box to an acquaintance of a week's standing, without any witness or written acknowlege-ment?

He had been so very kind, and in his position—Bible you a man of business! But man voice could have any power. fused about arose as a crowd of led passengers came rushing forlence there, for and aft!" cried ung sailor. "Watkins, take those aft. What do they mean by this ict when we are busy?"

mate drove his confused flock be- im to the after-cabin, locked them d pocketed the key, in spite of their istrances. He knew that they safe if in that dark night they did eet some other craft upward bound. aptain kept his lights up, the pyra- colored lamps which tells of the g of a steamer, and anxiously e for those other lights which he avoid. Sen after sea deluged them, vept the deck clean of every thing cure; but the sturdy sailors laughed m. George called the first mate to ace, gave him the trumpet, and to his cabir. For a night-glass, when s aware that some one was sitting tool in the forward cabin looking the window, and trying in vain to the thickness beyond.

ho is this?" he said. is I, George," said the musical voice s so loved to hear. "I could not n the cabin among the crowd of ened people. Let me stay here." ou like it better," he answered. re is the child, and Gale?" ey are in the cabin. Gale is not , and is trying to calm those poor ned souls. He is a brave man, e."

now it," said George, slowly. "I— sh! Every thing seemed to real as ghtning stroke had touched the er and shivered her at once. A piercing cry, heard above the roar ish of the tempest, a terrible, ago- scream from half a hundred s, told what had happened. Some unate craft at the mercy of the , without lights, or unable to raise had met the steamer in full career. can be no conception of the ter- orce of such a meeting. The crash- nber, the shrieks of brave men, rose the turmoil of nature. Then the er reeled on, staggering like a en man, and the unfortunate craft blotted out. George had caught and held her close until the first and had subsided, and he felt the er gliding on unobstructed, when he d her, and rushed out into the and took command of the steamer. For two hours they rushed on, ie storm subsided, when the mate to him, and whispered, in a horri- ice, e have sprung a leak!"

a single instant the two men look- each other in horrified surprise, and George sprang for his trumpet. "To mps!" he cried. "Work with a nen."

y worked as only men can who are y for their lives. But, fast as they d, the water poured in faster than mps could draw it out. It gained, y inch, and George hurried about, ring the boats for the salvation of ssengers. The storm had subsided elly as it rose, but though they ooked idly upon the waves, they at they were doomed.

at out the boats!" cried the sailors. ps can't save us. The steamer go down."

y made a rush for the boat on the ard quarter, but George Manly before it, a revolver in his hand, rained them sternly back: "I am in of this boat yet, and my passen- hall be saved first, my crew next, yself last of all. But the man who finger upon any of these boats, ex- rder it, is a dead man."

y quailed before the determined in, and when he called for certain to help lower away the boat, they ly obeyed him. One by one frighten- ssengers descended, until there was room left for the four rowers and ate who was to command the boat. y with you," said George. "You've pass, Watkins?"

y, ay, Sir. God bless you, cap-met with in the backwoods of Canada, more especially in the lumber districts. Canadian-born men are, if anything, taller than the Old Country people, and less fleshy: they are hardy, robust, and vigorous, presenting a very striking contrast to their next neighbors.

Although the colonies are better known and more thought about in the Old Country than they were a short time ago, still there is a certain amount of mist to be cleared away. Untravelled and unthinking Englishmen are apt to suppose that because the two countries lie side by side on the map of the New World, separated through many degrees by only an imaginary boundary line, that therefore the citizens of Canada and of the United States must be almost identical in physique, appearance, habits, character, and so on. There cannot be a greater mistake. Canadians are simply Englishmen who have been taken out of the nursery and transplanted into a new field. As the strongest plants are generally chosen by the gardner for planting out, so in emigration it is generally the men of most strength, spirit, energy, and ambition that leave the Old Country to push their fortunes in the new. Conquering the wilderness and make homesteads out of it, is an occupation calculated to stimulate, and not to subdue, those qualities of mind and body, such as self-reliance, energy, patience, on the one hand, and hardness, strength, and activity on the other, which are supposed to be characteristics of Englishmen. There is as much difference between the United States citizen and the Canadian, as between the Englishman and the Frenchman. By blood the American of to-day is a strange mixture of all the Old World races—European, Asiatic, and African. He is famed and feared all over the world for his cleverness and shrewdness, or cutness. But the least observant traveller cannot fail to discover that he has cultivated his brains at the expense of his body. The citizen of the United States has also fought against and conquered the wildness; but he has done this not with his own strong arms, like the Canadian, but with the hands of the Chinaman, the African, and the Irishman.

I suppose in considering the future of the two peoples, an ethnologist would study the woman more than the man. There is quite as great a difference between the American women and the Canadian women as between the men. American women who have not to work for they object to any sort of exercise, except, perhaps dancing. They neither walk nor ride. They go by rail and drive in carriages. They object even to the work of looking after and superintending a house, and on that account prefer to live in hotels. Those who are obliged to work for their living do so as school teachers, as clerks in post offices, in shops, in any way in fact where physical exertion can be dispensed with. The American woman has perfectly regular though rather sharp features, and when very young is undoubtedly very pretty; the bloom, however rapidly fades away, and she is an old woman at thirty. She has only one, or at most two children. The Canadian woman is a marked contrast. She is, in appearance, quite the Englishwoman—generally a blonde. Canadian ladies are fully as much addicted to outdoor pursuits and amusements as are English ladies. Even in the depths of winter they have their daily walks on their snow shoeing, tobogganing, or skating parties. Thanks to this more healthy mode of life, to their robust constitutions, and to their healthy climate they preserve their good looks to the last. As to the poorer woman in Canada they have no Chinamen, negroes, or Irishmen to work for them and so they are compelled to attend to their own households and dairies, and this seems to agree well with them. Unlike the Americans, there seems to be no limit to their families and no end to their good looks, and the middleaged Canadian woman (if such an expression can be applied to the fair sex) present as great a contrast to the worn-out and faded American women of a similar unmentionable age, as can possibly be imagined.

ually thanked his kind entertainers for their zealous hospitality, and added that, as he was about to depart, he would now resume his charge of the box, which had never before quitted his person since he had received it from his owner. The host and hostess started at him in well acted amazement.

What box? asked the host. I remember no box; do you, my dear? turning to his wife.

No, she said, I have no recollection of any box whatever.

What was it like? asked the host. Perhaps you left it in your room.

But on the merchant persisting that it was what the host himself it had been left, on returning to his hostess and trying to make her recollect the circumstances, both, after appealing to each other several times, and fortifying each other in their denial, became cold and distant and began hinting that something must have happened to the merchant to induce him to persist in so strange a delusion. As the host touched his forehead with a significant glance, the poor man remembered that he was in a strange city, and the ground seemed slipping from under his feet; danger to himself loomed up in the distance, and he hastened from the house in alarm. Straight to the police he went and stated his case. The official listened imperturbably to the whole story and then asked:

You gave up the valuable box to an acquaintance of a week's standing, without any witness or written acknowledgment?

He had been so very kind, and in his position—

Bah!—you a man of business! But have you no proof that the box belongs to you,

None whatever except the key. It is locked, and I have the key—here it is; and he produced a small key from an inner pocket.

The official remained in thought for some time, and then said:

Well, I will do the only thing I can for you, archduke Constantine, the Governor of Poland, is a stern, harsh man, but he is known for his vigorous justice, and if he believes your story, he will do his best for you, I will take you to him at once.

No time was lost, and the merchant soon found himself in the archduke's presence, and was desired to relate his story. When it was concluded, the archduke, after a moment's reflection, rang a bell. An official entered.

Sent for M——, naming the treacherous host.

It was quickly done, and the archduke, without question or preamble, said to the guilty man:

Sit down at the writing table, and write as I shall dictate to you.

The man took a seat, and took up a pen; the archduke began dictating—

My dear wife: All is found out—

No; I won't write that, said the man springing from his seat.

Then you are guilty was the prompt answer.

Puzzled and foiled he resumed his seat and wrote as he was desired.

My dear wife: All is found out. Send the box by the bearer.

Then he signed it with his own name, by the archduke's order, and a messenger was dispatched with it. The messenger found the lady at her toilet; when she read the missive she turned ashy pale, trembling violently. Then, leaning forward, she drew the box from the recess in the toilet table, and handed it to the bearer, who, swiftly turning, placed in the hands of the archduke. He immediately handed it to the merchant, desiring him to unlock it; and that being done, he asked whether the diamonds were all there. Yes, the box had not been opened; they were exactly as the merchant had left them.

Again the archduke rang the bell, and to the attendant who entered he said, designating the guilty man:

Take him to Siberia; he is not to go to his own house again.

RUNNING IN DEBT.

human race. Many such there have been and many such at this hour. The rector of Cheshale in Cheshire, has just drawn attention to an act of great self-denial on the part of a medical student, and we are pleased to record it prominently in our columns, for the reason that honor ought to be given where honor is due. A poor factory operative had undergone amputation of the right leg in the Manchester Infirmary. He was in an emaciated condition, the hemorrhage was excessive, the poor man was evidently sinking, and the cause was about to be abandoned as perfectly hopeless one, when it was suggested that an infusion of new blood might probably be instrumental in saving his life. There-upon, a student named Irvine volunteered to be bled, and twenty-five ounces of the burdens carried horizontally by the men? vital fluids were taken from him, at serious risk to himself, and infused into the system of the dying patient. The Rev. gentleman hearing in this case, made it his duty to visit the Infirmary, when he found the patient out of danger and slowly progressing towards convalescence. "Need we wonder," exclaims the writer, "that the noble band of English doctors on the battle fields in Turkey should reflect such credit upon our national character as the pioneer of Christianity, when a mere strapping at home does not hesitate to peril his own life for the sake of his fellow men?" The incident, natural and simple as it was, yet serves to recall the magnanimous conduct of the great Sir Philip Sydney, who when dying gloriously on the field of Zeuthen, gave to an humble comrade, who was wounded and lying near him, the draught of water he himself needed to slake his own burning thirst.

BEAUX OF FORMER TIMES.

Sir Walter Raleigh wore a white satin pinked vest, close-sleeved to the wrist; over the body a brown doublet, finely flowered and embroidered with pearls. In the feather of his hat a large ruby, and a pearl drop at the bottom of the sprig in place of a button; his trunk of breeches, with his stockings and ribbon garters, fringed at the end, all white, and buff shoes with white ribbon. On great court days his shoes were so gorgeously covered with precious stones as to have exceeded the value of £6,500, and he had of suit of armor of solid silver, with a sword and belt blazing with diamonds, rubies and pearls.

King James' favorite, the Duke of Buckingham, could afford to have his diamonds tacked so loosely on that when he chose to shake off a few on the ground he obtained all the fame he desired from the picker-up, for the duke never condescended to accept what he himself had dropped. His clothes were trimmed with great diamond buttons, and he wore diamond hat-bands, cockades and ear-rings, yoked with great robes and knots of pearls. He had twenty-seven suits of clothes made, the richest that embroidery, lace, silk, velvet, gold and gems could contribute, one of which was a white uncut velvet, set all over, both suit and cloak, with diamonds valued at four score thousand pounds, besides a great feather stuck all over with diamonds as were also his sword, girdle, hat and spurs. When the difference in the value of money is considered the sums thus ridiculously squandered in dress must have been prodigious.

THE LOCOMOTIVE VS. SUPERSTITION

When the Nicholas railway was constructed, in 1848, from St. Petersburg to Moscow, the work was done under contracts with American engineers and the cars and engines were supplied from Baltimore by the famous establishment of the Winans Brothers. The Russian priests oppose every modern innovation and, of course, they were "down" on the railway. When the road was opened they determined to stop it, and so they went in force to a point on the road and set up a holy picture to stop the new work of the devil. The train came slowly along and the engineer, seeing the picture standing number, the shrieks of brave men, rose the turmoil of nature. Then the crew reeled on, staggering like a drunken man, and the unfortunate craft blotted out. George had caught up, and held her close until the first had subsided, and he felt the eddy gliding on unobstructed, when he clutched her, and rushed out into the sea and took command of the steamer.

For two hours they rushed on, the storm subsided, when the mate came to him, and whispered, in a horrible voice, "We have sprung a leak!"

"In a single instant the two men looked each other in horrified surprise, and George sprang for his trumpet. "To pumps!" he cried. "Work with a men."

They worked as only men can who are fighting for their lives. But, fast as they dived, the water poured in faster than pumps could draw it out. It gained, inch by inch, and George hurried about, ringing the boats for the salvation of the passengers. The storm had subsided idly as it rose, but though they looked idly upon the waves, they felt that they were doomed.

"Get out the boats!" cried the sailors. "Pumps can't save us. The steamer goes down."

George made a rush for the boat on the starboard quarter, but George Manly, before it, a revolver in his hand, warned them sternly back: "I am in of this boat yet, and my passengers shall be saved first, my crew next, myself last of all. But the man who is a finger upon any of these boats, except order it, is a dead man."

George quailed before the determined man, and when he called for certain to help lower away the boat, they obeyed him. One by one the frightened passengers descended, until there was room left for the four rowers and the mate who was to command the boat.

"I will go with you," said George. "You've passed, Watkins?"

"Yes, ay, Sir. God bless you, captain," said Watkins. "The boat was pushed off, and the engine was lowered. It was larger than the one which had just left the pier, but not large enough to hold all the passengers, with his own hand, place Myra in the boat, and put the child in her lap."

No one remained upon the steamer except Myra's husband and Manly. The sailors began to grumble. "Come along, cap. She is getting heavy. But both of you can't come in the boat; she won't stand it."

"I know it," said George, calmly. "I am not going with you. Gale Merrick went out that boat. The steamer will not float in fifteen minutes."

"I will not go," said Gale. "You must," replied George, almost sternly. "And before you go I want to take this letter. When you know I am dead, give it to your wife. If I return it to me."

George thrust the sealed letter into the hand of the husband, and seizing him gently, forced him into the boat, and off the painter. The boat and steamer started in the darkness, and George remained upon the ill-fated craft, dying in the consciousness that he had heard her voice praying them to return and save him. He was glad they did attempt it. The boat was loaded heavily already, and his weight would do much. Climbing to the quarter, he sat calmly down and awaited fate. The last they saw of him, under the glare of the steamer's lamps, was his dead stretched out in a mute gesture of well. Living, no man ever saw him again, and it was two days after when they found his body upon the sea. When he was buried, Myra's band brought the package which this man forced into his hand upon that fatal night, and opened it. He had written hastily in pencil,

Myra—Farewell until the coming of a brighter day.
George.

enclosed was a will, bequeathing all property to Myra. He had made not a will with his own strong arms, like the Canadian, but with the hands of the Chinaman, the African, and the Irishman.

I suppose in considering the future of the two peoples, an ethnologist would study the woman more than the man. There is quite as great a difference between the American women and the Canadian women as between the men. American women who have not to work for their object to any sort of exercise, except, perhaps dancing. They neither walk nor ride. They go by rail and drive in carriages. They object even to the work of looking after and superintending a house, and on that account prefer to live in hotels. Those who are obliged to work for their living do so as school teachers, as clerks in post offices, in shops, in any way in fact where physical exertion can be dispensed with. The American woman has perfectly regular though rather sharp features, and when very young is undoubtedly very pretty; the bloom, however rapidly fades away, and she is an old woman at thirty. She has only one, or at most two children. The Canadian woman is a marked contrast. She is, in appearance, quite the Englishwoman—generally a blonde. Canadian ladies are fully as much addicted to outdoor pursuits and amusements as are English ladies. Even in the depths of winter they have their daily walks on their snow shooing, tobogganing, or skating parties. Thanks to this more healthy mode of life, to their robust constitutions, and to their healthy climate they preserve their good looks to the last. As to the poorer woman in Canada they have no Chinamen, negroes, or Irishmen to work for them and so they are compelled to attend to their own households and dairies, and this seems to agree well with them. Unlike the Americans, there seems to be no limit to their families and no end to their good looks, and the middle-aged Canadian woman (if such an expression can be applied to the fair sex) present as great a contrast to the worn-out and faded American women of a similar unmentionable age, as can possibly be imagined.

THE QUEEN ON THE EDUCATION OF HER DAUGHTER.

"I am quite clear that she should be taught to have great reverence for God and for religion, but that she should have the feeling of devotion and love which our Heavenly Father encourages. His earthly children to have for Him, and not one of fear and trembling; and that the thoughts of death and an after life should not be represented in an alarming and forbidding view, and that she should be made to know as yet no difference of creeds, and not think that she can only pray on her knees, or that those who do not kneel are less fervent and devout in their prayers." While wishing to be guided in all things relating to the education of the Royal children by the Prince's wishes, Her Majesty from time to time places upon record, in writing, her own views upon the subject. In these memoranda, the education of the head is well provided for, but the education of the heart is dwelt upon as of primary importance. One of them, dated 4th of March, 1844, winds up thus:—"The greatest maxim of all is—that the children should be brought up as simply, and in as domestic a way as possible; that (not interfering with their lessons) they should be as much as possible with their parents, and learn to place their greatest confidence in them in all things." The question of the religious training is also dwelt upon repeatedly and anxiously. That this is best given to a child, day by day, at its mother's knees, was the Queen's conviction. Even so early as 1844, however, the pressure of public duty made it impossible to keep this part of the education of the Princess Royal wholly within her own hands. "It is already a hard case for me," Her Majesty says, in a memorandum of 18th of November of that year, "that my occupations prevent me being with her when she says her prayers."—Life of the Prince Consort.

Governor of Poland, is a stern, harsh man, but he is known for his vigorous justice, and if he believes your story, he will do his best for you, I will take you to him at once.

No time was lost, and the merchant soon found himself in the archduke's presence, and was desired to relate his story. When it was concluded, the archduke, after a moment's reflection, rang a bell. An official entered.

Sent for M—, naming the treacherous host.

It was quickly done, and the archduke, without question or preamble, said to the guilty man:

Sit down at the writing table, and write as I shall dictate to you.

The man took a seat, and took up a pen; the archduke began dictating—

My dear wife: All is found out—

No; I won't write that, said the man springing from his seat.

Then you are guilty was the prompt answer.

Puzzled and foiled he resumed his seat and wrote as he was desired.

My dear wife: All is found out. Send the box by the bearer.

Then he signed it with his own name, by the archduke's order, and a messenger was dispatched with it. The messenger found the lady at her toilet; when she read the missive she turned ashy pale, trembling violently. Then, leaning forward, she drew the box from the recess in the toilet table, and handed it to the bearer, who, swiftly turning, placed in the hands of the archduke. He immediately handed it to the merchant, desiring him to unlock it; and that being done, he asked whether the diamonds were all there. Yes, the box had not been opened; they were exactly as the merchant had left them.

Again the archduke rang the bell, and to the attendant who entered he said, designating the guilty man:

Take him to Siberia; he is not to go to his own house again.

RUNNING IN DEBT.

I will dwell on this point, for I would deter others from entering this place of torment. Half the young men in this country, with many old enough to know better, would go into business—that is, into debt—to-morrow, if they could. Most poor men are so ignorant as to envy the merchant or manufacturer, whose life is an incessant struggle with pecuniary difficulties, who is driven to constant "shining," and who from month to month barely evades the insolvency which sooner or later overtakes most men in business; so that it has been computed that but one man in twenty of them achieve a pecuniary success. For my own part, I would rather be a convict in State prison, a slave in a rice swamp, than to pass through life under the harrow of debt. Hunger, cold, rags, hard work, contempt, suspicion, unjust reproach, are disagreeable, but debt is infinitely worse than all. And if it had pleased God to spare either of all my sons to be the support of my declining years, the lesser which I should most earnestly seek to impress upon them is, "Never run in debt." Avoid pecuniary obligations as you would a pestilence and famine. If you have but fifty cents and can get no more for a week, buy a peck of corn, parch it, and live on it, rather than owe a dollar! Of course I know that some men must do a business that involves risk, and must give notes or other obligations, and I do not consider him in debt who can pay his hands directly on the means of paying, at some little sacrifice, all he owes; I speak of real debt—that which involves risk or sacrifice on one side, obligations and dependence on the other—and I say from all such, let every youth humbly pray God to preserve him evermore.—Horace Greeley.

A Danbury man who staid up until two a. m., to watch for Vulcan was fined $1 and costs by the Police Justice in the morning. He says this country is no place for science.

and a pearl drop at the bottom of the sprig in place of a button; his trunk of breeches, with his stockings and ribbon garters, tringed at the end, all white, and buff shoes with white ribbon. On great court days his shoes were so gorgeously covered with precious stones as to have exceeded the value of £6,500, and he had of suit of armor of solid silver, with a sword and belt blazing with diamonds, rubies and pearls.

King James' favorite, the Duke of Buckingham, could afford to have his diamonds tacked so loosely on that when he chose to shake off a few on the ground he obtained all the fame he desired from the pick-up, for the duke never condescended to accept what he himself had dropped. His clothes were trimmed with great diamond buttons, and he wore diamond hat-bands, cockades and ear-rings, yoked with great robes and knots of pearls. He had twenty-seven suits of clothes made, the richest that embroidery, lace, silk, velvet, gold and gems could contribute, one of which was a white uncut velvet, set all over, both suit and cloak, with diamonds valued at four score thousand pounds, besides a great feather stuck all over with diamonds as were also his sword, girdle, hat and spurs. When the difference in the value of money is considered the sums thus ridiculously squandered in dress must have been prodigious.

THE LOCOMOTIVE VS. SUPERSTITION.

When the Nicholas railway was constructed, in 1848, from St. Petersburg to Moscow, the work was done under contracts with American engineers and the cars and engines were supplied from Baltimore by the famous establishment of the Winans Brothers. The Russian priests oppose every modern innovation and, of course, they were "down" on the railway. When the road was opened they determined to stop it, and so they went in force to a point on the road and set up a holy picture to stop the new work of the devil. The train came slowly along and the engineer, seeing the picture standing on the track, thought there must be a man behind it, and so came to a halt. The assembled multitude raised a shout and the priests called out that the saint was all-powerful and would prevail against wickedness. The officer in charge of the train came out and took a survey of the situation. Then he told the engineer to run back a quarter of a mile and bring the train to halt. The shouting was redoubled and the priests were in the most rapturous delight. But their exultation was soon changed to grief as the master of ceremonies told the engineer, "Put on all steam and go ahead without regard to consequences." The engine went ahead and down fell the holy picture, torn and crushed by the wheels of an American locomotive. Modern civilization was triumphant and the priests and their followers no longer shouted in triumph.

POSITION OF CONSTANTINOPLE.

Compare the city to-day, considered as the capital of a great empire, with Rome, or with any European capital. There is not one of them all that can sustain the comparison for a moment. Constantinople sits like a queen on the one great highway between Europe and Asia. Her site is easy of defence. She has a magnificent harbor. She is facile mistress of the sea on either side, by means of the straits of the Bosphorus and the Hellespont. What is the site of London, or Paris, or Berlin, or Vienna, or St. Petersburg in the comparison? No wonder the Czar has long looked with envious eyes toward the Golden Horn—to the capital city of the Greek church and the Greek empire. No wonder that the whole "Eastern question" has long hinged on what is to be done with Constantinople and the highway which she controls. Europe cares little about the outlying possessions of the Sultan; but it is a vital question with every chief European state who should hold the key city of all the East.

DIRECTORY.

TRAVELLER'S GUIDE.

PER G. T. RAILWAY.

Day Train, Going East	12:58 p.m.
" " " West	5:12 "
Night Train " East	1:10 a.m.
" " " West	5:52 "

STAGES ARRIVE AT NAPANEE,

From Newburg and Tamworth,	10 1/2 a.m.
From Picton and Mill Point,	7 p.m.
From Erinsville,	10 1/2 a.m.

DEPART FROM NAPANEE,

To Newburg and Tamworth,	2 1/2 p.m.
To Mill Point and Picton,	6 1/2 a.m.
To Erinsville,	2 1/2 p.m.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Hon. R. J. Cartwright...	Finance Minister.
Schuyler Shibley.....	M. P.

ONTARIO PARLIAMENT.

J. T. Grange.....	M. P. P.
H. M. Deroche.....	"

COUNTY AND TOWN OFFICIALS.

W. H. Wilkinson	Judge.
O. T. Pruy	Sheriff.
W. A. Reeve, Clerk of the Peace and County Attorney.
J. B. McGuin, Clerk of the County Court and Deputy Clerk of the Crown.
Do.	Surrogate Registrar.
John Hogle	Warden.
F. Burrows	County School Inspector.
W. V. Detlor	County Clerk.
E. Hooper	Treasurer.
M. P. Roblin	Registrar.
W. S. Williams	Mayor.
John Herring	Reeve.
Chas. R. Miller	Deputy Reeve.
Wm Chamberlain	Town Clerk.
Robert Easton	Treasurer.
Jas. Allen	Chief of Police.
J. Benson, Collector of Customs and Registrar of Shipping.
C. B. Perry, Landing waiter and Searcher.
T. G. Pile, Landing waiter and Searcher, Mill Point
G. Bogart, Postmaster, Napanee.
Geo. B. Sils, Inspector of Weights and Measures.
William Hogle	Inspector of Licences.
Chas. James, Clerk 1st Div. Court, Napanee.
C. L. Rogers	" Bath
J. J. Watson	" " " Adolphustown
Peter Johnson	" " " Clarks Mills.
Wm. Wheelan	" " " Centreville.
Henry Pultz	" " " Wilton.
Thos. Miller	" " " Tamworth.

POST OFFICE.

The Post Office is open from 8 a. m. till 6 p. m.
 Day Train East, Mail closes ... 12:05 p. m.
 " " " West " ... 4:30 p. m.
 Night Train East " ... 9:00 p. m.
 " " " West " ... 9:00 p. m.
 Camden Route—Tamworth, Centreville, Camden, East; Newburg and Napanee Mills; Mail closes 2:15 p. m.
 Mill Point and Prince Edward County Route—Mill Point, Picton, Northport, and Demorestville; Mail closes 6:30 a. m.
 Fredericksburg Route—Morven, Hamburg, Silsille, Parma and Conway—Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays; Mail closes 1:15 p. m.
 Switzerville—Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays; Mail closes 1:15 p. m.
 Gosport and Gretna—Saturdays; Mail closes 1 p. m.
 Erinsville—Roblin & Selby, daily; Mail closes 1:30 p. m.
 Overton, Forest Mills and Lemster, daily; Mail closes 1:30 p. m.

Churches.

HOURS OF SERVICE

Episcopal Methodist—Rev. R. M. Pope. Service 10:30 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School 2 p. m.
 Canada Methodist—Rev. W. S. Blackstock. Service 10:30 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School 2 p. m.
 Episcopal—Rev. J. J. Bogert, Rector. Service 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
 Presbyterian—Rev. A. Young. Service

PARTY SUPPORT.

We regret to learn that the enterprising Publishers, of the Hamilton Spectator have failed, and their publishing establishment has now passed into the hands of the creditors, who are likely to be large losers. The Spectator has, for years, been considered the leading organ of the Conservative party west of Toronto, and has very faithfully served its party. For a long time it was considered a first class investment and gave its publishers good dividends, but of late, it has become well known that the leading Tory papers have been very poor financial investments. Since the much vaunted "reaction" has set in the Spectator has gone under, and the "organ-in-chief" of all the organs, the Mail, it is no secret has not been a self sustaining office, though backed with all the prestige and pomp of the gentleman's party. From statements made in the House last year by the late Hon. J. H. Cameron, it would seem that about all of the original capital stock of the Mail has been absorbed and heavy draws are now constantly required of its friends in order to relieve its financial embarrassments. The Ottawa Times became a faithful Conservative a few months ago, and has since suspended publication entirely. Several other journals of the same party are said to be no source of revenue to the publishers, but we refrain from giving the names, for business reasons.

On the other hand leading Reform papers are being well sustained financially. The Globe, it is well understood, is probably the best paying newspaper ever established in Canada. The London Advertiser is succeeding remarkably well, and wonderfully increasing its circulation. The Hamilton Times is thriving splendidly in the same city where the Spectator has languished. The British Whig, is probably better sustained than any other paper ever published in Kingston, while in different, other cities, and towns, the Reform journals are being enlarged, and are giving good indication of prosperity and encouragement.

We can only account for this difference from the fact that the principles advocated by the Reform journals are such as command themselves to the patronage and good judgement of the people. On the other hand, most of the faithful Tory journals, during the past four or five years, have been called up to wade through an amount of dirty work, in the way of abuse and misrepresentation, that has been disgusting, in the long run, to even their best friends. To be required, year after year, to defend the abominable Pacific Scandals, and other things equally as reprehensible, has been too much for a long bearing reading public. The party went down under the weight of these crushing exposures, and now the organs seem dying out in their foolish effort to endorse what the whole country repudiates.

THE TURKISH WAR.

For weeks past the news from day to day from Turkey has been most conflicting. One day the information has been that the terms of peace had been about settled between Turkey and the Allied Powers, and the next day that things looked warlike. It now seems that after some weeks of hard work at treaty making the attempt to arrange satisfactory terms of peace is a failure. The authorities at Constantinople refuse to accept the terms required at their hands by the representatives of England, Russia and Prussia. The Sultan and his immediate advisers, it would seem, would have been willing to accept the terms, but the great body of the Turks are in such decided and briefly alluding to the position of our County affairs, and the work to be transacted. He then nominated Mr. R. Fraser, of Ernestown as an auditor, which was confirmed by the council. On the appointment of the second auditor, there was the usual amount of canvassing. Each member had his friend whom he would like to see honored, and accordingly there were about a score of nominations, resulting finally in the election of Robert Collins, Esq., of Adolphustown.

LENNOX AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

At the annual meeting in the council room Napanee, on 17th inst., the Secretary-Treasurer read his report as follows:—
 Balance on hand from last year, $162.70.
 Government Grant, 700.00.
 Member's Subscriptions, 247.00.
 D. Fraser, Esq., Special Prizes, 7.00.
 Total Receipts, $1056.70.
 Paid for prizes; to Township Societies; and Expenses, $1011.18.

Balance on hand, $45.52.
 Moved by Mr. Jas. P. Lake, seconded by Mr. Jas. Allen, that this society petition the Local Legislature to divide the province into Districts for agricultural purpose, and that for three successive years the annual grant, now given to the Provincial Society, be divided amongst them, and that every fourth year the whole of the grant be appropriated for a general exhibition for the whole province to be held at Toronto.—Carried.

It was understood, and upon that understanding the motion was carried, that the division of the province into four districts should make London, Hamilton, Kingston, and Ottawa the respective headquarters of the several divisions.

The election of officers was then proceeded with, and resulted as follows:—President, Wm. Caton, Esq., Richmond; 1st Vice do, J. P. Lake, Esq., N. Fredericksburgh; 2nd Vice do, John Herring, Esq., Napanee; Secretary-Treasurer, C. James, Napanee.

Moved by Mr. C. W. Huffman, seconded by Mr. Doller, that Amherst Island be allowed one director for the current year. Carried.

The election of officers for Amherst Island and North Fredericksburgh was as follows:—

DIRECTORS.—Jas. Allen and William Miller, Napanee; Nathan Caton, Richmond; J. B. Allison and C. Huffman, South Fredericksburgh; W. N. Dollar, North Fredericksburgh; B. Brisco, jr., and Lewis Stover, Ernestown; George Wright, Amherst Island.

AUDITORS.—Messrs. J. C. Huffman and M. Canfield.

Moved by Mr. H. Huffman, seconded by Mr. G. I. Smith, that in future this Society's Exhibition be open only to such Societies as will reciprocate.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Canfield, seconded by Mr. Miller, that the thanks of the Society be tendered to the retiring officers and directors.—Carried.

DEATH OF MRS. G. A. KIRKPATRICK.

On Saturday evening the wife of Mr. G. A. Kirkpatrick, M. P. for Frontenac, died very suddenly. Her illness was of but three days' duration, and its dangerous aspect did not appear till a few hours before she was carried off. Wednesday she felt indisposed, not sufficiently, however, to interfere with an entertainment at her residence upon that evening. The attack developed itself as one of bronchitis, and troubled her severely on Thursday and Friday. On Saturday morning her physician did not anticipate any immediate danger, and Mr. Kirkpatrick proceeded to his office. At one o'clock he was called home, and arrived but an hour before unconsciousness set in. Death

A clue has been found it is the disappearance of W. Hulse Hull, P. P. The parties arrested time and discharged for want of have been rearrested, blood have been found on the ice man hole.—Ottawa Free Press.

A man named Matthew worker in wood, who resided Catharines some 16 or 18 years under arrest at Glen's Falls, in charge of murder. United States if Brady's plea of insanity is stantiated.

CONFIRE, Jan. 19.—The Hotel near the Grank Trunk here, was totally destroyed by fire before six o'clock this morning. The fire had gained great headway before it was discovered, and nothing was Mr. Thomas Connors, the proprietor an insurance of about $2,000 premises.

A POOR BIOGRAPHY.—"He in public bequests." That is what Vanderbilt, who died worth nearly 000,000, a sum which the times refuses to grasp. The words about ought to be placed on his tomb. His life was devoted to worship, and in dying he did not his faith.

STRANGE DEATH.—An unknown man met his death in a singular manner in Montreal on the 18th. He had a car load of potatoes from St. Hill had a stove placed in the car to keep from freezing. He accompanied and had a supply of liquor on board it is supposed imbibed too free when the train reached Sherbrooke was found stretched across the dead. His body has not yet been

DEATH OF A CENTENARIAN.—Perth county's oldest inhabitant just died. Mrs. Elizabeth Gilles on the 11th inst., in the township of Ingleton, at the great age of 104. She was born in the county of Downland, in 1773. She left her husband with her son, John Gillespie, and found a new home in the town of Mornington, then almost a wild. She could call to mind the wild that prevailed in Ireland with reference to the first French Revolution of the atrocities of the "reign of the Napoleon. Her funeral was largely attended.

PIERCE'S PURGATIVE PELLETS.

Have you humor or bile?
 Hanging round all the while.
 To bother and sicken?
 Pierce's Purgative Pellets
 Will surely expel it.
 Does miasma invade,
 And by stealth make a raid.
 Like an owl on a chicken?
 Pierce's Purgative Pellets
 Is the right thing to quell it.
 For an indolent liver,
 That seldom or never,
 Its true function performs,
 Pierce's Purgative Pellets
 Has naught to excel it.
 Does dyspepsia's deep gloom
 On your horizon loom?
 Boding darkness and mourn
 Dr. Pierce's good Pellets
 If you take it, will tell it.
 To "get out" and be seen,
 With its limbs vile and mean.
 In your system no more;
 Then buy the nice Pellets
 The druggists all sell it.

COWARDLY ASSAULTS.—When

R. V. PIERCE, M. D.,
Proprietor of Dr. Pierce's Medicines.

THE EXPRESS.

SUBSCRIPTION price for this Paper, ONE DOLLAR A YEAR, when paid in advance. $1.50 will be charged when not paid in advance.

NAPANEE JAN. 26th, 1877.

OUR PROVINCIAL FINANCES.

The financial statement, made in the House by the Hon Provincial Treasurer last week, is the best possible answer that can be given to the fault findings, and the evil prediction of the Opposition during the past two or three years. The public have become accustomed to the cry that the Government is an extravagant and expensive one, squandering the surplus so carefully laid up by their predecessors. It has been more than once foretold that in a short time the expenditure would go beyond the current receipts, and that direct taxation must soon stare us in the face. When the official statement is made however the fact is clearly established that our Provincial finances are in a most healthy condition, notwithstanding the hard times, and the increasing demand on the Treasury, the Province of Ontario is now reported out of debt and a Surplus in the Treasury of not less than $4,873,000 four millions eight hundred and seventy three thousands dollars. The actual surplus of receipts over expenditure during the past year has been $353,152, which is certainly a fine margin in the right direction. The total receipts of the Province for the year 1876 was $2,579,980, and the total expenditure $2,237,145.

Outside of the ordinary current expenditure a large amount of our surplus, from year to year has been expended in aiding the various railways that have been constructed where they were calculated to assist in developing the resources of the Province, or to open up new sections of country. During the past ten years about three million dollars has thus been given in public aid. The total number of roads that have received aid is 22. Of these 11 have been completed, and have received the full amount of Government grant promised; 6 are now in course of construction, and the balance are but partly completed, but no work is at present being done on them. It is stated by the Hon Treasurer that over ten times the amount of government aid (over thirty three millions) has been expended from other sources in connection with these roads. The advantage of the aid thus given seems at once apparent, as these large sums have been expended directly among our people, and for every dollar of public aid given, there have been ten dollars expended from other sources. The only new road of any importance, just now pressing for aid is the Ontario and Quebec road, a direct line between Ottawa and Toronto, much shortening the distance between our Provincial and Dominion capital, and opening up to general railway traffic a large section of our rear counties. The importance of this road seems now pretty freely admitted. Since the recent Grand Trunk strike, it is more than ever apparent that the whole trade and travel from one end of this Dominion to the other, should not depend entirely on one line of road. We do not know yet what may be the decision of the government and Parliament in regard to the new application for aid, but it would seem as though it would be money, well expended in furthering the interests of the Province.

bassadors are reported to have taken their leave of Constantinople on Monday last, and any farther attempts abandoned. It now seems inevitable that the fighting between Turkey and the Provinces in rebellion will be resumed, and Russia will be left free, either to assist openly, the Provinces, or declare a war on its own account.

It has been well understood for a long time that Russia "wants a slice of Turkey," and has longed for an opportunity. That opportunity now seems to be upon her, but it is strongly suspected that Russia does not find itself in immediate readiness. The government is not in such efficient hands as in days of Czar Nicholas. The army is not so efficient still, and the treasury is empty. Under the circumstances it is doubtful if Russia can or will do much, and the present crisis will tend to show her weakness. It prepared for nothing more, however, she may be able to give such assistance of men and means to the people in revolt, as to enable them to break their present yoke. Turkey is such a barbarous and despotic

COUNTY COUNCIL.

The first meeting of our County Council was held on Tuesday afternoon, and that body is now in session. Not many changes have taken place in the personnel of the members because of the late elections. Adolphustown has returned Mr. Davis again, North Fredericksburgh re-elected Mr. Dollar, by a narrow majority, and South Fredericksburgh again is represented by Ira Ham, Esq., Bath sends Dr. Price, a new member, in place of Mr. Purdy, who resigned, Amherst Island re-elected Mr. Wright. From Ernestown there is an entirely new set of representatives, Mr. Spafford, the Reeve of the last two years, was defeated by Mr. Aylsworth, a new member, Mr. Hogle retired and Mr. Huffman was unsuccessful at the polls. Their places are supplied by J. M. Parrott, Esq., a former member of much municipal experience, and Nial P. Wood, Esq., a rising young man. Napanee supplies Mr. Herring, as Reeve in the place of Mr. Huffman, and is again represented by Charles Miller Esq., as Deputy. Richmond again sends Mr. Storr as Reeve, and Mr. Dafos comes as Deputy in place of Mr. Wilson, he is a new man. The townships of Addington have not made many changes. Camden again is represented by Messrs Paul, Bell and Madden, all experienced men. Newburgh again sends Mr. Bell, a gentleman of weight. Sheffield is again represented by Mr. Joyner as Reeve, and Mr. Coulter takes the place of R. McDonald as Deputy. Mr. Hornic comes from Kaladar in place of Mr. Miller, while from the extreme north, Denbigh, comes our old friend Mr. Lane whose genial face is so familiar in the council of which he has been some years a member. The present members are all practical hard working men, in full sympathy with their constituents, and with one or two exceptions, are not given to much talking. We expect to see the business of the year transacted in a practical business like, economical way.

In the election of Warden there was not the usual amount of canvassing. It seemed freely admitted that the choice lay between Mr. Storr of Richmond, and Mr. Dollar of North Fredericksburgh, they are both old and well tried members and we have no hesitation in saying that in the selection of either, the choice would have been in good hands. Though Mr. Storr was unsuccessful this year we hope yet to see him in the Warden's Chair.

The first ballot for the Warden resulted in Storr, 8; Dollar, 8; Parrott, 3; Joyner, 1. The second ballot gave Mr. Dollar, 13, and Storr 7. The usual declaration of office was then prepared and Dollar was sworn in by Judge Wilkinson. He was escorted to the chair by Messrs Storr and Ham.

The Warden made a brief speech, thanking the council for the honor conferred, endearing qualities united, the centre of the social circles of Kingston, a position which Mrs. Kirkpatrick adorned by her superior grace and affability. Their home was surrounded by all the elements of earthly happiness—wealth, position and friends innumerable. The invasion of such a home, and the death of one of its members, would under the most alleviating circumstances be a deep sorrow, but when the attack is so sudden and distressing as this last has been, no description can picture the sadness it has left in its train. The removal of this cultured and popular lady will be felt in one-half of the homes of the city, and in all of them to-day a deep regret is expressed. The sympathies extended to Mr. Kirkpatrick are many and sincere from all classes. The deceased was a daughter of the late Hon John Macaulay. She had not yet passed the prime of life, and many years of usefulness and happiness were looked forward to on her behalf.—Whig.

PEDESTRIANISM.

HOWES AND O'LEARY.

The 300-mile match for £100 a side, between the Chicago pedestrian, O'Leary and William Howes, of London, has resulted in a victory for the Englishman. The match, which took place at the Victoria Skating Rink, Chambridge Heath, was commenced at 5 p. m. Tuesday, 26th ult., and lasted till 10 p. m. Friday, 29th ult., when the American retired, having accomplished 269 miles 5 laps, to Howes' 241 miles 5 laps. The time occupied was 77 hours. Howes, who pulled up fresh expressed a wish to walk on the following day 50 miles in 10 hours, his challenge was not responded to. It is but fair to O'Leary to mention that while his opponent was in good condition, he at the commencement of the match was suffering from a severe attack of diarrhoea.

SHORTS.

It is estimated that fully $500,000, will be paid to the farmers of Essex for pork raised by them last year.

Mr. Sargeant takes control of the Grand Trunk Railway in Mr. Hickson's absence.

The Russian Imperial Prince Alexis, is to visit Montreal next month.

The wife of a prominent merchant of Montreal has eloped from London, England, to Paris with a British officer.

The Winnipeg Free Press hailed its readers on the 1st by wishing them Ki ka wi-mayoyan ka wi-kittwam-as-kiwick, which is Cree for "a happy New Year."

CENTRAL FAIR.—The Kingston Central Fair has been pronounced self sustaining. It got no municipal aid last year, and yet there is a balance to the good of about $900.

At the railway station, Brampton, on the 19th inst., Mary Houshanser, a girl about 14 years old, in attempting to pass through a parted freight train, was caught between the cars and killed almost instantly.

Thomas Marshall of New Castle, hung himself to a beam in the cellar of his house on the 19th. He had been in ill health and subject to deep mental depression.

Potato Buyers are travelling over the different lines of railway, both east and west of Montreal, in search of potatoes, which they are buying up and forwarding in freight cars to the United States.

Five thousand persons have registered their names with the Superintendent of the Outdoor Poor in New York as applicants for relief, and it is estimated that each applicant represents a family of four persons.

A young lady who, recently became a nun in Toronto, jumped out of a sleigh while taking an airing with the Lady Superioress, and ran into the house of a Methodist minister, where she is now staying.

ty they may not the patient success compete in an honorable way. thoughts are suggested by the cowardly attacks made upon me as a medicine, by those who imagine pecuniary prospects injured by the popularity which my standard medicine have acquired, and the continued of my professional practice. Narrow el practitioners which do not possess sufficient merit to successfully compel popular favor have resorted to cowardly stratagies as to publish all of ridiculous reports about the comp of my medicines. Almanacs, "B Books," and other pamphlets, are and scattered broadcast over the wherein these contemptible knaves dishonest pretended analyses of my me and receipts for making them. So these publications are given high names, pretend to be issued by table men of education and position the good of the real object in their lation, which is to injure the sale of medicine. "The Popular Health Al is the high-sounding name of one of publications, which contains bog cepts without a grain of truth in

Not less devoid of truth are those have been published by one Dr. Detroit, in the Michigan Farmer, other manufactures of medicine several so-called journals of Pharmacy are all prompted by jealous utterly fail in accomplishing the of their authors, for, notwithstanding their free circulation, my medicine times to sell more largely than manufactured in this country and constantly increasing in sale desp base lies concocted and circulated knaves. The people find that these cines possess genuine merit, accor what their manufacturer claims to and are not the true poisonous no which jealous, narrow-minded phy and sneaking compounders of con medicines represented them. Among the large number of pre analyses published, it is significant that no two have been at all alike exclusively proving the dishonesty of authors. It is enough for people that while thousands, yes, I may fully says millions, have taken my fence and have been cured, no of ever received injury from their use.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D. Proprietor of Dr. Pierce's Medicine World's Dispensary, Buffalo.

Don't Know Him.—We have a man who owned a horse which he for a long time afflicted with a cough, and was otherwise in a poor condition; he at length resolved to sell and did so for a very trifling sum. 3 or 6 weeks afterwards, he met a lion to whom he had sold him a beautiful horse, full of life, and color he had either exchanged him for another; but judge his surprise when that the horse was the same that he owned and considered of so little. On enquiry as to what had effected great a change, he was told that "Dr. Condition Powders and Arabian Remedy" had done it. This preparation has effected some remarkable cures member the name, and see that t nature of Hurd & Co.'s on each p. Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., tors for Canada. Sold by all medicine rs.

CARD OF THANKS.

FORTUNATELY I was induced out an accidental insurance. last spring, after hard persuasion by A. H. Allison, the agent for the Acc Insurance Co. of Canada, to-day handed the company's cheque by M son, $60.00; the full amount of my for injuries I received by meeting an accident. My policy cost me $6.00 ceived $60 for twelve weeks' loss. My advice to those not insured, is insured without delay, delays are dan JOSEPH HIN Napanee, Dec. 19th, 1876.

and briefly alluding to the position of our County affairs, and the work to be transacted. He then nominated Mr. R. Fraser, of Ernestown as an auditor, which was confirmed by the council. On the appointment of the second auditor, there was the usual amount of canvassing. Each member had his friend whom he would like to see honored, and accordingly there were about a score of nominations, resulting finally in the election of Robert Collins, Esq., of Adolphustown.

LENNOX AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

At the annual meeting in the council room Napanee, on 17th inst., the Secretary-Treasurer read his report as follows:—
Balance on hand from last year, $162.70.
Government Grant, 700.00.
Member's Subscriptions, 247.00.
D. Fraser, Esq., Special Prizes, 7.00.

Total Receipts, $1056.70.
Paid for prizes; to Township Societies; and Expenses, $1011.18.

Balance on hand, $45.52.

Moved by Mr. Jas. P. Lake, seconded by Mr. Jas. Allen, that this society petition the Local Legislature to divide the province into Districts for agricultural purpose, and that for three successive years the annual grant, now given to the Provincial Society, be divided amongst them, and that every fourth year the whole of the grant be appropriated for a general exhibition for the whole province to be held at Toronto.—Carried.

It was understood, and upon that understanding the motion was carried, that the division of the province into four districts should make London, Hamilton, Kingston, and Ottawa the respective headquarters of the several divisions.

The election of officers was then proceeded with, and resulted as follows:—President, Wm. Caton, Esq., Richmond; 1st Vice do, J. P. Lake, Esq., N. Fredericksburgh; 2nd Vice do, John Herring, Esq., Napanee; Secretary-Treasurer, C. James, Napanee.

Moved by Mr. C. W. Huffman, seconded by Mr. Doller, that Amherst Island be allowed one director for the current year. Carried.

The election of officers for Amherst Island and North Fredericksburgh was as follows:—

DIRECTORS.—Jas. Allen and William Miller, Napanee; Nathan Caton, Richmond; J. B. Allison and C. Huffman, South Fredericksburgh; W. N. Dollar, North Fredericksburgh; B. Brisco, jr., and Lewis Stover, Ernestown; George Wright, Amherst Island.

AUDITORS.—Messrs. J. C. Huffman and M. Canfield.

Moved by Mr. H. Huffman, seconded by Mr. G. I. Smith, that in future this Society's Exhibition be open only to such Societies as will reciprocate.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Canfield, seconded by Mr. Miller, that the thanks of the Society be tendered to the retiring officers and directors.—Carried.

DEATH OF MRS. G. A. KIRKPATRICK.

On Saturday evening the wife of Mr. G. A. Kirkpatrick, M. P. for Frontenac, died very suddenly. Her illness was of but three days' duration, and its dangerous aspect did not appear till a few hours before she was carried off. Wednesday she felt indisposed, not sufficiently, however, to interfere with an entertainment at her residence upon that evening. The attack developed itself as one of bronchitis, and troubled her severely on Thursday and Friday. On Saturday morning her physician did not anticipate any immediate danger, and Mr. Kirkpatrick proceeded to his office. At one o'clock he was called home, and arrived but an hour before unconsciousness set in. Death ensued in the evening, carrying along with it unspoken farewells and the joys of

A clue has been found it is supposed to the disappearance of W. H. Hull, M. P. The parties arrested at the time and discharged for want of evidence have been rearrested, blood and brains have been found on the ice near the man hole.—Ottawa Free Press.

A man named Matthew Brady, a worker in wood, who resides at St. Catharines some 16 or 18 years ago, is under arrest at Glen's Falls, N. Y., on a charge of murder. United States detectives are in St. Catharines to ascertain if Brady's plea of insanity can be substantiated.

CONTOUR, Jan. 19.—The Railroad Hotel near the Grank Trunk station here, was totally destroyed by fire shortly before six o'clock this morning. The fire had gained great headway before it was discovered, and nothing was saved. Mr. Thomas Connors, the proprietor, had an insurance of about $2,000 on the premises.

A POOR BIOGRAPHY.—"He makes no public bequests." That is what is said of Vanderbilt, who died worth nearly $100,000,000, a sum which the imagination refuses to grasp. The words above quoted ought to be placed on his tombstone. His life was devoted to worship of mammon; and in dying he did not abandon his faith.

STRANGE DEATH.—An unknown American met his death in a singular manner in Montreal on the 18th. He shipped a car load of potatoes from St. Hillier, and had a stove placed in the car to keep them from freezing. He accompanied the car and had a supply of liquor on board, and it is supposed imbibed too freely, and when the train reached Sherbrooke he was found stretched across the stove dead. His body has not yet been identified.

DEATH OF A CENTENARIAN.—One of Perth county's oldest inhabitants has just died. Mrs. Elizabeth Gillespie died on the 11th inst., in the township of Mornington, at the great age of 104 years. She was born in the county Down, Ireland, in 1773. She left her native land with her son, John Gillespie, in 1846, and found a new home in the township of Mornington, then almost a wilderness. She could call to mind the wild rumors that prevailed in Ireland with reference to the first French Revolution of 1786; of the atrocities of the "reign of terror," and the wonderful career of the great Napoleon. Her funeral was largely attended.

PIERCE'S PURGATIVE PELLET.

Have you humor or bile,
Hanging round all the while.
To bother and sicken?
Pierce's Purgative Pellet
Will surely expel it.

Does miasma invade,
And by stealth make a wail.
Like an owl on a chicken?
Pierce's Purgative Pellet
Is the right thing to quell it.

For an indolent liver,
That seldom or never,
Its true function performs,
Pierce's Purgative Pellet
Has naught to excel it.

Does dyspepsia's deep gloom
On your horizon loom?
Boding darkness and worms?
Dr. Pierce's good Pellet,
If you take it, will tell it.

To "get out" and be seen,
With its limbs vile and lean.
In your system no more;
Then buy the nice Pellet
The druggists all sell it.

CAUTIONARY ASSAULT.—When a candidate for high office is so well liked and so popular with the masses as to make

Public Attention

Is directed to the following Provisions of the Fishery and Game Laws in the Province of Ontario.

CLOSE SEASONS FOR FISH.

Whitefish cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th November, both days inclusive.

Salmon Trout, and Lake Trout, cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th November, both days inclusive.

Speckled Trout, Brook or River Trout, cannot be caught from 15th September to 1st May.

Bass, cannot be caught from 15th May to 15th June.

Pickereel, cannot be caught from 15th April to 15th May.

Maskinonge, cannot be caught from 15th April to 15th May.

CLOSE SEASONS FOR GAME.

Deer and Cariboo, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.

Moose, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.

Partridge, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st September.

Duck, cannot be killed from 1st January to 15th August.

Woodcock, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st July.

Snipe, cannot be killed from 1st May to 15th August.

Quail, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st October.

All well-disposed persons are requested to afford the local Fishery Officers whatever information and assistance they can towards carrying out these provisions of the Fishery Laws.

Fishing without Licenses is prohibited. Indians are forbidden to fish or shoot illegally the same as whitesmen.

Complainants will receive one-half of the fines imposed, and be paid for their costs and attendance as witnesses.

Each person guilty of violating these regulations is liable to fine and costs, or in default of payment is subject to imprisonment.

No person shall, during such prohibited times, fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or have in possession any of the above-mentioned kinds of Fish or Game.

In Quebec, Fishery Officers exercise Magisterial powers under the Game Laws.

BY ORDER.

W. F. WHITCHER,
Commissioner of Fisheries.

N. B.—Deer killed before the 1st December, cannot be legally disposed of after the 1st of January following.

Department of Marine and Fisheries, Fisheries Branch, Ottawa.

HUGH RALSTON,
Fishery Observer,
Napanee District.

OCEAN TICKETS.

OCEAN Tickets for sale via Quebec or Halifax in summer, Halifax or Portland in winter, by the Allan S. S. Line, White Star Line, Inman and National via New York. Also return tickets at reduced rates to any point in the Old Country.

RAILWAY TICKETS.

Tickets by the Great Western Railway, to all points and return at reduced rates.

EXCHANGE OFFICE.

American money bought and sold, and drafts on New York.

ACCIDENTAL INSURANCE.

Agent for the Accidental Insurance Co. of Canada.

A. H. ALLISON, Agent,
Montreal Telegraph Office,
Over or Mallory's Drug Store.

"Unquestionably the best sustained work of the kind in the World."

Harper's Magazine.

ILLUSTRATED.

Notices of the Press.

The Magazine has attained its one quarter century and more of existence to that point where it makes no sort of it, in the words of Dr. Johnson, "It is vain to blame and useless to praise." The lustre of its long-ago-attained reputation has increased as the years have passed, and its future seems as bright if not brighter than at any time since the golden hue of prosperity settled around its latter and best years.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Harper's Monthly is marked by the same characteristics which gave it circulation from the first with the better class of readers. It combines reading matter with illustrations in a way to make clear and vivid the facts presented. Pictures merely designed to catch the eye of the ignorant are never inserted.—Chicago Journal.

TERMS:

Postage free to all Subscribers in the United States.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE, one year, $4 00.

$4 00 includes prepayment of U. S. postage by the publishers.

Subscriptions to Harper's Magazine, Weekly, and Bazar, to one address for one year, $10 00; or, two of Harper's Periodicals, to one address for one year, $7 00; postage free.

An Extra Copy of either the Magazine, Weekly, or Bazar will be supplied gratis for every Club of Five Subscribers at $4 00 each, in one remittance; or, Six Copies for $20 00, without extra copy; postage free.

Back Numbers can be supplied at any time.

The Volumes of the Magazine commence with the Numbers of June and December of each year. Subscriptions may commence with any number. When no time is specified, it will be understood that the subscriber wishes to begin with the first number of the current volume, and back numbers will be sent accordingly.

A Complete Set of Harper's Magazine, now comprising 53 volumes, in neat cloth binding, will be sent by express, freight at expense of purchaser, for $25 per volume. Single volumes, by mail, postpaid, $3 00. Cloth cases, for binding, 18 cents, by mail, postpaid.

A Complete Analytical Index to the first Fifty Volumes of Harper's Magazine has just been published, rendering available for reference the vast and varied wealth of information which constitutes this periodical a perfect illustrated literary encyclopedia. 8vo. Cloth, $3 00; Half Calif, $2 25. Sent postage prepaid.

Subscribers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers.

Address HARPER & BROTHERS, New York.

"A Repository of Fashion, Pleasure, and Instruction."

Harper's Bazar.

ILLUSTRATED.

Notices of the Press.

For strictly household matters and dress, Harper's Bazar is altogether the best thing published. To take it as a matter of economy. No lady can afford to be without it, for the information it gives will save her every much more money than the subscription price, besides giving the household an interesting literary visitor.—Chicago Journal.

Harper's Bazar is profusely illustrated, and contains such pictures, stories, and essays of a most attractive character. In its literary and artistic features, the Bazar is unquestionably the best journal of its kind in the country.—Saturday Evening Gazette, Boston.

TERMS:

Postage free to all Subscribers in the United States.

HARPER'S BAZAR, one year, $4 00.

$4 00 includes prepayment of U. S. postage by the publishers.

Subscriptions to HARPER'S MAGAZINE, WEEKLY, and BAZAR, to one address for one year, $10 00; or, two of Harper's Periodicals, to one address for one year, $7 00; postage free.

An Extra Copy of either the MAGAZINE, WEEKLY, or BAZAR will be supplied gratis for every Club of Five Subscribers at $4 00 each, in one remittance; or, Six Copies for $20 00, without extra copy; postage free.

Back Numbers can be supplied at any time.

The Volumes of the Bazar commence with the year. When no time is mentioned, it will be understood that the subscriber wishes to commence with the number next after the receipt of his order.

The Annual Volumes of HARPER'S BAZAR, in neat cloth binding, will be sent by express, free of expense, for $7 00 each. A complete Set, comprising Nine Volumes, sent on receipt of cash at the rate of $5 25 per vol., freight at expense of purchaser.

Cloth Cases for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail; postpaid, on receipt of $1 00 each.

Index to each volume sent gratis on receipt of stamp.

Subscribers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of HARPER & BROS.

Address HARPER & BROTHERS, N. Y.

THE TOLEDO BLADE.

The Great National Newspaper.

as follows:—
DIRECTORS.—Jas. Allen and William Miller, Napanee; Nathan Caton, Richmond; J. B. Allison and C. Huffman, South Fredericksburgh; W. N. Dollar, North Fredericksburgh; B. Brisco, jr., and Lewis Stover, Ernesttown; George Wright, Amherst Island.
AUDITORS.—Messrs. J. C. Huffman and M. Canfield.
 Moved by Mr. H. Huffman, seconded by Mr. G. I. Smith, that in future this Society's Exhibition be open only to such Societies as will reciprocate.—Carried.
 Moved by Mr. Canfield, seconded by Mr. Miller, that the thanks of the Society be tendered to the retiring officers and directors.—Carried.

DEATH OF MRS. G. A. KIRKPATRICK.

On Saturday evening the wife of Mr. G. A. Kirkpatrick, M. P. for Frontenac, died very suddenly. Her illness was of but three days' duration, and its dangerous aspect did not appear till a few hours before she was carried off. Wednesday she felt indisposed, not sufficiently, however, to interfere with an entertainment at her residence upon that evening. The attack developed itself as one of bronchitis, and troubled her severely on Thursday and Friday. On Saturday morning her physician had not anticipated any immediate danger, and Mr. Kirkpatrick proceeded to his office. At one o'clock he was called home, and arrived but an hour before unconsciousness set in. Death ensued in the evening, carrying along with it unspoken farewells and the joys of the happiest home in Kingston.
 The suddenness of the blow is crushing upon a bereaved husband and five tender orphaned children, who will never cease to feel the loss of a noble wife and mother. The King of Terrors could not have chosen a more blow. Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick besides being credited with the fullest marital happiness, were by their endearing qualities united, the centre of the social circles of Kingston, a position which Mrs. Kirkpatrick adorned by her superior grace and affability. Their home was surrounded by all the elements of earthly happiness—wealth, position and friends innumerable. The invasion of such a home and the death of one of its members, would under the most alleviating of circumstances be a deep sorrow, but when the attack is so sudden and distressing as this has been, no description can picture the sadness it has left in its train. The removal of this cultured and popular lady will be felt in one-half of the homes of the city, and in all of them to-day a deep regret is expressed. The sympathies extended to Mr. Kirkpatrick are many and sincere from all classes.
 The deceased was a daughter of the late Hon. John Macaulay. She had not yet passed the prime of life, and many years of usefulness and happiness were looked for and to her behalf.—Whig.

PEDESTRIANISM.
HOWES AND O'LEARY.

The 300-mile match for £100 a side, between the Chicago pedestrian, O'Leary and William Howes, of London, has resulted in a victory for the Englishman. The match, which took place at the Victoria Skating Rink, Chambridge Heath, was commenced at 5 p. m. Tuesday, 26th ult., and lasted till 10 p. m. Friday, 29th ult., when the American retired, having accomplished 269 miles 5 laps, to Howes' 241 miles 5 laps. The time occupied was 77 hours. Howes, who pulled up fresh expressed a wish to walk on the following day 50 miles in 10 hours, his challenge was not responded to. It is but fair to O'Leary to mention that while his opponent was in good condition, he at the commencement of the match was suffering from a severe attack of diarrhoea.

SHORTS.
 It is estimated that fully $500,000, will be paid to the farmers of Essex for pork raised by them last year.
 Mr. Sargeant takes control of the Grand Trunk Railway in Mr. Hickson's absence.

of the first French Revolution of 1789; of the atrocities of the "reign of terror," and the wonderful career of the great Napoleon. Her funeral was largely attended.

PIERCE'S PURGATIVE PELLET.

Have you humor or bile?
 Hanging round all the while.
 To bother and sicken?
 Pierce's Purgative Pellet
 Will surely expel it.
 Does miasma invade,
 And by stealth make a wad.
 Like an owl on a chicken?
 Pierce's Purgative Pellet
 Is the right thing to quell it.
 For an indolent liver,
 That seldom or never,
 Its true function performs,
 Pierce's Purgative Pellet
 Has naught to excel it.
 Does dyspepsia's deep gloom
 On your horizon loom?
 Boiling darkness and worms?
 Dr. Pierce's good Pellet,
 If you take it, will tell it.
 To "get out" and be seen,
 With its impus vile and mean.
 In your system no more;
 Then buy the nice Pellet
 The druggists all sell it.

COWARDLY ASSAULTS.—When a candidate for high office is so well liked and so popular with the masses as to make his defeat difficult in a fair and honorable light, mean and cowardly men are not wanting who delight in manufacturing lies and slandering his good name. There are also those whose selfishness prompt them to prostitute their honor, pervert truth, and ignore right, for the sake of injuring competitor in business sagacity they have not the talent to successfully compete in an honorable way. These thoughts are suggested by the mean, cowardly attacks made upon me and my medicine, by those who imagine their pecuniary prospects injured by the great popularity which my standard medicines have acquired, and the continued growth of my profession practice. Narrow-minded practitioners which do not possess sufficient merit to successfully compete for popular favor have resorted to such cowardly strategy as to publish all shots of ridiculous reports about the composition of my medicines. Almanacs, "Receipt Books," and other pamphlets, are issued and scattered broadcast over the land, wherein these contemptible knaves publish pretended analyses of my medicine and receipts for making them. Some of these publications are given high-sounding names, pretend to be issued by respectable men of education and position, for the good of the real object in their circulation, which is to injure the sale of my medicine. "The Popular Health Almanac" is the high-sounding name of one of these publications, which contains bogus receipts without a grain of truth in them. Not less devoid of truth are those which have been published by one Dr. L. of Detroit, in the Michigan Farmer, and by other manufacturers of medicines, in several so-called journals of Pharmacy. They are all prompted by jealousy and utterly fail in accomplishing the objects of their authors, for, notwithstanding their free circulation, my medicines continue to sell more largely than others manufactured in this country and are constantly increasing in sale despite the base lies concocted and circulated by such knaves. The people find that these medicines possess genuine merit, accomplish what their manufacturer claims for them and are not the vile poisonous nostrums which jealous, narrow-minded physicians and sneaking compounders of competing medicines represented them to be. Among the large number of pretended analyses published, it is a significant fact that no two have been at all alike—conclusively proving the dishonesty of their authors. It is enough for people to know that while thousands, yes, I may truthfully say millions, have taken my medicine and have been cured, no one has regulations is liable to fine and costs, or in default of payment is subject to imprisonment.

No person shall, during such prohibited times, fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or have in possession any of the above-mentioned kinds of Fish or Game.
 In Quebec, Fishery Officers exercise Magisterial powers under the Game Laws.
BY ORDER.

W. F. WHITCHER,
 Commissioner of Fisheries.
 N. B.—Deer killed before the 1st December, cannot be legally disposed of after the 1st of January following.
 Department of Marine and Fisheries,
 Fisheries Branch, Ottawa.
HUGH RALSTON,
 Fishery Observer,
 Napanee District.

OCEAN TICKETS.

OCEAN Tickets for sale via Quebec or Halifax in summer, Halifax or Portland in winter, by the Allan S. S. Line, White Star Line, Inman and National, via New York. Also return tickets at reduced rates to any point in the Old Country.

RAILWAY TICKETS.

Tickets by the Great Western Railway, to all points and return at reduced rates.

EXCHANGE OFFICE.

American money bought and sold, and drafts on New York.

ACCIDENTAL INSURANCE.

Agent for the Accidental Insurance Co. of Canada.

A. H. ALLISON, Agent,
 Montreal Telegraph Office,
 Over Mallory's Drug Store.

MILTON FOR 50 CTS.

we will send to any address, 1 elegant Gent's Watch Chain with Seal, 1 pair Sleeve Buttons, 1 set Shirt Studs, 1 Collar Button, 1 heavy plain ring, 1 Parisian diamond pin. Retail price $3.00. $1.00 stock must be sold. Illustrated catalogue of jewelry, watches, &c. sent with every lot. My watch, good time keeper, $1. Watch free to all agents.
MONTREAL NOVELTY Co.
 Importers, Montreal, P. Q.

Dr. William Gray's Specific Medicine.

The Great English Remedy is especially recommended as an unfailing cure for Seminal Weakness, Spermatorrhoea, Impotency, and all the diseases that follow as a consequence of Self Abuse, or Loss of Memory, Universal Languor, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave, all of which as a rule are first caused by deviating from the path of nature and over-indulgence.
 The Specific Medicine is the result of a life study and many years of experience in treating these special diseases. Pamphlet free by mail.
 The Specific Medicine is sold by all Druggists at $1 per package, or six packages for $5, or will be sent by mail on receipt of the money by addressing.
WILLIAM GRAY & Co.,
 Windsor, Ont.

BRING ON YOUR HATS.

JOSEPH CASCIER,
 Has again returned to Napanee, and can be found in the Warner Block, next door to the EXPRESS Printing Office.

OLD HATS,

made look and wear as good as new.
 Thousands in Canada and the United States have availed themselves of Mr. Cascier's abilities as a

HAT RESTORER,

and received more satisfaction, and better value for their money, than ever before in connection with that indispensable article.

THE HAT,

No matter how old,
 No matter how battered
 No matter how much worn,
 No matter how dirty,
 Under the hands of Mr. Cascier, they can be restored to their pristine beauty and usefulness.

For strictly household matters and dress, Harper's Bazar is altogether the best thing published. To take it as a matter of economy, No lad can afford to be without it, for the information it gives will save her every much more money than the subscription price, besides giving the household an interesting literary visitor.—Chicago Journal.
Harper's Bazar is profusely illustrated, contains stories, poems, sketches, and essays of the most attractive character. In its literary and artistic features, the Bazar is unquestionably the best journal of its kind in the country.—Saturday Evening Gazette, Boston.

TERMS:

Postage free to all Subscribers in the United States.
 HARPER'S BAZAR, one year, $4.00
 $1.00 includes prepayment of U. S. postage by the publishers.
 Subscriptions to HARPER'S MAGAZINE, WEEKLY, and BAZAR, to one address for one year, $10.00, or two of Harper's Periodicals, to one address for one year, $7.00; postage free.
 An Extra Copy of either the MAGAZINE, WEEKLY, or BAZAR will be supplied gratis for every Club of FIVE SUBSCRIBERS at $4.00 each, in one remittance; or SIX Copies for $20.00, without extra copy; postage free.
 Back Numbers can be supplied at any time.
 The Volumes of the Bazar commence with the year. When notice is mentioned, it will be understood that the subscriber wishes to commence with the number next after the receipt of his order.
 The Annual Volumes of HARPER'S BAZAR, in neat cloth binding, will be sent by express, free of expense, for $7.00 each. A complete Set, comprising Nine Volumes, sent on receipt of cash at the rate of $5.25 per vol., freight at expense of purchaser.
 Cloth Cases for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of $1.00 each.
 Index to each volume sent gratis on receipt of stamp.
 Newspaper is not to copy this advertisement without the express order of HARPER & BROS.
 Address HARPER & BROTHERS, N. Y.

THE TOLEDO BLADE
 The Great National Newspaper.

THE BLADE is the result of years of thought and earnest effort to build up a FIRST-CLASS weekly paper for the people of the whole country, North, South, East and West. It offers a great number of Special Features of interest and value to the general reader than any other paper published. Among these are the ever-popular humorous letters of the REV. PETROLEUM V. NASBY,
 which are written exclusively for THE BLADE and published regularly in its columns. THE BLADE is one of the largest papers in the world, and a portion of its ample space is every week devoted to the Choice Literature, embracing
THE BEST STORIES,
 Original and Selected; interesting Sketches, charming Poetry; the brightest Wit and Humor; a Household Department, filled every week with practical information of a great value in every home; a Young People's Department; a Religious Department, embracing the weekly Sunday School Lesson; and
THE LATEST NEWS
 by Mail and Telegraph, from all parts of the world. In brief, it is our aim and purpose to make THE TOLEDO BLADE as nearly as possible
A PERFECT FAMILY NEWSPAPER.
 And all that long experience in the business, liberal expenditure of money, and assiduous labor can do to accomplish this purpose at all b done.

THE AMERICAN FARM JOURNAL.

only 5 cents a year—a practical publication for practical people. It is now the leading Agriculture Monthly of the West, and has a large and constantly increasing circulation.

THE BLADE—Postage Paid.

Single copy, per year, $2.00, and at the same rate for a shorter time. Clubs of five, per year, $1.75 each; Clubs of ten and over, $1.50 each, and an extra copy to the getter up of the club ten or more. THE BLADE (weekly) and AMERICAN FARM JOURNAL (monthly) one year for $2.50.

GOOD BOOKS.

We have just carefully revised our Book List and now offer to every subscriber the best work of standard authors for almost nothing. See our new Book List in THE BLADE.
 Specimen Copies sent free to any address Agents wanted everywhere. Address,
THE BLADE Toledo, Ohio.

BOYS AND GIRLS
WANTED.

10,000 OR MORE
LITTLE CHRISTIAN BOYS & GIRLS
TO WORK FOR JESUS,

In helping to circulate Little Books, Tracts, &c.

WE will send FREE, complete Catalogue of Books, &c., on hand to any address, and for each Order received, to the amount of one dollar, we will send the LITTLE BOOKS, or TRACTS (sending the order) Books to the value of FIFTY CENTS on each dollar. Address,
WILLARD TRACT DEPOSITORY,
 Shaftesbury Hall Toronto.

On the 1st of July, 1877, we will send to the six Boys or Girls sending the Largest number of orders up to that date, one nice Pocket Bible each.

allest martial happiness, were by their undearing qualities united, the centre of the social circles of Kingston, a position which Mrs. Kirkpatrick adorned by her superior grace and affability. Their home was surrounded by all the elements of earthly happiness—wealth, position and friends innumerable. The invasion of such a home and the death of one of its members, would under the most alleviating circumstances be a deep sorrow, but when the attack is so sudden and distressing as this has been, no description can picture the sadness it has left in its train. The removal of this cultured and popular lady will be felt in one-half of the homes of the city, and in all of them to-day a deep regret is expressed. The sympathies extended to Mr. Kirkpatrick are many and sincere from all classes.

The deceased was a daughter of the late Hon. John Macaulay. She had not passed the prime of life, and many years of usefulness and happiness were looked for and to on her behalf.—Whig.

PEDESTRIANISM.
HOWES AND O'LEARY.

The 300-mile match for £100 a side, between the Chicago pedestrian, O'Leary and William Howes, of London, has resulted in a victory for the Englishman. The match, which took place at the Victoria skating rink, Chambridge Heath, was commenced at 5 p. m. Tuesday, 26th ult., and lasted till 10 p. m. Friday, 29th ult., when the American retired, having accomplished 269 miles 5 laps, to Howes' 241 miles 5 laps. The time occupied was 17 hours. Howes, who pulled up fresh expressed a wish to walk on the following day 50 miles in 10 hours, his challenge was not responded to. It is but fair to O'Leary to mention that while his opponent was in good condition, he at the commencement of the match was suffering from a severe attack of diarrhoea.

SHORTS.

It is estimated that fully $500,000, will be paid to the farmers of Essex for pork raised by them last year.

Mr. Sargeant takes control of the Grand Trunk Railway in Mr. Hickson's absence.

The Russian Imperial Prince Alexis, is to visit Montreal next month.

The wife of a prominent merchant of Montreal has eloped from London, England, to Paris with a British officer.

The Winnipeg Free Press hailed its readers on the 1st by wishing them Ki-a-wi-mi-yo-yan ka-wi-kittwam-as-ki-wick, which is Cree for "a happy New Year."

CENTRAL FAIR.—The Kingston Central Fair has been pronounced self-sustaining. It got no municipal aid last year, and yet here is a balance to the good of about $900.

At the railway station, Brampton, on the 19th inst., Mary Housstranser, a girl about 14 years old, in attempting to pass through a parted freight train, was caught between the cars and killed almost instantly.

Thomas Marshall of New Castle, hung himself to a beam in the cellar of his house on the 19th. He had been in ill health and subject to deep mental depression.

Potato Buyers are travelling over the different lines of railway, both east and west of Montreal, in search of potatoes, which they are buying up and forwarding in freight cars to the United States.

Five thousand persons have registered their names with the Superintendent of the Outdoor Poor in New York as applicants for relief, and it is estimated that each applicant represents a family of four persons.

A young lady who, recently became a nun in Toronto, jumped out of a sleigh while taking an airing with the Lady imperiress, and ran into the house of a Methodist minister, where she is now staying.

ty they have not the talent to successfully compete in an honorable way. These thoughts are suggested by the mean, cowardly attacks made upon me and my medicine, by those who imagine their pecuniary prospects injured by the great popularity which my standard medicines have acquired, and the continued course of my professional practice. Narrow-minded practitioners which do not possess sufficient merit to successfully compete for popular favor have resorted to such cowardly strategy as to publish all shots of ridiculous reports about the composition of my medicines. Albigams, "Receipt Books," and other pamphlets, are issued and scattered broadcast over the land, wherein these contemptible knaves publish pretended analyses of my medicine and receipts for making them. Some of these publications are given high-sounding names, pretend to be issued by respectable men of education and position, for the good of the real object in their circulation, which is to injure the sale of my medicine. "The Popular Health Almanac" is the high-sounding name of one of these publications, which contains bogus receipts without a grain of truth in them. Not less devoid of truth are those which have been published by one Dr. L. of Detroit, in the Nichigan Farmer, and by other manufacturers of medicines, in several so-called journals of Pharmacy. They are all prompted by jealousy and utterly fail in accomplishing the objects of their authors, for, notwithstanding their free circulation, my medicines continue to sell more largely than others manufactured in this country and are constantly increasing in sale despite the base lies concocted and circulated by such knaves. The people find that these medicines possess genuine merit, accomplish what their manufacturer claims for them and are not the vile poisonous nostrums which jealous, narrow-minded physicians and sneaking compounders of competing medicines represented them to be. Among the large number of pretended analyses published, it is a significant fact that no two have been at all alike—conclusively proving the dishonesty of their authors. It is enough for people to know that while thousands, yes, I may truthfully say millions, have taken my medicine and have been cured, no one has ever received injury from their use.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D.,
Proprietor of Dr. Pierce's Medicines,
World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y.

Don't Know Him.—We have heard of a man who owned a horse which had been for a long time afflicted with a chronic cough, and was otherwise in a poor condition; he at length resolved to sell him and did so for a very trifling sum. Some 5 or 6 weeks afterwards, he met the person to whom he had sold him driving a beautiful horse, full of life, and concluded he had either exchanged him for this or another; but judge his surprise on learning that the horse was the same that he purchased and considered of so little value. On enquiry as to what had effected so great a change, he was told that "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy" had done it. This preparation has effected some remarkable cures. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.

CARD OF THANKS.

FORTUNATELY I was induced to take out an accidental Insurance Policy last spring, after hard persuasion by Mr. A. H. Allison, the agent for the Accidental Insurance Co. of Canada; to-day I was handed the company's cheque by Mr. Allison, $60.00, the full amount of my claim for injuries I received by meeting with an accident. My policy cost me $6.00. I received $60 for twelve weeks' loss of time. My advice to those not insured, is to get insured without delay, delays are dangerous.

JOSEPH HINCH.
Napance, Dec. 19th, 1876. 44-lin.

Jewelry with every lot. Silver watch, good time keeper, $1. Watch free to all agents.
MONTREAL NOVELTY CO.
Importers, Montreal, P. Q.
44-ly.

Dr. William Gray's Specific Medicine.

Before Taking
follow as a sequence of Self Abuse, as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dizziness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave, all of which as a rule are first caused by deviating from the path of nature and over-indulgence.

The Specific Medicine is the result of a life study and many years of experience in treating these special diseases. Pamphlet free by mail.

The Specific Medicine is sold by all Druggists at $1 per package, or six packages for $5, or will be sent by mail on receipt of the money by addressing.

WILLIAM GRAY & CO.,
Winndor, Ont.

BRING ON YOUR HATS.

JOSEPH CASCIER,
Has again returned to Napance, and can be found in the Warner Block, next door to the Express Printing Office.

OLD HATS,
made look and wear as good as new.

Thousands in Canada and the United States have availed themselves of Mr. Cascier's abilities as a

HAT RESTORER,
and received more satisfaction, and better value for their money, than ever before in connection with that indispensable article.

THE HAT,
No matter how old,
No matter how battered,
No matter how much worn,
No matter how dirty.

Under the hands of Mr. Cascier, they can be restored to their pristine beauty and usefulness.

Call and enquire at the WARNER BLOCK.

Napance, Jan. 26th, 1877. 44

School Teacher Wanted

For School Section No. 3, AMHERST ISLAND.

A MALE OR FEMALE TEACHER, holding a second-class certificate from the Normal School. Apply to

R. GLENN,
S. Sec. No. 3, Stella P. O. Amherst Island.
Jan. 16, 1877. 43-4

THE GREAT FEMALE REMEDY.
JOB MOSES' PERIODICAL PILLS.

This well known medicine is no imposture, but a sure and safe remedy for Female Difficulties and Obstructions, from any cause whatever; and although a powerful remedy, it contains nothing hurtful to the constitution.

TO MARRIED LADIES it is peculiarly suited. It will, in a short time bring on the monthly period with regularity.

In all cases of Nervous and Pinal Affections, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Headaches, Soreness on slight exertion, palpitation of the Heart, Loss of Spirit, Hysteria, and all kinds of Whites, and all the painful diseases occasioned by a disordered system, these Pills will effect a cure when all other means have failed.

These Pills have never been known to fail where the directions on the 2nd page of pamphlet are well observed.

For further particulars, get a pamphlet, from the agent.

JOB MOSES, NEW YORK, SOLE PROPRIETOR.

$1.00 and 124 cents for postage, enclosed to Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., general agents for the Dominion, will insure a bottle containing over 50 pills, by return mail.

Sold in Napance by all Druggists. Mill Point by W. C. Egan, Tanworth Aylsworth & Huffman, and all medicine dealers.

REV. PETERLEUM V. NASBY, J.
which are written exclusively for THE BLADE, and published regularly in its columns. THE BLADE is one of the largest papers in the world, and a portion of its ample space is every week devoted to the Choicest Literature, embracing

THE BEST STORIES,
Original and Selected; Interesting Sketches, Charming Poetry; the brightest Wit and Humor; a Household Department, filled every week with practical information of a great value in every home; a Young People's Department; a Religious Department, embracing the weekly Sunday-School Lesson; and

THE LATEST NEWS
by Mail and Telegraph, from all parts of the world. In brief, it is our aim and purpose to make THE TOLEDO BLADE as nearly as possible

A PERFECT FAMILY NEWSPAPER.

And all that long experience in the business, a liberal expenditure of money, and assiduous labor can do to accomplish this purpose at all be done.

THE AMERICAN FARM JOURNAL;
only 75 cents a year—a practical publication for practical people, is now the leading Agricultural Monthly of the West, and has a large and constantly increasing circulation.

THE BLADE—Postage Paid.
Single copy, per year, $2.00, and at the same rate for a shorter time; Clubs of five, per year $1.75 each; Clubs of ten and over, $1.65 each, and an extra copy to the getter up of the club of ten or more. The BLADE (weekly) and AMERICAN FARM JOURNAL (monthly) one year for $2.35.

GOOD BOOKS.
We have just carefully revised our Book List, and now offer to every subscriber the best works of standard authors for almost nothing. See our new Book List in THE BLADE.

Specimen Copies sent free to any address. Agents wanted everywhere. Address.

THE BLADE Toledo, Ohio.

BOYS AND GIRLS WANTED.

10,000 OR MORE
LITTLE CHRISTIAN BOYS & GIRLS,
TO WORK FOR JESUS,
In helping to circulate Little Books, Tracts, &c.

WE will send FREE, complete Catalogue of Books, &c., on hand to any address, and for each Order received to the amount of ONE DOLLAR, we will send the LITTLE BOY OR GIRL (sending the order) Books to the value of FIFTEEN CENTS on each dollar. Address.

WILLARD TRACT DEPOSITORY,
Shafesbury Hall Toronto.

On the 1st of July, 1877, we will send to the six Boys or Girls sending the Largest number of orders up to that date, one nice Pocket Bible, each.

For the information of Christians generally, it may be briefly stated that this Institution, now in full operation, owes its origin to the liberality of a Christian gentleman, a resident of Toronto, who has invested a portion of his means in the enterprise, as a free-will offering to the Lord, with the view of scattering broadcast over our land, Tracts, Books, &c., which unfold the exalted privileges of the believers, and treat of the "LIFE OF FAITH" or Trust, and of the power and peace of HOLINESS, and Gospel and Evangelical Literature.

Special notice is called to the fact that this is

No Denominational Institution.

It is neither connected with, nor under the patronage of any particular church. All the Publications it issues will be strictly evangelical, and will meet the wants of all Christians. Largely the Books, &c., &c., will be those published by the Willard Tract Depository of Boston, under the care of the well known Dr. CULLIS.

ALL PROFITS that may be made will be devoted to the establishment of a fund for gratuitous distribution of the Tracts and Books, to persons and places where they are needed, as may be directed by the Committee. We beg to say that this Fund for free distribution is open for donations to all who may desire to help in this work of God.

We ask all who may desire to promote the higher spiritual life of the churches and to help in winning souls for Christ, to co-operate with us by circulating sound religious literature throughout the land.

References for further information may be made to the following brethren (and others who may be so desired) who will act as a Committee for selection and distribution.

- Rev. J. M. POTTS, Methodist.
 - Rev. W. M. LACROIX, Presbyterian.
 - Rev. W. M. LACROIX, Presbyterian.
 - Rev. J. R. DICKSON, Congregationalist.
 - Rev. J. D. UGLAS, Presbyterian, Cobourg.
 - Rev. J. AMERON, Baptist, Brantford.
 - Rev. J. HAGUE, Congregationalist.
 - Rev. R. W. LAIRD, Baptist.
 - Rev. W. T. MASON, Methodist.
 - Rev. COL. BURTON, Christian.
 - Rev. W. A. PARIANE, Episcopal.
 - Rev. T. J. WILKIE, Congregationalist.
 - Rev. S. R. BRIGGS, Manager, Toronto.
 - Rev. A. BURSON, Manager, Manchester, England.
 - Rev. W. H. TASSEL, General Agent, Toronto.
- P. S.—Nearly all of D. L. MOODY'S sermons, and many other precious little gems in book form at only 2c. and 3c. each. 42-1f.

JAN. 26, 1877.

Public Attention

to the following Provisions of the Fishery and Game Laws in the Province of Ontario.

SEASONS FOR FISH.

cannot be caught from 1st September to 10th November, both days inclusive.

Trout, and Lake Trout, cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th December, both days inclusive.

Trout, Brook or River Trout, cannot be caught from 15th September to 1st May.

cannot be caught from 1st May to 15th June.

cannot be caught from 1st April to 15th May.

cannot be caught from 15th May to 15th June.

SEASONS FOR GAME.

Cariboo, cannot be killed from 1st September to 1st October.

cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.

cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st September.

cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st August.

cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st July.

cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st August.

cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st October.

Persons are requested to inform the local Fishery Officers what information and assistance they can give out these provisions of the Fishery Laws.

without Licenses is prohibited. Persons are forbidden to fish or shoot on the same as whitemen.

Persons will receive one-half of the imposed, and be paid for their attendance as witnesses.

Persons guilty of violating these provisions is liable to fine and costs, or in payment is subject to imprisonment.

Persons shall, during such prohibited season, for catch, kill, buy, sell, or possession any of the above-mentioned Fish or Game.

Persons, Fishery Officers exercise powers under the Game Laws.

BY ORDER.

W. F. WITCHER, Commissioner of Fisheries.

Persons killed before the 1st December cannot be legally disposed of after 1st January following.

Persons of Marine and Fisheries, Branch, Ottawa.

HUGH BALSTON, Fishery Observer, Nanawau District.

DEAN TICKETS.

Tickets for sale via Quebec or Halifax, for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or possession any of the above-mentioned Fish or Game.

Persons, Fishery Officers exercise powers under the Game Laws.

BY ORDER.

W. F. WITCHER, Commissioner of Fisheries.

Persons killed before the 1st December cannot be legally disposed of after 1st January following.

Persons of Marine and Fisheries, Branch, Ottawa.

HUGH BALSTON, Fishery Observer, Nanawau District.

DEAN TICKETS.

"Unquestionably the best sustained work of the kind in the World."

Harper's Magazine. ILLUSTRATED.

Notices of the Press. The Magazine has attained its one quarter century and more of existence to that point where it may be said of it, in the words of Dr. Johnson, "It is vain to blame and useless to praise." The lustre of its long-ago-attained reputation has increased as the years have passed, and its future seems as bright if not brighter than at any time since the golden hue of prosperity settled around its later and best years.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Harper's Monthly is marked by the same characteristics which gave it circulation from the first with the better class of readers. It combines reading matter with illustrations in a way to make clear and vivid the facts presented. Pictures merely designed to catch the eye of the ignorant are never inserted.—Chicago Journal.

TERMS:

Postage free to all Subscribers in the United States.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE, one year..... $4 00

$4 00 includes prepayment of U. S. postage by the publishers.

Subscriptions to Harper's Magazine, Weekly, and Bazar, to one address for one year, $10 00; or, two Harper's Periodicals, to one address for one year, $7 00; postage free.

An Extra Copy of either the Magazine, Weekly, or Bazar will be supplied gratis for every Club of Five Subscribers at $4 00 each, in one remittance; or, Six Copies for $20 00, without extra copy; postage free.

Back Numbers can be supplied at any time.

The Volumes of the Magazine commence with the Numbers of June and December of each year. Subscriptions may commence with any number. When no time is specified, it will be understood that the subscriber wishes to begin with the first number of the current volume, and back numbers will be sent accordingly.

A Complete Set of Harper's Magazine, now comprising 53 Volumes, in neat cloth binding, will be sent by express, freight at expense of purchaser, for $25 per volume. Single volumes, by mail, postpaid, $3 00. Cloth cases, for binding, 58 cents, by mail, postpaid.

A Complete Analytical Index to the first Fifty Volumes of Harper's Magazine has just been published, rendering available for reference the vast and varied wealth of information which constitutes this periodical a perfect illustrated literary encyclopedia. 8vo, Cloth, $3 00; Half calf, $5 25. Sent postage prepaid.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of Harper & Brothers.

Address HARPER & BROTHERS, New York.

"A Repository of Fashion, Pleasure, and Instruction."

Harper's Bazar. ILLUSTRATED.

Notices of the Press.

For strictly household matters and dress, Harper's Bazar is altogether the best thing published. To take it as a matter of economy. No lady can afford to be without it, for the information it gives will save her every much more money than the subscription price, besides giving the household an interesting literary visitor.—Chicago Journal.

Harper's Bazar is profusely illustrated, and contains stories, poems, sketches, and essays of a most attractive character. In its literary and artistic features, the Bazar is unquestionably the best journal of its kind in the country.—Saturday Evening Gazette, Boston.

TERMS:

Postage free to all Subscribers in the United States.

HARPER'S BAZAR, one year..... $4 00

$4 00 includes prepayment of U. S. postage by the publishers.

Subscriptions to HARPER'S MAGAZINE, WEEKLY, and BAZAR, to one address for one year, $10 00; or, two Harper's Periodicals, to one address for one year, $7 00; postage free.

An Extra Copy of either the MAGAZINE, WEEKLY, or BAZAR will be supplied gratis for every Club of Five Subscribers at $4 00 each, in one remittance; or, Six Copies for $20 00, without extra copy; postage free.

Back Numbers can be supplied at any time.

The Volumes of the Bazar commence with the year. When no time is mentioned, it will be understood that the subscriber wishes to commence with the number next after the receipt of his order.

The Annual Volumes of HARPER'S BAZAR, in neat cloth binding, will be sent by express, free of expense, for $7 00 each. A complete Set, comprising Nine Volumes, sent on receipt of cash at the rate of $5 25 per vol., freight at expense of purchaser.

Cloth Cases for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of $1 50 each.

Index to each volume sent gratis on receipt of stamp.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of HARPER & BROS.

Address HARPER & BROTHERS, N. Y.

THE TOLEDO BLADE.

The Great National Newspaper.

STOCK-TAKING SALE!

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE,

Are now preparing for Taking Stock, and are offering

Great Bargains in Every Department.

FURS, SHAWLS, & ALL WINTER GOODS,

Will be Sold at Cost Price.

Remnants of Tweeds,

Remnants of Cloths,

Remnants of Dress Goods,

Remnants of Flannels.

ABOUT FOUR HUNDRED

REMNANTS OF ALL KINDS,

To be Sold at Less Than Cost.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

catch, kill, buy, sell, or on any of the above-men-Fish or Game.
 Fishery Officers exercise under the Game Laws.
 RDER.
F. WHITCHER,
 Commissioner of Fisheries.
 killed before the 1st Debe legally disposed of January following.
 Marine and Fisheries,
 nch, Ottawa.
HUGH RALSTON,
 Fishery Observer,
 Napanee District.

N TICKETS.
 for sale via Quebec or Halifax alifax or Portland in winter, by e, White Star Line, Inman and York. Also return tickets at ny point in the Old Country.
AY TICKETS.
 roat Western Railway, to all at reduced rates.
ANGE OFFICE.
 y bought and sold and drafts
TAL INSURANCE.
 Accidental Insurance Co. of H. ALLISON, Agent.
 Montreal Telegraph Office,
 Over Mallory's Drug Store.

FOR 50 CTS. we will any address, 1 elegant Gent's Watch Chain with Seal, 1 pair Sleeve Buttons, 1 set Shirt Studs, 1 Collar Button, 1 heavy plain ring, 1 Pearl in diamond pin. Retail price $3.00. $100.00 stock must be sold. Illustrated catalogue of jewelry, watches, &c., sent with every lot. Silver watch, good time keeper, $1. Watch free to all agents.
MONTREAL NOVELTY Co.
 Importers, Montreal, P. Q.
 41-ly.

Gray's Specific Medicine.
 The Great
 English Rem-dy is especially recommended
 as an unfailing cure for Seminal Weakness, Spontaneous Emission, Impotency, and all diseases that result from Abuse, as Loss of it Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Premature Old Age, many Lead to Insanity or Consumption, Grave, all of which are caused by deviating from the path of indulgence.
 It is the result of a life of experience in treating these. Pamphlet free by mail.
 It is sold by all Druggists or six packages for $3, or will receipt of the money by ad-
WILLIAM GRAY & Co.,
 Windsor, Ont.

N YOUR HATS.
H GASCIER,
 ned to Napanee, and can be Varner Block, next door Press Printing Office.
LD HATS,
 rear as good as new.
 Canada and the United railed themselves of Mr.
 as as a RESTORER,
 re satisfaction, and better money, than ever before in that indispensable article.
HE HAT,
 w old,
 w battered.
 w much worn.
 w dirty.
 nds of Mr. Gascier, they to their pristine beauty and ire at the RNER BLOCK.
 26th, 1877. 44

than the subscription price, besides giving the household an interesting literary visitor.—Chicago Journal.
Harper's Bazar is profusely illustrated, and contains stories, poems, sketches, and essays of a most attractive character. * * * In its literary and artistic features, the Bazar is unquestion-ably the best journal of its kind in the country.—
Saturday Evening Gazette, Boston.
TERMS :
 Postage free to all Subscribers in the United States.
HARPER'S BAZAR, one year..... $4.00 $4.00 includes prepayment of U. S. postage by the publishers.
 Subscriptions to HARPER'S MAGAZINE, WEEK-LY, and BAZAR, to one address for one year, $10.00; or, two of Harper's Periodicals, to one address for one year, $7.00; postage free.
 An Extra Copy of either the MAGAZINE, WEEK-LY, or BAZAR will be supplied gratis for every Club of FIVE SUBSCRIBERS at $4.00 each, in one remittance; or Six Copies for $20.00, without extra cost; postage free.
 Back Numbers can be supplied at any time.
 The Volumes of the Bazar commence with the year. When no time is mentioned, it will be understood that the subscriber wishes to commence with the number next after the receipt of his order.
 The Annual Volumes of HARPER'S BAZAR, in neat cloth binding, will be sent by express, free of expense, for $7.00 each. A complete Set, comprising Nine Volumes, sent on receipt of cash at the rate of $5.25 per vol., freight at expense of purchaser.
 Cloth Cases for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of $1.00 each.
 Index to each volume sent gratis on receipt of stamp.
 Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of HARPER & BROS.
 Address HARPER & BROTHERS, N. Y.

THE TOLEDO BLADE.
 The Great National Newspaper.
 THE BLADE is the result of years of thoughtful and earnest effort to build up a First-Class weekly paper of National Character, adapted to the wants of the people of the whole country.
 North, South, East and West. It offers a great number of Special Features of interest and value to the general reader than any other paper published. Among these are the ever-popular humorous Letters of the REV. PETROLEUM V. NASBY, which are written exclusively for THE BLADE, and published regularly in its columns. THE BLADE is one of the largest papers in the world, and a portion of its ample space is every week devoted to the choicest literature, embracing

THE BEST STORIES,
 Original and Selected; Interesting Sketches, charming Poetry; the brightest Wit and Humor;
 a Household Department, filled every week with practical information of a great value in every home; a Young People's Department; a Religious Department, embracing the weekly Sunday School Lesson; and
THE LATEST NEWS
 by Mail and Telegraph, from all parts of the world. In brief, it is our aim and purpose to make THE TOLEDO BLADE as nearly as possible
A PERFECT FAMILY NEWSPAPER.
 And all that long experience in the business, a liberal expenditure of money, and assiduous labor can do to accomplish this purpose at all be done.
THE AMERICAN FARM JOURNAL:
 only 75 cents a year—a practical publication for practical people, is now the leading Agricultural Monthly of the West, and has a large and constantly increasing circulation.
THE BLADE—Postage Paid:
 Single copy, per year, $2.00, and at the same rate for a shorter time. Clubs of five, per year, $1.75 each; Clubs of ten and over, $1.65 each, and an extra copy to the getter up of the club of ten or more. The BLADE (weekly) and AMERICAN FARM JOURNAL (monthly) one year for $2.35.
GOOD BOOKS.
 We have just carefully revised our Book List, and now offer to every subscriber the best works of standard authors for almost nothing. See our new Book List in THE BLADE.
 Specimen Copies sent free to any address.
 Agents wanted everywhere. Address,
THE BLADE Toledo, Ohio.

BOYS AND GIRLS
 WANTED.
10,000 OR MORE
LITTLE CHRISTIAN BOYS & GIRLS,
TO WORK FOR JESUS,
 In helping to circulate Little Books, Tracts, &c.
 WE will send FREE, complete Catalogue of Books, &c., on hand to any address, and
 for Each Order received, to the amount of ONE DOLLAR, we will send the LITTLE BOY OR GIRL
 (sending the order) Books to the value of FIF-TEEN CENTS on each dollar. Address,
WILLARD TRACT DEPOSITORY,
 Shaftesbury Hall Toronto.
 On the 1st of July, 1877, we will send to the six Boys or Girls sending the Largest number of orders up to that date, one nice Pocket Bible,
 each.
 For the information of Christians generally,
 it may be briefly stated that this Institution,
 now in full operation, owes its origin to the liberality of a Christian gentleman, a resident of Toronto, who has invested a portion of his means

Remnants of Dress Goods,
 Remnants of Flannels.
 ABOUT FOUR HUNDRED
REMNANTS OF ALL KINDS,
 To be Sold at Less Than Cost.
SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

THE GREAT SLAUGHTER
 —OF—
DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING,
 STILL GOING ON AT
R. DOWNEY & BROS'.

Store Crowded to Overflowing Every Day
 —O—
MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

List of New Advertisements.

Ocean Tickets—A. H. Allison.
Card of Thanks—Joseph Hinch.
Milton Gold Jewelry—Montreal Novelty Co.
Specific Medicine—Wm. Grey & Co.
Public Attention—Hugh Ralston.
Bring on your Hats—Joseph Gascier.
Fire—A. C. Davis & Bro.
Hardware for Everybody—Ralph Purdy.
Special Notices—H. R. Spencer.

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, JAN. 26th, 1877.

Chess.

We understand a chess club has been formed by some of our Napanee players.

Tea Meeting.

The C. M. Church at Mount Pleasant, is to have a tea meeting on Tuesday evening next.

Father Chiquay

Is to lecture in Selby on Monday next, subject: "Why I became a protestant." Admission 25 cts.

Soothing Syrup.

Some female dental patients in an adjoining city carry a private whiskey bottle wherewith to quiet their excited nerves, previous to a molar extraction.

Wanted.

A lively exchange advertises for a fighting editor. Our editor don't fight, but we'll send our devil, he can lick his weight in wild-cats.

He is Coming.

A monster tramp over seven feet tall passed through Toronto to-day, en route for Napanee. Jerry—have that door enlarged, and lay in a fresh supply of salt codfish.

Taken In.

The Oswego Palladium says:—a swindler, giving his name as A. C. March, and claiming to hail from Auburn has taken in several Canadians near Kingston, with a patent horse shoe.

Poor old Kingston.

The Limestone city is lamenting sadly over having to pay $11,000 for school purposes, while the little town of Napanee pays about half that amount, and don't grumble at it either.

Wide Awake.

Received the February number of this deservedly popular young people's magazine. The selections of reading matter and very appropriate illustrations are decidedly ahead of anything of the kind published. Price $2 per year, published in Boston.

The Whig Says:—

At every fire women may be seen pushing their way to the front, and, generally, if there is a place where they will be in the way that's where they will be found the thickest. Women should keep in the rear; they were never intended to act as firemen.

The American Agriculturist.

For the best and most instructive agricultural and domestic reading; the most numerous and greatest common sense illustrations, we refer our farmers to the American Agriculturist, published by Orange Judd Company, at No. 245, Broadway, N. Y. Price $1.50 per annum in advance.

The Canadian Monthly.

The January number, just received, contains the usual varied and excellent table of contents, including instalments of the novels "Juliet" and "As Long as She Lived," and many cleverly written Conundrum.

Do those gentlemen in Ulsters wear trousers?

Trenton is also to have races some time in the month of February, on the ice at that place.

Recommended.

Our aspiring young artist, Fred Richardson, jr., has his gallery again in running order.

Narrow Escape.

A large stone over a window, of the burned building in Beeman's block, lately fell within a quarter of an inch of the devoted head of a passing citizen.

M. E. Missionary Meeting.

The annual missionary meeting will be held in the M. E. Church, Napanee, Sabbath evening, 28th inst. Sermon by Rev. I. B. Aylsworth, LL. B.

Madoc.

This enterprising village has taken the necessary steps towards becoming an incorporated village. The next step will be, "County Town of the North Riding of Hastings."

Skating Carnival.

Remember the Skating Carnival on Friday night the 2nd of February, on the Napanee skating rink. The Band and everything required to give pleasure and comfort to guests provided.

Races.

Brighton is to have grand Trotting Races on their driving park in that place, on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 20th and 21st of next month, at which some good purses are offered.

Wardens.

George Dennison, of Portland has been elected Warden of Frontenac; Benjamin Hubbs, of Picton Warden of Prince Edward; and James Walker, of Sidney, Warden of Hastings.

The Weather.

Last Saturday morning, we had a drizzling rain which stopped before noon, hardly enough to make a "January thaw," the following three days were very pleasant and mild.

Disorderly.

A Kingston "billy goat," was arrested for monopolizing Princess street and jarring the nerves of un-suspecting females, the strong re-buttling evidence against him, imposed a fine of $5 upon his owner.

Serious Accident.

On Wednesday morning, Mr. John Carscallen living a few miles below Napanee, received a serious kick in the side from a horse he was leading. Dr. Rutten who was called in is unable at present to ascertain the extent of his injuries.

Ontario Legislature.

The following is an analysis of the Ontario Legislature: 22 merchants, 15 agriculturists, 18 lawyers, 10 doctors, 5 lumbermen, 3 manufacturers, 3 journalists, 4 diarymen, 4 millers, 2 painters, and 1 blacksmith.

Frontenac Election.

Mr. R. M. Rose, the County Registrar, has received the writ for the holding of a new County election, and he has issued his proclamation. The nomination will take place on Monday, the 5th of February, and the election will be held a week later, Monday, the 12th.

Fire in Kingston.

Princess Street, Kingston, was the scene of another fire on Wednesday night of last week when Martin's Block was entirely destroyed, and among the other Close Season.

We call attention to the close season for fish and game advertised in another column, by the Inspector, Mr. Ralston.

Removed.

We have removed to our old store in the Perry Block, with a new stock of goods, (not smoked,) carefully selected from the best Manufactories, which we think will suit all. We hope to see all our old customers, and many new ones. A few of the old goods still on hand, which we offer at half their value. Come and see us in the east end of the Perry Block.

ROSE & FRALICK.

Decision Given.

Decision was given on Wednesday by his worship the Mayor, and John Webster, Esq., J. P., in the case of A. W. Grange, of the firm of Grange & Sill, upon complaint of Mr. G. B. Brila, Deputy Inspector of weights & measures for Lennox & Addington, for using the old wine measure for selling coal oil &c., which is contrary to Law, being unstamped. Fine $5, costs $4.80.

Must have cash at SPENCER'S.
Since the fire I want and must have money. SPENCER.

Missionary Anniversary.

The Anniversary of the Napanee Branch of the Missionary Society, of the Methodist Church of Canada will be celebrated on Sunday and Monday next, the 28th.. and 29th inst. Sermons will be preached on behalf of the society, by the Rev. D. V. Lucas. The Anniversary Meeting will be held on Monday Evening, and will be addressed by the Rev. Dr. Douglas of Montreal, and Mr. Lucas the preacher of the Sabbath. Mr. Lucas made a very favourable impression when he visited this place some time since; those who heard him then will be sure to avail themselves of the privilege of hearing him both on Sunday and Monday, and as to Dr. Douglas, his reputation is too well established, as one of the finest pulpit and platform orators of the age. There is no necessity for anything more than the mere mention of his name required, to draw out a crowd.

Hope you won't forget poor Spencer.
Must sacrifice goods at SPENCER'S.

IMPORTS.—PORT OF NAPANEE.

1877 Jan. 19th. — Per G. T. P. via Prescott, J. Wilson, 1 tub; T. Jamieson, 1 tub; via Kingston, Ferguson Bros, 2 bxs, 1 bbl. 20th, — via Brockville, E. W. Rathbun, 2 castings; via Kingston, Slaven & Ironside, 1 bx; Rose & Fralick, 1 bx; via Cotiaooke, from Great Britain John T. Grange, 18 puncheons bleaching powder; via Prescott, Rev. A. McCann, 1 pa. 22nd, — per Post Office, S. E. Scott, 1 pa; per G. T. R., via Prescott, M. N. Hawley, 1 bx; via Cotiaooke from Great Britain, J. T. Grange, 9 puncheons bleaching powder; via Kingston, J. Siler 1 bx; G. H. Downey, 1 pa; Wright & Co. 1 pa; C. Vanhorn, 1 bx, 1 pa; via Windsor, D. McMurchey, 1 pa.
Help Spencer.
Don't forget Spencer.
Badly damaged. SPENCER.

THE FIRE ENGINE CONTEST IN KINGSTON.

THE MERRYWEATHER SURPASSED IN THREE TESTS BY THE CHATHAM ENGINE.

Friday afternoon last the final test of the Chatham fire engine before completing the purchase of it, took place on Market Square in presence of the Mayor, the most of the Aldermen, and a large crowd of spectators. The test was a most thorough one, and has resulted in the new steamer showing herself to be at least equal, if not superior, in every resome of perfection may be reached, and, it now acting trial surpasses the Merryweather, one of the very English manufacture.

It must be gratifying to our people to know that we have the of the Dominion, an A. 1., of make, pronounced by judges to be led, and which, under the management of our able engineer, Mair, has never been found wanting the hour of danger.

MILL POINT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

We regret to learn that Chas. Powlis is very ill.

Business dull. The Skating about the liveliest place in the vi

Our new councillors have taken oaths of office, and we are looking forward to the time when city fathers will reduce our taxes a great many other things prom before the election.

Mrs. James Wilson had a severe cold and is at present under the care of Dr. Newton. She will soon get around it is expected.

A French wedding on Monday the brightest thing experienced here some time back. The happy couple numerous friends continued the celebration all day and night, and are at it yet.

A meeting was held in Rathbun and committee appointed to organize Young Men's Christian Association place.

In expectation of the immense quantity of Lemonade to be consumed here next summer, the hotels are having large quantities of ice. They are prepared for Dunkin.

Mr. Jamieson has returned from his woods, after a three week's looking hale and hearty. He has commenced repairs on the Alexandria.

ADOLPHUSTOWN

MR. EDITOR:

I notice in the Beaver of the 6 a note of some passing events place, given by "Observer," which are correct. Could it be that his eyes were blurred with that day, or is it, "Old Sambo" up again, this time with the wool eyes, that he could not see all the improvements going on in the place some of them are so near those mentioned. Just a little ways from Allison's new wharf, a small wharf being built by J. J. Watson, Esq., accommodation of the little boat told, which will be a great convenience indeed. And again, I think he has the Ex-Reeve Mr. Watson, an Irishman when he says that the "Zeal" for civil honor is dying out here, for "he" that is "observing," and I seen the closing remarks of Mr. Watson's address of 1875. "And although tired of office now, I don't think I hesitate long when called to re-join you again," don't that mean I when the time comes, and I think Watson means what he says. Yours.

FAIR

BELLEVILLE.

There are three or four candid the wardenship.

Some of the engineers who sit the Grand Trunk here have not resumed work.

for Napanee, Jerry—have that door enlarged, and lay in a fresh supply of salt codfish.

Taken In.

The Oswego Palladium says:—a swindler, giving his name as A. C. March, and claiming to hail from Auburn has taken in several Canadians near Kingston, with a patent horse shoe."

Poor old Kingston.

The Limestone city is lamenting sadly over having to pay $11,000 for school purposes, while the little town of Napanee pays about half that amount, and dorts grumble at it either.

Wide Awake.

Received the February number of this deservedly popular young people's magazine. The selections of reading matter and very appropriate illustrations are decidedly ahead of anything of the kind published. Price $2 per year. published in Boston.

The Whig Says:—

At every fire women may be seen pushing their way to the front, and, generally, if there is a place where they will be in the way that's where they will be found the thickest. Women should keep in the rear; they were never intended to act as firemen.

The American Agriculturist.

For the best and most instructive agricultural and domestic reading; the most numerous and greatest common sense illustrations, we refer our farmers to the American Agriculturist, published by Orange Judd Company, at No. 245, Broadway, N. Y. Price $1.50 per annum in advance.

The Canadian Monthly.

The January number, just received, contains the usual varied and excellent table of contents, including instalments of the novels "Juliet" and "As Long as She Lived," and many cleverly written miscellaneous papers. Published by Adam, Stevenson & Co., Toronto. $8.50 per annum; single numbers 35 cts each.

Anniversary and Tea Meeting.

Brookton, will hold anniversary services on Sabbath the 28th Jan., at which sermons will be preached by the Rev. A. A. Smith of Cataract, at 10:30 a. m. and by the Rev. J. Gibson, at 2:30 p. m. A Tea Meeting will be held on the following Monday evening, at which addresses will be delivered by the Revs. A. A. Smith, James Kines, J. McVeety, J. Might and G. C. Poyser. Choice music by the choir. Proceeds in aid of the Trust Fund. Tickets 50 cents—children half price. Rev. Wm. Briden, Superintendent. See Bills.

It is not true I pay people for taking my goods, but sell at a great sacrifice since my fire.

H. R. SPENCER.

"The Wild North Land."

Is the title of the lecture, which is to be delivered in the Town Hall, this Friday Evening, the 20th inst. The land referred to is the great Saskatchewan valley, a region which is said to be capable of sustaining a population of fifty or sixty millions, and which is destined, no doubt, to become, at no very distant day, the garden of Canada. Anything calculated to increase our knowledge of this interesting part of the Dominion cannot be regarded with indifference by any patriotic Canadian. The lecturer, the Rev. Egerton Hyerson Young, having spent seven or eight years in that region, and having travelled extensively through every part of it, and being moreover a shrewd and intelligent observer, and having collected a vast number and variety of facts and incidents, we look for a lecture of rare interest as well as of great practical importance.

Now is the time to get bargains since my fire.

H. R. SPENCER.

Bound to clear out my present stock.

H. R. SPENCER.

Sale of Market Tolls.

The Market Tolls were sold on Saturday

George Dennison, of Portland has been elected Warden of Frontenac; Benjamin Hubbs, of Picton Warden of Prince Edward; and James Walker, of Sidney, Warden of Hastings.

The Weather.

Last Saturday morning, we had a drizzling rain which stopped before noon, hardly enough to make a "January thaw," the following three days were very pleasant and mild.

Disorderly.

A Kingston "billy goat," was arrested for monopolizing Princess street and jarring the nerves of unsuspecting females, the strong re-buttling evidence against him, imposed a fine of $5 upon his owner.

Serious Accident.

On Wednesday morning, Mr. John Carscallen living a few miles below Napanee, received a serious kick in the side from a horse he was leading. Dr. Rutten who was called in is unable at present to ascertain the extent of his injuries.

Ontario Legislature.

The following is an analysis of the Ontario Legislature: 22 merchants, 15 agriculturists, 18 lawyers, 10 doctors, 5 lumbermen, 3 manufacturers, 3 journalists, 4 dairymen, 4 millers, 2 painters, and 1 blacksmith.

Frontenac Election.

Mr. R. M. Rose, the County Registrar, has received the writ for the holding of a new County election, and he has issued his proclamation. The nomination will take place on Monday, the 5th of February, and the election will be held a week later, Monday, the 12th.

Fire in Kingston.

Princess Street, Kingston, was the scene of another fire on Wednesday night of last week when Martin's Block was entirely destroyed, and among the other occupants—Foot, confectionier, formerly of Napanee, was a loser. This is the second time he has been burned out within a twelve-month.

Fire! Fire! Fire! Fire! Fire! Fire!
SPENCER'S.
Bargains at SPENCER'S.

Don't "Shoot Your Hat."

Our citizens always assume an air of respectability, after a visit from Mr. Joseph Gasnier, and all due to the wonderful recuperative powers, lying dormant in that much abused article—an old hat. If our assertions are doubted, let the most sceptical bring forth some woo-begone and delapidated scalp-protector, that has probably been used for a hen's nest, or a coal scuttle, and the inimitable Joseph will infuse new life, and make it a "thing of beauty and joy forever."

Now is your chance for bargains, at

SPENCER'S.

Come and see Spencer's great loss.

Dairymen's Convention.

The programme for the coming annual convention of the Ontario Dairymen's Association, which is to be held in the Town Hall here on the 14th, 15th and 16th of February, gives assurance of a highly interesting gathering. The gentlemen who are to deliver addresses on special subjects are Prof. Bell, of Albert College; Hon. X. A. Willard, President of the New York State Dairymen's Association; Mr. J. M. Peters, of the New York Grocer; Hon. Harris Lewis, Treasurer of the American Dairymen's Association; Messrs. Thos. Ballantine, M. P. P., Stratford; E. Casswell, Ingersoll; and Thomas Watkins, Belleville, from all these addresses much valuable information will be derived. In addition to the specialist above named, the following gentlemen will speak on such subjects as may commend themselves to their attention: Hon. Robt. Read, Hon. Billa Flint, M. Bowell, Jas. Brown, and John White, M. P.'s; and G. S. Striker, Thos. Wills, Dr. Boulter, and N. S. Appleby, M. P. P.'s; and K. Graham, Esq. The addresses are to be held at the

this place some time since, those who heard him then will be sure to avail themselves, of the privilege of hearing him both on Sunday and Monday, and as to Dr. Douglas, his reputation is too well established, as one of the finest pulpit and platform orators of the age. There is no necessity for anything more than the mere mention of his name required, to draw out a crowd.

Hope you won't forget poor Spencer.

Must sacrifice goods at SPENCER'S.

IMPORTS.—PORT OF NAPANEE.

1877 Jan. 19th.—Per G. T. R. via Prescott, J. Wilson, 1 tub; T. Jamieson, 1 tub; via Kingston, Ferguson Bros, 2 bxs, 1 bbl. 20th.—via Brockville, E. W. Rathbun, 2 castings; via Kingston, Slaven & Ironside, 1 bx; Rose & Fralick, 1 bx; via Conticooke, from Great Britain John T. Grange, 18 puncheons bleaching powder; via Prescott, Rev. A. McCann, 1 pa. 22nd.—per Post Office, S. E. Scott, 1 pa; per G. T. R., via Prescott, M. N. Hawley, 1 bx; via Conticooke from Great Britain, J. T. Grange, 9 puncheons bleaching powder; via Kingston, J. Siler 1 bx; G. H. Downey, 1 pa; Wright & Co. 1 pa; C. Vanhorn, 1 bx, 1 pa; via Windsor, D. McMurhey, 1 pa.

Help Spencer.

Don't forget Spencer.

Badly damaged. SPENCER.

THE FIRE ENGINE CONTEST IN KINGSTON.

THE MERRYWEATHER SURPASSED IN THREE TESTS BY THE CHATHAM ENGINE.

Friday afternoon last the final test of the Chatham fire engine before completing the purchase of it, took place on Market Square in presence of the Mayor, the most of the Aldermen, and a large crowd of spectators. The test was a most thorough one, and has resulted in the new steamer showing herself to be at least equal, if not superior, in every respect to the Merryweather, thus achieving a triumph for home manufacture. Among the spectators a good many practical engineers were engaged in watching the working of the two machines, and the general opinion of those competent to judge seemed to be that the Chatham engine is capable of doing all that is claimed for her.

At 2 o'clock. The two were started on equal terms, both having the fires built in them, with cold water in the boilers. The fires were started at two sharp. The Chatham engine was the first to move, and began to pump with 20 pounds pressure of steam in seven minutes. The Merryweather started in twelve minutes with 20 pounds of steam, and the Chatham engine having the start of five minutes, and by that time had on 80 pounds steam pressure, and pumping from the start two streams.

As soon as possible after steam was got up on both engines, the first test took place. To each engine there were attached two branches of hose, 400 feet long, and having 5 inches nozzles. These streams were used for a considerable time, and the result was in favour of the Chatham engine by about ten feet. The test consisted of both horizontal and perpendicular streams, and the result was about the same in both cases.

The second test was one stream through about 700 feet of hose on each engine, with 1 1/2 inch nozzles. The hose was run in a straight line up Brock street, and the branchmen stood on the crossing at King and Brock streets. This also resulted in favour of the Chatham engine by about 15 feet. The nozzles were changed—the Chatham engine taking that of the Merryweather and vice versa, and the distance thrown by each were nearly equal, but with her own nozzle the Chatham engine actually threw a greater distance by 20 or 25 feet.

The third test was the most difficult one. The steam consisted of one line of hose nearly 1,400 feet long, with 1 1/2 inch nozzles, and here the Chatham engine showed herself the best by 25 feet. The height achieved by the Chatham engine in this test was very nearly to the top of the of Lemonade to be consumed here during next summer, the hotels are harvesting large quantities of ice. They intend to be prepared for Dunkin.

Mr. Jamieson has returned from woods, after a three week's absence, looking hale and hearty. He has commenced repairs on the St. Alexandria.

ADOLPHUSTOWN

MR. EDITOR:

I notice in the Beaver of the 6th a note of some passing events of place, given by "Observer," some of which are correct. Could it be possible that his eyes were blurred with pot that day, or is it, "Old Sambo" waking up again, this time with the wool in eyes, that he could not see all the improvements going on in the place, some of them are so near those he mentioned. Just a little ways from Allison's new wharf, a small wharf being built by J. J. Watson, Esq., for accommodation of the little boats, (I told,) which will be a great convenience indeed. And again, I think he has the Ex-Reeve Mr. Watson, an injus when he says that the "zeal" for municipal honor is dying out here, for w "he" that is "observing," and has seen the closing remarks of Mr. Watson address of 1875. And although a tired of office now, I do not think I shall hesitate long when called to represent you again," don't that mean business when the time comes, and I think Watson means what he says.

Yours.

FAIRPLA

BELLEVILLE.

There are three or four candidates for the wardenship.

Some of the engineers who struck the Grand Trunk here have not yet summed work.

It is stated that the whole police will be dismissed and a thorough organization made.

A deputation from the Huron Quebec Railway Company are expected to ask the Council to submit a by granting a bonus to that road.

DAIRYMEN'S ASSOCIATION.—The annual convention of the Dairymen's Association of Ontario will be held here, commencing on the 14th of February, and the committee hope to make it both beneficial and interesting to dairymen and farmers generally. Addresses will be delivered by several eminent gentlemen, and a large attendance is anticipated. Persons wishing to attend and become members, may obtain certificates by applying at once to the Secretary, Mr. J. Hegler, Ingersoll, on presentation which, at the different railroad stations they will be entitled, owing to special arrangements having been made with the companies, to tickets at one fare and third, the double journey.—Ontario.

KINGSTON.

The Y. M. C. A., house warming, their new hall was a big affair.

On Thursday a convention will be held to select a Conservative candidate to contest the county for the vacancy created by the death of Mr. P. Graham. The writ was received this morning. The nomination has been fixed for Monday the 5th prox., and the polling for 12th.

KINGSTON, Jan. 20.—The Conservative of Frontenac met to-day to choose delegates to be present at a convention to be held of Thursday next and elect a candidate. Messrs William Murray & Thomas Dawson are still in the field Independents. There was a lively personal discussion during and after convention between two members.

MADOC

HURON AND QUEBEC R. R. BY-LAW. Madoc Jan 20.—Major Boulton, Vi

Sabbath (the 25th Jan.), at which serious will be preached by the Rev. A. A. Smith of Cataraqui, at 10:30 a. m. and by the Rev. J. Gibson, at 2:30 p. m. A Tea Meeting will be held on the following Monday evening, at which addresses will be delivered by the Revs. A. A. Smith, James Kines, J. McVeety, J. Might and G. C. Poyser. Choice music by the choir. Proceeds in aid of the Trust Fund. Tickets 50 cents—children half price. Rev. Wm. Briden, Superintendent. See Bills.

It is not true I pay people for taking my goods, but sell at a great sacrifice since my fire.

H. R. SPENCER.

"The Wild North Land."

Is the title of the lecture, which is to be delivered in the Town Hall, this Friday Evening, the 20th inst. The land referred to is the great Saskatchewan valley, a region which is said to be capable of sustaining a population of fifty or sixty millions, and which is destined, no doubt, to become, at no very distant day, the garden of Canada. Anything calculated to increase our knowledge of this interesting part of the Dominion cannot be regarded with indifference by any patriotic Canadian. The lecturer, the Rev. Egerton Ryerson Young, having spent seven or eight years in that region, and having travelled extensively through every part of it, and being moreover a shrewd and intelligent observer, and having collected a vast number and variety of facts and incidents, we look for a lecture of rare interest as well as of great practical importance.

Now is the time to get bargains since my fire.

H. R. SPENCER.

Bound to clear out my present stock.

H. R. SPENCER.

Sale of Market Tolls.

The Market Tolls were sold on Saturday last, at auction by Mr. Allan. The bidding was not very lively, commencing at $500, and being knocked down to Mr. Embury at $900, being $80 less than last year's price. Considerable stir was occasioned by one of the citizens who considered the Market By Law illegal, the Council not having the power to sell the Market Stalls and Tolls, and various other things; however, we can't see upon what grounds he made his assertions. We believe the Market Committee understands their business, as also do the councillors generally, and cannot believe they would commit any error in making the Market By-Law. We understand one of the Market stalls was sold to James Bell for $20. Mr. Embury, the purchaser of the Tolls, has proved himself during the last year a good hand at the business, having always looked sharp after dues, and promptly satisfied the claims of the Council. We wish him a successful year.

Don't fail to call on me for bargains, since my fire.

SPENCER.

Readings.

The usual Tuesday's charity entertainment came off very successfully, and attracted a large house. The receipts were $84.40. The hall was completely jammed, standing room being difficult to get. The programme composed the following:—Duett, by Mrs. Geddes and Mrs. C. Hooper,—"a song 'Market Days'" by Miss Davy,—"Napanee Quintett Club,"—"Instrumental duett, by Misses Roblin,—"Song 'I'm Dreaming' by Mrs. Ward of Frankford,—"song 'After the Wedding' and accompanied by Napanee Quintett Club,—"Mr. Bartles comic song,—"Reading by Elliott,—"Dialogue 'The would-be Teacher' by G. McCay and C. Z. Perry,—"Recitation 'Dream of Eugene Aram' Mr. Furlong,—"an address by Mr. Matheson,—"a Burlesque on the town council took well and received great applause,—"a volume of Goldsmith's poetical works was presented to Mrs. Mills, the prize for the poem on the poor. Parties wishing to render any assistance or take part in any future entertainment, will please leave word with the committee.

Great bargains since the fire, at

SPENCER'S.

Bargains at

Don't "Shoot Your Hat."

Our citizens always assume an air of respectability, after a visit from Mr. Joseph Gasier, and all due to the wonderful recuperative powers, lying dormant in that much abused article—an old hat. If our assertions are doubted, let the most sceptical bring forth some woe-begone and delapidated scalp-protector, that has probably been used for a hen's nest, or a coal scuttle, and the imitable Joseph will infuse new life, and make it a "thing of beauty and joy forever."

Now is your chance for bargains, at

SPENCER'S.

Come and see Spencer's great loss.

Dairymen's Convention.

The programme for the coming annual convention of the Ontario Dairymen's Association, which is to be held in the Town Hall here on the 14th, 15th and 16th of February, gives assurance of a highly interesting gathering. The gentlemen who are to deliver addresses on special subjects are Prof. Bell, of Alport College; Hon. X. A. Willard, President of the New York State Dairymen's Association; Mr. J. M. Peters, of the New York Grocer; Hon. Harris Lewis, Treasurer of the American Dairymen's Association; Messrs. Thos. Ballantine, M. P. P., Stratford; E. Casswell, Ingersoll; and Thomas Watkins, Belleville, from all these addresses much valuable information will be derived. In addition to the specialist above named, the following gentlemen will speak on such subjects as may commend themselves to their attention: Hon. Robt. Read, Hon. Billa Flint, M. P., Jas. Brown, and John White, M. P.'s; and G. S. Striker, Thos. Wille, Dr. Boulter, and N. S. Appleby, M. P. P.'s; and K. Graham, Esq. The addresses are to be short, so that ample time may be given for discussion, and a question drawer will be opened, as usual. This programme will no doubt commend itself to the favorable consideration of dairymen in general.—Intelligencer.

Spencer has burst since the fire,

Pay your account at SPENCER'S.

Busted.

The firm called "Cheap John" doing business in Belleville for over a year past, and who has been selling goods at prices that honest dealers could not compete with, has at last "gone up," to the great satisfaction of the square traders in that town. The Journal of Commerce of the 12th, has the following:—"Very little sympathy will be felt for those who may lose by J. R. Winters of Belleville, otherwise known as 'Cheap John,' now reported as being in difficulties. The man's antecedents are most unfavorable, in fact such as to warn the most careless against dealings on credit, yet we believe several of our Montreal houses are creditors for considerable amounts. Winters turned up suddenly in Montreal somewhere over a year ago, and we believe had to leave San Francisco in a great hurry, not having time to take anything with him. For a short while he carried on an auction business on the Main street, being connected in some way with the Wolfs who were before the public at that time as having absconded from Jersey City with a large amount of goods which were brought here, and some of which were seized by American creditors who have traced them. Winters, however, soon removed to Belleville, where he took extensive premises, and has done a large business at prices admitting of no profit, as he had to pay top prices for his goods in Montreal, and sold at figures below what old established dealers could. The actual position of affairs is not yet fully known, but the result of such reckless trading can easily be imagined. We presume it will not be 'ten regle' to accuse commercial agencies for the faults of the man who had Montreal merchants paid heed to the warning of the agency of which we can speak knowingly, they would not now occupy the position they do in this matter."

SPENCER'S.

engine is capable of doing all that is claimed for her.

At 2 o'clock. The two were started on equal terms, both having the fires built in them, with cold water in the boilers. The fires were started at two sharp. The Chatham engine was the first to move, and began to pump with 20 pounds pressure of steam in seven minutes. The Merryweather started in twelve minutes with 20 pounds of steam, and the Chatham engine having the start of five minutes, and by that time had on 80 pounds steam pressure, and pumping from the start two streams.

As soon as possible after steam was got up on both engines, the first test took place. To each engine there were attached two branches of hose, 400 feet long, and having $\frac{1}{2}$ inches nozzles. These streams were used for a considerable time, and the result was in favour of the Chatham engine by about ten feet. The test consisted of both horizontal and perpendicular streams, and the result was about the same in both cases.

The second test was one stream through about 700 feet of hose on each engine, with $\frac{1}{4}$ inch nozzles. The hose was run in a straight line up Brock street, and the branchmen stood on the crossing at King and Brock streets. This also resulted in favour of the Chatham engine by about 15 feet. The nozzles were changed—the Chatham engine taking that of the Merryweather and vice versa, and the distance thrown by each were nearly equal, but with her own nozzle the Chatham engine actually threw a greater distance by 20 or 25 feet.

The third test was the most difficult one. The steam consisted of one line of hose nearly 1,400 feet long, with $\frac{1}{4}$ inch nozzles, and here the Chatham engine showed herself the best by 25 feet. The height achieved by the Chatham engine in this test was very nearly to the top of the flagstaff on the City Hall. The following figures give the steam and water pressures.

AVERAGE STEAM PRESSURE.

	Lbs.
Merryweather.....	125
Chatham Engine.....	85

AVERAGE WATER PRESSURE.

	Lbs.
Chatham Engine.....	160
Merryweather.....	140

It was remarkable that with less pressure of water the Merryweather burst, the hose three times and the Chatham engine not once, which is accounted for by the action of the pumps of the Chatham engine being regulated by a crank motion, and having a larger air chamber which gives a more even pressure of water—the water gauge of the Merryweather jumping 20 lbs. at each stroke of the pump, while there is no sudden movement of the Chatham engine's water gauge while pumping.

The test concluded about five o'clock, thus occupying about three hours, during which time the engines both did more work than ever they will have to do at fires.

The test of yesterday afternoon showed three things very clearly, viz., that the Chatham engine can get up steam quicker, throw water to a greater distance, and require less fuel than the Merryweather. Both engines started with an equal quantity of coal, and the Chatham engine was able to run for some seven minutes after the Merryweather had to stop for want of fuel. Those who were sceptical of the power of the home-made engine acknowledge that it has fairly beaten its rival.

The test was a most complete one, and both engineers got the most they could out of the engines. His Worship the Mayor being determined if the Chatham engine did not come up to the mark it should not be for want of a trial.

The above which we condense from the Daily News, speaks most decisively for the Canadian engine, one that stood side by side at the great Centennial and held her own against the most celebrated American machines in which the very

granting a bonus to that r

DAIRYMEN'S ASSOCIATION convention of the Dairymen of Ontario will be held here on the 14th of February, amidst hope to make it an interesting and profitable one. Addresses will be several eminent gentlemen, large attendance is anticipated, persons wishing to attend members, may obtain certificates at once to the Secre Hegler, Ingersoll, on which, at the different rate they will be entitled, owing arrangements having been made with companies, to tickets at a third, the double journey.

KINGSTON

The Y. M. C. A., for their new hall was a big affair.

On Thursday a convention held to select a Conservator to contest the county for created by the death of M. The writ was received this nomination has been fixed the 8th prox., and the po 12th.

KINGSTON, Jan. 20.—The of Frontenac met to-day to gates to be present; at a con held of Thursday next nominate, Messrs William Thomas Dawson are still in Independants. There was some discussion during convention between two m

MADOC

HURON AND QUEBEC R. 1 MADOC, Jan. 20.—Major B President of the Huron Railway, has been here for getting petitions signed asking Council of Hastings to sub-law to grant a bonus of Huron and Quebec Railway pect of having that railw soon, gives general satisfaction by-law is likely to be carried majority. It will be the oughly opening up for de of the richest mineral district ario

OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Jan. 21.—Mr. land, Inspector of Public Gary is in town.

Edward Hawkins was told for trial for throwing per into Thomas A. Becket

The assessors have raised in that city $8000 as comparison.

A woman, was the cause between two gentlemen which hard blows were struck police wound up the affair in

A bed of Kaolin china clay porcelain manufacture, has been discovered by Mr. W. L. Holland, north of this city, but it is which renders it inaccessible. The clay is fine, but the surface is coated with oxide of iron.

There is considerable mystery over the Hull mystery. The of the butcher is not credited afternoon men are engaged the water out of the stable prisoners are still in custody, authorities, however, are not active steps as they should to mystery.

There is also good reason a vein of silver four feet in width covered some time ago in the district by a habitant who of its value. Nothing can be it until spring, as the snow that the land-marks showing of the lode are covered. Of ore which have been brought it are exceedingly rich.

4th Season.
We call attention to the close season r fish and game advertised in another lumn, by the Inspector, Mr. Ralston.

removed.
We have removed to our old store in e Perry Block, with a new stock of ods, (not smoked,) carefully selected on the best Manufactory, which we ing will suit all. We see all r old customers, and many new ones.
few of the old goods still on hand, hich we offer at half their value. Come d see us in the east end of the Perry lock.

ROSE & FRALICK.

Decision Given.

Decision was given on Wednesday by s worship the Mayor, and John Weber, Esq., J. P., in the case of A. W. range, of the firm of Grange & Bro., on complaint of Mr. G. B. Sils, puty Inspector of weights & measures r Lencox & Addington, for using the d wine measure for selling coal oil &c., hich is contrary to Law, being unstamp-
l. Fine $5, costs $4.80.

Must have cash at SPENCER'S.
Since the fire I want and must have oney. SPENCER.

Missionary Anniversary.

The Anniversary of the Napanee Branch the Missionary Society, of the Methodist hurch of Canada will be celebrated on nday and Monday next, the 28th... d 29th inst. Sermons will be preached a behalf of the society, by the Rev. D.
Lucas. The Anniversary Meeting ill be held on Monday Evening, and ill be addressed by the Rev. Dr. Douglas 'Montreal, and Mr. Lucas the preacher the Sabbath. Mr. Lucas made a very avourable impression when he visited is place some time since; those who ard him then will be sure to avail hemselves of the privilege of hearing him th on Sunday and Monday, and as to
r. Douglas, his reputation is too el established, as one of the finest plit and platform orators of the age, here is no necessity for anything more an the mere mention of his name quired, to draw out a crowd.

Hope you won't forget poor Spencer.
Must sacrifice goods at SPENCER'S.

IMPORTS. PORT OF NAPANEE.

1877 Jan. 19th. — Per G. T. R. via Prest; J. Wilson, 1 tub; T. Jamieson, 1 b; via Kingston, Ferguson Bros, 2 bxs, bdl. 20th., — via Brockville, E. W.
atbun, 2 castings; via Kingston, aven & Ironside, 1 bx; Rose & Fralick, bx; via Coaticook, from Great Britain hn T. Grange, 18 puncheons bleaching owder; via Prescott, Rev. A. McCann, pa. 22nd., — per Post Office, S. E. ott, 1 pa; per G. T. R., via Prescott, N. Hawley, 1 bx; via Coaticook on Great Britain, J. T. Grange, 9 mechons bleaching powder; via King-on, J. Siler 1 bx; G. H. Downey, 1 pa; right & Co. 1 pa; C. Vanhorn, 1 bx, 1
; via Windsor, D. McMurchey, 1 pa.
Help Spencer.

Don't forget Spencer.
Badly damaged. SPENCER.

THE FIRE ENGINE CONTEST IN KINGSTON.

MERRYWEATHER SURPASSED IN THREE TESTS BY THE CHATHAM ENGINE.

Friday afternoon last the final test of e Chatham fire engine before completg the purchase of it, took place on arket Square in presence of the Mayor, e most of the Aldermen, and a large wd of spectators. The test was a st thorough one, and has resulted in e new steamer showing herself to be at st equal, if not superior, in every resct to the Merryweather, thus achievg a triumph for home manufacture.

some of perfection may be said to have been reached, and, it now is a most exacting trial surpasses the well known Merryweather, one of the very best of English manufacture.

It must be gratifying to our twospeople to know that we have the pioneer of the Dominion, an A. L., of Chatham make, pronounced by judges to be unequalled, and which under the efficient management of our able engineer Dr. David Mair, has never been found wanting in the hour of danger.

MILL POINT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

We regret to learn that Chief Seth Powlus is very ill.

Business dull. The Skating Rink about the liveliest place in the village.

Our new councillors have taken their oaths of office, and we are anxiously looking forward to the time when our city fathers will reduce our taxes (and do a great many other things promised us before the election.

Mrs. James Wilson had a severe fall, and is at present under the care of Dr.
Newton. She will soon get around again it is expected.

A French wedding on Monday was the brightest thing experienced here for some time. The happy couple and numerous friends continued their jolification all day and night, and are probably at it yet.

A meeting was held in Rathbun Hall, and committee appointed to organise a Young Men's Christian Association in this place.

In expectation of the immense quantity of Lemonade to be consumed here during next summer, the hotels are harvesting large quantities of ice. They intend to be prepared for Dunkin.

Mr. Jamieson has returned from the woods, after a three week's absence, looking hale and hearty. He has commenced repairs on the Steamer Alexandria.

ADOLPHUSTOWN

MR. EDITOR:

I notice in the Beaver of the 6th inst., a note of some passing events of this place, given by "Observer," some of which are correct. Could it be possible that his eyes were blurred with potent that day, or is it, "Old Sambo" waking up again, this time with the wool in his eyes, that he could not see all the improvements going on in the place, when some of them are so near those he has mentioned. Just a little ways from Mr.
Allison's new wharf, a small wharf is being built by J. J. Watson, Esq., for the accommodation of the little boats, (I am told,) which will be a great convenience indeed. And again, I think he has done the Ex-Reeve Mr. Watson, an injustice, when he says that the "Zeal" for municipal honor is dying out here, for whoso
"he" that is "observing," and has not seen the closing remarks of Mr. Watson's address of 1875. "And although a little tired of office now, I do not think I should hesitate long when called to represent you again," don't that mean business when the time comes, and I think Mr.
Watson means what he says.

Yours.

FAIRPLAY.

BELLEVILLE.

There are three or four candidates for the wardenship.

Some of the engineers who struck on the Grand Trunk here have not yet resumed work.

It is stated that the whole police force

MONTREAL.

Trade in Montreal dull almost to stagnation.

MONTREAL, Jan. 20.—Three hundred laborers, employed on No. 4 section Lachine-Canal, struck this morning and refused to work again unless paid their wages weekly. They refuse to allow other men to take their places, and threaten vengeance.

MONTREAL, Jan. 22.—On Saturday night, a wealthy farmer, aged about 60 supposed to be a Phillip Shevill, of St.
Lapue, was killed by a M. O. O. train.
He was on his way to market with a horse and sleigh, and fell into a dead sleep, leaving his horse to make his way alone. The animal mistook the track for the road, leading into the city, and when the train came along, the horse and driver were killed.

CANADIAN

Clothes line thieves getting quite numerous in the towns and villages of Ontario.

The poor of Hamilton are employed in quarrying and breaking stone for the streets.

A number of the smaller oil refineries in London East have been closed down, owing to the scarcity of crude petroleum.

A lady dropped dead yesterday morning at mass in the Roman Catholic Church at Lachine. A large congregation was present at the time, and they were immensely moved at the sad event.

PITON, Jan. 20.—The stone school house of School Section No. 11, Hollowell, was burned last night. The cause of the fire is unknown. The building was insured for $6,000.

The Toronto papers unite to oppose the franchise for farmer's sons but the whole of them are willing to have farmers pay taxes to the Toronto municipal treasury.

Magloire Blanchette, on trial for setting fire to St. Hyacinthe, was found guilty and sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary. Hugus Blanchette, the prisoner's brothers, who is also charged with incendiarism, testified most unwill-ingly that the accused asked him upon three occasions to set fire to the premises.

THERE ARE THOUSANDS OF MEN actually employed on the Lachine Canal improvements between Montreal, and the village of Lachine, and not a single officer of the law is placed on the whole line of works to protect the men in case of any disturbance or difficulty.

That petition of 800 names asking for the repeal of the Dunkin Act in Prince Edward, is said to have contained only 300 genuine signatures. Councillor Williams on the floor of the council chamber, said, "the petition handed in is, I notice, signed by parties who have been deceased some time, and other signatures are repeated several times."

Sweetsburg, Quebec, furnishes an example for landlords in Ontario counties, which have the Dunkin Bill. The Observer says: Our popular hosts, Messrs.
Lappin and Pickle, on their licenses being cancelled, at once got petitions for temperance licenses, and did not close their houses for a single day. Most of the hotel keepers in the county followed the same wise course and thereby showed themselves to be peaceful and law abiding citizens, and now we are fairly under King Temperance.

A HINT FOR COUNCILS Judge Leggett, of Essex, gave judgment on a Winsor by-law recently, quashing it. He held that for a by-law to be legally passed it was necessary to do it at a regular meeting of the Council, and have it engrossed, signed and sealed by the presiding officer and clerk, then and there, in presence of the whole Council. Otherwise, as His Honor said, there was noth-

NAPANEE MARKETS.

"EXPRESS OFFICE,"
Friday, Jan. 26th, '76.

Wheat—$1.05 to $1.10.
Barley—60 to 70c.
Oats—40c.
Rye—60c.
Peas—70c.
Eggs—16c. to 18c. per dozen.
Butter—18c. to 20c. per lb.
Cheese—10c. to 11c. per lb.
Onions—80c. to $1.00 per bushel.
Apples—50c. to 75c. per bag.
Potatoes—75c. to $1.00 per bushel.
Mutton—4c. to 6c. per lb.
Beef—$3 to $5 per 100.
Pork—$5 to $6 per 100.
Chickens—20c. to 30c. per pair.
Turkeys—50c. to $1.00 each.
Geese—30c. to 50c. each.
Hides—$4.50.
Lamb Skins—60c. to 70c.
Hay—$12 to $15 per ton.
Straw—$2 to $3 per load.
Hard Wood, Dry—$3 to $3.50.
Soft Wood—$2 to $2.50.

EPPOS COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.
—"By a thorough knowledge of the nature laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr.
Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a deliciously flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease.
Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal share by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."
Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in Packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & CO., Homoeopathic
Chemists, 48 Threadneedle Street, and 170
Piccadilly London." 43

THOMAS'S ELECTRIC OIL

Worth Ten Times its Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.

There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Thomas's ELECTRIC OIL purely a preparation of six of the best Oils known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combinations. Thus in the preparation of this Oil a chemical change takes place forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any combination or proportions of the same ingredients and entirely different from anything ever before made,
one which produces the most astonishing
results and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered. It contains no alcohol or other volatile liquids consequently loses nothing by evaporation. Where applied you get the benefit of every drop; whereas with other preparation nearly all the alcohol is lost in that way, and you get only the small quantity of Oils which they may contain.

S. N. THOMAS, PHLEPS, N. Y.
And NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto,
Ont. Sole Agents for the Dominion.
NOTE.—Electric—Selected and Electrized

Very Large Reductions,

FOR ONE MONTH ONLY,

—ON ALL—

Fancy Goods, Jewelry, Toys,
&c., &c.,

Which have been left over since the Holidays.

platform orators of the age. is no necessity for anything more the mere mention of his name red, to draw out a crowd.

pe you won't forget poor Spencer. st sacrifice goods at SPENCER'S.

IMPORTS. PORT OF NAPANEE.

7 Jan. 19th. — Per G. T. R. via Pres- J. Wilson, 1 tub; T. Jamieson, 1 via Kingston, Ferguson Bros, 2 bxs, 20th, — via Brockville, E. W. Jan, 2 castings; via Kingston, n & Ironside, Fbx; Rose & Fralick, via Coticooke, from Great Britain T. Grange, 18 puncheons bleaching er; via Prescott, Rev. A. McCann, 22nd, — per Post Office, S. E. 1 pa; per G. T. R., via Prescott, Hawley, 1 bx; via Coticooke Great Britain, J. T. Grange, 9 tons bleaching powder; via King- J. Siler 1 bx; G. H. Downey, 1 pa; it & Co. 1 pa; C. Vanhorn, 1 bx, 1 via Windsor, D. McMurchev, 1 pa. p Spencer. n't forget Spencer. lly damaged. SPENCER.

FIRE ENGINE CONTEST IN KINGSTON.

EVERYWEATHER SURPASSED IN THREE TESTS BY THE CHATHAM ENGINE.

lay afternoon last the final test of Chatham fire engine before complet- he purchase of it, took place on t Square in presence of the Mayor, ost of the Aldermen, and a large of spectators. The test was a thorough one, and has resulted in w steam showing herself to be at al, if not superior, in every re- to the Merryweather, thus achiev- triumph for home manufacture. g the spectators a good many prac- engineers were engaged in watch- Working of the two machines, and neral opinion of those competent g seemed to be that the Chatham is capable of doing all that is d for her.

o'clock. The two were started on terms, both having the fires built n, with cold water in the boilers. res were started at two sharp. The un engine was the first to move, gan to pump with 20 pounds pres- steam in seven minutes. The weather started in twelve minutes 0 pounds of steam, and the Chat- ing having the start of five minu- d by that time had on 80 pounds pressure, and pumping from the wo streams.

oon as possible after steam was on both engines, the first test took To each engine there were attach- branches of hose, 400 feet long, ving 1/2 inches nozzles. These 3 were used for a considerable and the result was in favour of the m engine by about ten feet. The nsisted of both horizontal and di- clular streams, and the result was the same in both cases.

second test was one stream through 700 feet of hose on each engine, inch nozzles. The hose was run ight line up Brock street, and the men stood on the crossing at King ock streets. This also resulted in of the Chatham engine by about

The nozzles were changed—the m engine taking that of the Merry- and vice versa, and the distance y each were nearly equal, but r own nozzle the Chatham engine v threw a greater distance by 20 et third test was the most difficult The steam consisted of one line of ar y 1,400 feet long, with 1 1/2 inch and here the Chatham engine herself the best by 25 feet. The achieved by the Chatham engine test was very nearly to the top of staff on the City Hall. The fol- lowing gave the steam and water looking hale and hearty. He has com- menced repairs on the Steamer Alexandria.

AVERAGE STEAM PRESSURE. Lbs.

ADOLPHUSTOWN

MR. EDITOR: I notice in the Beaver of the 6th inst., a note of some passing events of this place, given by "Observer," some of which are correct. Could it be possible that his eyes were blurred with pothee that day, or is it, "Old Sambo" waking up again, this time with the wool in his eyes, that he could not see all the im- provements going on in the place, when some of them are so near those he has mentioned. Just a little ways from Mr. Allison's new wharf, a small wharf is being built by J. J. Watson, Esq., for the accommodation of the little boats, (I am told,) which will be a great convenience indeed. And again, I think he has done the Ex-Receiver Mr. Watson, an injustice, when he says that the "zeal" for municipal honor is dying out here, for whois "he" that is "observing," and has not seen the closing remarks of Mr. Watson's address of 1875. "And although a little tired of office now, I do not think I should hesitate long when called to represent you again," don't that mean business when the time comes, and I think Mr. Watson means what he says. Yours.

FAIRPLAY.

BELLEVILLE.

There are three or four candidates for the wardenship.

Some of the engineers who struck on the Grand Trunk here have not yet resumed work.

It is stated that the whole police force will be dismissed and a thorough reorganization made.

A deputation from the Huron and Quebec Railway Company are expected to ask the Council to submit a by-law granting a bonus to that road.

DAIRMEN'S ASSOCIATION.—The annual convention of the Dairymen's Association of Ontario will be held here, commencing on the 14th of February, and the committee hope to make it both beneficial and interesting to dairymen and farmers generally. Addresses will be delivered by several eminent gentlemen, and a large attendance is anticipated. Any persons wishing to attend and become members, may obtain certificates by applying at once to the Secretary, Mr. J. C. Hegler, Ingersoll, on presentation of which, at the different railroad stations, they will be entitled, owing to special arrangements having been made with these companies, to tickets at one fare and a third, the double journey.—Ontario.

KINGSTON.

The Y. M. C. A., house warming at their new hall was a big affair.

On Thursday a convention will be held to select a Conservative candidate to contest the county for the vacancy created by the death of Mr. P. Graham. The writ was received this morning. The nomination has been fixed for Monday the 5th prox., and the polling for the 12th.

KINGSTON, Jan. 20.—The Conservatives of Frontenac met to-day to choose delegates to be present at a convention to be held of Thursday next and elect a candidate. Messrs William Murray and Thomas Dawson are still in the field as Independants. There was a lively personal discussion during and after the convention between two members.

MADOC

HURON AND QUEBEC R. R. BY-LAW.—MADOC, Jan. 20.—Major Boulton, Vice-President of the Huron and Quebec Railway, has been here for the past week getting petitions signed asking the County Council of Hastings to submit a group by-law to grant a bonus of $75,000 to the Huron and Quebec Railway. The fire to St. Hyacinthe, was found guilty and sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary. Hugus Blanchette, the prisoner's brother, who is also charged with incendiarism, testified most unwillingly that the accused asked him upon three occasions to set fire to the premises.

THERE ARE THOUSANDS OF MEN actually employed on the Lesclapier Canal improvements between Montreal, and the village of Lachine, and not a single officer of the law is placed on the whole line of works to protect the men in case of any disturbance or difficulty.

That petition of 800 names asking for the repeal of the Dunkin Act in Prince Edward, is said to have contained only 300 genuine signatures. Councillor Williams on the floor of the council chamber, said, "the petition handed in is, I notice, signed by parties who have been deceased some time, and other signatures are repeated several times."

Sweetsburg, Quebec, furnishes an ample for landlords in Ontario counties, which have the Dunkin Bill. The Observer says: Our popular hosts, Messrs. Lappin and Pickle, on their licenses being cancelled, at once got petitions for temperance licenses, and did not close their houses for a single day. Most of the hotel keepers in the county followed the same wise course and thereby showed themselves to be peaceful and law abiding citizens, and now we are fairly under King Temperance.

A HINT FOR COUNCILORS Judge Leggett, of Essex, gave judgment on a Windsor by-law recently, quashing it. He held that for a by-law to be legally passed it was necessary to do it at a regular meeting of the Council, and have it engrossed, signed and sealed by the presiding officer and clerk, then and there, in presence of the whole Council. Otherwise, as His Honor said, there was nothing to prevent the presiding officer or clerk making some change in it, if they were so inclined, and thereby to a great extent altering its conditions. The Judge quoted several authorities bearing upon the question, and in giving judgment severely criticised municipal councils generally, for the careless manner in which they transacted important business.

AMERICAN.

HUDSON, N. Y., Jan. 20.—N. B. Merry dropped dead at a prayer meeting in the Presbyterian Church while praying.

Franklin Allen, a grandson of Commodore Vanderbilt, is bankrupt, liabilities, $50,000; assets, $100.

Diamond & Sherwood,

SUCCESSORS TO

A. N. DIAMOND.

MR. DIAMOND having associated with him in his business, Mr. H. B. Sherwood, lately of Mill Point, is desirous of informing his patrons and the public, that the business hereafter, will be conducted under the co-partnership of

DIAMOND & SHERWOOD,

Who hereby solicit the patronage of all.

They will fulfill all guarantees of superior quality for all their goods, at the very lowest possible price; and in order to accomplish that purpose, have assumed a cash basis for all future business. And hereafter all transactions, either of purchase or sale, must be for Cash.

MR. A. N. DIAMOND,

In view of having entered into such co-partnership, is desirous of closing his old accounts, and respectfully requests all who judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is THOMAS, ECLECTIC OIL purely a preparation of six of the best Oils known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, in different combinations. Thus in the preparation of this Oil a chemical change takes place forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any combination or proportions of the same ingredients and entirely different from anything ever before made, one which produces the most astonishing results and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered. It contains no alcohol or other volatile liquids consequently loses nothing by evaporation. Where applied you get the benefit of every drop; whereas with other preparations nearly all the alcohol is lost in that way, and you get only the small quantity of Oils which they may contain.

S. N. THOMAS, PHILIPS, N. Y. And NORTHPROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont. Sole Agents for the Dominion. NOTE.—Eclectic—Selected and Electrized

Very Large Reductions,

FOR ONE MONTH ONLY,

ON ALL—

Fancy Goods, Jewelry, Toys, &c., &c.,

Which have been left over since the Holidays.

As I have determined to greatly reduce my stock in the above lines, I will,

FOR ONE MONTH ONLY,

AND FOR

CASH ONLY, Ce

Sell any of the following goods at, and in a few cases,

UNDER COST.

- Violins
- Guitars
- Accordeons
- Concertinas
- Flutes
- Fifes
- Work Boxes
- Writing Desks
- Boxes and Desks Combined
- Vases
- Toilet Sets
- Dressing Cases
- Jewel Cases
- Card Cases
- Land Baskets
- Writing Portfolios
- Stationery Cases
- Gold Pens, any size
- Gold Pencil Cases
- Lady's Companions
- Lady's and Gent's Purses
- Glove, Handkerchief and Collar Boxes
- Pocket Books
- Leather Belts
- Plated Jewelry
- Earrings and Brooches
- Plated Locketts
- Jet Sets
- Jet Earrings
- Jet Brooches
- Jet Necklets

claimed for her.

At 2 o'clock. The two were started on equal terms, both having the fires built in them, with cold water in the boilers. The fires were started at two sharp. The Chatham engine was the first to move, and began to pump with 20 pounds pressure of steam in seven minutes. The Merryweather started in twelve minutes with 20 pounds of steam, and the Chatham engine having the start of five minutes, and by that time had on 80 pounds steam pressure, and pumping from the start two streams.

As soon as possible after steam was got up on both engines, the first test took place. To each engine there were attached two branches of hose, 400 feet long, and having $\frac{1}{2}$ inches nozzles. These streams were used for a considerable time, and the result was in favour of the Chatham engine by about ten feet. The test consisted of both horizontal and perpendicular streams, and the result was about the same in both cases.

The second test was one stream through about 700 feet of hose on each engine, with $\frac{1}{4}$ inch nozzles. The hose was run in a straight line up Brock street, and the branchmen stood on the crossing at King and Brock streets. This also resulted in favour of the Chatham engine, by about 15 feet. The nozzles were changed—the Chatham engine taking that of the Merryweather and vice versa, and the distance thrown by each were nearly equal, but with her own nozzle the Chatham engine actually threw a greater distance by 20 or 25 feet.

The third test was the most difficult one. The steam consisted of one line of hose near $\frac{1}{4}$ inch long, with $\frac{1}{4}$ inch nozzles, and here the Chatham engine showed herself the best by 25 feet. The height achieved by the Chatham engine in this test was very nearly to the top of the flag-staff on the City Hall. The following is a record of the steam and water pressures.

AVERAGE STEAM PRESSURE.

Merryweather.....	Lbs.	125
Chatham Engine.....	55

AVERAGE WATER PRESSURE.

Chatham Engine.....	Lbs.	160
Merryweather.....	140

It was remarkable that with less pressure of water the Merryweather burst the hose three times and the Chatham engine not once, which is accounted for by the action of the pumps of the Chatham engine being regulated by a crank motion, and having a larger air chamber which gives a more even pressure of water—the water gauge of the Merryweather jumping 20 lbs. at each stroke of the pump, while there is no sudden movement of the Chatham engine's water gauge while pumping.

The test concluded about five o'clock, but occupying about three hours, during which time the engines both did more work than ever they will have to do at res.

The test of yesterday afternoon showed three things very clearly, viz., that the Chatham engine can get up steam quickly, throw water to a greater distance, and require less fuel than the Merryweather. Both engines started with an equal quantity of coal, and the Chatham engine was able to run for some seven minutes after the Merryweather had to stop for want of fuel. Those who were sceptical of the power of the home-made engine acknowledge that it has fairly beaten its rival.

The test was a most complete one, and the engineers got the most they could out of the engines. His Worship the Mayor being determined if the Chatham engine did not come up to the mark it could not be for want of a trial.

The above which we condense from the Daily News, speaks most decisively for the Canadian engine, one that stood by side at the great Centennial and did her own against the most celebrated American machines in which the very DAIRMEN'S ASSOCIATION.—The annual convention of the Dairymen's Association of Ontario will be held here, commencing on the 14th of February, and the committee hope to make it both beneficial and interesting to dairymen and farmers generally. Addresses will be delivered by several eminent gentlemen, and a large attendance is anticipated. Any persons wishing to attend and become members may obtain certificates by applying at once to the Secretary, Mr. J. C. Hegler, Ingersoll, on presentation of which, at the different railroad stations, they will be entitled, owing to special arrangements having been made with these companies, to tickets at one fare and a third, the double journey.—Ontario.

KINGSTON.

The Y. M. C. A., house warming at their new hall was a big affair.

On Thursday a convention will be held to select a Conservative candidate to contest the county for the vacancy created by the death of Mr. P. Graham. The writ was received this morning. The nomination has been fixed for Monday the 5th prox., and the polling for the 12th.

KINGSTON, Jan. 20.—The Conservatives of Frontenac met to-day to choose delegates to be present at a convention to be held of Thursday next and elect a candidate. Messrs William Murray and Thomas Dawson are still in the field as Independents. There was a lively personal discussion during and after the convention between two members.

MADOC.

HURON AND QUEBEC R. R. BY-LAW.—MADOC, Jan. 20.—Major Boulton, Vice-President of the Huron and Quebec Railway, has been here for the past week getting petitions signed asking the County Council of Hastings to submit a group by-law to grant a bonus of $75,000 to the Huron and Quebec Railway. The prospect of having that railway completed soon, gives general satisfaction and the by-law is likely to be carried by a large majority. It will be the means of thoroughly opening up for development one of the richest mineral districts in Ontario.

OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Jan. 21.—Mr. Hugh Sutherland, Inspector of Public Works, Fort Garry is in town.

Edward Hawkins was to-day committed for trial for throwing cayenne pepper into Thomas A. Beckett's eyes.

The assessors have raised a man's taxes in that city $8000 as compared with last year.

A woman, was the cause of a quarrel between two gentlemen of Ottawa in which hard blows were struck, and the police wound up the affair in court.

A bed of Kaolin china clay, used for porcelain manufacture, has been discovered by Mr. W. L. Holland, several miles north of this city, but it is in a position which renders it inaccessible at present. The clay is fine, but the surface is impregnated with oxide of iron.

There is considerable excitement yet over the Hull mystery. The statement of the butcher is not credited, and this afternoon men are engaged in drawing the water out of the slide pond. The prisoners are still in custody. The Hull authorities, however, are not taking as active steps as they should to unravel the mystery.

There is also good reason to believe that a vein of silver four feet in width was discovered some time ago in the Gatineau district by a habitant who was unaware of its value. Nothing can be done with it until spring, as the snow is so deep that the land-marks showing the location of the lode are covered. The specimens of ore which have been brought from it are exceedingly rich.

very criticised municipal councils generally, for the careless manner in which they transacted important business.

AMERICAN.

HUDSON, N. Y., Jan. 20.—N. B. Merry dropped dead at a prayer meeting in the Presbyterian Church while praying.

Franklin Allen, a grandson of Commodore Vanderbilt, is bankrupt, liabilities, $50,000; assets, $100.

Diamond & Sherwood,

SUCCESSORS TO

A. N. DIAMOND.

MR. DIAMOND having associated with him in his business, Mr. H. B. Sherwood, lately of Mill Point, is desirous of informing his patrons and the public, that the business hereafter, will be conducted under the co-partnership of

DIAMOND & SHERWOOD,

Who hereby solicit the patronage of all.

They will fulfill all guarantees of superior quality for all their goods, at the very lowest possible price; and in order to accomplish that purpose, have assumed a cash basis for all future business. And hereafter all transactions, either of purchase or sale, must be for Cash.

MR. A. N. DIAMOND,

In view of having entered into such co-partnership, is desirous of closing his old accounts, and respectfully requests all who are indebted to the late concern, to call and settle their accounts, for which purpose the accounts have all been adjusted. All accounts appearing on the books must be closed by

FEBRUARY 1st, 1877.

43-4.

Wanted to Purchase

A BRICK DWELLING HOUSE,

In a central location in the Town of Napanee. Half interest in the Schooner "Dominion", to be taken in part payment thereof. Address.

H. B. SHERWOOD,
Napanee.

43-2

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT,
OTTAWA, January 5, 1877.

AUTHORIZED DISCOUNT ON AMERICAN INVOICES until further notice: 6 per cent.
J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

43-1

FOR CHEAP

GROCERIES,

CROCKERY &

GLASSWARE,

GO TO

GEORGE REID'S

NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE.

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

AND FOR

CASH ONLY,

Sell any of the following goods at, and in a few cases,

UNDER COST.

Violins
Guitars
Accordions
Concertinas
Flutes
Pipes
Work Boxes
Writing Desks
Boxes and Desks Combined
Vases

Toilet Sets
Dressing Cases
Jewel Cases
Card Cases
Card Baskets
Writing Portfolios
Stationery Cases

Gold Pens, any size
Gold Pencil Cases
Lady's Companions
Lady's and Gent's Purses
Glove, Handkerchief and Collar Boxes
Pocket Books
Leather Belts
Plated Jewelry

Earrings and Brooches
Plated Lockets
Jet Sets
Jet Earrings
Jet Brooches
Jet Necklets
Jet Lockets

Jet Bracelets
Cuff Buttons
Gent's Suites
Shirt Studs
Collar Buttons
Opera Glasses
Match Stands
Cigar Cases
Framed Chromos

Unframed Chromos
Lithographs
Dolls, Wax and China
Walking Canes
Drums
Boys Sleighs
&c., &c., &c.

Remember this Sale will be

For One Month Only,

IS A

GENUINE CHEAP SALE.

JOHN HENDERSON,
Dundas Street, Napanee.

GOOD ADVERTISING!

$3,250.40 worth of space in various newspapers distributed through thirty States, will be sold for $700 cash. Accurate insertions guaranteed. A list of papers giving daily and weekly circulation and printed schedule of rates, sent free on application to GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Newspaper Advertising Agents, No. 41 Park Row, New York.

34-1y.

MONTREAL.

de in Montreal dull almost to tion.

TREAL, Jan. 20.—Three hundred rs, employed on No. 4 section La-Canal, struck this morning and re-to work again unless paid their weekly. They refuse to allow men to take their places, and on vengeance.

TREAL, Jan. 22.—On Saturday
a wealthy farmer, aged about 60 ed to be a Phillip Shevelin, of St. s, was killed by a M. O. O. train.
as on his way to market with a and sleigh, and fell into a dead leaving his horse to make his way
The animal mistook the track for ad, leading into the city, and when in came along, the horse and driver killed.

CANADIAN

hes line thieves getting quite ous in the towns and villages of
o.

poor of Hamilton are employed in ing and breaking stone for the umber of the smaller oil refineries don East have been closed down, to the scarcity of crude petroleum.

dy dropped dead yesterday morn-t mass in the Roman Catholic h at Lachine. A large congrega-as present at the time, and they mnensely moved at the sad event.

ron, Jan. 20.—The stone school of School Section No. 11, Hallowell, rned last night. The cause of the unknown. The building was infor $6,000.

Toronto papers unite to oppose anchise for farmer's sons but the of them are willing to have farmers axes to the Toronto municipal ry.

loire Blanchette, on trial for setting
St. Hyacinthe, was found guilty entenced to seven years in the ntiary. Hugus Blanchette, the er's brothers, who is also charged ecendarism, testified most unwillthat the accused asked him upon ccasions to set fire to the premises.

RE ARE THOUSANDS OF MEN actual-loyed on the Lachine Canal incidents between Montreal, and the of Lachine, and not a single officer law is placed on the whole line of to protect the men in case of any ance or difficulty.

petition of 800 names asking for eal of the Dunkin Act in Prince d, it said to have contained only enuine signatures. Conneillors on the floor of the council chamins, "the petition handed in is, I signed by parties who have been ed some time, and other signatures eated several times."

atsburg, Quebec, furnishes an ex-for landlorders in Ontario counties, have the Dunkin Bill. The er says: Our popular hosts, Messrs.
and Pickle, on their licenses be-ecelled, at once got petitions for ance licenses, and did not close ouses for a single day. Most of el keepers in the county followed re wise course and thereby showed lves to be peaceful and law abiding s, and now we are fairly under temperance.

INT FOR COUNCILS Judge Leg-Essex, give judgment on a Wind-law recently, quashing it. He at for a by-law to be legally pass-as necessary to do it at a regular of the Council, and have it en-l, signed and sealed by the presidcor and clerk, then and there, in ce of the whole Council. Others His Honor said, there was noth-prevent the presiding officer or aking some chance in it. if they

NAPANEE MARKETS.

"EXPRESS OFFICE,
Friday, Jan. 26th, '76.

Wheat—$1.05 to $1.10.
Barley—60 to 70c.
Oats—40c.
Rye—60c.
Feas—70c.
Eggs—16c. to 18c. per dozen.
Butter—18c. to 20c. per lb.
Cheese—10c. to 11c. per lb.
Onions—80c. to $1.00 per bushel.
Apples—50c. to 75c. per bag.
Potatoes—75c. to $1.00 per bushel.
Mutton—4c. to 6c. per lb.
Beef—$3 to $5 per 100.
Pork—$5 to $6 per 100.
Chickens—20c. to 30c. per pair.
Turkeys—50c. to $1.00 each.
Geese—30c. to 50c. each.
Hides—$4.50.
Lamb Skins—60c. to 70c.
Hay—$12 to $15 per ton.
Straw—$2 to $3 per load.
Hard Wood, Dry—$8 to $3.50.
Soft Wood—$2 to $2.50.

EPPS' COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.
"By a thorough knowledge of the nature
laws which govern the operations of digestion
and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr.
Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease.
Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shock by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."
Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in Packs labelled—"JAMES EPPS & CO. Homeopathic
Chemists, 48 Threadneedle Street, and 170
Piccadilly London." 43

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL
Worth Ten Times its Weight in Gold. Do you know anything of it? If not, it is time you did.

There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Thomas' ECLECTRIC OIL purely a preparation of six of the best Oils known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power and
producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combinations. Thus in the preparation of this Oil a chemical change
takes place forming a compound which could not be by any possibility be made from any combination or proportions of
the same ingredients and entirely different from anything ever before made,
one which produces the most astonishing
results and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered. It contains no alcohol or other volatile liquids consequently loses
nothing by evaporation. Where applied
you get the benefit of every drop; whereas
with other preparation nearly all the alcohol is lost in that way, and you get only the small quantity of Oils which
they may contain.

S. N. THOMAS, PHELPS, N. Y.
And NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto,
Ont. Sole Agents for the Dominion.
NOTE.—Eclectic—Selected and Electrized

Very Large Reductions,

FOR ONE MONTH ONLY,

—ON ALL—

Fancy Goods, Jewelry, Toys,
&c., &c.,

Which have been left over since the Holidays.

FIRE!!

FIRE!!

FIRE!!!

A. C. Davis & Bro.,

Beg to announce that in consequence of their premises being smoked by the

LATE FIRE IN CENTRE BLOCK,

They have decided upon clearing out the balance of their stock

REGARDLESS OF COST.

Our Great Cost Clearing Sale

Has reduced our stock very much, but we have still some lines of goods which we are offering at an immense sacrifice, viz.

WINEYS.

FLANNELS,

DRESS GOODS,

CARPETS,

OIL CLOTHS,

FUR CAPS, &c.

TAILORING DEPARTMENT.

OVERCOATING TWEEDS, IN SCOTCH, ENGLISH & CANADIAN,

MADE UP IN SUITS AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

TERMS CASH.

A. C. DAVIS & BRO.

Hardware & Everybody,

AT THE SIGN OF THE

GOLDEN AUGER.

Platform and Counter Scales Inspected and Stamped, Ready for Use.

RALPH PURDY.

Napanee, Jan. 26th, 1877.

44.

FINE WATCHES,

ELGIN WATCHES

GOLD &

SILVER,

is placed on the whole line of of rotate the men in case of any or difficulty.

ition of 800 names asking for of the Dunkin Act in Prince said to have containd only ne signatures. Conncillor n the floor of the council chain-the petition handed in is, I ted by parties who have been one time, and other signatures d several times."

urg, Quebec, furnishes an ex andlords in Ontario counties, e the Dunkin Bill. The ys: Our popular hosts, Messrs.
 Pickle, on their licenses bed, at once got petitions for a licenser, and did not close for a single day. Most of eopers in the county followed ise course and thereby showed to be peaceful and law abiding nd now we are fairly under of peace,

FOR COUNCILS Judge Leg-ex, give judgment on a Wind-recently, quashing it. He or a by-law to be legally pas-necessary to do it at a regular the Council, and have it engned and sealed by the presid-nd clerk, then and there, in the whole Council. Others Honor said, there was nothent the presiding officer or ag some change in it, if they lined, and thereby to a great ing its conditions. The Judge ral authorities bearing upon , and in giving judgment sesised municipal councils gene-e careless manner in which sted important business.

AMERICAN.

N. Y., Jan. 20. — N. B.
 ped dead at a prayer meeting
 yterian Church while praying.
 Allen, a grandson of Commo-rbilt, is bankrupt. Liabilities, sets, $100.

nd & Sherwood,

CGESSORS TO

. DIAMOND.

MOND having associated with his business, Mr. H. B. Sher-of Mill Point, is desirous of in-patrons and the public, that hereafter, will be conducted partnership of

ND & SHERWOOD,

solicit the patronage of all.

fulfill all guarantees of superi-all their goods, at the very le price; and in order to accom-pish, have assumed a cash uture business. And hereafter ns, either of purchase or sale, ash.

A. N. DIAMOND,

ving entered into such co-is desirous of closing his old l respectfully requests all who to the late concern, to call and accounts, for which purpose the e all been adjusted. All accing on the books must be

JUARY 1st, 1877.

43-4.

to Purchase

takes place forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any combination or proportions of the same ingredients and entirely diferent from anything ever before made,
 one which produces the most astonishing
 results and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered. It contains no alcohol or other volatile liquids consequently loses
 nothing by evaporation. Where applied
 you get the benefit of every drop; whereas
 with other preparation nearly all the alcohol is lost in that way, and you get only the small quantity of Oils which
 they may contain.

S. N. THOMAS, PHLEPS, N. Y.
 And NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto,
 Ont. Sole Agents for the Dominion.
 NOTE.—Eclectic—Selected and Electrized

Very Large Reductions,

FOR ONE MONTH ONLY,

—ON ALL—

Fancy Goods, Jewelry, Toys,
&c., &c.,

Which have been left over since the Holidays.

As I have determined to greatly reduce my stock in the above lines, I will,

FOR ONE MONTH ONLY,

AND FOR

CASH ONLY,

Sell any of the following goods at, and in a few cases,

UNDER COST.

Violins
 Guitars
 Accordions
 Concertinas
 Flutes
 Pipes
 Work Boxes,
 Writing Desks
 Boxes and Desks Combined
 Vases
 Toilet Sets
 Dressing Cases
 Jewel Cases
 Card Cases
 Card Baskets
 Writing Portfolios
 Stationery Cases
 Gold Pens, any size
 Gold Pencil Cases
 Lady's Companions
 Lady's and Gent's Purses
 Glove, Handkerchief and Collar Boxes
 Pocket Books
 Leather Belts
 Plated Jewelry
 Earrings and Brooches
 Plated Lockets
 Jet Sets
 Jet Earrings
 Jet Brooches
 Jet Necklets
 Jet Lockets
 Jet Bracelets
 Cuff Buttons
 Gent's Suites
 Shirt Studs
 Collar Buttons
 Opera Glasses
 Match Stands

GOLDEN ROOPLY.

Platform and Counter Scales Inspected and Stamped, Ready for Use.

RALPH PURDY.

Napanee, Jan. 26th, 1877. 44.

FINE WATCHES,

GOLD &

ELGIN WATCHES

SILVER,

BY THE MOST

Celebrated Makers

ENGLISH,
 AMERICAN, &
 GENEVA.

SILVER WARE

GOLD CHAINS, BROOCHES,
 SETS.
 DIAMOND
 AND OTHER GEM RINGS.
 MARBLE AND CILY
 CLOCKS, &c
 SPECTACLES.

CHINNECK, Napanee.

CEDAR RAILS.

N EAR the old Camp Ground, the Subscriber has a large lot of Excellent Rails for Sale.
 MITCHELL NEVILLE.
 Napanee, Dec. 11th, 1876. 39-4.

REMOVED.

Mrs. Jackson

Begs to inform the public that she has removed from the premises formerly occupied by her, and will now be found in the rooms above
 SYMINGTON'S FLOUR STORE,
 and opposite Grange's Drug Store, where she is still prepared to do all kinds of hair work, such as

SWITCHES,
 PUFFS,
 BRAIDS,
 CURLS, &

SWITCHES DYED ON SHORT NOTICE.

ALL WORK DONE SATISFACTORILY.

Roots of combings all turned one way. Instructions given in the art on reasonable terms. Highest price paid for human hair.

SWITCHES FOR SALE

STOVES, HRAWARE, TINWARE
 MILL POINT.

COOKING.

T. T. T.

See our New Stock of Teas,

NEW SEASON

1877,

GREAT STRENGTH AND FINE FLAVOR,

TRY THEM!! BUY THEM!!

A LARGE STOCK OF

AMERICAN.
 J. B. Y. Jan. 20. — N. B. y dropped dead at a prayer meeting e Presbyterian Church while praying. anklin Allen, a grandson of Commo- Vanderbilt, is bankrupt. Liabilities, 00; assets, $100.

iamond & Sherwood,
SUCCESSORS TO
J. N. DIAMOND.

J. N. DIAMOND having associated with him in his business, Mr. H. B. Sher- lately of Mill Point, is desirous of in- g his patrons and the public, that isness hereafter, will be conducted the co-partnership of hereby solicit the patronage of all. y will fulfill all guarantees of superi- dity for all their goods, at the very : possible price; and in order to accom- hat purpose, have assumed a cash or all future business. And hereafter nsactions, either of purchase or sale, be for Cash.

AMOND & SHERWOOD,

MR. A. N. DIAMOND,
 wofhaving entered into such cor- ship, is desirous of closing his old ts, and respectfully requests all who bted to the late concern, to call and their accounts, for which purpose the ts have all been adjusted. All ac- appearing on the books must be by FEBRUARY 1st, 1877.

 43-4.
nted to Purchase
BRICK DWELLING HOUSE,
 ntral location in the Town of Nap- Half interest in the Schooner "Do- ", to be taken in part payment there- dness.
 H. B. SHERWOOD,
 Napanee.

 CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.
 OTTAWA, January 3, 1877.
 HORIZED Discount on AMERICAN IN- ces until further notice: 6 per cent.
 J. JOHNSON,
 Commissioner of Customs.

OR CHEAP
CERIES,
CROCKERY &
GLASSWARE,
 GO TO:
ORGE REID'S DOOR TO POST OFFICE.
 NDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

See any of the following goods at, and in a few cases,

- UNDER COST.
- Violins
 - Guitars
 - Accordions
 - Concertinas
 - Flutes
 - Pipes
 - Work Boxes
 - Writing Desks
 - Boxes and Desks Combined
 - Vases
 - Toilet Sets
 - Dressing Cases
 - Jewel Cases
 - Card Cases
 - Card Baskets
 - Writing Portfolios
 - Stationery Cases
 - Gold Pens, any size
 - Gold Pencil Cases
 - Lady's Companions
 - Lady's and Gent's Purses
 - Glove, Handkerchief and Collar Boxes
 - Pocket Books
 - Leather Belts
 - Plated Jewelry
 - Earrings and Brooches
 - Plated Lockets
 - Jet Sets
 - Jet Earrings
 - Jet Brooches
 - Jet Necklets
 - Jet Lockets
 - Jet Bracelets
 - Cuff Buttons
 - Gent's Suites
 - Shirt Studs
 - Collar Buttons
 - Opera Glasses
 - Match Stands
 - Cigar Cases
 - Framed Chromos
 - Unframed Chromos
 - Lithographs
 - Dolls, Wax and China
 - Walking Canes
 - Drums
 - Boys Sleighs
 - &c., &c., &c.

Remember this Sale will be
For One Month Only,
 IS A
GENUINE CHEAP SALE.
JOHN HENDERSON,
 Dundas Street, Napanee.

GOOD ADVERTISING!
 $3,250.40 worth of space in various newspapers distributed through thirty States, will be sold for $700 cash. Accurate insertions guaranteed. A list of papers giving daily and weekly circulation and printed schedule of rates, sent free on application to GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Newspaper Advertising Agents, No. 41 Park Row, New York.
 34-1y.

ENGLISH,
 AMERICAN, &
 GENEVA.
SILVER WARE

CEDAR RAILS.
 NEAR the old Camp Ground, the Sub- scriber has a large lot of Excellent Rails for Sale.
 MITCHELL NEVILLE.
 Napanee, Dec. 11th, 1876. 39-E

REMOVED.
Mrs. Jackson
 Begs to inform the public that she has remov- ed from the premises formerly occupied by her, and will now be found in the rooms above
SYMINGTON'S FLOUR STORE, and opposite Grange's Drug Store, where she is still prepared to do all kinds of hair work, such as SWITCHES,
 PUFFS,
 BRAIDS,
 CURLS, &
 SWITCHES DYED ON SHORT NOTICE.
 ALL WORK DONE SATISFACTORILY.
 Roots of combings all turned one way. In- structions given in the art on reasonable terms. Highest price paid for human hair.

SWITCHES FOR SALE
STOVES, HARDWARE, TINWARE
MILL POINT.
COOKING,
PARLOUR,
BOX & HALL STOVES
 FOR WOOD AND COAL.
DUMB STOVES, PAINTS, BOILED AND RAW PAINT, OILS MACHINE OILS, COAL OIL,
LAMPS & LAMP TRIMMINGS
GLASS OF ALL SIZES, PUTTY,
CUTLERY,
FANCY GOODS & SMALL WARES
 SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN TO EAVETROUGHING, BELL-HANG ING, & GENERAL JOBBING.
 A SPLENDID VARIETY OF HALL & PARLOR COAL STOVES BASE-BURNERS, WHICH WILL BE SOLD AT COST PRICE.
 D. McRAE & SON.
 Jan. 12th, 1876.

"HOW"
 To restore health and strength to feeble is a question often asked,
PHOSPHORUS
 Is one of the most active elements of the body. It is wanting, disease creeps in beginning with Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Weakness, Neuralgia, Sore Throat, Bronchitis. Phosphozone has cured many cases of above, when all other remedies have failed. Sold by DETLOR & SCOTT,
 Napanee.

DIAMNOD
 AND OTHER GEM RINGS.
MARBLE AND GILT
 CLOCKS, &c
SPECTACLES.

T. T. T.
 See our New Stock of Teas,
NEW SEASON
 1877,
 GREAT STRENGTH AND FINE FLAVOR,
 TRY THEM!! BUY THEM!!

A LARGE STOCK OF Choice Family Groceries,
 NEW AND FRESH, JUST TO HAND.
 Brisco Block, opposite Boyle & Wright.
SMITH & ANDERSON.

Wanted to buy
 A HOUSE AND LOT IN NAPANEE, Address "Z," Tamworth P. O.
 40 8 m.

ROBERT JACK, BUTCHER,
 —AND—
GENERAL DEALER IN POULTRY,
 MAIN STREET,
MILL POINT.
 38-ly.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

UNAired ROOMS.

I passed some houses in every town whose windows might as well be sealed with the walls for any purpose they have but to let in the light. They are never open summer and winter. In the winter it is cold; in the summer the flies get in, or, if netted, the dust sifts through the nets. Now I can tell a person who inhabits such chambers, when I see him in the street—there is such a smell about his clothing I always wish for a sniff of cologne or hartshorn, or burnt leather, or something of this sort to take the taste out. A house that is never aired has every nook and corner filled with stale odors of cooked meat, boiled vegetables, especially cabbage and onions, which, as the weeks go by, literally reek in their hiding places. The very garments of the children tell the same story of uncleanness. It is bad to have unwashed clothes, but there may be an excuse for it. But what excuse can there be for unaired ones, when air is so cheap and free? There is death in such unaired chambers. Better a swarm of flies or a cloud of dust; better frost or snow in a room than these intolerable smells. The first thing in the morning when you are ready to go down stairs, throw open your windows, tear apart the clothing of your beds, and let the air blow through it as hard as it will. There is health in such a policy.

WOOD-SHEDS.

Any farmer who has not a good woodshed makes a big mistake if he does not erect one at once. This winter the whole supply of wood can be cut to the proper length for burning, and piled under the woodshed, where it will season and be ready for use all summer. It will be dry and there will be no complaint from the women folks. The men will not have to get up early to chop firewood or if they come in from the harvest field they have not got to cut firewood before the day's work is over.

Again, if a rainy or snowy day comes, or several of them, they can be utilized, as the hired men can saw or chop and pile away the firewood. The woodshed is also a good place for rasping tools, making implements and fixing up things in general in rainy weather. Indeed there should be a work-shop in connection with every woodshed, where a full kit of carpenter's tools are kept for use, ready for any emergency; and a portable forge might be put in it to make and repair iron work, and thus save blacksmith bills.—Rural World.

GATHER PURE ICE.

An exchange admonishes its readers not to trust in the exploded theory that ice, formed from salt or impure water, is absolutely pure, and cites the case of a recent occurrence where the inmates of a hotel at Rye Beach were attacked by an epidemic of fever and diarrhoea, which was subsequently traced to the ice used in the establishment. This ice was collected from a pond, the outlet to which had become closed, and which was the receptacle of mud and sawdust from sawmills up the stream, with which it was connected. The ice was found to contain vegetable impurities, and when its use was abandoned the sickness disappeared.

Those who are storing and these who are consuming ice will do well to look well to the source whence their supplies are obtained. It should be remembered that ice made from water which is unfit to drink, is not fit to be used for cooking purposes, except it be used outside of vessels containing articles to be cooled.—Rural Home.

TEA VS. ALCOHOL.

Ex-Surgeon-General Francis, of the

VARIOUS ITEMS.

Scarlet fever is very prevalent in different portions of Ontario at present.

The Belleville police difficulty has been settled. Petrie is "big Injun."

In the Ontario Legislature on the 10th inst., 98 petitions were presented in favor of Orange Incorporation.

The Bill for the incorporation of Belleville as a city was read a first time in the Legislature on the 17th.

The Ultramontanes in Montreal are busy just now writing down Free Masons as a body of very bad men.

The ice-harvesters who are on strike on the Hudson, are compelling the men engaged at the ice-houses to quit work.

During three months of this year the British railways have killed 264 persons and injured 1,166 others.

A large wild cat was trapped in North Ridge the other day. Numbers of these animals are being shot in the different portions of Western Ontario.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Rear Admiral Jose Smith, the oldest officer in the U. S. Navy, died here this morning. He was born in 1790.

HEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 17.—Thousands of lives snakes from twelve to eighteen inches long fell here during the heavy rain yesterday.

A citizen of Clark County, Ky., last week killed a pig which had no liver. The animal was in good condition and weighed 800 lbs.

The family-tree of a Texan family shows a branch on which several members have been hung for borrowing horses.

His hair was over the average length, and he wanted to know where curling was done. So some one sent him down to the Curling Rink.

"Did you do nothing to resuscitate the body?" was recently asked of a witness at a coroner's inquest. "Yes, sir; we searched the pockets," was the reply.

COMMITTED.—A man named Edward Long, charged with attempting to shoot George Mackie, of the Queen's Hotel, Port Hope, has been committed for trial.

INJURED HIS EIGHT.—Frank Hilliard, a pupil in one of the Peterboro' schools, was hit with a pen in the eye. It is now said that he will lose his sight.

BRANT and Oxford Counties have both pronounced in favor of the Dunkin Act, the former by 314 and the latter by 302 majorities.

Some Montreal Policemen were frightened from doing their duty in arresting thieves, who were at work in a grocery shop, by having a bottle of Ketchup thrown at them by the burglars.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 17.—Howe's London circus was levied on here to-day under attachment of the United States. The circus and menagerie are now in charge of the Sheriff, and will be sold on the 29th.

The Brockville Recorder goes so far in praising a local speculator as to say that a man who can advertise for 20,000 bass-wood saw logs, is worth more than a score of banks.

Much destitution exists among negroes in South Carolina, as planters are without the means of resuming work, owing to the refusal of merchants to advance funds during the present state of uncertainty.

A GENUINE DEAD BEAT.—A special from Montreal says: A man giving the name of Marten, from Brockville, is going around here soliciting aid for farmers in Olden township, Frontenac Co., who, he says, are starving because of bad crops and grasshoppers. He has no satisfactory

NAPANEE I GREAT COST SALE

"CHEAPSIDE."

WE DO NOT INTEND GOING TO CHICAGO OR ELSEWHERE but as a means of self defence, in order to hold our trade together, and our share of what business is going, we are now offering our

WHOLE STOCK AT COST

This is a rare chance for intending purchasers, especially so in these times when cash is so scarce, as our Stock is all fresh and Seasonable, with inducements unsurpassed if equalled by any other house in Toronto.

WE WISH IT DISTINCTLY UNDERSTOOD, THAT THIS

No Sham, but a Genuine Cost Sale

Now is the time to get your choice of one of the Largest Stocks of Carpets in Town, at

What is so pretty and useful as a NICE SET OF FURS for a Christmas? We have also the Largest Stock of these goods in Town all going at Cost. Also

MILLINERY AT COST.

MANTLES AT COST.

SHAWLS AT COST.

CLOUDS AT COST.

MUFFLERS AT COST.

DRESS GOODS, (a Very Large Stock) ALL BLACK SILKS, (bought before the late advance) AT COST.

SILK VELVETS AT COST.

CLOTHS AND TWEEDS AT COST.

BEAVER OVER-COATINGS AT COST.

FLANNELS (Plain and Fancy) AT COST.

PRINTS AND WINEYS AT COST.

FRENCH MERINOS AT COST.

GLOVES AND HOSIERY AT COST.

LADIES' AND GENTS' UNDERCLOTHING AT COST.

COTTONS, LOOMS, TICKINGS, &c., AT COST.

The above Stock was well bought, and the Goods were extra good the regular prices, and it will be to the advantage of every purchaser early and see our Stock before going elsewhere.

All Goods Disposed of during this Sale, Must be Strictly

E. HOOPER & SON

NEW FALL GOODS

IN

pile away the firewood. The wood-shed is also a good place for rasping tools, making implements and fixing up things in general in rainy weather. Indeed there should be a work-shop in connection with every wood-shed, where a full kit of carpenter's tools are kept for use, ready for any emergency; and a portable forge might be put in it to make and repair iron work, and thus save blacksmith bills.—Rural World.

GATHER PURE ICE.

An exchange admonishes its readers not to trust in the exploded theory that ice, formed from salt or impure water, is absolutely pure, and cites the case of a recent occurrence where the inmates of a hotel at Rye Beach were attacked by an epidemic of fever and diarrhoea, which was subsequently traced to the ice used in the establishment. This ice was collected from a pond, the outlet to which had become closed, and which was the receptacle of mud and sawdust from saw-mills up the stream, with which it was connected. The ice was found to contain vegetable impurities, and when its use was abandoned, the sickness disappeared.

Those who are storing and those who are consuming ice will do well to look well to the source whence their supplies are obtained. It should be remembered that ice made from water which is unfit to drink, is not fit to be used for cooking purposes, except it be used outside of vessels containing articles to be cooled.—Rural Home.

TEA VS. ALCOHOL.

Ex-Surgeon-General Francis, of the British army in India, writes thus warmly in favor of cold tea as superior to any alcoholic or malt beverage, when sustained physical vigor is requisite:—"A few years ago I accompanied a well known Nimrod on a tiger shooting expedition. My friend, a man of keen nervous temperament and in excellent health, had been recommended always to drink bitter beer twice a day. I drank nothing but cold tea throughout our trip. Every evening, shortly after dinner, my companion turned in quite exhausted, while I read or wrote till midnight, rising at five quite fresh. I could adduce from my own experience, extending over many years in a tropical climate, several other witnesses. Tea is not followed by the depression which, as a rule, succeeds in the case of alcoholic stimulants."

WHY DO ANIMALS NEED SALT?

Prof. James Johnston, of Scotland, says:—Upward of half the saline matter of blood (57 per cent.) consists of common salt, and this is partly discharged every day through the skin and kidneys, so that the necessity of continued supplies of it to the healthy body becomes sufficiently obvious. The bile also contained soda (one of the ingredients of salt as a special constituent,) and so do all cartilages of the body. Stint the supply of salt, therefore, and neither will the bile be able properly to assist digestion nor the cartilages to build up again fast as they naturally waste. It is better to place salt, where stock can have free access to it than to give it occasionally in large quantities. They will help themselves to what they need if not allowed to do so at pleasure; otherwise, when they become "salt hungry," they may take more than is wholesome.

WATERING HORSES.

"A Horse Lover" urges in the Times the necessity of watering horses sufficiently. "For 20 years," he says "we have kept in our stables an average of 10 horses. We have never known a day's illness among them. Several are over 30 years of age and capable of any amount of work. We attribute this entirely to my daily visit to the stable, when I always find either a trough or pail full of water within reach of each horse. By this means I know that at least once a day they are able fully to quench their thirst. I never had dealings with a coachman who refused to let his

COMMITTED.—A man named Edward Long, charged with attempting to shoot George Mackie, of the Queen's Hotel, Port Hope, has been committed for trial.

INJURED HIS EYE.—Frank Hilliard, a pupil in one of the Peterboro' schools, was hit with a pen in the eye. It is now said that he will lose his sight.

BRANT and Oxford Counties have both pronounced in favor of the Dunkin' Act, the former by 314 and the latter by 302 majorities.

Some Montreal Policemen were frightened from doing their duty in arresting thieves, who were at work in a grocery shop, by having a bottle of Ketchup thrown at them by the burglars.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 17.—Howe's London circus was levied on here to-day under attachment of the United States. The circus and menagerie are now in charge of the Sheriff, and will be sold on the 29th.

The Brookville Recorder goes so far in praising a local speculator as to say that a man who can advertise for 20,000 bass-wood saw logs, is worth more than a score of banks.

Much destitution exists among negroes in South Carolina, as planters are without the means of resuming work, owing to the refusal of merchants to advance funds during the present state of uncertainty.

A GENUINE DEAD BEAT.—A special from Montreal says: A man giving the name of Marten, from Brockville, is going around here soliciting aid for farmers in Olden township, Frontenac Co., who, he says, are starving because of bad crops and grasshoppers. He has no satisfactory credentials.

LOOK OUT FOR THEM.—Three card monte men are now said to be playing their avocation on the G. T. R. Those who avoid these worthies will find it beneficial to their interests to do so, as nothing is to be gained by coming in contact with such persons.

Henry Ward Beecher and Theodore Tilton lunched at the same counter in the depot dining rooms at Utica, Wednesday noon, but did not recognize each other. Both were journeying westward, Beecher to speak on "The Ministry of Wealth" as Rome, and Tilton to solve "The Problem of Life" at Oneida.

Fun (snow-shovellers):—Tom—"Hulloa, Bill, how's your mate Jack?" Bill—"Oh, 'e's dead, poor old Jack is through catchin' a cold a sweepin' up the snow." Tom—"Poor chap, hi am sorry. Ah well! 'e won't 'ave to sweep up no snow where 'e's gone to."

Mr. Holly, the pump inventor, will soon attempt to heat the whole city of Lockport with steam. The city is to be divided into districts, and each to have its separate boiler. Mains from each boiler are to run to the different houses, and all the occupant has to do is to turn on a faucet and obtain all the heat he wants.

FOREST FIRES.—In the discussion of the subject the parties most interested (the lumbermen), seem to know full well how these dreadful fires originate, which as they say, is the result of gross carelessness on the part of our working people in their ordinary avocations in the woods, such as driving along the tributaries, and in exploring the woods looking up timber, leaving smouldering fires behind them.

Among the replies to an advertisement of a music committee for "a candidate as organist, music teacher," etc., was the following:—"Gentlemen, I noticed your advertisement for an organist and music teacher, either lady or gentleman. Having been both for several years, I offer you my services."

THE HAMILTON Times says:—Judging from the tone of our exchanges, it is the Tory press that is the most bitter in its opposition to the Dunkin' Act, being enforced in any part of Ontario. When, however, they attack that measure as tyrannical and unjust, let them bear in mind that Mr. Dunkin, who framed the Act, was a member of Sir John's Tory Government.

What is so pretty and useful as a NICE SET OF FURS for a Christmas sent? We have also the Largest Stock of these goods in Town, all going at Cost. Also

MILLINERY AT COST.

MAN'LES AT COST.

SHAWLS AT COST.

CLOUDS AT COST.

MUFFLERS AT COST.

DRESS GOODS, (a Very Large Stock) AT

BLACK SILKS, (bought before the late advance) AT COST.

SILK VELVETS AT COST.

CLOTHS AND TWEEDS AT COST.

BEAVER OVER-COATINGS AT COST.

FLANNELS (Plain and Fancy) AT COST.

PRINTS AND WINEYS AT COST.

FRENCH MERINOS AT COST.

GLOVES AND HOSIERY AT

LADIES' AND GENTS' UNDERCLOTHING AT COST

COTTONS, LOOMS, TICKINGS, &c., AT COST.

—o—

The above Stock was well bought, and the Goods were extra good at the regular prices, and it will be to the advantage of every purchaser early and see our Stock before going elsewhere.

All Goods Disposed of during this Sale, Must be Strictly

E. HOOPER & SON

NEW FALL GOOD

IN

HATS AND CAPS,

CLOTHING

And Gents Furnishings,

JUST ARRIVING, IN LARGE QUANTITY

AT JOHN RENNI

NEXT DOOR TO SLAVEN & IRONSID

All the latest New York, London and Paris, Style and Caps, in Wool, Felt and Silk.

MENS AND BOYS CLOTHING, CHEAPER EVER.

[A TREMENDOUS STOCK OF OVERCO.

FROM $5 UPWARDS.

Call and Inspect.

J. REN

ALWAYS ON HAND

—A—

LARGE ASSORTMENT

CIGARS,

TOBACCOES,

to drink better beer twice a day. I drank nothing but cold tea throughout our trip. Every evening, shortly after dinner, my companion turned in quite exhausted, while I read or wrote till midnight, rising at five quite fresh. I could adduce from my own experience, extending over many years in a tropical climate, several other witnesses. Tea is not followed by the depression which, as a rule, succeeds in the case of alcoholic stimulants."

WHY DO ANIMALS NEED SALT?

Prof. James Johnston, of Scotland, says:—Upward of half the saline matter of blood (57 per cent.) consists of common salt, and this is partly discharged every day through the skin and kidneys, so that the necessity of continued supplies of it to the healthy body becomes sufficiently obvious. The bile also contained soda (one of the ingredients of salt as a special constituent), and so do all cartilages of the body. Stint the supply of salt, therefore, and neither will the bile be able properly to assist digestion nor the cartilages to build up again fast as they naturally waste. It is better to place salt, where stock can have free access to it than to give it occasionally in large quantities. They will help themselves to what they need if not allowed to do so at pleasure; otherwise, when they become "salt hungry," they may take more than is wholesome.

WATERING HORSES.

"A Horse Lover" urges in the Times the necessity of watering horses sufficiently. "For 20 years," he says "we have kept in our stables an average of 10 horses. We have never known a day's illness among them. Several are over 30 years of age and capable of any amount of work. We attribute this entirely to my daily visit to the stable, when I always find either a trough or pail full of water within reach of each horse. By this means I know that at least once a day they are able fully to quench their thirst. I never had dealings with a coachman who did not think it a risk to let his horses have more than modicum of water. I would just add that we have not such a thing as a bearing-rein in our harness-room and I always drive without blinkers."

LEMON PUDDING.—Pare three lemons and take out the pits; put them in a basin with half a pound of sugar, and mix well roll a long strip of paste; lay the mixture on with a spoon; roll and boil the same as custardy pudding. Oranges may be used with the addition of half a lemon. Cranberries or stewed fruits of any kind either fresh or dried may be used the same way.

BOILED GOOSE. Dress and singe it, put it into a deep dish, cover it with boiling milk and leave it over night. In the morning wash of the milk, and put the goose into cold water on the fire; when boiling hot take it off, wash it in warm water, and dry with a cloth. This process takes out the oil. Fill the body with a dressing of bread crumbs: seasoned with pepper, salt, butter, and two chopped onions if relished, and a little sage. Put the goose into cold water and boil gently until tender. Serve with giblet sauce, and with pickles, or acid jellies.

OX-TAIL SOUP.—Two tails, if large, three if small, will make a large tureen of soup. Divide them at the joints; rub them with salt, and soak well in luke-warm water, place the tails in a stew-pan, with four onions, a bunch of parsley two dozen Jamaica or black pepper-corns a sliced turnip, carrot, and three quarts water. When the meat is tender, which will be in about two and a-half hours, cut it up into very small pieces. Thicken the soup with a little brown flower rubbed up with a ladleful of the fat; strain it into a clean stew-pan, put in the cut meat, boil and skim, season with a tablespoonful of mushroom catsup, and pepper to the taste.

Tilton lunched at the same counter in the depot dining rooms at Utica, Wednesday noon, but did not recognize each other. Both were journeying westward, Beecher to speak on "The Ministry of Wealth" as Rome, and Tilton to solve "The Problem of Life" at Oneida.

Fun (snow-shovellers):—Tom—"Hullo, Bill, how's your mate Jack?" Bill—"Oh, 'e's dead, poor old Jack is through catchin' a cold a sweepin' up the snow." Tom—"Poor chap, hi am sorry. Ah well! 'e won't 'ave to sweep up no snow where 'e's gone to."

Mr. Holly, the pump inventor, will soon attempt to heat the whole city of Lockport with steam. The city is to be divided into districts, and each to have its separate boiler. Mains from each boiler are to run to the different houses, and all the occupants has to do is to turn on a faucet and obtain all the heat he wants.

FOREST FIRES.—In the discussion of the subject the parties most interested (the lumbermen), seem to know full well how these dreadful fires originate, which as they say, is the result of gross carelessness on the part of our working people in their ordinary avocations in the woods, such as driving along the tributaries, and in exploring the woods looking up timber, leaving smouldering fires behind them.

Among the replies to an advertisement of a music committee for "a candidate as organist, music teacher," etc., was the following:—"Gentlemen, I noticed your advertisement for an organist and music teacher, either lady or gentleman. Having been both for several years, I offer you my services."

THE HAMILTON Times says:—Judging from the tone of our exchanges, it is the Tory press that is the most bitter in its opposition to the Dunkin Act, being enforced in any part of Ontario. When, however, they attack that measure as tyrannical and unjust, let them bear in mind that Mr. Dunkin, who framed the Act, was a member of Sir John's Tory Government.

The Sporting Times states that there is a likelihood of another Polar Expedition being fitted out next summer. It is to be a private undertaking, set on foot by the united yacht clubs of the Kingdom. Each club has guaranteed a subscription, and the scheme has advanced so far that the distinguished geographer, Dr. Peterman is now in London for the purpose of consulting with the promoters of the expedition on the best route to be adopted.

A WILD MAN.—Last week a man was lodged in our county jail who was reported to be the "wild man of the woods." He has been living in the woods near Langton during the entire winter, sleeping without cover or protection of any kind, except that which the woods afforded, and exposed to the bitter cold weather, with but a few rags of clothing on him. A charge was lodged against him living without any visible means of support, and he was ordered to be placed in the common jail for three months at hard labor. He was captured with considerable difficulty, as he is very light on foot, and can jump over an ordinary fence without touching his hands to it. He had in his possession when captured an axe which he used for cutting wood to build his fires with and cook his frugal meals. From appearance he is about forty years of age, with black hair and whiskers, and when he was lodged in jail he was so filthy a person could scarcely tell whether his original color was white or black. He appears to know very little about himself; he says he came from across the waters, and thinks his native country was Ireland. His brogue indicates that. He don't know how old he is or how long he has been in this country; knows nothing about his parents; says he has lived in the woods ever since he came to this country. He had on his person twenty-six cents in money and some tobacco.—Norfolk Reformer, January 11.

AT JOHN RENNIE

NEXT DOOR TO SLAVEN & IRONSIDE

All the latest New York, London and Paris, Styles and Caps, in Wool, Felt and Silk.

MENS AND BOYS CLOTHING, CHEAPER EVER.

[A TREMENDOUS STOCK OF OVERCOATS]

FROM $5 UPWARDS.

Call and Inspect.

J. RENNIE

ALWAYS ON HAND

—A—

LARGE ASSORTMENT

CIGARS,

TOBACCOS,

SNUFF,

PIPES &c., &c.,

BEST FINE CUT CHEWING,

AT

WOOD'S TOBACCO STORE.

SIGN OF THE INDIAN AT THE DOOR.

Selling Off! Selling Off!

We beg to announce to the public that we have decided to clear our stock of

GROCERIES, BOOTS & SHOES

BEFORE THE 1ST OF JANUARY NEXT.

As there will be no reserve in this sale an excellent opportunity is offered

Great Bargains in Our

McMULLEN'S OLD STAND, CENTRE BLOCK, OPPOSITE THE ELL HOUSE.

A & C. R. ASH

NAPANEE EXPRESS, JAN. '26, 1877.

GREAT COST SALE DISSOLUTION of PARTNERSHIP

"CHEAPSIDE."

WE DO NOT INTEND GOING TO CHICAGO OR ELSEWHERE, but as a means of self defence, in order to hold our trade together, and do our share of what business is going, we are now offering our

WHOLE STOCK AT COST.

This is a rare chance for intending purchasers, especially so in these hard times, when cash is so scarce, as our Stock is all fresh and Seasonable, we offer inducements unsurpassed if equalled by any other house in Town.

WE WISH IT DISTINCTLY UNDERSTOOD, THAT THIS IS
No Sham, but a Genuine Cost Sale.

Now is the time to get your choice of one of the Largest Stocks of Carpets in Town, at Cost.

What is so pretty and useful as a NICE SET OF FURS for a Christmas Present? We have also the Largest Stock of these goods in Town, all going at Cost. Also

MILLINERY AT COST.
MANTLES AT COST.
SHAWLS AT COST.
CLOUDS AT COST.
MUFFLERS AT COST.
DRESS GOODS, (a Very Large Stock) AT COST.
BLACK SILKS, (bought before the late advance) AT COST.
SILK VELVETS AT COST.
CLOTHS AND TWEEDS AT COST.
BEAVER OVER-COATINGS AT COST.
FLANNELS (Plain and Fancy) AT COST.
PRINTS AND WINGEYS AT COST.
FRENCH MERINOS AT COST.
GLOVES AND HOSIERY AT COST.
LADIES' AND GENTS' UNDERCLOTHING AT COST.
COTTONS, LOOMS, TICKINGS, &c., AT COST.

The above Stock was well bought, and the Goods were extra good value at the regular prices, and it will be to the advantage of every purchaser to call early and see our Stock before going elsewhere.

All Goods Disposed of during this Sale, Must be Strictly Cash.

E. HOOPER & SONS.

NEW FALL GOODS

—AND—

CLEARING SALE.

As our term of partnership expires in the Spring, we have decided previous to stock taking, to offer our whole stock,

AMOUNTING TO $30,000,

AT FROM

10 TO 20 PER CENT DISCOUNT

FOR 60 DAYS, FOR CASH ONLY,

AND AS WE ARE CLEARING UP OUR

CREDIT BUSINESS,

ALL PAST DUE ACCOUNTS MUST BE PAID WITHOUT FURTHER NOTICE.

What is so pretty and useful as a NICE SET OF FURS for a Christmas Present? We have also the Largest Stock of these goods in Town, all going at Cost. Also

MILLINERY AT COST.
 MANTLES AT COST.
 SHAWLS AT COST.
 CLOTHS AT COST.
 MUFFLERS AT COST.
 DRESS GOODS, (a Very large Stock) AT COST.
 BLACK SILKS, (bought before the late advance) AT COST.
 SILK VELVETS AT COST.
 CLOTHS AND TWEEDS AT COST.
 BEAVER OVER-COATINGS AT COST.
 FLANNELS (Plain and Fancy) AT COST.
 PRINTS AND Winceys AT COST.
 FRENCH MERINOS AT COST.
 GLOVES AND HOSIERY AT COST.
 LADIES' AND GENTS' UNDERCLOTHING AT COST.
 COTTONS, LOOMS, TICKINGS, &c., AT COST.

The above Stock was well bought, and the Goods were extra good value at the regular prices, and it will be to the advantage of every purchaser to call early and see our Stock before going elsewhere.

All Goods Disposed of during this Sale, Must be Strictly Cash.

E. HOOPER & SONS.

NEW FALL GOODS

IN

HATS AND CAPS,

CLOTHING

And Gents Furnishings,

JUST ARRIVING, IN LARGE QUANTITY

AT JOHN RENNIE'S,

NEXT DOOR TO SLAVEN & IRONSIDE

All the latest New York, London and Paris, Styles of Hats and Caps, in Wool, Felt and Silk.

MENS AND BOYS CLOTHING, CHEAPER THAN EVER.

A TREMENDOUS STOCK OF OVERCOATS,

FROM $5 UPWARDS.

Call and Inspect.

J. RENNIE.

ALWAYS ON HAND

LARGE ASSORTMENT

CIGARS,

TOBACCOS,

10 TO 20 PER CENT DISCOUNT,

FOR 60 DAYS, FOR CASH ONLY,

AND AS WE ARE CLEARING UP OUR

CREDIT BUSINESS,

ALL PAST DUE ACCOUNTS MUST BE PAID WITHOUT FURTHER NOTICE.

A. C. DAVIS & BRO.

39-yl.

FURNITURE! FURNITURE!

A FULL STOCK OF OUR OWN MANUFACTURE.

HOUSE FURNISHINGS.

AS USUAL.

Sash, Doors Blinds, Planing, &c.

Call and get Price List of Sash and Doors and set of our Mouldings.

Undertaking Department Complete.

COFFINS OF ALL SIZES AND KINDS.

Shrouds, Scarfs, &c., &c.

J. C. GREEN & SON.

AT JOHN RENNIE'S,

NEXT DOOR TO SLAVEN & IRONSIDE

All the latest New York, London and Paris, Styles of Hats and Caps, in Wool, Felt and Silk.

MENS AND BOYS CLOTHING, CHEAPER THAN EVER.

A TREMENDOUS STOCK OF OVERCOATS,
FROM $5 UPWARDS.

Call and Inspect.

J. RENNIE.

ALWAYS ON HAND

LARGE ASSORTMENT

CIGARS,

TOBACCOS,

SNUFF,

PIPES &c., &c.,

BEST FINE CUT CHEWING,

WOOD'S TOBACCO STORE.

SIGN OF THE INDIAN AT THE DOOR.

A FULL STOCK OF OUR OWN MANUFACTURE.

HOUSE FURNISHINGS.

AS USUAL.

Sash, Doors Blinds, Planing, &c.

Call and get Price List of Sash and Doors and cut of our Mouldings.

Undertaking Department Complete.

COFFINS OF ALL SIZES AND KINDS.

Shrouds, Scarfs, &c., &c.

J. C. GREEN & SON.

Crockery! Crockery!!

AT

COST PRICE.

WE OFFER OUR ENTIRE STOCK OF

CROCKERY & GLASSWARE,

AT COST PRICE,

IN ORDER TO MAKE ROOM FOR AN IMMENSE STOCK OF

BOOTS &

SHOES,

Selling Off! Selling Off!!

We beg to announce to the public that we have decided to clear out our entire stock of

GROCERIES, BOOTS & SHOES,

BEFORE THE 1ST OF JANUARY NEXT.

As there will be no reserve in this sale an excellent opportunity is offered for

Great Bargains in Our Line.

McMULLEN'S OLD STAND, CENTRE BLOCK, OPPOSITE THE CAMPBELL HOUSE.

A & C. R. ASHLEY.

Which we have lately purchased at a very large discount. Our new stock of Boots and Shoes, will arrive next week per G. T. R.

We ask every man woman and child in the Counties, to call at once, and secure a pair of Boots for the winter, as they may never have such an opportunity of buying so good an article for so little money.

BE SURE YOU COME TO THE RIGHT PLACE.

RENNIE'S CORNER STORE, DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE

FRASER & RENNIE.

SS, JAN. '26, 1877.

DISSOLUTION of PARTNERSHIP

—AND—

CLEARING SALE.

our term of partnership expires in the Spring, we have decided previous t stock taking, to offer our whole stock,

AMOUNTING TO $30,000,

AT FROM

0 TO 20 PER CENT DISCOUNT,

FOR 60 DAYS, FOR CASH ONLY,

AND AS WE ARE CLEARING UP OUR

CREDIT BUSINESS,

ALL PAST DUE ACCOUNTS MUST BE PAID WITHOUT FURTHER NOTICE.

A. C. DAVIS & BRO.

CARRIAGE MAKERS !

NOW ON HAND AND ARRIVING, A LARGE STOCK OF

Carriage Goods of Every Description.

CARRIAGE SPRINGS AND AXLES,

CARRIAGE AND TIRE BOLTS,

BAR, HOOP AND BAND IRON,

DASH AND TOP LEATHER,

CARRIAGE BANDS,

SHAFT SHACKLES,

SPRING, TIRE AND CAST STEEL,

BENT SHAFTS AND RIMS,

HUBS AND SPOKES,

ENAMELLED CLOTHS,

BELLOWS, VICES AND ANVILS,

ALEX AND SPRING BAR CLIPS.

And Every Other Article in Carriage Hardware.

As we are buying above Good

DIRECT FROM THE MANUFACTURERS,

And for Cash, we are in a position to

OFFER THEM LOWER THAN EVER BEFORE.

WRIGHT & Co.

Napanee, Jan. 1877.

43-ly.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF

PARLOR & BEDROOM

FURNITURE,

—AT—

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY!!

WILL UNDERSELL

Any Other House in this part of the Province

FOR 60 DAYS, FOR CASH ONLY,

AND AS WE ARE CLEARING UP OUR

CREDIT BUSINESS,

PAST DUE ACCOUNTS MUST BE PAID WITHOUT FURTHER NOTICE.

A. C. DAVIS & BRO.

FURNITURE! FURNITURE!!

A FULL STOCK OF OUR OWN MANUFACTURE.

HOUSE FURNISHINGS.

AS USUAL.

Sash, Doors Blinds, Planing, &c.

Call and get Price List of Sash and Doors and cut of our Mouldings.

Undertaking Department Complete.

COFFINS OF ALL SIZES AND KINDS.

Shrouds, Scarfs, &c., &c.

J. C. GREEN & SON.

Crockery! Crockery!!

AT

COST PRICE.

PARLOR & BEDROOM

FURNITURE,

—AT—

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY!!

WILL UNDERSELL

Any Other House in this part of the Province.

FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

ALWAYS IN STOCK

CALL AND EXAMINE.

J. CIBBARD & SON.

The Largest, Best Equipped, Most Thorough

AND

Practical Business School in Canada.

HAVING increased our facilities, we now offer better advantages than ever before. The Business Course is under the supervision of

S. G. BEATTY, Principal Actual Business Department.

W. B. ROBINSON, Principal Practical Department.

G. A. SWAYZE, Principal Theoretical Department.

IT IS SHORT, PRACTICAL AND USEFUL.

Able and Practical Instructors in the other Departments.

The whole time and attention of Students are devoted to just such subjects as every Farmer, Mechanic, Merchant, and Professional man requires in transacting every day business.

When desired by parents, boys will be placed in a boarding house under the supervision of a teacher, who will assist them in their evening studies, and see that they keep proper hours.

Specimens of Penmanship and circular containing full information respecting Terms, Nature of Course, etc., sent free of charge.

Address, S. G. BEATTY & Co., BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO.

SAVE YOUR MONEY!

A FULL STOCK OF OUR OWN MANUFACTURE.

HOUSE FURNISHINGS.

AS USUAL.

Sash, Doors Blinds, Planing, &c.

Call and get Price List of Sash and Doors and cut of our Mouldings.

Undertaking Department Complete.

COFFINS OF ALL SIZE AND KINDS.

Shrouds, Scarfs, &c., &c.

J. C. GREEN & SON.

Crockery! Crockery!!

AT

COST PRICE.

WE OFFER OUR ENTIRE STOCK OF

CROCKERY & GLASSWARE,

AT COST PRICE,

IN ORDER TO MAKE ROOM FOR AN IMMENSE STOCK OF

SHOES,

which we have lately purchased at a very large discount. Our new stock of Boots and Shoes, will arrive next week per G. T. R.

ask every man woman and child in the Counties, to call at once, and secure a pair of Boots for the winter, as they may never have such an opportunity of buying so good an article for so little money.

BE SURE YOU COME TO THE RIGHT PLACE.

FRASER & RENNIE'S CORNER STORE, DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE

FRASER & RENNIE.

The Largest, Best Equipped, Most Thorough

AND

Practical Business School in Canada.

HAVING increased our faculties, we now offer better advantages than ever before. The Business Course is under the supervision of

S. G. BEATTY, Principal Actual Business Department.

W. B. ROBINSON, Principal Practical Department.

G. A. SWAYZE, Principal Theoretical Department.

IT IS SHORT, PRACTICAL AND USEFUL.

Able and Practical Instructors in the other Departments.

The whole time and attention of Students are devoted to just such subjects as every Farmer, Mechanic, Merchant, and Professional man requires in transacting every day business.

When desired by parents, boys will be placed in a boarding house under the supervision of a teacher, who will assist them in their evening studies, and see that they keep proper hours.

Specimens of Penmanship and circular containing full information respecting Terms, Nature of Course, etc., sent free of charge.

Address, S. G. BEATTY & Co.,
BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO.

SAVE YOUR MONEY!

Times are hard and you can avoid buying new clothes if you will get those you have dyed and scoured so as to

LOOK AS GOOD AS NEW,

at a trifling expense. Remember that at

Montgomery's Steam Dye Works,

Opposite Madden's Tannery, near the River, all kinds of goods are cleaned and dyed on the shortest notice, and at the cheapest rates.

GENTLEMEN'S CLOTHING, MOURNING GOODS KID GLOVES, PLUMES, &c.

CLEANED AND DYED.

Call and give Montgomery a trial and be satisfied.

MONEY TO LOAN.

We have received instructions from England, to Lend a large amount of Money,

AT LOWER RATES THAN HAS YET BEEN OFFERED.

CALL IN AND EXAMINE RATES.

NO COMMISSION CHARGED.

WILLIAMS & HOOPER.

Business Cards.

Alex. C. Davis,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Napanee
Ontario

James Aylsworth,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Tam-
worth.

S. D. Clarke,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Odessa,
Ontario.

J. J. Watson,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates, Adolphustown.

Peter E. R. Miller,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Switzer-
ville Ont.

Robert Graham,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses. Office
In the Dominion Store, Enterprise.

J. B. Allison,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and
Certificates. Parma P. O., South
Fredericksburg.

Charles Lane,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Office—Front of Grammar School, Bridge Street, Napanee.

A. B. Randall,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Also Agent for the Beaver and Toronto Fire Insurance Company and the Mutual Life Association of Canada. Residence—Shannonville, Ont.

Murphy & Bedford,
BARRISTERS, &c., MILL POINT.
Money to lend on improved Real Estate.

H. M. Deroche,
BARRISTER and Attorney-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Conveyancer, No-
tary Public, etc. OFFICE—In Grange
Block, John Street, Napanee, Ont.

E. B. Stone,
Attorney-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Conveyancer, &c. OFFICE—
Over T. Molloy's Dry Goods Store.
Money to Lend at 8 per cent.

Cartwright & Gibson,
BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, So-licitors in Chancery and Insolvency, No-
taries Public, etc. OFFICE—Grange Block,
John Street, Napanee.
J. S. CARTWRIGHT S. GIBSON.

R. Tracy, M. D.,
BELLEVILLE.
PHYSICIAN, Surgeon and Accoucheur.
Office and Residence, two doors east
from the Bank of Montreal, near the Congregational Church, Hotel St. 39

Reeve & Morden,
BARRISTERS and Attorneys-at-Law
Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers,
etc. OFFICE—Perry's New Block Dundas
Street, Napanee, Ontario.
W. A. REEVE, M. A., A. L. MORDEN.
Co. Crown Attorney.

E. A. Deroche,
OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, under New Act
of 1875.
Office in H. M. Deroche's Law Office.

Williams & Hooper,
BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, So-
licitors in Chancery and Insolvency,
Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.,
Napanee, Ontario.
W. S. WILLIAMS E. L. HOOPER, M. A.
Official Assignee

W. F. Hall,
OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, under Insol-
vent Act of 1875. Fire Insurance
Agent, &c. Office of Napanee Paper Mills.
East Street.

Henderson & Coats,

Napanee

J. B. BENSON, Publisher.)

VOL. 15.

NAPANEE, ONT

THE PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY
MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE CO.

HEAD OFFICE—PICTON, ONT.
(Established 30th Sept., 1854).

PRESIDENT—LEWIS B. STINSON
VICE-PRESIDENT—W. BOULTER
MANAGER—L. B. STINSON.
SECRETARY—JOHN TWIGG.
TREASURER—PHILIP LOW, Q. C.
INS. OF LOSSES & A's.—J. HOWELL.
SOLICITOR—W. H. R. ALLISON
DIRECTORS.—JAS. JOHNSTON, WM.
DELONG, JOHN PRINYER,
S. B. HUBBS, J. VANALSTINE.

HONORARY DIRECTORS.—G. Striker, Esq.
M. P. P., Picton; R. Clapp, Esq., Mil-
ford; K. Graham, Esq., Belleville; P.
Allan, C. A. Lloyd, J. P. Dorland, Esqs., Adolphustown; J. C. Huffman, Esq., J. T.
Grange, Esq., M. P. P., Napanee; J. E.
Proctor, Esq., Brighton; G. W. Webb,
Esq., Colborne; G. Jones, Esq., Trenton;
J. Redner, Esq., Rednersville; Owen
Roblin, Esq., Ameliasburg; H. A.
McFaul, Esq., Hillier.

This Company is established upon strictly
Mutual principles, insuring farm property
Townships, and property not more hazardous in Towns and Villages and offers great advantages to insure at low rates for Three or Four Years either, on the Premium
Note or Cash System.
March 9th, 1875. 521-y.

CATARRH!

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs,
and Droppings in Throat Disappear.

ST. AM AND P. Q., Sept. 12, 1876.

MR. T. J. B. HARDING,
DEAR SIR:—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your ONSTI-TUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to information what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines,
without receiving any permanent benefit, but
continued rather to grow worse, until last fall,
when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe sore-ness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very lame back,
and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.
Yours truly HENRY NIDER,
Price $1 per bottle; For sale by all Druggists

Consumption Cured!

An old physician, retired from active
practice, having had placed in his hands
by an East India Missionary the formula
of a Vegetable Remedy, for the speedy
and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat
and Lung Affections; also a Positive and Radical Cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative
powers in thousands of cases, feels it his

BRISCO HOUSE,
NAPANEE, ONT.

JOHN SOBY, - - Proprietor.

A First-Class Hotel

in all its Appointments.
Omnibuses meet all Trains and Steamers.

CAMPBELL HOUSE,
NAPANEE, Ont.

THE PRINCIPAL HOTEL
IN TOWN.

Good Stabling & Attentive Ostler.
CHARGES AS USUAL.
MARSDEN & MOORE,
PROPRIETORS.

TICHBORNE HOUSE,
(Corner Dundas & John Streets.)

NAPANEE.
ROBERT McDONALD,
Proprietor.

A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL.
CHARGES MODERATE.

QUEEN'S HOTEL,
BELLEVILLE

Every Accommodation for Commercial
Travellers.

35. A. P. FARRELL,
PROPRIETOR.

McDONALD HOUSE,
(Late Clark House)

BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.
Buss to and from the cars. 39-yl.

CUMMING'S

Specific for the Hair.

BRISCOE & SHUTTOCK, Proprietors
for Canada, No. 11, King Street,
West Toronto.

MAC. BOTTING,

Hair Dresser, Dundas Street, Napanee,
Sole Agent for Napanee and Counties of
Lennox and Addington. 42.

Land for Sale.

30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for
the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and Wild Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres,
also of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low
prices and easy terms.
Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets
Napanee.

JAMES F. BARTLES.

Napanee, Sept. 12th, 1876.

FOR CHEAP

"THE GREATEST C

A GEM FOR EVERY MONTH

JANUARY.

By her who in this month is born
No gem save garnets should be worn
They will insure her constancy,
True friendship and fidelity.

FEBRUARY.

The February-born will find
Sincerity and peace of mind;
Freedom from passion and from care
If they the amethyst will wear.

MARCH.

Who in this world of ours their eyes
In March first open shall be wise;
In days of peril firm and brave,
And wear a bloodstone to their grave

APRIL.

She who from April dates her years
Diamonds should wear, lest bitter
For vain repentance flow; this stone
Emblem of innocence is known.

MAY.

Who first behold the light of day
In Spring's sweet flowery month of
And wears an emerald all her life,
Shall be a loved and happy wife.

JUNE.

Who comes with Summer to this ear
And owes to June her day of birth,
With ring and agate on her hand
Can health, wealth and long life earn

JULY.

The glowing ruby should adorn
Those who in warm July are born;
Then will they be exempt and free
From love's doubts and anxiety.

AUGUST.

Wear a sardonyx, or for thee
No congenial fidelity;
The August-born without this stone
'Tis said must live unloved and alone

SEPTEMBER.

A maiden born when autumn leaves
Are rustling in September's breeze,
A sapphire on her brow should bind
'Twill cure diseases of the mind.

OCTOBER.

October's child is born for woe,
And life's vicissitudes must know;
But lay an opal on her breast,
And hope will lull those woes to rest

NOVEMBER.

Who first comes to this world below
With drear November fog and snow
Should prize the topaz, amber hue—
Emblem of friends and lovers true

DECEMBER.

If cold December gave you birth,
The month of snow and ice and mir-
Place on your hand a turquoise blue
Success will bless whate'er you do.

NOT EXPLAINED.

A Story in Three Parts.

PART II—(CONTINUED.)

THE SECOND TIME.

I had never seen the picture o copies of it before. I had never anyone in the least reminding me
If you ask me how a face, thus m strange and unfamiliar, could remin of a sound, unconnected with the

E. B. Stone,

Attorney-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Conveyancer, &c. OFFICE—Over T. Molloy's Dry Goods Store. Money to Lend at 8 per cent.

Cartwright & Gibson,

BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery and Insolvency, Notaries Public, etc. OFFICE—Grange Block, John Street, Napanee. J. S. CARTWRIGHT S. GIBSON.

R. Tracy, M. D.,
BELLEVILLE.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon and Accoucheur. Office and Residence, two doors east from the Bank of Montreal, near the Congregational Church, Hotel St. 39

Reeve & Morden,

BARRISTERS and Attorneys-at-Law Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, etc. OFFICE—Perry's New Block Dundas Street, Napanee, Ontario. W. A. REEVE, M. A., A. L. MORDEN. Co. Crown Attorney.

E. A. Deroche,

OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, under New Act of 1875. Office in H. M. Deroche's Law Office.

Williams & Hooper,

BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery and Insolvency, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc., Napanee, Ontario. W. S. WILLIAMS, E. T. HOOPER, M. A. Official Assignee

W. F. Hall,

OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, under Insolvent Act of 1875. Fire Insurance Agent, &c. Office of Napanee Paper Mills. East Street.

Henderson & Coats,

LAW, Chancery, and Conveyancing, Solicitors in Insolvency and Bankruptcy. OFFICE—Grange Block, John Street, Napanee. ROBERT L. HENDERSON, Attorney, Solicitor and Notary Public, Canadian Courts. JOHN COATS, Solicitor in High Courts of Judicature, and Notary Public, English Courts. Money to Loan.

James Grange, M. D.,

GRADUATE University of Victoria College, Canada, and College of Physicians and Surgeons, N. Y. Member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ontario. Special Attention paid to Diseases of the Eye. Office and Residence: Centre Street, Napanee, Ont.

James F. Bartles,

LAND AGENT, Fire, Life and Accident Insurance Agent OFFICE—corner of Dundas and West Streets, Napanee.

F. Bartlett,

ARCHITECT AND BUILDER, West Street, Napanee. Plans, Specifications and Detail Drawings furnished. Builders' work measured, and value computed

Mair's Machine Shop,

STEAM ENGINES and all kinds of Boilers made to order. Also all kinds of Machinery repaired on the shortest notice. Remember the place, opposite the old City Hotel, corner of Adelaide and Bridge Streets.

Fire and Life Insurance.

EDMUND HOOPER,

Agent for the following first-class Companies: FIRE, LIFE, MARINE, ACCIDENT, LIFE, EQUITY, LIFE

Imperial Life Insurance Co. OFFICE LONDON (ESTABLISHED 1803.) Capital and Reserved Fund £1,969,000 — Stirling. Funds invested in Canada—$105,000 General Agents.

CATARRH

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs, and Droppings in Throat Disappear.

ST. AM AND, P. Q., Sept. 12, 1876.

MR. T. J. B. HARRING,

DEAR SIR:—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very lame back, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY NIDER. Price $1 per bottle; For sale by all Druggists

Consumption Cured!

An old physician, retired from active practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a Vegetable Remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat and Lung Affections: also a Positive and Radical Cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send FREE OF CHARGE to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper.

DR. W. C. STEVENS,

Box 86, Brockville, Ont.

The PHYSICIAN'S REMEDY!

WHEN you are ill and don't know how to get over it, you generally send for your physician. If this is the opinion of 16 LEADING PHYSICIANS of Montreal, considered worthy of confidence, you will try.

DR. BURNBAUM'S RHEUMATISM

AND

GOUT REMEDY

To the efficacy of which those 16 physicians have certified for the cure of

RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, LUMBAGO, GOUT, STIFFNESS IN JOINTS, OR LIMBS, SPRAINS, FROST BITES, CHILBLAINS, BRUISES, CUTS, BURNS, WANDERING PAINS, &c.

It has cured several of these physicians and thousands of others in Canada, and is now considered, on this continent as well as in Europe, the only reliable remedy for all Rheumatic affections.

The facsimile signatures of 16 leading physicians of Montreal are on each bottle as a guarantee of its efficacy. For sale by all druggists at 50 cents and $1 per bottle. Certificates of physicians are on each bottle, and can be had also by applying to

CHARLES MARTIN,

Montreal.

Sole Agent for Canada and U. S.

One of the Testimonials.

From Dr. Duncan McCallum, Montreal.

I, the undersigned, have been suffering very much for the last two years from Rheumatism in the ankle joint, so much that I was often prevented from attending to my calling, but three applications of Dr. Burnbaum's Rheumatism and Gout Remedy gave me that relief from pain and stiffness which I did not experi-

Every Accommodation for Commercial Travellers.

A. P. FARRELL, PROPRIETOR.

35.

McDONALD HOUSE,

(Late Clark House)

BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.

Bus to and from the cars.

30-yl.

CUMMING'S

Specific for the Hair.

BRISCOE & SHUTLOCK, Proprietors for Canada, No. 11, King Street, West Toronto.

MAC. BOTTING,

Hair Dresser, Dundas Street, Napanee, Sole Agent for Napanee and Counties of Lennox and Addington. 42.

Land for Sale.

30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and Wild Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres; also of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low prices and easy terms.

Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets Napanee.

JAMES F. BARTLES.

Napanee, Sept. 12th, 1876.

FOR CHEAP

GROCERIES,

CROCKERY &

GLASSWARE,

GO TO

GEORGE REID'S

NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE.

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

A. PETERS, ODESSA,

DEALER IN

Saddlery, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese Boxes, Tubs, Firkins, etc.

I am now making a very superior article in a sawed cheese box; which I will sell at 12c. All orders entrusted to me will receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS.,

LIVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE ERISCO HOUSE,)

NAPANEE, ONT.

We keep nothing but First-Class Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE PRICES

Jno. A. REID

The glowing ruby should adorn Those who in warm July are born; Then will they be exempt and free From love's doubts and anxiety.

AUGUST.

Wear a sardonyx, or for thee No congenial fidelity; The August-born without this stone 'Tis said must live unloved and alone

SEPTEMBER.

A maiden born when autumn leaves Are rustling in September's breeze, A sapphire on her brow should bind— 'Twill cure diseases of the mind.

OCTOBER.

October's child is born for woe, And life's vicissitudes must know; But lay an opal on her breast, And hope will lull those woes to rest.

NOVEMBER.

Who first comes to this world below With drear November fog and snow Should prize the topaz, amber hue— Emblem of friends and lovers true.

DECEMBER.

If cold December gave you birth, The month of snow and ice and mirth! Place on your hand a turquoise blue, Success will bless whate'er you do.

NOT EXPLAINED.

A Story in Three Parts.

PART II—(CONTINUED.)

THE SECOND TIME.

I had never seen the picture or copies of it before. I had never anyone in the least reminding me of it. If you ask me how a face, thus utterly strange and unfamiliar, could remind of a sound, unconnected with the shape of any sort, I cannot answer can only aver as solemnly as I sit here that it did, and so intimately one seemed as it were only a concomitant of the other. I made no comment on it whatever. I went on, answering some queries of my host's relative to other portrait, and then—stopped short as if struck by a sudden blow, and went so loud as to startle them all. "Good heavens! I was right. Here she is, too!"

We had come to a large narrow picture almost hidden by a projecting pillar corner of the gallery—the portrait of a lady in a canary-colored gown, sleeves puffed and slashed with red, bodice cut square over the throat, whose downy whiteness was partly den by a lace handkerchief. Clusters of diamonds and rubies glittering at throat, and in her ears; and one hair was curled round the neck of a hound, whose dark muzzle rested on knee. Her hair, which was black curly was worn low on her forehead down her neck behind; and the white face was lit by an expression of misanthropic sweetness mingled with an innocent consciousness of her own beauty. A beautiful face indeed! so beautiful that I had never seen its like but once before the face of "my lord's sister" as looked that evening when I met her in the park.

Naturally my violent start and comment—for which, indeed, I could bitten out my tongue—excited a wonder in those about me, and my reply:

"She? Why, Mr. Le Fane, what you know of this fair and foolish creature of mine?"

The tone was a little haughty, an stammered something about having taken the face of the portrait of some else—some one I had seen. I asked whether it had ever been engraved or exhibited—at a loan collection of portraits?

"Oh dear no!" he said. None of portraits had ever been allowed to be copied or removed from the Abbey; indeed, till within the last hundred years this one had not been visible to the public, being covered with a curtain; he pointed to some blackened fragment of drapery still suspended to a cord inches above the frame.

Canadian Courts.
JOHN COATS,
Solicitor in High Courts of Judicature, and Notary Public, English Courts.
Money to Loan.

James Grange, M. D.,
GRADUATE University of Victoria College, Canada, and College of Physicians and Surgeons, N. Y.
Member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ontario.
Special Attention paid to Diseases of the Eye.
Office and Residence: Centre Street, Napanee, Ont.

James F. Bartles,
LAND AGENT, Fire, Life and Accident Insurance Agent OFFICE—corner of Dundas and West Streets, Napanee.

F. Bartlett,
ARCHITECT AND BUILDER, West Street, Napanee. Plans, Specifications and Detail Drawings furnished. Builders' work measured, and value computed.

Mair's Machine Shop,
STEAM ENGINES and all kinds of Boilers made to order. Also all kinds of Machinery repaired on the shortest notice. Remember the place, opposite the old City Hotel, corner of Adelaide and Bridge Streets.

Fire and Life Insurance.
EDMUND HOOPER,
Agent for the following first-class Companies:
HAND IN HAND, FIRE
NATIONAL, LIFE
EQUITABLE, LIFE

Imperial Life Insurance Co.
OFFICE LONDON (ESTABLISHED 1803). Capital and Reserve Fund
£1,969,000 - - - - - Sterling.
Funds invested in Canada, - $105,000
RINTOUL BROS., General Agents.
24 St. Sacramento St. Montreal.
H. L. GEDDES, Agent,
Napanee and vicinity.

Hartford Life Insurance Co.
ESTABLISHED - - - - - 1810.
CAPITAL, $1,000,000.
AMOUNT DEPOSITED IN CANADA in accordance with the Act $130,000.

Insures property against fire as low as any other reliable company. All losses equitably adjusted and promptly paid in Canada funds or Gold. Isolated dwellings insured at exceedingly low rates.

H. L. GEDDES, Agent,
for Napanee and vicinity.

NAPANEE TICKET AGENCY.

Grand Trunk Railway Tickets for sale at Grange & Bro's Drug Store,
For all stations east and west. American money taken; at par, from Napanee to Milwaukee, Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha, San Francisco, etc., to all Lake Ports. Passengers purchase tickets from the undersigned avoid chasing tickets and delay of exchanging tickets and re-checking baggage to Toronto. Cheapest route to the west. Return tickets to Kingston, Belleville, Toronto, Montreal, Portland, etc. For further particulars apply at GRANGE & BRO'S Exchange Office. Passenger agents G. T. R. Uncurrent money bought and sold.

NEW TAILORING ESTABLISHMENT.

MAX FOX
Beg leave to inform the gentlemen of Napanee and vicinity, that he has opened a shop over
SWEENEY BROS.,
where he is prepared to cut and make-up
GENTLEMEN'S CLOTHING
in the Latest Styles, as Cheap as est, and as Good as the Cheap.

ing with stamp, naming this paper.
DR. W. C. STEVENS,
Box 86, BROCKVILLE, ONT.

The PHYSICIAN'S REMEDY!

WHEN you are ill and don't know how to get over it you generally send for your physician. If the opinion of 16 LEADING PHYSICIANS of Montreal is considered worthy of confidence, you will try.

DR. BURNBAUM'S RHEUMATISM

GOUT REMEDY

To the efficacy of which those 16 physicians have certified for the cure of

RHEUMATISM,
NEURALGIA,
LUMBAGO, GOUT,
STIFFNESS IN JOINTS, OR LIMBS,
SPRAINS, FROST BITES,
CHILBLAINS,
BRUISES, CUTS, BURNS,
WANDERING PAINS, &c.

It has cured several of these physicians and thousands of others in Canada, and is now considered, on this continent as well as in Europe, the only reliable remedy for all Rheumatic affections.
The fac-simile signatures of 16 leading physicians of Montreal are on each bottle as a guarantee of its efficacy.
For sale by all druggists at 50 cents and $1 per bottle. Certificates of physicians are on each bottle, and can be had also by applying to

CHARLES MARTIN,
Montreal,
Sole Agent for Canada and U. S.
One of the Testimonials.
From Dr. Duncan McCallum, Montreal.

I, the undersigned, have been suffering very much for the last two years from Rheumatism in the ankle joint, so much that I was often prevented from attending to my calling, but three applications of Dr. Burnbaum's Rheumatism and Gout Remedy gave me that relief from pain and stiffness which I did not experience for the last two years, and after eight days' use of that remedy, I find myself entirely cured.
I owe this statement to the public, to the profession, and to the merits of the genuine article

DUNCAN MCCALLUM, M. D.
June 17th. 176. 24-1yr

700 Doz. have been sold since April last, of Brantons Rheumatic Absorbent and Digestive Fluid.

The Rheumatic Absorbent will positively relieve all pain from Rheumatism or other inflammatory swellings in 12 hours.
The Digestive Fluid has never failed to cure Dyspepsia. Relief is felt in a few hours. The most obstinate cases are cured within a week.
A Lady writes:—I have been saved from Life Lingerer Pains. I had Bronchitis, Catarrh and Dyspepsia, and was cured in a few days by its use. Sold by Druggists, price 50 cts. Wholesale by North & Lyman. Advice for particular cases free. Address:
W. Y. BRUNTON, London

WANTED.

We want reliable, energetic canvassing agents in every town in the Dominion for the new "Illustrated History of the Dominion of Canada." This work is truly magnificent, containing over 2,000 double column quarto pages, and over 300 superb full page engravings. The work is published in Parts, on a plan which insures its welcome to every English reading family. To energetic young men and ladies, who are willing to work, we will guarantee a permanent position for two years, and good pay! Don't fail to write for our private terms, sample pages, etc. This is a grand opportunity for school teachers to make more than double their salaries without interfering with their professional duties. The work is being manufactured at a cost of over $20,000 for the literary, artistic and mechanical work of producing the plates by the old well known, reliable Lovell Printing and Publishing Co., of Montreal. All letters from agents must be addressed to the Publishers general agents as follows:
HAZEN B. BIGNEY & Co.,
28 and 39 St. Francis Xavier Street,
MONTREAL, QUE.

GO TO GEORGE REID'S

NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE.

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

A. PETERS, ODESSA,
DEALER IN

Sash, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese Boxes, Tubs, Firlins, etc.

I am now making a very superior article in a sawed cheese box; which I will sell at 12c. All orders entrusted to me will receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS., LIVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE ERISCO HOUSE,) NAPANEE, ONT.
We keep nothing but First-Class Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE PRICES

JNO. A. REID
VET. SURGEON
NAPANEE ONT.
GRADUATE OF
Ontario Veterinary College.

May be consulted on all diseases of Domestic Animals, personally at Campbell House or by letter.
TERMS MODERATE
OFFICE—Warner Block.

WESTERN ASSURANCE COMPANY.

Incorporated 1851.
CAPITAL, - - - - - $800,000.
With power to increase to $1,000,000.

FIRE AND MARINE.

HEAD OFFICE: Toronto, Ont.

President,
HON. JOHN McMURRICH.
Vice-President,
CHARLES MAGRATH.
Directors,
JAS. MICHIE, Esq. NOAH BARNHART, Esq.
JOHN FISKIN, Esq. ROBT. BEATY, Esq.
A. M. SMITH, Esq. WM. GOODERHAM, Jr., Esq.
BERNARD HADLAND, Managing Director.
FRED'K G. C. LOVELACE, Secretary.
WM. BLIGHT, Fire Inspector.
JAMES PRINGLE, General Agent.
Marine Inspector.

Insurances effected at the lowest current rates on Buildings, Merchandise, and other property, against loss or damage by fire.

On Hull Cargo, and Freight against the perils of Inland Navigation.

On Cargo Risks with the Maritime Provinces by sail or steam.

On Cargoes by steamers to British Ports.
W. V. DETLOR,
Agent for Napanee

some queries of my host's relative to other portrait, and then—stopped as if struck by a sudden blow, and out so loud as to startle them all.

"Good heavens! I was right. H she is, too!"

We had come to a large narrow pier almost hidden by a projecting pillar corner of the gallery—the portrait lady in a canary-colored gown, sleeves puffed and slashed with red, bodice cut square over the throat, whose downy whiteness was partly den by a lace handkerchief. Clus of diamonds and rubies glittering at throat, and in her ears; and one hair was curled round the neck of a hound, whose dark muzzle rested on knee. Her hair, which was black curly was worn low on her forehead down her neck behind; and the white face was lit by an expression of misf sweetness mingled with an innocent consciousness of her own beauty. beautiful face indeed! so beautiful! had never seen its like but once before the face of "my lord's sister" as looked that evening when I met her the park.

Naturally my violent start and exclamation—for which, indeed, I could be bitten out my tongue—excited a wonder in those about me, and my reply:

"She? Why, Mr. Le Fane, what you know of this too fair and foolish mistress of mine?"

The tone was a little haughty, and stammered something about having taken the face of the portrait of some else—some one I had seen. I asked whether it had ever been engraved or exhibited—at a loan collection haps?

"Oh dear no!" he said. None of portraits had ever been allowed to copied or removed from the Abbey; indeed, till within the last hundred years this one had not been visible to the visitors, being covered with a curtain; he pointed to some blackened fragment of drapery still suspended to a cord six inches above the frame.

"The portrait, then, has a history said, with as much coolness as I command. "Certainly the original have been beautiful enough to war one. May we hear it, if the request not impertinent?"

"By all means. The fair Lady rothea lived too long ago for her follies affect us personally (even as a warning you, my dear)," nodding his head at blooming sister-in-law, who was so how always to be found lingering in Verchoyle in the rear of the rest of party. "The story is only too common. I'm afraid, and is simply this: She very lovely, as you see, and had a host of lovers, as you infer. Also she was coquette, and so hard to please that couldn't make up her mind as to what to take; and a story got abroad that had so far disgraced herself as to set affections on a person far beneath her station—a groom, I believe, who was, point of fact, dismissed his place as a the report reached the ears of family. A fortnight later my lady disappeared too. She had been sitting for picture—you will see that part of background and drapery are still turned—and went out in the park afterwards under pretence of looking for her favorite hound, which, she said, had run away from her. At any rate she had the look for his neck in her hand when she last seen leaving the garden door, she returned no more. Every search enquiry after her was made, headed her cousin, the bearded gentleman that at whose portrait you were gazing so tently a few minutes back, and who one of her most ardent suitors. For private information, however, he learned in the course of a few days that she actually died across the seas with this servant fellow; and from that day, may guess, her name was dropped at Abbey. The shock and disgrace by her father's heart. He grew quite childish, shut himself up in his private room

Napanee Express

"THE GREATEST GOOD TO THE GREATEST NUMBER."

NAPANEE, ONT., FRIDAY, FEB. 9, 1877.

BRISCO HOUSE, NAPANEE, ONT.

JOHN SOBY, - - Proprietor.

A First-Class Hotel

in all its Appointments.
Omnibuses meet all Trains and Steamers.

CAMPBELL HOUSE, NAPANEE, Ont.

THE PRINCIPAL HOTEL IN TOWN.

Good Stabling & Attentive Ostler.
CHARGES AS USUAL.

MARSDEN & MOORE,
PROPRIETORS.

TICHBORNE HOUSE,

(Corner Dundas & John Streets.)

NAPANEE.

ROBERT McDONALD,
Proprietor.

A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL.
CHARGES MODERATE.

QUEEN'S HOTEL, BELLEVILLE

Every Accommodation for Commercial
Travellers.

A. P. FARRELL,
PROPRIETOR.

35.

McDONALD HOUSE, (Late Clark House)

BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.

Bus to and from the cars. 39-y.

CUMMING'S

Specific for the Hair.

BRISCOE & SHUTTOCK, Proprietors
for Canada, No. 11, King Street,
West Toronto.

MAC. BOTTING,

Hair Dresser, Dundas Street, Napanee,
Sole Agent for Napanee and Counties of
Lennox and Addington. 42.

Land for Sale.

30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for
the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and
Wild Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres;
also of City, Town and Village Property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low
prices and easy terms.

Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets
Napanee.

JAMES F. BARTLES.

Napanee, Sept. 12th, 1876.

FOR CHEAP

A GEM FOR EVERY MONTH.

JANUARY.

By her who in this month is born
No gem save garnets should be worn;
They will insure her constancy,
True friendship and fidelity.

FEBRUARY.

The February-born will find
Sincerity and peace of mind;
Freedom from passion and from care,
If they the amethyst will wear.

MARCH.

Who in this world of ours their eyes
In March first open shall be wise;
In days of peril firm and brave,
And wear a bloodstone to their grave

APRIL.

She who from April dates her years,
Diamonds should wear, lest bitter tears,
For vain repentance flow; this stone
Emblem of innocence is known.

MAY.

Who first behold the light of day
In Spring's sweet flowery month of May,
And wears an emerald all her life,
Shall be a loved and happy wife.

JUNE.

Who comes with Summer to this earth,
And owes to June her day of birth,
With ring and agate on her hand
Can health, wealth and long life command.

JULY.

The glowing ruby should adorn
Those who in warm July are born;
Then will they be exempt and free
From love's doubts and anxiety.

AUGUST.

Wear a sardonyx, or for thee
No congenial fidelity;
The August-born without this stone
'Tis said must live unloved and alone.

SEPTEMBER.

A maiden born when autumn leaves
Are rustling in September's breeze,
A sapphire on her brow should bind—
'Twill cure diseases of the mind.

OCTOBER.

October's child is born for woe,
And life's vicissitudes must know;
But lay an opal on her breast,
And hope will lull those woes to rest.

NOVEMBER.

Who first comes to this world below
With drear November fog and snow
Should prize the topaz, amber hue—
Emblem of friends and lovers true.

DECEMBER.

If cold December gave you birth,
The month of snow and ice and mirth,
Place on your hand a turquoise blue,
Success will bless whate'er you do.

NOT EXPLAINED.

A Story in Three Parts.

PART II—(CONTINUED.)

THE SECOND TIME.

I had never seen the picture or any copies of it before. I had never met anyone in the least reminding me of it.
If you ask me how a face, thus utterly strange and unfamiliar, could remind me and would see no one; had that picture, unfinished as it was, hung up in the corner, and covered with a black cloth; and died in the course of a year or so."

"And the cousin?" I asked. It had come over me with an unpleasant thrill that the man with the sinister eyes should, after all, be connected with her.

"Ah! poor fellow, I'm afraid he must have been harder hit by the pretty runaway than men are nowadays. They say he never got over her flight, but moped about for some weeks, and then went away, and joined the Commonwealth in a fit of spleen. At her father's death he became ninth baron, and married a Scotch lady; but the Restoration took place shortly afterward, and he was of course a disgraced man; and whether it was that, or a domestic jar (for they say he led a cat-and-dog life with his wife), or the old wound, I know not, but he died one day by his own hand. Yes, it is a handsome portrait; but we are not proud of the original, for she was the only woman of our race that ever 'went wrong,' as the saying is; and, besides, she carried off with her things of great value to the rest of the family.

"Ah! the jewels," said his wife. "I have often read of them in the Abbey chronicles. Have you noticed how beautiful they are in the picture, Mr. Le Fane?"

"Yes," added my host. "They were given us by a French King, and were of great value. She wore them when sitting for her portrait, and she ran away with them the same day. It was affair of the jade, for they didn't belong to her; and were doubtless broken up and sold for a tenth of their value by Master Groom."

"But they have recovered since!" I exclaimed. "The present lord's sister
has worn them, has she not? Pardon me,
I have an object in asking, for I saw astonishment on more than one face, and felt that I was bound to explain.

"Most certainly not. They have never even been heard of since her disappearance; nor have we any like them in the family," said my host, "May I ask your object in—?"

"One moment. You will laugh at me;
but let me ask you one other question
first. You have a sister, or had, ten years ago, most wonderfully like her ill-fated niece, have you not? and who wore a dress, made in exact imitation of this, at an entertainment here? Perhaps you would not know it; but it was in the spring of 1865."

"Your questions certainly rouse my curiosity for their explanation," my host answered. We have a sister, undoubtedly but who does not, in any way, resemble this portrait. I myself was staying here through the spring and winter of 1865,
and there were no entertainments given here, beyond dinner parties and oper concert, at all. I remember the concert, because my sister came up to arrange about it. It was at the beginning of March—"

"Yes, yes," I said, eagerly; "the first week."

"And she took the whole management of it. My brother's wife was then too delicate for anything of the sort. As to her dress, I don't remember what it was,
possibly velvet—she is the eldest of the family, you know—but certainly in no

Verschoyle was again at the Abbey.
had missed him from town, but suppose he was somewhere with his regiment, and had not, indeed, given much thought to him. The body of the letter, however, was too mysteriously exciting to be disregarded. Artists are proverbially birds on the wing; and, having previously telegraphed to say I would come, I too the train for Ditchley that same afternoon.

At the Abbey I was received, not by my former hosts, but by Verschoyle and Lord Marloes himself, the latter of whom met me in the hall with an air of satisfaction at my coming, mingled with a certain gravity and excitement which showed me that the discovery alluded to was not without serious import. My questions as to what it was were, however, disregarded by both gentlemen; and while I was taking some refreshment after my journey, Verschoyle seized the opportunity to question me over again as to my adventure, which he had already related to Lord Marloes, asking me to repeat every little detail of the walk and remarking, with some acumen, the my remembrance of the whole affair was more vivid than when I had first spoke it.

I said that was perfectly true; as, when a long by gone history is suddenly recaled to one's mind, the minor incident connected with it are less apt to come to the surface than when subsequent thought has cleared and revived the impressions of the past. Likewise, this had been fortunate in finding a sketch made the day after the occurrence I had described; as also some private notes chiefly relating to sky tints and other data of the day's work, but containing sundry details bearing on the event in question, and which I might otherwise have forgotten.

"A sketch! That is more fortunate than I expected," cried Lord Marloes.
"You didn't know of that, Verschoyle?
I hope, Mr. Le Fane, you have got it
with you?"

My answer was to take the canvas
from a small square parcel which I had brought into the room, and to lay it on the table before him.

It is unnecessary to dwell on the surprise of both Lord Marloes and his friend when they looked at what was, at all appearance, a copy of the picture on stairs. It was not till after some minute had been given to its expression, and Verschoyle had pointed out the word
"A sister of Lord Marloes, taken in Ditchley Park," with the date roughly scrawled in paint on the back of the canvas, that my host said:

"You mentioned a look of fright an offence on the girl's face; but here it is bright enough, with somewhat of a listening expression, according to my idea."

"Your idea is correct. That is precisely the expression she wore when she turned her head as if to look whence the approaching footsteps came. It was not till she saw—not till afterward, that her face changed, and she turned her head directly and hurried on."

My host looked at me keenly.
"Pardon me," he said, "but you altered your sentence just now. You were going to say she saw—what! May I ask

Every Accommodation for Commercial Travellers.

A. P. FARRELL,
PROPRIETOR.

MCDONALD HOUSE,
(Late Clark House)

BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.
Buses to and from the cars.

30-yl.

CUMMING'S

Specific for the Hair.

BRISCOE & SHUTOCK, Proprietors
For Canada, No. 11, King Street,
West Toronto.

MAC. BOTTING,

Hair Dresser, Dundas Street. Napanee,
Sole Agent for Napanee and Counties of Lennox and Addington.

42.

 Land for Sale.
30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for
the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and
Wild Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres;
also of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low
prices and easy terms.
Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets
Napanee.

JAMES F. BARTLES.
Napanee, Sept. 12th, 1876.

FOR CHEAP

GROCERIES,

CROCKERY &

GLASSWARE,

GO TO

GEORGE REID'S

NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE.

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

A. PETERS, ODESSA,
DEALER IN

Sast, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese
Boxes, Tubs, Furlins, etc.

I am now making a very superior article
in a sawed cheese box; which I will sell at 12s. All orders intrusted to me will receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS.,

LIVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE BRISCOE HOUSE,) NAPANEE, ONT.

We keep nothing but First-Class
Horses and Vehicles, and at Reasonable
Prices

JNO. A. REID

The glowing ruby should adorn
Those who in warm July are born;
Then will they be exempt and free
From love's doubts and anxiety.

AUGUST.

Wear a sardonyx, or for thee
No congenial fidelity;
The August-born without this stone
'Tis said must live unloved and alone.

SEPTEMBER.

A maiden born when autumn leaves
Are rustling in September's breeze,
A sapphire on her brow should bind—
'Twill cure diseases of the mind.

OCTOBER.

October's child is born for woe,
And life's vicissitudes must know;
But lay an opal on her breast,
And hope will null those woes to rest.

NOVEMBER.

Who first comes to this world below
With drear November fog and snow
Should prize the topaz, amber hue—
Emblem of friends and lovers true.

DECEMBER.

If cold December gave you birth,
The month of snow and ice and mirth,
Place on your hand a turquoise blue,
Success will bless whatever you do.

NOT EXPLAINED.

A Story in Three Parts.

PART II—(CONTINUED.)

THE SECOND TIME.

I had never seen the picture or any copies of it before. I had never met anyone in the least reminding me of it.
If you ask me how a face, thus utterly
strange and unfamiliar, could remind me of a sound, unconnected with face or shape of any sort, I cannot answer. I can only aver as solemnly as I stand here that it did, and so intimately that one seemed as it were only a concomitant of the other. I made no comment on it whatever. I went on, answered some queries of my host's relative to another portrait, and then—stopped short, as if struck by a sudden blow, and cried out so loud as to startle them all.

"Good heavens! I was right. Here she is, too!"

We had come to a large narrow picture almost hidden by a projecting pillar at a corner of the gallery—the portrait of a lady in a canary-colored gown, the sleeves puffed and slashed with dark red, bodice cut square over the bosom, whose downy whiteness was partly hidden by a lace handkerchief. Clusters of diamonds and rubies glittering at her throat, and in her ears; and one hand was curled round the neck of a huge hound, whose dark muzzle rested on her knee. Her hair, which was black and curly was worn low on her forehead and down her neck behind; and the whole face was lit by an expression of mirth-ful sweetness mingled with an innocent consciousness of her own beauty. A beautiful face indeed! so beautiful that I had never seen its like but once before—the face of "my lord's sister" as she looked that evening when I met her in the park.

Naturally my violent start and exclamation—for which, indeed, I could have bitten out my tongue—excited a little wonder in those about me, and my host replied:

"She? Why, Mr. Le Fane, what can you know of this too fair and foolish an-cestress of mine?"

The tone was a little haughty, and I stammered something about having taken the face of the portrait of some one else some one I had seen. I even asked whether it had ever been engraved or exhibited—at a loan collection perhaps?

"Oh dear no!" he said. None of the portraits had ever been allowed to be copied or removed from the Abbey; and indeed, till within the last hundred years this one had not been visible to the visitors, being covered with a curtain; and he pointed to some blackened fragments of drapery still suspended to a cord some inches above the frame.

great value. She wore them when sitting for her portrait, and she ran away with them the same day. It was affair of the jade; for they didn't belong to her; and
were doubtless broken up and sold for a tenth of their value by Master Groom."

"But they have recovered since!" I exclaimed. "The present lord's sister
has worn them, has she not? Pardon me,
I have an object in asking," for I saw astonishment on more than one face, and
felt that I was bound to explain.

"Most certainly not. They have never even been heard of since her disappearance; nor have we any like them in the family," said my host, "May I ask your object in—?"

"One moment. You will laugh at me;
but let me ask you one other question
first. You have a sister, or had, ten years ago, most wonderfully like her ill-fated ancestress, have you not? and who wore a dress, made in exact imitation of this, at an entertainment here? Perhaps you would not know it; but it was in the spring of 1865."

"Your questions certainly rouse my curiosity for their explanation," my host answered. We have a sister, undoubtedly but who does not, in any way, resemble
this portrait. I myself was staying here
through the spring and winter of 1865,
and there were no entertainments
given here, beyond dinner parties and one concert, at all. I remember the concert, because my sister came up to arrange about it. It was at the beginning of March—"

"Yes, yes," I said, eagerly; "the first week."

"And she took the whole management
of it. My brother's wife was then too delicate for anything of the sort. As to her dress, I don't remember what it was,
possibly velvet—she is the eldest of the family, you know—but certainly in no way resembling this. Verschoyle knows her very well. She married Lork Castle garden the year afterward."

Lady Castlegarden! Of course I knew her well, too, by sight; had seen her scores of times in the Park and Row. A large, handsome woman enough, but who must have been past thirty ten years ago;
a woman no more like—no more to be compared with the lovely, liquid-eyed beauty of that spring evening, than night is to morning.

In a few words I told him the brief story of my adventure, and shortly afterward I went away. There has been a great deal of laughter and questioning, and many exclamations and suggestions that I had seen the picture, or even a sketch of it before—perhaps as a child; or had heard it described, and dreamt about it; or had seen a fancy dress somewhat resembling the one in the portrait, and had fancied the likeness in the face. Very plausible and well-sounding suggestions they all were but, as it happened, in no way corresponding to the plan, unintelligible fact of the case, and only affecting me in so far as to make me glad that there was one point in the story which I had kept back from them, as too fanciful even to bear the test of my own repeating—the shadow step at my side, and the ghastly, unaccountable thrill with which I had connected that step with the sinister eye cousin, who, I now learnt, had been one of the Lady Dorothea's slighted adorers.

PART III.

THE LAST TIME.

As may be easily supposed, after my visit to the Abbey, and the story I had heard in the picture gallery there, the subject of my early adventure with which it had been so strangely connected did not pass out of my mind as rapidly as it had previously done. On the contrary the laughter and incredulity with which it had been met had exactly the opposite effect. It stimulated me (as soon as I returned to town) to search among some old boxes containing various "reliquie" of my bachelorhood, for the sketch of which I had already spoken, and which I could not remember having destroyed.

If I had ever any doubts as to the exact-ness of my own memory, they disappeared at once, and for ever, when I came, thought had cleared and revived the impressions of the past. Likewise, that had been fortunate in finding a sketch

made the day after the occurrence I had described; as also some private notes,
chiefly relating to sky tints and other data of the day's work, but containing sundry details bearing on the event in question, and which I might otherwise
have forgotten.

"A sketch! That is more fortunate
than I expected," cried Lord Marloes.
"You didn't know of that, Verschoyle?
I hope, Mr. Le Fane, you have got it
with you!"

My answer was to take the canvas
from a small square parcel which I had brought into the room, and to lay it on the table before him.

It is unnecessary to dwell on the surprise of both Lord Marloes and his friend when they looked at what was, to all appearance, a copy of the picture up stairs. It was not till after some minutes had been given to its expression, and Verschoyle had pointed out the words,
"A sister of Lord Marloes, taken in Ditchley Park," with the date roughly scrawled in paint on the back of the
canvas, that my host said:

"You mentioned a look of fright and offence on the girl's face; but here it is bright enough, with somewhat of a listening expression, according to my idea."

"Your idea is correct. That is precisely the expression she wore when she turned her head as if to look whence the approaching footsteps came. It was not till she saw—not till afterward, that
her face changed, and she turned her head directly and hurried on."

My host looked at me keenly.
"Pardon me," he said, "but you altered your sentence just now. You were going to say she saw—what! May I ask you to go on?"

"I would rather not, my lord; simply because what I was going to add appears even to myself too fanciful to be put into words. But it is this I mentioned to you the resulting sound like the stealthy step of some one following me which first attracted my attention. Well, no sooner did I see the young lady I have sketched, than I became conscious in some unac-countable fashion that it was she, not I, who was being followed; that she saw what I could not see; and that it was this sight which brought the change over her face which I have described."

"And you have no idea what it was?
You saw nothing! You have nothing more to tell us then?" cried Lord Marloes, in such evident disappointment, that, at the risk of mockery, I made up my mind to tell him all.

"I saw nothing," I answered; "but as to any idea what it was—if, as I expect, you have already set me down as a maniac, you will not be surprised at what I am now going to tell you being in keeping with the rest of my mania. You know that portrait of this fair lady's cousin? When I came in front of it last year, never having seen it before, mark you! nor having as yet seen hers, I felt (how or why I cannot tell you) that it was the step of the man painted there that I heard in this park ten years before, and I knew (how or why I cannot tell either) that it was he, and no other, who forced from her that cry for help which had made me hasten, though all in vain, to the rescue."

My host rose to my feet.
"Whether you are a maniac or not,"
he said, gravely, "your story is the strangest and most unaccountable I have ever heard; and you will not think it less so, when you have seen what I have to show
you. Will you come this way?"

Without another word he opened the door and passed out of the room, Verschoyle and I following him.

At the entrance of the picture gallery, however, those two drew back, and suffered me to precede them a little. I did not go very far.

There on the wall before me, hung the painted image of the fair Lady Dorothea whose discredited name had been a thorn and a slur on the family for so many generations, her bright eyes and laughing lips, which had carried away so many hearts, still beaming on me from the can-

GO TO

GEORGE REID'S

NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE.

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

A. PETERS, ODESSA,

DEALER IN

Saddlery, Boots, and Mouldings, Cheese Boxes, Tubs, Firkins, etc.

I am now making a very superior article in a sawed cheese box; which I will sell at 12s. All orders entrusted to me will receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS.,

IVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE ERISCO HOUSE,)

NAPANEE, ONT.

We keep nothing but First-Class Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE PRICES

Jno. A. REID

VET. SURGEON
NAPANEE ONT.

GRADUATE OF

Ontario Veterinary College.

May be consulted on all diseases of Domesticated Animals, personally at Campbell House or by letter.

TERMS MODERATE

OFFICE—Warner Block.

WESTERN

ASSURANCE COMPANY.

Incorporated 1851.

CAPITAL, $500,000.

With power to increase to $1,000,000.

FIRE AND MARINE.

HEAD OFFICE: Toronto, Ont.

President,

HON. JOHN McMURRICH.

Vice-President,

CHARLES MAGRATH.

Directors,

JAS. MICHIE, Esq. NOAH BARNHART, Esq.
JOHN FISKE, Esq. ROBT. BEATY, Esq.
A. M. SMITH, Esq. WM. GOODERHAM, Jr., Esq.

BERNARD WALDAN, Managing Director.
FRED'K G. C. LOVELACE, Secretary.
WM. BLIGHT, Fire Inspector.
JAMES PHINGLE, General Agent.

Insurances effected at the lowest current rates on Buildings, Merchandise, and other property, against loss or damage by fire.

On Hull Cargo, and Freight against the perils of Inland Navigation.

On Cargo Risks with the Maritime Provinces by sail or steam.

On Cargoes by steamers to British Ports.

W. V. DETLOR.
Agent for Napanee

other portrait, and then—stopped short, as if struck by a sudden blow, and cried out so loud as to startle them all.

"Good heavens! I was right. Here she is, too!"

We had come to a large narrow picture almost hidden by a projecting pillar at a corner of the gallery—the portrait of a lady in a canary-colored gown, the sleeves puffed and slashed with dark red, bodice cut square over the bosom, whose downy whiteness was partly hidden by a lace handkerchief. Clusters of diamonds and rubies glittering at her throat, and in her ears; and one hand was curled round the neck of a huge hound, whose dark muzzle rested on her knee. Her hair, which was black and curly was worn low on her forehead and down her neck behind; and the whole face was lit by an expression of mirthful sweetness mingled with an innocent consciousness of her own beauty. A beautiful face indeed! so beautiful that I had never seen its like but once before—the face of "my lord's sister" as she looked that evening when I met her in the park.

Naturally my violent start and exclamation—for which, indeed, I could have bitten out my tongue—excited a little wonder in those about me, and my host replied:

"She? Why, Mr. Le Fane, what can you know of this too fair and foolish ancestress of mine?"

The tone was a little haughty, and I stammered something about having taken the face of the portrait of some one else—some one I had seen. I even asked whether it had ever been engraved or exhibited—at a loan collection perhaps?

"Oh dear no!" he said. None of the portraits had ever been allowed to be copied or removed from the Abbey; and indeed, till within the last hundred years this one had not been visible to the visitors, being covered with a curtain; and he pointed to some blackened fragments of drapery still suspended to a cord some inches above the frame.

"The portrait, then, has a history?" I said, with as much coolness as I could command. "Certainly the original must have been beautiful enough to warrant one. May we hear it, if the request is not impertinent?"

"By all means. The fair Lady Dorothea lived too long ago for her follies to affect us personally (even as a warning to you, my dear!)" nodding his head at his blooming sister-in-law, who was somehow always to be found lingering with Verschoyle in the rear of the rest of the party. "The story is only too common, I'm afraid, and is simply this: She was very lovely, as you see, and had a host of lovers, as you infer. Also she was a coquette, and so hard to please that she couldn't make up her mind as to whom to take; and a story got abroad that she had so far disgraced herself as to set her affections on a person far beneath her station—a groom, I believe, who was, in point of fact, dismissed his place as soon as the report reached the ears of the family. A fortnight later my lady disappeared too. She had been sitting for her picture—you will see that part of the background and drapery are still tarnished—and went out in the park afterward, under pretence of looking for her favorite hound, which, she said, had run away from her. At any rate she had the leash for his neck in her hand when she was last seen leaving the garden door, and she returned no more. Every search and enquiry after her was made, headed by her cousin, the bearded gentleman there, at whose portrait you were gazing so intently a few minutes back, and who was one of her most ardent suitors. From private information, however, he learned in the course of a few days that she had actually died across the seas with this very servant fellow; and from that day, you may guess, her name was dropped at the Abbey. The shock and disgrace broke her father's heart. He grew quite childish, shut himself up in his private rooms, must have been past thirty ten year ago; a woman no more like—no more to be compared with the lovely, liquid-eyed beauty of that spring evening, than night is to morning.

In a few words I told him the brief story of my adventure, and shortly afterward I went away. There has been a great deal of laughter and questioning, and many exclamations and suggestions that I had seen the picture, or even a sketch of it before—perhaps as a child; or had heard it described, and dreamt about it; or had seen a fancy dress somewhat resembling the one in the portrait, and had fancied the likeness in the face. Very plausible and well-sounding suggestions they all were, but as it happened, in no way corresponding to the plain, unintelligible fact of the case, and only affecting me in so far as to make me glad that there was one point in the story which I had kept back from them, as too fanciful even to bear the test of my own repeating—the shadow step at my side, and the ghastly, unaccountable thrill with which I had connected that step with the sinister eye-cousin, who, I now learnt, had been one of the Lady Dorothea's slighted adorers.

PART III.

THE LAST TIME.

As may be easily supposed, after my visit to the Abbey, and the story I had heard in the picture gallery there, the subject of my early adventure with which it has been so strangely connected did not pass out of my mind as rapidly as it had previously done. On the contrary the laughter and incredulity with which it had been met had exactly the opposite effect. It stimulated me (as soon as I returned to town) to search among some old boxes containing various "relics" of my bachelorhood, for the sketch of which I had already spoken, and which I could not remember having destroyed.

If I had ever any doubts as to the exactness of my own memory, they disappeared at once, and for ever, when I came, as by a lucky chance I did, upon the missing canvas. With the single exception of the surrounding my sketch of ten years back might have been one taken from the portrait itself of the lovely Lady Dorothea Dysart then hanging in the picture gallery at Ditchley Abbey.

Nay, more! The thing "like a strap," which I had noticed she held in her hand I now recognized as the leash for her hound, with which, according to the old chronicle, she has gone out on the unhappy day of her elopement. I think I should have written to Verschoyle, and mentioned the fact to him but for an event which drove it out of my mind.

One of my children was taken ill with a dangerous and infectious disorder, and during the long weeks of her malady—a malady at which only death brought a termination—all idea of remembrance of anything connected with the realms of romance was banished from me by the obliterating hand of stern, hourly trouble and anxiety.

You may guess, then, at my surprise when, almost a twelvemonth afterward I received a note from Verschoyle, couched in the following words:

"DEAR LE FANE: Something has been discovered here, strangely connected with that picture in the gallery. It seems to make a horrible sequel to your adventure at which I'm afraid we made too merry last year. Lord Marloes thinks so at any rate, and therefore would like you, if you are still interested in the subject, to run down here and see the thing which was found two days ago.

Yours, &c.,

"E. VERSCHOYLE.

"P. S.—I don't know if you have heard that Tom Dysart has got his majority, and I am engaged to his sister-in-law, the young lady you met here at lunch?"

I had not heard it. I had heard nothing of the party since I had returned to London, and did not even know that attracted my attention. Well, no sooner did I see the young lady I have sketched, than I became conscious in some unaccountable fashion that it was she, not I, who was being followed; that she saw what I could not see; and that it was this sight which brought the change over her face which I have described."

"And you have no idea what it was? You saw nothing! You have nothing more to tell us then?" cried Lord Marloes, in such evident disappointment, that, at the risk of mockery, I made up my mind to tell him all.

"I saw nothing," I answered; "but as to any idea what it was—if, as I expect, you have already set me down as a maniac, you will not be surprised at what I am now going to tell you being in keeping with the rest of my mania. You know that portrait of this fair lady's cousin? When I came in front of it last year, never having seen it before, mark you! nor having as yet seen hers, I felt (how or why I cannot tell you) that it was the step of the man painted there that I heard in this park ten years before; and I knew (how or why I cannot tell either) that it was he, and no other, who forced from her that cry for help which had made me hasten, though all in vain, to the rescue."

My host rose to my feet.

"Whether you are a maniac or not," he said, gravely, "your story is the strangest and most unaccountable I have ever heard; and you will not think it less so, when you have seen what I have to show you. Will you come this way?"

Without another word he opened the door and passed out of the room, Verschoyle and I following him.

At the entrance of the picture gallery, however, those two drew back, and suffered me to precede them a little. I did not go very far.

There on the wall before me, hung the painted image of the fair Lady Dorothea, whose discredited name had been a thorn and a slur on the family for so many generations, her bright eyes and laughing lips, which had carried away so many hearts, still beaming on me from the canvas in all the joyous coquetry of her youth and innocence.

There on the floor beneath it, stood a long deal case, of that ominous shape we all know too well, painted black, and covered with a cloth. At a sign from Lord Marloes, Verschoyle removed the latter, and, coming nearer, I saw laid within it the fleshless skeleton of a human figure. Brown, bare, hideous, and earthy, it lay there, with no sign of womanliness—no trace of beauty left, but with the lambent flash and lustre of the French King's diamonds still gleaming from the fleshless joints of the throat—still lying on either side of the grisly, blackened skull.

The pictured woman smiled down on me from above; the dead woman grinned up at me from below; and only those jewels remained to tell us, who looked upon them, that they were one and the same.

"My God!" I cried. "Do you mean to say that her body has been found? Where?"

Some one answered: who, I do not know:

"Within a few yards of the path at the further side of the little hill, from which you heard her cry for help."

"She never eloped, then, at all!" I went on, the ghastly truth dawning more fully on me. "She was murdered! Good heavens! murdered, and not for gain!"

Again some one answered: "She was murdered, and not for gain. The proof is in those jewels left on her body. Something else was left, too. See?"

It was my host who pointed; and, stooping, I saw what had escaped my eyes before—the handle and a couple inches of the blade of a short hunting knife. The remainder of it was buried between the ribs on the left side of the body, where it had been left sticking after

5 Sheet

Express.

THE GREATEST NUMBER."

($1.00 per annum, if paid in advance

DAY, FEB. 9, 1877.

NO. 46.

would see no one; had that picture, nished as it was, hung up in the er, and covered with a black cloth; died in the course of a year or so." And the cousin?" I asked. It had e over me with an unpleasant thrill the man with the sinister eyes ld, after all, be connected with her. Ah! poor fellow, I'm afraid he must e been harder hit by the pretty runny than men are nowadays. They say never got over her flight, but moped it for some weeks, and then went y, and joined the Commonwealth in of spleen. At her father's death he me ninth baron, and married a ch lady; but the Restoration took e shortly afterward, and he was of se a disgraced man; and whether as that, or a domestic jar (for they he led a cat-and-dog life with his), or the old wound, I know not, but died one day by his own hand. Yes, a handsome portrait; but we are proud of the original, for she was the woman of our race that ever 'went ng,' as the saying is; and, besides, she ied off with her things of great value e rest of the family.

Ah! the jewels," said his wife. "I e often read of them in the Abbey nicles. Have you noticed how beau- i they are in the picture, Mr. Le e?"

Yes," added my host. "They were n us by a French King, and were of t value. She wore them when sitting er portrait, and she ran away with n the same day. It was affair of the , for they didn't belong to her; and o doubtless broken up and sold for a h of their value by Master Groom." But they have recovered since?" I aimed. "The present lord's sister worn them, has she not? Pardon me, ve an object in asking," for I saw nishment on more than one face, and that I was bound to explain.

Most certainly not. They have never been heard of since her disappear- ; nor have we any like them in the ly," said my host, "May I ask your of in—?"

One moment. You will laugh at me; let me ask you one other question. You have a sister, or had, ten s ago, most wonderfully like her ill l ancestrous, have you not? and who a dress, made in exact imitation of at an entertainment here? Perhaps would not know it; but it was in the ag of 1865."

Your questions certainly rouse my osity for their explanation," my host vered. We have a sister, undoubtedly who does not, in any way, resemble portrait. I myself was staying; here ough the spring and winter of 1865, there were no entertainments n here, beyond dinner parties and concert, at all. I remember the con- , because my sister came up to arrange it. It was at the beginning of ch—"

Yes, yes," I said, eagerly; "the first k."

Verschoyle was again at the Abbey. I had missed him from town, but supposed he was somewhere with his regiment, and had not, indeed, given much thought to him. The body of the letter, however, was too mysteriously exciting to be disregarded. Artists are proverbially birds on the wing; and, having previously telegraphed to say I would come, I took the train for Ditchley that same after-noon.

At the Abbey I was received, not by my former hosts, but by Verschoyle and Lord Marloes himself, the latter of whom met me in the hall with an air of satisfaction at my coming, mingled with a certain gravity and excitement which showed me that the discovery alluded to was not without serious import. My questions as to what it was were, however, disregarded by both gentlemen; and while I was taking some refreshments after my journey, Verschoyle seized the opportunity to question me over again as to my adventure, which he had already related to Lord Marloes, asking me to repeat every little detail of the walk; and remarking, with some acumen, that my remembrance of the whole affair was more vivid than when I had first spoken it.

I said that was perfectly true; as, when a long by gone history is suddenly recalled to one's mind, the minor incidents connected with it are less apt to come to the surface than when subsequent thought has cleared and revived the impressions of the past. Likewise, that had been fortunate in finding a sketch made the day after the occurrence I had described; as also some private notes, chiefly relating to sky tints and other data of the day's work, but containing sundry details bearing on the event in question, and which I might otherwise have forgotten.

"A sketch! That is more fortunate than I expected," cried Lord Marloes. "You didn't know of that, Verschoyle? I hope, Mr. Le Fane, you have got it with you?"

My answer was to take the canvas from a small square parcel which I had brought into the room, and to lay it on the table before him.

It is unnecessary to dwell on the surprise of both Lord Marloes and his friend when they looked at what was, to all appearance, a copy of the picture up stairs. It was not till after some minutes had been given to its expression, and Verschoyle had pointed out the words, "A sister of Lord Marloes, taken in Ditchley Park," with the date roughly scrawled in paint on the back of the canvas, that my host said:

"You mentioned a look of fright and offence on the girl's face; but here it is bright enough, with somewhat of a listening expression, according to my idea."

"Your idea is correct. That is precisely the expression she wore when she turned her head as if to look whence the approaching footsteps came. It was not till she saw—not till afterward, that she turned and she found her-the below was dealt which, in one deep rent, let out the young life within and made a Cain the more on earth.

"Look narrowly at the handle," said Lord Marloes, his voice seeming to break harshly on the silence, as we stood gazing downward, too awed for words. "You see that it is of silver, and rather curiously shaped; also that it bears the family crest. Now, look there!"

I knew beforehand where he was pointing—at that portrait to which now, as before, I felt an instinctive repugnance to lift my eyes. I knew beforehand that the man there wore a knife with such a handle in his belt. Not that I remembered having noticed it previously. Probably most men carried weapons at that time.

"I believe, if one were to take it out and clean it, it would be found to be identical with that in the painting," said Verschoyle curiously. No one touched it, however, and as if by one accord we turned shivering away. Some one lingered to throw the cover again over that ghastly form. Her name had suffered outrage enough in all these years. It was time to show her some respect now.

Down stairs, Lord Marloes said:

"It was in making a path across the plantation that the laborers came on it, buried in a hollow long overgrown with weeds and brambles. The body had evidently been flung down there immediately after the murder, and loosely heaped over with leaves, boughs, and shingle. Time had done the rest. The only wonder is that it was never discovered before."

"Yes, that is the wonder." No one said any more. The awfulness and mystery were still too heavy on us. After a minute, Lord Marloes added:

"The knife might have had a fellow, or have been stolen by some one else. We haven't any proof that he used it."

There was no answer this time. I don't suppose that one of us felt the smallest doubt on that subject. If that vision from the dead were not proof, if that nameless thrill creeping over a stranger at the sight of the murderer's face were not substantiation damnable and sure, what evidence could any mortal man bring now to bear upon the past?

I have nothing more to add. I left the Abbey that evening; and I have not hap- pened to meet any of its occupants since. I cannot say I ever wish to enter it again, or envy the future wearers of those famous jewels, which, for near three hundred years, had been the funeral tiring of a corpse, and are now, I hear, restored to their old dignity in the family cof-fers.

It is possible that you who read this may laugh at the whole story, and look on me as a lunatic, a spiritualist, or worse. Be it so. All I have to say is that which I saw with my own eyes; and that which I did not understand I have not attempted to explain. As to my solution of the mystery, any reason why a stranger and a passer-by should (if it were so) have been singled out for the witness of a message from the grave is a message which not told him nothing

MOTHER. KISS ME GOOD NIGHT.

Dear mother, when my prayer is said,
Before you take the light,
Oh! lean your head so closely down,
And always kiss "good night;"
For I am happier in my dreams,
And sleep in sweeter rest,
If I have laid my lips to thine,
And thine to mine are pressed.

One kiss, dear mother, for the love
My heart keeps warm for the;
And one for all the tenderness
Thy sweet eyes look to me,
Kiss me forgiveness for my wrongs;
Kiss me with hope and prayer
That I shall be a better child,
And more reward thy care.

Kiss me for some poor orphan child,
To whom no kiss is given;
And next for all the happy ones,
And then for one in Heaven.
Kiss me for everything I love,
The beautiful, and bright;
Sweet mother, kiss me for thyself
Once more and now "good-night."

QUEEN VICTORIA'S NEW TITLE.

Mr. Fawcett, M. P., in a speech recently delivered before his constituents at Shoreditch, said:—"Of all the foolish things the present Government had done and there were many, the most foolish was to change the time honoured title of our Sovereign, and to give to the Indian people a Sovereign with a name which we repudiate here. He regarded with great misgiving what was done at Delhi last week. Never before did we attempt to exhibit Western civilization to the people of India by entering with them upon a rivalry of barbaric splendour and meretricious glitter. Depend upon it that anything we might attempt in that direction would only impress them with a feeling of their own superiority. Never, moreover, was any ceremonial performed at so unpropitious a time. They might get details of all the expenses spent in this tomfoolery—£200 spent on a herald's and perhaps £2,000 on an elephant's trappings—but there was something they would never know, and that was the extent to which the native Princes would be encouraged to enter into a revelry of wasteful extravagance, and its effects upon the people under their rule. While this expenditure was going on at Delhi, in two of the greatest provinces in India hundreds and thousands of people were suffering all the horrors of famine, and in another part of India 250,000 people in a single hour were drowned in their beds, while 500,000 had their homes destroyed and everything they possessed swept away. This was surely not the time when England should have sanctioned a costly and useless extravagance.

JEALOUSY'S TROUBLES.

A young married man, of extremely jealous disposition, recently visited one of the most famous clairvoyants in the city. Being far from home, he wanted to know what his wife was doing.

"She is looking out of the window, evidently expecting some one."

"That is strange," said Benedict; "who can she expect?"

"Some one enters the door, and she crosses him fondly," went on the clairvoyant.

"It can't be," exclaimed the excited husband; "my wife is true to me."

"Now he lays his head in her lap and looks tenderly in her eyes."

"It is false; I'll make you pay dearly for this," yelled the jealous husband.

"Now he wags his tail," said the medium.

Mr. creep-eyed monster subsided, and The Young Man and cheerfull paid over doubtless broken up and sold for a of their value by Master Groom." at they have recovered since!" I med. "The present lord's sister orn them, has she not? Pardon me, e an object in asking," for I saw ishment on more than one face, and at I was bound to explain.

ost certainly not. They have never been heard of since her disappear-; nor have any like them in the r," said my host, "May I ask your in—?"

ne moment. You will laugh at me; t me ask you one other question

You have a sister, or had, ten ago, most wonderfully like her ill ancestrous, have you not? and who a dress, made in exact imitation of it an entertainment here? Perhaps ould not know it; but it was in the g of 1865.

our questions certainly rouse my ity for their explanation," my host red. We have a sister, undoubtedly o does not, in any way, resemble ortrait. I myself was staying; here gh the spring and winter of 1865, here were no entertainments here, beyond dinner parties and oncert, at all. I remember the con- ecause my sister came up to arrange it. It was at the beginning of as, yes," I said, eagerly; "the first nd she took the whole management

My brother's wife was then too to for anything of the sort. As to ress, I don't remember what it was, ly velvet—she is the eldest of the y, you know—but certainly in no esembling this. Verschoyle knows ry well. She married Lork Castle n the year afterward."

ly Castle garden! Of course I knew elly too, by sight; had seen her o times in the Park and Row. A handsome woman enough, but who have been past thirty ten year ago; an no more like—no more to be ared with the lovely, liquid-eyed y of that spring evening, than is to morning.

a few words I told him the brief of my adventure, and shortly after- I went away. There has been a deal of laughter and questioning, any exclamations and suggestions, had seen the picture, or even a h of it before—perhaps as a child; d heard it described, and dreamt it; or had seen a fancy dress some- resembling the one in the portrait, had fancied the likeness in the Very plausible and well-sounding stions they all were—but, as it hap- l, in no way corresponding to the unintelligible fact of the case, and affecting me in so far as to make ad that there was one point in the which I had kept back from them, o fanciful even to bear the test of n repeating—the shadow step at de, and the ghastly, unaccountable with which I had connected that with the sinister eye cousin, who, I learnt, had been one of the Lady thea's slighted adorers.

PART III.

THE LAST TIME.

may be easily supposed, after my to the Abbey, and the story I had l in the picture gallery there, the et of my early adventure with which s been so strangely connected did ass out of my mind as rapidly as I previously done. On the contrary aughter and incredulity with which d been met had exactly the opposite t. It stimulated me (as soon as I ned to town) to search among some oxes containing various "relique" y bachelorhood, for the sketch of I had already spoken, and which I l not remember having destroyed. I had ever any doubts as to the exact- of my own memory, they disappear- t once, and for ever, when I came, y a lucky chance I did, upon the ing canvas. With the single excep- of the surrounding my sketch of ten described; as also some private notes, chiefly relating to sky tints and other data of the day's work, but containing sundry details bearing on the event in question, and which I might otherwise have forgotten.

"A sketch! That is more fortunate than I expected," cried Lord Marloes. "You didn't know of that, Verschoyle? I hope, Mr. Le. Fane, you have got it with you!"

My answer was to take the canvas from a small square parcel which I had brought into the room, and to lay it on the table before him.

It is unnecessary to dwell on the surprise of both Lord Marloes and his friend when they looked at what was, to all appearance, a copy of the picture up stairs. It was not till after some minutes had been given to its expression, and Verschoyle had pointed out the words, "A sister of Lord Marloes, taken in Ditchley Park," with the date roughly scrawled in paint on the back of the canvas, that my host said:

"You mentioned a look of fright and offence on the girl's face; but here it is bright enough, with somewhat of a listening expression, according to my idea."

"Your idea is correct. That is precisely the expression she wore when she turned her head as if to look whence the approaching footsteps came. It was not till she saw—not till afterward, that her face changed, and she turned her head directly and hurried on."

My host looked at me keenly. "Pardon me," he said, "but you altered your sentence just now. You were going to say she saw—what! May I ask you to go on?"

"I would rather not, my lord; simply because what I was going to add appears even to myself too fanciful to be put into words. But it is this I mentioned to you the resulting sound like the stealthy step of some one following me which first attracted my attention. Well, no sooner did I see the young lady I have sketched, than I became conscious in some unaccountable fashion that it was she, not I, who was being followed; that she saw what I could not see; and that it was this sight which brought the change over her face which I have described."

"And you have no idea what it was? You saw nothing! You have nothing more to tell us then?" cried Lord Marloes, in such evident disappointment, that, at the risk of mockery, I made up my mind to tell him all.

"I saw nothing," I answered; "but as to any idea what it was—if, as I expect, you have already set me down as a maniac, you will not be surprised at what I am now going to tell you being in keeping with the rest of my mania. You know that portrait of this fair lady's cousin? When I came in front of it last year, never having seen it before, mark you! nor having as yet seen hers, I felt (how or why I cannot tell you) that it was the step of the man painted there that I heard in this park ten years before; and I knew (how or why I cannot tell either) that it was he, and no other, who forced from her that cry for help which had made me hasten, though all in vain, to the rescue."

My host rose to my feet. "Whether you are a maniac or not," he said, gravely, "your story is the strangest and most unaccountable I have ever heard; and you will not think it less so, when you have seen what I have to show you. Will you come this way?"

Without another word he opened the door and passed out of the room, Verschoyle and I following him.

At the entrance of the picture gallery, however, those two drew back, and suffered me to precede them a little. I did not go very far.

There on the wall before me, hung the painted image of the fair Lady Dorothea: whose discredited name had been a thorn and a slur on the family for so many generations, her bright eyes and laughing lips, which had carried away so many hearts, still beaming on me from the canvas in all the joyous coquetry of her youth and innocence.

There on the floor beneath it, stood a said any more. The awfulness and mystery were still too heavy on us. After a minute, Lord Marloes added:

"The knife might have had a fellow, or have been stolen by some one else. We haven't any proof that he used it."

There was no answer this time. I don't suppose that one of us felt the smallest doubt on that subject. If that vision from the dead were not proof, if that nameless thrill creeping over a stranger at the sight of the murderer's face were not substantiation damnable and sure, what evidence could any mortal man bring now to bear upon the past?

I have nothing more to add. I left the Abbey that evening; and I have not happened to meet any of its occupants since. I cannot say I ever wish to enter it again, or envy the future wearers of those famous jewels, which, for near three hundred years, had been the funeral tiring of a corpse, and are now, I hear, restored to their old dignity in the family coffers.

It is possible that you who read this may laugh at the whole story, and look on me as a lunatic, a spiritualist, or worse. Be it so. All I have to say is that which I saw I saw with my own eyes; that which I did not understand I have not attempted to explain. As to my solution of the mystery, any reason why a stranger and a passer-by should (if it were so) have been singled out for the witness of a message from the grave—a message which yet told him nothing for so many years—these may seek for it who like. For myself, I am not one who shares in the rage for translating everything, no matter how far it is beyond us, to the level of our present stage of small and partially developed reasoning. Call it what you will—the hand of God pointing inexorably to the discovery of a buried crime, or the hallucination of a diseased brain—the facts are there unalterable; and such as they are, I have given them to you.

THE CENTENNIAL LIAR.

Old Mrs. Robertson, who had been to the Centennial, struck in on old Pettingill last week with a talk about the exhibition of national prosperity. She had told him all about what she had seen. After asking about the butter woman and a hundred wonderful things that Pettingill had to say he didn't see, the old lady asked with much interest:

"Well, what did you see?" "I saw," said Mr. Pettingill, looking at her intently, "I saw an ice-cream horse, life size, galloping around the track."

"Oh, Mr. Pettingill," said the old lady.

"Yes, madam, you may well say 'oh.' It was wonderful that you didn't see it. But then they took it back to freeze it hard every five minutes, so you may have missed it."

"Oh, Mr. Pettingill!" "Yes, madam, and I saw the lard eagle of which you have spoken, and heard it scream—a wild scream of agony like a bird that had been talked to death about the Centennial. As I left the grounds Friday evening, it soared up and flew off to Cincinnati."

"Oh, Mr. Pettingill." "Yes, madam, and I saw the carriage George Washington rode in, and the three queens and a jack that he shoved under the seat when he sat outside of the church playing draw poker, and Mrs. Washington lighted in on him earlier than he expected from a short sermon, and I saw a handful of his hair that Mrs. W. took out that identical Sabbath morn- ing."

"Oh h-h. Mr. Pettingill!" "Yes, madam, and I saw the quilt worked by Queen Victoria, and the Princess Beatrice and all the other princesses, and I counted the nineteen billion, four hundred and sixty five stitches in it while I was standing there."

"Oh, Mr. Pettingill!" "Yes, madam, and I saw the silk-making machine, where you put in a silk-worm at one end and it comes out at the other a fullblown silk dress ready made, with a living humming bird in the back."

the people under their rule. While the expenditure was going on at Delhi, in two of the greatest provinces in India hundreds and thousands of people were suffering all the horrors of famine, and in another part of India 250,000 people in a single hour were drowned in their beds, while 500,000 had their homes destroyed and everything they possessed swept away. This was surely not the time when England should have sanctioned a costly and useless extravagance.

JEALOUSY'S TROUBLES.

A young, married man, of extremely jealous disposition, recently visited one of the most famous clairvoyants in the city. Being far from home, he wanted to know what his wife was doing.

"She is looking out of the window, evidently expecting some one."

"That is strange," said Benedict; "who can she expect?"

"Some one enters the door, and she caresses him fondly," went on the clairvoyant.

"It can't be," exclaimed the excited husband; "my wife is true to me."

"Now he lays his head in her lap and looks tenderly in her eyes."

"It is false; I'll make you pay dearly for this," yelled the jealous husband.

"Now he wags his tail," said the medium.

Mr. green-eyed monster subsided, and The Youngster and cheerfull paid over his five dollars.

REMARKABLE MARKSMANSHIP.

Two brothers named Watson have been giving remarkable exhibitions of foolhardiness and skill in Tony Pastor's Theatre, New York. They had billed as "noted Western scouts and sharpshooters," and have, the look of frontiersmen. They begin by displaying rifles, and shooting bullets through blocks of wood, to prove that the ammunition and missiles are genuine. On both sides of the stage, close to the front, thick wooden pads are placed for the bullets to lodge in.

At the beginning of the display of marksmanship one man holds an apple in his fingers, and the other shoot a ball through it from across the stage; and next the man who had risked his fingers becomes the shooter in a repetition of the last. Each in turn hits the bull's eye of a target ten times without a miss, the bull's eye being just above the head of the brother who holds the apple. A potato is placed on one's head and shot off by the other, the potato being split to pieces and the bullet entering the pad in front of which the holder stands. This feat is repeated many times, the brothers changing the attitudes, and holding the rifle in position: seemingly awkward enough to increase the peril. The brothers wheel quickly and shoot potatoes simultaneously off each other's heads. The other day one of the potatoes was barely grazed, but a second trial was more successful. A candle was snuffed by a bullet; and as a culmination, one held a lighted cigar in his mouth and the other shot off the ashes, the distance being the entire length of the stage. The brothers, who profess to have acquired their skill by long practice on the plains, use breech loading rifles, and handle them with wonderful quickness. The youngest seems to be the best marksman—at least he fires the quicker after getting his weapon up to aim, and rarely fails to hit. The oldest sometimes misses.

Small pox increases in London England.

The spire of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, is 315 feet height, and is the highest in America.

In Meriden Conn., a new twenty-two pound baby has an eighty-five pound mother.

The London, Eng., Tramway Co. are going to run their cars by steam.

Julia Stockfield, a prisoner at Lacrosse jail, Minn., suicided by setting her clothes on fire with coal from a stove.

A woman at West Pittston, Pa., named of times in the Park and Row. A handsome woman enough, but who have been past thirty ten year ago; an no more like—no more to be red with the lovely, liquid-eyed of that spring evening, than s to morning.

few words I told him the brief of my adventure, and shortly after went away. There has been a leal of laughter and questioning, any exclamations and suggestions had seen the picture, or even a of it before—perhaps as a child; heard it described, and dreamt it; or had seen a fancy dress some-embles the one in the portrait, ad fancied the likeness in the Very plausible and well-sounding tions they all were but, as it hap- in no way corresponding to the mintelligible fact of the case, and flecting me in so far as to make d that there was one point in the which I had kept back from them, fanciful even to bear the test of n repeating—the shadow step at e, and the ghastly, unaccountable with which I had connected that ith the sinister eye cousin, who, I arnt, had been one of the Lady hea's slighted adorers.

PART III.

THE LAST TIME.

may be easily supposed, after my o the Abbey, and the story I had in the picture gallery there, the t of my early adventure with which been so strangely connected did ss out of my mind as rapidly as it eviously done. On the contrary ighter and incredulity with which been met had exactly the opposite

It stimulated me (as soon as I ed to town) to search among some es containing various "relique" bachelorhood, for the sketch of I had already spoken, and which I not remember having destroyed.

had ever any doubts as to the exact- of my own memory, they disappear- once, and for ever, when I came, a lucky chance I did, upon the ng canvas. With the single excep- of the surrounding my sketch of ten back might have been one taken the portrait itself of the lovely Lady hea Dysart then hanging in the e gallery at Ditchley Abbey.

y, more! The thing "like a strap," I had noticed she held in her hand e recognized as the leash for her l, with which, according to the old icle, she has gone out on the un- day of her elopement. I think I d have written to Verschoyle, and oped the fact to him but for an which drove it out of my mind.

e of my children was taken ill with gerous and infectious disorder, and g the the long weeks of her malady aladay to which only death brought nination—all idea or remembrance ything connected with the realms of ae was banished from me by the rasting hand of stern, hourly trouble xivity.

n may guess, then, at my surprise, , almost a twelvemonth afterward eived a note from Verschoyle, ed in the following words: "EAR LE FANG. Something has been vered here, strangely connected with picture in the gallery. It seems to a horrible sequel to your adventure ich I'm afraid we made too merry ear. Lord Marloes thinks so at ate, and therefore would like you, , are still interested in the subject, to own here and see the thing which found two days ago.

Yours, &c.,

"E. VERSCHOYLE.

. S.—I don't know if you have heard Tom Dysart has got his majority, I am engaged to his sister-in-law, young lady you met here at lunch?" e had not heard it. I had heard nothing e party since I had returned to on, and did not even know that you the resulting sound like the stealthy step of some one following me which first attracted my attention. Well, no sooner did I see the young lady I have sketched, than I became conscious in some unaccountable fashion that it was she, not I, who was being followed; that she saw what I could not see; and that it was this sight which brought the change over her face which I have described."

"And you have no idea what it was? You saw nothing? You have nothing more to tell us then?" cried Lord Marloes, in such evident disappointment, that, at the risk of mockery, I made up my mind to tell him all.

"I saw nothing," I answered; "but as to any idea what it was—if, as I expect, you have already set me down as a maniac, you will not be surprised at what I am now going to tell you being in keeping with the rest of my mania. You know that portrait of this fair lady's cousin? When I came in front of it last year, never having seen it before, mark you I nor having as yet seen hers. I felt (how or why I cannot tell you) that it was the step of the man painted there that I heard in this park ten years before; and I knew (how or why I cannot tell either) that it was he, and no other, who forced from her that cry for help which had made me hasten, though all in vain, to the rescue."

My host rose to my feet.

"Whether you are a maniac or not," he said, gravely, "your story is the strangest and most unaccountable I have ever heard; and you will not think it less so, when you have seen what I have to show you. Will you come this way?"

Without another word he opened the door and passed out of the room, Verschoyle and I following him.

At the entrance of the picture gallery, however, those two drew back, and suffered me to precede them a little. I did not go very far.

There on the wall before me, hung the painted image of the fair Lady Dorothea, whose discredited name had been a thorn and a slur on the family for so many generations, her bright eyes and laughing lips, which had carried away so many hearts, still beaming on me from the canvas in all the joyous coquetry of her youth and innocence.

There on the floor beneath it, stood a long deal case, of that ominous shape we all know too well, painted black, and covered with a cloth. At a sign from Lord Marloes, Verschoyle removed the latter, and, coming nearer, I saw laid within it the fleshless skeleton of a human figure. Brown, bare, hideous, and earthy, it lay there, with no sign of womanliness—no trace of beauty left, but with the lambent flash and lustre of the French King's diamonds still gleaming from the fleshless joints of the throat—still lying on either side of the grisly, blackened skull.

The pictured woman smiled down on me from above; the dead woman grinned up at me from below; and only those jewels remained to tell us, who looked upon them, that they were one and the same.

"My God!" I cried. "Do you mean to say that her body has been found? Where?"

Some one answered: who, I do not know.

"Within a few yards of the path at the further side of the little hill, from which you heard her cry for help."

"She never eloped, then, at all?" I went on, the ghastly truth dawning more fully on me. "She was murdered! Good heavens! murdered, and not for gain!"

Again some one answered:

"She was murdered, and not for gain. The proof is in those jewels left on her body. Something else was left, too. See?"

It was my host who pointed; and, stooping, I saw what had escaped my eyes before—the handle and a couple inches of the blade of a short hunting knife. The remainder of it was buried between the ribs on the left side of the body, where it had been left sticking after and such as they are, I have given them to you.

THE CENTENNIAL LIAR.

Old Mrs. Robertson, who had been to the Centennial, struck in on old Pettingill last week with a talk about the exhibition of national prosperity. She had told him all about what she had seen. After asking about the butter woman and a hundred wonderful things that Pettingill had to say he didn't see, the old lady asked with much interest:

"Well, what did you see?" "I saw," said Mr. Pettingill, looking at her intently, "I saw an ice-cream horse, life size, galloping around the track."

"Oh, Mr. Pettingill," said the old lady.

"Yes, madam, you may well say 'oh.' It was wonderful that you didn't see it, but then they took it back to freeze it hard every five minutes, so you may have missed it."

"Oh, Mr. Pettingill!"

"Yes, madam, and I saw the lard eagle of which you have spoken, and heard it scream—a wild scream of agony like a bird that had been talked to death about the Centennial. As I left the grounds Friday evening, it soared up and flew off to Cincinnati."

"Oh, Mr. Pettingill!"

"Yes, madam, and I saw the carriage George Washington rode in, and the three queens and a jack that he shoved under the seat when he sat outside of the church playing draw poker, and Mrs. Washington lighted in on him earlier than he expected from a short sermon, and I saw a handful of his hair that Mrs. W. took out that identical Sabbath morning."

"Oo h-h. Mr. Pettingill!"

"Yes, madam, and I saw the quilt worked by Queen Victoria, and the Princess Beatrice and all the other princesses, and I counted the nineteen billion, four hundred and sixty five stitches in it while I was standing there."

"Oh, Mr. Pettingill!"

"Yes, madam, and I saw the silk-making machine, where you put in a silk-worm at one end and it comes out at the other a full-blown silk dress ready made, with a living humming bird in the back."

"Oh, Mr. Pettingill, wait till I go and call Emily to come and hear all about it," and the old lady hurried out.

"I Won't be here when she comes back," said Mr. Pettingill, taking up his hat in a hurry, "and so she may not hear all about it. I am determined when I am telling about this Centennial business to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, so help me Bob."

THE BEATEN PARTY.

"My son," said a pious father, to hopefulness, "you did not saw any wood for the kitchen stove yesterday, as I told you to do; you left the back gate open and let the cow out; you cut off eighteen feet of the clothes line to make a lasso; you stoned Mr. Robertson's pet dog and lamed it; you put a hard shell turtle in the hired girl's bed; you tied a strange dog to Mr. Jacobson's door-bell, and painted red and green stripes on the legs of old Mrs. Polaby's white pony, and hung your sister's bustle out at the front window. Now what am I—what can I do to you for such conduct?" "Are all the counties heard from?" asked the young candidate. The father replied sternly, "No trifling, sir; I have yet several reports to receive from others of the neighbors." "Then," replied the boy, "you will not be justified in proceeding to extreme measures until the official account is in." Shortly afterward the election was thrown into the house, and before half the votes were canvassed, it was evident from the peculiar intonation of the applause, that the boy was very badly beaten.

17,000 copies of Vennor's Almanac were sold in January.

men. They begin by displaying rifles, and shooting bullets through blocks of wood, to prove that the ammunition and missiles are genuine. On both sides of the stage, close to the front, thick wooden pads are placed for the bullets to lodge in.

At the beginning of the display of marksmanship one man holds an apple in his fingers, and the other shoot a ball through it from across the stage; and next the man who had risked his fingers becomes the shooter in a repetition of the last. Each in turn hits the bull's eye of a target ten times without a miss, the bull's eye being just above the head of the brother who holds the apple. A potato is placed on one's head and shot off by the other, the potato being split to pieces and the bullet entering the pad in front of which the holder stands. This feat is repeated many times, the brothers changing the attitudes, and holding the rifle in position seemingly awkward enough to increase the peril. The brothers wheel quickly and shoot potatoes simultaneously off each other's heads. The other day one of the potatoes was barely grazed, but a second trial was more successful. A candle was snuffed by a bullet; and as a culmination, one held a lighted cigar in his mouth and the other shot off the ashes, the distance being the entire length of the stage. The brothers, who profess to have acquired their skill by long practice on the plains, use breech loading rifles, and handle them with wonderful quickness. The youngest seems to be the best marksman—at least he fires the quicker after getting his weapon up to aim, and rarely fails to hit. The oldest sometimes misses.

Small pox increases in London England.

The spire of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, is 315 feet height, and is the highest in America.

In Meriden Conn., a new twenty-two pound baby has an eighty-five pound mother.

The London, Eng., Tramway Co. are going to run their cars by steam.

Julia Stockfield, a prisoner at Lacrosse jail, Minn., suicided by setting her clothes on fire with coal from a stove.

A woman at West Pittson, Pa., named Parrish, assisted by her servant girl Bridget Martin, was guilty of the horrible cruelty of putting the bare body of a child four years old, upon a red-hot stove in punishment for some trivial fault. The two brutish creatures have been arrested and will be tried and punished for their monstrous crime.

Five converts were immersed in the Schuylkill, near Green Tree, Penn., on Sunday last by the Rev. Jacob Gotwals, Dunkard minister. The water was very cold, but the current was so swift that no ice had formed at the point where the ceremony was performed. In accordance with the Dunkard ritual each convert was immersed three times—in the name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost. One lady nearly fainted from the effects of cold and exposure. Another lady, who was rather stout, was taken off her feet by the strength of the current, and the minister was so cold that when he caught her he had not strength to hold her and was carried down stream with her. Two bystanders on the bank plunged in and rescued them just as they were on the point of being swept under the solid ice. The converts had been urged to wait until warmer weather, but were unwilling to defer the ceremony.

OTTAWA, Jan. 30.—Yesterday afternoon after the funeral of Mrs. John McKenna, Dr. Lynn accompanied Mr. McKenna to the Roman Catholic dead house to inspect the body and put it in condition for shipment to Ireland. After this had been done, the doctor put his hand under one of the coffins, and lifting it discovered that it was empty. There were thirty-two coffins in the dead house, and upon further examination it was found that four had been opened and the bodies removed.

VARIOUS ITEMS.

Kingston wants free postal delivery.

A district is defined in Manitoba to be set apart for penitentiary purposes.

Sunday marriages in Detroit are illegal, but the Legislature will remedy the matter in future.

Queen Victoria has seen a change in the occupancy of ever European throne since she became a sovereign.

Owing to the inadequate police protection, extensive burglaries have been committed in Montreal in broad daylight.

The Detroit Board of Trade on Monday adopted a memorial to the Canadian authorities asking that the Welland Canal be kept open on Sundays.

The steamer Watertown, at Toronto, was boarded and ransacked from stern to stern. Everything portable was carried off, and some damage done.

A large number of the Jesuits expelled from Germany, have gone to India. They have established a college in Bombay and have 500 pupils.

The most laconic will on record is that of a man who died in 1872. It ran thus: "I have nothing; I owe a great deal—the rest I give to the poor."

A maple tree was recently chopped by John Robinson and W. Atkinson, on the farm of J. Watson, 8rd line, Blanshard, which made ten cords of three-foot wood.

One good lay brother found difficulty in mouthing the names of Shadrach, Mesbah and Abednego, and when he came to them said naively; "Please, the same three gentlemen as before."

The Coroner's jury in the inquest on the victims of the Brooklyn theatre find that two of the victims came to their deaths by burns, and that the remaining 218 died of suffocation.

The Brussels Post asks:—"Are there any whole-souled, warm-hearted Christian women in town who will put forth efforts to establish a Dorcas society for the relief of the poor?"

The Maine prohibitionists, who are very radical in their notions of sumptuary legislation, are endeavouring to pass through the State Legislature a bill which classes cider among intoxicating drinks.

A Temperance reform is to be tried in Birmingham, England, the same as in Gothenburg, Sweden, where the town controls the sale of liquor, dictates where it shall be sold, who shall sell it, and at what prices.

Three body-snatchers broke into the basement of the Roman Catholic Church at Vaudreuil and removed three female corpses, which were found by the husbands of the deceased, buried in the snow in Montreal.

Extensive Customs frauds have been traced to leading firms in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis, in which several United States consuls are found to be implicated.

The recent order discriminating against the employment of Canadian surgeons on the Allan steamships having been brought to the notice of the Premier, the Government have requested the Imperial Government to rescind the order as soon as possible.

A clergyman's window gave this advice to a young lady friend the other day. "Jane if you ever marry a minister, marry one who in an emergency has enough of the grace of God in his heart to go from the pulpit to the kitchen and pare potatoes for dinner without growling!"

During the Centennial Exhibition there were sold at the Bible Pavillion, upon the Exhibition ground, 3,884 Bibles, 9,489 New Testaments, and 13,332 portions of

GREAT COST SALE!

THE

—AT—

"CHEAPSIDE."

WE DO NOT INTEND GOING TO CHICAGO OR ELSEWHERE, but as a means of self defence, in order to hold our trade together, and do our share of what business is going, we are now offering our

WHOLE STOCK AT COST.

This is a rare chance for intending purchasers, especially so in these hard times, when cash is so scarce, as our Stock is all fresh and Seasonable, we offer inducements unsurpassed if equalled by any other house in Town.

WE WISH IT DISTINCTLY UNDERSTOOD, THAT THIS IS

No Sham, but a Genuine Cost Sale.

Now is the time to get your choice of one of the Largest Stocks of Carpets in Town, at Cost.

What is so pretty and useful as a NICE SET OF FURS for a Christmas Present? We have also the Largest Stock of these goods in Town, all going at Cost. Also

MILLINERY AT COST.

MAINTLES AT COST.

SHAWLS AT COST.

CLOUDS AT COST.

MUFFLERS AT COST.

DRESS GOODS, (a Very Large Stock) AT COST.

BLACK SILKS, (bought before the late advance) AT COST.

SILK VELVETS AT COST.

CLOTHS AND TWEEDS AT COST.

BEAVER OVER-COATINGS AT COST.

FLANNELS (Plain and Fancy) AT COST.

PRINTS AND Winceys AT COST.

FRENCH MERINOS AT COST.

GLOVES AND HOSIERY AT COST.

LADIES' AND GENTS' UNDERCLOTHING AT COST

COTTONS, LOOMS, TICKINGS, &c., AT COST.

The above Stock was well bought, and the Goods were extra good value at the regular prices, and it will be to the advantage of every purchaser to call early and see our Stock before going elsewhere.

All Goods Disposed of during this Sale, Must be Strictly Cash.

E. HOOPER & SONS.

NEW FALL GOODS

IN

DRY G

R. D

Store Cro

ME

Rushig

R

Great Dri

DRESS GOODS

plicated.

The recent order discriminating against the employment of Canadian surgeons on the Allan steamships having been brought to the notice of the Premier, the Government have requested the Imperial Government to rescind the order as soon as possible.

A clergyman's window gave this advice to a young lady friend the other day. "Jane if you ever marry a minister, marry one who in an emergency has enough of the grace of God in his heart to go from the pulpit to the kitchen and pare potatoes for dinner without growling!"

During the Centennial Exhibition there were sold at the Bible Pavillion, upon the Exhibition ground, 3,334 Bibles, 9,489 New Testaments, and 13,332 portions of the Bible. In addition to these sales, 25,000 copies were distributed of a little book containing a Scripture verse in one hundred and sixty-four languages.

"Julius, s'pose dere are six chickens in de coop, and de man sells three ob 'em, how many is left?" "What time ob day was it?" "Why, what has dat to do wid it!" "Sartin, nigga, if it was dark dar wouldn't be none left—dat way!" "Look ye here, nigga, jist stop dem personalities. If ye don't, I'll explore yer head wid a pump handle."

SPEAK IN A LOW VOICE.—A good Quaker eighty-five years of age, whom no one had ever heard speak a cross word, was asked by a young man how he had been able, through the trials and perplexities of a long life, to keep always so pleasant. He replied, "If you never allow your voice to rise, you will not be likely ever to get very angry."

At Clapham Junction, near London, no less than 952 trains pass daily, their rate of succession during the business part of the day being seventy-five trains per hour, or one every forty-eight seconds. At this point there are thirteen lines of railway, and one alone has thirty-five "points" or switches, with thirty interlocking signals, all controlled from a single "box."

In a single city in Mexico can often be counted a dozen or more ruined and dilapidated churches, once the scene of religious activity. Our fine mission property in the City of Mexico, with its parsonage, orphanage chapel class-rooms, and magnificent church, was once a part of a convent. In the great church of San Francisco, once the second church in Mexico, are now held Protestant services.

The Jews are not in favor of woman rabbis, as the Jewish Messenger, when speaking of the Newark case, shows:—"This is an innovation that the entire people will rise as one man to condemn, and we advise the persons who entertain such revolutionary ideas to turn their cogitations to better uses—rapid transit, chemiloons, or some other more congenial subject. Women may talk elsewhere without restriction, but in synagogue and temple they are emphatically to be seen, not heard."

The coloured Baptist convention of Alabama takes a discouraging view of the religious condition of its race in that States. The report of one of its committees says there is "a confused and bewildered state of things" among the ministers and churches; that there is "very little spiritual, moral, and educational advancement;" that the outlook for the young is very dark; that "intemperance, immorality, and ignorance seem to be binding the race in their slavish chains;" and that in consequence of false doctrines held forth from pulpits, the people are drifting into many hurtful habits.

How is This?—Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself has said, this is my own, my native ice? It lies in front of my own door; pedestrians tramp it o'er and o'er, some slip and fall and break their noses, while others creep on hand and knees, and with

The above Stock was well bought, and the Goods were extra good value at the regular prices, and it will be to the advantage of every purchaser to call early and see our Stock before going elsewhere.

All Goods Disposed of during this Sale, Must be Strictly Cash.

E. HOOPER & SONS.

NEW FALL GOODS
IN HATS AND CAPS,
CLOTHING
And Gents Furnishings,

JUST ARRIVING, IN LARGE QUANTITY

AT JOHN RENNIE'S,

NEXT DOOR TO SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

All the latest New York, London and Paris, Styles of Hats and Caps, in Wool, Felt and Silk.

MENS AND BOYS CLOTHING, CHEAPER THAN EVER.

A TREMENDOUS STOCK OF OVERCOATS,
FROM $5 UPWARDS.

Call and Inspect.

J. RENNIE.

ALWAYS ON HAND

LARGE ASSORTMENT

CIGARS,

TOBACCOS,

SNUFF,

PIPES &c., &c.,

BEST FINE CUT CHEWING,

WOOD'S TOBACCO STORE.

SIGN OF THE INDIAN AT THE DOOR.

R.

Great Drive

DRESS GOODS,

FIN.

&
GOLD

BY THE

Celebrate

ENGLISH,

AMEE

SILVER

Crock

CROCK

IN ORDER

per hammers. If ye don't, an' expose yer head wid a pump handle."

SPEAK IN A LOW VOICE.—A good Quaker eighty-five years of age, whom no one had ever heard speak a cross word, was asked by a young man how he had been able, through the trials and perplexities of a long life, to keep always so pleasant. He replied. "If you never allow your voice to rise, you will not be likely ever to get very angry."

At Clapham Junction, near London, no less than 952 trains pass daily, their rate of succession during the business part of the day being seventy-five trains per hour, or one every forty-eight seconds. At this point there are thirteen lines of railway, and one alone has thirty-five "points" or switches, with thirty interlocking signals, all controlled from a single "box."

In a single city in Mexico can often be counted a dozen or more ruined and dilapidated churches, once the scene of religious activity. Our fine mission property in the City of Mexico, with its parsonage, orphanage chapel class-rooms, and magnificent church, was once a part of a convent. In the great church of San Francisco, once the second church in Mexico, are now held Protestant services.

The Jews are not in favor of woman rabbis, as the Jewish Messenger, when speaking of the Newark case, shows:—"This is an innovation that the entire people will rise as one man to condemn, and we advise the persons who entertain such revolutionary ideas to turn their cogitations to better uses—rapid transit, chemiloons, or some other more congenial subject. Women may talk elsewhere without restriction, but in synagogue and temple they are emphatically to be seen, not heard."

The coloured Baptist convention of Alabama takes a discouraging view of the religious condition of its race in that States. The report of one of its committees says there is "a confused and bewildered state of things" among the ministers and churches; that there is "very little spiritual, moral, and educational advancement;" that the outlook for the young is very dark; that "intemperance, immorality, and ignorance seem to be binding the race in their slavish chains;" and that in consequence of false doctrines held forth from pulpits, the people are drifting into many hurtful habits.

How is This?—Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself has said, this is my own, my native ice? It lies in front of my own door; pedestrians tramp it o'er and o'er, some slip and fall and break their noses, while others creep on hand and knees, and with less cussing, the less grumbling, than comes from ground and lofty tumbling. So I will scrape that ice away, and not a trap for others lay, their bones to pulverize, I'll let pedestrians walk erect, bind up the lame and broken-necked, and bid the fallen rise. I'll leave no skating parks before my dwelling place or office door, but keep them free from frozen water, as every honest person oughter.

Dexter, the tamer of oxen, created a great sensation on the streets, says a Cheyenne paper, by appearing in a carriage drawn by four milk-white oxen, all in harness and driven tandem. The beasts pranced along in fine style. Governor Thayer was invited to take a ride, and was driven about for some time by Dexter. Other gentlemen also enjoyed the novelty. Dexter says that either of his oxen can trot a mile in 8.47. He offers to bet any amount of money that he can load a wagon with 4,500 pounds of freight, attach his four oxen, and make better time to Deadwood, than any four-horse or mule team with the same load can possibly do,

AT JOHN RENNIE'S,

NEXT DOOR TO SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

All the latest New York, London and Paris, Styles of Hats and Caps, in Wool, Felt and Silk.

MENS AND BOYS CLOTHING, CHEAPER THAN EVER.

A TREMENDOUS STOCK OF OVERCOATS, FROM $5 UPWARDS.

Call and Inspect.

J. RENNIE.

ALWAYS ON HAND

LARGE ASSORTMENT

CIGARS,

TOBACCOS,

SNUFF,

PIPES &c., &c.,

BEST FINE CUT CHEWING,

WOOD'S TOBACCO STORE.

SIGN OF THE INDIAN AT THE DOOR.

Selling Off!

Selling Off!!

We beg to announce to the public that we have decided to clear out our entire stock of

GROCERIES, BOOTS & SHOES,

BEFORE THE 1ST OF JANUARY NEXT.

As there will be no reserve in this sale an excellent opportunity is offered for Great Bargains in Our Line.
McMULLEN'S OLD STAND, CENTRE BLOCK, OPPOSITE THE CAMPBELL HOUSE.

A. & C. R. ASHLEY.

GOLD &

BY THE

Celebrate

ENGLISH,

AMER

SILVER

Crock

CROCK

IN ORDE

BOOTS &

Which we have lat Boots

We ask every man a pair of Boots

RENNIE'S CO

GREAT COST SALE!

—AT—

"CHEAPSIDE."

WE DO NOT INTEND GOING TO CHICAGO OR ELSEWHERE, but as a means of self defence, in order to hold our trade together, and do our share of what business is going, we are now offering our

WHOLE STOCK AT COST.

This is a rare chance for intending purchasers, especially so in these hard times, when cash is so scarce, as our Stock is all fresh and Seasonable, we offer inducements unsurpassed if equalled by any other house in Town.

WE WISH IT DISTINCTLY UNDERSTOOD, THAT THIS IS

No Sham, but a Genuine Cost Sale.

Now is the time to get your choice of one of the Largest Stocks of Carpets in Town, at Cost.

What is so pretty and useful as a NICE SET OF FURS for a Christmas Present? We have also the Largest Stock of these goods in Town, all going at Cost. Also

MILLINERY AT COST.

MANTLES AT COST.

SHAWLS AT COST.

CLOUDS AT COST.

MUFFLERS AT COST.

DRESS GOODS, (a Very Large Stock) AT COST.

BLACK SILKS, (bought before the late advance) AT COST.

SILK VELVETS AT COST.

CLOTHS AND TWEEDS AT COST.

BEAVER OVER-COATINGS AT COST.

FLANNELS (Plain and Fancy) AT COST.

PRINTS AND WINCEYS AT COST.

FRENCH MERINOS AT COST.

GLOVES AND HOSIERY AT COST.

LADIES' AND GENTS' UNDERCLOTHING AT COST

COTTONS, LOOMS, TUCKINGS, &c., AT COST.

The above Stock was well bought, and the Goods were extra good value at the regular prices, and it will be to the advantage of every purchaser to call early and see our Stock before going elsewhere.

All Goods Disposed of during this Sale, Must be Strictly Cash.

E. HOOPER & SONS.

NEW FALL GOODS

IN

THE GREAT SLAUGHTER

—OF—

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING

STILL GOING ON AT

R. DOWNEY & BROS'.

Store Crowded to Overflowing Every Day

MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN,

Rush to Secure the Great Bargains

R. DOWNEY & BROS.

WILL OFFER THIS COMING WEEK,

Great Drives in Tapestry and Wool Carpet

LACE CURTAINS,

DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, TWEEDS, FULLCLOTHS, &c., &c.,

What is so pretty and useful as a NICE SET OF FURS for a Christmas Present? We have also the Largest Stock of these goods in Town, all going at Cost. Also

MILLINERY AT COST.
 MANTLES AT COST.
 SHAWLS AT COST.
 CLOTHS AT COST.
 MUFFLERS AT COST.
 DRESS GOODS, (a Very Large Stock) AT COST.
 BLACK SILKS, (bought before the late advance) AT COST.
 SILK VELVETS AT COST.
 CLOTHS AND TWEEDS AT COST.
 BEAVER OVER-COATINGS AT COST.
 FLANNELS (Plain and Fancy) AT COST.
 PRINTS AND Winceys AT COST.
 FRENCH MERINOS AT COST.
 GLOVES AND HOSIERY AT COST.
 LADIES' AND GENTS' UNDERCLOTHING AT COST.
 COTTONS, LOOMS, TUCKINGS, &c., AT COST.

The above Stock was well bought, and the Goods were extra good value at the regular prices, and it will be to the advantage of every purchaser to call early and see our Stock before going elsewhere.

All Goods Disposed of during this Sale, Must be Strictly Cash.
E. HOOPER & SONS.

NEW FALL GOODS

IN HATS AND CAPS,
 CLOTHING

And Gents Furnishings,
 JUST ARRIVING, IN LARGE QUANTITY

AT JOHN RENNIE'S,
 NEXT DOOR TO SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

All the latest New York, London and Paris, Styles of Hats and Caps, in Wool, Felt and Silk.

MENS AND BOYS CLOTHING, CHEAPER THAN EVER.

A TREMENDOUS STOCK OF OVERCOATS,
 FROM $5 UPWARDS.

Call and Inspect.

J. RENNIE.

ALWAYS ON HAND

LARGE ASSORTMENT

CIGARS,

MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN,

Rusnig to Secure the Great Bargains

R. DOWNEY & BROS.

WILL OFFER THIS COMING WEEK,

Great Drives in Tapestry and Wool Carpets

LACE CURTAINS,

DRESS GOODS, SHAWLS, TWEEDS, FULLCLOTHS, &c., &c.,

R. DOWNEY & BROS.

FINE WATCHES

ELGIN WATCHES

GOLD &

SILVER,

BY THE MOST

Celebrated Makers

ENGLISH,

AMERICAN, &

GENEVA.

F. CHINNECK, Napane GOLD CHAINS

BROOCHES,

SETS.

DIAMOND

AND OTHER GEM JEWELS.

MARBLE AND GIL

CLOCKS, &c

All the latest New York, London and Paris, Styles of Hats and Caps, in Wool, Felt and Silk.

MENS AND BOYS CLOTHING, CHEAPER THAN EVER.

A TREMENDOUS STOCK OF OVERCOATS,
FROM $5 UPWARDS.

Call and Inspect.

J. RENNIE.

ALWAYS ON HAND

LARGE ASSORTMENT

CIGARS,

TOBACCOS,

SNUFF,

PIPES &c., &c.,

BEST FINE CUT CHEWING,

WOOD'S TOBACCO STORE.

SIGN OF THE INDIAN AT THE DOOR.

Selling Off!

Selling Off!

We beg to announce to the public that we have decided to clear out our entire stock of

GROCERIES, BOOTS & SHOES,

BEFORE THE 1ST OF JANUARY NEXT.

As there will be no reserve in this sale an excellent opportunity is offered for

Great Bargains in Our Line.

McMULLEN'S OLD STAND, CENTRE BLOCK, OPPOSITE THE CAMPBELL HOUSE.

A. & C. R. ASHLEY.

GOLD

SILVER,

BY THE MOST

Celebrated Makers

ENGLISH,

AMERICAN, &

GENEVA.

SILVER WARE

GOLD CHAINS

BROOCHES,

SETS.

DIAMOND

AND OTHER GEM RINGS.

MARBLE AND GILT

CLOCKS, &c

SPECTACLES.

F. CHINNECK, Napanee.

Crockery! Crockery!

AT

COST PRICE.

WE OFFER OUR ENTIRE STOCK OF

CROCKERY & GLASSWARE,

AT COST PRICE,

IN ORDER TO MAKE ROOM FOR AN IMMENSE STOCK OF

BOOTS &

SHOES,

Which we have lately purchased at a very large discount. Our new stock of Boots and Shoes, will arrive next week per G. T. R.

We ask every man woman and child in the Counties, to call at once, and secure a pair of Boots for the winter, as they may never have such an opportunity of buying so good an article for so little money.

BE SURE YOU COME TO THE RIGHT PLACE.

RENNIE'S [CORNER STORE, DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE]

FRASER & RENNIE.

EB. 9, 1877.

THE GREAT SLAUGHTER

—OF—

GOODS AND CLOTHING,

STILL GOING ON AT

DOWNEY & BROS'.

—O—

Crowded to Overflowing Every Day

—O—

MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN,

high to Secure the Great Bargains.

—O—

R. DOWNEY & BROS.

WILL OFFER THIS COMING WEEK,

Drives in Tapestry and Wool Carpets

LACE CURTAINS,

GOODS. SHAWLS. TWEEDS. FULLCLOTHS. &c. &c.

TO

CARRIAGE MAKERS!

—O—

NOW ON HAND AND ARRIVING, A LARGE STOCK OF

Carriage Goods of Every Description,

CARRIAGE SPRINGS AND AXLES,
CARRIAGE AND TIRE BOLTS,
BAR, HOOP AND BAND IRON,
DASH AND TOP LEATHER,
CARRIAGE BANDS,
SHAFT SHACKLES,
SPRING, TIRE AND CAST STEEL,
BENT SHAFTS AND RIMS,
HUBS AND SPOKES,
ENAMELLED CLOTHS,
BELLOWS, VICES AND ANVILS,
ALEX AND SPRING BAR CLIPS.

And Every Other Article in Carriage Hardware.

—O—

As we are buying above Good

DIRECT FROM THE MANUFACTURERS,

And for Cash, we are in a position to

OFFER THEM LOWER THAN EVER BEFORE.

WRIGHT & Co.

Napanee, Jan. 1877.

43-ly.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF

PARLOR ^{AND} BEDROOM

FURNITURE,

—AT—

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

—O—

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY!!

—O—

WILL UNDERSELL

Any Other House in this part of the Province

—O—

high to Secure the Great Bargains.

R. DOWNEY & BROS.

WILL OFFER THIS COMING WEEK,

Drives in Tapestry and Wool Carpets

LACE CURTAINS,

HOODS, SHAWLS, TWEEDS, FULLCLOTHS, &c., &c.,

R. DOWNEY & BROS.

NEW WATCHES,

ELGIN WATCHES

SILVER,

BY THE MOST

Reputed Makers

SWISS,
AMERICAN, &
GENEVA.

VER WARE

F. CHINNECK, Napanee.

CHINNECK, Napanee.

GOLD CHAINS,

BROOCHES,
SETS.

DIAMOND

AND OTHER GEM RINGS.

MARBLE AND GILT

CLOCKS, &c

SPECTACLES.

Crockery! Crockery!

AT

COST PRICE.

PARLOR and BEDROOM

FURNITURE,

—AT—

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY!!

WILL UNDERSELL

Any Other House in this part of the Province

FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

ALWAYS IN STOCK.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

J. GIBBARD & SON.

The Largest, Best Equipped, Most Thorough

AND

Practical Business School in Canada.

HAVING increased our facilities, we now offer better advantages than ever before. The Business Course is under the supervision of

S. G. BEATTY, Principal Actual Business Department.
W. B. ROBINSON, Principal Practical Department.
G. A. SWAYZE, Principal Theoretical Department.

IT IS SHORT, PRACTICAL AND USEFUL.

Able and Practical Instructors in the other Departments.

The whole time and attention of Students are devoted to just such subjects as every Farmer, Mechanic, Merchant, and Professional man requires in transacting every day business.

When desired by parents, boys will be placed in a boarding house under the supervision of a teacher, who will assist them in their evening studies, and see that they keep proper hours.

Specimens of Penmanship and circular containing full information respecting Terms, Nature of Course, etc., sent free of charge.

Address, S. G. BEATTY & Co., BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO.

ELGIN WATCHES

SILVER,

BY THE MOST

rated Makers

SH,

AMERICAN, &

GENEVA.

VER WARE

GOLD CHAINS,

BROOCHES,

SETS.

DIAMOND

AND OTHER GEM RINGS.

MARBLE AND GILT

CLOCKS, &c

SPECTACLES.

F. CHINNECK, Napanee.

Crockery! Crockery!!

AT

COST PRICE.

WE OFFER OUR ENTIRE STOCK OF

CROCKERY & GLASSWARE,

AT COST PRICE,

IN ORDER TO MAKE ROOM FOR AN IMMENSE STOCK OF

SHOES,

have lately purchased at a very large discount. Our new stock of Boots and Shoes, will arrive next week per G. T. R.

every man woman and child in the Counties, to call at once, and secure of Boots for the winter, as they may never have such an opportunity of buying so good an article for so little money.

BE SURE YOU COME TO THE RIGHT PLACE.

FRASER & RENNIE.

FRASER & RENNIE.

The Largest, Best Equipped, Most Thorough

AND

Practical Business School in Canada.

HAVING increased our facilities, we now offer better advantages than ever before. The Business Course is under the supervision of

S. G. BEATTY, Principal Actual Business Department.
W. B. ROBINSON, Principal Practical Department.
G. A. SWAYZE, Principal Theoretical Department.

IT IS SHORT, PRACTICAL AND USEFUL.

Able and Practical Instructors in the other Departments.

The whole time and attention of Students are devoted to just such subjects as every Farmer, Mechanic, Merchant, and Professional man requires in transacting every day business.

When desired by parents, boys will be placed in a boarding house under the supervision of a teacher, who will assist them in their evening studies, and see that they keep proper hours.

Specimens of Penmanship and circular containing full information respecting Terms, Nature of Course, etc., sent free of charge.

Address, S. G. BEATTY & Co.,
BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO.

SAVE YOUR MONEY!

Times are hard and you can avoid buying new clothes if you will get those you have used and scoured so as to

LOOK AS GOOD AS NEW,

at a trifling expense. Remember that at

Montgomery's Steam Dye Works,

Opposite Madden's Tannery, near the River, all kinds of goods are cleaned and dyed on the shortest notice, and at the cheapest rates.

GET MENS' CLOTHING, MOURNING GOODS KID GLOVES, PLUMES, &c.

CLEANED AND DYED.

Call and give Montgomery a trial and be satisfied.

MONEY TO LOAN.

We have received instructions from England, to lend a large amount of Money,

AT LOWER RATES THAN HAS YET BEEN OFFERED.

CALL IN AND EXAMINE RATES.

NO COMMISSION CHARGED.

WILLIAMS & HOOPER.

Business Cards.

Alex. C. Davis,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Napanee
Ontario.

James Aylsworth,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Tam-
worth.

S. D. Clarke,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Odessa,
Ontario.

J. J. Watson,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates, Adolphustown.

Peter E. R. Miller,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Switzer-
ville Ont.

Robert Graham,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Office
In the Dominion Store, Enterprise.

J. B. Allison,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Parma P. O., South
Fredericksburg.

Charles Lane,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Office—Front of Grammar
School, Bridge Street, Napanee.

A. B. Randall,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Also Agent for the Beaver and
Toronto Fire Insurance Company and the Mutual Life Association of Canada. Residence—Shanmerville, Ont.

Murphy & Bedford,
BARRISTERS, &c., MILL POINT.
Money to lend on improved Real Estate.

H. M. Deroche,
BARRISTER and Attorney-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Conveyancer, No-
tary Public, etc. OFFICE: In Grange
Block, John Street, Napanee, Ont.

E. B. Stone,
Attorney-at-Law, Solicitor in Chan-
cery, Conveyancer, &c. OFFICE—
Over T. Molloy's Dry Goods Store.
Money to Lend at 8 per cent.

Cartwright & Gibson,
BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, So-
licitors in Chancery and Insolvency, No-
taries Public, etc. OFFICE: Grange Block,
John Street, Napanee.

R. Tracy, M. D.,
BELLEVILLE.
PHYSICIAN, Surgeon and Accoucheur.
Office and Residence, two doors east
from the Bank of Montreal, near the Congregational Church, Hotel St.

Reeve & Morden,
BARRISTERS and Attorneys-at-Law,
Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers,
etc. OFFICE—Perry's New Block, Dundas
Street, Napanee, Ontario.

E. A. Deroche,
OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, under New Act
of 1875.
Office in H. M. Deroche's Law Office.

Williams & Hooper,
BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, So-
licitors in Chancery and Insolvency,
Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.,
Napanee, Ontario.

W. F. Hall,
OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, under Insol-
vent Act of 1875. Fire Insurance
Agent, &c. Office of Napanee Paper Mills.

J. B. BENSON, Publisher.)

VOL. 15.

THE PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY
MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE CO.

HEAD OFFICE—PICTON, ONT.
(Established 30th Sept., 1854).

PRESIDENT—LEWIS B. STINSON
VICE-PRESIDENT—W. BOULTER.
MANAGER—L. B. STINSON.
SECRETARY—JOHN TWIGG.
TREASURER—PHILIP LOW, Q. C.
INS. OF LOSSES & A's.—J. HOWELL,
SOLICITOR—W. H. R. ALLISON
DIRECTORS.—JAS. JOHNSTON, W. M.
DELONG, JOHN PRINYNE,
S. B. HUBBS, J. VANALSTINE.
HONORARY DIRECTORS.—G. Striker, Esq.
M. P. P., Picton; R. Clapp, Esq., Mil-
ford; K. Graham, Esq., Belleville; P.
Allan, C. A. Lloyd, J. P. Dorland, Esqs., Adolphustown; J. C. Huffman, Esq., J. T.
Grange, Esq., M. P. P., Napanee; J. E.
Proctor, Esq., Brighton; G. W. Webb,
Esq., Colborne; G. Jones, Esq., Trenton;
J. Redner, Esq., Rednersville; Owen
Roblin, Esq., Ameliasburg; H. A.
McFaul, Esq., Hillier.

This Company is established upon strictly
Mutual principles, insuring farm property
Townships, and property not more hazardous in Towns and Villages and offers great advantages to insure at low rates for Three or Four Years either on the Premium
Note or Cash System.
March 9th, 1875. 521-y.

CATARRH!

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Cat-
arrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs,
and Droppings in Throat Disappear.

ST. MARK'S, Q. C., Sept. 12, 1876.
MR. T. J. B. HARDING,

DEAR SIR:—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your constitutional Catarrh Remedy, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about
five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines,
without receiving any permanent benefit, but
continued rather to grow worse, until last fall,
when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe sore-ness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very lumbic back,
and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use
of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY NIDER.
Price $1 per bottle; For sale by all Druggists

Consumption Cured!

An old physician, retired from active
practice, having had placed in his hands
by an East India Missionary the formula
of a Vegetable Remedy, for the speedy
and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat
and Lung Affections: also a Positive and
Radical Cure for Nervous Debility and
all Nervous Complaints, after having
thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it his

Napanee

"THE GREAT"

NAPANEE, C.

BRISCO HOUSE,
NAPANEE, ONT.

JOHN SUBY, - - Proprietor.

A First-Class Hotel

in all its Appointments.
Omnibuses meet all Trains and Steamers.

PAISLEY HOUSE.

(John St. opposite the Market.)

NAPANEE, CNT.

A First Class Hotel centrally located, with excellent yard and stabling accommodations

CHAS. PAISLEY,
PROPRIETOR.

CAMPBELL HOUSE,
NAPANEE, Ont.

THE PRINCIPAL HOTEL
IN TOWN.

Good Stabling & Attentive Ostler.
CHARGES AS USUAL.
MARSDEN & MOORE,
PROPRIETORS.

TICHBORNE HOUSE,
(Corner Dundas & John Streets.)
NAPANEE.

ROBERT McDONALD,
Proprietor.

A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL.
CHARGES MODERATE.

QUEEN'S HOTEL,
BELLEVILLE

Every Accommodation for Commercial
Travellers.

A. P. FARRELL,
PROPRIETOR.

McDONALD HOUSE,
(Late Clark House)
BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.

Bus to and from the cars. 30-y.

CUMMING'S
Specific for the Hair.

BRISCOE & SHUTTOCK, Proprietors
for Canada, No. 11, King Street,
West Toronto.

MAC. BOTTING,

Hair Dresser, Dundas Street, Napanee.
Sole Agent for Napanee and Counties of
Lennox and Addington. 42.

 Land for Sale
30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for
the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and
Wild Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres;
located in the County of Lennox and Addington, in all

THE RIVULE

BY A. W. THOMAS

I dance along with joy an
Cold water pure and free,
Adown the hill into the va
Beneath some aged tree.

Where'er I go, I blessings
To young and old the san Refreshing all within my
And singing my refrain.

I kiss the tulip's tiny cup,
The rose and daisies too,
And make them smile up With red, and white, and Sometimes great burdens

Upon my foamy crest,
But still I'm singing my re
More joyous than the rest.

My course of time is never
I'm always fresh and gay,
I never weary of this life
And yet, I pass away.

I dance along with joy an
A-singing all the day
I'm happy as e'er can be,
And yet, I pass away

A CURATE'S HO

A SHORT STORY OF THE RILL

Mr. John Williams, la-Ship and Anchor. Lleyru deceived the little minist with regard to the qualifi horse. It was a high-ste ed, and notwithstanding his were heavy with t
vious day, we bowed al
ing at a famous rate on ou ryst. Clouds of a somew character floated overhea depriving us for a space o and the wind was perhaps altogether agreeable. Bu the weather was favourabl ed by Mr. Morgan's instr ful conversation, the day's to prove a pleasant one.
after leaving Lleyrudrigg
the regular coach-road, running for a little way
the coast, very soon turn quitting it for one upon w less traffic, we found ou close of three hours' quick coming within sight of t
with its foam-flecked bill
told by Jonathan William backed, sinister looking litt we were nearing the Spike Spike Rocks! how I stand mention of that name, reca
But I will not and ing up before a five-barre led into an extensive pie land bordering the shore a wards found, crowning pre for nearly a mile in leng
sheer walls to the sea. Jo his seat and pointed out the two rocks which we ka to visit. They stood at from the land—small, islands, bleak and sharp interest consisting, as we in their being a peculiarly of a species of sea-bird.
seasons of the year, of whi was one, the birds would c thousands, covering the r
to summit with a complet wholly-brown feathers.
at which our carriage stop

R. Tracy, M. D.,
BELLEVEILLE.
PHYSICIAN, Surgeon and Accoucheur
 Office and Residence, two doors east
 from the Bank of Montreal, near the Congregational Church, Hotel St. 39

Reeve & Morden,
BARRISTERS and Attorneys-at-Law
 Solicitors in Chancery and Conveyancers,
 etc. OFFICE—Perry's New Block Dundas
 Street, Napanee, Ontario.
 W. A. REEVE, M. A. A. L. MORDEN.
 Co. Crown Attorneys.

E. A. Deroche,
OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, under New Act
 of 1875.
 Office in H. M. Deroche's Law Office.

Williams & Hooper,
BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, So-
licitors in Chancery and Insolvency,
 Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.,
 Napanee, Ontario.
 W. A. WILLIAMS, E. J. COOPER, M. A.
 Official Assignee

W. F. Hall,
OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, under Insol-
vent Act of 1875. Fire Insurance
 Agent, &c. Office of Napanee Paper Mills.
 East Street.

Henderson & Coats,
LAW, Chancery, and Conveyancing
 Solicitors in Insolvency and Bankruptcy. OFFICE—In Grange Block,
 John Street, Napanee.
 ROBERT L. HENDERSON,
 Attorney, Solicitor and Notary Public,
 Canadian Courts.
 COATS,
 Solicitor in High Courts of Judicature, and Notary Public, English Courts.
 Money to Loan.

James Grange, M. D.,
GRADUATE University of Victoria College, Canada, and College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ontario,
 Member of the College of Physicians
 and Surgeons, Ontario.
 Special Attention paid to Diseases of the Eye.
 Office and Residence: Centre Street,
 Napanee, Ont.

James F. Bartles,
LAND AGENT, Fire, Life and Accident Insurance Agent OFFICE—corner of Dundas and West Streets, Napanee.

F. Bartlett,
ARCHITECT AND BUILDER, West
 Street, Napanee. Plans, Specification
 and Detail Drawings furnished. Builder's work measured, and value computed.

Kear's Machine Shop,
STEAM ENGINES and all kinds of Machinery made to order. Also all kinds of Machinery repaired on the shortest notice. Remember the place, opposite the City Hotel, corner of Adelaide and Bridge Streets.

Imperial Life Insurance Co.
OFFICE LONDON (ESTABLISHED 1805.) Capital and Reserved
Fund
 £1,969,000 - - - - - Sterling.
 Funds invested in Canada. $105,000
 RENTROL BROS., General Agents.
 24 St. Sacramento St. Montreal.
 H. L. GEDDES, Agent.
 Napanee and vicinity.

Parfield Life Insurance Co.
 ESTABLISHED - - - - - 1810.
 CAPITAL, $1,000,000.
A MOUNT DEPOSITED IN CAN-ADA in accordance with the Act 30,000.
 Insures property against fire as low as any other reliable company. All losses equitably adjusted and promptly paid in Canada funds or Gold. Isolated dwellings insured at exceedingly low rates.
 H. L. GEDDES, Agent.
 for Napanee and vicinity.

you what it had done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about
 five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines,
 without receiving any permanent benefit, but
 continued rather to grow worse, until last fall,
 when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe sore-ness and pain under the shoulder blades and
 through the shoulders, with very lame back,
 and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which cured my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use
 of your Catarrh Remedy.
 Yours truly HENRY NIDER,
 Price $1 per bottle; For sale by all Druggists

Consumption Cured!

An old physician, retired from active
 practice, having had placed in his hands
 by an East India Missionary the formula
 of a Vegetable Remedy, for the speedy
 and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat
 and Lung Affections: also a Positive and
 Radical Cure for Nervous Debility and
 all Nervous Complaints, after having
 thoroughly tested its wonderful curative
 powers in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send FREE OF CHARGE, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail; by addressing with stamp, naming this paper.
 DR. W. C. STEVENS,
 Box 86, Brockville, Ont.

The PHYSICIAN'S REMEDY!

WHEN you are ill and don't know how to get over it you generally send for your physician. If the opinion of 16 LEADING PHYSICIANS of Montreal is considered worthy of confidence, you will try.

DR. BURNBAUM'S RHEUMATISM
 AND GOUT REMEDY

To the efficacy of which these 16 physicians have certified for the cure of:
 RHEUMATISM,
 NEURALGIA,
 LUMBAGO, GOUT,
 STIFFNESS IN JOINTS, OR LIMBS,
 SPRAINS, FROST BITES,
 CHILBLAINS,
 BRUISES, CUTS, BURNS,
 WANDERING PAINS, &c.
 It has cured several of these physicians and thousands of others in Canada, and is now considered, on this continent as well as in Europe, the only reliable remedy for all Rheumatic affections.
 The five similar signatures of 16 leading physicians of Montreal are on each bottle as a guarantee of its efficacy.
 For sale by all druggists at 50 cents and $1 per bottle. Certificates of physicians are on each bottle, and can be had also by applying to

CHARLES MARTIN,
 Montreal,
 Sole Agent for Canada and U. S.
 One of the Testimonials,

From Dr. Duncan McCallum, Montreal.
 I, the undersigned, have been suffering very much for the last two years from Rheumatism in the ankle joint, so much that I was often prevented from attending to my calling, but three applications of Dr. Burnbaum's Rheumatism and Gout Remedy gave me that relief from pain and stiffness which I did not experience for the last two years, and after eight days' use of that remedy, I find myself entirely cured.
 I owe this statement to the public, to the profession, and to the merits of the genuine article
DUNCAN MCCALLUM, M. D.
 June 17th 1876. 24-lyr

700 Doz. have been sold since April last, of Eucalyptus Rheumatic Absorbent and Dis-
 gestive Fluid.
 The Rheumatic Absorbent will positively relieve all pain from Rheumatism or other inflammatory swellings in the joints.
 The Eucalyptus Fluid has never taken to cure Rheumatic Affections in a few hours. The

McDONALD HOUSE,
 (Late Clark House)
BRIGHTON, ONT.
 Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.
 Buses to and from the cars. 30-yl.

CUMMING'S
Specific for the Hair.

BRISCOE & SHUTTOCK, Proprietors
 for Canada, No. 11, King Street,
 West Toronto.

MAC. BOTTING,
 Hair Dresser, Dundas Street. Napanee,
 Sole Agent for Napanee and Counties of
 Lennox and Addington. 42.

Land for Sale
30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for
 the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and
 Wild Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres;
 also City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low
 prices and easy terms.
 Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets
 Napanee.

JAMES F. BARTLES.
 Napanee, Sept. 12th, 1876.

FOR CHEAP

GROCERIES,
CROCKERY &
GLASSWARE.

GO TO
GEORGE REID'S
 NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.
A. PETERS, ODESSA,
 DEALER IN

Saws, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese
 Boxes, Tubs, Firkins, etc.
 I am now making a very superior article
 in a sawed cheese box; which I will sell at 12c. All orders entrusted to me
 will receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS.,
LIVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE BRISCOE HOUSE,)
NAPANEE, ONT.
 We keep nothing but First-Class
 Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE
 PRICES

J. NO. A. REID

VET. SURGEON
NAPANEE ONT.

GRADUATE OF
Ontario Veterinary College.
 May be consulted on all diseases of Domesticated Animals, personally at Campbell House

the coast, very soon turn quitting it for one upon a less traffic. We found on close of three hours' quick
 coming within sight of t
 with its foam-flecked bill
 told by Jonathan William backed, sinister looking lit
 we were nearing the Spik Spike Rocks! how I shan mention of that name, rec
 But I will not an ing up before a five-barri
 led into an extensive pie land bordering the shore wards found, crowning pr
 for nearly a mile in leng
 sheer walls to the sea. Jo his sent and pointed out the two rocks which we h
 to visit. They stood at from the land—smally islands, bleak and sharp
 interest consisting, as we
 in their being a peculiari
 of a species of sea-bird seasons of the year, of wh was one, the birds would thousands, covering the r
 to summit with a compact whitly-brown feathers.
 at which our carriage stop the rocks were too far aw clothing to be clearly visi cordingly set off for a nea warned by a shout from th we had taken a few steps the "Devil's Holes." (S translated the barbarous word he used.) "Devil what can they be?" I inq companion was no wis
 the matter than myself, as a shake of the head; so trusting to our observation
 ment.

The enlightenment came we anticipated, and was a me by a great shock. U enoe of my new friend's ciety, I was feeling a high which I have long been a upon observing before me hollow in the field we we was seized with a moment run forward, as I might h a boy, and let the impetu the near side carry me t bank which I saw up th Had I followed out that ever, I should not now ha this story, for when close not before, I perceived to the innocently seeming the ground was in rea natural pit. Where the g minated, instead of the gr expected to see, yawned and looking downwards, I bled as my eye sank i some hundred feet in dep tom of which, as though i gigantic caldron, appear mass of water rolling an against the rocky sides at a booming sound like th
 cannon.

An exclamation of hor
 my lips as this unexpecte met my sight, and drawn backwards, I nervously not to stand too near the "Devil's Hole" had filled strangest sensation of c and when presently we second hollow in the mea from approaching it. Th however, would not be doing so; and from the n
 I saw him walking rou curiously peering over its pared for the announce mad upon rejoicing meet a "Devil's Hole"—larger aspects similar to the one involuntary shiver was a comment I made upon th
 tion; and as we continue looked apprehensively in for further signs of God's ground. But none presen for like the Spike Rocks, but t o in lumber; an taken a survey of the rocl the lesser curiosities of t

Upon reaching Twe minster and I separated standing that we were to the inn at which we put afternoon—that hour being

Napanee Express.

"THE GREATEST GOOD TO THE GREATEST NUMBER."

NAPANEE, ONT., FRIDAY, APRIL 6, 1877.

BRISCO HOUSE, NAPANEE, ONT.

JOHN SOBY, - - Proprietor.

A First-Class Hotel

in all its Appointments.
Omnibuses meet all Trains and Steamers.

PAISLEY HOUSE.

(John St. opposite the Market.)

NAPANEE, ONT.

A First Class Hotel centrally located, with excellent yard and stabling accommodations

CHAS. PAISLEY,
PROPRIETOR.

CAMPBELL HOUSE, NAPANEE, Ont.

THE PRINCIPAL HOTEL IN TOWN.

Good Stabling & Attentive Ostler.
CHARGES AS USUAL.
MARSDEN & MOORE,
PROPRIETORS.

TICHBORNE HOUSE, (Corner Dundas & John Streets.)

NAPANEE.

ROBERT McDONALD,
Proprietor.

A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL. CHARGES MODERATE.

QUEEN'S HOTEL, BELLEVILLE

Every Accommodation for Commercial Travellers.

A. P. FARRELL,
PROPRIETOR.

McDONALD HOUSE, (Late Clark House)

BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.
Buses to and from the cars. 39-yl.

CUMMING'S

Specific for the Hair.

BRISCOE & SHUTTOCK, Proprietors
for Canada, No. 11, King Street,
West Toronto.

MAC. BOTTING,

Hair Dresser, Dundas Street. Napanee,
Sole Agent for Napanee and Counties of
Lennox and Addington. 42.

 Land for Sale
30,000 ACRES.

(THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for

THE RIVULET.

BY A. W. THOMAS.

I dance along with joy and song,
Cold water pure and free,
Adown the hill into the vale
Beneath some aged tree.

Where'er I go, I blessings give
To young and old the same.
Refreshing all within my reach,
And singing my refrain.

I kiss the tulip's tiny cup,
The rose and daisies too,
And make them smile upon my course
With red, and white, and blue.

Sometimes great burdens, too, I bear,
Upon my foamy crest,
But still I'm singing my refrain
More joyous than the rest.

My course of time is never run,
I'm always fresh and gay,
I never weary of this life
And yet, I pass away.

I dance along with joy and song,
A-singing all the day;
I'm happy as e'er can be,
And yet, I pass away.

A CURATE'S HOLIDAY.

A SHORT STORY OF THRILLING INTEREST.

Mr. John Williams, landlord of the Ship and Anchor, Lleydrugg, had not deceived the little minister and myself with regard to the qualifications of his horse. It was a high-stepping thoroughbred; and notwithstanding that the roads were heavy with the rain of the previous day, we bowled along next morning at a famous rate on our way to Twellryst. Clouds of a somewhat suspicious character floated overhead, occasionally depriving us for a space of the sunshine, and the wind was perhaps too high to be altogether agreeable. But on the whole the weather was favourable; and enlivened by Mr. Morgan's instructive and cheerful conversation, the day's trip promised to prove a pleasant one. For some time after leaving Lleydrugg we followed the regular coach-road, which, though running for a little way on a line with the coast, very soon turned inland. Then quitting it for one upon which was much less traffic, we found ourselves at the close of three hours' quick driving, again coming within sight of the blue ocean with its foam-flecked billows, and were told by Jonathan Williams, our hunch-backed, sinister-looking little driver, that we were nearing the Spike Rocks. The Spike Rocks! how I shudder at the bare mention of that name, recalling as it does — But I will not anticipate. Drawing up before a five-barred gate which led into an extensive piece of meadow land bordering the shore and, as I afterwards found, crowning precipices which for nearly a mile in length descended in sheer walls to the sea. Jonathan rose in his seat and pointed out with his whip the two rocks which we had come hither to visit. They stood at some distance from the land—small, conical-shaped islands, bleak and sharp-pointed—their interest consisting, as we have been told, in their being a peculiarly favorite resort of a species of sea-bird. At certain seasons of the year, of which the present was one, the birds would collect here in thousands, covering the rock from base to summit with a compactly living mantle of white, downy feathers. From the point we thought it wise to appoint on account of the necessity of getting back to Lleydrugg that night.

A careful exploration of the ruins, which turned out to be very interesting; a walk in the country; and a saunter round the town, filled up my time very agreeably; and arriving exactly as the clock struck four, I found Mr. Morgan already at the rendezvous. Our conveyance was then called for; but to our annoyance, the driver was not forthcoming. He had strolled away from the hotel some time ago, we were told; and when, eventually, the search for him ended in his discovery in a neighboring public-house, he appeared to be a good deal the worse for liquor. The delay thus occasioned in starting upon our backward journey was the more vexatious because of the threatening aspect which during the last hour the weather had been assuming. Thick dark clouds had gradually spread themselves over the entire sky, and the wind, as it moaned amongst the trees of a neighboring orchard, or whistled round the corners of the inn, had a decidedly stormy sound. Naturally I am rather a passionate man, and at the time of which I write my private troubles made me more than usually prone to irritation. It is scarcely to be wondered at then, that when, upon my friend's calling Jonathan's attention to these signs of the times, I observed an implacable look of satisfaction stealing over the man's face as though he were inwardly rejoicing in the anticipation of our getting a good wetting in return for the scolding we had given him. Indeed, I had some difficulty in restraining my inclination to seize his horsewhip and lay it across his shoulders. I did restrain it, however; and when ready at length, we set off at full speed. This was so well kept up by Mr. Williams' excellent horse, that although we could not hope to escape a drenching, we began to congratulate ourselves that after all we might get to Lleydrugg before very late in the evening.

We had been for more than an hour upon the road and had made first-rate progress, when on a sudden the look-for storm broke upon us with the utmost violence. In a few moments the wind had risen to a hurricane, rendering our umbrellas entirely useless; and it was only by enveloping ourselves in a large horse-rug with which the landlord had provided us, that the little Welshman and I had any chance of keeping dry. Taking off our hats, we passed the rug over our heads, and had been riding in this way for a considerable distance, when my companion observed that the vehicle was jolting very much; and removing the covering from my face, I saw that we had turned off the highway into a narrow lane. On being questioned by Mr. Morgan, to whom I uneasily communicated this fact, Jonathan declared that the lane was a short cut which would presently bring us out again upon the road we had quitted. I can scarcely tell why, but from the very first I doubted the correctness of this statement; and when, after twisting and turning time without number, the lane appeared as far as ever from its promised termination, my suspicions became confirmed. That our dissolved themselves into seven. There were, a stout red-visaged woman, the of our host; and six tall strongly young men, varying in ages from six to thirty-five—his sons. With a courtesy the whole family proceeded once to busy themselves for our comfort—one of the sons placing chairs for front of the peat fire, another assisting remove our damp coats and hang to dry, whilst a couple more accompanied Jonathan to an out-building, where horse and carriage were to be disposed for the night. The woman, upon part, hastened to prepare us some to eat; and grateful for all this attention Mr. Morgan (whom I began by this to look upon as quite an old friend) tied away to our entertainers in his usual pleasant manner. I too for a exerted myself towards their amusement giving them an account of our day's excursion, and speaking of other matters which I thought calculated to interest them. But with the exception of the woman who had a harsh disagreeable voice, was sufficiently loquacious, none of the party possessed much conversational power, and the talk gradually flagged. Upon lapsing into silence, the faces naturally fell into their ordinary expressions, and as my gaze now wandered from one to another, a feeling of like and distrust of the entire group ed upon me. The feeling was one that could not well account for, and for indeed I blamed myself severely. Nevertheless, far from diminishing as the evening wore on, it increased to an painful degree; and upon my mind denly reverting to the large sum of money carried by my companion, I took an opportunity of anxiously whispering to be aware of any allusion to it. The question in this warning appeared startle the little minister; but his manner was eminently trustful, and as I could a short cogitation ended in his men condemning my suspicion as uncalled for. Shortly after it had been uttered, ever, he proposed, to my satisfaction, we should go to bed; whereupon farmer (whose face and figure, though knew I had never seen him before evening, seemed somewhat familiar slipped from the room, and returned directly with a black bottle in his hand pressed us before retiring to rest to a glass of spirits. Being a teetotaler declined for myself the proffered hospitality. But thinking, as he remarked that it might prevent his taking cold the wetting he had sustained, Morgan accepted a somewhat stiff tumbler of whiskey punch. This, in order to keep me waiting he drained almost draught; and our host then pressed us to an upper story, pointed out rooms in which we were to sleep. We were situated at each end of a long passage; the first, which opened at the of a rather steep flight of stairs, being assigned to my companion, and the far one to myself. Upon following Morgan into his chamber for the purpose of doing him good night, I noticed with astonishment that he staggered slightly crossing the floor. He complained as we shook hands, of feeling "a little sleepy;" and smiling to myself at the rapidity with which the whiskey-

QUEEN'S HOTEL, BELLEVILLE

Every Accomodation for Commercial Travellers.

A. P. FARRELL,
PROPRIETOR.

McDONALD HOUSE,
(Late Clark House)

BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.
Buses to and from the cars.

CUMMING'S

Specific for the Hair.

BRISCOE & SHUTTOCK, Proprietors
for Canada, No. 11, King Street,
West Toronto.

MAC. BOTTING,

Hair Dresser, Dundas Street. Nananee, Sole Agent for Nananee and Counties of Lennox and Addington.

Land for Sale

30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for
the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and
Wild Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres;
also of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low
prices and easy terms.
Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets
Nananee.

JAMES F. BARTLES.

Nananee, Sept. 12th, 1876.

FOR CHEAP

GROCERIES,
CROCKERY &
GLASSWARE.

GO TO

GEORGE REID'S

NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE

DUNDAS STREET, NANANEE.

A. PETERS, ODESSA,

DEALER IN

SASH, DOORS, and Mouldings, Cheese
Boxes, Tubs, Firkins, etc.

I am now making a very superior article
in a sawed cheese box; which I will sell at 12c. All orders entrusted to me
will receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS.,

LIVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE ERISSO HOUSE.)

NANANEE, ONT.

We keep nothing but First-Class
Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE
PRICES

JNO. A. REID

VET. SURGEON

altogether agreeable. But on the whole the weather was favourable; and enlivened by Mr. Morgan's instructive and cheerful conversation, the day's trip promised to prove a pleasant one. For some time after leaving Lleydrugg we followed the regular coach-road, which, though running for a little way on a line with the coast, very soon turned inland. Then quitting it for one upon which was much less traffic, we found ourselves at the close of three hours' quick driving, again coming within sight of the blue ocean with its foam-flecked billows, and were told by Jonathan Williams, our hunchbacked, sinister-looking little driver, that we were nearing the Spike Rocks. The Spike Rocks! how I shudder at the bare mention of that name, recalling as it does

But I will not anticipate. Drawing up before a five-barred gate which led into an extensive piece of meadow land bordering the shore and, as I ter-wards found, crowning precipices which for nearly a mile in length descended in sheer walls to the sea. Jonathan rose in his seat and pointed out with his whip the two rocks which we had come hither to visit. They stood at some distance from the land—small, conical-shaped islands, bleak and sharp-pointed—their interest consisting, as we have been told, in their being a peculiarly favorite resort of a species of sea-bird. At certain seasons of the year, of which the present was one, the birds would collect here in thousands, covering the rock from base to summit with a compact living mantle of whitely-brown feathers. From the point at which our carriage stopped, however the rocks were too far away from their clothing to be clearly visible and we accordingly set off for a nearer inspection, warned by a shout from the driver, when we had taken a few steps, to beware of the "Devil's Holes." (So Mr. Morgan translated the barbarous-sounding Welsh word he used.) "Devil's holes! why what can they be?" I inquired. But my companion was no wiser with regard to the matter than myself, as confessed with a shake of the head; so we walked on, trusting to our observation for enlightenment.

The enlightenment came sooner than we anticipated, and was accompanied for me by a great shock. Under the influence of my new friend's inspiring society, I was feeling a light-heartedness to which I have long been a stranger; and upon observing before me a small round hollow in the field we were crossing. I was seized with a momentary impulse to run forward, as I might have done when a boy, and let the impetus of descending
the near side carry me up the sloping bank which I saw up the farther one.
Had I followed out that impulse, however, I should not now have been writing this story, for when close upon it, but not before, I perceived to my horror that the innocently seeming indentation of the ground was in reality an awful natural pit. Where the grassy slope terminated, instead of the green level I had expected to see, yawned a black chasm;
and looking downwards, I positively trembled as my eye sank into the abyss
some hundred feet in depth, at the bottom of which, as though it had been a gigantic cauldron, appearing a scething mass of water rolling and dashing itself against the rocky sides and sending up a booming sound like the explosion of cannon.

An exclamation of horror burst from my lips as this unexpected phenomenon met my sight, and drawing Mr. Morgan backwards, I nervously entreated him not to stand too near the edge. That "Devil's Hole" had filled me with the strangest sensation of creeping dread;
and when presently we came upon a second hollow in the meadow, I shrank
from approaching it. The little minister however, would not be deterred from doing so; and from the manner in which I saw him walking round and round, cautiously peering over its side, I was prepared for the announcement which he made upon rejoining me, that that too was a "Devil's Hole"—larger but in other respects similar to the one I had seen. An involuntary shiver was almost the only comment I made upon this communica-

I did restrain it, however; and when ready at length, we set off at full speed.
This was so well kept up by Mr. Williams' excellent horse, that although we could not hope to escape a drenching, we began to congratulate ourselves that after all we might get to Lleydrugg before very late in the evening.

We had been for more than an hour upon the road and had made first-rate progress, when on a sudden the looked-for storm broke upon us with the utmost violence. In a few moments the wind had risen to a hurricane, rendering our umbrellas entirely useless; and it was only by enveloping ourselves in a large horse-rug with which the landlord had provided us, that the little Welshman and I had any chance of keeping dry.
Taking off our hats, we passed the rug over our heads, and had been riding in this way for a considerable distance, when my companion observed that the vehicle was jolting very much; and removing the covering from my face, I saw that we had turned off the highway into a narrow lane. On being questioned by Mr.
Morgan, to whom I uneasily communicated this fact, Jonathan declared that the lane was a short cut which would presently bring us out again upon the road we had quitted. I can scarcely tell why, but from the very first I doubted the correctness of this statement; and when, after twisting and turning time without number, the lane appeared as far as ever from its promised termination, my suspicions became confirmed. That our driver was purposely taking us in a wrong direction, I could hardly think, since I could conceive of no object for his doing so; but that he had, either through drunkenness or carelessness, lost his way, I felt assured. Bending forward, I angrily charged him with the mistake; and though at first holding doggedly to his former assertion, he admitted by-and-by that he thought he must have turned up the wrong lane—adding, however,
that as I might see for myself, he could not get his horse round in so confined a space, and would be obliged therefore to drive onwards. That obligation I was of course forced to allow; and muttering something as like an anathema as my clerical character would permit me to use, I re-covered my head and resigned myself, along with my more even-tempered associate, to the inevitable. But our misadventures were not to end with this contretemps. We were still in the lane, and had been going more and more slowly
on account of its increasing roughness,
when all at once the dwarf affirmed that something was wrong with the horse's right forefoot, and precipitately descended to examine it. The examination occupied a long time; and peering from beneath the sheltering rug, I noticed Jonathan's arm working about as he bent over the hoof he had raised, and thought I distinguished, mingling with the roar of the wind, a faint sound as of grating metal.
I remarked upon this to Mr. Morgan, and we both called out to enquire what was the matter. But the fellow would vouchsafe us no reply until he had re-mounted to his seat, when he informed us sulkily that the shoe on that foot was coming loose, and that he had been trying to refasten it. Apparently, however,
he had not succeeded to his satisfaction,
for he shortly got down to look at it again, and kept on repeating the action at intervals. At length, just as we emerged from that seemingly interminable lane,
the horse stumbled slightly; and once more descending from his box, the hunchback, with an ejaculation, in which it struck me there was a tone of triumph, brought forward the shoe, which had now
indeed come off.

For a few moments the little minister and I sat in silence interchanging glances of dismay, which it was becoming almost too dark to read. Then simultaneously we inquired of Jonathan what was to be done. The driver's answer was prompt and decisive. We must, he said, stop at the first house we come to and begin a night's lodging, since upon no account dared he proceed towards home at the risk of losing the horse. His cousin, he added, would be furious should any harm come to it, as it was very valuable.

carried by my companion, I took a portunity of anxiously whispering to beware of any allusion to it. The nasion in this warning appear-stirled the little minister; but his response was eminently trustful, and as I considered a short cogitation ended in his me-condemning my suspicion as uncalled for.
Shortly after it had been uttered, however, he proposed, to my satisfaction we should go to bed; whereupon farmer (whose face and figure, though I knew I had never seen him before evening, seemed somewhat fan-shipped from the room, and returned directly with a black bottle in his pressed us before retiring to rest to a glass of spirits. Being a teetotal declined for myself the proffered liquidity. But thinking, as he remembered that it might prevent his taking cold the wetting he had sustained, Morgan accepted a somewhat stiff tler of whiskey punch. This, in order to keep me waiting he drained ala draught; and our host then prece-ed us to an upper story, pointed out rooms in which we were to sleep.
were situated at each end of a long sage; the first, which opened at the
of a rather steep flight of stairs, be-signed to my companion, and the second to myself. Upon following Minto his chamber for the purpose of dressing him good night, I noticed with astonishment that he staggered slightly crossing the floor. He complained as we shook hands, of feeling "a sleepy;" and smiling to myself at rapidity with which the whiskey-was taking effect upon the little V-man, I recommended him in an u-rtore to lock his door; and leaving I his slumbers, betook myself, unde-farmer's guidance, to the apartmenpointed for my own occupation.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A LITTLE HISTORY.

Notable among the pretty stories history hands down to us, is the story the little town of St. Geniere, on the per St. Lawrence, by a boy and a p-pkins. The town was besieged by ans, and a few settlers, hardy Frmen, took refuge in the block-house.

For days and days the siegers helworrying their victims where they u-well knowing that hunger must at force them to surrender. But sti-Frenchmen kept their flag flying, rout their provisions in scant rat-hoped and prayed for help. To go and attack the Indians was defeacertain death; to surrender was no-ter. They must wait and starve t-succor came to them from the B-fort, twenty miles below. So they ed and waited, but no help came.
they but get a message to the fort,
were saved. But the Redskins sur-red them on all sides, and to show or foot beyond their narrow prison to court death by a poisoned a-Every day their provisions grew less at length their only choice seemed between death by hunger or by mas-Men were weak and dying from s-tion; women and children were c-for bread; the last ration had been out, and all hope was gone. Noth-eat, ammunition nearly gone, at help from the fort. But just their wind veered round to the north a-began to grow cold. Every minugrew colder, and a gauzy film formed on the surface of the St.
rence. In an hour the film had t-to a sheet of glass. When the sun down, the river was covered with springy ice.

Then a brave boy, whose name h-has forgotten, but whose noble deed be remembered forever, said that he save his countymen. The block-stood on the river bank; the Britisstood within gunshot of the shore, t-miles below. He had skates, and how to use them. At midnight, the ice had thickened, his father slower him down with a rope from rampart to the ice below; and aimed should be the arrow that harm him in his speed through the

GROCERIES,
CROCKERY &
GLASSWARE.

GO TO
GEORGE REID'S
NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.
A. PETERS, ODESSA,
DEALER IN

Sash, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese
Boxes, Tubs, Firkins, etc.
I am now making a very superior article in a sash cheese box; which I will sell at 12c. All orders entrusted to me
will receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS.,
LIVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE EMERALD HOUSE.)
NAPANEE, ONT.
We keep nothing but First-Class
Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE
PRICES

J. A. REID

VET. SURGEON
NAPANEE ONT.
GRADUATE OF
Ontario Veterinary College.

May be consulted on all diseases of Domestic Animals, personally at Campbell House
or by letter.

FEES MODERATE
OFFICE—Warner Block.

“HOW” To restore health and strength to feeble is a question often asked.

PHOSPHORUS
Is one of the most active elements of the body. If it is wanting, disease creeps in beginning with Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, Weakness, Neuralgia, Sore Throat,
Bronchitis. Phosphorus has cured many cases of above, when all other remedies have failed. Sold by PETLOR & SCOTT,
Napanee.

OCEAN TICKETS.

OCEAN Tickets for sale via Quebec or Halifax
in summer, Halifax or Portland in winter, by the Allan S. S. Line, White Star Line, Inman and National, via New York. Also return tickets at reduced rates to any point in the Old Country.

RAILWAY TICKETS.
Tickets by the Great Western Railway, to all points and return at reduced rates.

EXCHANGE OFFICE.
American money bought and sold, and drafts
on New York.

ACCIDENTAL INSURANCE.
Agent for the Accidental Insurance Co. of Canada.

A. H. ALLISON, Agent.
Montreal Telegraph Office.
Over Mallory's Drug Store.
4-1m.

what can they be?" I inquired. But my companion was no wiser with regard to the matter than myself, as confessed with
a shake of the head; so we walked on,
trusting to our observation for enlightenment.

The enlightenment came sooner than
we anticipated, and was accompanied for me by a great shock. Under the influence of my new friend's inspiring society, I was feeling a light-heartedness to which I have long been a stranger; and
upon observing before me a small round
hollow in the field we were crossing. I was seized with a momentary impulse to run forward, as I might have done when
a boy, and let the impetus of descending
the near side carry me up the sloping bank which I saw up the further one.
Had I followed out that impulse, however,
I should not now have been writing this story, for when close upon it, but not before, I perceived to my horror that
the innocently seeming indentation of
the ground was in reality an awful natural pit. Where the grassy slope terminated, instead of the green level I had expected to see, yawned a black chasm;
and looking downwards, I positively trembled as my eye sank into the abyss
some hundred feet in depth, at the bottom of which, as though it had been a gigantic caldron, appearing a seething mass of water rolling and dashing itself
against the rocky sides and sending up
a booming sound like the explosion of cannon.

An exclamation of horror burst from
my lips as this unexpected phenomenon
met my sight, and drawing Mr. Morgan backwards, I nervously entreated him
not to stand too near the edge. That
"Devil's Hole" had filled me with the strangest sensation of creeping dread;
and when presently we came upon a second hollow in the meadow, I shrank
from approaching it. The little minister
however, would not be deterred from doing so; and from the manner in which
I saw him walking round and round, curiously peering over its side, I was prepared for the announcement which he made upon rejoining me, that that too was
a "Devil's Hole"—larger but in other respects similar to the one I had seen. An involuntary shiver was almost the only comment I made upon this communication; and as we continued our course,
I looked apprehensively in all directions for further suspicious undulations of the ground. But none presented themselves; for like the Spike Rocks, these holes are but a hole in a number; and when we had taken a survey of the rocks—to my mind the lesser curiosities of the district—we returned to our dog-cart.

Words can scarcely express the relief I experienced as I felt myself being carried swiftly away from the neighborhood of these horrible pits. The state of my health possibly may have had something to do with it; but my imagination certainly had been powerfully impressed with what was perhaps an exaggerated idea of their danger, and throughout the remainder of our drive I could talk of little else. Interested only in a lesser degree than myself, Mr. Morgan joined me in conjectures as to the way in which they had been informed, the probable depth of water contained in them; the manner in which they were connected with the sea, and so forth. But though each of us endeavored by turns to draw Jonathan into the conversation, in order to extract information from him, our dwarfish driver either could not or would not afford us any. He did not know, he said, whether or not there had ever been an accident on the spot, and replied to all our questions with a shortness which—considering that he had chattered incessantly during the former part of the journey—made me think that for some reason or other the subject must be distasteful to him.

Upon reaching Twelvey the little minister and I separated, with the understanding that we were to meet again at the inn at which we put up at four in the afternoon—that hour being as late as one by that we thought he must have turned up the "wrong lane"—adding, however,

that as I might see for myself, he could not get his horse round in so confined a space, and would be obliged therefore to drive onwards. That obligation I was of course forced to allow; and muttering
something as like an anathema as my clerical character would permit me to use, I re-covered my head and resigned
myself, along with my more even-tempered associate, to the inevitable. But our misadventures were not to end with this contretemps. We were still in the lane,
and had been going more and more slowly
on account of its increasing roughness,
when all at once the dwarf affirmed that something was wrong with the horse's right forefoot, and precipitately descended to examine it. The examination occupied a long time; and peering from beneath
the sheltering rug, I noticed Jonathan's arm working about as he bent over the hoof he had raised, and thought I distinguished, mingling with the roar of the wind, a faint sound as of grating metal.
I remarked upon this to Mr. Morgan,
and we both called out to enquire what was the matter. But the fellow would vouchsafe us no reply until he had re-mounted to his seat, when he informed us
sulkily that the shoe on that foot was coming loose, and that he had been trying to refasten it. Apparently, however,
he had not succeeded to his satisfaction,
for he shortly got down to look at it
again, and kept on repeating the action at intervals. At length, just as we emerged from that seemingly interminable lane,
the horse stumbled slightly; and once
more descending from his box, the hunch-
back, with an ejaculation, in which it struck me there was a tone of triumph,
brought forward the shoe, which had now
indeed come off.

For a few moments the little minister
and I sat in silence interchanging glances
of dismay, which it was becoming almost too dark to read. Then simultaneously we inquired of Jonathan what was to be done. The driver's answer was prompt and decisive. We must, he said, step at the first house we come to and beg a night's lodging, since upon no account dared he proceed towards home at the risk of laming the horse. His cousin, he added, would be furious should any
harm come to it, as it was very valuable,
and he was, besides, much attached to it.
Recognizing its necessity, we acquiesced in this plan without demur, and in fact without unwillingness, the idea of a speedy shelter from the still violent storm being by no means ungrateful. But where, the question remained, could that shelter be found? We rose in the dog-cart, looked eagerly to right and left, but could discern no habitation. Jonathan, however, after applying himself to a similar scrutiny, declared that he perceived, just beyond a small plantation or orchard about a hundred yards distant, what he felt sure was the corner of a building; and taking the horse by the bridle, he led it in that direction. His keenest sight, as we shortly found, had not deceived him. When upon stopping again, we displaced the rug in which we had again enveloped ourselves from head to foot, we saw in front of us, through the battering rain and gathering gloom, a low, straggling farmhouse.

A small garden, entered by a wicketgate, led to the door; and begging us to sit still, Jonathan ran towards it, returning almost immediately with the information that we could be accommodated here for the night. Blessing our good fortune, we accordingly alighted, and were met, as we passed into the house, by a hard-featured elderly man in a smockfrock and leather gaiters, who after bestowing upon us a gruff welcome, showed us into a large sanded kitchen. An unpleasant odor of bad beer and stale tobacco greeted our entrance, and my first impression, in the uncertain light which filled it, was that the apartment contained a numerous company. Upon candles being produced, however, as they speedily were by the farmer's direction, its occupants

A LITTLE HISTORY.

Notable among the pretty stories that history hands down to us, is the saving of the little town of St. Geniere, on the upper St. Lawrence, by a boy and a pair of skates. The town was besieged by Indians, and a few settlers, hardy Frenchmen, took refuge in the block-house fort.

For days and days the siegers held on, worrying their victims where they might,
well knowing that hunger must at last force them to surrender. But still the Frenchmen kept their flag flying, meted out their provisions in scant rations, and hoped and prayed for help. To go out and attack the Indians was defeat and certain death; to surrender was no better. They must wait and starve until succor came to them from the British fort, twenty miles below. So they waited and waited, but no help came. Could they but get a message to the fort, they were saved. But the Redskins surrounded them on all sides, and to show head or foot beyond their narrow prison was to court death by a poisoned arrow.
Every day their provisions grew less, till at length their only choice seemed to be between death by hunger or by massacre.
Men were weak and dying from starvation; women and children were crying for bread; the last ration had been given out, and all hope was gone. Nothing to eat, ammunition nearly gone, and no help from the fort. But just then the wind veered round to the north and it began to grow cold. Every minute it grew colder, and a gauzy film of ice formed on the surface of the St. Lawrence. In an hour the film had turned to a sheet of glass. When the sun went down, the river was covered with hard springy ice.

Then a brave boy, whose name history has forgotten, but whose noble deed will be remembered forever, said that he could save his countymen. The block fort stood on the river bank; the British fort stood within gunshot of the shore, twenty miles below. He had skates, and knew how to use them. At midnight, when the ice had thickened, his father should lower him down with a rope from the rampart to the ice below; and well-aimed should be the arrow that would harm him in his speed through the darkness. When his mother protested that he was rushing into certain death, that the river bank was lined with hostile Indians through all the dangerous route,
"Is it not better," he replied, "that I should die trying to reach the fort than that we should starve here and starve?" So he went. At midnight he dropped quickly down the rope, with skates already strapped to his feet, and before his friends knew that he had touched the ice, he was flying down the dark, dangerous river.
On he went, over the slippery ice. Now and again his quick strokes were heard on the shore and a random arrow sped after him. Flying over thin places, narrowly escaping one obstruction and another as it came in his way, on he flew.
The fierce wind was at his back, and helped him on his voyage for life. The moon, as if to shield him from danger, hid herself behind a big black cloud, till exhausted, panting, he reached the fort, and then his shout went out in all her glory in honor of his heroic deed. In an hour, through darkness and danger, he had made the trip. Before the sun shone again the King's-red-coated men, equally swift in their mission of mercy, were at the little block fort.
St. Geniere was saved. The brave boy and the trusty skates had done their work. Rural Home.

As a young lady was enjoying her afternoon's skating at the Southport Winter Gardens rink, Eng., a gentleman came in collision with her, and knocked her down with such violence that she broke her leg. She was taken to the infirmary, but it is feared that her leg will have to be amputated.

Express.

THE GREATEST NUMBER."

($1.00 per annum, if paid in advance.)

DAY, APRIL 6, 1877.

NO. 50.

ight it wise to appoint on account necessity of getting back to Lley—that night.

ireful exploration of the ruins, turned out to be very interesting; in the country; and a saunter he town, filled up my time very ly; and arriving exactly as the ruck four, I found Mr. Morgan at the rendezvous. Our convey- is then called for; but to our an- e, the driver was not forthcoming. I strolled away from the hotel me ago, we were told; and when, lly, the search for him ended in overy in a neighboring public- e appeared to be a good deal the or liquor. The delay thus occa- in starting upon our backward was the more vexatious because breating aspect which during hour the weather had been as-

Thick dark clouds had gradu- ed themselves over the entire sky, wind, as it moaned amongst the a neighboring orchard, or whist- d the corners of the inn, had a ly stormy sound. Naturally I am passionnate man, and at the time I write my private troubles e more than usually prone to ir-

It is scarcely to be wondered that when, upon my friend's cal- lation's attention to these signs mes, I observed an impish look of ion stealing over the man's face h he were inwardly rejoicing in cipation of our getting a good wet- ertain for the scolding we had m. Indeed, I had some difficulty uring my inclination to seize his ip and lay it across his shoulders. strain it, however; and when length, we set off at full speed. s so well kept up by Mr. Wil- ceellent horse, that although we t hope to escape a drenching, we congratulate ourselves that after ight get to Lleyrudrigg before in the evening.

id been for more than an hour road and had made first-rate ; when on a sudden the looked- a broke upon us with the utmost

In a few moments the wind t to a hurricane, rendering our s entirely useless; and it was enveloping ourselves in a large ; with which the landlord had us, that the little Welshman ad any chance of keeping dry. ff our hats, we passed the rug heads, and had been riding in for a considerable distance, when anion observed that the vehicle ing very much; and removing ing from my face, I saw that we d off the highway into a narrow n being questioned by Mr. to whom I uneasily communica- act, Jonathan declared that the a short cut which would pres- us out again upon the road we ed. I can scarcely tell why, but very first I doubted the correct- his statement; and when, after und turning time without num- lane appeared as far as ever promised termination, my sus- became confirmed. That our as purposely taking us in a rection, I could hardly think, dissolved themselves into seven. These were, a stout red-visaged woman, the wife of our host; and six tall strongly built young men, varying in ages from sixteen to thirty-five—his sons. With much courtesy the whole family proceeded at once to busy themselves for our comfort—one of the sons placing chairs for us in front of the peat fire, another assisting to remove our damp coats and hang them to dry, whilst a couple more accompanied Jonathan to an out-building, where our horse and carriage were to be disposed for the night. The woman, upon her part, hastened to prepare us something to eat; and grateful for all this attention, Mr. Morgan (whom I began by this time to look upon as quite an old friend) chatted away to our entertainers in his usually pleasant manner. I too—for a while exerted myself towards their amusement, giving them an account of our day's excursion, and speaking of other matters which I thought calculated to interest. But with the exception of the woman, who had a harsh disagreeable voice, and was sufficiently loquacious, none of the party possessed much conversational power, and the talk gradually flagged.

Upon lapsing into silence, the men's faces naturally fell into their ordinary expressions, and as my gaze now wandered from one to another, a feeling of dislike and distrust of the entire group seized upon me. The feeling was one that I could not well account for, and for which indeed I blamed myself severely. Nevertheless, far from diminishing as the evening wore on, it increased to an almost painful degree; and upon my mind suddenly reverting to the large sum of money carried by my companion, I took an opportunity of anxiously whispering to him to beware of any allusion to it. The suggestion in this warning appeared to startle the little minister; but his nature was eminently trustful, and as I could see, a short cogitation ended in his mentally condemning my suspicion as uncalled for. Shortly after it had been uttered, however, he proposed, to my satisfaction, that we should go to bed; whereupon the farmer (whose face and figure, though I knew I had never seen him before this evening, seemed somewhat familiar) slipped from the room, and returning directly with a black bottle in his hand, pressed us before retiring to rest to take a glass of spirits. Being a teetotaler, I declined for myself the proffered hospitality. But thinking, as he remarked, that it might prevent his taking cold from the wetting he had sustained, Mr. Morgan accepted a somewhat stiff tumbler of whiskey punch. This, in order not to keep me waiting he drained almost at a draught; and our host then preceeding us to an upper story, pointed out the rooms in which we were to sleep. They were situated at each end of a long passage; the first, which opened at the head of a rather steep flight of stairs, being assigned to my companion, and the farther one to myself. Upon following Morgan into his chamber for the purpose of bidding him good night, I noticed with astonishment that he staggered slightly in crossing the floor. He complained too, as we shook hands, of feeling "terribly sleepy;" and smiling to myself at the rapidity with which the whiskey-punch was taking effect upon the little Welsh-

"UNCLE TOM" IN ENGLAND.

Mr. Henson (the hero of Mrs. Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin") with his wife, and Mr. J. Lobb, the editor of his autobiography, now on a visit to England, visited Windsor Castle, recently, where they were received by Sir T. Biddulph. After luncheon, the Queen, accompanied by Princess Beatrice and Prince Leopold, appeared in the corridor attended by the ladies in waiting, and Mr. Henson was then presented to her Majesty by Sir T. Biddulph. In a most gracious manner the Queen expressed her surprise at his hearty and healthy appearance, and her pleasure at seeing one about whom she had heard and read so much. Her Majesty was pleased to present Mr. Henson with her photograph, signed "Victoria Reg., 1877," and mounted in a handsome ornolu frame, at the same time requesting him and Mr. Lobb to enter their names in her album. In reply Mr. Henson thanked Her Majesty for the great honor she had conferred upon him, and also on behalf of his colored brethren, for the many blessings they had enjoyed under her rule. Mrs. Henson and Mr. Lobb were then presented to the Queen, and before quitting the Castle they were shown the state and private apartments. Through Sir T. Biddulph the Queen informed Mr. Lobb that she had read Uncle Tom's autobiography with much interest and pleasure. We believe Mr. Henson returns to Canada in a week or ten days, his visit throughout having been most successful. He has raised about £1,400, which is, we understand, sufficient to redeem his home, property, and school from the mortgage with which they have been burdened.

UNCLE TOM'S INTERVIEW WITH THE QUEEN.

A London paper has the following interesting report of Mr. Henson's remarks upon the interview noted above: "The Rev. Josiah Henson ('Uncle Tom'), addressing a meeting in Edinburgh, referred to his interview with the Queen. He said that when he saw the Queen she met him very gracefully, and they might rely upon it that he endeavored to meet her as gracefully. (Laughter.) She was neatly dressed, so was I. (Laughter.) She came and made a very polite bow to me, and so did I. (Laughter.) She said that she had long read of me, and was happy to see me, indeed. I did not say ditto—(laughter)—but I thought ditto—(renewed laughter)—and said this, that I had had for a long time a great desire to see Her Majesty in person, that I might have the honor of presenting to Her Majesty private thanks for the honor which she had conferred upon herself by granting United States slaves an asylum from the hand of the cruel oppressor. I said whenever a slave struck the soil of Great Britain he was a man, and a free man. (Applause.) At every sentence Her Majesty would make a polite bow, and so would I—(laughter)—and I told her how our petitions had been ascending to God in prayer and thankfulness for the privilege which she had given us in Canada from the armed hand of the oppressor. (Applause.) I said that we would be always an honor to the Crown, and the greatest blessing we could confer upon Her Majesty would be to hope that all her subjects should behave themselves

LAST RITES.

By the mighty minister's bell,
Tolling with a sudden swell;
By the colors half-mast high,
O'er the sea lung mournfully;
Know, a prince had died!

By the drum's dull muffled sound
By the arms that swept the ground
By the volleying musket's tone,
Speak ye of a soldier gone
In his manhood's prime.

By the chanted psalm that fills Boreantly the ancient hills
Learn that from his harvests done, Peasants bear a brother on
To his last repose.

By the pall of snowy white
Through the yew-trees gleaming bright;
By the garland on their bier,
Weep! a maiden claims thy tear—
Broken is the rose!

Which is the tenderest rite of all?—
Buried virgin's coronal,
Requiem o'er the monarch's head,
Farewell gun for warrior dead,
Herdsman's funeral hymn?

Tells not each of human woe?
Each of hope and strength brought low?
Numbering each with folly things,
If one chattering thought it brings Ere life's day grow dim!

HUMMING-BIRD'S NEST.

Burroughs, in his charming little book, Wake Robin, says it is an event in one's life to find a humming-bird's nest. The event happened to me without any effort on my part. Looking up from a seat in the grove, I saw the ruby-throat drop down on its nest, like a shining emerald from the clouds; it did not pause upon the edge of the nest, but dropped immediately upon it. The nest was situated upon an oak twig, and was about the size of a black-walnut, and from where I sat it looked more like an ex-crescence than a nest. It is situated in the fork of two twigs; it is firmly glued at the base to the lower, but is not fastened to the upper twig.

I waited for the tiny occupant to leave the nest, and then with the aid of a step-ladder had no difficulty in looking into it. I found it contained two white eggs about as large as medium sized peas. Sometimes the male would drop upon the nest when the female left. I never disturbed them while they were sitting upon it; but often before I could get away, when I thought them out of sight, the male would suddenly appear, and greater demonstrations of anger I never saw manifested by any bird. He would ruffle up his tiny feather, and seem nearly twice as large, and dash almost into my face, making a squeaking noise—scolding and threatening until he had driven me quite a distance. He soon learned that I was very much afraid of him, so he turned tyrant, and often drove me from my seat in the grove when I had not been near his dwelling. I always submitted to the tiny tyrant, for what business had I to be prying into his domestic affair? When the young were hatched they were not larger than humblebees, but in a week they had flown. I cut the twig off, and found the nest was composed of the same soft downy substance which I had noticed in the wood pewee's nest, but it is matted so closely together that it is almost as firm as the softer kinds of felt; it is a marvel of skill and beauty, and is completely covered externally with lichens. MARY TREAT, in Harper's Magazine for April.

TOUCHED HER HEART.

Yesterday morning a woman living on Napoleon street was seen on the walk in front of the gate heaving the snow right and left, and she had only got fairly settled to work when a boy lounged up and remarked: "I'll clear off the walk for ten cents." "I guess I'm able to do it," she replied. "Here you are, a perfect lady in look and action, highly educated, and yet you grovel in the dust, as it were, to save the pitiful sum of ten cents." "You grovel along and mind your own business," she curtly replied, still digging away.

hip and lay it across his shoulders. restrain it, however; and when at length, we set off at full speed. as so well kept up by Mr. Wil- excellent horse, that although we not hope to escape a drenching, we to congratulate ourselves that after night get to Lleydrigg before in the evening.

had been for more than an hour e road and had made first-rate s, when on a sudden the looked- m broke upon us with the utmost e. In a few moments the wind en to a hurricane, rendering our s entirely useless; and it was enveloping ourselves in a large ug with which the landlord had d us, that the little Welshman had any chance of keeping dry. off our hats, we passed the rug heads, and had been riding in y for a considerable distance, when apian observed that the vehicle iting very much; and removing iring from my face, I saw that we ned off the highway into a narrow On being questioned by Mr. , to whom I uneasily communica- fact, Jonathan declared that the s a short cut which would pres- us out again upon the road we ted. I can scarcely tell why, but e very first I doubted the correct- this statement; and when, after and turning time without num- lane appeared as far as ever promised termination, my sus- became confirmed. That our was purposely taking us in a direction, I could hardly think, could conceive of no object for his ; but that he had, either through iness or carelessness, lost his way, assured. Bending forward, I charged him with the mistake; ough at first holding doggedly to er assertion, he admitted by-and- he thought he must have turned wrong lane—adding, however, I might see for myself, he could his horse round in so confined a nd would be obliged therefore to wards. That obligation I was of forced to allow; and muttering ng as like an anathema as my character would permit me to e-covered my head and resigned along with my more even-temper- sate, to the inevitable. But our ntures were not to end with this mpus. We were still in the lane, I been going more and more slow- count of its increasing roughness, l at once the dwarf affirmed that ing was wrong with the horse's refoot, and precipitately descended ine it. The examination occupi- ing time; and peering from beneath loring rug, I noticed Jonathan's rking about as he bent over the had raised, and thought I dis- ed, mingling with the roar of the faint sound as of grating metal. ked upon this to Mr. Morgan, both called out to enquire what matter. But the fellow would fe no reply until he had red to his seat, when he informed us that the shoe on that foot was loose, and that he had been try- efasten it. Apparently, however, not succeeded to his satisfaction, shortly got down to look at it and kept on repeating the action vals. At length, just as we emerg- that seemingly interminable lane, se stumbled slightly; and once descending from his box, the hunch- ith an ejaculation, in which it me there was a tone of triumph, t forward the shoe, which had now come off.

In a few moments the little minister at in silence interchanging glances ay, which it was becoming al- o dark to read. Then simultane- e inquired of Jonathan what was one. The driver's answer was and decisive. We must, he said, the first house we come to and ight's lodging, since upon no ac- lared he proceed towards home at e of laming the horse. His cousin, ed, would be furious should any carried by my companion, I took an opportunity of anxiously whispering to him to beware of any allusion to it. The suggestion in this warning appeared to startle the little minister; but his nature was eminently trustful, and as I could see, a short cogitation ended in his mentally condemning my suspicion as uncalled for. Shortly after it had been uttered, how- ever, he proposed, to my satisfaction, that we should go to bed; whereupon the farmer (whose face and figure, though I knew I had never seen him before this evening, seemed somewhat familiar) slipped from the room, and returning directly with a black bottle in his hand, pressed us before retiring to rest to take a glass of spirits. Being a teetotaler, I declined for myself the proffered hospital- ity. But thinking, as he remarked, that it might prevent his taking cold from the wetting he had sustained, Mr. Morgan accepted a somewhat stiff tumbler of whiskey punch. This, in order not to keep me waiting he drained almost at a draught; and our host then preceeding us to an upper story, pointed out the rooms in which we were to sleep. They were situated at each end of a long pas- sage; the first, which opened at the head of a rather steep flight of stairs, being as- signed to my companion, and the farther one to myself. Upon following Morgan into his chamber for the purpose of bid- ding him good night, I noticed with as- tonishment that he staggered slightly in crossing the floor. He complained too, as we shook hands, of feeling "terribly sleepy;" and smiling to myself at the rapidity with which the whiskey-punch was taking effect upon the little Welsh- man, I recommended him in an under- tone to lock his door; and leaving him to his slumbers, betook myself, under the farmer's guidance, to the apartment ap- pointed for my own occupation.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A LITTLE HISTORY.

Notable among the pretty stories that history hands down to us, is the saving of the little town of St. Geniere, on the upper St. Lawrence, by a boy and a pair of skates. The town was besieged by Indians, and a few settlers, hardy French- men, took refuge in the block-house fort.

For days and days the siegers held on, worrying their victims where they might, well knowing that hunger must at last force them to surrender. But still the Frenchmen kept their flag flying, meted out their provisions in scant rations, and hoped and prayed for help. To go out and attack the Indians was defeat and certain death; to surrender was no bet- ter. They must wait and starve unless succor came to them from the British fort, twenty miles below. So they wait- ed and waited, but no help came. Could they but get a message to the fort, they were saved. But the Redskins surrounded them on all sides, and to show head or foot beyond their narrow prison was to court death by a poisoned arrow. Every day their provisions grew less, till at length their only choice seemed to be between death by hunger or by massacre. Men were weak and dying from starva- tion; women and children were crying for bread; the last ration had been given out, and all hope was gone. Nothing to eat, ammunition nearly gone, and no help from the fort. But just then the wind veered round to the north and it began to grow cold. Every minute it grew colder, and a gauzy film of ice formed on the surface of the St. Law- rence. In an hour the film had turned to a sheet of glass. When the sun went down, the river was covered with hard springy ice.

Then a brave boy, whose name history has forgotten, but whose noble deed will be remembered forever, said that he could save his countrymen. The block fort stood on the river bank; the British fort stood within gunshot of the shore, twenty miles below. He had skates, and knew how to use them. At midnight, when the ice had thickened, his father should lower him down with a rope from the rampart to the ice below; and well- aimed should be the arrow that would school from the mortgage with which they have been burdened.

UNCLE TOM'S INTERVIEW WITH THE QUEEN.

A London paper has the following in- teresting report of Mr. Henson's remarks upon the interview noted above: "The Rev. Josiah Henson ('Uncle Tom'), ad- dressing a meeting in Edinburgh, refer- red to his interview with the Queen. He said that when he saw the Queen she met him very gracefully, and they might rely upon it that he endeavored to meet her as gracefully. (Laughter.) She was neatly dressed, so was I. (Laughter.) She came and made a very polite bow to me, and so did I. (Laughter.) She said that she had long read of me, and was happy to see me, indeed. I did not say ditto—(laughter)—but I thought ditto— (renewed laughter)—and said this, that I had had for a long time a great desire to see Her Majesty in person, that I might have the honor of presenting to Her Majesty private thanks for the honor which she had conferred upon herself by granting United States slaves an asylum from the hand of the cruel oppressor. I said whenever a slave struck the soil of Great Britain he was a man, and a free man. (Applause.) At every sentence Her Majesty would make a polite bow, and so would I—(laughter)—and I told her how our petitions had been ascending to God in prayer and thankfulness for the privilege which she had given us in Canada from the armed hand of the op- pressor. (Applause.) I said that we would be always an honor to the Crown, and the greatest blessing we could confer upon Her Majesty would be to hope that all her subjects should behave themselves. (Laughter and applause.) The Queen (he said) then turned round to one of her ladies in attendance and got something, and walking back to me, asked if I would have this as a token from her. It was a beautiful—what do you call it?—(laughter)—portrait. Here it is. (Mr. Henson here exhibited the portrait amid loud ap- plause.) I was not (he proceeded to say) very nervous, for I had just got one of the finest dinners I ever had—(laughter)—and I must say that both I and Mr. Bowden enjoyed it very much. (Lan- guage.) There were three or four men bow- ing around us, and I thought I had got to a very fine place, as indeed I had. (Laughter.) The Queen then sent for my better-half and Mr. Bowden, and when they came up I found that he had found out the knack of bowing and scraping as well as myself. (Laughter.) And so we kept up bowing and backing to our fill. (Laughter.)

It is said to have been discovered that, owing to some legislative blunder, the only way in which a man in Vermont who is unable to pay a fine for drunken- ness can escape imprisonment for life, is through the pardon of the Governor. A victim of the law, who had been in prison for several months, was recently set free by a pardon.

LITTLE THINGS.

Little things are indeed of great impor- tance; all nature is made up of particles, from the tiny, sparkling raindrop, that helps to form the vast and boundless deep, to the grain of sand, a portion of the earth. Our bodies are composed of particles of matter, our characters of little words, thoughts and actions, and each little moment, small as it is in our eyes, helps to swell the days and years in which the child becomes a man, and the man sinks into the grave. From the little acorn, lying hid and unnoticed under the dry and rustling leaves, has sprung the noble oak of the forest, under whose protecting branches many a weary trav- eller has rested, and which has at last gone to become a part of the mighty ship.

The humble little seed, blown by some gentle and friendly wind to its resting- place in the earth, has at last expanded into a beautiful flower, filling the air with its fragrance, and cheering the eye of man with its delicate beauty. Was the mite of the poor widow too small for notice? Small it was, indeed, compared with the gifts of those around; yet it was not despised. So it is in our daily life;

as large, and dash almost into my face, making a speaking noise—scolding and threatening until he had driven me quite a distance. He soon learned that I was very much afraid of him, so he turned tyrant, and often drove me from my seat in the grove when I had not been near his dwelling. I always submitted to the tiny tyrant, for what business had I to be prying into his domestic affair? When the young were hatched they were not larger than humbees, but in a week they had flown. I cut the twig off, and found the nest was composed of the same soft downy substance which I had noticed in the wood pewee's nest, but it is matted so closely together that it is almost as firm as the softer kinds of felt; it is a marvel of skill and beauty, and is completely covered externally with lichens. —MARY TREAT, in Harper's Magazine for April.

TOUCHED HER HEART.

Yesterday morning a woman living on Napoleon street was seen on the walk in front of the gate heaving the snow right and left, and she had only got fairly set- tled to work when a boy lounged up and remarked:

"I'll clear off the walk for ten cents." "I guess I'm able to do it," she re- plied.

"Here you are, a perfect lady in look and action, highly educated, and yet you grovel in the dust, as it were, to save the pitiful sum of ten cents."

"You grovel along and mind you own business," she curtly replied, still dig- ging away.

"It's worth ten cents," he said as he leaped against the fence, "but I'm a fel- ler with some sentiment in my bosom. Now, we'll say five cents, for a matter, or just enough to cover wear and tear o my bones. Give me the shovel and you go in get on your seal skin sacque and 'best jewelry, and while I work you stand out here and boss around, and talk as if you owned the biggest half of North America, while I had nothing, and was in debt for that."

She looked at him sharply, saw that he was in earnest, and when she passed over the snow shovel she put two nickels of silver into his hand. He looked after her as she went in and then sadly mused:

"Oh! Flattery, thy surest victim is a woman homely enough for a scare-crow."

—Detroit Free Press.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY YEARS OLD.

The Rochester, N. Y., Union has in- terviewed a photographer of that city who has a series of photographs and stereoscopic views of a woman claimed to be the oldest living human being. She is a Mexican, born in Lower California, and has just turned her one hundred and fortieth year. Her age is claimed to be a matter of undisputed record. She lives after the manner of the Mexicans, in an adobe house, with only a ground floor, and on the plainest kind of food. Her name is Senora Peres Gien. She married Senor Gien at the age of thirteen. She has had eleven children, and is now living with her youngest daughter, aged eighty three, and great-grand-daughter. She removed to San Diego in 1759, and her name was then registered on the books of the old mission. In 1770 she moved to San Gabriel mission, where she now lives, and has been visited by thousands. This ancient dame has smoked tobacco till within the past fifteen years, when she turned over a new leaf, signed the anti-tobacco pledge, and hasn't used any since. It is also said that she swore off from wine-drinking at the same time, a practice she had previously indulged in from childhood. One of the most remark- able things about this old lady, aside from her one hundred and forty years, is the fact that her hair, once white as snow, is now turning black. Another half century or so may restore her to blooming girlhood again.

AMUSING MATRIMONIAL SCENE.

They were very pretty, and there was, at first holding doggedly to his assertion, he admitted by-and-by that he thought he must have turned the wrong lane—adding, however, "I might see for myself, he could tell his horse round in so confined a space and would be obliged therefore to swerve." That obligation I was of forced to allow; and muttering nothing as like an anathema as my character would permit me to recover my head and resigned myself, along with my more even-temperate, to the inevitable. But our ventures were not to end with this time. We were still in the lane, had been going more and more slowly, account of its increasing roughness, all at once the dwarf affirmed that thing was wrong with the horse's forefoot, and precipitately descended from it. The examination occupying time; and peering from beneath the eking rug, I noticed Jonathan's working about as he bent over the horse had raised, and thought I disdained, mingling with the roar of the faint sound as of grating metal. I asked upon this to Mr. Morgan, who both called out to enquire what the matter. But the fellow would say no reply until he had related to his seat, when he informed us that the shoe on that foot was loose, and that he had been trying to fasten it. Apparently, however, I had not succeeded to his satisfaction, I shortly got down to look at it and kept on repeating the action over. At length, just as we emerged from that seemingly interminable lane, I stumbled slightly; and once descending from his box, the hunch-wind from an ejaculation, in which it was there was a tone of triumph, I forward the shoe, which had now come off.

A few moments the little minister sat in silence interchanging glances with me, which it was becoming too dark to read. Then simultaneously we inquired of Jonathan what was done. The driver's answer was prompt and decisive. We must, he said, if the first horse we come to and night's lodging, since upon no accident he proceed towards home at risk of losing the horse. His cousin, indeed, would be furious should any come to it, as it was very valuable, besides, much attached to it. Realizing its necessity, we acquiesced in a plan without demur, and in fact, with unwillingness, the idea of a shelter from the still violent storm by no means ungrateful. But the question remained, could that be found? We rose in the doggedly, eagerly to right and left, but discern no habitation. Jonathan, nevertheless, after applying himself to a scrutiny, declared that he perceived beyond a small plantation or road about a hundred yards distant, he felt sure was the corner of a barn; and taking the horse by the bridle, he led it in that direction. His sight, as we shortly found, had not deceived him. When upon stopping, we displaced the rug in which we had enveloped ourselves from head to foot, we saw in front of us, through the falling rain and gathering gloom, a low, dingy farmhouse.

A small garden, entered by a wicket-lead to the door; and begging us to follow, Jonathan ran towards it, returning most immediately with the information that we could be accommodated for the night. Blessing our good fortune, we accordingly alighted, and met, as we passed into the house, by a featured elderly man in a smock and leather gaiters, who after bestowing upon us a gruff welcome, showed us a large sanded kitchen. An untold odor of bad beer and stale tobacco entered our entrance, and my first impression, in the uncertain light which filled the room, was that the apartment contained a riotous company. Upon candles being lighted, however, as they speedily were in the farmer's direction, its occupants

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A LITTLE HISTORY.

Notable among the pretty stories that history hands down to us, is the saving of the little town of St. Geniere, on the upper St. Lawrence, by a boy and a pair of skates. The town was besieged by Indians, and a few settlers, hardly Frenchmen, took refuge in the block-house fort.

For days and days the siegers held on, worrying their victims where they might, well knowing that hunger must at last force them to surrender. But still the Frenchmen kept their flag flying, meted out their provisions in scant rations, and hoped and prayed for help. To go out and attack the Indians was defeat and certain death; to surrender was no better. They must wait and starve unless succor came to them from the British fort, twenty miles below. So they waited and waited, but no help came. Could they but get a message to the fort, they were saved. But the Redskins surrounded them on all sides, and to show head or foot beyond their narrow prison was to court death by a poisoned arrow. Every day their provisions grew less, till at length their only choice seemed to be between death by hunger or by massacre. Men were weak and dying from starvation; women and children were crying for bread; the last ration had been given out, and all hope was gone. Nothing to eat, ammunition nearly gone, and no help from the fort. But just then the wind veered round to the north and it began to grow cold. Every minute it grew colder, and a gauzy film of ice formed on the surface of the St. Lawrence. In an hour the film had turned to a sheet of glass. When the sun went down, the river was covered with hard springy ice.

Then a brave boy, whose name history has forgotten, but whose noble deed will be remembered forever, said that he could save his countrymen. The block fort stood on the river bank; the British fort stood within gunshot of the shore, twenty miles below. He had skates, and knew how to use them. At midnight, when the ice had thickened, his father should lower him down with a rope from the rampart to the ice below; and well-aimed should be the arrow that would harm him in his speed through the darkness. When his mother protested that he was rushing into certain death, that the river bank was lined with hostile Indians through all the dangerous route, "is it not better," he replied, "that I should die trying to reach the fort than that we should stay here and starve?" So he went. At midnight he dropped quickly down the rope, with skates already strapped to his feet, and before his friends knew that he had touched the ice, he was flying down the dark, dangerous river. On he went, over the slippery ice. Now and again his quick strokes were heard on the shore and a random arrow sped after him. Flying over thin places, narrowly escaping one obstruction and another as it came in his way, on he flew. The fierce wind was at his back, and helped him on his voyage for life. The moon, as if to shield him from danger, hid herself behind a big black cloud, till exhausted, panting, he reached the fort, and then she shone out in all her glory in honor of his heroic deed. In an hour, through darkness and danger, he had made the trip. Before the sun shone again the King's-red-coated men, equally swift in their mission of mercy, were at the little block fort. St. Geniere was saved. The brave boy and the trusty skates had done their work. Rural Home.

As a young lady was enjoying her afternoon's skating at the Southport Winter Gardens rink, Eng., a gentleman came in collision with her, and knocked her down with such violence that she broke her leg. She was taken to the infirmary, but it is feared that her leg will have to be amputated.

to give it as a gift from her. It was a beautiful—what do you call it?—(laughter)—portrait. Here it is. (Mr. Henson here exhibited the portrait amid loud applause.) I was not (he proceeded to say) very nervous, for I had just got one of the finest dinners I ever had—(laughter)—and I must say that both I and Mr. Bowden enjoyed it very much. (Laughter.) There were three or four men bowing around us, and I thought I had got to a very fine place, as indeed I had. (Laughter.) The Queen then sent for my better half and Mr. Bowden, and when they came up I found that he had found out the knack of bowing and scraping as well as myself. (Laughter.) And so we kept up bowing and backing to our fill. (Laughter.)

It is said to have been discovered that, owing to some legislative blunder, the only way in which a man in Vermont who is unable to pay a fine for drunkenness can escape imprisonment for life, is through the pardon of the Governor. A victim of the law, who had been in prison for several months, was recently set free by a pardon.

LITTLE THINGS.

Little things are indeed of great importance; all nature is made up of particles. From the tiny, sparkling raindrop, that helps to form the vast and boundless deep, to the grain of sand, a portion of the earth. Our bodies are composed of particles of matter, our characters of little words, thoughts and actions, and each little moment, small as it is in our eyes, helps to swell the days and years in which the child becomes a man, and the man sinks into the grave. From the little acorn, lying hid and unnoticed under the dry and rustling leaves, has sprung the noble oak of the forest, under whose protecting branches many a weary traveler has rested, and which has at last gone to become a part of the mighty ship.

The humble little seed, blown by some gentle and friendly wind to its resting-place in the earth, has at last expanded into a beautiful flower, filling the air with its fragrance, and cheering the eye of man with its delicate beauty. Was the mite of the poor widow too small for notice? Small it was, indeed, compared with the gifts of those around; yet it was not despised. So it is in our daily life; one simple look, a cheerful smile or sympathizing word, which costs us little to bestow, many inspire with fresh courage the gloom and despondent. Each blade of grass and humble flower has some office to perform, and each evil thought exerts its baleful influence upon the character, while our nobler impulses, if acted upon, make us better beings.

Little things often lead to great results. A kind word of advice given in the right spirit may turn the evil course of a bad boy to a right one, and those words be ever remembered thankfully as saving him from unknown misery and sin.

NO MORE CREMATION.

Elder Evans, the leader of the Shakers, is urging a plan for "utilizing the dead," by burying them about twenty feet apart and planting a tree over each one, so that the burial ground will in a few years become a beautiful grove or profitable piece of woodland, instead of a collection of stone memorials of doubtful artistic merit. He has a plea of justice at the foundation of his scheme, that, as every man during his life and his ancestors before him have had their sustenance from the elements and productions of the earth, he should be willing in his death to contribute to the support of those who come after him. The plan has already been carried out on a small scale at New Lebanon, N. Y., where a burial ground that had become crowded was graded off and planted with evergreens, all marks of the subsoil occupants of the lot being obliterated.

Mr. Elisha Dellman, Whitechurch, while dressing, suddenly fell to the floor and instantly expired.

my bones. Give me the shovel and you go in get on your seal skin sacque and best jewelry, and while I work you stand out here and boss around, and talk as if you owned the biggest half of North America, while I had nothing, and was in debt for that."

She looked at him sharply, saw that he was in earnest, and when she passed over the snow shovel she put two nickels of silver into his hand. He looked after her as she went in and then sadly mused:

"Oh! Flattery, thy surest victim is a woman homely enough for a scare-crow."
—Detroit Free Press.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY YEARS OLD.

The Rochester, N. Y., Union has interviewed a photographer of that city who has a series of photographs and stereoscopic views of a woman claimed to be the oldest living human being. She is a Mexican, born in Lower California, and has just turned her one hundred and fortieth year. Her age is claimed to be a matter of undisputed record. She lives after the manner of the Mexicans, in an adobe house, with only a ground floor, and on the plainest kind of food. Her name is Senora Peres Gen. She married Senor Gen at the age of thirteen. She has had eleven children, and is now living with her youngest daughter, aged eighty three, and great-granddaughter. She removed to San Diego in 1759, and her name was then registered on the books of the old mission. In 1770 she moved to San Gabriel mission, where she now lives, and has been visited by thousands. This ancient dame has smoked tobacco till within the past fifteen years, when she turned over a new leaf, signed the anti-tobacco pledge, and hasn't used any since. It is also said that she swore off from wine-drinking at the same time, a practice she had previously indulged in from childhood. One of the most remarkable things about this old lady, aside from her one hundred and forty years, is the fact that her hair, once white as snow, is now turning black. Another half century or so may restore her to blooming girlhood again.

AMUSING MATRIMONIAL SCENE.

They were very pretty, and there was, apparently, five or six years' difference in their ages. As the train pulled up at Strathroy, the younger girl blushed, flattened her nose nervously against the window, and drew back in joyous smiles as a young man came dashing into the car, shook hands tenderly and cordially, insisted on carrying her valise, magazine, little paper bundle, and would probably have carried her had she permitted him. The passengers smiled as she left the car and the murmur went rippling through the car, "They're engaged." The other girl sat looking nervously out of the window, and once or twice gathered the parcels together as though she would leave the car, yet seemed to be expecting some one. At last he came. He bulged into the door like a house on fire, looked along the seats until his manly gaze fell on her upturned, expectant face, roared, "Come on! I've been waiting for you on the platform fifteen minutes!" grabbed her basket and strode out of the car, while she followed with a little valise, a hand box, a paper bag full of lunch, a bird cage, a glass jar full of jelly preserves, and an extra shawl. And a crazy-looking gold bachelor in the further end of the car, croaked out, in unison with the indignant looks of the passengers, "They're married!"

It costs $5 a day for permission to cry goods in the streets of Elora.

A man in Queen's County, N. S., returning from church, fell in a fit, face downwards, and was drowned in six inches of water.

Girls, don't be afraid to work. Ruth gleaned in the harvest-field and got just as good a Boaz as any girl in the neighborhood.

DIRECTORY

TRAVELER'S GUIDE.

G. T. RAILWAY.

GOING EAST.	GOING WEST.
Express.....1:10 A. M.	Express.....5:12 P. M.
Express.....12:58 P. M.	Express.....5:52 A. M.
Mixed.....11:28 P. M.	Mixed.....7:55 A. M.

STAGES ARRIVE AT NAPANE.

From Newburgh and Tamworth.	10) a. m.
From Picton and Mill Point.	7 p. m.
From Erinsville.	10) a. m.

DEPART FROM NAPANE.

To Newburgh and Tamworth.	2) p. m.
To Mill Point and Picton.	3) a. m.
To Erinsville.	2) p. m.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Hon. R. J. Cartwright.	Finance Minister.
Schuyler Shibley.	M. P.

ONTARIO PARLIAMENT.

J. T. Grange.	M. P. P.
H. M. Deroche.

COUNTY AND TOWN OFFICIALS.

W. H. Wilkison.	Judge.
O. T. Prun.	Sheriff.
W. A. Reeve, Clerk of the Peace and County Attorney.
J. B. McGuin, Clerk of the County Court, and Deputy Clerk of the Crown.
Do.	Surrogate Registrar.
W. N. Dollar.	Warden.
F. Burrows.	County School Inspector.
W. V. Dettlor.	County Clerk.
E. Hooper.	Treasurer.
M. P. Roblin.	Registrar.
W. S. Williams.	Mayor.
John Herring.	Reeve.
Chas. R. Miller.	Deputy Reeve.
Wm. Chamberlain.	Town Clerk.
Robert Easton.	Town Treasurer.
Jas. Allen.	Chief of Police.
J. Benson, Collector of Customs and Registrar of Shipping.
C. B. Perry.	Landing Waiter and Searcher.
T. G. Pile, Landing Waiter and Searcher, Mill Point.
G. Bogart.	Postmaster, Napane.
G. B. Sills, Inspector of Weights and Measures.
Wm. Hogie.	Inspector of Licenses.
Chas. James, Clerk 1st Division Court, Napane.
C. L. Rogers.	2d " Bath.
J. J. Watson.	3d " Adolphstown.
Peter Johnston.	4th " Clarks Mills.
Wm. Wheelan.	5th " Centreville.
Henry Pultz.	6th " Wilton.
Thos. Miller.	7th " Tamworth.

POST OFFICE.

The Post Office Napane is open from 8 a. m. till 6 p. m.
Day Train East Mail closes.	12:05 p. m.
" West "	4:30 p. m.
Night Train East "	9:00 p. m.
" West "	9:00 p. m.
Camden Route—Tamworth, Centreville, Camden East, Newburgh and Napane Mills—Mail closes 2:15 p. m.
Mill Point and Prince Edward County Route—Mill Point, Picton, Northport, and Demorestville—Mail closes 6:30 a. m.
Fredericksburg Route—Morven, Hamburg, Sillsville, Parma and Conway—Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays—Mail closes 1 p. m.
Switzerville—Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays—Mail closes 1:15 p. m.
Report and Gretna—Saturday—Mail closes 4 p. m.
Erinsville, Roblin and Selby, daily—Mail closes 1:30 p. m.
Overton, Forest Mills and Leinster, daily—Mail closes 1:30 p. m.

CHURCHES.

HOURS OF SERVICES.

Episcopal Methodist—Rev. R. M. Pope. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
Canada Methodist—Rev. W. S. Blackstock. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
Episcopal—Rev. J. J. Bogart, Rector. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
Presbyterian—Rev. A. Young. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
Roman Catholic—Rev. Father MacDonagh. Mass 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School 2:30 p. m.
The Brethren—Meet at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30 p. m., every Sunday in Grange Block.

GEO. P. ROWELL & Co.,

40 PARK ROW, NEW YORK,

—AND—

ROWELL & CHESMAN,

ST. LOUIS.

AGENTS for the "NAPANEK EXPRESS", Napane, Ont.

Notice to Subscribers!

As a misunderstanding with some of our subscribers, has arisen in regard to the meaning conveyed by the wording of certain circulars, sent to them by Mr. T. W. Casey, late proprietor of the EXPRESS, asking for payment of arrears of subscriptions. We wish it distinctly understood, that Mr. Casey's connection with the EXPRESS, expired on the 16th day of October 1876, and all subscriptions due him, expired with that date. We hope that our subscribers will not infer from the said

Ship Building at Portsmouth has been actively carried on during the past winter. Chaffey & Pierce, besides re-building the "Rochester" from the davits down, are constructing a steam yacht for Mr. Gilmore, of Ottawa, a handsome model, and costing about $16,000. They are also building a steam tug for the Collins Bay Ruffing Company, with double wheels, which is calculated to be very powerful; its cost is about $25,000. There is another craft advanced on the ways, a steamer ninety-five feet keel, intended for passenger traffic for the R. deau Canal.

Saturday was the last day for receiving application for tavern licenses. 61 applications were received for taverns and 21 for shops.

THE NORTH-WEST.

Public feeling is apparently running high on the school question in Manitoba. The Protestant section of the Board of Education in agitating for a non-sectarian school system for the Province.

St. Patrick's Day was very quietly observed in Winnipeg by the Sons of Ireland, and scarcely any noticeable display was made. Owing to the weather being too cold it was found impossible to have the proposed procession accompanied by music, so the parade was given up. Quite a number, however, including the Sisters of St. Mary's Convent, who contributed the musical portion of the services, attended High Pontifical Mass at St. Mary's Church, at which his Grace Archbishop Tache officiated. The day closed with a grand dinner at the International in the evening.

BRITISH COLUMBIA. WHAT IT COSTS TO LIVE THERE.

The following will be of interest to our readers:—Price of Government lands, $1 per acre on the pre-emption system, allowing three or four years in which to pay. Certain quantities of land may be purchased out and out.

Land on Vancouver Island fertile, but not in large level tracts. Stock can graze out all winter, excepting where land is all fenced and thickly settled, and when winters are more severe than usual, and not much snow on the island. Steamer ply weekly along the east coast of the island, carrying mails, freight, and passengers.

Butter, 30c. to 60c. per lb.; eggs, 25c. to 60c. per dozen; potatoes, about $18 to $25 per ton; hay, $18 to $20 per ton. Cattle and sheep have been low for the last two years. Retail prices of beef and mutton 10c. to 12½c. per lb.

The land on the lower part of Fraser River in the mainland is rich and fertile, but flat and low and requires draining. In these lands root crops do exceedingly well. About 200 or 300 miles up the country large tracts of level land are to had, more fit for grazing than agriculture. To produce crops, irrigation is necessary on this high land. Cattle do well without being housed during the winter. Here the winters are longer and much colder than on the island.

Cowichan and Comox, on Vancouver Island, and the lower Fraser on the mainland, are the best agricultural districts and the nearest to a market.

Farms, partly improved, can be purchased at from $10 to $40 per acre.

CANADIAN.

An Aylmer teacher has been fined $10 by a bench of magistrates for inflicting too severe corporal punishment on a boy of fourteen.

A Grand Trunk porter was arrested in Toronto for stealing liquors while in transit.

At Bonnyville, recently, Lord Cecil preached something sensational about the second coming of our Saviour. A resident minister has combatted his state-

A Rome despatch says the Pope has completely recovered.

A St. Thomas, Bermuda letter of March the 17th to New York says business is at a complete standstill and declining. The chief merchants in the vicinity now make direct importations instead of depending on St. Thomas.

Main advices from Ceylon to London says the aspect of affairs with regard to the threatened scarcity is becoming daily more grave. By the end of March 25,000 laborers will be paid off from the coffee estates, and in a month or two there will be some 60,000 to provide for. In the meantime gangs of starving men, women and children are coming over from India.

The Herald's London reports good reason for saying Oakey Hall has been seen on London streets. No clue as yet has been found to his residence.

London, April 1.—The shipbuilders in the iron works at Stockton-on-Tees, numbering 1,000, have struck. their demand for 10 per cent. more wages being refused.

Rome, April 1.—The Pope received 1,000 pilgrims on Saturday, and delivered a speech in French.

London, April 2.—A Daily News despatch from Rome says: Gen. Oarete presented to Cardinal Simoni on Friday an album, containing the signatures of 30,000 volunteers prepared to shed their blood for the temporal power of the Pope.

SPORTING NEWS.

LONDON, March 31.—Weston and O'Leary began their six days' walk on Monday for $5,000 a side.

Spain has a new sensation in an English officer who has returned matador, and made a successful debut at Madrid. He displays great pluck as well as quickness, dodging the bull without turning his back to him, and promises to be a favorite.

Tom Allen, the prize fighter, visited Rideau Hall Ottawa, and had a brief and cordial interview with his Excellency.

The floating swimming bath on the Thames has been covered with ice, frozen by artificial means, three inches thick, the best specimen of artificial congelation yet produced.

The great International cricket match at Sidney, N. S. W., between the All-England Eleven and the New South Wales Team, was witnessed by over 15,000 spectators. The match resulted in favor of the New South Wales team, by a very large score.

Captain Bogardus, in shooting at his great shooting match at Gilmore's Garden in New York, on Friday evening, broke 1,000 glass balls, one at a time in the air, in seventy-seven minutes and forty seconds. He only missed twenty-eight balls out of a thousand and twenty-eight.

The young athletes of Kingston are agitating for the formation of a lacrosse club.

Robert Bonner issued a catalogue of his stables showing one hundred trotters worth half a million. None are for sale.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The wrestling match between Frank Maguire of Vermont, and Joe Ryan of New York, collar and elbow, for $100 and the light weight championship of America, took place today. Maguire won the first two falls, and the match. At the end of the contest Maguire challenged any man in America of 152 lbs or under to wrestle for $500.

A Kingston yachtman, in a letter to the News referring to Capt. Cuthberts, challenge for second class yachts—suggestion a race in the harbour on the 24th of May, arrangements are being made to that effect, and Cuthbert will doubtless participate.

THE RUMOURD DESPATCH TROOPS TO BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The following letter appears in the London Standard, Mr. Oakes M. P. for New Westminster brother of James Henry and Cunningham of Kingston:—

Sir,—I oblige in your valuable on the 20th inst. a communication correspondent of the New York Tribune from Ottawa, from which I concluded that your correspondent had his information concerning Columbia and the proposed local Her Majesty's troops from an unreliable source. He says that "the troops likely to be located at Victoria, the capital of the Province." I assure you, Editor, that in my opinion this is unlikely, as the Dominion Government have at New Westminster, on the land, the barracks and officers' residences formerly built for and used by Her Majesty's Royal Engineers, who located in the Province previous to federation. It is not at all likely these times of depression, the Government will cause any unnecessary outlay these extensive premises can be habitable at a small outlay. Troops are not required at Victoria even Vancouver's Island. In case one or two iron-clads can protect the coast of the Island from an invasion. As a military point, New Westminster is the weakest, being 100 miles (and that by land) from the States boundary line. If troops needed anywhere in the Province there and along the coast of the mainland. Another reason why troops should be located at New Westminster is the numbers of the native population in and around Victoria, being as it is in a state of licentiousness and depravity. Hundreds of people in that Province have been ruined by coming in contact with these savages. If the lives of these fellows are to be preserved it will be by keeping them as far from contagion as possible. The Indians of New Westminster better class—virtuous and industrious. Your correspondent is in error Victoria exporting salmon. New Westminster is the place of export. Fisheries are in the rivers of the land, the Fraser especially. Factories are located at New Westminster and this industry looks promising. Lumber is solely exported from the port of Burrard's Inlet, situated nine miles of New Westminster. From nearly all parts of the world there for cargoes of this most valuable export. An extensive coal mine has been found on the banks of this port, a that is required is capital to open. With the exception of coal, the of the exports of British Columbia from the mainland of that province.

Yours truly,

JAMES CUNNINGHAM.

Ottawa, March 26, 1877.

CANADA AT THE AUSTRIAN EXHIBITION.

A Canadian in Sydney (N. S. W.) writes:—Mr. John Joubert, Secy of the New South Wales Agricultural Society, has shown me every kind and doing his utmost to further Canadian interests. He drove me out to the exhibition grounds yesterday, which very nicely situated, about the number of acres, I think, that you in London. There is only one building much larger than your Crystal Palace, built of stone and magnificently finished but they propose erecting an annex for our exhibits, to cost £2700 and £1,000, to have steam engines and the necessary shafting. They propose extending the time from two to one month, to give us an opportunity to dispose of our goods. I have called on some of the leading business men, a safety that we will get the preference.

1 p. m.
Erinsville, Roblin and Selby, daily—Mail closes 1:30 p. m.
Overton, Forest Mills and Leinster, daily—Mail closes 1:30 p. m.

CHURCHES.

HOURS OF SERVICES.

Episcopal Methodist—Rev. R. M. Pope. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
Canada Methodist—Rev. W. S. Blackstock. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
Episcopal—Rev. J. J. Bogart, Rector. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
Presbyterian—Rev. A. Young. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
Roman Catholic—Rev. Father MacDonagh. Mass 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School 2:30 p. m.
The Brethren—Meet at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30 p. m., every Sunday in Grange Block.

GEO. P. ROWELL & Co.,

40 PARK ROW, NEW YORK,

—AND—

ROWELL & CHESMAN,

ST. LOUIS,

AGENTS for the "NAPANEE EXPRESS",
Napanee, Ont.

Notice to Subscribers!

A misunderstanding with some of our subscribers, has arisen in regard to the meaning conveyed by the wording of certain circulars, sent to them by Mr. T. W. Casey, late proprietor of the EXPRESS, asking for payment of arrears of subscriptions. We wish it distinctly understood, that Mr. Casey's connection with the EXPRESS, expired on the 16th day of October 1876, and all subscriptions due him, expired with that date. We hope that our subscribers will not infer from the said circulars, that we are, at this early date, pushing them for their subscriptions.

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, APRIL, 6th, 1877.

IMMIGRATION FROM CHINA.

The recent wholesale massacre in Ghico California is but the result of the non-interference of the authorities, in cases of wanton assaults, which have repeatedly occurred since the commencement of Chinese immigration.

It has not been unusual for a Chinaman to be shot down like a dog in the streets of San Francisco, and elsewhere on the Pacific Coast, and without the slightest show of a reason, other than an imaginary view of the injury to labour capital, resulting from John's cheap-working proclivities, which can be satisfactorily remedied without an embargo upon Chinese immigration which is directly antagonistic to the teachings of the Constitution. A fraction of the energy yearly wasted in political squabbling will enable legislators to effect a most peaceable adjustment. The following pertinent remarks we clip from the Toledo Blade.

"There seems to be a determined effort to bring the Ghico murderers to justice, and this will be hailed as an improvement in the tone of California society. Whether or not the Chinese are desirable immigrants is a question that men may differ very widely on. The best and most advanced thinkers of the country are beset with grave doubts as to whether we should run the risk of re-enforcing the great mass of ignorance and vice with which we are not contending, by a boundless stream from the countless hordes of southwestern Asia. But whether or not we are to let the Chinese come here, there is no question that when they are here they are entitled to as full protection to persons and property as any other residents of this country.

Butter, 30c. to 60c. per lb.; eggs, 25c. to 60c. per dozen; potatoes, about $18 to $25 per ton; hay, $18 to $20 per ton. Cattle and sheep have been low for the last two years. Retail prices of beef and mutton 10c. to 12½c. per lb.

The land on the lower part of Fraser River in the mainland is rich and fertile, but flat and low and requires draining. In these lands root crops do exceedingly well. About 200 or 300 miles up the country large tracts of level land are to had, more fit for grazing than agriculture. To produce crops, irrigation is necessary on this high land. Cattle do well without being housed during the winter. Here the winters are longer and much colder than on the island.

Cowichan and Comox, on Vancouver Island, and the lower Fraser on the mainland, are the best agricultural districts and the nearest to a market.

Farms, partly improved, can be purchased at from $10 to $40 per acre.

CANADIAN.

An Aylmer teacher has been fined $10 by a bench of magistrates for inflicting too severe corporal punishment on a boy of fourteen.

A Grand Trunk porter was arrested in Toronto for stealing liquors while in transit.

At Bomanville, recently, Lord Cecil preached something sensational about the second coming of our Saviour. A resident minister has combatted his statements, and there is likely to be quite an exciting controversy.

A true bill has been found in London, against Rev Herbert Forshay and three persons named Edwards. Of Lobo, for conspiracy, in abducting a Miss Edwards member of another family, from her home and baptizing her in the Baptist Church contrary to her parents' commands. The defence is that the young lady was of an age to judge for herself, namely, eighteen years.

Inland Revenue Officer Hartley seized the plant of an illicit still on Wednesday, the 14th of March, on lot 27, concession 3, W. H. street, in the township of Caledon. The farm upon which the plant was found is, we understand unoccupied. The still had evidently been doing a large business some time ago, if we may judge from the extent of the plant, but it had not been running recently. The principal portion of the plant was removed to Toronto. No person was found in charge of the "establishment."

AMERICAN.

BUFFALO, March 29.—Rev. Martin Hoernlein, of Holland, N. Y., was today sentenced to seven years in the State prison for arson.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 25.—The Panama steamer reports that the United States Consul at Acapulco, imprisoned by order of the Governor for remonstrating against the ill-treatment of an American citizen at the time of the recent change of government, still is imprisoned.

The steamer "Oceanic" from Hong Kong and Yokohama, brought 400 Chinese to San Francisco.

Michael Crossen, of Philadelphia, who was bitten by a terrier on Christmas eve, died on Thursday from hydrophobia.

Twenty carloads of silks, teas, &c., which left San Francisco March 20th, arrived in New York. This is an experiment to show English importers from China and Japan that the trans-American route offered them the best and speediest conveyance.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 28.—The Murphy temperance movements has reached here. At Newark and Crestline the saloons have been closed, and the saloon-keepers have joined the movement. Over 1,000 signed the pledge in Newark.

CINCINNATI, O., March 29.—The annual report of pork packing in the West shows a total of 5,070,339 hogs packed during the past winter, an increase of 194,203 over the previous year.

The Herald St. Louis despatch reports

The great International cricket match at Sidney, N. S. W., between the All-England Eleven and the New South Wales Team, was witnessed by over 15,000 spectators. The match resulted in favor of the New South Wales team, by a very large score.

Captain Bogardus, in shooting at his great shooting match at Gilmore's Garden in New York, on Friday evening, broke 1,000 glass balls, one at a time in the air, in seventy-seven minutes and forty seconds. He only missed twenty-eight balls out of a thousand and twenty-eight.

The young athletes of Kingston are agitating for the formation of a lacrosse club.

Robert Bonner issued a catalogue of his stables showing one hundred trotters worth half a million. None are for sale.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The wrestling match between Frank Maguire of Vermonts, and Joe Ryan of New York, collar and elbow, for $100 and the light weight championship of America, took place today. Maguire won the first two falls, and the match. At the end of the contest Maguire challenged any man in America of 152 lbs or under to wrestle for $500.

A Kingston yachtman, in a letter to the News referring to Capt. Culberts, challenge for second class yachts—suggestion a race in the harbor on the 24th of May, arrangements are being made to that effect, and Culbert will doubtless participate.

The River of Belleville will be completely overhauled by her owner Judge, Sherwood, a devoted yachtman, and will be made as speedy as any of her rivals.

THE EXTRADITION QUESTION

A TREATY SIMILAR TO THE AMERICAN SPANISH TREATY IN NEGOTIATION.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The British Government has intimated its desire to negotiate an extradition treaty with the United States, which will not conflict with the provisions of the Act of Parliament of 1870, under which Winslow found immunity, but which will secure political fugitives from being surrendered. The crimes for which it is proposed that fugitives can be arrested and extradited are those named in the extradition treaty recently negotiated with Spain by Gen. Cushing, viz:—Murder, arson, rape, piracy, or armed mutiny on shipboard, forgery, embezzlement, kidnaping, falsification of official accounts, breaking into government offices, banks, or trust companies with intent to steal, and counterfeiting money or government securities. There will be a special exemption for political offences, in accordance with the Act of Parliament of 1870.

The American extradition treaty with Spain is very definite upon the questions raised by the controversy with England as to the right of asylum. It specifies fifteen crimes which persons charged with committing shall be delivered up on evidence which would justify their apprehension and commitment for trial, if the crimes had been committed in the country where the fugitives are found. It bars extradition for any crimes or offence of a political character, or for any acts connected with such crimes or offences; and provides that no person surrendered shall be tried for any crimes or offence other than that for which he was surrendered, unless such crime be one of those enumerated in the treaty.

POLITENESS.

FROM A CLERICAL STAND-POINT.

The Leeds Mercury publishes a statement that a little girl had been expelled from Boston Spa National School for no other offence than refusing to "courtesy" to the vicar's wife. The girl, who is only seven years old, is under the guardianship of a person who is called a sturdy Independent, he having adopted her; and the story is that this person had told her, while she was to be very particular Lumber is solely exported from the port of Burrard's Inlet, situated within nine miles of New Westminster. 8 from nearly all parts of the world e there for carvoes of this most valn export. An extensive coal mine has found on the banks of this port, and that is required is capital to open it. With the exception of coal, the w of the exports of British Columbia from the mainland of that province.

Yours truly,

JAMES CUNNINGHAM

Ottawa, March 26, 1877.

CANADA AT THE AUSTRAL EXHIBITION.

A Canadian in Sydney (N. S. writes:—Mr. John Joubert, Secre of the New South Wales Agricult Society, has shown me every kind and doing his utmost to further Cana interests. He drove me out to the hibition (grounds yesterday, which very nicely situated, about the s number of acres, I think, that you l in London. There is only one build much larger than your Crystal Pa built of stone and magnificently final but they propose erecting an annex t porary for our exhibits, to cost betw £700 and £1,000, to have steam eng and the necessary shafting. They pur extending the time from two weeks one month, to give us an opportunity dispose of our goods. I have called number leading business men, and safely say that we will get the prefer if our goods are up in quality and pr but they are very cautious, and d feel disposed to do anything (in fact n do) until they have seen samples.

catalogue is not sufficient for them. commercial travellers from Canada c in the same ship with us, one from t onto, the other from Hamilton, b the samples with them. They are d very well. They have Canada twe hardware, boots and shoes jewellery, fancy goods. Canada tweeds, boots shoes, and fancy goods can be sold l in large quantities. They cannot m facture here, having very few ski mechanics, and consequently labour very high. Labourers get from 6s to per day, and all kinds of mechanics f 10s to 14s per day—eight hours (fro to 5), working the year round. I quite disappointed on my arrival b when I found that the harvest was o thinking that I would not have any op tunity to try our machines, but Mr. bert, already mentioned, has satisfied on that point. He has had a crop s to be ready on the 8rd and 4th of Ar The Exhibition opens on the 10th April and will last till the 10th of Ma one month. Mr. Rae, Commissioner Railways, sent for me to-day, and b leaving presented me with a free pass one month over all the roads in this ony. We are, I might say, free c omomers here, come and go and n q tions asked. We have been well recerv and people generally seem pleased think that Canada, a British colony, endeavouring to pave a way for a busin connection.

MILITIA ORDERS.

DOMINION ARTILLERY ASSOCIATION His Excellency, the Earl of Dufferin, has been pleased to express his intention offering a medal for the best essay on Supply, Care and Repair of Artillery r tial, including Smith Arms and Am mition for Canadian Militia, to be comp ed for by officers of Canadian Militia. tillery, being members of or belonging corps affiliated with the Dominion Ar lery Association. Officers or others w have served in the Royal or Royal Mar Artillery to be excluded from comp tion. The essays to be distinguished o by a motto, not that of any Artill corps, and the manuscript not to be i handwriting of the competitors. I judges to be officers of the Royal Artill and the Professor of Artillery, Milita College, Kingston. The essays may either in English or French.

BUTCHERS' DISEASED MEAT.

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, APRIL, 6th, 1877.

IMMIGRATION FROM CHINA.

The recent wholesale massacre in Chico California is but the result of the non-interference of the authorities, in cases of wanton assaults, which have repeatedly occurred since the commencement of Chinese immigration.

It has not been unusual for a Chinaman to be shot down like a dog in the streets of San Francisco, and elsewhere on the Pacific Coast, and without the slightest show of a reason, other than an imaginary view of the injury to labour capital, resulting from John's cheap-working proclivities, which can be satisfactorily remedied without an embargo upon Chinese immigration which is directly antagonistic to the teachings of the Constitution. A fraction of the energy yearly wasted in political squabbling will enable legislators to effect a most peaceable adjustment. The following pertinent remarks we clip from the Toledo Blade.

"There seems to be a determined effort to bring the Chico murderers to justice, and this will be hailed as an improvement in the tone of California society. Whether or not the Chinese are desirable immigrants is a question that men may differ very widely on. The best and most advanced thinkers of the country are beset with grave doubts as to whether we should run the risk of re-enforcing the great mass of ignorance and vice with which we are not contending, by a boundless stream from the countless hordes of southwestern Asia. But whether or not we are to let the Chinese come here, there is no question that when they are here they are entitled to as full protection to persons and property as any other residents of this country.

There has been entirely too much of brutal assassination of Chinese in California, for the good name or the moral well-being of America as a society. Even if the Chinese were not entitled to any better consideration, still we could not permit, for the effect upon ourselves, murder to rage unchecked. The oppression and persecution of the Mongolians, was like slavery, not only harmful to the victims, but disgraceful, and demoralizing to the last degree to the oppressors. If it is considered against our policy to prevent Chinese from coming to the United States all we have to do is to repeal the Burlingame treaty, and pass laws prohibiting their entrance into any port: this is the lawful way, and would be effectual, but it is questionable whether any very great number of leading people would consider it proper and expedient. Meanwhile we hope that all engaged in the Chico massacre will be hunted down and punished rigorously."

A slight Anti-Chinese feeling has been manifested in Montreal and elsewhere, which if checked in the bud would show how capable we are of settling a difficulty, which has so long baffled our American friends.

KINGSTON.

Kingston coal oil merchants have been selling by wine measure and charging imperial prices. The Inspector of Weights and Measures went around and seized a wagon load of old measures.

The N. T. line of steamers will run the coming season by the Kingston Channel, thus cutting off Cape Vincent. It is also their intention to run a through line to Montreal.

mands. The defence is that the young lady was of an age to judge for herself, namely, eighteen years.

Inland Revenue Officer Hartley seized the plant of an illicit still on Wednesday, the 14th of March, on lot 27, concession 3, W. H. street, in the township of Caledon. The farm upon which the plant was found is, we understand unoccupied. The still had evidently been doing a large business some time ago, if we may judge from the extent of the plant, but it had not been running recently. The principal portion of the plant was removed to Toronto. No person was found in charge of the "establishment."

AMERICAN.

BUFFALO, March 29.—Rev. Martin Hoernlein, of Holland, N. Y., was to-day sentenced to seven years in the State prison for arson.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 25.—The Panama steamer reports that the United States Consul at Acapulco, imprisoned by order of the Governor for remonstrating against the ill-treatment of an American citizen at the time of the recent change of government, still is imprisoned.

The steamer "Oceanic" from Hong Kong and Yokohama, brought 400 Chinese to San Francisco.

Michael Crossen, of Philadelphia, who was bitten by a terror on Christmas eve, died on Thursday from hydrophobia.

Twenty carloads of silks, teas, &c., which left San Francisco March 20th, arrived in New York. This is an experiment to show English importers from China and Japan that the trans-American route offered them the best and speediest conveyance.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 28.—The Murphy temperance movement has reached here. At Newark and Crestline the saloons have been closed, and the saloon-keepers have joined the movement. Over 1,000 signed the pledge in Newark.

CINCINNATI, O., March 29.—The annual record of pork packing in the West shows a total of 5,070,339 hogs packed during the past winter, an increase of 194,203 over the previous year.

The Herald St. Louis despatch reports that the Sioux attacked a party of hunters on the range while the hunters were sleeping. Fifteen of the party were killed. The Indians loss is unknown.

George McGrath, aged 8, plunged into Harlem River yesterday, and saved a drowning comrade aged 3.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The Express declares on the authority of a gentleman who has seen the papers, that proceedings have been instituted in the United States Court of the District of Columbia to test Hayes' title to the Presidency. The papers are all prepared and in the hands of R. J. Merrick, of Washington, who represented Tilden before the Electoral Commission. The suit will be commenced as soon as the troops are withdrawn from South Carolina.

FOREIGN.

The King of Dahomey has offered to pay fifty punchons of palm oil in settlement of the fine imposed upon him by the British Government. Commodore Hewitt, on behalf of his Government, demands 500. The King stubbornly resists, and the blockade continues.

The Prince of Wales has decided to place his two eldest sons on the ship-of-war Britannia, in order that they may be subject to naval discipline, although not necessarily with the view of adopting the navy as a profession.

The Grand Lodge of English Freemasons has, without discussion, confirmed the grant of £4,000 to the Royal National Life Boat Institution for the purpose of founding two life-boat stations as a memorial of the thankfulness of the craft at His Royal Highness's safe return from India.

ISH TREATY IN NEGOTIATION.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The British Government has intimated its desire to negotiate an extradition treaty with the United States, which will not conflict with the provisions of the Act of Parliament of 1870, under which Winslow found immunity, but which will secure political fugitives from being surrendered. The crimes for which it is proposed that fugitives can be arrested and extradited are those named in the extradition treaty recently negotiated with Spain by Gen. Cushing, viz:—Murder, arson, rape, piracy, or armed mutiny on shipboard, forgery, embezzlement, kidnaping, falsification of official accounts, breaking into government offices, banks, or trust companies with intent to steal, and counterfeiting money or government securities. There will be a special exemption for political offences, in accordance with the Act of Parliament of 1870.

The American extradition treaty with Spain is very definite upon the questions raised by the controversy with England as to the right of asylum. It specifies fifteen crimes which persons charged with committing shall be delivered up on evidence which would justify their apprehension and commitment for trial, if the crimes had been committed in the country where the fugitives are found. It bars extradition for any crimes or offences of a political character, or for any acts connected with such crimes or offences, and provides that no person surrendered shall be tried for any crimes or offences other than that for which he was surrendered, unless such crime be one of those enumerated in the treaty.

POLITENESS.

FROM A CLERICAL STAND-POINT.

The Leeds Mercury publishes a statement that a little girl had been expelled from Boston Spa National School for no other offence than refusing to "courtesy" to the vicar's wife. The girl, who is only seven years old, is under the guardianship of a person who is called a sturdy Independent, he having adopted her; and the story is that this person had told her, while she was to be very particular in obeying all school regulations, not to "courtesy" to the clergyman or his wife. On her being asked by the latter "where her manners were," she assigned the true reason for omitting the usual mark of respect, and the vicar then desired the schoolmaster to punish her, which he refused to do. The master subsequently refused a request made to him to expel the girl, and the vicar thereon expelled her himself. It is added that the final result of the affair was that the schoolmaster found himself obliged to resign his office, which he had held for twenty years. On doing so he was presented by the parishioners with testimonials to the value of about £80. The Leeds Mercury's informant says that there is no other school in the parish to which the little Nonconformist can be sent.

A NATURALIST IN PRISON.

Two years ago Geo. Bidwell, the notorious Bank of England forger, was transferred to Dartmoor Prison. Soon after he was apparently seized with paralysis in his lower limbs, and has ever since been an inmate of the infirmary. Lately a new governor was appointed to Dartmoor, who was sceptical as to the genuineness of Bidwell's illness. On March 15th, therefore, the prisoner was ordered to get up and dress, but positively refused thereupon he was carried down to a cold cell and left there unattended until he chose to dress. Within an hour he jumped up and put on his clothes, and evidently a perfect cure had been effected, but when he was being stripped a curious discovery was made. Beneath his arm-pits were found a tame mouse and a rat. These he confessed he had caught in the infirmary, and had petted and fed with crumbs for many months.

very well. They have Canada two hardware, boots and shoes jewellery, fancy goods. Canada tweeds, boots shoes, and fancy goods can be sold in large quantities. They cannot manufacture here, having very few sk mechanics, and consequently labour very high. Labourers get from 6s to 10s to 14s per day—eight hours (from 5 to 6), working the year round. I quite disappointed on my arrival when I found that the harvest was thinking that I would not have any opportunity to try our machines, but Mr. bert, already mentioned, has satisfied on that point. He has had a crop to be ready on the 8th and 4th of April. The Exhibition opens on the 10th April and will last till the 10th of May one month. Mr. Rae, Commissioner Railways, sent for me to-day, and leaving presented me with a free pass one month over all the roads in this country. We are, I might say, free to come here, come and go and no questions asked. We have been well received and people generally seem pleased think that Canada, a British colony, endeavouring to pave a way for a business connection.

MILITIA ORDERS.

DOMINION ARTILLERY ASSOCIATION His Excellency, the Earl of Dufferin, being pleased to express his intention of offering a medal for the best essay on Supply, Care and Repair of Artillery to all, including Smith Arms and Ammunition for Canadian Militia, to be competed for by officers of Canadian Militia, being members of or belonging to corps affiliated with the Dominion Artillery Association. Officers or others have served in the Royal or Royal Mounted Artillery to be excluded from competition. The essays to be distinguished by a motto, not that of any Artillery corps, and the manuscript, not to be in handwriting of the competitors. Judges to be officers of the Royal Artillery and the Professor of Artillery, Military College, Kingston. The essays may be either in English or French.

BUTCHERS' DISEASED MEAT.

About the worst case of trading in diseased meat which has ever been reported was heard before the Warrington (England) magistrates. A man named Bradbury, pig dealer, was charged with having his premises, dressed for sale, the carcasses of the eleven pigs which were unfit for human food. The evidence showed that the pigs had suffered from measles and scarlatina, and that one of them had died without the assistance of a butcher. The flesh was covered with pustules, and tumours existed in the carcasses, and the consequences to person partaking of the abominable must have been diarrhoea and blood poisoning. The defendant denied that he knew the pigs to be diseased, and the witnesses to say that all had been killed. The magistrates allowed Bradbury to escape on payment of a fine £22 costs.

THE BLACK HILLS.

Reports received in Washington, in the last few days represent the Black Hills territory as settling up more rapidly than Government officers had any reason to expect. It is now said by those familiar with the present tide of emigration that 50,000 people will go to this summer, attracted by the late discoveries. A daily line of stages already been established from Cheyenne and a tri-weekly one for the Fort Keely line from Sidney; and one or others will soon be established from other points. The travel is already so great that passengers have to engage seats at least a week in advance. The post-office will be opened at Deadwood soon as the new postmaster, who was commissioned to-day, can arrive. It promises to be one of the most important frontier offices.

A Rome despatch says the Pope has completely recovered.

A St. Thomas, Bermuda letter of March the 17th to New York says business is at a complete standstill and declining. The chief merchants in the vicinity now make direct importations instead of depending on St. Thomas.

Main advices from Ceylon to London says the aspect of affairs with regard to the threatened scarcity is becoming daily more grave. By the end of March 25,000 laborers will be paid off from the coffee estates, and in a month or two there will be some 60,000 to provide for. In the meantime gangs of starving men, women and children are coming over from India.

The Herald's London reports good reason for saying Oakey Hall has been seen on London streets. No clue as yet has been found to his residence.

London, April 1.—The shipbuilders in the iron works at Stockton-on-Tees, numbering 1,000, have struck their demand for 10 per cent. more wages being refused.

Rome, April 1.—The Pope received 1,000 pilgrims on Saturday, and delivered a speech in French.

London, April 2.—A Daily News despatch from Rome says: Gen. Oaretti presented to Cardinal Simoni on Friday an album, containing the signatures of 30,000 volunteers prepared to shed their blood for the temporal power of the Pope.

SPORTING NEWS.

LONDON, March 31.—Weston and O'Leary began their six days' walk on Monday for $5,000 a side.

Spain has a new sensation in an English officer who has returned matador, and made a successful debut at Madrid. He displays great pluck as well as quickness, dodging the bull without turning his back to him, and promises to be a favorite.

Tom Allen, the prize fighter, visited Rideau Hall Ottawa, and had a brief and cordial interview with his Excellency.

The floating swimming bath on the Thames has been covered with ice, frozen by artificial means, three inches thick, the best specimen of artificial congelation yet produced.

The great International cricket match at Sidney, N. S. W., between the All-England Eleven and the New South Wales Team, was witnessed by over 15,000 spectators. The match resulted in favor of the New South Wales team, by a very large score.

Captain Bogardus, in shooting at his great shooting match at Gilmore's Garden in New York, on Friday evening, broke 1,000 glass balls, one at a time in the air, in seventy-seven minutes and forty seconds. He only missed twenty-eight balls out of a thousand and twenty-eight.

The young athletes of Kingston are agitating for the formation of a lacrosse club.

Robert Bonner issued a catalogue of his stables showing one hundred trotters worth half a million. None are for sale.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The wrestling match between Frank Maguire of Vermonts, and Joe Ryan of New York, collar and elbow, for $100 and the light weight championship of America, took place to day. Maguire won the first two falls, and the match. At the end of the contest Maguire challenged any man in America of 152 lbs or under to wrestle for $500.

A Kingston yachtman, in a letter to the News referring to Capt. Cuthberts, challenge for second class yachts—suggestion a race in the harbour of the 24th of May, arrangements are being made to that effect, and Cuthbert will doubtless participate.

THE RUMOURED DESPATCH OF TROOPS TO BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The following letter appears in the London Standard. Mr. Cunningham, M. P. for New Westminster is the brother of James Henry and John Cunningham of Kingston:—

Sir,—I observe in your valuable paper of the 20th inst. a communication from a correspondent of the New York Herald, writing from Ottawa, from which I have concluded that your correspondent received his information concerning British Columbia and the proposed location of Her Majesty's troops from an unreliable source. He says that "the troops are likely to be located at Victoria, the capital of the Province." I assure your Mr. Editor, that in my opinion this is most unlikely, as the Dominion Government have at New Westminster, on the mainland, the barracks and officers' residences, formerly built for and used by Her Majesty's Royal Engineers, who were located in the Province previous to Confederation. It is not at all likely that in these times of depression, the Government will cause any unnecessary outlay, when these extensive premises can be made habitable at a small outlay. Troops for defence are not required at Victoria, or even Vancouver's Island. In case of war one or two iron-clads can protect the entire coast of the Island from an invasion. As a military point, New Westminster is the weakest, being only 11 miles (and that by land) from the United States boundary line. If troops are needed anywhere in the Province, it is there and along the coast of the mainland. Another reason why troops should be located at New Westminster is that vast numbers of the native population centre in and around Victoria, being as they are in a state of licentiousness and debauch. Hundreds of people in that Province have been ruined by coming in contact with these savages. If the lives of these noble fellows are to be preserved it will be by keeping them as far from contagion as possible. The Indians of New Westminster are a better class—virtuous and industrious. Your correspondent is in error about Victoria exporting salmon. New Westminster is the place of export. All the fisheries are in the rivers of the mainland, the Fraser especially. Several factories are located at New Westminster and this industry looks promising. Lumber is solely exported from the great port of Burrard's Inlet, situated within nine miles of New Westminster. Ships from nearly all parts of the world come there for cargoes of this most valuable export. An extensive coal mine has been found on the banks of this port, and all that is required is capital to open it up. With the exception of coal, the whole of the exports of British Columbia are from the mainland of that province.

Yours truly,
JAMES CUNNINGHAM.

Ottawa, March 26, 1877.

CANADA AT THE AUSTRALIAN EXHIBITION.

A Canadian in Sydney (N. S. W.) writes:—Mr. John Joubert, Secretary of the New South Wales Agricultural Society, has shown me every kindness, and doing his utmost to further Canadian interests. He drove me out to the Exhibition grounds yesterday, which are very nicely situated, about the same number of acres, I think, that you have in London. There is only one building, much larger than your Crystal Palace, built of stone and magnificently finished, but they propose erecting an annex temporary for our exhibits, to cost between £700 and £1,000, to have steam engines and the necessary shafting. They purpose extending the time from two weeks to one month, to give us an opportunity to dispose of our goods. I have called on a number of leading business men, and can safely say that we will get the preference

ONTARIO BEEF IN HALIFAX.

A car load of Ontario beef, slaughtered expressly for Halifax market, will be for sale next week. Coals to Newcastle with a vengeance. What are our cattle graziers thinking about? With some of the finest grazing lands in the world, we allow Ontario to undersell us in our own markets. Years ago there were more meat cattle exports to-day. Surely the farmers of Nova Scotia must be asleep. Colchester and Cumberland should be sending beef and mutton to the west, instead of receiving it from the west. Our farmers must go into cattle raising as a merchant goes into business, determined to push it on commercial principles. If our farmers and stockholders had any snap about them, a large export trade in beef would be now in progress between Nova Scotia and Britain.—Halifax Herald. Every word of the above has our hearty endorsement.—Halifax Reporter and Times.

HISTORY OF A PICTURE.

Two of the most celebrated artists the world has ever known dwelt in the same city. One delighted in delineating beauty in all its graces of tint, form, and motion. His portraits were instinct with the charm of physical vigor. The graceful, half-voluptuous outline of form and feature harmonized with delicately blended tints. On his canvas, the homeliest faces had an almost irresistible charm. The other found pleasure only in depicting weird and gloomy subjects. Above all, did he excel in painting the portraits of the dying. The agonizing death-throe, the gasping face and form, were all depicted with marvelous fidelity. There existed between these artists the most intense dislike. At length this dislike culminated. The beauty-loving artist had been engaged in painting the portrait of a beautiful woman. Connoisseurs pronounced it the most wonderful piece of art that had ever been produced. His brother artist was jealous of his fame and sought revenge. By bribing the keeper of the studio he gained access to the picture each night. At first he was content to only deaden the brilliancy of the complexion and eyes, efface the bloom from cheek and lip and paint a shadow on either cheek. Later, his strokes grew bolder and freer and one morning the artist awoke to find the entire outline of the portrait changed. He could scarcely recognize in the emaciated form and haggard countenance the glowing conception he had embodied. The pallid face and expressionless eyes he had attributed to a lack of genuineness in his materials; but when the outlines were changed he suspected the painter and indignantly dismissed the keeper. What the revengeful artist marred by a few rapid strokes at his skillful brush was only restored by years of patient industry. Reader, need we name the artists.—Health, who paints the flowers and "grassy carpet" no less than the human form divine.—Disease, the dreaded artist who revels among the ruins both of nature and humanity.—And Carelessness, the keeper to whom Health often intrusts his portraits. And is it not the beauty of woman, the most admired of all the works which adorn the studio of Health, that Disease oftenest seeks to mar? The slightest stroke of his brush upon the delicate organization leaves an imprint that requires much skill and patience to efface. Restoration must be prompt. Carelessness must be dismissed. Let suffering women heed the warning ere Disease has marred their chief beauty.—Health—beyond reparation. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been used by thousands of these sufferers, and they are unanimous in their praise of its excellence. If you would be transformed from the pallid nervous invalid into a happy vigorous woman, try it.

List of Music Books

NOW IN STOCK, AT

HENRIKSON'S BOOKSTORE,
DUNAS STREET, N. PANAMA.

Any book not on this list can be ordered and had on Notice.

Books mailed post free to any part of Canada, on receipt of the annexed price.

Marr's Concertina Tutor, price	15 cts.
Regondi's German Concertina Tutor, price	15 "
" One Hundred Sacred Airs for the Concertina	15 "
" One Hundred Melodies for the Concertina	15 "
" Sacred Album for the Concertina	15 "
Westrops Universal Harmonium Tutor	15 "
50 Christy's Minstrels Songs	15 "
Adams 100 Scottish Aias for the Violin, price	20 "
100 Christy's Minstrels melodies for the Flute	20 "
Adams 115 Dancing Tunes for the Concertina	20 "
" 115 Scottish Dancing tunes for the Concertina	20 "
Marr's Army and Navy tunes for the Concertina	20 "
" Selection of Dance Music for the Concertina	20 "
" Repasitory of Music for the Concertina	20 "
" Christy's Minstrels tunes for the Concertina	20 "
" Concertina Companion	20 "
Jousse's Musical Catechism	25 "
Wales Songs and Ballads arranged for the Guitar	30 "
Westrops 50 selected Polkas for the Pianoforte	30 "
Regondi's 200 Melodies for the Concertina	30 "
Sedgewick's 200 Melodies for the English Concertina	30 "
Regondi's 20 sets of Quadrilles for the Concertina	30 "
50 Christy's Minstrels Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
58 English and National Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
46 Operatic Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
54 Scottish Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
46 Moores Irish Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
36 Pieces of Scottish Dance Music for the Pianoforte	30 "
32 Waltzes, Polkas & Schottisches for the Pianoforte	30 "
Boasy & Cos. Violin Tutor	30 "
" " Concertina Tutor	30 "
Winnowed Hymns	30 "
Bottemus 200 Sacred Melodies	30 "
Gospel Hymns and Sacred songs by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Gospel Hymns No. 2 (a new collection) by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Brightest and Best	35 "
Pure Gold	35 "
Royal Diadem	35 "
Accordion with a Master	50 "
Moore's Eclectic School for the Piano	50 "
Canadian Sunday School Organ	50 "
The Standard Singer by Philip Philips	50 "

very large score.

Captain Bogardus, in shooting at his great shooting match at Gilmore's Garden in New York, on Friday evening, broke 1,000 glass balls, one at a time in the air, in seventy-seven minutes and thirty seconds. He only missed twenty-eight balls out of a thousand and twenty-eight.

The young athletes of Kingston are agitating for the formation of a lacrosse club.

Robert Bonner issued a catalogue of his stables showing one hundred trotters worth half a million. None are for sale.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The wrestling match between Frank Maguire of Verons, and Joe Ryan of New York, collar and elbow, for $100 and the light weight championship of America, took place to day. Maguire won the first two falls, and he match. At the end of the contest Maguire challenged any man in America if 152 lbs or under to wrestle for $500.

A Kingston yachtman, in a letter to the New York Herald referring to Capt. Cuthbert, challenges for second class yachts—suggestions for a race in the harbour on the 24th of May, arrangements are being made to that effect, and Cuthbert will doubtless participate.

The Rivet of Belleville will be completely overhauled by her owner Judge, Sherwood, a devoted yachtman, and will be made as speedy as any of her rivals.

THE EXTRADITION QUESTION

TREATY SIMILAR TO THE AMERICAN SPANISH TREATY IN NEGOTIATION.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The British government has intimated its desire to negotiate an extradition treaty with the United States, which will not conflict with the provisions of the Act of Parliament of 1870, under which British subjects found immunity, but which will secure political fugitives from being surrendered. The crimes for which it is proposed that fugitives can be arrested and extradited are those named in the extradition treaty recently negotiated with Spain by Gen. Cushing, viz:—murder, arson, rape, piracy, or armed robbery on shipboard, forgery, embezzlement, kidnapping, falsification of official accounts, breaking into government offices, banks, or trust companies with intent to steal, and counterfeiting money or government securities. There will be special exemption for political offences, in accordance with the Act of Parliament of 1870.

The American extradition treaty with Spain is very definite upon the questions raised by the controversy with England as to the right of asylum. It specifies fifteen crimes which persons charged with committing shall be delivered up on evidence which would justify their apprehension and commitment for trial, if the crimes had been committed in the country where the fugitives are found. It is an extradition for any crimes or offence of political character, or for any acts connected with such crimes or offences, and provides that no person surrendered shall be tried for any crimes or offence other than that for which he was surrendered, unless such crime be one of those enumerated in the treaty.

POLITENESS.

FROM A CLERICAL STAND-POINT.

The Leeds Mercury publishes a statement that a little girl had been expelled from Boston Spa National School for no other offence than refusing to "courtsey" the vicar's wife. The girl, who is only ten years old, is under the guardianship of a person who is called a sturdy dependent, he having adopted her; and the story is that this person had told her, while she was to be very particular obeying all school regulations, not to "courtsey" to the clergyman or his wife. When being asked by the latter "where your manners were," she assigned the true reason for omitting the unusual mark of respect, and the vicar then desired that an extensive coal mine has been found on the banks of this port, and all that is required is capital to open it up. With the exception of coal, the whole of the exports of British Columbia are from the mainland of that province.

Yours truly,
JAMES CUNNINGHAM.
Ottawa, March 26, 1877.

CANADA AT THE AUSTRALIAN EXHIBITION.

A Canadian in Sydney (N. S. W.) writes:—Mr. John Joubert, Secretary of the New South Wales Agricultural Society, has shown me every kindness, and doing his utmost to further Canadian interests. He drove me out to the Exhibition grounds yesterday, which are very nicely situated, about the same number of acres, I think, that you have in London. There is only one building, much larger than your Crystal Palace, built of stone and magnificently finished, but they propose erecting an annex temporary for our exhibits, to cost between £700 and £1,000, to have steam engines and the necessary shafting. They purpose extending the time from two weeks to one month, to give us an opportunity to dispose of our goods. I have called on a number of leading business men, and can safely say that we will get the preference if our goods are up in quality and price, but they are very cautious, and don't feel disposed to do anything (in fact never do) until they have seen samples. The catalogue is not sufficient for them. Two commercial travellers from Canada came in the same ship with us, one from Toronto, the other from Hamilton, having the samples with them. They are doing very well. They have Canada tweeds, hardware, boots and shoes, jewellery, and fancy goods. Canada tweeds, boots and shoes, and fancy goods can be sold here in large quantities. They cannot manufacture here, having very few skilled mechanics, and consequently labour is very high. Labourers get from 6s to 8s per day, and all kinds of mechanics from 10s to 14s per day—eight hours (from 8 to 5), working the year round. I felt quite disappointed on my arrival here when I found that the harvest was over, thinking that I would not have any opportunity to try our machines, but Mr. Joubert, already mentioned, has satisfied me on that point. He has had a crop sown to be ready on the 8th and 4th of April. The Exhibition opens on the 10th of April and will last till the 10th of May—one month. Mr. Rae, Commissioner for Railways, sent for me to-day, and before leaving presented me with a free pass for one month over all the roads in this colony. We are, I might say, free commoners here, come and go and no questions asked. We have been well received, and people generally seem pleased to think that Canada, a British colony, is endeavouring to pave a way for a business connection.

MILITIA ORDERS.

DOMINION ARTILLERY ASSOCIATION.—His Excellency, the Earl of Dufferin, has been pleased to express his intention of offering a medal for the best essay on the Supply, Care and Repair of Artillery material, including Smith Arms and Ammunition for Canadian Militia, to be competed for by officers of Canadian Militia Artillery, being members of, or belonging to, corps affiliated with the Dominion Artillery Association. Officers or others who have served in the Royal or Royal Marine Artillery to be excluded from competition. The essays to be distinguished only by a motto, not that of any Artillery corps, and the manuscript not to be in the handwriting of the competitors. The judges to be officers of the Royal Artillery and the Professor of Artillery, Military College, Kingston. The essays may be either in English or French.

BUTCHERS' DISEASED MEAT.

About the worst case of trading in diseased meat which has ever been reported was heard before the Warrington (Eng.) magistrates. A man named Bradbury, a pig dealer, was charged with having on his person a large quantity of diseased meat attributed to a lack of genuineness in his materials; but when the outlines were changed he suspected the pause and indignantly dismissed the keeper. What the revengeful artist marred by a few rapid strokes of his skillful brush was only restored by years of patient industry. Reader, need we name the artists.—Health, who paints the flowers and "grassy carpet" no less than the human form divine.—Disease, the dreaded artist who revels among the ruins both of nature and humanity.—and Carelessness, the keeper to whom Health often intrusts his portraits. And is it not the beauty of woman, the most admired of all the works which adorn the studio of Health, that Disease oftenest seeks to mar? The slightest stroke of his brush upon the delicate organization leaves an imprint that requires much skill and patience to efface. Restoration must be prompt. Carelessness must be dismissed. Let suffering women heed the warning ere Disease has marred their chief beauty.—Health—beyond reparation. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been used by thousands of these sufferers, and they are unanimous in their praise of its excellence. If you would be transformed from the pallid nervous invalid into a happy vigorous woman, try it.

Public Attention

Is directed to the following Provisions of the Fishery and Game Laws in the Province of Ontario.

CLOSE SEASONS FOR FISH.

Whitefish cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th November, both days inclusive.
Salmon Trout, and Lake Trout, cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th November, both days inclusive.
Speckled Trout, Brook or River Trout, cannot be caught from 15th September to 1st May.
Bass, cannot be caught from 15th May to 15th June.
Pickeral, cannot be caught from 15th April to 15th May.
Mashinonge, cannot be caught from 15th April to 15th May.

CLOSE SEASONS FOR GAME.

Deer and Cariboo, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.
Moose, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.
Partridge, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st September.
Duck, cannot be killed from 1st January to 15th August.
Woodcock, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st July.
Snipe, cannot be killed from 1st May to 15th August.
Quail, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st October.

A. I. well-disposed persons are requested to afford the local Fishery Officers whatever information and assistance they can towards carrying out these provisions of the Fishery Laws.

Fishing without license is prohibited. Indians are forbidden to fish or shoot illegally the same as whitemen.

Complainants will receive one-half of the fines imposed, and be paid for their cost and attendance as witnesses.

Each person guilty of violating these regulations is liable to find and costs, or in default of payment is subject to imprisonment.

No person shall, during such prohibited times, fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or have in possession any of the above mentioned kind of Fish or Game.

In Quebec, Fishery Officers exercise Magisterial powers under the Game Laws.

BY ORDER.
W. F. WHITCHER,

40 Operatic Melodics for the Pianoforte	30 "
54 Scottish Melodics for the Pianoforte	30 "
46 Moores Irish Melodics for the Pianoforte	30 "
36 Pieces of Scottish Dance Music for the Pianoforte	30 "
32 Waltzes, Polkas & Schottisches for the Pianoforte	30 "
Boasy & Cos. Violin Tutor	30 "
" " Concertina Tutor	30 "
Winnowed Hymns	30 "
Batemans 200 Sacred Melodies	30 "
Gospel Hymns and Sacred songs by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Gospel Hymns No. 2 (a new collection) by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Brightest and Best Pure Gold	35 "
Royal Diadem	35 "
Accordion with a Master	50 "
Moore's Eclectic School for the Piano	50 "
Canadian Sunday School Organ	50 "
The Standard Singer by Philip Phillips	50 "
The Singing Pilgrim by Philip Phillips	50 "
The Song Queen by H. R. Palmer	60 "
The Song King by H. R. Palmer	75 "
White's Piano with a Master	75 "
Winners New Primer for the Guitar	75 "
" New School for the Violin	75 "
The Song Echo by H. S. Perkins	75 "
Reinhalts Instruction book for the Organ	$1.25
The Songs of Ireland by J. L. Molloy	1.25
Hullabys Method of Teaching Singing	1.65
Hautens Pianoforte School	2.00
The Welcome Guest	2.50
The Home Circle No. 1	2.50
The Home Circle No. 2	2.50
The Home Circle No. 3	2.50

Richardson's New Method for the Pianoforte reduced to $3.25.

JOHN HENDERSON, Bookseller, Grand St. Black Napanee.

SEE! LOOK! BEHOLD!

A NEW SIGHT HAS COME TO TOWN

IT IS PATENTED EYE-SIGHT!

F. W. SMITH,

IS THE HAPPY POSSESSOR.

He will provide all who desire it, as reasonable rates. Call and look at

JOHNSTON & CONRATH'S

Economical Spectacles.

EASY-FITTING.

Eye-Glasses and Superior Eye Tryer.

*This firm is appointed sole agent of their goods in this vicinity.

F. W. SMITH,

Napanee.

Optician and Jeweler. No-47

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Cuyver's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure of all chronic diseases of the Nervous System, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc. resulting from excesses.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The British Government has intimated its desire to negotiate an extradition treaty with the United States, which will not conflict with the provisions of the Act of Parliament of 1870, under which Winslow found immunity, but which will secure political fugitives from being surrendered. The crimes for which it is proposed that fugitives can be arrested and extradited are those named in the extradition treaty recently negotiated with Spain by Gen. Cushing, viz:—Murder, arson, rape, piracy, or armed mutiny on shipboard, forgery, embezzlement, kidnapping, falsification of official accounts, breaking into government offices, banks, or trust companies with intent to steal, and counterfeiting money or government securities. There will be a special exemption for political offences, in accordance with the Act of Parliament of 1870.

The American extradition treaty with Spain is very definite upon the questions raised by the controversy with England as to the right of asylum. It specifies fifteen crimes which persons charged with committing shall be delivered up on evidence which would justify their apprehension and commitment for trial, if the crimes had been committed in the country where the fugitives are found. It bars extradition for any crimes or offence of a political character, or for any acts connected with such crimes or offences; and provides that no person surrendered shall be tried for any crimes or offence other than that for which he was surrendered, unless such crime be one of those enumerated in the treaty.

POLITENESS.

FROM A CLERICAL STAND-POINT.

The Leeds Mercury publishes a statement that a little girl had been expelled from Boston Spa National School for no other offence than refusing to "courtsey" to the vicar's wife. The girl, who is only seven years old, is under the guardianship of a person who is called a sturdy independent, he having adopted her; and the story is that this person had told her, while she was to be very particular in obeying all school regulations, not to "courtsey" to the clergyman or his wife. On her being asked by the latter "where her manners were," she assigned the true reason for omitting the usual mark of respect, and the vicar then desired the schoolmaster to punish her, which he refused to do. The master subsequently refused a request made to him to expel the girl, and the vicar thereon expelled her himself. It is added that the final result of the affair was that the schoolmaster found himself obliged to resign his office, which he had held for twenty years. On doing so he was presented by the parishioners with testimonials to the value of about £80. The Leeds Mercury's informant says that there is no other school in the parish to which the little Nonconformist can be sent.

A NATURALIST IN PRISON.

Two years ago Geo. Bidwell, the notorious Bank of England forger, was transferred to Dartmoor Prison. Soon after he was apparently seized with paralysis in his lower limbs, and has ever since been an inmate of the infirmary. Lately a new governor was appointed to Dartmoor, who was sceptical as to the genuineness of Bidwell's illness. On March 15th, therefore, the prisoner was ordered to get up and dress, but positively refused thereupon he was carried down to a cold cell and left there unrelieved until he chose to dress. Within an hour he jumped up and put on his clothes, and evidently a perfect cure had been effected, but when he was being stripped a curious discovery was made. Beneath his arm-pits were found a tame mouse and a rat. These he confessed he had caught in the infirmary, and had petted and fed with crumbs for many months.

very well. They have Canada tweeds, hardware, boots and shoes jewellery, and fancy goods. Canada tweeds, boots and shoes, and fancy goods can be sold here in large quantities. They cannot manufacture here, having very few skilled mechanics, and consequently labour is very high. Labourers get from 6s to 8s per day, and all kinds of mechanics from 10s to 14s per day—eight hours (from 8 to 5), working the year round. I felt quite disappointed on my arrival here when I found that the harvest was over, thinking that I would not have any opportunity to try our machines, but Mr. Joubert, already mentioned, has satisfied me on that point. He has had a crop sown to be ready on the 3rd and 4th of April. The Exhibition opens on the 10th of April and will last till the 10th of May—one month. Mr. Rae, Commissioner for Railways, sent for me to-day, and before leaving presented me with a free pass for one month over all the roads in this colony. We are, I might say, free commoners here, come and go and no questions asked. We have been well received, and people generally seem pleased to think that Canada, a British colony, is endeavouring to pave a way for a business connection.

MILITIA ORDERS.

DOMINION ARTILLERY ASSOCIATION.—His Excellency, the Earl of Dufferin, has been pleased to express his intention of offering a medal for the best essay on the Supply, Care and Repair of Artillery material, including Smith Arms and Ammunition for Canadian Militia, to be competed for by officers of Canadian Militia Artillery, being members of, or belonging to, corps affiliated with the Dominion Artillery Association. Officers or others who have served in the Royal or Royal Marine Artillery to be excluded from competition. The essays to be distinguished only by a motto, not that of any Artillery corps, and the manuscript not to be in the handwriting of the competitors. The judges to be officers of the Royal Artillery and the Professor of Artillery, Military College, Kingston. The essays may be either in English or French.

BUTCHERS' DISEASED MEAT.

About the worst case of trading in diseased meat which has ever been reported was heard before the Warrington (Eng.) magistrates. A man named Bradbury, a pig dealer, was charged with having on his premises, dressed for sale, the carcasses of the eleven pigs which were unfit for human food. The evidence showed that the pigs had suffered from measles and scarlatina, and that one of them at least had died without the assistance of a butcher. The flesh was covered with pustules, and tumours existed in one of the carcasses, and the consequences to any person partaking of the abominable stuff must have been diarrhoea and blood poisoning. The defendant denied that he knew the pigs to be diseased, and called witnesses to say that all had been killed. The magistrates allowed Bradbury to escape on payment of a fine £22 and costs.

THE BLACK HILLS.

Reports received in Washington within the last few days represent the Black Hills territory as settling up more rapidly than Government officers had any reason to expect. It is now said by those familiar with the present tide of emigration that 50,000 people will go there this summer, attracted by the late gold discoveries. A daily line of stages has already been established from Cheyenne, and a tri-weekly one for the Fort Kearney line from Sidney; and one or two others will soon be established from other points. The travel is already so great that passengers have to engage their seats at least a week in advance. A post-office will be opened at Deadwood as soon as the new postmaster, who was commissioned to-day, can arrive there. It promises to be one of the most important frontier offices.

CLOSE SEASONS FOR FISH.

Whitefish cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th November, both days inclusive.

Salmon Trout, and Lake Trout, cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th November, both days inclusive.

Speckled Trout, Brook or River Trout, cannot be caught from 15th September to 1st May.

Bass, cannot be caught from 15th May to 15th June.

Pike, cannot be caught from 15th April to 15th May.

Maskinonge, cannot be caught from 15th April to 15th May.

CLOSE SEASONS FOR GAME.

Deer and Cariboo, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.

Moose, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.

Partridge, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st September.

Duck, cannot be killed from 1st January to 15th August.

Woodcock, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st July.

Suipe, cannot be killed from 1st May to 15th August.

Quail, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st October.

All well-disposed persons are requested to afford the local Fishery Officers, whatever information and assistance they can towards carrying out these provisions of the Fishery Laws.

Fishing without license is prohibited. Indians are forbidden to fish or shoot illegally the same as whites.

Complainants will receive one-half of the fines imposed, and be paid for their cost and attendance as witnesses.

Each person guilty of violating these regulations is liable to find and costs, or in default of payment is subject to imprisonment.

No person shall, during such prohibited times, fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or have in possession any of the above mentioned kind of Fish or Game.

In Quebec, Fishery Officers exercise Magisterial powers under the Game Laws.

BY ORDER.

W. F. WHITCHER,
Commissioner of Fisheries.

N. B.—Deer killed before the 1st December, cannot be legally disposed of after the 1st of January following.

Department of Marine and Fisheries, Fisheries Branch, Ottawa.

ALFRED KNIGHT,
Fishery Officer,
Petworth.

44

HARDWARE CHEAP

AT THE SIGN OF THE

GOLDEN AUGER,

RALPH PURDY.

Napanee, April 6th, 1877.

50

The Song Echo by H. S. Perkins 75 "Reinhardt's Instruction book for the Organ $1.25

The Songs of Ireland by J. L. Molloy 1 25

Hullahs Method of Teaching Singing 1.65

Hautous Pianoforte 8 foot 2.00

The Welcome Guest 2.50

The Home Circle No. 1 2.50

The Home Circle No. 2 2.50

The Home Circle No. 3 2.50

Richardson's New Method for the Pianoforte reduced to $3.25.

JOHN HENDERSON,
Bookbinder,
Grand St. Black, Napanee.

SEE! LOOK! BEHOLD!

A NEW SIGHT HAS COME TO TOWN

IT IS PATENTED EYE-SIGHT!

F. W. SMITH,
THE HAPPY POSSESSOR,
He will provide all who desire it, as reasonable rates. Call and look at

JOHNSTON & CONRATH'S
Economical Spectacles,
EASY-FITTING.

Eye-Glasses and Superior Eye Tryer.
This firm has appointed me sole agent of their goods in this vicinity.

F. W. SMITH,
Napanee.
Optician and Jeweler. No-47

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Impairment, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

12c price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, of this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequence may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife, pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

2c This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

THE CULVERWELL MEDICAL CO.,
11 Ann St., New York.
Post Office Box, 1386.
49-51.

ONTARIO BEEF IN HALIFAX.

car load of Ontario beef, slaughtered easily for Halifax market, will be for next week. Coals to Newcastle with vengeance. What are our cattle grazers doing about? With some of the finest lands in the world, we allow ourselves to undersell us in our own market.

Years ago there were more meat exports than to-day. Surely the farmers of Nova Scotia must be asleep. Hester and Cumberland should be doing beef and mutton to the west, instead of receiving it from the west. Our farmers must go into cattle raising as a business, determined to do it on commercial principles. If farmers and stockholders had any about them, a large export trade in would be now in progress between Nova Scotia and Britain.—Halifax Herald.

HISTORY OF A PICTURE.

One of the most celebrated artists the world has ever known dwelt in the same house as the painter of the picture. One delighted in delineating beauty in its graces of tint, form, and motion. The other was instinct with the character of the subject. The graceful, half-voluntarist outline of form and feature, harmonized with delicately blended tints. His canvas, the homeliest faces had an irresistible charm. The other derived pleasure only in depicting weird and gloomy subjects. Above all, did he excel in painting the portraits of the dying. The agonizing death-throe, the gasping and form, were all depicted with veridical fidelity. There existed between these artists the most intense dislike. At length this dislike culminated. The Italy-loving artist had been engaged in painting the portrait of a beautiful Italian. Connoisseurs pronounced it the most wonderful piece of art that had ever been produced. His brother artist was jealous of his fame and sought revenge. Seizing the key of the studio he had access to the picture each night. At first he was content to only deaden the brilliancy of the complexion and eyes, to rob the bloom from cheek and lip, and to cast a shadow on either cheek. Later, the strokes grew bolder and freer and one morning the artist awoke to find the outline of the portrait changed. He did scarcely recognize in the emaciated and haggard countenance the glowing perfection he had embodied. The pallid and expressionless eyes he had attributed to a lack of genius in his sittings; but when the outlines were changed he suspected the pause and indignantly dismissed the keeper. What the selfish artist marred by a few rapid strokes of his skillful brush was only remedied by years of patient industry. At last, need we name the artist, the painter who paints the flowers and "grassy daisy" no less than the human form divine.—Disease, the dreaded specter who revels among the ruins of nature and humanity.—Carelessness, the keeper to whom the artist often intrusts his portraits. And not the beauty of woman, the most admired of all the works which adorn the world of Health, that Disease oftenest seeks to mar! The slightest stroke of his hand upon the delicate organization leaves an imprint that requires much skill and patience to efface. Restoration must be prompt. Carelessness must be dismissed. Let suffering women heed the warning.—Health—beyond reparation. Dr. Keen's Favorite Prescription has been tried by thousands of these sufferers, and are unanimous in their praise of its efficacy. If you would be freed from the pallid nervous invalid and happy vigorous woman, try it.

List of Music Books

NOW IN STOCK, AT

HENDERSON'S BOOKSTORE, DUNDAS STREET, N. W. CORNER.

Any book not on this list can be ordered and had on Short Notice.

Books mailed post free to any part of Canada, on receipt of the annexed price.

- | | |
|--|---------|
| Marr's Concertina Tutor, price | 15 cts. |
| Regondi's German Concertina Tutor, price | 15 " |
| "One Hundred Sacred Airs for the Concertina | 15 " |
| "One Hundred Melodies for the Concertina | 15 " |
| "Sacred Album for the Concertina | 15 " |
| Westrop's Universal Harmonium Tutor | 15 " |
| 50 Christy's Minstrels Songs | 15 " |
| Adams 100 Scottish Aias for the Violin, price | 20 " |
| 100 Christy's Minstrels melodies for the Flute | 20 " |
| Adams 115 Dancing Tunes for the Concertina | 20 " |
| "115 Scottish Dancing tunes for the Concertina | 20 " |
| Marr's Army and Navy tunes for the Concertina | 20 " |
| "Selection of Dance Music for the Concertina | 20 " |
| "Repertory of Music for the Concertina | 20 " |
| "Christy's Minstrels tunes for the Concertina | 20 " |
| "Concertina Companion | 20 " |
| Jousse's Musical Catechism | 25 " |
| Wade's Songs and Ballads arranged for the Guitar | 30 " |
| Westrop's 50 selected Polkas for the Pianoforte | 30 " |
| Regondi's 200 Melodies for the Concertina | 30 " |
| Sedgewick's 200 Melodies for the English Concertina | 30 " |
| Regondi's 20 sets of Quadrilles for the Concertina | 30 " |
| 50 Christy's Minstrels Melodies for the Pianoforte | 30 " |
| 58 English and National Melodies for the Pianoforte | 30 " |
| 46 Operatic Melodies for the Pianoforte | 30 " |
| 54 Scottish Melodies for the Pianoforte | 30 " |
| 46 Moore's Irish Melodies for the Pianoforte | 30 " |
| 36 Pieces of Scottish Dance Music for the Pianoforte | 30 " |
| 32 Waltzes, Polkas & Schottisches for the Pianoforte | 30 " |
| Boasy & Cos. Violin Tutor | 30 " |
| " " Concertina Tutor | 30 " |
| Winnowed Hymns | 30 " |
| Batemans 200 Sacred Melodies | 30 " |
| Gospel Hymns and Sacred songs by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey | 35 " |
| Gospel Hymns No. 2 (a new collection) by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey | 35 " |
| Brightest and Best | 35 " |
| Pure Gold | 35 " |
| Royal Diadem | 35 " |
| Accordions with a Master | 50 " |
| Moore's Eclectic School for the Piano | 50 " |
| Canadian Sunday School Organ | 50 " |
| The Standard Singer by Philip Phillips | 50 " |
| The Singing Pilgrim by Philip Phillips | 50 " |
| The Song Queen by H. R. | |

THE NEW FIRM

DOWNNEY & SPENCE,

ARE NOW OPEN.

Look out for Bargains,

AS SUCCESSORS TO

R. DOWNEY & BROS'.

HAVING PURCHASED THEIR

LARGE STOCK OF DRY GOODS,

THE GREAT COST SALE

Will be continued, and as it is the intention of the New Firm to

SELL GOODS STRICTLY FOR CASH,

All New Goods in, and coming in, are marked to sell

At a Small Advance on Cost.

to a lack of gentleness in his als: but when the outlines were d he suspected the pause and indigdismissed the keeper. What there-artist marred by a few rapid at his skillful brush was only re-by years of patient industry.
need we name the artists,— who paints the flowers and "grassy no less than the human divin,— Disease! the dreaded who revels among the ruins of nature and humanity,— relessness, the keeper to whom often intrusts his portraits. And the beauty of woman, the most d of all the works which adorn the of Health, that Disease oftenest a mar! The slightest stroke of his upon the delicate organization in imprint that requires much skill lence to efface. Restoration must apt. Carelessness must be dismiss-t suffering women need the warn-Disease has marred their chief —Health—beyond reparation. Dr.
Favorite Prescription has been thousands of these sufferers, and e unanimous in their praise of its ce. If you would be trans-from the pallid nervous invalid appy vigorous woman, try it.

Public Attention

ed to the following Provisions of Fishery and Game Laws in the Province of Ontario.

USE SEASONS FOR FISH.

sh cannot be caught from 1st abar to 10th November, both days ve.

Trout, and Lake Trout, cannot ught from 1st November to 10th umber, both days inclusive.

d Trout, Brook or River Trout, t be caught from 15th September
May.

cannot be caught from 15th May th June.

l, cannot be caught from April to 15th May.

ange, cannot be caught from 15th
to 15th May.

USE SEASONS FOR GAME.

d Cariboo, cannot be killed from eember to 1st September.

cannot be killed from 1st Decemto 1st September.

e, cannot be killed from 1st
try to 1st September.

cannot be killed from 1st January
h August.

ck, cannot be killed from 1st
try to 1st July.

cannot be killed from 1st May to August.

cannot be killed from 1st January October.

all-disposed persons are requested the local Fishery Officers, what ormation and assistance they can arrying out these provisions of ery Laws.

ing without license is prohibited, is not to be killed or shot
the same as whitemen.

laimants will receive one-half of imposed, and be paid for their attendance as witnesses.

erson guilty of violating these ns is liable to find and costs, or lt. of payment is subject to iment.

erson shall, during such prohibited h for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or possession any of the above mend of Fish or Game.

ébec, Fishery Officers exercise
ial powers under the Game

BY ORDER,
W. F. WHITCHER,

Pianoforte	30 "
54 Scottish Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
46-Moore's Irish Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
36 Pieces of Scottish Dance Music for the Pianoforte	30 "
32 Waltzes, Polkas & Schot- tisches for the Pianoforte	30 "
Boasy & Cos. Violin Tutor	30 "
" " Concertina Tutor	30 "
Winnowed Hymns	30 "
Batemans 200 Sacred Melodies	30 "
Gospel Hymns and Sacred songs by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Gospel Hymns No. 2 (a new col- lection) by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Brightest and Best	35 "
Pure Gold	35 "
Royal Pradom	35 "
Accordeon with a Master	50 "
Moore's Eclectic School for the Piano	50 "
Canadian Sunday School Organ	50 "
The Standard Singer by Philip Phillips	50 "
The Singing Pilgrim by Philip Phillips	50 "
The Song Queen by H. R. Palmet	60 "
The Song King by H. R. Pamer	75 "
White's Piano with a Master	75 "
Winnier's New Primer for the Cantuar	75 "
" New School for the Violin	75 "
The Song Echo by H. S. Perkins	75 "
Reinhardt's Instruction book for the Organ	$1.25
The Songs of Ireland by J. L. Molloy	1 25
Hullahs Method of Teaching Singing	1.65
Hautens Pianoforte School	2.00
The Welcome Guest	2.50
The Home Circle No. 1	2.50
The Home Circle No. 2	2.50
The Home Circle No. 3	2.50

Richardson's New Method for the Pianoforte reduced to $3.25.

JOHN HENDERSON,
Bookseller,
Gang's Block, Nananee.

SEE! LOOK! BEHOLD!

A NEW SIGHT HAS COME TO TOWN

IT IS PATENTED EYE-SIGHT!

F. W. SMITH,

IS THE HAPPY POSSESSOR,

It will provide all who desire it, as reasonable prices. Call and look at

JOHNSTON & CONRATH'S

Economical Spectacles,

EASY-FITTING.

Eye-Glasses and Superior Eye Tryer.

This firm is appointed the sole agent of their goods in this vicinity.

F. W. SMITH,

Napanee.

Optician and Jeweler.

No-47

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!!

We have recently published a new edition
of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure without medicine of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage,
etc. resulting from Excesses.

1st Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, of this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' suc-

ENTIRE STOCK OF DIFFERENT GOODS,

THE GREAT COST SALE

Will be continued, and as it is the intention of the New Firm to

SELL GOODS STRICTLY FOR CASH,

All New Goods in, and coming in, are marked to sell

At a Small Advance on Cost.

That the public may have the same confidence in the New Firm as they have had in the Old; They commence business on the sound basis of

FIRST.—Buying their goods for Cash, at the Very Lowest Prices.

SECOND.—Marking their goods in plain figures, that no deception can be practised.

THIRD.—Selling their goods at the prices marked. That is they will have no second price.

FOURTH.—Selling for Cash only, saving the cost of extra clerks and bad debts.

THE CUSTOMERS OF

DOWNEY & SPENCE

Will get their Goods Cheap,

Because Downey & Spence buy them Cheap for Cash.
Because Downey & Spence sell for Cash, and can afford to sell Cheap. Also,

ALL GOODS MARKED IN PLAIN FIGURES,

Sold at One Price,

Will prevent any deception being practised, or one customer getting goods cheaper than another.

Trout, and Lake Trout, cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th May, both days inclusive.
 Trout, Brook or River Trout, cannot be caught from 15th September to 1st May.
 Trout, cannot be caught from 1st May to 15th May.
 Trout, cannot be caught from 1st May to 15th May.

SEASONS FOR GAME.
 Cariboo, cannot be killed from 1st November to 1st September.
 Moose, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.
 Deer, cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st September.
 Elk, cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st September.
 Wolf, cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st September.
 Coyote, cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st September.
 Fox, cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st September.
 Badger, cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st September.
 Skunk, cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st September.
 Mink, cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st September.
 Otter, cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st September.
 Beaver, cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st September.
 Muskrat, cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st September.
 Raccoon, cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st September.
 Chipmunk, cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st September.
 Squirrel, cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st September.
 Chipmunk, cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st September.
 Squirrel, cannot be killed from 1st May to 1st September.

Persons are requested to be notified of the local Fishery Officers, what nation and assistance they can carry out these provisions of the Laws.
 without license is prohibited, are forbidden to fish or shoot the same as whitemen.
 Indians will receive one-half of the proceeds, and be paid for their attendance as witnesses.
 Persons guilty of violating these provisions are liable to find and costs, or of payment is subject to imprisonment.
 No shall, during such prohibited time, for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or possession any of the above mentioned of Fish or Game.
 Fishery Officers exercise all powers under the Game Act.

W. F. WHITCHER,
 Commissioner of Fisheries.
 Deer killed before the 1st December cannot be legally disposed of until 1st January following.
 Department of Marine and Fisheries, Branch, Ottawa.
ALFRED KNIGHT,
 Fishery Officer,
 Petworth.

ARDWARE CHEAP

AT THE SIGN OF THE
GOLDEN AUGER,
RALPH PURDY.
 6th, 1877.

Molloy	1 25
Hall's Method of Teaching
Singing	1 65
Hautens Pianoforte School	2 00
The Welcome Guest	2 50
The Home Circle No. 1	2 50
The Home Circle No. 2	2 50
The Home Circle No. 3	2 50
Richardson's New Method for the Pianoforte reduced to $3.25.
JOHN HENDERSON,
Bookseller,
Georg's Block, Nananee.

SEE! LOOK! BEHOLD!

A NEW SIGHT HAS COME TO TOWN
 IT IS PATENTED EYE-SIGHT!
F. W. SMITH,
 IS THE HAPPY POSSESSOR.
 He will provide all who desire it, as reasonable rates. Call and look at
JOHNSTON & CONRATH'S
Economical Spectacles,
 EASY-FITTING.
 Eye-Glasses and Superior Eye Tryer.
 This firm is appointed sole agent of their goods in this vicinity.
F. W. SMITH,
 Nananee.
 Optician and Jeweler.
 No-47

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!!
 We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the earliest and permanent cure without medicine of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.
 Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.
 The celebrated author, of this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife, pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what this condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
 This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.
THE CULVERTWELL MEDICAL CO.,
 11 Ann St., New York.
 Post Office Box, 4386.
 65-yl.

SECOND.—Marking their goods in plain figures, that no deception can be practised.
 THIRD.—Selling their goods at the prices marked. That is they will have no second price.
 FOURTH.—Selling for Cash only, saving the cost of extra clerks and bad debts.

THE CUSTOMERS OF DOWNEY & SPENCE

Will get their Goods Cheap,
 Because Downey & Spence buy them Cheap for Cash.
 Because Downey & Spence sell for Cash, and can afford to sell Cheap. Also,

ALL GOODS MARKED IN PLAIN FIGURES,
 Sold at One Price,

Will prevent any deception being practised, or one customer getting goods cheaper than another.

DOWNEY & SPENCE,

ARE NOW SECURING
NEW GOODS EVERY DAY,
 Therefore, customers may expect a
FRESH STOCK TO SELECT FROM AT ALL TIMES.

Call and see them, and give them a trial,
 AND SECURE SOME OF THE GREAT BARGAINS
 THEY ARE OFFERING

DOWNEY & SPENCE

List of New Advertisements.

New Firm—Downey and Spence.
Hardware Cheap—Ralph Parry.
List of Music Books—J. Henderson.
Special Notice—R. V. Pierce.

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, APRIL 6th, 1877.

Service in the M. E. Church.
On next Sunday, morning and evening by the Rev. I. B. Aylsworth.

Opening of Navigation.

The channel between Napanee and Mill Point, will be clear of ice within a week, if the present fine weather continues.

Sudden Death.

Mr. Christopher Switzer, died very suddenly in Switzerville on Monday night from heart disease, having retired in his usual health.

Personal.

Master Charles and Fletcher McGreer, Mill Point road, who have been very sick with Diphtheria of the ear for the past two weeks are slowly recovering.

Free Concert.

The W. M. T. A. Concert in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening was a success, the Hall being jammed to the doors.

Customs Imports.

Quarter ended 31st of March 1877 :— Dutiable goods $120.00 duty $1817.14
Free do 25.18
Total $107.25.

Inland Revenue.

Collections for March Quarter 1877 :—
Spirits, $3720.30; Cavendish Tobacco $45.
60; Cigars, $22.40; License Fees, $25.00;
Other Revenues, $9.00; Total, $3822.80.

More Fires.

Finkle's Carriage Shop was burned in Newburgh about 2 a. m. on Thursday—30 carriages destroyed, no insurance. A dwelling belonging to a man named Bain, near Belleville, was also destroyed at the same time.

Personal.

The St. Lawrence Hotel, Kingston, has been leased by Mr. Chas. A. Carnell.
Charles is a Napanee boy and "knows how to keep a hotel", his affable manner, and close attention to the wants of the travelling public, will ensure him a hearty welcome.

New Type.

Just received at the EXPRESS Office a full assortment of the very latest designs of plain and fancy Job and News Type, which enables us to compete with any office in the Dominion in all lines of printing, from the smallest card to the largest poster.

The annual Educational Meeting.

In connection with the Methodist Church will be held on Tuesday evening, 10th inst., commencing at 7.30 o'clock.
Addresses will be delivered by the Rev.
Geo. Douglas, LL. D., of Montreal, and
W. A. Feeve, Esq., of Napanee.

Downey and Spence.

There is no time like the present for economizing, and parties knowing beforehand where they will be dealt with in a plain straightforward manner, will—after the first trial—be sure to return again.
See ad.

Cricket Meeting.

A meeting was held at the Campbell
House on Tuesday, to organize a Cricket Club for the season of 1877. Mr. S.
Abrams was appointed secretary, Messrs
T. D. Prunty and Mr. Moore—to canvas the town. Meeting adjourned until

Personal—"The Wandering Jew."

Printers are only mortal, and consequently, are subject to "all the ills the flesh is heir to." One poor fellow gave us a call yesterday, having travelled all the way from Leavenworth, Kansas, stopping at every sanctum on the road in search of a sit. Being possessed of a "fellow feeling" we gave him him our best Merschaum and a pocketful of fine-cut, which was most thankfully received, as he disappeared from view—a better and a happier man.

Vestry Meeting.

The annual vestry meeting of St.
Mary Magdalene's Church was held on Easter Monday. The Rector appointed
Chas. McGreer, Esq., Church-warden, and S. T. Clement, Esq., was appointed by the people. The sidemen elected were: Messrs J. B. McGuin, H. Dong-lass, F. E. Bartlett, and John Wallace.
Dr. Bristol was re-elected delegate to the Synod for the ensuing three years. The meeting then adjourned to meet again on Tuesday evening, 10th inst., at 7.30 o'clock.

Notice to Subscribers.

As a misunderstanding with some of our subscribers, has arisen in regard to the meaning, conveyed by the wording of certain circular, sent to them by Mr. T.
W. Casey, late proprietor of the EXPRESS, asking for payment of arrears of subscriptions. We wish it distinctly understood, that Mr. Casey's connection with the EXPRESS, expired on 16th day of October 1876, and all subscriptions due him, expired with that date. We hope that our subscribers will not infer from the said circulars, that we are, at this early date, pushing them for their subscriptions.

Ship Timber

Sad and sorrowful was the gaze of the Street Inspector, as he watched the numerous teams compelled to turn out in passing the foot of the ladder, on Saturday last. Ladies trembled with fear, as they passed under the ponderous object, and speculators exchanged congratulations on the sudden rise in lumbering prospects. The Chief finally accepted the lowest tender and it was silently removed after dark, to its last resting place for the small sum of $1.50. Its weight on the Hay Scales was 1,470 lbs, and its length (Imperial) 50 feet. Where will we get such another?

Newspapers by Post

The Government has caused to be issued wrappers for newspapers, periodicals, etc., with a one-cent stamp printed on the right hand corner. The stamp is oval in form and blue in colour. In the centre of the oval is an engraving of the Queen's head, and surrounding it are the words, "Canada Postage—One cent." The wrapper is twelve inches in length by about five in width, and has a wellgummed edge. They are got up after the manner of those which have been in use in England for some years past.

Three Guineas Reward

This accustomed bounty from the Queen—which is always forthcoming on the advent of triplets—has been received by many a thrice happy mother in different parts of the Dominion. A case or two around Napanee is known to a few,
but the bashfulness of the interested parties has hitherto kept the matter a secret, and which if made public would be the means of opening Her Majesty's purse-strings, to the tune of fifteen dollars and thirty-three cents. An important item these hard times. Who will speak first? and receive the prize money.

An Important Railway Bill.

The ill feeling often arising between conductors and passengers, justifies the passing of Mr. Trep's Railway Bill now before the House of Commons, which

C. Methodist Church.

The Rev. Mr. Allen of Kingston, will preach next Sunday morning and evening.

Practical Joking—"All Fools Day."

Even a due regard for the Sabbath seems to be no hindrance in the way of those practical jokers, who let no opportunity slip for exciting the risibilities of themselves and their friends, at the expense of their unsuspecting victims. The following laughable "sell" was perpetrated on a dear old lady living in our suburbs, one who had raised a large family, and whose well known kindness of heart, made her a fit subject for the joke in question. On Sunday morning as people were going to church, an infantile wail of distress was heard on her doorstep, in a flurry of excitement, she rushed out followed by her grown-up daughters, and discovered a carefully made bundle about two feet in length, from which proceeded—as she thought—the smothered cries of a child. Quickly undoing fold after fold, amid the ejacula-tions of pity from a dozen or two female spectators—out jumps a large Maltese kitten, accompanied by loud shouts of laughter, the first intimation the good old soul received, of "The first of April."

TOWN COUNCIL.

A regular meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday night, the following.

PETITIONS WERE PRESENTED.

From Capt. of Fire Brigada, asking the Council to purchase ten water-proof coats for the company—Referred to the Fire and Water Committee with instructions to act.

From B. Briggs and others, praying for a plank-walk on Pearl street, from Center st along the south side of Rathbun's Lumber Yard as far as wanted—Referred to the Street Committee with instructions to report.

From G. A. Cliff and others, praying for a plank-walk on the west side of Donald street, from Bridge to Thomas street.—Referred to the Street Committee with instructions to report.

From Geo. Lamey, asking reimbursement for damage to his fence, and the use of one of his fields as a roadway during the winter. Seferred to Street Committee with instructions to report.

Mr. James presented the report of the Finance Committee, stating that the East Ward Collector's Roll for 1875 had been carefully examined and found to have been correctly returned. There was a difficulty between the Collector and the Treasurer relative to $50 which had been retained as payment by the former, but which the latter maintained should have been paid in and drawn as salary in the usual way. The amount had been voted to the Collector. The committee asked further time to report upon Dr. Clark's claim.—Received and adopted.

Mr. Cliff presented the Street Committee's 5th pay list, amounting to $120.33, including payment for the cedar stringers purchased.

Mr. James reported that 10 cords of green and dry wood had been purchased on the Market. Since the last meeting 17 loads had been distributed amongst the Poor. The vouchers were deposited and a claim of $2.55 for cartage put in.
The report was received and the claim ordered to be paid.

Mr. Herring presented the report of the Printing Committee, recommending the payment of Ferguson Bros' account for hire, amounting to $240.96. Two sections had been tested and withstood a pressure of 175 lbs. The rest had not been tested. The paper from the Eureka Co. was at the Station in bond. Eight shafes had been purchased at a cost of $1.50. Received and adopted, and the Treasurer instructed to advance the duty on the hose.

MILL POINT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. B. F. Ellis who recently died his injury in the Cedar Mill, was a man of good moral character and high in the esteem of his employer, all sympathize with the bereaved pa-as he was an only son and contributed greatly to their maintenance. B.
member of the Orange Young B.
his brethren took charge of the body buried it under the colors of the Mr. Rathbun shut down the Cedar to allow his brethren and fellow-men to be present at the funeral was largely attended. The service the Rev. Mr. Baker, and the sermon so imposing that not a dry eye was seen in the church. The Young B.
of Mill Point deserve great credit their very respectable attendance at funeral, it shows the esteem our devoted friend was held in by his bre-
The sight was one long to be remembered in the village—how mournful the how short the notice. The brethren Napanee met the corpse at the bu-ground to pay their last tribute, th-showing their appreciation of the lent qualities of the deceased.

At a vestry meeting in the Mc
Church, Chief Sampson Green
Jacob Brant were elected wardens.

Vestry meeting of St. Mark's ec-casion. M. C. Alvin and W. G. were chosen wardens.

A concert is to be given in Rath-Hall on the 10th, under the auspice the Institute at which the Indian is to take part.

A Petition is being circulated for appointment of a police constable salary.

The ice is going out very fast. E.
the tug H. B. Sherwood and St.
Rochester in a few days.

The Big Mill is expected to start first of next week, everything is all right.

One of our young friends expect have a good nights sport in the Hal-failed, not enough coming to pay exp.

Our old friend E. Manns paid short visit, he is looking well.
country must agree with him.

A troupe travelling by the man Blossoms, gave an entertainment in Hall last week, but they were a failshowmen.

A RARE AND UNIQUE PRESE

FOR HIS HOLINESS, THE POPE.

The Catholics of the Province of Itoba, that wild portion of British An-lying north of Minnesota and around Red River of the north, are about to to the Holy Father some very curio-well as valuable presents on the oc-of his Golden Jubilee. These pre-consist of a magnificent bed-rug of elk skin (a very rare and valuable f-small wolf-skin rug, a magnificent p-slippers, and a superb pair of g-made in the fashion of the country with the winter outfit of a missisitting in the north. This on-something very interesting. The rests upon a ground of white cotton, is drawn by three dogs, whose harna miracle of patience, for nothing wanting. On the sled are cooking sils, an axe, and some kettles; on sides, rise, over a closed net-work of bags or pockets, the raw hides use-cover the load, which consists of the sionary's bedding, the linens, etc., fe-altar, and the food for the missiand his dogs. These little bags pockets, which are of a very pretty de-will, this time, be filled with gold
—the fruit of the Easter collection tup in all the churches of the diocess St. Boniface. Behind the sled, holding the guide-rope, comes the sionary with his snow-shoes, his whip in his hand, his lions gait belt of arrows, the machinout stick his rifle, and his food bag.

fall assortment of the very latest designs of plain and fancy Job and News Type, which enables us to compete with any office in the Dominion in all lines of printing, from the smallest card to the largest poster.

The annual Educational Meeting.

In connection with the Methodist Church will be held on Tuesday evening, 10th inst., commencing at 7.30 o'clock. Addresses will be delivered by the Rev. Geo. Douglas, L.L.D., of Montreal, and and W. A. Levee, Esq., M.A., of Napanee.

Downey and Spence.

There is no time like the present for economizing, and parties knowing beforehand where they will be dealt with in a plain straightforward manner, will—after the first trial—be sure to return again. See Ad.

Cricket Meeting.

A meeting was held at the Campbell House on Tuesday, to organize a Cricket Club for the season of 1877. Mr. S. Abrams was appointed secretary, Messrs. T. D. Proulx and Mr. Moore to canvass the town. Meeting adjourned until Monday next.

Juvenile Temple Concert.

A very attractive entertainment will be given in the Town Hall, by the members of the Napanee Juvenile Temple I. O. G. T., which—under the management of Mr. H. V. Fralick, has been in preparation for several weeks, and will certainly be the novelty of the season.

The Sugar Social.

On the 28th ult. in aid of the Methodist Church proved a great success, and must be very gratifying to the projectors, Messrs. Aylworth, Mrs. D. Downey, Mrs. W. F. Hall and Miss Miller. Mrs. I. Hoffman's social will be given in the M. E. Church on Monday next.

W. T. Association.

On Wednesday evening of last week, the following officers were elected and installed for the current term, viz.: A. L. Morden, President; D. McEliever, 1st Vice; C. McCullough, 2nd Vice; J. James Plimley, Recording Secretary; J. E. Fay, Financial Secretary; John Gibbard, Treasurer; J. Richardson, Conductor; John Hearn, Asst. Conductor; E. Wasson, Warden.

Something New on Ice.

Although Jasper's Rink has left for summer quarters, skating is still enjoyed in other places. On the 2nd inst. a Lacrosse Match was played on the Victoria Rink in Montreal, and the almost inconceivable rapidity of the skaters in a run for the opposite goal, their magnificent dodging, almost instantaneous stopping, and the grace of movement made the games one of unusual interest.

Grand Union Social.

The young men of the C. M. & M. E. Churches, have made arrangements to give a grand Union Sugar Social at the Town Hall, on the evening of Monday the 20th inst. In addition to the usual social machine attractions, an exceptionally fine programme of instrumental and vocal music has been provided. The young men intend to make this the social of the season. Proceeds to be divided between the Ladies Aid Societies of the two churches. Doors open at 7.30. Admission as usual.

On his Muscle.

The Newburgh Guardian of the Peace came down on Monday to teach our Chief the art of self-defence. "Having primed himself with 'Blue Glass' he made things lively and handled our whole force as easily as he would shoulder a cord of wood. He was finally overpowered, and left to dream of home and friends, in solitary confinement. The Mayor fined him $1. and $4.70 costs, which, through the generosity of his captors was fraternally refunded. He tenderly bid us adieu, promising to reciprocate our kindness when occasion offered.

the light and blue in colour. In the centre of the oval is an engraving of the Queen's head, and surrounding it the words, "Canada Postage—One cent." The wrapper is twelve inches in length by about five in width, and has a well-gummed edge. They are got up after the manner of those which have been in use in England for some years past.

Three Guineas Reward.

This accustomed bounty from the Queen—which is always forthcoming on the advent of triplets—has been received by many a thrice happy mother in different parts of the Dominion. A case or two around Napanee is known to a few, but the bashfulness of the interested parties has hitherto kept the matter a secret, and which if made public would be the means of opening Her Majesty's purse-strings, to the tune of fifteen dollars and thirty-three cents. An important item these hard times. Who will speak first? and receive the prize money.

An Important Railway Bill.

The ill feeling often arising between conductors and passengers, justifies the passing of Mr. Trow's Railway Bill now before the House of Commons which provides: 1.—That a ticket once sold is good until used. 2.—That no passenger can be put off a train except at a station. 3.—That ticket offices must be open all day, and not only a few minutes before the trains leave. 4.—That tickets must be sold on trains at the regular price. 5.—That no fare can be collected until a passenger is provided with a seat.

Steamboat Fire.

On Thursday morning about 2 a. m. The side-wheel steamer Norfolk—lying at Rathbun's dock on the south side of the river, at the foot of West street—was discovered to be on fire. The schooner David Andrews, was hauled away from her immediate vicinity, and the engine being taken to the river side, directly opposite, commenced playing at 2.30, but a stiff south-east wind, prevented the stream reaching her, there being no danger from her position. She burned almost to the water's edge, when a fire was attached by means of a small boat, and she was hauled within reach of the engine and extinguished at 3 a. m. The Norfolk was owned by Capt. Lewis Collier—about 40 tons register—she has been plying between Napanee and the Bay ports for several years past. Origin of fire unknown. Value $6,500, Insurance about $4,000.

Another Fire.

The peace and quietness always envelopes our town on a day of rest, was abruptly broken on Good Friday at 8.15 p. m., by the startling alarm of fire. Smoke and flames were seen issuing from the second storey of A. C. Davis & Bros., dry-goods store. Our firemen, with most commendable promptitude, had the hose laid across the market, to the rear of the burning building—the steamer in the meantime worked "like a charm"—and the water was turned on at 8.21, exactly six minutes from the first alarm. Two streams, one in the rear, and another in front, completely flooded the three flats, working steadily for twenty minutes, when the fire was extinguished, but to make sure, the streams were continued until 9 o'clock. The fire was discovered in a small room in the south-east corner of the ground flat, in the dress-making department, supposed to have caught from the falling down of a stove, in which a fire had been made to dry the reams, which were cleaned during the day. It communicated to the third flat by a stairway, and thence to the roof which was badly damaged, also the walls, windows &c. Damage to building about $2,000. Goods about $5,000, Insurance on stock $4,300 in Royal, and $3,000 in Queens, Insurance on building $2,000 in Standard, and $3,000 in Imperial. Shortly after the commencement, all goods on the ground floor were removed over the street to Wilson's shoe store. Long retained as payment by the former, but which the latter maintained should have been paid in and drawn as salary in the usual way. The amount had been voted to the Collector. The committee asked further time to report upon Dr. Clark's claim.—Received and adopted.

Mr. Cliff presented the Street Committee's 5th pay list, amounting to $120.33, including payment for the cedar stringers purchased.

Mr. James reported that 10 cords of green and dry wood had been purchased on the Market. Since the last meeting 17 loads had been distributed amongst the poor. The vouchers were deposited and a claim of $2.55 for cartage put in. The report was received and the claim ordered to be paid.

Mr. Herring presented the report of the Printing Committee, recommending the payment of Ferguson Bros., account for those, amounting to $240.96. Two sections had been tested and withstood a pressure of 175 lbs. The rest had not been tried. The paper from the Eureka Co. was at the Station in bond. Eight shafts had been purchased at a cost of $1.50. Received and adopted, and the Treasurer instructed to advance the duty on the hose.

A communication of great length from Allen Pringle was read, asking that a committee be appointed to meet him and settle the claim he held against the town for damages, the validity of which had been established by a recent judgment.

Moved by Mr. Herring sec. by Mr. Fralick, that a committee of three be appointed to consider the request and report at the next meeting of the Council.

Moved by Mr. Herring, sec. by Mr. Fralick, that the committee consists of Messrs. McNeil, Roe and Miller.

Mr. James entered a protest against any one being on that committee who was instrumental in gringing the suit against the town.

Moved in amendment by Mr. McNeil, sec. by Mr. Miller, that Messrs. James, Carscallen and Herring be the committee. Mr. James declined to act, and Mr. Miller's name was substituted for his.

Mr. James moved, sec. by Mr. Joy, that the matter be deferred one week, in order that the Town Solicitor may be consulted.—Carried.

A committee composed of Messrs. Lane, Herring and James was then appointed to consult with W. A. Levee, Esq.

Moved by Mr. Miller, sec. by Mr. Carscallen, that the Council Room be not used for any other purpose than that for which it was constructed.

Mr. Miller, among other things, referred to the use of the Room for a writing school, and for Police courts at which the floors, benches, carpets, &c., were disfigured and spoiled. The motion was lost.

Moved by Mr. Miller, sec. by Mr. Cliff, that the matter of gas be placed in the hands of some persons appointed to see that the Gas Company do furnish the amount of light agreed upon by the Company.

Several members advanced the point that that was the duty of Mr. Miller, as Chairman of the Committee on Town Property and Gas, and the motion was negatived.

Moved by Mr. Roe, sec. by Mr. James, that the matter of the street Gas lamps be referred to the chairman of the Town Property Committee, with instructions to report at the next meeting of the Council.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Lane, sec. by Mr. Roe, that the buoys in the river be placed in proper positions before the navigation opens.—Carried, and instructions given to the Chief of Police to see it done.

The Auditor's accounts, $25 each, were referred to the Finance Committee. The quarterly salaries were ordered to be paid. The gas bills, $8.10 for the Council Room, &c., and $4.20 for the Town Hall, were sent to the Gas Committee with power to act. T. H. Waller's balance of account $22.25 was referred to on Town Property Committee.

Moved by Mr. James, sec. by Mr. Herring, that the committee on Gas as to the Holy Father some very curious well as valuable presents on the occasion of his Golden Jubilee. These presents consist of a magnificent bed-rug of black skin (a very rare and valuable fur), a small wolf-skin rug, a magnificent pair of gloves, and a superb pair of gloves, all in the fashion of the country, together with the winter outfit of a missionary travelling in the north. This outfit something very interesting. The rests upon a ground of white cotton, is drawn by three dogs, whose harness, a matter of patience, for nothing wanting. On the sled are cooking stoves, an axe, and some kettles; on sides, rise, over a closed net-work of bags or pockets, the raw hides used to cover the load, which consists of the missionary's bedding, the linens, etc., for altar, and the food for the mission and his do's. These little bags, pockets, which are of a very pretty design, this time, be filled with gold pills—the fruit of the Easter collection taken up in all the churches of the diocese St. Boniface. Behind the sled, holding the guide-rope, comes the missionary with his snow-shoes, his whip in his hand, his bins girt with belt of arrows, the machinout stuck his girdle, and his cow drawn over eyes. All this equipage is contained within a space nearly three feet long and six inches wide. Notwithstanding the smooth-polished surface of the Great Slave Lake can be seen in the distance and beyond this, at the other extremity of the sea of ice, rises a Papal flag, on which are two appropriate inscriptions. The furs, the harness of the dogs, the gloves and the shoes, are all yellow and white the Pope's colors.

BARE-FACED ROBBERY OF A CANADIAN.

One of the most barefaced robberies on record was perpetrated last week by Mr. Jas. Sellars, formerly of Mitle who had lately been living in the United States. Being dissatisfied with the country, he sold out and was returning to his old home in Mitchell, when told in conversation on the train with well-dressed man, who proposed to change him gold for American money. Sellars counted out exactly $420, but every cent in his possession. A stranger put his hand in his pocket produced some $300 in gold, but afterwards put it back saying, "I have not enough on me, but I have plenty the next car. You let me have the bag and here's a cheque which you can use as security until I go and fetch the gold. Sellars having no thought that a robbery was being attempted, gave his new acquaintance the $420, and took afterwards turned out to be a barefaced cheque as security. The man moaned to the next car apparently for the gold, but he would be back in a minute, as he did not soon return, Sellars began to feel uneasy and mentioned the matter to the conductor, who on enquiry, for that the fellow had jumped off the train some few minutes before. The feel of Mr. Sellars, on learning the true state of affairs, may well be imagined. Not two years ago his earnings were in moment gone, and himself and his left among strangers without a cent to carry them to their destination. A claimant, who witnessed the whole, moved to sympathy for the unfortunate took up a collection in their behalf, succeeded in raising about $30, which under the circumstances, was gratefully accepted. Mr. Sellars is now in Mitle and sorely feels his heavy loss. Although in years, he will have to go to work and begin life almost afresh.

BRIGHAM YOUNG JR. IN THE FIELD.

The rumor that Brigham Young, Jr. to plant a colony of 500 Mormons in the Mexican State of Sonora is not improbable. Last spring a reconnaissance made by agents of the Mormon project into Arizona with the avowed purpose of fixing some permanent settlements there and a number of families from Utah since settled in that territory. There were a number of Mormon settlements

Mr. H. V. Fralick, has been in preparation for several weeks, and will certainly be the royalty of the season.

The Sugar Social.

On the 28th ult. in aid of the Methodist Church proved a great success, and must be very gratifying to the projectors, Mrs. Aylworth, Mrs. D. Downey, Mrs. W. F. Hall and Miss Miller. Mrs. I. Hoffman's social will be given in the M. E. Church on Monday next.

W. T. Association.

On Wednesday evening of last week, the following officers were elected and installed for the current term, viz.: A. L. Morden, President; D. Mciever, 1st Vice; C. McCullough, 2nd Vice; de; James Penning, Recording Secretary; J. Fy, Finance; de; John Gibbard, Treasurer; J. McKee, Conductor; John Hearn, Asst. Conductor; E. Wasson, Warden.

Something New on Ice.

Although Jasper's Rink has left for summer quarters, skating is still enjoyed in other places. On the 2nd inst. a Lacross Match was played on the Victoria Rink in Montreal, and the almost inconceivable rapidity of the skaters in a run for the opposite goal, their magnificent dodging, almost instantaneous stopping, and the grace of movement made the game one of unusual interest.

Grand Union Social.

The young men of the C. M. & M. E. Churches, have made arrangements to give a grand Union Social at the Town Hall, on the evening of Monday the 9th inst. In addition to the usual social attractions, an exceptionally fine programme of instrumental and vocal music has been provided. The young men intend to make this the social of the season. Proceeds to be divided between the Ladies Aid Societies of the two churches. Doors open at 7:30. Admission as usual.

On his Muscle

The Newburgh Guardian of the Peace, came down on Monday to teach our Chief the art of self-defence. "Having primed himself with 'Blue Glass' he made things lively and handled our whole force as easily as he would shoulder a cord of wood. He was finally overpowered, and left to dream of home and friends, in solitary confinement. The Mayor fined him $4, and $4.70 costs, which, through the generosity of his captors was fraternally refunded. He tenderly bid us adieu, promising to reciprocate our kindness when occasion offered.

The Cold Water Cure

Two or three prominent temperance men of means were lately seen examining the Tiechborne House very closely. An enquiry elicited the fact, that there is a strong probability of its being bought and changed into a first class temperance hotel, with all the necessary accommodations. Inuding a restaurant, and a free lunch, reading and smoking rooms, with a charge for tobacco and pipes. Outsiders will be taxed a small sum for yard-room and stabling. It may pay, and it may not, time will show.

Navigation Notes.

The fine steamer Oswego Belle was on Monday removed from her moorings to Downey's wharf, preparatory to a complete overhauling for the coming season. She is as fine a craft as floats on our waters, and will doubtless receive the patronage she so well deserves. The fast sailing steamer Armenia which has been purchased by Bill Johnson of Pictou, will run on the Belleville route, leaving Pictou in the morning and returning in the evening. The Shannon is having her boiler repaired, and the Empress of India her machinery raised to give increased speed. The steamers Rochester, (now being overhauled at Pictou), Shannon, Norfolk, Ultona, and Alexandria will ply on the Bay of Quinte the same as last year.

sort on trains at the regular price. 5--That no fare can be collected until a passenger is provided with a seat."

Steamboat Fire.

On Thursday morning about 2 a. m. The side wheel steamer Norfolk—lying at Rathbun's Dock on the south side of the river, at the foot of West street—was discovered to be on fire. The schooner David Andrews, was hauled away from her mooring in the vicinity, and the Engine being taken to the river side, directly opposite, commenced playing at 2:30, but a stiff south-east wind, prevented the stream reaching her, there being no danger from her position, she burned almost to the water's edge, when a fire was attached by means of a small boat, and she was hauled within reach of the engine and extinguished at 3 a. m. The Norfolk was owned by Capt. Lewis Collier—about 40 tons register—she has been plying between Napanee and the Bay ports for several years past. Origin of fire unknown. Value $6,500, Insurance about $1,000.

Another Fire.

The peace and quietness that always envelopes our town on a day of rest, was abruptly broken on Good Friday at 8:15 p. m., by the startling alarm of fire. Smoke and flames were seen issuing from the second storey of A. C. Davis & Bros., dry-goods store. Our firemen, with most commendable promptitude, had the hose laid across the market, to the rear of the burning building—the steamer in the meantime worked "like a charm"—and the water was turned on at 8:21, exactly six minutes from the first alarm. Two streams, one in the rear, and another in front, completely flooded the three flats, working steadily for twenty minutes, when the fire was extinguished, but to make sure, the streams were continued until 9 o'clock. The fire was discovered in a small room in the south-east corner of the ground flat, in the dress-making department, supposed to have caught from the falling down of a stove, in which a fire had been made to dry the rooms, which were cleaned during the day. It communicated to the third flat by a stairway, and thence to the roof which was badly damaged, also the walls, windows &c. Damage to building about $2,000, Goods about $5,000, Insurance on stock $4,000 in Royal, and $3,000 in Queens, Insurance on building $2,000 in Standard, and $3,000 in Imperial. Shortly after the commencement, all goods on the ground floor were removed over the street to Wilson's shoe store, being slightly damaged by the removal. The occupants of stores on either side were compelled to lock their doors owing to the excessive smoke, which, together with the fire and water, completely baffled all attempts to remove goods from the second and third flats, and the large stock of carpets, millinery, and fixtures was a total loss. As the fire progressed appeared on the scene where it came from, or how it got there, no one knows—but through the combined efforts of sixteen men at the bottom, and as many on the roof, with the assistance of a rope, and an unusual display of science and muscle, it was finally raised to the third story window, where it remained until Saturday evening, a standing monument of our unexhausted timber limits.

A SMOKEY LADDER

THE "MAN IN THE MOON"

selected a cloudy night for playing his usual trick, of putting out the gas-lights and disappearing over Robin's Hill. His place being supplied by a Jack-o-the-lantern, whose coal-oil reflector was finally extinguished by two well-directed streams coming through from the rear of the building, deluging that unfortunate individual, together with the crowd of spectators on the opposite side of the street. After all was over, the tank at the Engine House was filled from the canal, a precaution which is never neglected.

Let, that a committee of three be appointed to consider the request and report at the next meeting of the Council.

Moved by Mr. Herring, sec. by Mr. Fralick, that the committee consists of Messrs. McNeil, Roe and Miller.

Mr. James entered a protest against any one being on that committee who was instrumental in gringing the suit against the town.

Moved in amendment by Mr. McNeil, sec. by Mr. Miller, that Messrs. James, Carscadden and Herring be the committee. Mr. James declined to act, and Mr. Miller's name was substituted for his.

Mr. James moved, sec. by Mr. Joy, that the matter be deferred one week, in order that the Town Solicitor may be consulted.—Carried.

A committee composed of Messrs. Lane, Herring and James was then appointed to consult with W. A. Reeve, Esq.

Moved by Mr. Miller, sec. by Mr. Carscadden, that the Council Room be not used for any other purpose than that for which it was constructed.

Mr. Miller, among other things, referred to the use of the Room for a writing school, and for Police courts at which the floors, benches, carpets, &c., were disfigured and spoiled. The motion was lost.

Moved by Mr. Miller, sec. by Mr. Olin, that the matter of gas be placed in the hands of some persons appointed to see that the Gas Company do furnish the amount of light agreed upon by the Company.

Several councillors advanced the point that that was the duty of Mr. Miller, as Chairman of the Committee on Town Property and Gas, and the motion was negatived.

Moved by Mr. Roe, sec. by Mr. James, that the matter of the Green Gas lamps be referred to the chairman of the Town Property Committee, with instructions to report at the next meeting of the Council.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Lane, sec. by Mr. Roe, that the buoys in the river be placed in proper positions before the navigation opens.—Carried, and instructions given to the Chief of Police to see it done.

The Auditor's accounts, $25 each, were referred to the Finance Committee. The quarterly salaries were ordered to be paid. The gas bills, $8.10 for the Council Room, &c., and $4.20 for the Town Hall, were sent to the Gas Committee with power to act. T. H. Waller's balance of account $22.25 was referred to on Town Property Committee.

Moved by Mr. James, sec. by Mr. Herring, that the committee on Gas ascertain the amount of gas consumed per hour in the Town Hall, and that all parties using it be charged in addition to the usual fee, for the gas consumed.

Moved by Mr. Roe, sec. by Mr. Lane, that the Chief of Police prosecute immediately any party not having paid the billiard license.—Carried.

The Council adjourned.

THE LOCOMOTIVE BROTHERHOOD.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 29.—The Manager of the Reading railway has issued a circular to the locomotive engineers employed by the Company, declaring that all who wish to retain employment must withdraw from the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. The Company offers to endow a life and accident insurance fund for the engineers, so that they may lose nothing by leaving the Brotherhood.

April 1.—A general strike is imminent on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad in consequence of an order issued to the employees to sever their connection with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. To-day a secret meeting of engineers was held at which over 150 members were present. There was a determination—not expressed by vote however—to remain in the Brotherhood at all hazards. The Reading officials say they are prepared for any emergency.

of the set of ice rises a Papal flag, on which are two appropriate inscriptions: T furs, the harness of the dogs, the glove and the gloves, are all yellow and white the Pope's colors.

BARE-FACED ROBBERY OF A CANDIAN.

One of the most barefaced robberies on record was perpetrated last week. Mr. Jas Sellers, formerly of Mitchell who had lately been living in Iowa United States. Being dissatisfied with the country, he sold out and was returning to his old home in Mitchell, when he fell into conversation on the train with a well-dressed man, who proposed to exchange him gold for American money. Sellers counted out exactly $420, but every cent in his possession. The stranger put his hand in his pocket and produced some $800 in gold, but afterwards put it back saying, "I have not enough on me, but I have plenty the next car. You let me have the bill and here's a cheque which you can have as security until I go and fetch the gold. Sellers having no thought that a robbery was being attempted, gave his new acquaintance the $420, and took with afterwards turned out to be a bogus cheque as security. The man moved to the next car apparently for the gold, saying he would be back in a minute, but as he did not soon return, Sellers began to feel uneasy and mentioned the matter to the conductor, who on enquiry, found that the fellow had jumped off the train some few minutes before. The feeling of Mr. Sellers, on learning the true state of affairs, may well be imagined. Near two years' hard earnings were in a moment gone, and himself and his wife left among strangers without a cent to carry them to their destination. A clergyman, who witnessed the whole affair, moved to sympathy for the unfortunate took up a collection in their behalf, succeeded in raising about $30, which under the circumstances, was gratefully accepted. Mr. Sellers is now in Mitchell and sorely feels his heavy loss. Although up in years, he will have to go to work and begin life almost afresh.

BRIGHAM YOUNG JR. IN THE FIELD

The rumor that Brigham Young, Jr., to plant a colony of 500 Mormons in the Mexican State of Sonora is not improbable. Last spring a reconnaissance was made by agents of the Mormon people into Arizona with the avowed purpose of fixing some permanent settlements and a number of families from Utah have since settled in that territory. There now a chain of Mormon villages extending from Bear River south-westward to Arizona. It has long been foreseen by the leaders that the resources of Utah are insufficient to sustain so large a population as their hopes and ambition led them to anticipate, even in the present generation. They must have more room. The bleak and barren region to the north of Salt Lake presents no inducement, the south offers good climate, rich soil and abundance of water and timber.

THE RECENT CHINESE MASSACRE

Chico despatches to San Francisco states that the Council of Nine of the Labor Union is responsible for the recent outrages, and that the Council order other crimes which failed of accomplishment. All the members of the Council are under arrest. The oath to members of the Labor Union commands secret assistance of members, and aid in executing the United States laws. There is a degree in the Order to which the oath is as follows: "I swear before God Almighty that I will carry out and obey all orders of the Council of Nine, whatever they may be; if I do not do so my life is forfeited, and I may be put to death this Council of Nine." It is asserted that the Order in Sacramento and San Jose works on the same principles. The feeling continues very intense, and people are nervous and excited over the situation.

C. Methodist Church.

The Rev. Mr. Allen of Kingston, will preach next Sunday morning and evening.

Practical Joking—"All Fools Day."

Even a due regard for the Sabbath seems to be no hindrance in the way of those practical jokers, who let no opportunity slip for exciting the risibilities of themselves and their friends, at the expense of their unsuspecting victims. The following laughable "sell" was perpetrated on a dear old lady living in our suburbs, one who had raised a large family, and whose well known kindness of heart, made her a fit subject for the joke in question. On Sunday morning as people were going to church, an infantile wail of distress was heard on her doorstep, in a flurry of excitement, she rushed out followed by her grown-up daughters, and discovered a carefully made bundle about two feet in length, from which proceeded—as she thought—the smothered cries of a child. Quickly undoing fold after fold, amid the ejaculations of pity from a dozen or two female spectators—out jumps a large Maltese kitten, accompanied by loud shouts of laughter, the first intimation the good old soul received, of "The first of April."

TOWN COUNCIL.

A regular meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday night, the following.

PETITIONS WERE PRESENTED.

From Capt. of Fire Brigade, asking the Council to purchase ten water-proof coats for the company—Referred to the Fire and Water Committee with instructions to act.

From B. Briggs and others, praying for a plank-walk on Pearl street, from Center st along the south side of Rathbun's Lumber Yard as far as wanted—Referred to the Street Committee with instructions to report.

From G. A. Cliff and others, praying for a plank-walk on the west side of Donald street, from Bridge to Thomas street.—Referred to the Street Committee with instructions to report.

From Geo. Lamey, asking reimbursement for damage to his fence, and the use of one of his fields as a roadway during the winter. Referred to Street Committee with instructions to report.

Mr. James presented the report of the Finance Committee, stating that the East Ward Collector's Roll for 1875 had been carefully examined and found to have been correctly returned. There was a difficulty between the Collector and the Treasurer relative to $50 which had been retained as payment by the former, but which the latter maintained should have been paid in and drawn as salary in the usual way. The amount had been voted to the Collector. The committee asked further time to report upon Dr. Clark's claim.—Received and adopted.

Mr. Cliff presented the Street Committee's 5th pay list, amounting to $120.33, including payment for the cedar stringers purchased.

Mr. James reported that 10 cords of green and dry wood had been purchased on the Market. Since the last meeting 17 loads had been distributed amongst the poor. The vouchers were deposited and a claim of $2.55 for cartage put in. The report was received and the claim ordered to be paid.

Mr. Herring presented the report of the Printing Committee, recommending the payment of Ferguson Bros. account of $240.96. Two sections had been tested and withstood a pressure of 175 lbs. The rest had not been married. The page from the Eureka was at the station in bond. Eight lifts had been purchased at a cost of $50. Received and adopted, and the

MILL POINT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. B. F. Ellis who recently died from his injury in the Cedar Mill, was a young man of good moral character and stood high in the esteem of his employer. We all sympathize with the bereaved parents as he was an only son and contributed greatly to their maintenance. Being a member of the Orange Young Britons his brethren took charge of the body and buried it under the colors of the Order. Mr. Rathbun shut down the Cedar Mill to allow his brethren and fellow workmen to be present at the funeral which was largely attended. The services by the Rev. Mr. Baker, and the sermon were so imposing that not a dry eye was to be seen in the church. The Young Britons of Mill Point deserve great credit for their very respectable attendance at the funeral, it shows the esteem our departed young friend was held in by his brethren. The sight was one long to be remembered in the village—how mournful the death how short the notice. The brethren of Napanee met the corpse at the burying ground to pay their last tribute, thereby showing their appreciation of the excellent qualities of the deceased.

At a vestry meeting in the Molaw Church, Chief Sampson Green and Jacob Brant were elected wardens.

Vestry meeting of St. Mark's congregation. M. C. Alvin and W. G. Eggar were chosen wardens.

A concert is to be given in Rathbun's Hall on the 10th, under the auspices of the Institute at which the Indian Band is to take part.

A Petition is being circulated for the appointment of a police constable under salary.

The Ice is going out very fast. Expect the tug H. B. Sherwood and steamer Rochester in a few days.

The Big Mill is expected to start the first of next week, everything is all ready.

One of our young friends expected to have a good night's sport in the Hall, but failed, not enough coming to pay expenses.

Our old friend E. Manns paid us a short visit, he is looking well. The country must agree with him.

A troupe travelling by the name of Blossoms, gave an entertainment in the Hall last week, but they were a failure as showmen.

A RARE AND UNIQUE PRESENT

FOR HIS HOLINESS, THE POPE.

The Catholics of the Province of Manitoba, that wild portion of British America lying north of Minnesota and around the Red River of the north, are about to send to the Holy Father some very curious as well as valuable presents on the occasion of his Golden Jubilee. These presents consist of a magnificent bed-rug of black elk skin (a very rare and valuable fur), a small wolf-skin rug, a magnificent pair of slippers, and a superb pair of gloves, made in the fashion of the country, together with the winter outfit of a missionary travelling in the north. This outfit is something very interesting. The sled sits upon a ground of white cotton, and is drawn by three dogs, whose harness is an article of patience, for nothing is wanting. On the sled are cooking utensils, an axe, and some kettles. On the sides, rise, over a closed net-work of little bags or pockets, the raw hides used to cover the load, which consists of the missionary's bedding, the linens, etc., for the altar, and the food for the missionary and his dogs. These little bags, or pockets, which are of a very pretty design, will, this time, be filled with gold pieces—the fruit of the Easter collection taken up in all the churches of the diocese of St. Boniface. Behind the sled, and holding the guide-rope, comes the missionary with his snow shoes, his long

TEMPERANCE MOVEMENTS IN THE STATES.

A Pennsylvanian correspondent writes with a good deal of enthusiasm about the great good that is being accomplished in the cause of temperance by the labors of one Murphy, who, it seems, is carrying all before him in Pittsburgh and the surrounding country. This Mr. Murphy, it further appears, is a native of Ireland, who was at one time the proprietor of a large hotel in the States, but through intemperance sank down to be keeper of a low saloon. In putting a drunken man out of his place Murphy was so rough and inflicted so much injury that the man died, and as a consequence Murphy got three years in the penitentiary. In prison he was brought under the influence of religion, and came forth with the intension of doing all he could to advance the cause of temperance. He has been very successful in the work—more than one hundred thousand persons, it is alleged, having through his influence become total abstainers. It is a notable fact that some of Mr. Murphy's most efficient helpers are those who were tavern-keepers till he persuaded them to abandon the traffic. One feature in his mode of operation is worth noting, and many speakers on total abstinence would be all the better for acting on the same principle. He has no harsh words for the liquor dealer, but treats him in a friendly, conciliatory manner, so as, if possible, to induce him to give up his business and take the pledge. In this he is worthy of all commendation. We have no great admiration of reformed drunkards parading their past sins, and even magnifying the greatness of their wickedness, in order to attract increasing attention and fill people with wonder and admiration. At the same time, it is quite possible that such persons may do a great amount of good when once thoroughly changed, and Mr. Murphy seems to be one of that class.—Globe.

CANADA'S RELATIONS WITH ENGLAND.

MR. GOLDWIN SMITH REPUDIATED.

London, March 31.—The Daily Telegraph, in an editorial discusses Mr. Goldwin Smith's Fortnightly Review manifesto. It says that his judgment is rendered important by the high character of his intellectual attainments. Nevertheless the Telegraph sees nothing in the difficulties with which Canada has to contend to warrant the gloomy view and bold, unwelcome words used by Mr. Smith. It disagrees with Mr. Smith's estimate of Canada's commercial importance to land.

The Telegraph goes on to say:—"The demand for grain, timber and petroleum from the Dominion is destined to have an indefinite expansion, while the consignments of live and dead cattle to this country (England) bid fair to transcend all the other exported commodities. Even if Canadian duties should remain stationary, they do not oppose obstacles to Canada's commercial relations with Great Britain so formidable as those caused by the tariff adopted by the United States. On the other hand, should the statesmen of the Dominion ever expound the principles of Free Trade, towards which they happily evidence a manifest leaning, Canada will furnish a more important market for British wares than at any previous period. We are under no apprehension that either annexation to or union with the United States is near, as the people of the Dominion rank among the most loyal of our colonies, and betray not even the faintest wish for the severance of their connection with the British Crown. They warmly appreciate the prestige and security they enjoy as subjects of Great Britain, and we are convinced that they would be as loth to part with their connection with the United Kingdom as we are with ours."

CANADA'S SUPREME COURT.

A correspondent of the N. Y. Times gives his impressions of our Supreme Court judges on the day the Court gave judgment in the Charlevoix election case. He says, "It was a State occasion; in other words, judgment day, and a full bench was in session. There are six of them, splendid looking men, intellectually and physically, but if one did not know they were the exponents of the supreme law of the land, the first impression would be that they had stepped out of a carnival ball and left their masks behind. In other words, they follow the old English custom of wearing long red gowns, with collars and cuffs of ermine, and belted at the waist by a broad black band. The exception to the general rule is in the absence of the official wig, and it is only the aspect of honest English faces and splendid heads, such as a phrenologist would delight to handle, that in part compensates for the ridiculous character of the costume." After referring to the judgment he pays us the following compliment: "There are no people in the world who are more jealous of their prerogatives, more careful in guarding the purity of their elections, more impartial in deciding the honor of a public servant, or more determined to exact in the fullest measure the performance of a public duty these self-same Canadians. A gentleman said to me the other day, 'In the States you try men; here we try crimes.' This sentence tells us the whole story of a pure, high-toned, responsible Government."

ELECTRICITY! THOMAS' EXCELSIOR ELECTRIC OIL!—WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.—Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures catarrh asthma and croup. Fifty cents' worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most sceptical: J. Collard, of Sparta, Ont., writes, "Send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, have sold all I had from you, and want more now; it cures are truly wonderful." Wm. McGuire, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agents left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendid now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "Please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Electric Oil, I am nearly out, nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes, "Send at once a further supply of Electric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well and give general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford writes, "Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reid, Uxvorton, P. Q., writes, "The Electric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. Thomas is on the wrapper, and the name of Northrop and Lyman are blown in the bottle, and "Take no other." Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cents. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE.—ELECTRIC—Selected and Electrized.

BORN.

BELLETT.—At Mill Point on the 2nd inst., the wife of A. Bellelt of a daughter.

COLLINS.—At Mill Point on the 3rd inst., the wife of Henry Collins of a son.

EMBURY.—On Tuesday, 3rd., the wife of Mr. W. A. Embury, of a daughter.

RUSSELL.—At Napanee, on the 29th ult., the wife of Mr. Jas. Russell, of a son.

MARRIED.

KELLAR—FLEMING.—At the residence of the bride's mother, on the 29th ult., by the Rev. R. W. Leitch, Mr. Thomas Derline Kellar to Miss

so of one of his fields as a roadway during the winter. Referred to Street Committee with instructions to report.

Mr. James presented the report of the Finance Committee, stating that the East Ward Collector's Roll for 1875 had been carefully examined and found to have been correctly returned. There was a difficulty between the Collector and the reasurer relative to $50 which had been retained as payment by the former, but which the latter maintained should have been paid in and drawn as salary in the usual way. The amount had been voted to the Collector. The committee asked other time to report upon Dr. Clark's aim.—Received and adopted.

Mr. Cliff presented the Street Committee's 5th pay list, amounting to $120.33, including payment for the cedar stringers purchased.

Mr. James reported that 10 cords of oak and dry wood had been purchased at the Market. Since the last meeting loads had been distributed amongst the poor. The vouchers were deposited at a claim of $2.55 for cartage put in. The report was received and the claim ordered to be paid.

Mr. Herring presented the report of the Printing Committee, recommending a payment of Ferguson Bros' account of $240.96. Two sections had been tested and withstood a pressure of 175 lbs. The rest had not been married. The page from the Eureka was at the Station in hand. Eight ads had been purchased at a cost of $50. Received and adopted, and the reasurer instructed to advance the duty the hose.

A communication of great length from len Pringle was read, asking that a committee be appointed to meet him and file the claim he held against the town damages, the validity of which had been established by a recent judgment. Moved by Mr. Herring, sec. by Mr. Frail, that a committee of three be appointed to consider the request and report at a next meeting of the Council.

Moved by Mr. Herring, sec. by Mr. Frail, that the committee consists of Messrs. McNeil, Roe and Miller.

Mr. James entered a protest against any one being on that committee who was instrumental in gringing the suit against a town.

Moved in amendment by Mr. McNeil, c. by Mr. Miller, that Messrs. James, Herring and Herring be the committee. Mr. James declined to act, and Mr. Miller's name was substituted for his.

Mr. James moved, sec. by Mr. Joy, at the matter be deferred one week, in order that the Town Solicitor may be consulted.—Carried.

A committee composed of Messrs. me, Herring and James was then appointed to consult with W. A. Reeve, Esq.

Moved by Mr. Miller, sec. by Mr. Carlsen, that the Council Room be not used for any other purpose than that for which it was constructed.

Mr. Miller, among other things, referred to the use of the Room for a writing hool, and for Police courts at which floors, benches, carpets, &c., were squandered and spoiled. The motion was st.

Moved by Mr. Miller, sec. by Mr. Cliff, at the matter of gas be placed in the hands of some persons appointed to see at the Gas Company do furnish the amount of light agreed upon by the Committee.

Several members advanced the point at that was the duty of Mr. Miller, as chairman of the Committee on Town property and Gas, and the motion was granted.

Moved by Mr. Roe, sec. by Mr. James, at the matter of the Green Gas lamps referred to the chairman of the Town property Committee, with instructions to report at the next meeting of the Council.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Lane, sec. by Mr. Roe, at the buoys in the river be placed in proper positions before the navigation opens.—Carried, and instructions given the Chief of Police to see it done.

The Auditor's accounts, $25 each, were

A RARE AND UNIQUE PRESENT

FOR HIS HOLINESS, THE POPE.

The Catholics of the Province of Manitoba, that wild portion of British America lying north of Minnesota and around the Red River of the north, are about to send to the Holy Father some very curious as well as valuable presents on the occasion of his Golden Jubilee. These presents consist of a magnificent bed-rug of black elk skin (a very rare and valuable fur), a small wolf-skin rug, a magnificent pair of slippers, and a superb pair of gloves, made in the fashion of the country, together with the winter outfit of a missionary travelling in the north. This outfit is something very interesting. The sled is upon a ground of white cotton, and is drawn by three dogs, whose harness is a miracle of patience, for nothing is wanting. On the sled are cooking utensils, an axe, and some kettles, on the sides, rise, over a closed net-work of little bags or pockets, the raw hides used to cover the load, which consists of the missionary's bedding, the linens, etc., for the altar, and the food for the missionary and his dogs. These little bags, or pockets, which are of a very pretty design, will, this time, be filled with gold pieces—the fruit of the Easter collection taken up in all the churches of the diocese of St. Boniface. Behind the sled, and holding the guide-rope, comes the missionary with his snow-shoes, his long whip in his hand, his long girt with a belt of arrows, the machinout stuck in his girdle, and his cowl drawn over his eyes. All this equipment is contained within a space nearly three feet long and six inches wide. Notwithstanding this, the smooth-polished surface of the Great Slave Lake can be seen in the distance; and beyond this, at the other extremity of the sea of ice, rises a Papal flag, on which are two appropriate inscriptions. The furs, the harness of the dogs, the gloves and the shoes, are all yellow and white, the Pope's colors.

BARE-FACED ROBBERY OF A CANADIAN.

One of the most barefaced robberies on record was perpetrated last week on Mr. Jas. Sellers, formerly of Mitchell, who had lately been living in Iowa, United States. Being dissatisfied with the country, he sold out and was returning to his old home in Mitchell, when he fell into conversation on the train with a well-dressed man, who proposed to exchange him gold for American money. Sellers counted out exactly $420, being every cent in his possession. The stranger put his hand in his pocket and produced some $300 in gold, but afterwards put it back saying, "I have not not enough on me, but I have plenty in the next car. You let me have the bills, and here's a cheque which you can hold as security until I go and fetch the gold." Sellers having no thought that a robbery was being attempted, gave his new made acquaintance the $420, and took what afterwards turned out to be a bogus cheque as security. The man moved to the next car apparently for the gold, saying he would be back in a minute, but as he did not soon return, Sellers began to feel uneasy and mentioned the matter to the conductor, who on enquiry, found that the fellow had jumped off the train some few minutes before. The feelings of Mr. Sellers, on learning the true state of affairs, may well be imagined. Nearly two years' hard earnings were in a moment gone, and himself and his wife left among strangers without a cent to carry them to their destination. A clergyman, who witnessed the whole affair, moved to sympathy for the unfortunates, took up a collection in their behalf, and succeeded in raising about $30, which, under the circumstances, was gratefully accepted. Mr. Sellers is now in Mitchell and sorely feels his heavy loss. Although up in years, he will have to go to work and begin life almost afresh.

BRIGHTMAN YOUNG JR. IN THE FIELD.

tedio. It says that his judgment is rendered important by the high character of his intellectual attainments. Nevertheless the Telegraph sees nothing in the difficulties with which Canada has to contend to warrant the gloomy view and bold, unwelcome words used by Mr. Smith. It disagrees with Mr. Smith's estimate of Canada's commercial importance to land.

The Telegraph goes on to say:—"The demand for grain, timber and petroleum from the Dominion is destined to have an indefinite expansion, while the consignments of live and dead cattle to this country (England) bid fair to transcend all the other exported commodities. Even if Canadian duties should remain stationary, they do not oppose obstacles to Canada's commercial relations with Great Britain so formidable as those caused by the tariff adopted by the United States. On the other hand, should the statesmen of the Dominion ever expose the principles of Free Trade, towards which they happily evidence a manifest leaning, Canada will furnish a more important market for British wares than at any previous period. We are under no apprehension that either annexation or union with the United States is near, as the people of the Dominion rank among the most loyal of our colonies, and betray not even the faintest wish for the severance of their connection with the British Crown. They warmly appreciate the prestige and security they enjoy as subjects of Great Britain, and we are convinced that they would be as loth to part with the Mother Country as she would be to lose them."

CANADIAN AND BRITISH TARS.

AND AMERICAN GRATITUDE.

The Minister of Marine in Canada, has received from President Grant a handsome gold watch for presentation to Captain Spence, of Goderich, of the schooner Nemesis, for saving the lives of the crew of the propeller New York, in October last. The watch is a stem-winder, with the following inscription:—"Presented by the President of the United States to Captain Spence, of the Canadian schooner Nemesis, for his exertions in saving life on the American propeller New York." The Captain has been notified of the receipt of the gift, and is reasonably proud of this recognition of his brave act.

Captain W. H. Thompson of the National Line steam-ship England, has been presented with a gold watch and chain by the Liverpool Local Marine Board. The gift was made on behalf of the American government, and was for services rendered in rescuing the captain and crew of the American schooner Midlex, and for having taken certain American passengers from the French mail steamer St. Germain. In the latter case the steamer had lost her rudder during heavy weather, and after all her passengers were transferred to the England, the latter took the disabled steamer in tow and brought her to St. John's, a distance of about 150 miles. Both rescues were effected in September last while the England was on a voyage from Liverpool to New York, and they necessitated the lowering of boats and going through rough seas.

Canadian Pilgrims For Rome.

The New York Herald gives the following as the programme to be carried out by the committee appointed to receive the Canadian pilgrims on their arrival in New York, from which city they are to embark for Europe:—"The Canadian pilgrims, who are principally laymen, will leave Montreal on the 19th of April, and will arrive here on Friday, the 26th, at seven in the morning, and proceed to a hotel in Broadway. On the day of their arrival a steamboat will be chartered, and, in company with a number of the prominent Catholic citizens of this city, they will be taken down the Bay, and to some of the public institutions on the islands. In the evening a reception will take place. On the following day (Saturday) the pilgrims will attend the celebration of mass at an early wonderful." Wm. McGuire, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agents left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendid now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "Please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Electric Oil, I am nearly out, nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes, "Send at once a further supply of Electric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well and give general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford writes, "Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reid, Ulverton, P. Q., writes, "The Electric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

Beware of Imitations.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the name of Northrop and Lyman are blown in the bottle, and "Take no other." Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cts. NOR THROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE.—ELECTRIC—Selected and Electrized.

BORN.

BULLETT.—At Mill Point on the 2nd inst., the wife of A. Bullett of a daughter.
COLLINS.—At Mill Point on the 3rd inst., the wife of Henry Collins of a son.
EMERY.—On Tuesday, 3rd., the wife of Mr. W. A. Emery, of a daughter.
RUSSELL.—At Napanee, on the 20th ult., the wife of Mr. Jas. Russell, of a son.

MARRIED.

KELLAR—FLEMING—At the residence of the bride's mother, on the 29th ult., by the Rev. R. W. Leitch, Mr. Thomas Derrine Kellar to Miss Annie Fleming, all of Camden.

DIED.

BREAUGH.—At Mill Point on the 1st inst., of consumption, the wife of Michael Breaugh.
SWITZER.—In Switzerville, on the 3rd inst., Christopher M. Switzer, aged 43 years and 10 months.
HEWSON.—At Frnestown Station, on Saturday, the 31st ult., Jennie, only daughter of Mr. Jas. Hewson, aged 3 years, 8 months, and 13 days.
PHILIPS.—At Morven, on 28th ult., Mr. John Philips, aged—years.

NAPANEE MARKETS.

"EXPRESS OFFICE,"
Friday, April 6th, 77.

Barley—50c.
Wheat—$1.25.
Oats—50c.
Rye—60c. to 65c.
Peas—70c. to 72c.
Buckwheat—75c. to 80c.
Wheat Flour—$3.00 to $3.40 retail.
Hay—$11.00 to $12.00 per ton.
Hides—$3.00 to $5.00.
Onions—80c. to $1.00 per bushel.
Butter—23c. to 25c. per lb.
Eggs—10c. to 12c. per dozen.
Lamb and Pelts—$1.00 to $1.25.
Apples—80c. to $1.20 per bag.
Potatoes—$1.00 to $1.20 per bag.
Chickens—30c. to 40c. per pair.
Geese—50c. to 60c. each.
Ducks—40c. to 50c. per brace.
Turkeys—50c. to $1.00, each.
Wood hard—$2.50 to $3.00 per cord.
Soft—$1.50 to $2.00.
Beef per cwt.—$5.00 to $7.00.
Pork " "—$7.00 to $7.50.
Lard " "—13c. to 15c.
Calf skins 8c. per lb. rough.
" " 9c. " trimmed.
Straw—$3.00 to $4.00 per load.
Clover Seed—$7 per bushel.
Timothy Seed—$2.00 to 2.60 per bush.
Tallow—7c. to 8c. per lb.
Oatmeal—$1.00 per cwt., retail.
Cheese—11c. to 12c. per lb.
Deacon skins 25c.

FARMERS

—OF—

LENNOX & ADDINGTON,

—WE—

Diamond & Sherwood,

Being alive to your interests as well as our own, wish to say to you we now have on hand all kinds of

SEED GRAINS.

Wheat, Best "Hyf" especially imported from the west.
Barley, Canadian No 1 Prize Centennial Medal.
Peas, Buckwheat, Rye.

by Mr. Herring, sec. by Mr. Fralick, that a committee of three be appointed to consider the request and report at the next meeting of the Council.

Moved by Mr. Herring, sec. by Mr. Fralick, that the committee consists of Messrs. McNeil, Roe and Miller.

Mr. James entered a protest against any one being on that committee who was instrumental in gringing the suit against the town.

Moved in amendment by Mr. McNeil, sec. by Mr. Miller, that Messrs. James, Carscadden and Herring be the committee. Mr. James declined to act, and Mr. Miller's name was substituted for his.

Mr. James moved, sec. by Mr. Joy, that the matter be deferred one week, in order that the Town Solicitor may be consulted.—Carried.

A committee composed of Messrs. Lane, Herring and James was then appointed to consult with W. A. Reeve, Esq.

Moved by Mr. Miller, sec. by Mr. Carscadden, that the Council Room be not used for any other purpose than that for which it was constructed.

Mr. Miller, among other things, referred to the use of the Room for a writing school, and for Police courts at which the floors, benches, carpets, &c., were disfigured and spoiled. The motion was lost.

Moved by Mr. Miller, sec. by Mr. Olin, that the matter of gas be placed in the hands of some persons appointed to see that the Gas Company do furnish the amount of light agreed upon by the Company.

Several members advanced the point that that was the duty of Mr. Miller, as Chairman of the Committee on Town Property and Gas, and the motion was rejected.

Moved by Mr. Roe, sec. by Mr. James, that the matter of the street Gas lamps be referred to the chairman of the Town Property Committee, with instructions to report at the next meeting of the Council.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Lane, sec. by Mr. Roe, that the buoys in the river be placed in proper positions before the navigation opens.—Carried, and instructions given to the Chief of Police to see it done.

The Auditor's accounts, $25 each, were referred to the Finance Committee. The quarterly salaries were ordered to be paid. The gas bills, $8.10 for the Council Room, &c., and $4.20 for the Town Hall, were sent to the Gas Committee with power to act. T. H. Waller's balance of account $22.25 was referred to on Town Property Committee.

Moved by Mr. James, sec. by Mr. Herring, that the committee on Gas ascertain the amount of gas consumed per hour in the Town Hall, and that all parties using it be charged in addition to the usual fee, for the gas consumed.

Moved by Mr. Roe, sec. by Mr. Lane, that the Chief of Police prosecute immediately any party not having paid the billiard house.—Carried.

The Council adjourned.

THE LOCOMOTIVE BROTHERHOOD.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 29.—The Manager of the Reading railway has issued a circular to the locomotive engineers employed by the Company, declaring that all who wish to retain employment must withdraw from the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. The Company offers to endow a life and accident insurance fund for the engineers, so that they may lose nothing by leaving the Brotherhood.

April 1.—A general strike is imminent on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad in consequence of an order issued to the employees to sever their connection with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. To-day a secret meeting of engineers was held at which over 150 members were present. There was a determination—not expressed by vote however—to remain in the Brotherhood at all hazards. The Reading officials say they are prepared for any emergency.

and beyond this, at the other extremity of the sea of ice, rises a Papal flag, on which are two appropriate inscriptions. The furs, the harness of the dogs, the gloves and the shoes, are all yellow and white, the dog's colors.

BARE-FACED ROBBERY OF A CANADIAN.

One of the most barefaced robberies on record was perpetrated last week on Mr. Jas. Sellers, formerly of Mitchell, who had lately been living in Iowa, United States. Being dissatisfied with the country, he sold out and was returning to his old home in Mitchell, when he fell into conversation on the train with a well-dressed man, who proposed to exchange him gold for American money. Sellers counted out exactly $420, being every cent in his possession. The stranger put his hand in his pocket and produced some $300 in gold, but afterwards put it back saying, "I have not not enough on me, but I have plenty in the next car. You let me have the bills, and here's a cheque which you can hold as security until I go and fetch the gold." Sellers having no thought that a robbery was being attempted, gave his new made acquaintance the $420, and took what afterwards turned out to be a bogus cheque as security. The man moved to the next car apparently for the gold, saying he would be back in a minute, but as he did not soon return, Sellers began to feel uneasy and mentioned the matter to the conductor, who on enquiry, found that the fellow had jumped off the train some few minutes before. The feelings of Mr. Sellers, on learning the true state of affairs, may well be imagined. Nearly two years' hard earnings were in a moment gone, and himself and his wife left among strangers without a cent to carry them to their destination. A clergyman, who witnessed the whole affair, moved to sympathy for the unfortunates, took up a collection in their behalf, and succeeded in raising about $30, which, under the circumstances, was gratefully accepted. Mr. Sellers is now in Mitchell and sorely feels his heavy loss. Although up in years, he will have to go to work and begin life almost afresh.

BRIGHAM YOUNG JR. IN THE FIELD.

The rumor that Brigham Young, jr., is to plant a colony of 500 Mormons in the Mexican State of Sonora is not improbable. Last spring a reconnaissance was made by agents of the Mormon prophet into Arizona with the avowed purpose of fixing some permanent settlements there, and a number of families from Utah have since settled in that territory. There is now a chain of Mormon villages extending from Bear River south-westward to Arizona. It has long been foreseen by the leaders that the resources of Utah are insufficient to sustain so large a population as their hopes and ambition lead them to anticipate, even in the present generation. They must have more room. The bleak and barren region to the north of Salt Lake presents no inducements; the south offers good climate, rich soil, and abundance of water and timber.

THE RECENT CHINESE MASSACRE.

Chico despatches to San Francisco states that the Council of Nine of the Labor Union is responsible for the recent outrages, and that the Council ordered other crimes which failed of accomplishment. All the members of the Council are under arrest. The oath to members of the Labor Union commands secrecy, assistance of members, and aid in executing the United States laws. There is one decree in the Order to which the oath is as follows: "I swear before God Almighty that I will carry out and obey all orders of the Council of Nine, whatever they may be; if I do not do so my life is forfeited, and I may be put to death by this Council of Nine." It is asserted that the Order in Sacramento and San Jose works on the same principles. The feeling continues very intense, and people are nervous and excited over the situation, some gold watch for presentation to Captain Spence, of Goderich, of the schooner Nemesis, for saving the lives of the crew of the propeller New York, in October last. The watch is a stem-vinder, with the following inscription: "Presented by the President of the United States to Captain Spence, of the Canadian schooner Nemesis, for his exertions in saving life on the American propeller New York." The Captain has been notified of the receipt of the gift, and is reasonably proud of this recognition of his brave act.

Captain W. H. Thompson of the National Line steam-ship England, has been presented with a gold watch and chain by the Liverpool Local Marine Board. The gift was made on behalf of the American government, and was for services rendered in rescuing the captain and crew of the American schooner Mid-dlesex, and for having taken certain American passengers from the French mail steamer St. Germain. In the latter case the steamer had lost her rudder during heavy weather, and after all her passengers were transferred to the England, the latter took the disabled steamer in tow and brought her to St. John's, a distance of about 150 miles. Both rescues were effected in September last while the England was on a voyage from Liverpool to New York, and they necessitated the lowering of boats and going through rough seas.

Canadian Pilgrims For Rome.

The New York Herald gives the following as the programme to be carried out by the committee appointed to receive the Canadian pilgrims on their arrival in New York, from which city they are to embark for Europe:—"The Canadian pilgrims, who are principally laymen, will leave Montreal on the 19th of April, and will arrive here on Friday, the 26th, at seven in the morning, and proceed to a hotel in Broadway. On the day of their arrival a steamboat will be chartered, and, in company with a number of the prominent Catholic citizens of this city, they will be taken down the Bay, and to some of the public institutions on the islands. In the evening a reception will take place. On the following day (Saturday) the pilgrims will attend the celebration of mass at an early hour at the Catholic Cathedral. The total number of pilgrims who will leave by the City of Brussels will be 108, twenty of the number being residents of this city. No other passengers will be taken, the ship being ours for the trip in this respect. The Rev. Father Dowd, of Montreal, is to officiate as chaplain on the voyage. Several steamboats will accompany the City of Brussels down the Bay. It is reported that Bishop Mc-Niemy, of Albany, will accompany the pilgrims.

A DISGRACEFUL AFFAIR.

A contemporary gives the following account of a disgraceful yet ludicrous affair which occurred in the vicinity of Niagara Falls:—"An old woman named Riley was killed on the Great Western Railway near Black Bridge, and the accident becoming known, two coroners, two constables, and twenty-four jurymen started for the scene of the casualty. One set of officials stopped on the way to take a drink, and the constable for the other coroner took advantage of the opportunity to push on and capture the corpse. The rival parties subsequently met at Stamford, when a dispute arose over the custody of the remains. The constable who had captured the corpse, Constable Glynn, of Clifton, unceremoniously locked the remains in a barn and defied anyone to take the key out of his possession. Words waxed loud and threatening, but finally matters were compromised by Glynn's coroner, Lewis, holding the inquest, and employing his rival, Dr. McGarry, of Drummondville, to make the post-mortem examination. The fees were thus adjusted, and the quarrel settled."

PHILIPS—At Morven, on 28th ult., Mr. John Philips, aged—years.

NAPANEE MARKETS.

EXPRESS OFFICE,
Friday, April 6th, '77.

Barley—50c.
Wheat—$1.25.
Oats—50c.
Rye—60c. to 65c.
Peas—70c. to 72c.
Buckwheat—75c. to 80c.
Wheat Flour—$3.00 to $3.40 retail.
Hay—$11.00 to $12.00 per ton.
Hides—$3.00 to $5.00.
Onions—80c. to $1.00 per bushel.
Butter—23c. to 25c. per lb.
Eggs—10c. to 12c. per dozen.
Lamb and Pelts—$1.00 to $1.25.
Apples—60c. to $1.20 per bag.
Potatoes—$1.00 to $1.20 per bag.
Chickens—30c. to 40c. per pair.
Geese—50c. to 60c. each.
Ducks—40c. to 50c. per brace.
Turkeys—50c. to $1.00 each.
Wood hard—$2.50 to $3.00 per cord.
"soft—$1.50 to $2.00.
Beef per cwt—$5.00 to $7.00.
Pork " " " $7.00 to $7.50.
Lard " " " 13c. to 15c.
Calf skins 8c. per lb. rough.
" " " 9c. " trimmed.
Straw—$3.00 to $4.00 per load.
Clover Seed—$7 per bushel.
Timothy Seed—$2.00 to 2.60 per bush.
Tallow—7c. to 8c. per lb.
Oatmeal—$1.00 per cwt., retail.
Cheese—11c. to 12c. per lb.
Duncan skins 25c.

FARMERS

—OF—

LENNOX & ADDINGTON,

—WE—

Diamond & Sherwood,

Being alive to your interests as well as our own, wish to say to you we now have on hand all kinds of

SEED GRAINS.

Wheat, Best "fyfe" especially imported from the west,
Barley, Canadian No 1 Prize Centennial Medal,
Peas, Buckwheat, Rye,
Oats and Corn.

We also have on hand a quantity of No 1 Western Corn, and with the facilities for manufacturing which we possess, we can in a few minutes please the most fastidious, as to manner they wish it ground.

BRAN AND SHORTS.

We also present to your notice our

FLOUR,
OAT MEAL,
CRACKED WHEAT,
CORN MEAL,
GRAHAM FLOUR,
CRACKED CORN.

Each and every article of which stands unrivalled, and in which we intend to maintain our reputation both as to quality and price.

We ask for our goods a fair trial only, leaving it to our customers to answer any misrepresentation by our detractors, as we are assured no adverse judgement will be pressed by a jury composed of the general community who have once patronized us. To them we leave our case.

—ALSO—

MESS PORK,
BACON,
LARD,
TIMOTHY AND
CLOVER SEEDS.

DIA MOND & SHERWOOD,

49-4in.

FRANCE MOVEMENTS IN THE STATES.

A Pennsylvania correspondent writes a good deal of enthusiasm about at good that is being accomplished cause of temperance by the labors of Mr. Murphy, who, it seems, is carrying on his mission in Pittsburgh and the surrounding country. This Mr. Murphy, it appears, is a native of Ireland, and at one time the proprietor of a hotel in the States, but through intemperance sank down to be keeper of a house. In putting a drunken man in his place Murphy was so roughly treated so much injury that he died, and as a consequence Murphy spent years in the penitentiary. In he was brought under the influence of the cause, and came forth with the intention of doing all he could to advance the cause of temperance. He has been successful in the work—more than a hundred thousand persons, it is alleged through his influence become abstainers. It is a notable fact that some of Mr. Murphy's most helpful are those who were keepers till he persuaded them to leave the traffic. One feature in his operation is worth noting, and speaks on total abstinence would be better for acting on the same line. He has no harsh words for the dealer, but treats him in a friendly, conciliatory manner, so as, if possible, to induce him to give up his business and take the pledge. In this he has been successful. We have the admiration of reformed drunkards for his past sins, and even praising the greatness of their wickedness in order to attract increasing numbers and fill people with wonder and admiration. At the same time, it is quite true that such persons may do a great deal of good when once thoroughly reformed, and Mr. Murphy seems to be of that class.—Globe.

CANADA'S RELATIONS WITH ENGLAND.

GOLDWIN SMITH REPUDIATED.

London, March 31.—The Daily Telegraph in an editorial discusses Mr. Goldwin Smith's Fortnightly Review manifesto. It says that his judgment is repudiated by the high character of intellectual attainments. Nevertheless the Telegraph sees nothing in the ties with which Canada has to concur in the gloomy view and unwelcome words used by Mr. Smith. It disagrees with Mr. Smith's view of Canada's commercial importance.

The Telegraph goes on to say:—"The demand for grain, timber and petroleum in the Dominion is destined to have infinite expansion, while the contents of live and dead cattle to this country (England) bid fair to transcend other exported commodities. Even duties should remain stationary do not oppose obstacles to the commercial relations with Great Britain so formidable as those caused by tariff imposed by the United States. On the other hand, should the statesmen of the Dominion ever expose the principle of Free Trade, towards which they have evidence a manifest leaning, they will furnish a more important barrier for British wares than at any other period. We are under no apprehension that either annexation to or withdrawal from the United States is near, as the people of the Dominion rank among the most loyal of our colonies, and betray not the faintest wish for the severance of their connection with the British Empire. They warmly appreciate the peace and security they enjoy as subjects of Great Britain, and we are confident they would be as loth to part from their Mother Country as she would be from them."

ADRIAN AND BRITISH TARS.

CANADA'S SUPREME COURT.

A correspondent of the N. Y. Times gives his impressions of our Supreme Court judges on the day the Court gave judgment in the Charlevoix election case. He says: "It was a State occasion; in other words, judgment day, and a full bench was in session. There are six of them, splendid looking men, intellectually and physically, but if one did not know they were the exponents of the supreme law of the land, the first impression would be that they had stepped out of a carnival ball and left their masks behind. In other words, they follow the old English custom of wearing long red gowns, with collars and cuffs of ermine, and belted at the waist by a broad black band. The exception to the general rule is in the absence of the official wig, and it is only the aspect of honest English faces and splendid heads, such as a phrenologist would delight to handle, that in part compensates for the ridiculous character of the costume." After referring to the judgment he pays us the following compliment: "There are no people in the world who are more jealous of their prerogatives, more careful in guarding the purity of their elections, more impartial in deciding the honor of a public servant, or more determined to exact in the fullest measure the performance of a public duty than these self-same Canadians. A gentleman said to me the other day, 'In the States you try men; here we try crimes.' This sentence tells us the whole story of a pure, high-toned, responsible Government."

ELECTRICITY! 'THOMAS' EXCELSIOR ELECTRIC OIL!—WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.—Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures catarrh of the asthma and croup. Fifty cents' worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most sceptical: J. Collard, of Sparta, Ont., writes, "Send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, have sold all I had from you, and want more now; it cures are truly wonderful." Wm. McGuire, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agents left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendid now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "Please forward 6 dozen 'Thomas' Electric Oil, I am nearly out, nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, of Thamesville, writes, "Send at once a further supply of Electric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well and give general satisfaction." J. Thompson, of Woodford writes, "Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reid, of Ulverton, P. Q., writes, "The Electric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

Beware of Imitations.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the name of Northrop and Lyman are blown in the bottle, and "Take no other." Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cts. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE.—ELECTRIC—Selected and Electrified.

BORN.

BULLETT.—At Mill Point on the 2nd inst., the wife of A. Bullett of a daughter.

COLLINS.—At Mill Point on the 3rd inst., the wife of Henry Collins of a son.

EMERY.—On Tuesday, 3rd., the wife of Mr. W. A. Emery, of a daughter.

RUSSELL.—At Napanee, on the 20th ult., the wife of Mr. Jas. Russell, of a son.

MARRIED.

KELLAR—FLEMING.—At the residence of the bride's mother, on the 29th ult., by the Rev. R. W. Leitch, Mr. Thomas Leitch Kellar to Miss Annie Fleming, all of Camden.

DIED.

BREAUGH.—At Mill Point on the 1st inst., of consumption, the wife of Michael Breaugh.

Fish! Fish!! Fish!!! DIVISION

RECEIVED DAILY.

Fresh and good at S. McLaughlin's, also New Oranges, Lemons, Dates, &c., kept constantly on hand.

S. McLAUGHLIN.
Dundas St.

TO RENT,

The dwelling known as Dr. Oronhyatekha's.

Apply to

W. S. WILLIAMS.
Napanee March 16th, 1877. 47-1f

Valuable Farm for Sale

BEING composed of west half Lot No. 17, in the 4th Concession of the Township of Richmond, containing 100 acres; 80 acres of which is cleared and in a good state of cultivation, half mile from the Village of Selby and four and a half from the Town of Napanee. Terms liberal.

For full particulars apply to Grange & Bros., Napanee. 47-2in.

Farm and Town Property FOR SALE.

A NUMBER of farms in the Counties of Northumberland and Hastings, also some very valuable city property in Belleville, and both village and farming property, in and near the village of Brighton.

Apply to

J. B. BENSON,

Napanee.

March 12th, 1877.

47-1f.

FARM FOR SALE.

FARM of 175 Acres, the most desirable property in the County of Northumberland, for Sale. Being all that portion of lot No. 34 in Concession A, of the Village and Township of Brighton, lying North of the old Kingston Road, and only quarter of a mile from the P. O. and the centre of the village. Upon the premises are good brick and wooden buildings; a large orchard of young and bearing trees; a beautiful grove of pine and hardwood timber; spring creeks, and other advantages which rendered it desirable. Also several other good Farms and Village Properties for sale.

I. O. PROCTOR.

47-1f.

Brighton.

Land PLASTER

Now grinding and ready for use.

Superior Fine Ground

Land Plaster,

AT THE LOW RATE OF

$5 per Ton, or 25 cts. per Hundred.

ALL orders left at the Mill, or at the Woolen Factory, for Williams' and Lasher's Water Lime, or Quick Lime, will be promptly attended to. Lime delivered when required. No Credit.

JAMES PERRY.

Napanee, March 5th, 1877.

46.

T. T. T.

ALL KINDS

Telegraph sees nothing in the news with which Canada has to con-warrant the gloomy view and welcome words used by Mr.
It disagrees with Mr. Smith's of Canada's commercial import-land.

Telegraph goes on to say:—"The for grain, timber and petroleum Dominion is destined to have inite expansion, while the cons of live and dead cattle to this (England) bid fair to transcend her exported commodities. Even ian duties should remain station-y do not oppose—obstacles to s commercial relations with Great so formidable as those caused by f adopted by the United States.
other hand, should the statesmen omission ever expose the princi-ree Trade, towards which they evidence a manifest leaning, will furnish a more important for British wares than at any period. We are under no apn that either annexation to or th the United States is near, as to of the Dominion rank among loyal of our colonies, and betray the faintest wish for the severheir connection with the British

They warmly appreciate the and security they enjoy as sub-reat Britain, and we are con-at they would be as loth to part Mother Country as she would be tem.

DIAN AND BRITISH TARS.

ND AMERICAN GRATITUDE.

Minister of Marine in Canada, has from President Grant a hand-d watch for presentation to Cap-tice, of Goderich, of the schooner for saving the lives of the crew ogeller New York, in October ic watch is a stem-winder, with ving inscription: "Presented by dent of the United States to Spence, of the Canadian schooner for his exertions in saving li-mericah propeller New York."
tain has been notified of the re-he gift, and is reasonably proud ognition of his brave act.

n W. H. Thompson of the Line steam-ship England, has sented with a gold watch and the Liverpool Local Marine
The gift was made on behalf of rican government, and was for-rendered in rescuing the captain of the American schooner Mid- and for having taken certain a passengers from the French mer St. Germain. In the latter steamer had lost her rudder eavy weather, and after all her rs were transferred to the Eng-latter took the disabled steamer nd brought her to St. John's, a of about 150 miles. Both rese effected in September last e England was on a voyage from d to New York, and they necese lowering of boats and going rough seas.

adian Pilgrims For Rome.

ew York Herald gives the fol-s the programme to be carried ecommittee appointed to re-
Canadian pilgrims on their ar-New York, from which city they hark for Europe:—"The Cana-grims, who are principally layl leave Montreal on the 19th and will arrive here on Friday, at seven in the morning, and to a hotel in Broadway. On the eir arrival a steambot will be l, and, in company with a num-e prominent Catholic citizens of r, they will be taken down the lto some of the public instituthe islands. In the evening a y will take place. On the follow-(Saturday) the pilgrims will atcelebration of mass at an early the Catholic Cathedral. The number of pilgrims who will leave acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendid now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "Please forward 6 dozen Thomas'

Electric Oil, I am nearly out, nothing equals
it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes, "Send at once a further supply of Electric Oil, I have only one bottle left.
I never saw anything sell so well and give general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford writes, "Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reid, Ulverton, P.
Q., writes, "The Electric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

Beware of Imitations.—Ask for Dr.
Thomas' Electric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the name of northrop and Lyman are blown in the bottle, and "Take no other." Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cts. NO
THROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE.—ELECTRIC—Selected and Elec-trized.

BORN.

BULLETT.—At Mill Point on the 2nd inst., the wife of A. Bullett of a daughter.

COLLINS.—At Mill Point on the 3rd inst., the wife of Henry Collins of a son.

EMERY.—On Tuesday, 3rd., the wife of Mr. W.
A. Embury, of a daughter.

RUSSELL.—At Napanee, on the 20th ult., the wife of Mr. Jas. Russell, of a son.

MARRIED.

KELLAR.—FLEMING.—At the residence of the bride's mother, on the 29th ult., by the Rev. R. W.
Leitch, Mr. Thomas Berline Kellar to Miss Annie Fleming, all of Camden.

DIED.

BREAUGH.—At Mill Point on the 1st inst., of consumption, the wife of Michael Breaugh.

SWITZER.—In Switzerville, on the 3rd inst., Christopher M. Switzer, aged 43 years and 10 months.

HEWSON.—At Ernestown Station, on Saturday, the 31st ult., Jennie, only daughter of Mr.
Jas. Hewson, aged 3 years, 8 months, and 13
days.

PHILIPS.—At Morven, on 28th ult., Mr. John Philips, aged—years.

NAPANEE MARKETS.

EXPRESS OFFICE,
Friday, April 6th, 77.

Barley—50c.
Wheat—$1.25.
Oats—50c.
Rye—60c. to 65c.
Peas—70c. to 72c.
Buckwheat—75c. to 80c.
Wheat Flour—$3.00 to $3.40 retail.
Hay—$11.00 to $12.00 per ton.
Hides—$3.00 to $5.00.
Onions—80c. to $1.00 per bushel.
Butter—25c. to 25c. per lb.
Eggs—10c. to 12c. per dozen.
Lamb and Pelts—$1.00 to $1.25.
Apples—60c. to $1.20. per bag.
Potatoes—$1.00. to $1.20. per bag.
Chickens—30c. to 40c. per pair.
Geese—50c. to 60c. each.
Ducks—40c. to 50c. per brace.
Turkeys—50c. to $1.00. each.
Wood hard—$2.50 to $3.00. per cord.
" soft—$1.50. to $2.00. "
Beef per cwt.—$5.00 to $7.00.
Pork " " $7.00. to $7.50.
Lard " " 13c. to 15c.
Calf skins 8c. per lb. rough.
" " 9c. " " trimmed.
Straw—$3.00 to $4.00 per load.
Clover Seed—$7 per bushel.
Timothy Seed—$2.00 to 2.60 per bush.
Tallow—7c. to 8c. per lb.
Oatmeal—$1.00. per cwt., retail.
Cheese—11c. to 12c. per lb.
Deacon skins 25c.

FARMERS

—OF—

LENNOX & ADDINGTON,

—WE—

Diamond & Sherwood,

Being alive to your interests as well as our own, wish to say to you we now have
on hand all kinds of

SEED GRAINS.

Wheat, Best "fyfe" especially imported
from the west,
Barley, Canadian No 1 Prize Centennial Medal,
Peas, Buckwheat, Rye,
Oats and Corn,

quarter of a mile from the P. O. and the centre of the village. Upon the premises are good brick and wooden buildings; a large orchard of young and bearing trees;
a beautiful grove of pine and hardwood timber; spring creeks, and other advantages which rendered it desirable. Also several other good Farms and Village
Properties for sale.

I. O. PROCTOR.
47-1f. Brighton.

Land PLASTER

Now grinding and ready for use.

Superior Fine Ground
Land Plaster,

—OF—

AT THE LOW RATE OF
$5 per Ton, or 25 cts. per Hundred.

ALL orders left at the Mill, or at the Woolen Factory, for Williams' and Lasher's Water Lime, or Quick Lime, will be promptly attended to. Lime delivered when required. No Credit.

JAMES PERRY.
Napanee, March 5th, 1877. 46.

T. T. T.

ALL KINDS

SEE OUR NEW STOCK OF TEAS,

NEW SEASON

1877.

ON HAND

GREAT STRENGTH AND FINE FLAVOR,

TRY THEM BUY THEM !!

A LARGE STOCK OF CHOICE

Family Groceries,

NEW AND FRESH, JUST TO HAND.

Brisco Block, opposite Wright & Co's.

SMITH & ANDERSON.

REMOVED

Mrs. Jackson

Begs to inform the public that she has removed from the premises formerly occupied by her, and will now be found in the rooms above
SYMINGTON'S FLOUR STORE,
and opposite Grange's Drug Store, where she
is still prepared to do all kinds of hair-
work, such as

SWITCHES,
PUFFS,
BRAIDS,
CURLS,
SWITCHES DYED ON SHORT NOTICE.
ALL WORK DONE SATISFACTORILY.

LEGAL FORMS

AND PRINTED

To Order

AT THE

some gold watch for presentation to Captain Spence, of Goderich, of the schooner Nemesis, for saving the lives of the crew of the propeller New York, in October last. The watch is a stem-winder, with the following inscription: "Presented by the President of the United States to Captain Spence, of the Canadian schooner Nemesis, for his exertions in saving life on the American propeller New York." The Captain has been notified of the receipt of the gift, and is reasonably proud of this recognition of his brave act.

Captain W. H. Thompson of the National Line steam-ship England, has been presented with a gold watch and chain by the Liverpool Local Marine Board. The gift was made on behalf of the American government, and was for services rendered in rescuing the captain and crew of the American schooner Mid-dlesex, and for having taken certain American passengers from the French mail steamer St. Germain. In the latter case the steamer had lost her rudder during heavy weather, and after all her passengers were transferred to the England, the latter took the disabled steamer in tow and brought her to St. John's, a distance of about 150 miles. Both rescues were effected in September last while the England was on a voyage from Liverpool to New York, and they necessitated the lowering of boats and going through rough seas.

Canadian Pilgrims For Rome.

The New York Herald gives the following as the programme to be carried out by the committee appointed to receive the Canadian pilgrims on their arrival in New York, from which city they are to embark for Europe:—"The Canadian pilgrims, who are principally laymen, will leave Montreal on the 19th of April, and will arrive here on Friday, the 26th, at seven in the morning, and proceed to a hotel in Broadway. On the day of their arrival a steamboat will be chartered, and, in company with a number of the prominent Catholic citizens of this city, they will be taken down the Bay, and to some of the public institutions on the islands. In the evening a reception will take place. On the following day (Saturday) the pilgrims will attend the celebration of mass at an early hour at the Catholic Cathedral. The total number of pilgrims who will leave by the City of Brussels will be 108, twenty of the number being residents of this city. No other passengers will be taken, the ship being ours for the trip in this respect. The Rev. Father Dowd, of Montreal, is to officiate as chaplain on the voyage. Several steamboats will accompany the City of Brussels down the Bay. It is reported that Bishop Mc-Niemy, of Albany, will accompany the pilgrims.

A DISGRACEFUL AFFAIR.

A contemporary gives the following account of a disgraceful yet ludicrous affair which occurred in the vicinity of Niagara Falls:—"An old woman named Riley was killed on the Great Western Railway near Black Bridge, and the accident becoming known, two coroners, two constables, and twenty-four jurymen started for the scene of the casualty. One set of officials stopped on the way to take a drink, and the constable for the other coroner took advantage of the opportunity to push on and capture the corpse. The rival parties subsequently met at Stamford, when a dispute arose over the custody of the remains. The constable who had captured the corpse, Constable Glynn, of Clifton, unceremoniously locked the remains in a barn and defied anyone to take the key out of his possession. Words waxed loud and threatening, but finally matters were compromised by Glynn's coroner, Lewis, holding the inquest, and employing his rival, Dr. McGarry, of Drummondville, to make the post-mortem examination. The fees were thus adjusted, and the quarrel settled."

PHILIPS—At Morven, on 28th ult., Mr. John Philips, aged—years.

NAPANEE MARKETS.

"EXPRESS OFFICE,
Friday, April 6th, '77.

Barley—50c.
Wheat—$1.25.
Oats—50c.
Rye—60c. to 65c.
Peas—70c. to 72c.
Buckwheat—75c. to 80c.
Wheat Flour—$3.00 to $3.40 retail.
Hay—$11.00 to $12.00 per ton.
Hides—$3.00 to $5.00.
Onions—80c. to $1.00 per bushel.
Butter—23c. to 25c. per lb.
Eggs—10c. to 12c. per dozen.
Lambs and Pelts—$1.00 to $1.25.
Apples—80c. to $1.20. per bag.
Potatoes—$1.00. to $1.20. per bag.
Chickens—40c. to 45c. per pair.
Geese—50c. to 60c. each.
Ducks—40c. to 50c. per brace.
Turkeys—50c. to $1.00. each.
Wood hard—$2.50 to $3.00. per cord.
" soft—$1.50. to $2.00. "
Beef per cwt.—$5.00 to $7.00.
Pork " "—$7.00. to $7.50.
Lard " lb.—13c. to 15c.
Calf skins 8c. per lb. rough.
" 9c. " " trimmed.
Straw—$3.00 to $4.00 per load.
Clover Seed—$7 per bushel.
Timothy Seed—$2.00 to 2.60 per bush.
Tallow—7c. to 8c. per lb.
Oatmeal—$1.00. per cwt., retail.
Cheese—11c. to 12c. per lb.
Deacon skins 25c.

FARMERS

—OF—

LENNOX & ADDINGTON,

—WE—

Diamond & Sherwood,

Being alive to your interests as well as our own, wish to say to you we now have on hand all kinds of

SEED GRAINS.

Wheat, Best "fyfe" especially imported from the west,
Barley, Canadian No 1 Prize Centennial Medal,
Peas, Buckwheat, Rye,
Oats and Corn.

We also have on hand a quantity of No 1 Western Corn, and with the facilities for manufacturing which we possess, we can in a few minutes please the most fastidious, as to manner they wish it ground.

BRAN AND SHORTS.

We also present to your notice our

FLOUR,
OAT MEAL,
CRACKED WHEAT,
CORN MEAL,
GRAHAM FLOUR,
CRACKED CORN.

Each and every article of which stands unrivalled, and in which we intend to maintain our reputation both as to quality and price.

We ask for our goods a fair trial only, leaving it to our customers to answer any misrepresentation by our detractors, as we are assured no adverse judgement will be pressed by a jury composed of the general community who have once patronized us. To them we leave our case.

—ALSO—

MESS PORK,
BACON,
LARD,
TIMOTHY AND
CLOVER SEEDS.

DIA MOND & SHERWOOD,

49-41n.

NEW SEASON

1877,

ON HAND

GREAT STRENGTH AND FINE FLAVOR,

TRY THEM! BUY THEM!!

AND PRINTED

A LARGE STOCK OF CHOICE

Family Groceries,

NEW AND FRESH, JUST TO HAND.

Brisco Block, opposite Wright & Co's.

SMITH & ANDERSON.

REMOVED

Mrs. Jackson

Begs to inform the public that she has removed from the premises formerly occupied by her, and will now be found in the rooms above

SYMINGTON'S FLOUR STORE,
and opposite Grange's Drug Store, where she is still prepared to do all kinds of hair-work, such as

SWITCHES,

PUFFS,

BRAIDS,

CURLS,

SWITCHES DYED ON SHORT NOTICE.

ALL WORK DONE SATISFACTORILY.

Roots of combings all turned one way. Instructions given in the art on reasonable terms. Highest price paid for human hair.

SWITCHES FOR SALE.

LIVERY at MILL POINT.

MR. JOHN FINLAYSON is prepared to furnish the best of rigs, either single or double.

At the Old Commercial Hotel
MAIN STREET.

Mill Point, Jan. 30th, 1877.

Head Quar'ers.

PURE BRED, WHITE LEGHORNS.

I am prepared to furnish Eggs, from the best prize winning strains in the country, $2.00 per 13 eggs.

ROBERT WEBSTER,
East Street.
3-in.

Job Office,

ECONOMICAL ENGINES
TO DRIVE
Grist Mills, Factories, &c.
ADDRESS
The Waterous Engine
Works Co.,
BRANTFORD, ONT.
State where you saw this Advertisement

NAPANEE.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC

WHY SOME FARMERS ARE POOR.

The greatest agent to produce poverty among farmers or any other class, is debt. Many farmers will get a deed of a small piece of land, enough to support themselves and families and lay by a small annual income. But that is not sufficient. They run in debt for land, and become a slave to debt. They pay interest on money borrowed, which will soon consume the little property they possess. They often pay higher than 10 per cent. Such proceedings engender a spirit of discontent, and they lose faith in farming, and try to sell their farms in order to get to town and enter other business. In nine cases out of ten, every farmer who is doing well, but goes to town fails outright. Having no faith in farming, or having no breadth of understanding, they buy the poorest tools and meanest stock, and drive poor teams before poorer wagons and agricultural machinery. In the fall and winter they feed poorly, just enough to get their live stock through the winter into spring. Then it takes all summer to put on that flesh that was lost in the winter by poor shelter and bad food. They never put out fruit or shade trees on their farms. They always sell their best lambs and cattle to the drovers, and keep the poorest at home. They send their children to school but little, as too much learning is a dangerous thing. They do not take agricultural papers, or believe in book farming. They never give their children a cent of spending money, as it makes them extravagant, and they may become spendthrifts. In short, they are the most miserable people in the world, and would not keep money if they had it. Such farmers are poor, and will remain so to the end of their days. — Country Gentleman.

EARLY FLOWER GARDENING.

Ladies and amateur gardeners, who are personally interested in having fine flowers, next summer, at slight expense, should commence operations now. The time of the new moon in March is the best for slipping and potting scarlet geraniums. They succeed thriftily and double flowers are said to be thus produced from single varieties. A lady of experience, whose scarlet geraniums are celebrated for luxuriant beauty, attributes their exquisite flowering to this treatment. The soil should be light and rich, with a top layer of sand, as the sand prevents scions and seeds from decaying. Keep the sand moist. Verbena and pansy seeds planted now will secure plants of proper growth for transplanting into the garden in May or June. Sow one seed in each thimble pot, half an inch of sand covering the rich mould for the roots to extend into. Cover the pot and the seeds will sprout much sooner than if left exposed to the air and light; the covering must be removed, however, as soon as the plants are visible, or they will become weak and sickly. Seeds of any other floral favorites, brilliant pinks, gillias, sweet alyssum, saivias, &c., planted now will be ready for the garden. Heliotropes and ruchsias should also be slipped and set in pans or boxes. Gladioli and dahlias should be now started, the bulbs being plunged in sand and kept moist. Vines placed in hanging baskets will make a pretty show when desired for the piazza. An early and beautiful floral display will amply repay any care or attention that may be lavished upon the plants by their happy possessors.

INJURIES TO ORCHARD TREES.

Injuries to trees should be repaired as soon as discovered. Limbs broken by snow and ice must be sawed off to make a smooth wound, and this covered with paint, varnish, or wax. Barking by mice or rabbits often looks more serious than it really is. The majority of cases will

VARIOUS ITEMS

Hair-dressing performed by machinery is the latest novelty.

Mrs. Sartoris, daughter of ex-President Grant, has a baby son.

Telegraphy has been introduced into the school for the blind, at Nashville, as a study.

Light blue is Mrs. Hayes' favorite color, and the White House will be re-furnished with it.

Stewarts' Home for Working Women will be used for its original purpose next fall.

A Virginia woman of 28 is a grandmother. She was married at the age of 13 years.

Wm. H. Vanderbilt paid a million and a half to buy off the contestants to the Commodore's will.

The Mongolian steppas produce grass which intoxicates animals feeding on it.

Virginia proposes to keep her highways in repair by sentencing her criminals to use the shovel and pick.

Laborers are so plenty in China that a man sentenced to be hanged can purchase a substitute for fifteen dollars.

The Legislature of Indiana has passed a bill forbidding the changing of text books in public schools oftener than once in six years.

A column in an Indianapolis newspaper is devoted to "society gossip" among the negroes, and is edited by a negro clergyman.—yah! yah! yah!

A girl of sixteen married a man of fifty at Wolverhampton, England, a few weeks ago, and is now in custody for attempting to cut her own throat.

Mrs. Massie, a venerable lady of eighty years old, living at Cane Valley, Ky., a few days ago married her fifth husband, a man seventy-seven years old.

There is to be an exhibition of grass hopper-killers at Harlan, Minn. Every inventor who has a working model of an insect exterminating machine is expected to give the State authorities a chance to see it in operation.

A Yonkers boy got up a straw man yesterday in the back yard, dressing it in his father's Sunday coat and new spring tie as a target for practising on with his new bow and arrows. He is saddest when he sits.

The vices of the Spitz dog have been considered by the Connecticut Senate, and it has passed a Bill taxing owners of the male dogs of that species five dollars, and owners of the female dogs ten dollars, every year.

Russian leather is the skin of the horses or calf tanned with the bark of the birch, which gives it that peculiar smell which is so grateful to the senses; and seems to preserve it from the attacks of insects.

A West Whitby lady has carried forethought to its limits. She has bought a burial lot, paid for her tombstone, and prepared her burial clothes. She does not intend to trust to the guaranty of her friends or the care of executors.

A New York taxidermist is stuffing a lion for P. T. Barnum, inside of which he is placing machinery that will cause the beast to roar loud enough to be heard two miles. It will be mounted on a chariot, and a steam engine inside will move the animal to utterance.

The other day a young woman, who works in John Fisher & Son's Gore Paper Mills, Dundas, while engaged picking rags, found no less than $50 in bills in the pocket of an old pair of pants which formed part of a bale of rags which she was sorting.

A village congregation in Vermont was disturbed the other Sunday during the momentary stillness following the opening prayer, by a voice from the ad-

"BEST PIANOS, LOWEST PRICES"

CHARLES D. BLAKE & Co's.

Grand Square and Upright Piano-Forte

JOHN N. LAZIER

BELLEVILLE

General Agent for the Dominion of Canada

MERITS OF THE BLAKE PIANO-FORTE:

to extend into. Cover the pot and the seeds will sprout much sooner than if left exposed to the air and light; the covering must be removed, however, as soon as the plants are visible, or they will become weak and sickly. Seeds of any other floral favorites, brilliant pinks, gillias, sweet alyssum, saivias, &c., planted now will be ready for the garden. Heliotropes and nuchias should also be shipped and set in pans or boxes. Gladioli and dahlias should be now started, the bulbs being plunged in sand and kept moist. Vines placed in hanging baskets will make a pretty show when desired for the piazza. An early and beautiful floral display will amply repay any care or attention that may be lavished upon the plants by their happy possessors.

INJURIES TO ORCHARD TREES.

Injuries to trees should be repaired as soon as discovered. Limbs broken by snow and ice must be sawed off to make a smooth wound, and this covered with paint, varnish, or wax. Barking by mice or rabbits often looks more serious than it really is. The majority of cases will recover if the wound is protected by a thick poultice of cow-dung and clayey loam, bound on with a piece of coarse material. In very severe cases the tree may be saved by connecting the bark above and below the wound, by means of twigs of the same tree; the ends are chamfered, and inserted under the bark above and below, to bridge over the wound, covering the exposed parts with grafting wax. Protecting cut surfaces is well done by the cow-dung and loam plaster above mentioned, but it is not so neat or so easily applied as some others. Something for this use should always be in readiness. Either thick white lead paint, tinted by a littleumber or other color, grafting wax, melted, but not too hot, or shellac varnish, may be used.

SPRING TREE PLANTING.

As much is done in the planting of trees during the spring, the following remarks from a competent authority may have a good effect.—Probably the ill-success of most of those who fail in getting fruit trees well started arises from the miserable way in which they are set out. No young tree should ever be set in grass, nor should the land be seeded with grass until the trees are in bearing. The holes should be large enough to let every root lie straight. Where the roots were bruised and cut by the spade in taking up, they should be cut off smooth with a sharp knife. Fine dirt should be carefully worked among the roots with the fingers, so that when the job is done no air holes or cavities are left around them. And finally, every branch should be cut back at least one-half of the last year's growth, in order to maintain a balance with the shortened roots. This last is a thing very rarely done, yet it is essential to success.

CLEANLINESS WITH FARM STOCK.

The value of farm stock is much enhanced by thorough cleanliness. Stock that are accustomed to have their heads tied get very dirty about the neck and shoulders unless they receive a careful "grooming." Cleanliness is very essential for cattle always under cover, not only because disease is thereby prevented from making its inroads, but also because stock thrive better, and reach maturity a great deal quicker, when carefully tended, then when they are not. Cattle kept in hammels or loose boxes do not, perhaps require so much attention as those whose heads are tied to the stall, as they can with freedom lick themselves but they should not be neglected on that account; and the careful stock farmer will do well to see that his stockman gives them proper attention.

TUBS FOR BUTTER.

The tubs found best in use for packing butter, are new white oak pails holding 50 pounds. Scald them with boiling hot water and then soaked thoroughly with the birch, which gives it that peculiar smell which is so grateful to the senses, and seems to preserve it from the attacks of insects.

A West Whitby lady has carried forethought to its limits. She has bought a burial lot, paid for her tombstone, and prepared her burial clothes. She does not intend to trust to the guaranty of her friends or the care of executors.

A New York taxidermist is stuffing a lion for P. T. Barnum, inside of which he is placing machinery that will cause the beast to roar loud enough to be heard two miles. It will be mounted on a chariot, and a steam engine inside will move the animal to utterance.

The other day a young woman, who works in John Fisher & Son's Gore Paper Mills, Dundas, while engaged picking rags, found no less than $50 in bills in the pocket of an old pair of pants which formed part of a bale of rags which she was sorting.

A village congregation in Vermont was disturbed the other Sunday during the momentary stillness following the opening prayer, by a voice from the adjoining dwelling exclaiming, "Mary, where's the nails?" Soon the answer came, "In the coffee pot, you fool."

Miss Edith May, who was saved from drowning by Mr. Mortant, when the yacht Mohawk capsized last summer, is going to marry her preserver—a case of poetic justice. She is a sister of Miss May, a young lady about whom a duel is said to have been fought.

Sunday-school newspapers have become fashionable at the antipodes. One of these in China has three thousand subscribers, twenty-five of whom are mandarins in the city of Nankin, and it is supposed the paper is read by fifty of that class.

During the recent cold weather the Mississippi River was gorged with ice as far south as Ozark Island, nearly a hundred miles below Helena, Arkansas. Only once before in the memory of the "oldest inhabitant" has such a thing occurred, and that was during the cold winter of 1838.

A man has just been tried at Kilkenny Assizes for a murder committed forty-five years ago, and has been convicted of manslaughter. In January last, when made over-garrulous by liquor, he first revealed the dreadful secret he had been carrying about with him for nearly half a century.

A man who has spent twenty-four years with the Comanches is now in Omaha. He says that he was captured when he was six years old, and that he grew up as a member of the tribe. He is unable to speak English, has no relatives or other ties to attach him to civilization, and likes wild life so well that he will return to it.

The funeral of a Chinaman, who was recently murdered in San Francisco, seems to have been quite a unique affair. The dead man held a keen edged carver in his hand, and a yellow flag, bearing the word "vengeance," covered the coffin. A mounted Chinaman rode at each corner of the hearse, and Ah Qua rode ahead to clear the road. He succeeded in running over a white man, injuring him severely, and getting himself arrested.

Mrs. Pike, the wife of the Chicago murderer, states in her dime-novel confession that Jones, the spiritualist, kissed her two hundred times in one day. There was a wrangle in the Brooklyn court between a lawyer and a witness in a divorce case as to the precise number of kisses—whether twelve or twenty thrown to the lady defendant on a certain occasion. Cleopatra's maxim, "Fleggarity is the love that can be reckoned," seems to have lost its force.

The International Exhibition on the Champs de Mars is beginning to take considerable proportions. Out of 79,000 cubic metres that have to be covered 4,400 are already completed. The park in front of the main building is in course of preparation. It is to be 1,060 metres long and 500 wide. 1,500 workmen are

MERITS OF THE BLAKE PIANOE-FORTE:

Its Great Durability

In Workmanship (Cannot be Surpassed, if Equalled.

In Power, Solidity, Purity and Equality of Tone.

It has no Competitor.

As a Safe Investment, it is the Best.

It is Warranted in the most Satisfactory Manner

Every Improvement that has been recognized by people of cultivated taste

to be of real benefit and utility, has been adopted by the Manufacturers

these pianos, and the grand result is, that for power, sweetness, brilliancy and singing quality of tone, even throughout the entire scale, delicate and elastic of touch, strength, durability and beauty of finish, these Instruments stand unrivalled.

the exposed parts with grafting wax. Protecting cut surfaces is well done by the cow-dung and loam plaster above mentioned, but it is not so neat or so easily applied as some others. Something for this use should always be in readiness. Either thick white lead paint, tinted by a little umber or other color, grafting wax, melted, but not too hot, or shellac varnish, may be used.

SPRING TREE PLANTING.

As much is done in the planting of trees during the spring, the following remarks from a competent authority may have a good effect.—Probably the ill-success of most of those who fail in getting fruit trees well started arises from the miserable way in which they are set out. No young tree should ever be set in grass, nor should the land be seeded with grass until the trees are in bearing. The holes should be large enough to let every root lie straight. Where the roots were bruised and cut by the spade in taking up, they should be cut off smooth with a sharp knife. Fine dirt should be carefully worked among the roots with the fingers, so that when the job is done no air holes or cavities are left around them. And finally, every branch should be cut back at least one-half of the last year's growth, in order to maintain a balance with the shortened roots. This last is a thing very rarely done, yet it is essential to success.

CLEANLINESS WITH FARM STOCK.

The value of farm stock is much enhanced by thorough cleanliness. Stock that are accustomed to have their heads tied get very dirty about the neck and shoulders unless they receive a careful "grooming." Cleanliness is very essential for cattle always under cover, not only because disease is thereby prevented from making its inroads, but also because stock thrive better, and reach maturity a great deal quicker, when carefully tended, than when they are not. Cattle kept in hammels or loose boxes do not, perhaps require so much attention as those whose heads are tied to the stall, as they can with freedom lick themselves but they should not be neglected on that account; and the careful stock farmer will do well to see that his stockman gives them proper attention.

TUBS FOR BUTTER.

The tubs found best in use for packing butter, are new white oak pails holding 50 pounds. Scald them with boiling hot brine, and then soaked thoroughly with cold brine, before packing the butter. When a churning is ready to be packed away, sprinkle the bottom of the tub with clean salt, and press the butter down level in the tub; sprinkle a little salt upon it, and lay a wet muslin cloth over it. It so remains until the next churning when the butter is packed in the same manner, without disturbing that first packed. When the tub is filled even to the top, cover the butter with dry salt, lay a cloth cut to fit the tub over the salt, and fasten down the cover. If the butter is good, a tub so packed, and kept in a cool sweet cellar, will keep well for a year.—(From the American Agriculturist.)

There are no less than fifty lady doctors studying in the Paris hospitals.

Only one family had settled in Dereham before 1817.

Prof. Goldwin Smith returns to Toronto in July next.

The young lady with "speaking eyes" has become quite hoarse in consequence of using them so much.

Some physicians now claim that the general prevalence of diphtheria is due in a great degree to the gas which is thrown off from coal stoves in ill-ventilated rooms.

said to have been taught.

Sunday-school newspapers have become fashionable at the antipodes. One of these in China has three thousand subscribers, twenty-five of whom are mandarins in the city of Nankin, and it is supposed the paper is read by fifty of that class.

During the recent cold weather the Mississippi River was gorged with ice as far south as Ozark Island, nearly a hundred miles below Helena, Arkansas. Only once before in the memory of the "oldest inhabitant" has such a thing occurred, and that was during the cold winter of 1838.

A man has just been tried at Kilkenny Assizes for a murder committed forty-five years ago, and has been convicted of manslaughter. In January last, when made over-garrulous by liquor, he first revealed the dreadful secret he had been carrying about with him for nearly half a century.

A man who has spent twenty-four years with the Comanches is now in Omaha. He says that he was captured when he was six years old, and that he grew up as a member of the tribe. He is unable to speak English, has no relatives or other ties to attach him to civilization, and likes wild life so well that he will return to it.

The funeral of a Chinaman, who was recently murdered in San Francisco, seems to have been quite a unique affair. The dead man held a keen edged carver in his hand, and a yellow flag, bearing the word "vengeance," covered the coffin. A mounted Chinaman rode at each corner of the hearse, and Ah Qua rode ahead to clear the road. He succeeded in running over a white man, injuring him severely, and getting himself arrested.

Mrs. Pike, the wife of the Chicago murderer, states in her dime-novel confession that Jones, the spiritualist, kissed her two hundred times in one day. There was a wrangle in the Brooklyn court between a lawyer and a witness in a divorced case as to the precise number of kisses—whether twelve or twenty thrown to the lady defendant on a certain occasion. Cleopatra's maxim, "fleggarly is the love that can be reckoned," seems to have lost its force.

The International Exhibition on the Champs de Mars is beginning to take considerable proportions. Out of 79,000 cubic metres that have to be covered 4,400 are already completed. The park in front of the main building is in course of preparation. It is to be 1,060 metres long and 500 wide. 1,500 workmen are employed. A monster cascade is to be constructed in natural rock from the forest of Fontainebleau.

SCREAMING BABY SHOW.—Cincinnati has a baby show with one hundred and eighty little screamers on exhibition. What the people point to with pride are twenty two pairs of twins and two sets of triplets. If there are twenty two pairs of twins to every one hundred and eighty babies in Cincinnati, it will be seen that the ratio of twins is pretty heavy in that region. And they didn't invent blue glass down there, either.

A peculiar-looking package was received the other day at Worcester, Mass. It came from Olympia, Washington Territory and on examination proved to contain a large potato. Further investigation showed that the potato had been cut in two, and the inside scooped out, and in the cavity were found flowers and leaves, which, as the recipient learned by a note previously received, had been picked in a garden in the open air on the 26th day of December. The flowers, pansies, geraniums, and others, were as fresh and bright as if they had been gathered within an hour, though their journey across the continent had occupied fifteen days. Olympia is in about the latitude of Quebec, though its winter climate is not more severe than that of Memphis.

In Workmanship (Cannot be Surpassed, if Equalled.

In Power, Solidity, Purity and Equality of Tone.

It has no Compete.

As a Safe Investment, it is the Best.

It is Warranted in the most Satisfactory Manner

Every Improvement that has been recognized by people of cultivated taste

to be of real benefit and utility, has been adopted by the Manufacturers

these pianos, and the grand result is, that for power, sweetness, brilliancy and singing quality of tone, even throughout the entire scale, delicacy and elasticity of touch, strength durability and beauty of finish, these Instruments stand unrivalled.

MOST SATISFACTORY TERMS OF PAYMENT

EVERY PIANO WARRANTED FOR 7 YEARS.

AGENTS WANTED.

Illustrated Catalogues sent on application.

JOHN N. LAZIER, Belleville,

"BEST PIANOS, LOWEST PRICES." IMMENSE STOCK ! !

CHARLES D. BLAKE & Co's.

Grand Square and Upright Piano-Fortes.

JOHN N. LAZIER

BELLEVILLE

General Agent for the Dominion of Canada.

MERITS OF THE BLAKE PIANOFORTE:

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE,

ARE NOW SHOWING AN IMMENSE STOCK OF

NEW SPRING GOODS,

COMPRISING A GENERAL ASSORTMENT OF

STAPLE & FANCY DRY GOODS

We are Selling New Fresh Goods Cheaper than other Houses are Selling their Old ones.

MR. HOGAN:

IS SHOWING A MAGNIFICENT ASSORTMENT OF GOODS IN HIS DEPARTMENT FOR GENTLEMEN'S WEAR, CONSISTING OF

NEW WORSTED COATINGS,

NEW FRENCH COATINGS,

VESTINGS & TROUSERINGS

AND THE LARGEST AND CHEAPEST STOCK OF

Canadian Tweeds in Napanee.

WE INVITE A COMPARISON OF OUR GOODS WITH ANY OTHERS IN TOWN

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF

PARLOUR and BEDROOM

FURNITURE,

—AT—

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY !

BELLEVILLE.

General Agent for the Dominion of Canada.

MERITS OF THE BLAKE PIANOE-FRTE:

Its Great Durability

In Workmanship (Cannot be Surpassed, if Equalled.

In Power, Solidity, Purity and Equality of Tone.

It has no Compete.

As a Safe Investment, it is the Best.

It is Warranted in the most Satisfactory Manner

Every Improvement that has been recognized by people of cultivated taste,

to be of real benefit and utility, has been adopted by the Manufacturers of

these pianos, and the grand result is, that for power, sweetness, brilliancy and

AND THE LARGEST AND CHEAPEST STOCK OF

Canadian Tweeds in Napanee.

WE INVITE A COMPARISON OF OUR GOODS WITH ANY OTHERS IN TOWN

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF

PARLOUR ^{and} BEDROOM

FURNITURE,

—AT—

GREATLY EDUCED PRICES.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY!!!

WE WILL UNDERSELL

Any Other House in this part of the Province

FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

ALWAYS IN STOCK.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

J. GIBBARD & SON.

MONEY TO LOAN

We have received instructions from England, to Lend a large amount of Money,

AT LOWER RATES THAN HAS YET BEEN OFFERED.

CALL IN AND EXAMINE RATES.

NO COMMISSION CHARGED.

WILLIAMS & HOOPER.

BOYS AND GIRLS REMOVED

WANTED

10,000 OR MORE

LITTLE CHRISTIAN BOYS & GIRLS,

TO WORK FOR JESUS,

In helping to circulate Little Books, Tracts, &c.

Will send FREE, complete Catalogue of Books, &c., on hand to any address, and for each order received, to the amount of one dollar, we will send the LITTLE BOOK ON CHRIST, sending the order Books to the value of FIFTY CENTS on each dollar. Address—

WILLARD TRUST DEPOSITORY,

Shuttsbury Hall Toronto.

On the 1st of July, 1876, we will send to the

Mrs. Jackson

Des to inform the public that she has removed from the premises formerly occupied by her, and will now be found in the rooms above

SYMINGTON'S FLOUR STORE,

and opposite Grange's Drug Store, where she is still prepared to do all kinds of hair-works, such as

SWITCHES,

PUFFS,

BRAIDS,

CURLS,

SWITCHES DYED ON SHORT NOTICE.

ALL WORK DONE SATISFACTORILY.

Roots of curls being all turned the way. Instructions given in the art on reasonable

In Workmanship. Cannot be Surpassed, if Equalled.

In Power, Solidity, Purity and Equality of Tone.

It has no Competer.

As a Safe Investment, it is the Best.

It is Warranted in the most Satisfactory Manner.

Every Improvement that has been recognized by people of cultivated Taste,

to be of real benefit and utility, has been adopted by the Manufacturers of these pianos, and the grand result is, that for power, sweetness, brilliancy and

singing quality of tone, even throughout the entire scale, delicacy and elasticity

of touch, strength, durability and beauty of finish, these Instruments stand unrivalled.

MOST SATISFACTORY TERMS OF PAYMENT.

EVERY PIANO WARRANTED FOR 7 YEARS.

AGENTS WANTED.

Illustrated Catalogues sent on application.

JOHN N. LAZIER, Belleville,

ANY OTHER HOUSE IN THIS PART OF THE COUNTRY

FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

ALWAYS IN STOCK.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

J. CIEBARD & SON.

MONEY TO LOAN

We have received instructions from England, to Lend a large amount of Money,

AT LOWER RATES THAN HAS YET BEEN OFFERED.

CALL IN AND EXAMINE RATES.

NO COMMISSION CHARGED.

WILLIAMS & HOOPER.

BOYS AND GIRLS REMOVED WANTED

10,000 OR MORE

LITTLE CHRISTIAN BOYS & GIRLS,

TO WORK FOR JESUS,

In helping to circulate Little Books, Tracts, &c.

WE will send FREE, complete Catalogue of Books, according to any address, and for each one received, to the amount of ONE DOLLAR, we will send the LITTLE BOOK on LENDING the order Books to the value of FIFTY CENTS on each dollar. Address:

WILLARD TRACT DEPOSITORY,
State Street Hall Toronto.

On the 1st of July, 1877, we will send to the six Boy and Girls and the largest number of orders up to that date one nice Pocket Bible each.

For the "Education of Christian generally," it may be truly stated that this Institution, now in full operation, owes its origin to the liberality of a Christian gentleman, a resident of Toronto, who has invested a portion of his means in the enterprise, as a free will offering to the Lord, with the view of sending forth, under our kind Teachers, Books, &c., which unfold the exalted privilege of being a citizen, and treat of the "Law of Pardon or Trust," and of the power and peace of Holiness, and Gospel and Evangelical Literature.

Special notice is called to the fact that this is

No Denominational Institution.

It is neither connected with, nor under the patronage of any particular church. All the Publications & issues, are strictly evangelical, and will meet the wants of all Christians. Largely the Books, &c., will be those published by the Willard Tract Repository of Boston, under the care of the well known DR. CURRIE.

ALL PROFITS that may be made will be devoted to the establishment of a fund for gratuitous distribution of the Tracts and Books to persons and places where they are needed, as may be directed by the Committee. We beg also to say that this Fund for free distribution is open for donations to all who may desire to help in this work of God.

We ask all who may desire to promote the higher spiritual life of the churches and to help in winning souls for Christ, to co-operate with us by forwarding sound religious literature throughout the land.

References for further information may be made to the following brethren and others, who may be added, who will set up a Committee for selection and distribution.

Rev. JOHN POTTS, Moderator.
" R. W. LACE, Presbyterian.
" T. GUTTLEY, Primitive Methodist.
" J. A. R. DICKSON, Congregationalist.
" J. DOUGLAS, Presbyterian, Cobourg.
" R. CAMERON, Baptist, Brantford.
Mr. G. H. G. E. Congregationalist.
" R. W. GARDNER, Baptist.
" W. T. MASON, Methodist.
" C. J. R. DICKSON, Christian.
" W. A. DICKSON, Episcopal.
" T. J. WILSON, Congregationalist.
" S. R. BIRGGS, Manager, Toronto.
" A. BURSON, Manager, Manchester, England.
" W. H. VAN TASSEL, General Agent, Toronto.

P. S.—Nearly all of D. L. MOODY'S sermons, and many other precious little gems in book form at only 2c. and 3c. each. 12-11.

Mrs. Jackson

Begs to inform the public that she has removed from the premises formerly occupied by her, and will now be found in the rooms above

SYMINGTON'S FLOUR STORE,

and opposite Grange's Drug Store, where she is still prepared to do all kinds of hair-work, such as

SWITCHES,

PUFFS,

BRAIDS,

CURLS,

SWITCHES DYED ON SHORT NOTICE.

ALL WORK DONE SATISFACTORILY.

Roots of combings all turned off, way. Instructions given in the art on reasonable terms. Highest price paid for human hair.

SWITCHES FOR SALE.

LIVERY at MILL POINT.

MR. JOHN FINLAYSON is prepared to furnish the best of rigs, either single or double.

At the Old Commercial Hotel,
MAIN STREET

Mill Point, Jan. 30th, 1877.

Head Quarters.

PURE BRED, WHITE LEGHORNS.

I am prepared to furnish Eggs, from the best prize winning strains in the country, $2.00 per 13 eggs

ROBERT WEBSTER,
East Street,
3-in.

State where you saw this Advertisement

APRIL, 6 1877.

IMMENSE STOCK !! MORE NEW GOODS.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE,

ARE NOW SHOWING AN IMMENSE STOCK OF

NEW SPRING GOODS,

COMPRISING A GENERAL ASSORTMENT OF

STAPLE & FANCY DRY GOODS.

We are Selling New Fresh Good Cheaper than other Houses
are Selling their Old ones.

MR. HOGAN:

IS SHOWING A MAGNIFICENT ASSORTMENT OF GOODS IN HIS DEPARTMENT FOR GENTLEMANS WEAR, CONSISTING OF

NEW WORSTED COATINGS,

NEW FRENCH COATINGS,

VESTINGS & TROWSERINGS,

AND THE LARGEST AND CHEAPEST STOCK OF

Canadian Tweeds in Napanee.

WE INVITE A COMPARISON OF OUR GOODS WITH ANY OTHERS IN TOWN

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF

PARLOUR and BEDROOM

FURNITURE,

—AT—

GREATLY EDUCED PRICES.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY !!

Every Department is now Complete !

AND WE INVITE

INSPECTIN OF OUR STOCK AND PRICES.

CUTLERY,

SILVER-PLATED WARE,

SHELF HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

CARRIAGE HARDWARE,

BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS AND STOCK,

CARPENTER'S AND JOINER'S TOOLS,

BUILDER'S HARDWARE,

CABINETMAKER'S SUPPLIES,

SAW MILL SUPPLIES,

CHEESE FACTORY APPARATUS AND SUPPLIES

PLOUGHS AND PLOUGH CASTING,

WOODENWARE, TINWARE, HOUSE FURNISHINGS

PAINTS, OILS AND VARNISH,

GLASS AND PUTTY.

STEAM AND GAS FITTING, ETC., ETC.

All of the above goods will be sold at Rock-Bottom Prices.
Call and See.

WRIGHT & CO.

No-48.

THOUSANDS,

ARE TAKING ADVANTAGE OF OUR

COST SALE,

And are Saving from 25 to 50 per Cent,

ON THEIR

HARDWARE PURCHASES.

We will continue our Sale until the end of the month as advertised.

DON'T MISS THIS OPPORTUNITY TO SAVE MONEY.

Coal Oil 25cts per Imp. Gallon.

RALPH PURDY.

Napanee, March 21st, 1877.

48.

The Largest, Best Equipped, Most Thorough

AND

Practical Business School in Canada.

HAVING increased our faculties, we now offer better advantages than ever before. The Business Course is under the supervision of

NEW FRENCH COATINGS,
VESTINGS & TROWSERINGS,

AND THE LARGEST AND CHEAPEST STOCK OF

Canadian Tweeds in Napanee.

WE INVITE A COMPARISON OF OUR GOODS WITH ANY OTHERS IN TOWN

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF

PARLOUR and BEDROOM

FURNITURE,

—AT—

GREATLY EDUCED PRICES.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY!!

WE WILL UNDERSELL

any Other House in this part of the Province

FURNISHINGS

ALWAYS IN STOCK.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

J. GIBBARD & SON.

MONEY TO LOAN

We have received instructions from England, to Lend a large amount of Money,

AT LOWER RATES THAN HAS YET BEEN OFFERED.

CALL IN AND EXAMINE RATES.

NO COMMISSION CHARGED.

WILLIAMS & HOOPER.

BOYS AND GIRLS REMOVED

WANTED

10,000 OR MORE

LITTLE CHRISTIAN BOYS & GIRLS,

TO WORK FOR JESUS,

helping to circulate Little Books, Tracts, &c.

Will send a complete Catalogue of Books &c. ordered to any address, and Each On for received to the amount of one dollar, we will send the LITTLE BOY OR GIRL

Mrs. Jackson

Desires to inform the public that she has removed from the premises formerly occupied by her, and will now be found in the rooms above

SYMINGTON'S FLOUR STORE,

and opposite Grange's Drug Store, where she is still prepared to do all kinds of hair-work such as

SWITCHES,
PUFFS,

BRAIDS,

CURLS,

SWITCHES DYED ON SHORT

And are Saving from 25 to 50 per Cent,

ON THEIR

HARDWARE PURCHASES.

We will continue our Sale until the end of the month as advertised.

DON'T MISS THIS OPPORTUNITY TO SAVE MONEY.

Coal Oil 25cts per Imp. Gallon.

RALPH PURDY.

Napanee, March 21st, 1877.

48.

The Largest, Best Equipped, Most Thorough

AND

Practical Business School in Canada.

HAVING increased our faculties, we now offer better advantages than ever before. The Business Course is under the supervision of

S. G. BEATTY, Principal Actual Business Department.

W. B. ROBINSON, Principal Practical Department.

G. A. SWAYZE, Principal Theoretical Department.

IT IS SHORT, PRACTICAL AND USEFUL.

Able and Practical Instructors in the other Departments.

The whole time and attention of Students are devoted to just such subjects as every Farmer, Mechanic, Merchant, and Professional man requires in transacting every day business.

When desired by parents, boys will be placed in a boarding house under the supervision of a teacher, who will assist them in their evening studies, and see that they keep proper hours.

500 Specimens of Penmanship and circular containing full information respecting Terms, Nature of Course, etc., sent free of charge.

Address, S. G. BEATTY & Co., BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO.

SAVE YOUR MONEY!

Times are hard and you can avoid buying new clothes if you will get those you have dyed and scoured so as to

LOOK AS GOOD AS NEW.

at a trifling expense. Remember that at

Montgomery's Steam Dye Works,

Opposite Madlen's Tanney, near the River, all kinds of goods are cleaned and dyed on the shortest notice, and at the cheapest rates.

GENTLEMEN'S CLOTHING, MOURNING GOODS KID GLOVES, PLUMES, &c.

CLEANED AND DYED.

Call and give Montgomery a trial and be satisfied.

Dr. William Gray's Specific Medicine.

The Great English Remedy is especially recommended as an unfailing cure for Seminal Weakness, Spermatitis, Impe-

WESTERN ASSURANCE COMPANY

Incorporated 1851.

in the Latest Styles, as Cheap as the Cheapest and as Good as the Best;

"Napanee Express,"

A Reform Political and Family Newspaper,
IS PUBLISHED
EVERY FRIDAY MORNING, AT THE OFFICE,

Warner's Block, East Street, Napanee, a few doors north of Soby House Corner.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.
$1.00 per annum in advance. Free of postage, or
$1.20 if not so paid.
RATES OF ADVERTISING.

Column for one year.	$30.00
Column for three months.	45.00
Half a column for one year.	40.00
Half a column for three months.	24.00
Quarter of a column for one year.	15.00
Quarter of a column for three months.	20.00
Quarter of a column for three months.	10.00
Notices under ten lines, three times.	1.00
Over ten lines, first insertion, per line.	10.00
Each subsequent insertion, per line.	.03
Business Cards, under ten lines per year.	1.00

Displayed Advertisements are charged by the square of solid Napanee, and charged accordingly.
Advertisements sent without written instructions inserted until forbidden and charged for full time.

Orders for discontinuing advertisements must be in writing, otherwise the publisher will not be responsible.

A liberal discount for contract advertisement,
by the year.

Business notices in local columns, first insertion ten cents per line of Napanee; five cents per line each subsequent insertion. Five cents per line per annum.

To Subscribers. No paper will be stopped until all arrears are paid, except at the option of the proprietor. A post office notice to discontinue is not sufficient.

Yearly and half yearly contracts are payable every THREE MONTHS.

Care should be taken in the purchase of the paper, or in the purchase of the paper. Correspondents are requested to send in their contributions as promptly as possible.

JOB PRINTING.
Every style of Job Printing, executed with accuracy and dispatch at reasonable rates.
J. B. BENSON, Proprietor and Proprietor.

Business Cards.

Alex. C. Davis,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Napanee,
Ontario.

James A. Aylsworth,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Tam-
worth.

S. D. Clarke,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Odessa,
Ontario.

J. J. Watson,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates, Adolphustown.

Peter E. R. Miller,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Switzer-
ville Ont.

Robert Graham,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Office
In the Dominion Store, Batebridge.

J. B. Allison,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates, Barina P. O., South Fredericton.

Charles Lane,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates, Office Front of Grammar
School, Bridge Street, Napanee.

A. B. Randall,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Also Agent for the Beaver and Toronto Fire Insurance Company and the
Mutual Life Association of Canada. Residence—Shanmoyville, Ont.

Murphy & Bedford,

BARRISTERS, Atty. MILL POINT.
Mersey to land on Improved Real Estate.

H. M. Deroche,

Atty. at Law, So

J. B. BENSON, Publisher.)

VOL. 15.

NAPANEE TICKET AGENCY.

Grand Trunk Railway Tickets for sale at Grange & Bro's Drug Store.

For all Stations east and west, American money taken at par from Napanee to Milwaukee, Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha, San Francisco and all Lake Ports. Passengers purchasing tickets from the undersigned avoid
the double and delay of exchanging tickets, and receiving baggage to Toronto. Cheapest route to the west. Return tickets to Kingston, Belleville, Toronto, Montreal, Portland
etc. For further particulars apply at GRANGE & BRO'S Exchange Office, Passenger agent
G. T. R. Uncurrent money out and sold

Imperial Life Insurance Co.

OFFICE LONDON (ESTABLISHED
1803.) Capital and Reserved
Fund

$1,900,000 Sterling.

Fund invested in Canada—$105,000

Russell Bros., General Agents.

24 St. Sacrament St. Montreal.

H. L. GEDDES, Agent,

Napanee and vicinity.

THE PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY

MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE CO

HEAD OFFICE—PICTON, ONT.

(Established 30th Sept., 1854).

PRESIDENT—LEWIS B. STINSON

VICE PRESIDENT—W. BOULTER

MANAGER—L. B. STINSON.

SECRETARY—JOHN TWIGG.

TREASURER—PHILIP LOW, Q. C.

INS. OF LOSSES & A's.—J. HOWELL.

SOLICITOR—W. H. R. ALLISON

DIRECTORS.—JAS. JOHNSTON, Wm.

DELONG, JOHN PRINCEY.

S. B. HUBBS, J. VANALSTINE.

HONORARY DIRECTORS.—G. Striker, Esq.

M. P. P., Picton; R. Clapp, Esq., Mil-

ford; K. Graham, Esq., Belleville; P.

Allan, C. A. Lloyd, J. P. Dorland, Esq.,

Adolphustown; J. C. Hathorn, Esq., J. E.

Grange, Esq., M. P. P., Napanee; J. E.

Proctor, Esq., Brighton; G. W. Webb,

Esq., Colborne; G. Jones, Esq., Trenton;

J. Redner, Esq., Rednersville; Owen

Roblin, Esq., Ameliasburg; H. A.

McPaul, Esq., Millier.

This Company is established upon strictly

Mutual principles, insuring farm property

Townships, and property not more hazardous in Towns and Villages and offers great

advantages to insure at low rates for Three

or Four Years either on the Premium

Rate or Cash System.

March 9th, 1875.

521-y.

521-y.

521-y.

CATARRH!

Five Years Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Cat-
arrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs,
and Droppings in Front Disappear.

See also, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16

DR. J. B. HARDING,

DEAR Sir, Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your excellent Catarrh Remedy, I wish to inform you that it has done for me, I am twenty-five years old, had been out of health for about

five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines,

without receiving any permanent benefit, but

continued rather to grow worse, until last fall,

when I had become so bad as to be unable to do any work at a time. Had severe sore-

Napanee

"THE GRE

NAPANEE.

BRISCO HOUSE,
NAPANEE, ONT.

JOHN SOBY, - - Proprietor.

A First-Class Hotel

in all its Appointments.

Omnibus meet all Trains and Steamers.

PAISLEY HOUSE,
(John St. opposite the Market.)

NAPANEE, ONT.

A First-Class Hotel centrally located, with excellent yard and stabling accommodations.

CHAS. PAISLEY,

PROPRIETOR.

CAMPBELL HOUSE,
NAPANEE, Ont.

THE PRINCIPAL HOTEL
IN TOWN.

Good Stabling & Attentive Ostler.

CHARGES AS USUAL.

MARSDEN & MOORE,

PROPRIETORS.

TICHBORNE HOUSE,
(Corner Dundas & John Streets.)

NAPANEE.

ROBERT McDONALD,
Proprietor.

A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL.
CHARGES MODERATE.

QUEEN'S HOTEL,
BELLEVILLE

Every Accomodation for Commercial Travellers.

A. P. FARRELL,

PROPRIETOR.

McDONALD HOUSE,

(Late Clark House)

BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.

Pass to and from the cars.

33-y.

Land for Sale
30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for
the sale of splendid Improved Farms, and Wild Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres;
also of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low
prices and easy terms.

Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets
Napanee.

JAMES F. BARTLES.

Napanee, Sept. 12th, 1876.

FOR CHEAP

GROCERIES,
CROCKERY &

AT LOW PRICES

LOVE IN THE KI

"Now, Mr. Malone, when yer's
It is nisy to see—arrah, git out Whin discoursin' wid' ladies tache

That yer not to use hands,
Should the missus come down, appear
Wid me hair all bewildered?"

"Oh
Yer pardon I ax, but yer mou
It's a better acquaintance I'm An' I love you so fondly—bego
An' thin I'm unaisy as bad as I An' there's nothin' I aise me at Until yer beththal I've got, an I'll not let you go till yer prom

"It is just like yer impudence.
"Ye can't call it impudence, Ki
For a man to be lovin' the like Ye might marry worse, if I me heart is yer own, an' I I know of a brick cabin but be had for the askin' uv. I
For he's goin' to lave it, an' th
Wid some fixin' an' mendin' to An' a bit uv a board to patch u
An' thrille uv mind to discoura
An' we'll make up uvin' wh
An' it's built on a rock, with a
On the country surroundin' it
An' to be quite genteel an exte
Conveyment for keepin' an illig
An' thin we'll both prosper as An' ye'll see me an alderman s An' the childer will grow up rich."

An' in politics thin they'll be Oh, this is the land fur improvi
So, Kitty, mavourneen, turn ro
An' give us one kiss the betroth

"The devil a bit ov it, Teddy M
D'ye think I'd be lavin' a hom
For the tumble down shanty ye
While I live like a lady, wid tv
An' a wardrobe I flatter missu Sure ye couldn't tell missu street

An' at home it's the same, fur s
aise,
An' yer couldn't say which ov a
An' it's like yer assurance to a An' the same token—no will Let go me hand, sir?"

"But,
Ye can't be intendin' to always Wid niver a husband, but mope
An' niver a baby?"

"Ver very unmanly."

"It's only the truth that I'm tell That yer niver intendin' to die
this?"

"Well, thin, will it plaze ye to "Git out wid your blarney, shu
But there might be another well?"

"Arrah, Kitty, me darlin', don't
If ye wouldn't be killin' the th
But if there's another ye like u
Then it's faithless ye are, an' I An' I'll die broken hearted for That I thought to be gainin'."

"Wh
Is it dyin' yer talkin' ov? Who
An' omarrid wid in moun
An' ye wanted a kiss, sir? W must—

Oh, murder, the man is deovin
Is it atin' me up ye'd be ather
Well, ye're not so onylarin' as m An' if any one's axin' about ye broth of a boy is me Tedd

A CURATE'S HO

A SHORT STORY OF THRILL

When left alone by t whose house I had so muc come a guest, I looked ar in which I was to pass the ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates, Adolphustown.

J. J. Watson,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates, Adolphustown.

Peter E. R. Miller,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Switzerville Ont.

Robert Graham,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Office in the Dominion Street, Waterpriser.

J. B. Allison,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Parana P. O., South Frobenksburg.

Charles Lane,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Office Front of Granma Show, Bridge Street, Napanee.

A. B. Randall,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Also Agent for the Beaver and Toronto Fire Insurance Company and the Mutual Life Association of Canada. Residence—Shannerville, Ont.

Murphy & Bedford,

BARRISTERS, &c., MILL POINT. Money to loan on Improved Real Estate.

H. M. Deroche,

BARRISTER and Attorney-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Conveyancer, Notary Public, &c. Office in Grange Block, John Street, Napanee, Ont.

E. B. Store,

Attorney-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Conveyancer, &c. Office—Over T. Molloy's Dry Goods Store. Money to Loan at 8 per cent.

Cartwright & Gibson,

BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery and Insolvency, Notaries Public, &c. Office Grange Block John Street, Napanee. S. GIBSON.

R. Tracy, M. D., BELLEVILLE.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon and Accoucheur. Office and Residence, two doors east from the Bank of Montreal, near the Congregational Church, Hotel St. J.

Reeve & Morden,

BARRISTERS and Attorneys-at-Law. Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, &c. Office—Perry's New Block Dundas Street, Napanee, Ontario. E. MORDEN, Esq., Crown Attorney.

E. A. Deroche,

OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE under New Act of 1875. Office in H. M. Deroche's Law Office.

Williams & Hooper,

BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery and Insolvency, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, &c. Napanee, Ontario. W. F. HOOPER, M.A., Official Assignee.

W. F. Hall,

OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE under Insolvent Act of 1875. Fire Insurance Agent, &c. Office of Napanee Paper Mills East Street.

Hendershot & Coats,

Attorneys, Solicitors in Chancery and Bankruptcy. Office in Grange Block, Napanee. JOHN L. HENDERSHOT, Solicitor and Notary Public, Attain Courts. Canadacoats. Solicitor in High Courts of Judicature, and Notary Public, English Courts. Money to Loan.

James Grange, M. D.,

HOTELRY DIRECTORS.—G. Striker, Esq., M. P. P., Pictou; R. Clapp, Esq., Millford; E. Graham, Esq., Belleville; P. Allen, C. A. Lloyd, J. P. Dorland, Esq., Adolphustown; J. C. Hoffman, Esq., J. T. Grange, Esq., M. P. P., Napanee; J. E. Proctor, Esq., Brighton; G. W. Webb, Esq., Colborne; G. Jones, Esq., Trenton; J. Redner, Esq., Rednersville; Owen Roddin, Esq., Ameliasburg; H. A. McFaul, Esq., Hillier.

This Company is established upon strictly Mutual principles, insuring farm property, Townships, and property not more hazardous than Towns and Villages and offers great advantages to insure at low rates for Three or Four Years either on the Premium Note or Cash System. 321-y.

CATARRH!

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs, and Droppings in Front Disappear.

See page 12, 13, 14, 15, 16

M. T. J. B. HARDING,

DEAR SIR.—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, I wish to inform you that it has done for me, I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very lame back, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual droppings in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced taking your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY NIDER.

Price $1 per bottle; For sale by all Druggists

Consumption Cured!

An old physician, retired from active practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a Vegetable Remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat and Lung Affections; also a Positive and Radical Cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative power in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send FREE OF CHARGE, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail, by addressing with stamp, naming this paper.

DR. W. C. STEVENS,

Box 86, Brockville, Ont.

700 Doz. have been sold since April last, of Brunton's Rheumatic Absorbent and Digestive Fluid.

The Rheumatic Absorbent will positively relieve all pain from Rheumatism or other inflammatory swellings in 12 hours.

The Digestive Fluid has never failed to cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion, etc., in a few hours. The most obstinate cases are cured within a week. At present, I have been seized from Life-threatening Pneumonia and Bronchitis, Catarrh and Ischuria, and was cured in few days by its use. Sold by Druggists, price 50 cts. Wholesale by Northrop & Lyman. Advice for particular cases free. Address: W. Y. BRUNTON, London.

WANTED.

We want reliable, energetic canvassing agents in every town in the Dominion for the new "Illustrated History of the Dominion of Canada." This work is truly magnificent, containing over 2,000 double column quarto pages, and over 300 superb full page engravings. The work is published in Paris, on a plan which insures its welcome to every English reading family. To energetic young men and ladies, who are willing to work, we will guarantee a permanent position for two years.

QUEEN'S HOTEL, BELLEVILLE

Every Accommodation for Commercial Travellers.

A. P. FARRELL, PROPRIETOR.

McDONALD HOUSE,

(Late Clark House)

BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Pictou and Campbellford.

Pass to and from the cars.

Land for Sale

30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and Wild Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres; also of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low prices and easy terms. Office corner of Dundas and West Streets Napanee.

JAMES F. BARTLES.

Napanee, Sept. 12th, 1876.

FOR CHEAP

GROCERIES, CROCKERY & GLASSWARE

GO TO

GEORGE REID'S

NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE.

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

A. PETERS, ODESSA,

DEALER IN

Sash, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese Boxes, Tubs, Firkins, etc.

I am now making a very superior article in a sawed cheese box; which I will sell at 12c. All orders entrusted to me will receive prompt attention.

BUTTER BROS.,

LIVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE ERISCO HOUSE.)

NAPANEE, ONT.

We keep nothing but First-Class Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE PRICES.

JNO. A. REID

VET. SURGEON NAPANEE ONT.

GRADUATE OF

Ontario Veterinary College.

May be consulted on all diseases of Domesticated Animals, personally at Campbell House or by letter.

TERMS MODERATE

Office—Warner Block.

"But, I Ye can't be intendin' to always I Wild niver a husband, but nopen! An' niver a baby?"

"Whi Yer very onnammerly."

"It's only the truth that I'm tellin' That yer niver intendin' to die a this?"

"It's right ye are, Teddy; how this?"

"Well, thin, will it plaze ye to gi

"Git out wid your blarney, shure But there might be another w well?"

"Arrah, Kitts, me darlin', don't! If ye wouldn't be killin' the thrub But if there's another ye like me Then it's faithless ye are, an' it's An' I'll die lookin' hearted for I, That I thought to be gainin'!"

"Why, Is it dyin' yer talkin' of? What An' an unmarried wida in mournin' An' ye wanted a kiss, sir? We must— Oh, murder, the man is devourin' Is it atin' me up ye'd be after be Well, it's not so onyplazin', ye ma An' if an' one's askin' about ye, broth of a boy is me Teddy."

A CURATE'S HO

A SHORT STORY OF THRILL

When left alone by the whose house I had so unex come a guest, I looked arou in which I was to pass the I 'll-finished, and carpetless, clean; and as I listened t wind, and heard the rain p the casement, I felt thankf cover of a roof, however low the door by the only means a rough wooden bolt, I had got into bed, and was soon

How long I had slept I h of judging, before I awoke from a dream, in which one six sons—magnified into been plying me by the "Devil's Hole" at the Spik

The dream disturbed me that for a long time I co compose myself; but at leng upon the point of relapsin sciousness, when a sound, to be at once expellid, peared to come from the Mr. Morgan's room, (stru ear, rousing me in an instad wakefulness. Wonder could be, I strained my listen; but it was not repea however, I became, consen sounds, faint in themselves, drowned beneath the wail o which, nevertheless, my he ed acute by anxiety, distin They were an intermittent the distant staircase, acco shuffling kind. I read upon might be occasioned by the scent of several persons ben weight. That at least was tation wich, with a sicken as to what that weight mi upon these mysterious mid Shooing from bed, I crosse tip-toe, applied my ear to t the door, and bent all my hearken. I am not, I thin, but I must own to experie sensation of alarm when, a there for a few moments, d not only heard the wind wil the passage below, but a powerful draught, I knew sation of both that the e which must have been open again closed.

Noislessly but swiftly I to the window, and pres against it, in the hope of di and what it was that had l at so strange an hour. It was pitchy dark; I could beyond a foot from the pan ering less from exposure than from a horrible idea taken possession of me, I e bed. Several hours appeared to though I have no doubt it v

McLary, Molloy's Dry Goods Store.
Money to Loan at 5 per cent.

Cartwright & Gibson,

BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery and Insolvency, Notaries Public, etc. OFFICE: Grange Block, John Street, Napanee.
J. S. CARTWRIGHT, S. GIBSON.

R. Tracy, M. D., BELLEVILLE.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon and Accouchen
Office and Residence, two doors east of the Bank of Montreal, near the Con stitutional Church, Hotel St. J.

Reeve & Morden,

BARRISTERS and Attorneys-at-Law
Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers,
Notaries Public, etc. OFFICE: New Block Dundas
Street, Napanee, Ontario.
W. A. REEVE, M. D.,
J. S. MORDEN, Esq.,
Attorneys.

E. A. Herod,

OFFICIAL ASSESSOR, Lands, New Act
of 1875.
Office in H. M. G. B. Law Office.

Williams & Hooper,

BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery and Insolvency, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.
Napanee, Ontario.
A. S. WILLIAMS, Esq.,
J. S. HOOPER, M. A.,
Official Assessors.

W. F. Hall,

OFFICIAL ASSESSOR, under Insol
vent Act of 1875. Fire Insurance Agent, Sec. of Napanee Paper Mills,
East Street.

Henderson & Coats,

AW, Chancery, and Conveyancing, Solicitors in Insolvency and Bank
ruptcy. OFFICE: In Grange Block,
John Street, Napanee.
JOHN R. L. HENDERSON,
Notary Public and Notary Public, Attain Courts.
Solicitor in High Courts of India,
Napanea, and Notary Public, English
Courts.
Money to Loan.

James Graze, M. D.,

GRADUATE University of Victoria
College, Canada, and College and Physicians and Surgeons, Ontario.
Member of the College of Physicians
and Surgeons, Ontario.
Special Attention paid to Diseases of
the Eye.
Office and Residence: Centre Street,
Napanee, Ont.

James F. Bartles,

LAND AGENT, Fire, Life and Acci
dent Insurance Agent. Office:
corner of Dundas and West Streets, Napanea.

F. Bartlett

ARCHITECT and BUILDER, West Street, Napanea. Plans, Specifications
and Detail Drawings furnished. Builders work measured and value estimated.

Pat. & Machine Shop,

STEAM ENGINES and all kinds of Machinery made to order. Also all kinds of Machinery repaired in the shortest notice. Remember the place, opposite the old City Hotel, corner of Adelaide and Bridge Streets.

Life Insurance Co.

ESTABLISHED 1810
CAP. PAID, $1,000,000.

A MOUNT DEPOSITED IN CAN

ADA in accordance with the Act
30,000.
Insures property against fire as low as any other reliable company. All losses equitably adjusted and promptly paid in Canada funds or Gold. Isolated dwellings insured at exceedingly
low rates.

H. L. GEDDES, Agent,
for Napanea and vicinity.

on here hard and continued labor, such as pumping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I at tribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarth Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY NIDER.
Price 25 per bottle, for sale by all Druggists

Consumption Cured!

An old physician, retired from active
practice, having had placed in his hands
by an East India Missionary the formula
of a Vegetable Remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat
and Lung Affections; also a Positive and
Radical Cure for Nervous Debility and
all Nervous Complaints, after having
thoroughly tested its wonderful curative power in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering
fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send FREE OF CHARGE, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail, by address ing with stamp, enclosing this paper.

DR. W. C. STEVENS,
Box 86, Brockville, Ont.

700 Doz. have been sold since April last, of Brunton's Rheumatic Absorbent and Digestive Fluid.

The Rheumatic Absorbent will positively re lieve all pain from Rheumatism or other in flammatory swellings in 12 hours.
The Digestive Fluid has never failed to cure Dyspepsia. Relief is felt in a few hours. The most obstinate cases are cured within a week.
At Napanea, I have been saved from Life Liver and Gall Bladder. I had Bronchitis, Catarrh and Dyspepsia and was cured in a few days by its use. Sold by Druggists at 50 cts. Wholesale by Northup & Lyman. Advice for particular cases free. Address:
W. Y. BRUNTON, London

WANTED.

We want reliable, energetic canvassing
agents in every town in the Dominion for the new "Illustrated History of the Do minion of Canada." This work is truly magnificent, containing over 2,000 double column quarto pages, and over 300 superb full page engravings. The work is pub lished in Paris, on a plan which insures it is welcome to every English reading family. Thoroughgoing young men and ladies, who are willing to work, we will guaran tee a permanent position for two years, and good pay. Don't fail write to for our private terms, sample pages, etc. This is a grand opportunity for school teachers to make more than double their salaries
without interfering with their profes sional duties. The works being manu factured at a cost of over $20,000 for the literary, artistic and mechanical work of producing the plates by the old well known, reliable Lovell Printing and Pub lishing Co., of Montreal. All letters from agents must be addressed to the Publishers
General agents as follows:
HAZEN B. BIGEY & Co.,
25 and 30 St. Francis Xavier Street,
MONTREAL, QUE.

SEE! LOOK! BEHOLD!

A NEW SIGHT HAS COME TO TOWN

IT IS PATENTED EYE-SIGHT!

F. W. SMITH,

THE HAPPY POSSESSOR.

He will provide all who desire it at reasonable rates. Call and look at

JOHNSTON & CONRATH'S

Economical Spectacles,

EASY-FITTING.

Eye-Glasses and Superior Eye Tryer.

This firm has appointed me sole agent of their goods in this vicinity.

F. W. SMITH,

Napanee.

Optician and Jeweler.

NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE.

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

A. PETERS, ODESSA,

DEALER IN

Sash, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese
Boxes, Tubs, Firkins, etc.

I am now making a very superior arti cle in a sawed cheese box; which I will sell at 12. All orders intrusted to me
will receive prompt attention

BUTTER BROS.,

LIVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE ERISCO HOUSE.)

NAPANEE, ONT.

We keep nothing but First-Class
Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE
PRICES

J. A. REID

VE T. SURGEON
NAPANEE ONT.

GRADUATE OF

Ontario Veterinary College.

May be consulted on all diseases of Domesti
cated Animals, personally at Campbell House
or by letter.

TERMS MODERATE

OFFICE—Warner Block.

OCEAN TICKETS.

OCEAN Tickets for sale via Quebec or Halifax
in summer, Halifax or Portland in winter, by the Albin S. S. Line, White Star Line, Canadian and National, via New York. Also return tickets at reduced rates to any point in the Old Country.

RAILWAY TICKETS.

Tickets by the Great Western Railway, to all
points and return at reduced rates.

EXCHANGE OFFICE.

American money bought and sold, and drafts
on New York.

ACCIDENTAL INSURANCE.

Agent for the Accidental Insurance Co. of Canada.

A. H. ALLISON, Agent.

Montreal Telegraph Office.

Over Mallory's Drug Store

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Cuvier's Celebrated Es say on the radical and permanent cure (with out medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage,
etc., resulting from excesses.

1st Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or
two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, of this admirable Es say clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' suc cessful practice, that alarming consequence
may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and rad ically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address

THE CULBERTWELL MEDICAL CO.,

41 Ann St., New York.

Post Office Box, 1586.

45-yl.

got into bed, and was soon

How long I had slept I ha of judging, before I awoke from a dream, in which one of six sons—magnified it to a been pining me by the l
"Devil's Hole" at the Spike

The dream disturbed me that for a long time I coul compose myself; but at length upon the point of relapsing sciousness, when a sound to be at once explicable, I perceived to come from the nei
Mr. Morgan's room, struck ear, rousing me in an instan ed wakefulness. Wonderi could be, I strained my listen; but it was not repeate however, I became consciou sounds, faint in themselves, drowned beneath the wail of which, nevertheless, my hea ed acute by anxiety, disting
They were an intermittent the distant staircase, accom shuffling kind of tread upon might be occasioned by the c scent of several persons bear weight. That at least was t tation wick, with a sickening as to what that weight mi upon these mysterious midn Shedding from bed, I crossed tip-toe, applied my ear to th the door, and bent all my hearken. And, my, I think but I must own to experimen sensation of alarm when, af there for a few moments, di not only heard the wind whist the passage below, but acq powerful draught, I know fro sation of both that the en which must have been opene
again closed.

Noislessly but swiftly I to the window, and presse against it, in the hope of disc and what it was that had ge at so strange an hour. But was pitchy dark; I could beyond a foot from the pane ering less from exposure t than from a horrible idea taken possession of me, I cr bed.

Several hours appeared to though I have no doubt it w less than half a one, before, I live preception, I became aw individuals who had quiette had returned to it. Then dread, none the less overwie its being in a measure, vig more concentrated all my p the act of listening, and I w ed by my terror, quickene the stairs were again cr time beneath a light tread.
I was sure of it—a stealth coming down the passage preaching my room! It pa the door, and in another m hand was at work upon it Some kind of instrument, ag serted between the door and by means of which the bol gradually pushed backwards el.

With a rapidity my moments of excitement or mind flew in an inconce space of time through a cou ing, which shaped all my p mises and brought me to th
conclusions:

Firstly, that my friend a len into bad hands, and th means or other the villainou the farm had found out abo in Mr. Morgan's custody. Se the poor gentleman had bee perhaps murdered upon its s lastly, that those who had d having returned, were now i commission of a similar de self.

Scarcely, however, had this terrible judgment ere upon me a hope of escape prebended danger. It about by the reflection

(S:

The longer I ruminated upon the aspect of affairs, the uglier they now became, and the more clearly did I begin to perceive that the whole thing had been a preconcerted plot. It was by no means take, I presently told myself, that Jonathan had turned up that lane, and by no accident that the horse had lost its shoe. We had been expected last night at the farm house, and we had been taken there deliberately, in order that Mr. Morgan might be robbed of his money. Jonathan had either discovered the existence of the three hundred pounds, or he had been informed of it. But how or by whom? The answer to this question was not far to seek, and being supplied, it furnished the complete link in the chain of evidence. I was mentally working out The landlord of the Ship and Anchor was the dwarf's cousin; he had seen the minister's money! Incredible! his covetous glances, his suspicious presence in the closet, the fact that he had proposed our taking the dog cart; and everything grew transparent at daylight. But had the little Welshman really been murdered? And was my method of accounting for the noises of last night accurate? I could in doubt no longer could I dismiss a hideous idea as to how his body had been disposed of, which, directly upon learning that I was in this vicinity, had taken possession of me. It was in fact with an implicit belief that my late companion was lying at the bottom of it, that I now approached that He-which-on the previous day, had afflicted me so disagreeably. Learning over the brink upon gaining it, I experienced that peculiar kind of fascination which attends this horrible, as going in to its depths, I watched the water foaming and whirling, and occasionally rising in great sheets to cast itself with angry impetuosity against the confining barrier. Noting its fury, which appeared to

FIRST-CLASS HOTEL. CHARGES MODERATE.

QUEEN'S HOTEL, BELLEVILLE

very Accommodation for Commercial vellers.

A. P. FARRELL,
PROPRIETOR.

MCDONALD HOUSE, (Late Clark House)

RIGHTON, ONT.

ages leave this House daily, for Picton and speciford.
is to and from the cars.

Land for Sale 30,000 ACRES.

HE subscriber has been appointed Agent for
the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and a number of Farms, to the extent of 30,000 acres;
of City, Town and Village property, in all of the Province of Ontario, at very low and easy terms.
Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets
Union.

JAMES F. BARTLES.

Union, Sept. 12th, 1876.

FOR CHEAP

ROCERIES,
CROCKERY &
GLASSWARE

GO TO

GEORGE REID'S

EXT. DOOR TO POST OFFICE.

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

A. PETERS, ODESSA,

DEALER IN

Sash, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese
boxes, Tubs, Firkins, etc.
I am now making a very superior article in a sawed cheese box, which I will flat 122. All orders intrusted to me
will receive prompt attention

BOTTER BROS., IVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE FRISCO HOUSE.)
NAPANEE, ONT.

We keep nothing but First-Class
orses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE RICES.

J. A. REID

VET. SURGEON
NAPANEE ONT.

GRADUATE OF

Ontario Veterinary College.

May be consulted on all diseases of Domesticated Animals, personally at Campbell House

An' at home it's the same, fur she's fond of her nise.
An' yer couldn't say which o' 'osses the place is;
An' it's like yer assurance to ask me to leave.
An' he's the same taken—no will ye behave.
Let go me hand, sir?"

"But, Kitty, me dear,
Ye can't be intendin' to always live here.
Wid niver a husband, but niver a home.
An' niver a baby?"

"Whist, Mr. Malone!
Yer very onnammently."

"Died a wife
It's only the truth that I'm tellin', indeed.
That yer niver intendin' to die an old maid."

"It's right yer are, Teddy; how could ye know
this?"

"Well, thin, will it please ye to give me the kiss?"
"Git out wid yer blarney, shure, how can I tell But there might be another would—thin me—
well?"

"Arrah, Kitty, me darlin', don't say that agin'.
If ye wouldn't be killin' the thrust of mine;
But if there's another ye like more than me,
Then it's fairless ye are, an' it's goin' I'll be.
An' I'll be broken hearted for lack of the joy
That I thought to be gainin'."

"Who, Teddy, me boy,
Is it dyin' yer talkin' of? What would I do
An' onnammently wid in mornin' fur ye?"
An' ye wanted a kiss, sir? Well, there if you must—
Oh, murdher, the man is deavourin' me, thin;
Is it atin' me up ye'd be after belike?
Well, it's not so onyazin', ye may it ye like?
An' if any one's askin' about ye, I'll own broth of a boy is me Teddy Malone."

A CURATE'S HOLIDAY.

A SHORT STORY OF THRILLING INTEREST.

When left alone by the farmer at whose house I had so unexpectedly become a guest, I looked around the room in which I was to pass the night. It was ill-finished, and carpetless, but not unclean; and as I listened to the gusty wind, and heard the rain pelt against the casement, I felt thankful to be under eaver of a roof, however lowly. Securing the door by the only means it possessed, a rough wooden bolt, I laid my prayers,
got into bed, and was soon fast asleep.

How long I had slept I have no means of judging, before I awoke with a start from a dream, in which one of the farmer's six sons—magnified into a giant—had been poisoning me by the haun over the "Devil's Hole" at the Spike Rocks.

The dream disturbed me so greatly,
that for a long time I could not again
compose myself; but at length I was just upon the point of relapsing into unconsciousness, when a sound, too confused to be at once explicable, but which appeared to come from the neighborhood of
Mr. Morgan's room, struck upon my ear, rousing me in an instance to renewed wakefulness. Wondering what it could be, I strained my attention to listen; but it was not repeated. Presently however, I became conscious of other sounds, faint in themselves, and partially drowned beneath the wail of the wind, but which, nevertheless, my hearing, rendered acute by anxiety, distinctly reported.
They were an intermittent creaking of the distant staircase, accompanied by a shuffling kind of tread upon it, such as might be occasioned by the cautious descent of several persons bearing a heavy weight. That at least was the interpretation which, with a sickening conjecture, as to what that weight might be, I put upon these mysterious midnight noises.
Shrinking from bed, I crossed the room on tip-toe, applied my ear to the crevice of the door, and bent all my faculties to hearken. For a moment I think I waited,
but I must own to experiencing a strong kenation of alarm when, after standing there for a few moments, during which I not only heard the wind whistling round the passage below, but actually felt a powerful draught, I knew from that cesation of both that the entrance-door, which must have been opened, had been
again closed.

Noislessly and swiftly I passed over to the window, and pressed my face against it, in the hope of discovering who
and what it was that had left the house at so strange an hour. But the night was pitchy dark; I could see nothing
beyond a foot from the pane; and shivering less from exposure to the cold than from a horrible idea which had leading over my bed for what, measured by my mental suffering was an eternity, during which, with a difficult exercise of self-control, I continued to respire like one in heavy slumber, he stole away again, without having meddled with my clothes or gone near the rude dressing-table upon which lay my watch.

But my trial was not yet over. For I should think fully an hour after he had quitted the bed chamber and carefully replaced the bolt, my unknown watcher remained listening outside the door; and throughout that time I neither dared stir a limb nor remit my snoring breathing.
Eventually, however, an exchange of whispers with some person or persons, who had evidently been awaiting, not far off, the result of this protracted test, was followed, to my intense relief, by the sound of retreating footsteps.

Upon how I passed the remainder of that dreadful night with the long-drawn-out hours of early morning which succeeded, I am not about to do well. But that no sleep visited my eyelids, and that tortured by suspense and enforcement my hard couch was by no means a bed of roses, it will readily be believed. Upon that couch nevertheless I forced myself to remain, until considerably after seven o'clock; then, rising and dressing, I bathed my face in cold water, and studying it in the tiny mirror, strove carefully to remove all traces of solicitude or want of rest.

But when ready at length to go forth from that chamber of horrors and satisfy myself, as I had been so feverishly longing to do, as to the truth or falsity of the theory (for after all it was little else) which I had passed upon the events of the night, I shrank from doing so.

After another earnest prayer, however, for strength to meet whatever might be in store for me, and to act the part upon which I had determined, I summoned up courage, drew the bolt, and passed out.
On reaching the room allotted to Mr.
Morgan upon the previous evening, I found the door standing wide open, and with mingled feelings of awe and curiosity, I entered. It was, as a single glance showed me, in perfect order. The bed, of which the coverings were turned down, was ruffled no further than it would have been by a peaceful slumberer,
and the coarse sheets were unstained by the slightest mark of blood. Nowhere could the faintest indication of disturbance be discovered; and as the welcome thought suggested itself, that had any deed of violence really taken place, its evidences could scarcely have been so cleverly eluded, I turned with a heart lighted by hope, which was well-nigh assurance, and went downstairs. A clatter of crockery greeted my ears as I heard the kitchen; and upon arriving there, I found the farmer with his family and Jonathan the driver seated at breakfast
by a large centre table. A smaller one and with cups and plates for two, stood nearer the fireplace; but the little minister, a rapid survey of the apartment satisfied my, was not present. Instantly my strong hope perished, giving place to a pang of keen disappointment. But commending my features to an expression of concern, I returned the good morrows which were showered upon me, and replied to a question from my host as to how I had slept, with the assurance that I had passed an excellent night, and that indeed I was at all times a remarkably sound sleeper.

Whilst making this statement, however,
I was fully conscious that in each of the several pairs of eyes which I saw directed towards me there was a hard, scrutinizing look. But instead of disconcerting, that inspiring gaze rather emboldened me.
Convinced thereby of the absolute necessity for enactment of the rôle upon which I had decided, I felt my spirit rising to meet the occasion. Crossing the floor I seated myself by the smaller table, and inquired in a firm voice, and with a smile upon my face, where Mr. Morgan was, remarking, that in passing his room, I had decided that it had been vacated.

"Well, indeed yes sir; it is more as a host I should think since the good gentleman will be come down at air, and that he

The longer I ruminated upon the aspect of affairs, the uglier they now became, and the more clearly did I begin to perceive that the whole thing had been a preconcerted plot. It was by no mistake, I presently told myself, that Jonathan had turned up that lane, and by no accident that the horse had lost its shoe. We had been expected last night at the farm house, and we had been taken there deliberately, in order that Mr. Morgan might be robbed of his money. Jonathan had either discovered the existence of the three hundred pounds, or he had been informed of it.
But how or by whom? The answer to this question was not far to seek, and being supplied, it furnished the completing link in the chain of evidence I was mentally working out. The landlord of the Ship and Anchor was the dwarf's cousin; he had seen the minister's money.
I recalled his covetous glance, his suspicious presence in the closet, the fact that he had proposed our taking the dog-cart; and everything grew transparent as daylight. But had the little Welshman really been murdered? And was my method of accounting for the noises of last night accurate? I could not doubt it; nor could I dismiss a hideous idea as to how his body had been disposed of, which, directly upon learning that I was in this vicinity, had taken possession of me. It was in fact with an implicit belief that my late companion was lying at the bottom of it, that I now approached that Hole which on the previous day had affected me so disagreeably. Leaning over the brink upon gaining it, I experienced that peculiar kind of fascination which attends the horrible, as gazing into its depths, I watched the water foaming and whirling, and occasionally rising in great sheets to cast itself with angry impatience against the confining barrier.
Noting its fury, which appeared to have increased since my former visit, I saw to a certainty that, even were it possible to reach the bottom without being dashed to pieces upon the rocks, no life could be retained for an instant in that boiling pool. To fall or to be thrown down here would be certain and instantaneous death.
There would be no chance of being exhumed for interment in a more hallowed spot, for what diver could be found during enough to descend below those gyrating waters! No! Had my friend been cast into the "Devil's Hole," here
he must remain. There could be no tales told by his body as to how he had met with his death, for that body would be seen no more by mortal eye.

But to me, the manner of that death
had now become no longer a mystery.
Shut out from the supposition that there had been actual violence, by the total absence of any proof of it, I had lighted upon another hypothesis respecting the crime, which to my mind, however, was no hypothesis, but a well-assured fact. It was, that by means of something mixed with the whiskey of which he had drunk
just before retiring to rest, the poor little minister had either been drugged into unconsciousness or actually poisoned,
and in that condition conveyed from the house and disposed of as I had said. But although all this appeared to myself so lucid and certain, I knew well that I could bring forward no legal proof of the well-arranged vilany, and that consequently, the scoundrels who had perpetrated it would in all probability escape punishment, and Mr. Morgan's disappearance be attributed to accident, unwor-ringly at this thought, I was about to move away from the place of his entomment—for so I felt confident it was—when something occurred which arrested
my steps, and made my heart leap.
What that something was, I will endeavor to relate in as simple a manner as possible.

For some time, during which the reflections I have recorded had been passing through my brain, my eyes had been resting quite unconsciously upon an abutting fragment of rock some twelve or fourteen feet below the level of the ground. The rock sloped sharply upwards, forming an acute angle with the well-nigh perpendicular walls of the
"Hole," of which it constituted perhaps

ST DOOR TO POST OFFICE.

UNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

A. PETERS, ODESSA,

DEALER IN
St. Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese
s, Tubs, Firkins, etc.
am now making a very superior arti-
a sawed cheese box; which I will it 122. All orders entrusted to me receive prompt attention

POTTER BROS.,
VEHICLE AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE ERISCO HOUSE.)
NAPANEE, ONT.
We keep nothing but First-Class
s and "vices," and at REASONABLE ES.

J. A. REID
VET. SURGEON
NAPANEE ONT.
GRADUATE OF
Ontario Veterinary College.

ty be consulted on all diseases of Domestic Animals, personally at Campbell House
y letter.
TERMS MODERATE
Office—Warner Block.

OCEAN TICKETS.

CEAS Tickets for sale via Quebec or Halifax
in summer, Halifax or Portland in winter, by Alma S. S. Line, White Star Line, Emen and Jonal, via New York. Also return tickets at need rates to any point in the Old Country.

RAILWAY TICKETS.
ickets by the Great Western Railway, to all ns and return at reduced rates.

EXCHANGE OFFICE.
money money bought and sold, and drafts
New York.

ACCIDENTAL INSURANCE.
gent for the Accidental Insurance Co. of nada.
A. H. ALLISON, Agent.
Montreal Telegraph Office.
Over Mallory's Drug Store.

MANHOOD:
OW LOST, NOW RESTORED!

VE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Cuyver's Celebrated Ess on the radical and permanent cure of (ill) medical) of Nervous Debility, Mental and ysical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage,
e, resulting from excesses.
Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or
a postage stamp.
The celebrated author, of this admirable Ess clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences ay be radically cured without the dangerous e of internal medicine or the application of e knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once eple, certain and effectual, by means of which ery sufferer, no matter what his condition may e, may cure himself cheaply, privately and rad-lly.
This Lecture should be in the hands of ery youth and every man in the land.
Address
THE CULVERWELL MEDICAL CO., 41 Ann St., New York.
ost Office Box, 4366. 45-yl.

How long I had slept I have no means
of judging, before I awoke with a start
from a dream, in which one of the farmer's six sons—magnified into a giant—had been poisoning me by the hair over the "Devil's Hole" at the Spike Rocks.
The dream disturbed me so greatly,
that for a long time I could not again
compose myself; but at length I was just
upon the point of relapsing into unconsciousness, when a sound so confused to be at once explicable, but which appeared to come from the neighborhood of
Mr. Morgan's room, struck upon my ear, rousing me in an instance to renewed wakefulness. Wondering what it could be, I strained my attention to listen; but it was not repeated. Presently however, I became conscious of other sounds, faint in themselves, and partially drowned beneath the wail of the wind, but which, nevertheless, my hearing, rendered acute by anxiety, distinctly reported.
They were an intermittent creaking of
the distant staircase, accompanied by a shuffling kind of tread upon it, such as might be occasioned by the cautious descent of several persons bearing a heavy weight. That at least was the interpretation which, with a sickening conjecture,
as to what that weight might be, I put
upon these mysterious midnight noises.
Shivering from head, I crossed the room on tip-toe, applied my ear to the crack of the door, and bent all my faculties to listen. I am not, I think, a coward;
but I must own to experiencing a strong sensation of alarm when, after standing there for a few moments, during which I not only heard the wind whistling into the passage below, but actually felt a powerful draught, I knew from the cesation of both that the entrance-door
which must have been opened, had been
again closed.
Noiselessly but swiftly I passed over to the window, and pressed my face against it, in the hope of discovering who
and what it was that had left the house
at so strange an hour. But the night was pitchy dark; I could see nothing
beyond a foot from the pane; and shivering less from exposure to the cold
than from a horrible idea which had taken possession of me, I crept back to bed.
Several hours appeared to have elapsed, though I have no doubt it was in reality less than half a one, before, by a intuitive preception, I became aware that the individuals who had quitted the farm had returned to it. Trembling with dread, here the less overwhelming from its being in a measure vague, I once more concentrated all my powers upon the act of listening, and was soon informed by my terror-quicken senses that the stairs were again creaking—this time beneath a light tread. Then—yes!
I was sure of it—a stealthy step was coming down the passage, slowly approaching my room! It paused before the door, and in another instant a vary-hand was at work upon the fastener.
Some kind of instrument had been inserted between the door and its frame, by means of which the bolt was being gradually pushed backwards in the lock.
ek.
With a rapidity not unusual in moments of excitement or danger, my mind flew in an inconceivable short space of time through a course of reasoning, which shaped all my previous surmises and brought me to the following conclusions:
Firstly, that my friend and I had fallen into bad hands, and that by some means or other the villainous inmates of the farm had found out about the money in Mr. Morgan's custody. Secondly, that the poor gentleman had been robbed and perhaps murdered upon its account. And lastly, that those who had done the deed, having returned, were now mediating the commission of a similar deed upon myself.
Scarcely, however, had I arrived at this terrible judgment ere there darted upon me a hope of escape from the apprehended danger. It was brought about by the reflection that in my lashed the door standing wide open, and with mingled feelings of awe and curiosity, I entered. It was, as a single glance showed me, in perfect order. The bed,

of which the coverings were turned
down, was ruffled no further than it would have been by a peaceful slumberer,
and the coarse sheets were unstained by
the slightest mark of blood. Nowhere could the faintest indication of disturbance be discovered; and as the welcome
thought suggested itself, that had any deed of violence really taken place, its evidences could scarcely have been so cleverly eluded, I turned with a heart lighted by hope, which was well-nigh assurance, and went downstairs. A clatter of crockery greeted my ears as I neared
the kitchen; and upon arriving there, I found the farmer with his family and Jonathan the driver seated at breakfast
by a large centre table. A smaller one aid with cups and plates for two, stood nearer the fireplace; but the little minister, a rapid survey of the apartment satisfied my, was not present. Instantly my strong hope perished, giving place to a pang of keen disappointment. But commanding my features to an expression of unconcern, I returned the good morrows which were showered upon me, and replied to a question from my host as to how I had slept, with the assurance that I had passed an excellent night, and that indeed I was at all times a remarkably
sound sleeper.
Whilst making this statement, however,
I was fully conscious that in each of the several pairs of eyes which I saw directed towards me there was a hard, scrutinizing look. But instead of disconcerting me, inquiring gaze rather emboldened me.
Convinced thereby of the absolute necessity for enactment of the role upon which I had decided, I felt my spirit rising to meet the occasion. Crossing the floor I seated myself by the smaller table, and inspired in a firm voice, and with a smile upon my face, where Mr. Morgan was,
remarking, that in passing his room, I had noticed that it had been vacated.
"Well, indeed yes sir; it is more as an hour I should think since the good gentleman will be come down at air, and that he is gone out for a walk," composedly returned I the farmer, to whom I had addressed myself. "It is to see the Spike Rocks that he will be gone, it was no doubt.
But I could be glad he come now to breakfast, for he is a long while away, whatever."

"The Spike Rocks!" I exclaimed, feeling that I was turning pale, and almost losing my self-possession. "Surely, we are not near the Spike Rocks?"

"But yes indeed, sir," rejoined the old woman, who was standing up, cutting bread for the rest, and in whom I detected a large amount of suppressed excitement. "It was but a little way off the Rocks, this farm. And it is named, sir, the Spike Rock farm. In the summer time there was a many ladies and gentlemen will call here?"

"Spike Rocks!" I cried, interrupting her rudely, and turning to Jonathan in a violent rage, which for the moment swallowed up all thought of caution—"how dared you, sirrah, bring us again to this horrible spot? You must have known where you were driving. You, you!"

I added, stammering, as a highly discomposing suspicion flashed over my mind, and finishing the sentence differently from what I had intended—"or you must have been more drunk than I had imagined."

"But sir, I was not drunk no more than you was yourself," rejoined the hunchback in a threatening tone, glaring at me fiercely. "And it is of no use that you will scold me sir. not of any at all;
for, sir, I did not know that we was come here myself—not till this morning whatever. And by?"

"Silence, man!" I interposed, with an assumption of dignity and a strenuous effort to appear collected; "swearing and passionate language will not convince me that you are speaking the truth any better than quiet words would do." But I will go and meet Mr. Morgan," I conclud-remained for an instant in that boiling pool. To fall or to be thrown down here

would be certain and instantaneous death.
There would be no chance of being exchanged for interment in a more hollowed spot, for what diver could be found daring enough to descend below those gyrating waters! No! Had my friend
been cast into the "Devil's Hole," here
he must remain. There could be no tales told by his body as to how he had met with his death, for that body would be seen no more by mortal eye.

But to me, the manner of that death
had now become no longer a mystery.
Shut out from the supposition that there
had been actual violence, by the total absence of any proof of it, I had lighted
upon another hypothesis respecting the crime, which to my mind, however, was no hypothesis, but a well-assured fact. It was, that by means of something mixed
with the whiskey of which he had drunk
just before retiring to rest, the poor little minister had either been drugged into unconsciousness, or actually poisoned,
and in that condition conveyed from the house and disposed of as I had said. But although all this appeared to myself so lucid and certain, I knew well that I could bring forward no legal proof of the well-arranged villainy, and that consequently, the scoundrels who had perpetrated it would in all probability escape punishment, and Mr. Morgan's disappearance he attributed to accident. Inwardly raging at this thought, I was about to move away from the place of his entombment—for so I felt confident it was—
when something occurred which arrested
my steps, and made my heart leap.
What that something was, I will endeavor to relate in as simple a manner as possible.

For some time, during which the reflections I have recorded had been passing through my brain, my eyes had been resting quite unconsciously upon an abutting fragment of rock some twelve or fourteen feet below the level of the ground. The rock sloped sharply upwards, forming an acute angle with the
well-nigh perpendicular walls of the
"Hole," of which it constituted perhaps the chief irregularity. My gaze, I repeat, chanced to be resting on this inclined abutment, when, with what indescribable amazement and awe may be imagined, I all at once saw a human hand and arm emerge from what appeared to be the solid granite of the upright side, and grasping the projecting shelf, draw after it the head and shoulders of a man.
During the first moment the back of the head only was presented to my view;
then slowly, and as though with difficulty, a white face was turned upwards.
Although pale, and drawn as though in intense pain, I recognized it perfectly; it was that of the little minister. But before my bewildered faculties could collect themselves, or my paralysed tongue could articulate a syllable, the hand had relaxed its hold, and the figure had slid back as it were, right into the rock. The suddenness and strangeness of this appearance so upset my nerves that my knees trembled and shook beneath me.
Yet not for an instant did I entertain the idea that I had seen an apparition. That face I felt sure was the face of a living man, and belonged to none other than Mr. Morgan himself. But notwithstanding my assurance upon this point, I was so startled by the unexpected phenomenon, that until I could hit upon some way of accounting for his presence in and disappearance from that singular spot, I could not even rejoice in the knowledge that my friend was alive. I did, however, hit upon a way of accounting for it, directly the dazing effect of my astonishment passed sufficiently to allow me to consider at all. And in truth the explanation was obvious enough. Behind that projecting ore, and entirely concealed by it, there must be, it was plain, a hole or cavern so large in size as to admit a man's body. Upon being cast over the precipice (about which there could now be no further question), the

Express.

THE GREATEST NUMBER."

DAY, APRIL 13 1877.

($1.00 per annum, if paid in advance.

NO. 51.

TO THE TERRESTRIAL GLOBE.

BY A MISERABLE WRETCH.

Roll on, thou ball, roll on!
Through pathless realms of space
Roll on!
What though I'm in a sorry case?
What though I cannot meet my bills?
What though I suffer toothache's ills?
What though I swallow countless pills?
Never you mind!
Roll on!

Roll on, thou ball, roll on!
Through seas of inky air
Roll on!
It's true I've got no shirts to wear;
It's true my butcher's bill is due;
It's true my prospects all look blue;
But don't let that unsettle you!
Never you mind!
Roll on!

The American.

WHAT IS HOME?

Home's not merely four square walls.
Though with pictures hung and gilded,
Home is where affection calls,
Filled with shrines the heart hath builded:
Home! go watch the faithful dove,
Sailing beneath the heavens above,
Home is where there's one to love;
Home is where there's one to love us.

Home's not merely room and room.
It needs something to endear it;
Home is where the heart can bloom.
Where there's some kind heart to cheer it.
What is home with none to meet,
None to welcome, none to greet, us?
Home is sweet, and only sweet
Where there's we love to meet us.

FASHION NOTES.

Amber jewelry is popular again.
Dark winter colors will be worn again this summer.

Gentlemen's trousers will be worn closer fitting this spring.

Flowers are arranged in comb-shape on the back of bonnets.

Silver mistletoe berries, with green foliage, make up the fashionable wreath.

Scotch tweed suitings will be the favorite material for men's wear this season.

The novelty in ladies' summer gloves will be white lace mitts that reach to the elbow.

Among the many new shades of yellow is a pale yellow green, known as gosling green.

English walking hats, trimmed with long ostrich plumes, will be much worn this season.

The newest cloak is called the "Nemess," which costs so much that husbands are continually growling.

Parisian women are wearing their evening dresses very short in front, and with a very long comet-trail train.

As soon as the nuptial knot is tied a Parisian belle exchanges her gauzy ball dresses for heavy trailing robes of silk, satin and velvet.

None but young girls under twenty dances nowadays in Paris, as their gauze dresses are the only ones that will admit of the exercise.

The newest style of fancy shirts for gentlemen are made of white linen, double-breasted, ornamented with a fine line of red, blue, or brown, and with collars trimmed to match.

A cross carved from precious wood, in the centre of which is a pin-hole if placed to the eye shows an altar, sacred pictures, and mottoes, is the latest fashionable trinket.

A new fashion in confirmation dresses is to wear a large tulle veil, simply hemmed with the customary cap. This veil reaches to the edge of the dress behind, is shorter at the sides, and is fastened on the top of the head so as not to fall over the face. At one of the more "advanced" of the London churches square muslin veils are worn, one of the points falling over the face as low as the waist, and midway down the skirt behind. The hair is plainly dressed, neither crimped nor curled, but platted or arranged in a Grecian knot, low down on the back of the head. The dresses simply made are of white muslin, cash-

there was no booty—save the very significant one of a few sovereigns and many silver watch—to tempt to the mission of so great and dangerous a foe. If therefore, I sanguinely endeavored to persuade myself, I could but wage to deceive the amiable individual was so considerably striving to force my way into my room without disturbing slumbers, into the belief that he had left it unobserved, an examination of effects might end, possibly, in both my and myself being left untouched. experiment, at all events, I resolved could be tried, more especially as upon other consideration I felt sure it offered only chance of safety; for as I recollect with an excess of consternation, it had arranged that Jonathan should sleep a bayonet apart from the house, and consequently should my solution of those ominous sounds be correct, I was alone amongst these wretches, and entirely in my power. Resistance, whatever it be their design, would, I saw, be less than useless: and accordingly, though my heart throbbed violently when I saw that the door had at last yielded, that the intruder was in the chamber yet perfectly still, breathing loudly and calmly.

The adoption of this line of conduct in probability saved my life, for as the issue of the event proved, it was not to me, but to discover whether or no I was asleep, that my surreptitious visitor entered my apartment. This fact seemed sufficiently patent when, after finding my bed for what, measured my mental suffering was an eternity, in which, with a difficult exercise of control, I continued to respire like a man in heavy slumber, he stole away in, without having meddled with my shoes or gone near the rude dressing-table upon which lay my watch. My trial was not yet over. For I could think fully an hour after he had fled the bed chamber and carefully faced the bolt, my unknown watcher rained listening outside the door; and throughout that time I neither dared stir nor remit my snorous breathing. Eventually, however an exchange of ispers with some person or persons, so had evidently been awaiting, not only the result of this protracted test, so followed, to my intense relief, by the aid of retreating footsteps.

Upon how I passed the remainder of a dreadful night with the long-drawn hours of early morning which succeeded, I am not about to do well. But it no sleep visited my eyelids, and that tormented by suspense and enforcement of a hard couch was by no means a bed of ease, it will readily be believed. Upon that couch nevertheless I forced myself remain, until considerably after seven o'clock; then, rising and dressing, I shed my face in cold water, and studied it in the tiny mirror, strove carefully remove all traces of solicitude or want rest.

But when ready at length to go forth in that chamber of horrors and satisfy myself, as I had been so feverishly longing to do, as to the truth or falsity of the story (for after all it was little else)

ed, rising as though to put an end to this incipient quarrel; and taking up my hat, I prepared to leave the house.

Following me to the door, the farmer politely proposed that he, or one of his sons, should walk with me for company. But upon my declining the attention, it was not pressed; and contrary to my fears, I was allowed to pass out alone. Owing to the storm, I had on the previous evening been able to pay no attention to the farm's surroundings, and my bedroom window, as I had this morning found, looked out merely upon an orchard by its side. But now, scarcely had I opened the wicket of the little garden, than, with a start of surprise, I distinctly recognized the locality in which I stood. There to my right at many yards distant, appeared the identical white gate by which our conveyance had waited yesterday whilst the little minister and I paid our visit to the Spike Rocks. It was down this very road we had driven; and upon looking back thereat, I even recollected the farm itself. I recollected something else too, which made me involuntarily quicken my steps, and which confirmed beyond doubt the suspicion which I had just conceived—that Jonathan might be in collusion with the people at the farm. I had thought nothing of it at the time; but I now well remembered, upon our return to the dogcart, observing a man, who, it struck me, was our obliging host himself, walking away from it in the direction of the house.

The longer I ruminated upon the aspect of affairs, the uglier they now became, and the more clearly did I begin to perceive that the whole thing had been a preconcerted plot. It was by no means late, I presently told myself, that Jonathan had turned up that lane, and by no accident that the horse had lost its shoe. We had been expected last night at the farm house, and we had been taken there deliberately, in order that Mr. Morgan might be robbed of his money. Jonathan had either discovered the existence of the three hundred pounds, or he had been informed of it. But how or by whom? The answer to this question was not far to seek, and being supplied, it furnished the completing link in the chain of evidence I was mentally working out. The landlord of the Ship and Anchor was the dwarf's cousin; he had seen the minister's money. I recalled his covetous glance, his suspicious presence in the closet, the fact that he had proposed our taking the dogcart; and everything grew transparent as daylight. But had the little Welshman really been murdered? And was my method of accounting for the noises of last night accurate? I could not doubt it; nor could I dismiss a hideous idea as to how his body had been disposed of, which, directly upon learning that I was in this vicinity, had taken possession of me. It was in fact with an implicit belief that my late companion was lying at the bottom of it, that I now approached that Hole which on the previous day had affected me so disagreeably. Learning over the brink upon gaining it, I experienced that peculiar kind of fascination which attends the horrible, as gazing in-little Welshman, in a state of insensibility, had by a merciful providence fallen upon that rocky escarpment, and had either crept into the sheltering crevice upon coming to himself, or—what was the truth of the case—had rolled into it by force of the descent.

This problem worked out to my satisfaction, and with the blood now coursing through my veins with delight and excitement, I leant forward with the intention of calling out to attract Mr. Morgan's attention, in order that I might warn him to keep carefully hidden, and assure him that if he did so, I would undoubtedly effect his rescue. Happily, however, the warning I was just preparing to utter had not left my lips before a voice at my elbow enquired: "Is it something in the hole, sir, you was seeing?" The shock of this abrupt address almost sent me over the precipice. But recovering myself-possession by a suddenly inspired effort, I turned, and seeing two of the farmer's sons close behind me, angrily addressed the nearer: "You stupid fellow, you!" I exclaimed, "don't you see you had nearly been the death of me? Why did you so suddenly speak to me before letting me see you? You might have known, surely, that I couldn't hear the sound of your footsteps over the grass. I was listening to the booming of the waters down there. What an unearthly noise they make! But come away; it's an awful place," I added, moving a step backwards, and striving not to betray the uneasiness I felt.

"An awful place, sir, it is an awful place—as awful a place as there is in the whole world, I was well belief," returned the young man to whom I had spoken, fixing upon me a curious searching gaze. Then letting his keen black eyes follow those of his brother, he peered eagerly into the chasm, and observed: "Pless us! it could be a bad job, look you, if a man was to fall over here. The prains of him 'ould soon be dashed out; 'ouldn't they, sir?"

"There's not much doubt of that, truly," I replied, not daring again to direct my own glance into the Hole, and praying, as I had never prayed in my life before, that the little minister might not at present emerge from his hiding place. "But where can Mr. Morgan be?" I subjoined, shading my eyes with my hand, and affecting to look carefully in all directions. "Do, pray, come and help me to look for him, like good fellows, for I want my breakfast;" and in the hope that they would follow, I began to walk slowly away.

My request was obeyed, though not immediately. But as a matter of course the pretended search proved fruitless; and returning to the farm, I breakfasted alone, forcing myself to eat, and expressing the while much displeasure at my companion's lengthened absence.

The meal over, I paced the sanded kitchen for nearly an hour, looking every few minutes from the window, and simulating increasing impatience and anger. My estimable host meantime, with his wife and several of their hopeful sons, remained with me, observing me closely though stealthily, and alternately making testing suggestions as to what had become of the "good gentleman." All myself, I continued to require like heavy slumber, he stole away without having meddled with my s or gone near the rude dressing-upon which lay my watch. My trial was not yet over. For I think fully an hour after he had left the bed chamber and carefully ed the bolt, my unknown watcher ned listening outside the door; and ghout that time I neither dared stir nor remit my snoring breathing. ually, however, an exchange of ers with some person or persons, had evidently been awaiting, not the result of this protracted test, allowed, to my intense relief, by the of retreating footsteps.

As how I passed the remainder of refulgent night with the long-drawn-urs of early morning which sue- I, I am not about to do well. "But to sleep visited my eyelids, and that ed by suspense and entorcinacuation and couch was by no means a bed of it would really be believed. Upon ouch nevertheless I forced myself air, until considerably after seven k; then, rising and dressing, I d my face in cold water, and study- in the tiny mirror, strove carefully ove all traces of solicitude or want t.

When ready at length to go forth that chamber of horrors and satisfy f, as I had been so feverishly long- do, as to the truth or fidelity of the (for after all it was little else) I had pass upon the events of the I shrank from doing so.

or another earnest prayer, however, reach to meet whatever might be re for me, and to act the part upon I had determined, I summoned up ge, drew the bolt, and passed out, aching the room allotted to Mr. m up on the previous evening, I the door standing wide open, and mingled feelings of awe and curio- entered. It was, as a single glance d me, in perfect order. The bed, lick the coverings were turned , was ruffled no further than it I have been by a peaceful slumberer, he coarse sheets were unstained by highest mark of blood. Nowhere the faintest indication of distur- be discovered; and as the welcome dit suggested itself, that had any of violence really taken place, its nees could scarcely have been so ly elaced. I turned with a heart at by hope, which was well-ligh asse, and went downstairs. A clatter ekery greeted my ears as I neared icken; and upon arriving there, I l the farmer with his family and than the driver seated at breakfast large centre table. A smaller one with cups and plates for two, stood r the fireplace; but the little minis- rapid survey of the apartment satis- ing, was not present. Instantly my g hope perished, giving place to a of keen disappointment. But com- ing my features to an expression of neern, I returned the good morrow- I was showered upon me, and re- to a question from my host as to I had slept, with the assurance that I passed an excellent night, and that at I was at all times a remarkably l sleeper.

Just making this statement, however, fully conscious that in each of the al pairs of eyes which I saw directed ds neither was a hard, scrutinizing . But instead of disconcerting, that ring gaze rather emboldened me, inced thereby of the absolute neces- for enactment of the role upon which I decided, I felt my spirit rising to the occasion. Crossing the floor I d myself by the smaller table, and red in a firm voice, and with a smile y my face, where Mr. Morgan was, pking, that in passing his room, I noticed that it had been vacated. Well, meet yes sir; it is more as an I should think since the good gentle- will be gone down at air, and that he ne out for a walk," composedly re- to the farmer, to whom I had address- myself. "It is to see the Spike Rocks be will be gone. It was no doubt, a preconcerted plot. It was by no mis- take, I presently told myself, that Jonathan had turned up that lane, and by no accident that the horse had lost its shoe. We had been expected last night at the farm house, and we had been taken there deliberately, in order that Mr. Morgan might be robbed of his money. Jonathan had either discovered the existence of the three hundred pounds, or he had been informed of it. But how or by whom? The answer to this question was not far to seek, and being supplied, it furnished the complet- ing link in the chain of evidence. I was mentally working out. The landlord of the Ship and Anchor was the dwarf's cousin; he had seen the minister's money. I recalled his covetous glance, his sus- picious presence in the closet, the fact that he had proposed our taking the dog- cart; and everything grew transparent as daylight. But had the little Welshman really been murdered? And was my method of accounting for the noises of last night accurate? I could not doubt it; nor could I dismiss a hideous idea as to how his body had been disposed of, which, directly upon learning that I was in this vicinity, had taken possession of me. It was in fact with an implicit belief that my late companion was lying at the bottom of it, that I now approached that Hole which on the previous day had affected me so disagreeably. Leaning over the brink upon gaining it, I ex- perience that peculiar kind of fascination which attends the horrible, as gazing in- to its depths, I watched the water foam- ing and whirling, and occasionally rising in great sheets to cast itself with angry impetuosity against the confining barrier. Noting its fury, which appeared to have increased since my former visit, I saw to a certainty that, even were it possible to reach the bottom without being dashed to pieces upon the rocks, no life could be retained for an instant in that boiling pool. To fall or to be thrown down here would be certain and instantaneous death. There would be no chance of being ex- humed for interment in a more hollowed spot, for what diver could be found dar- ing enough to descend below those gyrating waters! No! Had my friend been cast into the "Devil's Hole," here he must remain. There could be no tales told by his body as to how he had met with his death, for that body would be seen no more by mortal eye.

But to me the manner of that death had now become no longer a mystery. Shut out from the supposition that there had been actual violence, by the total absence of any proof of it, I had lighted upon another hypothesis respecting the crime, which to my mind, however, was no hypothesis, but a well-assured fact. It was, that by means of something mixed with the whiskey of which he had drunk just before retiring to rest, the poor little minister had either been drugged into unconsciousness or actually poisoned, and in that condition conveyed from the house and disposed of as I had said. But although all this appeared to myself so lucid and certain, I knew well that I could bring forward no legal proof of the well-arranged villainy, and that conse- quently, the scoundrels who had perpetrated it would in all probability escape punishment, and Mr. Morgan's disappear- ance he attributed to accident. Unwarily raging at this thought, I was about to move away from the place of his entomb- ment—for so I felt confident it was—when something occurred which arrested my steps, and made my heart leap. What that something was, I will endeavor to relate in as simple a manner as possible.

For some time, during which the rec- ollections I have recorded had been passing through my brain, my eyes had been resting quite unconsciously upon an abutting fragment of rock some twelve or fourteen feet below the level of the ground. The rock sloped sharply up- wards, forming an acute angle with the well-nigh perpendicular walls of the "Hole," of which it constituted perhaps the chief irregularity. My gaze, I repeat, chanced to be resting on this inclined abutment, when, with what indescribable young man to whom I had spoken, fixing upon me a curious searching gaze. Then letting his keen black eyes follow those of his brother, he peered eagerly into the chasm, and observed: "Pless us! it 'ould be a jod job, look yu, if a man was to fall over here. The prains of him 'ould soon be dashed out; 'ouldn't they, sir?"

"There's not much doubt of that, truly," I replied, not daring again to direct my own glance into the Hole, and praying, as I had never prayed in my life before, that the little minister, might not at present emerge from his hiding place. "But where can Mr. Morgan be?" I subjoined, shading my eyes with my hand, and affecting to look carefully in all directions. "Do, pray, come and help me to look for him, like good fellows, for I want my breakfast;" and in the hope that they would follow, I began to walk slowly away.

My request was obeyed, though not immediately. But as a matter of course the pretended search proved fruitless; and returning to the farm, I breakfasted alone, forcing myself to eat, and expres- sing the while much displeasure at my companion's lengthened absence.

The meal over, I paced the sandea kitchen for nearly an hour, looking every few minutes from the window, and simulating increasing impatience and anger. My estimable host meantime, with his wife and several of their hop-ful sons, remained with me, observing me closely though stealthily, and alternately making testing suggestions as to what had become of the "good gentleman." All these, however, I pool-pooled, and obstinately adhered to the opinion I pro- fessed to have formed myself respecting the matter, namely, that in a fit of absent-mindedness—to which I declared he was subject—Mr. Morgan had extend- ed his walk to a great length, and not having noticed where he was going, had ended in losing his way.

My acting I could see completely hulled all suspicion; and when presently, I in- formed the company that I was engaged to preach in England upon the following day—which was Sunday—and affirmed that unless I returned to Lleydyrdwg at once, I would be unable to catch the train by which I must travel, no opposition was offered to the proposition that Jonathan should forthwith drive me there, and return again for Mr. Morgan.

The horse (already re-shod by one of the sons, who had learned the trade of blacksmith) was accordingly put into the dog-cart; and promising, as a further bribe, that before setting off for England, I would inform the landlord of the Ship and Anchor about my friend's disappear- ance, and leave it to him to take the proper steps for his discovery, in case he should not have reached the farm before Jonathan's return to it, I tendered the farmer a sovereign, and with an exchange of civilities drove off.

(TO BE CONCLUDED.)

A NEW FIELD FOR GAMBLERS.

Lovers of high play will shortly have a new field open to them. Baden-Baden and Hamburg have been closed by the fatherly act of the German Government. The Parisian police fail to appreciate too much gambling, and they incontinently close the clubs where the members play too much. Monaco alone remains as the resort of the fashionables who have either little brains and plenty of money or little money and plenty of brains and their confederates. Henceforth, however, Cairo will divide the honors and the spoils with Monaco. An enterprising Frenchman, well known to the former habitués of Baden-Baden, has leased from the Khedive the public gardens, opera house, and hotel in the centre of the fashionable quarter of the city. These, which have been a source of con- tinual loss to the Khedive, are in future to bring in a revenue to his Highness of a franc per annum. In return, the Frenchman, who has guaranteed to keep up the opera and hotel, and to convert the gardens into a casino with public gaming tables, is to have a monopoly of gaming. The roulette tables at all the cafes are to be suppressed. This ar- rangement is said to have delighted the Parisian women are wearing their even- ing dresses very short in front, and with a very long comet-trail train.

As soon as the nuptial knot is tied a Parisian belle exchanges her gauzy ball dresses for heavy trailing robes of silk, satin and velvet.

None but young girls under twenty dances nowadays in Paris, as their gauze dresses are the only ones that will admit of the exercise.

The newest style of fancy shirts for gentlemen are made of white linen, double-breasted, ornamented with a fine line of red, blue, or brown, and with col- lars trimmed to match.

A cross carved from precious wood, in the centre of which is a pin-hole if placed to the eye shows an altar, sacred pictures, and mottoes, is the latest fashionable trinket.

A new fashion in confirmation dresses is to wear a large tulle veil, simply hem- med with the customary cap. This veil reaches to the edge of the dress be- hind, is shorter at the sides, and is fast- ened on the top of the head so as not to fall over the face. At one of the more "advanced" of the London churches square muslin veils are worn, one of the points falling over the face as low as the waist, and midway down the skirt be- hind. The hair is plainly dressed, neither crimped nor curled, but platted or arranged in a Grecian knot, low down on the back of the head. The dresses simply made are of white muslin, cash- mere, merino, or serge. The bodices are, of course, high to the throat, and with long sleeves. All jewelry is avoided as unsuitable to the occasion, excepting a gold or silver cross.

A VICAR FINED FOR CURSING.

The Rev. Rees Pritchard, vicar of Llandyfdwg, has appeared at the Brid- geport petty sessions, in answer to two charges preferred against him by a farmer named Thomas Davies, of Ystradlyfodwg. The first was that defendant did, on Feb. 10th, "profanely curse one curse, 'You are a——liar' five times repeated, and another curse in these words, 'You are a coward' five times repeated, he then being a gentleman." The second charge was for assaulting Mr. Davies. The charge of cursing was preferred under an old statute of 5s for every curse uttered by a person occupying the defendant's position, he being a gentleman. Several witnesses were examined on both sides, the general testimony showing that the defendant had used the most profane expression. The Bench considered that the assault had not been proved, but fined defendant 5s and costs for each curse.

A FLORAL WEDDING.

The old English town of Shaftesbury, in Dorset, was enlivened on the 8th in- stant by the marriage of Lady Theodora Grosvenor, youngest daughter of the second Marquis of Westminster, to Mr. T. Merthyr-Tyngest, second son of the late Sir J. Guest. By this marriage two of the wealthiest families in Dorchester have been united. The marriage was solemn- ized in the parish church of Motcombe. The bride's path was bestrewn with flowers by the daughters of tenantry, on the Marchioness of Westminster's estate, triumphal arches were erected, and the local rifle and cavalry corps, besides the tenantry, mounted, assembled to do honor on the occasion. An ad- dress of congratulation from the Mayor and Corporation of Shaftesbury was in- cluded in the programme. The wed- ding presents embraced a costly silver centre piece, representing a hunting scene, as the gift of the tenantry.

WHAT BAD COOKING DID.

Bad cookery separated two young and loving hearts. Early in March a breach of promise suit was brought before the Bodmin Assizes, the plaintiff being a widow aged seventy seven, and the de- fendant, Richard Hamaton, aged sixty seven. They had agreed to marry, but on the eve of the day appointed for the nuptials the plaintiff made a breakfast and the door standing wide open, and in mingled feelings of awe and curiosity, I entered. It was, as a single glance showed me, in perfect order. The bed, in which the coverings were turned down, was ruffled no further than it could have been by a peaceful slumberer, and the coarse sheets were unstained by the slightest mark of blood. Nowhere could the faintest indication of disturbance be discovered; and as the welcome thought suggested itself, that had any deed of violence really taken place, its evidences could scarcely have been so overtly eluded, I turned with a heart glided by hope, which was well-nigh assurance, and went downstairs. A clatter of crockery greeted my ears as I neared the kitchen; and upon arriving there, I found the farmer with his family and another the driver seated at breakfast at a large centre table. A smaller one, with cups and plates for two, stood near the fireplace; but the little minister, a rapid survey of the apartment satisfied me, was not present. Instantly my rosy hope perished, giving place to a mingled disappointment. But commanding my features to an expression of concern, I returned the good morrows which were showered upon me, and replied to a question from my host as to how I had slept, with the assurance that had passed an excellent night, and that I had been at all times a remarkably and sleeper.

At this making this statement, however, was fully conscious that in each of the vocal parts of eyes which I saw directed towards me there was a hard, scrutinizing look. But instead of disconcerting, that quivering gaze rather emboldened me, convinced thereby of the absolute necessity for enactment of the role upon which had decided, I felt my spirit rising to meet the occasion. Crossing the floor I seated myself by the smaller table, and inquired in a firm voice, and with a smile on my face, where Mr. Morgan was, making, that in passing his room, I had noticed that it had been vacated.

"Well, indeed yes sir; it is more as an act I should think since the good gentleman will be come down at six, and that he goes out for a walk," composedly replied the farmer, to whom I had addressed myself. "It is to see the Spike Rocks at he will be gone, it was no doubt. If I could be glad he come now to breakfast, for he is a long while away, latever."

"The Spike Rocks!" I exclaimed, feeling that I was turning pale, and almost losing my self-possession. "Surely, we are not near the Spike Rocks?"

"But yes indeed, sir," rejoined the old man, who was standing up, cutting bread for the rest, and in whom I detected a large amount of suppressed excitement. "It was but a little way off the rocks, this farm. And it is named, sir, the Spike Rock farm. In the summer ere there was a many ladies and gentlemen will call here too."

"Spike Rocks!" I cried, interrupting rudely, and turning to Jonathan in a stern rage, which for the moment swallowed up all thought of caution—"how red you, sirrah, bring us again to this terrible spot? You must have known here you were drinking. You, you!" I added, stammering, as a highly discomfiting suspicion flashed across my mind, of finishing the sentence differently on what I had intended—"or you must have been more drunk than I had imagined."

"But sir, I was not drunk no more than you was yourself," rejoined the unclimbed in a threatening tone, glaring at me fiercely. "And it is of no use that you will scold me sir, not of any at all; or, sir, I did not know that we was one here myself—not till this morning latever. And by—"

"Silence, man!" I interposed, with an assumption of dignity and a strenuous effort to appear collected; "swearing and assonate language will not convince me that you are speaking the truth any better than quiet words would do. But I will go and meet Mr. Morgan," I concluded.

retained for an instant in that boiling pool. To fall or to be thrown down here would be certain and instantaneous death. There would be no chance of being exhausted for interment in a more hollowed spot, for what diver could be found daring enough to descend below those gyrating waters! No! Had my friend been cast into the "Devil's Hole," here he must remain. There could be no tales told by his body as to how he had met with his death, for that body would be seen no more by mortal eye.

But to me, the manner of that death had now become no longer a mystery. Shut out from the supposition that there had been actual violence, by the total absence of any proof of it, I had lighted upon another hypothesis respecting the crime, which to my mind, however, was no hypothesis, but a well-assured fact. It was, that by means of something mixed with the whiskey of which he had drunk just before retiring to rest, the poor little minister had either been drugged into unconsciousness or actually poisoned, and in that condition conveyed from the house and disposed of as I had said. But although all this appeared to myself so lucid and certain, I knew well that I could bring forward no legal proof of the well-arranged villainy, and that consequently, the scoundrels who had perpetrated it would in all probability escape punishment, and Mr. Morgan's disappearance he attributed to accident. Inwardly raging at this thought, I was about to move away from the place of his entombment—for so I felt confident it was—when something occurred which arrested my steps, and made my heart leap. What that something was, I will endeavor to relate in as simple a manner as possible.

For some time, during which the reflections I have recorded had been passing through my brain, my eyes had been resting quite unconsciously upon an abutting fragment of rock some twelve or fourteen feet below the level of the ground. The rock sloped sharply upwards, forming an acute angle with the well-nigh perpendicular walls of the "Hole," of which it constituted perhaps the chief irregularity. My gaze, I repeat, chanced to be resting on this inclined abutment, when, with what indescribable amazement and awe may be imagined, I all at once saw a human hand and arm emerge from what appeared to be the solid granite of the upright side, and grasping the projecting shelf, draw after it the head and shoulders of a man. During the first moment the back of the head only was presented to my view; then slowly, and as though with difficulty, a white face was turned upwards. Although pale, and drawn as though in intense pain, I recognized it perfectly; it was that of the little minister. But before my bewildered faculties could collect themselves, or my paralysed tongue could articulate a syllable, the hand had relaxed its hold, and the figure had slid back as it were, right into the rock. The suddenness and strangeness of this appearance so upset my nerves that my knees trembled and shook beneath me. Yet not for an instant did I entertain the idea that I had seen an apparition. That fact I felt sure was the face of a living man, and belonged to none other than Mr. Morgan himself. But notwithstanding my assurance upon this point, I was so startled by the unexpected phenomenon, that until I could hit upon some way of accounting for his presence in and disappearance from that singular spot, I could not even rejoice in the knowledge that my friend was alive. I did, however, hit upon a way of accounting for it, directly the dazing effect of my astonishment passed sufficiently to allow me to consider at all. And in truth the explanation was obvious enough. Behind that projecting overhang, and entirely concealed by it, there must be, it was plain, a hole or cavern so large in size as to admit a man's body. Upon being cast over the precipice (about which there could now be no further question), the

My acting I could see completely lulled all suspicion, and when presently, I informed the company that I was engaged to preach in England upon the following day—which was Sunday—and affirmed that unless I returned to Lleyrdrudrig at once, I would be unable to catch the train by which I must travel, no opposition was offered to the proposition that Jonathan should forthwith drive me there, and return again for Mr. Morgan.

The horse (already reached by one of the sons, who had learned the trade of blacksmith) was accordingly put into the dog-cart; and promising, as a further blind, that before setting off for England, I would inform the landlord of the Sheep and Anchor about my friend's disappearance, and leave it to him to take the proper steps for his discovery, in case he should not have reached the farm before Jonathan's return to it. I rendered the farmer a sovereign, and with an exchange of civilities drove off.

(TO BE CONCLUDED.)

A NEW FIELD FOR GAMBLERS.

Lovers of high play will shortly have a new field open to them. Baden-Baden and Humberg have been closed by the fatherly act of the German Government. The Parisian police fail to appreciate too much gambling, and they incontinently close the clubs where the members play too much. Monaco alone remains as the resort of the fashionable who have either little brains and plenty of money or little money and plenty of brains and their confederates. Henceforth, however, Cairo will divide the honours and the spoils with Monaco. An enterprising Frenchman, well known to the former habits of Baden-Baden, has leased from the Khedive the public gardens, opera house, and hotel in the centre of the fashionable quarter of the city. These, which have been a source of continual loss to the Khedive, are in future to bring in a revenue to his Highness of a franc per annum. In return, the Frenchman, who has guaranteed to keep up the opera and hotel, and to convert the gardens into a casino with public gaming tables, is to have a monopoly of gaming. The roulette tables at all the cafes are to be suppressed. This arrangement is said to have delighted the shopkeepers of Cairo, who anticipate a great increment of business, while perhaps some of the Khedive's creditors will not object to a project which may increase their chances of obtaining a repayment of their debts.

HARD DRINKING IN ENGLAND.

Drinking, it would seem, is not confined to the lower classes. In a recent trial in London for conspiracy to defraud Mr. Le Hunt Doyle, it came out that Mr. Doyle and three other gentlemen one of them a bankrupt baronet, since dead, were in the habit of drinking together from morning to night. Mr. Doyle himself admitted that he drank champagne cup before he was up, and all day; and had a crafe of brandy placed in his room every night, which he usually emptied; while the amounts of liquor consumed at lunch and dinner were so enormous that we do not give them, preferring to believe that the bottles were changed a great deal oftener than necessary. Mr. Doyle, a gentleman with large estates in three counties in Ireland, did not seem to think his drinking anything extraordinary, and told the jury that at the moment he spoke he was "quite sober and very thirsty."

We fear even the sharp lesson he has had—he had very nearly been constituted an unlimited partner in a wine business under a deed obtained from him when he was drunk—will be insufficient to cure that kind of "thirst which prevails," the doctors say, among idle men of means much more frequently than it is just now the fashion to admit.—London Spectator.

The cradle is the first rock we strike in the voyage of life.

Llandyfog, has appeared at the Bridgend petty sessions, in answer to two charges preferred against him by a farmer named Thomas Davies, of Ystradgynodwg. The first was that defendant did, on Feb. 10th, "profanely curse a cow, 'You are a———' five times repeated, and another curse in these words, 'You are a———' five times repeated, he then being a gentleman." The second charge was for assaulting Mr. Davies. The charge of cursing was preferred under an old statute of 5s for every curse uttered by a person occupying the defendant's position, he being a gentleman. Several witnesses were examined on both sides, the general testimony showing that the defendant had used the most profane expression. The Bench considered that the assault had not been proved, but fined defendant 2s and costs for each curse.

A FLORAL WEDDING.

The old English town of Shaftesbury, in Dorset, was enlivened on the 8th instant by the marriage of Lady Theodora Grosvenor youngest daughter of the second Marquis of Westminster to Mr. T. Merthyr Guest, second son of the late Sir J. Guest. By this marriage two of the wealthiest families in Dorchester have been united. The marriage was solemnized in the parish church of Motcombe. The bride's path was strewn with flowers by the daughters of tenantry, on the Marchioness of Westminster's estate, triumphal arches were erected, and the local rifle and cavalry corps, besides the tenantry, mounted, assembled to do honor on the occasion. An address of congratulation from the Mayor and Corporation of Shaftesbury was included in the programme. The wedding presents embraced a costly silver centre piece, representing a hunting scene, as the gift of the tenantry.

WHAT BAD COOKING DID.

Bad cooking separated two young and loving hearts. Early in March a breach of promise suit was brought before the Bodmin Assizes, the plaintiff being a widow aged seventy seven, and the defendant, Richard Hamaton, aged sixty seven. They had agreed to marry, but on the eve of the day appointed for the nuptials, the plaintiff made a beefsteak pie which was unpalatable to the bridegroom elect. Thereupon he declared he would not marry her, and kept his word, feigning illness on the appointed day. An English jury awarded her fifty dollars damages.

FEROCITY OF RATS.

A case has lately come under our notice of more than ordinary ferocity and daring on the part of rats. A gentleman, residing at North Dulwich, (Eng.) and keeping all kinds of pets, has had a fine buck rabbit frightfully worried. One night this week they got into his hutch and actually ate away one side of his face including the eye. On another night they succeeded in carrying away a live puppy from its dam—a small rough terrier—and actually got it on the top of an empty barrel, which formed part of their run but their hole being so small they were obliged to relinquish their booty. The bitch, being chained up, could not protect her young one, which, it is presumed, must have crawled just beyond her reach. On a raid being made into their quarters the skins of eight guinea pigs, which had previously disappeared were recovered.

The Great and Little Dismal Swamps embrace above 3,000,000 acres of the richest lands of North Carolina, a large portion of which, by a moderate outlay for draining, could be made equal to the most fertile of Louisiana. These lands belong chiefly to the educational fund, but are of no present value to it. Governor Vance is anxious to have them drained, and has directed a bill to be prepared for the Legislature on the subject.

DIRECTORY.

TRAVELER'S GUIDE.

G. T. RAILWAY.

GOING EAST.	GOING WEST.
Express.....1:10 A. M.	Express.....5:12 P. M.
Express.....12:58 P. M.	Express.....5:52 A. M.
Mixed.....11:28 P. M.	Mixed.....7:55 A. M.

STAGES ARRIVE AT NAPANEE.

From Newburgh and Tamworth,	10 1/2 a. m.
From Picton and Mill Point,	11 p. m.
From Erinsville,	10 1/2 a. m.

DEPART FROM NAPANEE.

To Newburgh and Tamworth,	2 1/2 p. m.
To Mill Point and Picton,	3 1/2 a. m.
To Erinsville,	2 1/2 p. m.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Hon. R. J. Cartwright,	Finance Minister.
Schuyler Shibley,	M. P.

ONTARIO PARLIAMENT.

J. T. Grange,	M. P. P.
H. M. Deroche,

COUNTY AND TOWN OFFICIALS.

W. H. Wilkison,	Judge.
O. T. Prayn,	Sheriff.
W. A. Reeve, Clerk of the Peace and County Attorney.
J. B. McGuin, Clerk of the County Court, and Deputy Clerk of the Crown.
Do.,	Surrogate Registrar.
W. N. Dollar,	Warden.
F. Burrows,	County School Inspector.
W. V. Dettlor,	County Clerk.
E. Hooper,	Treasurer.
M. P. Roblin,	Registrar.
W. S. Williams,	Mayor.
John Herring,	Reeve.
Chas. R. Miller,	Deputy Reeve.
Wm. Chamberlain,	Town Clerk.
Robert Easton,	Town Treasurer.
Jas. Allen,	Chief of Police.
J. Benson, Collector of Customs and Registrar of Shipping.
C. B. Perry,	Landing Waiter and Searcher.
T. G. Pile, Landing Waiter and Searcher, Mill Point.
G. Bogart,	Postmaster, Napanee.
G. B. Sills, Inspector of Weights and Measures.
Wm. Hogle,	Inspector of Licenses.
Chas. James, Clerk 1st Division Court, Napanee.
C. L. Rogers,	" Bath.
J. J. Watson,	" 3d Adolphustown.
Peter Johnston,	" 4th Clark Mills.
Wm. Wheelan,	" 5th Centreville.
Henry Pultz,	" 6th Wilton.
Thos. Miller,	" 7th Tamworth.

POST OFFICE.

The Post Office Napanee is open from 8 a. m. till 6 p. m.
Day Train East Mail closes,	12:05 p. m.
West "	4:30 p. m.
Night Train East "	9:00 p. m.
West "	9:00 p. m.
Camden Route—Tamworth, Centreville, Camden East, Newburgh and Napanee Mills—Mail closes 2:15 p. m.
Mill Point and Prince Edward County Route—Mill Point, Picton, Northport, and Demoretsville—Mail closes 6:30 a. m.
Fredericksburg Route—Morven, Hamburg, Sillsville, Parma and Conway—Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays—Mail closes 1 p. m.
Switzerland—Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays—Mail closes 1:15 p. m.
Gosport and Greta—Saturday—Mail closes 1 p. m.
Erinsville, Roblin and Selby, daily—Mail closes 1:30 p. m.
Overton, Forest Mills and Leinster, daily—Mail closes 1:30 p. m.

CHURCHES.

HOURS OF SERVICES.

Episcopal Methodist—Rev. R. M. Pope. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
Canada Methodist—Rev. W. S. Blackstock. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
Episcopal—Rev. J. J. Bogart, Rector. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
Presbyterian—Rev. A. Young. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
Roman Catholic—Rev. Father MacDonagh. Mass 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School 2:30 p. m.
The Brethren—Meet at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30 p. m., every Sunday in Grange Block.

GEO. P. ROWELL & Co.,
40 PARK ROW, NEW YORK,

ROWELL & CHESMAN,
ST. LOUIS.

AGENTS for the "NAPANEE EXPRESS",
Napanee, Ont.

Notice to Subscribers!

As a misunderstanding with some of our subscribers, has arisen in regard to the meaning conveyed by the wording of certain circulars, sent to them by Mr. T. W. Casey, late proprietor of the Express, asking for payment of arrears of subscriptions. We wish it distinctly understood, that Mr. Casey's connection with the Express, expired on the 16th day of October 1876, and all subscriptions due him, expired with that date. We hope that our subscribers will not infer from the said circulars, that we are, at this early date, pushing them for their subscriptions.

being out of employment in the Ottawa district at present, and of course these unemployed labourers should look to the premier for employment simply because Ottawa is the seat of Government.

Acting on these ideas, fostered by the leaders of the Tory party, they throng the parliament buildings, and intrude upon the time sacred to the demands of public business, to demand that he give them employment, and when he refuses, as is his right and duty, they visit him with reviling and insult. The past policy, as well as more direct reasons warrant us in fixing its culpability upon the opposition, which by falsely imputing to the government, responsibility for the scarcity of labor, have tacitly, and by implication if not openly, urged on a body of poor desperate workmen to enact the reprehensible scenes of Thursday last, when the latter improperly invaded the parliament buildings, and demanded an audience with the premier.

They had no more right to apply to Mr. Mackenzie than to the Czar of Russia. The civic authorities of Ottawa, or the local government would have been the proper source from which they should have sought relief. But the dodge was legitimate with the parties who countenanced it, if they did not urge its being resorted to. No matter how unscrupulous and unjust its course, so long as it might embarrass the government, and bring the reins of power nearer the grasp of the Tory party, it was all right. How unavailing such trickery will prove, time must show. Until something more tangible and substantial shall be brought against the present administration, than such peevish attacks as these, the wave of "conservative reaction" will not have attained sufficient force to float the conservative party into its long-sought but still far off haven of power.

KINGSTON.

The opening of navigation in this harbor generally dates from the first trip of the ferry steamer. The Pierrepont made her first trip ten days earlier than last year—when she ran to Capé Vincent on the 17th of April. The record since 1872 is as follows:—

1872—	Steamer Watertown—Nov. 16th.
1873—	Pierrepont—April 12th.
1874—	Watertown—March 28th.
1875—	Pierrepont—April 9th.
1876—	Pierrepont—April 17th.
1877—	Pierrepont—April 7th.

Kingston cannot be affected much by the opening of navigation until the fleet arrives from the west, vessels engaged in the lumber trade will be off as soon as the canal and harbour are open; but other craft will not be in a hurry out.

Saturday morning the steamer Pierrepont steamed up and entered upon her first trip of the season. She broke her way between the railway track and the Martello Tower until she reached the tug Franklin, which joined her and aided in forcing the first steamer through the ice. In over an hour open water was reached, and then the Pierrepont proceeded with average speed to the Island and thence to the Cape. The ice through which the boat passed was from 10 to 18 inches thick.

Saturday was the ninth anniversary of the assassination of T. D'Arcy McGee, for the rest of whose soul masses were said Saturday morning in the Roman Catholic Churches.

THE STREET RAILWAY.—During the next six weeks the road beds, sidings, &c.,

A trip from London, Ont., to Winnipeg was recently made in six days—pretty good winter time.

Sixteen cases of testaments and gospels in the Cree language are now on the way from England. They are being sent by the British and Foreign Bible Society, and are directed to Canon Griadale, Winnipeg.

A builder gives it as his opinion that there will be from 75 to 100 dwellings of a good class put up within the Victoria city limits during the coming season.

Building operations are brisk in Winnipeg.

A parcel from a London bookseller was received, through the mail, by a Winnipegger yesterday (25th), just forty-seven days after despatch of order.

Messrs. Smith & Mellville, from Hamilton and St. Catharines, have purchased two acres from the Hudson Bay Company in Winnipeg, they intend to erect an extensive planing mill, sash, blind, and ornamental wood factory.

"A largely increased trade with Manitoba and the Hudson Bay regions is anticipated, and the Red River steamers and overland transportation people are expecting to reap a rich harvest during the summer of 1877."

A dozen different parties, from twenty to fifty strong, intend coming to Manitoba in the spring, and an influx of about ten thousand to the Prairie Province.

Already the tide of immigration is setting in. One hundred farmers, with eighty teams left Almonte for Manitoba, intending to go on to land immediately. Reports are received from the principal towns of Ontario, and from all along the line of extensive movements of emigration to Manitoba. In some sections of Ontario there is a greater feeling in favor of Manitoba than ever before existed.

CANADIAN.

A officer of high standing in one of our crack volunteer regiments, in Montreal has tendered his services to the Militia Department, for duty in the North-west Mounted Police. As the gentleman is a graduate of the Military College, an excellent rider and has been for fourteen years in the active militia, he would prove an acquisition. He intends to settle with his family in the Far West.

The police in Montreal have found two human thigh bones in the vicinity of the Academy of Music, where it is supposed they were placed by medical students.

A magnificent album, which is to be presented to the Pope by the approaching pilgrimage, is now on view in Quebec. It contains the likenesses of the Roman Catholic clergy and a number of prominent Canadians.

Sir Edward Thornton, British Minister at Washington, arrived in Ottawa Friday afternoon, and is the guest of his Excellency the Governor-General at Rideau Hall.

Large numbers of French Canadians are again reported to be leaving for the States, as many as two hundred having left from the neighbourhood of Richmond during the past two days.

The pilgrimage to Rome from the Dominion under the guidance of Mgr. Racine, Bishop of Sherbrook, left Montreal, on Wednesday the 11th instant. About forty pilgrims went from that city.

A gang of female thieves has been found out in Ottawa. One Mrs. Tighe had the direction of a number of juveniles, mostly girls, who for some time past have been stealing boots, rubbers, hams, groceries, gloves, and a variety of articles from shops, under the guise of soliciting charity.

A large meeting of the prominent members of the Dominion Grange was held at Owen Sound last week to organize a Grange Insurance Company.

The Quebec post office clerk, Lemoine,

Six European steamers sailing from New York on the 7th, carried large quantities of beef, corn, cheese, lard, &c., 1 head of cattle, and 175 sheep.

The Canadian and United States steamships to Rome sails from New York on April 21st.

Mrs. William Scott, of Grenville, N. gave birth to four infants on Thursday. Three are living.

The police records of New York and Brooklyn show 105 mysterious disappearances in both cities since Jan. 1st.

Grant's friends in Washington, favoring a movement for his nomination to succeed Hayes.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The consul Melbourne advises that no American emigrate to Australia who does not earn means for returning in a year, as emigrants are likely to return.

In New York, Henry McGinniss fell stories down the Grand Central Hotel elevator on Saturday night, and was mangled to death. Since this hotel was built, seven years ago, six boys have been killed by the elevator.

Samuel Richardson died in New York from the bite of a strange cat, inflicted on New Year's day.

FOREIGN.

The first sitting of the Turkish Parliament was held in private.

The Irish Catholic members of the House of Commons have resolved to present a suitable address to the Pope the occasion of his great jubilee or fifty year of episcopate.

Mr. Edwin Chadwick, C. B., in his evidence before the Commons' Committee on the London Fire Brigade, advocated the use of hydrants. The whole of London, he said, might be sufficiently protected by fixing hydrants at an average distance of fifty yards.

The case of Robbins v. Day was heard at Swaffham, Eng. The defendant was proprietor of a menagerie, and in September, whilst Mrs. Robbins was visiting the exhibition, her arm was so badly bitten by a dromedary that the limb had to be amputated. The jury awarded £2 damages, with £45 for expenses at costs.

A draper named Copeland, recovered £100 damages from the Liverpool Omnibus Company, as compensation for personal injuries he had sustained through guard in the employ of the defendant causing his omnibus to be restarted whilst plaintiff was in the act of alighting.

Morocco news received at Gibraltar states that locusts in vast numbers have reached Mogador and Safi, and were proceeding along the coast northward. They had committed great ravages, as it was feared that the crops had suffered extensively.

A shock of earthquake lasting some fifty seconds, visited the Island of Jamaica, the 19th ult. Beyond damage in shops, by the throwing down articles on shelves and the scattering printer's types, no serious damage is reported.

A Constantinople despatch to London says the plague has appeared in Bagdad.

LONDON, April 5.—Charles Bradlaugh, the agitator, and Mrs. Annie Besant, free thought advocate, were arrested today for publishing a pamphlet alleged to be immoral.

ROME, April 9.—Bands of Internationalists belonging to the lowest classes, bent on mischief have appeared in various provinces. A Salina band of this sort took possession of the town hall and burned the archives. Many were arrested.

BIRMINGHAM, April 9.—Thornycroft & Co's. Wolverhampton iron works are closed because the enforcement of the eight-hour system by the miners has resulted in continuous loss. Twelve hundred workmen will be thrown out of employment.

HOURS OF SERVICES.
 Episcopal Methodist—Rev. R. M. Pope. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
 Canada Methodist—Rev. W. S. Blackstock. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
 Episcopal—Rev. J. J. Bogart, Rector. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
 Presbyterian—Rev. A. Young. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
 Roman Catholic—Rev. Father MacDonagh. Mass 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School 2:30 p. m.
 The Brethren—Meet at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30 p. m., every Sunday in Grange Block.

GEO. P. ROWELL & Co.,
 40 PARK ROW, NEW YORK,
 —AND—
ROWELL & CHESMAN,
 ST. LOUIS.
 AGENTS for the "NAPANEE EXPRESS",
 Napanee, Ont.

Notice to Subscribers!

As a misunderstanding with some of our subscribers, has arisen in regard to the meaning conveyed by the wording of certain circulars, sent to them by Mr. T. W. Casey, late proprietor of the EXPRESS, asking for payment of arrears of subscriptions. We wish it distinctly understood, that Mr. Casey's connection with the EXPRESS, expired on the 16th day of October 1876, and all subscriptions due him, expired with that date. We hope that our subscribers will not infer from the said circulars, that we are, at this early date, pushing them for their subscriptions.

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, APRIL, 13th, 1877.

TORY TACTICS.

The dyed-in-the-wool Tory is never happy while he is out of office. Office and place, and the spoils of office and place he regards as the special and inalienable perquisite of his membership of the great conservative party; no matter how great and good, how careful of the country's interests, and how competent to discharge the functions of office, may be the opposing party that holds the reins of power, the country is inevitably going to the dogs, under their administration. When the policy and course of a Reform government, offers through their wisdom and straight-forward nature, no grounds for a successful attack by legitimate opposition, the tory party—faction would be a better title—stick at the adoption of no means which may embarrass the government and pave the way to their return to power.

It is well known that of the parties to a discussion, the one that becomes "gravelled for lack" of argument, almost invariably loses his temper, and supplements argument with abuse. There is no better proof wanted of which has the worse of the argument. So with the party that constitutes Her Majestys loyal opposition at present. Perceiving that their official misdemeanors and public opinion have placed them in the cold shades of opposition, and that their cause is evermore a losing one, they seek the advancement of the interests of the country by pursuing a systematic course of vilification, abuse, misrepresentation, and unscrupulous artifices. As these means prove too weak to satisfy the ardor of their zeal, recourse is had indirectly to threats of violence, similar to those that culminated in the burning of the parliament buildings in London.

made her first trip ten days earlier than last year—when she ran to Capé Vincent on the 17th of April. The record since 1872 is as follows:—
 1872—Steamer Watertown—Nov. 16th.
 1873— " Pierrepont—April 12th.
 1874— " Watertown—March 28th.
 1875— " Pierrepont—April 9th.
 1876— " Pierrepont—April 17th.
 1877— " Pierrepont—April 7th.

Kingston cannot be affected much by the opening of navigation until the fleet arrives from the west, vessels engaged in the lumber trade will be off as soon as the canal and harbour are open; but other craft will not be in a hurry out.

Saturday morning the steamer Pierrepont steamed up and entered upon her first trip of the season. She broke her way between the railway track and the Martello Tower until she reached the tug Franklin, which joined her and aided in forcing the first steamer through the ice. In over an hour open water was reached, and then the Pierrepont proceeded with average speed to the Island and thence to the Cape. The ice through which the boat passed was from 10 to 18 inches thick.

Saturday was the tenth anniversary of the assassination of N. D'Arcy McGee, for the rest of whose soul masses were said Saturday morning in the Roman Catholic Churches.

THE STREET RAILWAY.—During the next six weeks the road beds, sidings, &c., will be made and ironed, under the superintendence of the Cleveland Contractors and 100 men. The cars are completed, and will be in Kingston early next month, and timber and iron are now ready for immediate operations. The road will be opened by the 21st., of May next.

The Grand Trunk Railway Works will probably be located here, and the trains be run through to the lower part of the city.

BELLEVILLE.

Nearly three hundred men are now employed on the Belleville and North Hastings Railway.

A man named Sandford while bringing a load of hides from Doyle's Corners to Madoc, on Thursday killed a bald eagle, which alighted on his load; the bird measured nearly seven feet from tip to tip of his wings.

The bay fishermen have made large hauls lately. Most of this produce is brought here and shipped to distant markets. Messrs. Leavens shipped four tons of fish on one day last week.

The Intelligencer gives the dates on which the ferry steamer Prince Edward has begun her trips since 1870, as follows: 1870, April 14; 1871, March 21; 1872, April 18; 1873, April 16; 1874, April 4; 1875, April 12; 1876, April 12. Only twice during the seven years named has the Prince Edward commenced to run earlier than she is likely to do this year.

The ferry boat began her trips between Belleville and Prince Edward on the 6th.

The ice is still firm in the bay west of Ferry Point. East of the Grand Junction dock the ice has been broken up and gone. Big Bay and the Reach are clear and the Bay is clear nearly to the Stone Mills. In Picton Bay ice is firm, consequently it will be some days before the small steamers can run.

THE NORTH-WEST.

THE FATE OF THE CREW OF THE G. S. WRIGHT.

The Victoria (B. C.) Colonist has additional particulars of the murder by Indians of a portion of the passengers and crew of the steamer G. S. Wright. The story is that a number of white men came ashore in a boat, and that they had with them many papers and a large sum of money in gold and silver. They bargained with a party of Kingout Indians who were bound to Victoria to take them to Fort Rupert for $7 each. The white men were without arms and when night came and all were asleep, the Indians

A magnificent album, which is to be presented to the Pope by the approaching pilgrimage, is now on view in Quebec. It contains the likenesses of the Roman Catholic clergy and a number of prominent Canadians.

Sir Edward Thornton, British Minister at Washington, arrived in Ottawa yesterday afternoon, and is the guest of his excellency the Governor-General at Rideau Hall.

Large numbers of French Canadians are again reported to be leaving for the States, as many as two hundred having left from the neighbourhood of Richmond during the past two days.

The pilgrimage to Rome from the Dominion under the guidance of Mgr. Racine, Bishop of Sherbrook, left Montreal, on Wednesday the 11th instant. About forty pilgrims went from that city.

A gang of female thieves has been found out in Ottawa. One Mrs. Tighe had the direction of a number of juvenile, mostly girls, who for some time past have been stealing boots rubbers, hams, groceries, gloves, and a variety of articles from shops, under the guise of soliciting charity.

A large meeting of the prominent members of the Dominion Grange was held at Owen Sound last week to organize a Grange Insurance Company.

The Quebec post office clerk, Lemoine, arrested some week ago for stealing letters, has been convicted and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

The Roman Catholics of Walkerton have decided to erect a large convent in that town, for which the contracts have already been let.

A Mr. Dennison of Perth started for Winnipeg with eighteen fine carriage horses.

A young girl at Montreal who was arrested for stealing wood became so terror stricken at the prospect of being locked up that she went into hysterics and exhibited signs of mental derangement.

Exilda Paquette, a girl of 17 years, was arrested in Montreal at the instance of her mother. It appears that she left her home at St. Sauveur three years ago, and has been living for nearly a year in houses of prostitution.

The manager of the Montreal Academy of Music advertised a concert by a slave troupe for next Sunday evening, but the press and public are so strongly condemning the project that it will probably be abandoned.

Seventy-five agriculturists, from the Counties of Lanark, Renfrew, Pontiac and Ottawa, will leave the city on the 17th instant, for the Northwest Territories, where they intend to take up lands. Another settlement of one hundred and fifty will leave Ottawa on the 10th of May next.

The Montreal Star says:—"A sad instance of the danger of throwing orange peel on the sidewalks is reported. A young lady of this city, some little time back, slipped and fell through having trod upon a piece of the treacherous rind. A limb was broken, mortification set in, amputation was found to be necessary, and a day or two ago the poor girl died."

AMERICAN.

Last night in a house, of questionable repute on 25th street, New York, a Frenchman, after unbraiding a notorious woman named Lucy Edwards for the life she was leading, set fire to her gauzy clothing. She ran to her friends, who attempted to extinguish the flames, and then into the street, when the police put out the flames. She died this morning.

A letter dated February 10th from Port Elizabeth, Cape Colony, has been received from Alice Wren, the Brooklyn actress, reported murdered in South Africa. This insures her safety.

NEW YORK, April 5.—The funeral of the venerable Captain Labrugh took place from the Church of the Ascension this morning. Deceased was in his 111th year, and had served under the Duke of Morocco news received at Gibraltar states that locusts in vast numbers have reached Mogador and Safi, and we proceeding along the coast northward they had committed great ravages, as it was feared that the crops had suffered extensively.

A shock of earthquake lasting some fifty seconds, visited the Island Jamaica, the 19th ult. Beyond damage in shops, by the throwing down articles on shelves and the scattering printer's types, no serious damage is reported.

A Constantinople despatch to London says the plague has appeared in Bagdad. LONDON, April 5.—Charles Bradlaugh, the agitator, and Mrs. Annie Besant, free thought advocate, were arrested today for publishing a pamphlet alleged to be immoral.

ROME, April 9.—Bands of Internationalists belonging to the lowest classes bent on mischief have appeared in various provinces. A Salino band of this took possession of the town hall and burned the archives. Many were arrested.

BIRMINGHAM, April 9.—Thornycroft & Co's. Wolverhampton iron works are closed because the enforcement of the eight-hour system by the miners has resulted in continuous loss. Two hundred workmen will be thrown out of employment.

LONDON, April 9.—The cattle plague has broken out at Willesden, Middlesex county, on a large dairy farm. The entire farm herd of 150 will probably have to be slaughtered. Within three miles are 2,000 or 3,000 cows whose milk goes to London.

The Pall Mall Gazette's leading article says unless Turkey yields to all, or nearly all that Russia ever demanded, there will be war before many days.

While a Roman Catholic demonstration was in progress in Perry on St. Patrick's day, the police discovered a large charge with gunpowder and shrapnel, and a fuse attached to it, placed near the route of the procession.

SPORTING NEWS.

THE CANADIAN BASEBALL ASSOCIATION.—The annual convention of the Canadian Baseball Association was held at the Walker House yesterday afternoon. The rules of the International Baseball Association, passed at the Pittsburgh convention, were adopted, and it was decided to have two championships emblem one for professional and the other amateur clubs, entries for which close 15th May. The following officers were elected for 1877:—President, Mr. G. Sleeman, Guelph; Vice-President, H. Smith, Atlantic, London; Secretary, Treasurer, W. Mountain, Toronto; Judiciary Committee, W. Macpherson, T. Nicholls, W. McGill, A. Smart, and G. Moorhead.

Tom Allen and Jack Madden, pugilists, gave an exhibition in Montreal on Monday.

London, April 8.—O'Leary won walking match of six days for $5, aside, which ended yesterday, having completed 500 miles, West being twenty two miles behind.

The yacht Peerless in Belleville being caulked and fitted out for the sea. She will be launched a few days hence and transferred to her new owners Toronto.

On Monday the first game of Football of the season, was played in Toronto.

Mr. Jame Ward has presented Edw. Hanlan with a handsome silver medal token of his appreciation and esteem. Mr. Ward, it will be remembered, the first to recognize the great rowing abilities of the Canadian champion, was instrumental in bringing him to fore.

MOLLY MAGUIRISM RAMPANT.

THE RESULT.

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, APRIL, 13th, 1877.

TORY TACTICS.

The dyed-in-the-wool Tory is never trappy while he is out of office. Office and place, and the spoils of office and place he regards as the special and inalienable perquisite of his membership of the great conservative party; no matter how great and good, how careful of the country's interests, and how competent to discharge the functions of office, may be the opposing party that holds the reins of power, the country is inevitably going to the dogs, under their administration. When the policy and course of a Reform government, offers through their wisdom and straight-forward nature, no grounds for a successful attack by legitimate opposition, the tory party—faction would be a better title—stick at the adoption of no means which may embarrass the government and pave the way to their return to power.

It is well known that of the parties to a discussion, the one that becomes "gravelled for lack" of argument, almost invariably loses his temper, and supplements argument with abuse. There is no better proof wanted of which has the worse of the argument. So with the party that constitutes Her Majesty's loyal opposition at present. Perceiving that their official misdemeanors and public opinion have placed them in the cold shades of opposition, and that their cause is evermore a losing one, they seek the advancement of the interests of the country by pursuing a systematic course of vilification, abuse, misrepresentation, and unscrupulous artifices. As these means prove too weak to satisfy the ardor of their zeal, recourse is had indirectly to threats of violence, similar to those that culminated in the burning of the parliament buildings in Quebec in 1849. The advent of the period of financial depression that the country has labored under so long, having been almost contemporaneous with accession to power of the Mackenzie administration, the astute Sir John turned the stagnation of business to political account, by attributing the depression to the fact of the liberal party holding the reins of power, with the implied declaration that nothing more was necessary to restore financial prosperity and general happiness, than the return to power of himself and the party acknowledging his leadership. The most benighted could not but see that this was simply nonsensical trickery, yet the leader of the party of gentlemen did hesitate to send it forth and his satellites re-echoed it from one end of the country to the other. It would be thought that so absurd a statement would have produced no other effect than that of provoking a smile of incredulity upon any one guilty of reflection, but such alone does not appear to be the case.

Of course the Mackenzie government is responsible for the fact that there is not so great a demand abroad for lumber this season as formerly, and consequently they are the cause of so many persons road will be opened by the 21st., of May next.

The Grand Trunk Railway Works will probably be located here, and the trains be run through to the lower part of the city.

BELLEVILLE.

Nearly three hundred men are now employed on the Belleville and North Hastings Railway.

A man named Sandford while bringing a load of hides from Doyle's Corners to Madoc, on Thursday killed a bald eagle, which alighted on his load; the bird measured nearly seven feet from tip to tip of his wings.

The bay fishermen have made large hauls lately. Most of this produce is brought here and shipped to distant markets. Messrs. Leavens shipped four tons of fish on one day last week.

The Intelligencer gives the dates on which the ferry steamer Prince Edward has begun her trips since 1870, as follows: 1870, April 14; 1871, March 21; 1872, April 18; 1873, April 16; 1874, April 4; 1875, April 12; 1876, April 12. Only twice during the seven years named has the Prince Edward commenced to run earlier than she is likely to do this year.

The ferry boat began her trips between Belleville and Prince Edward on the 6th.

The ice is still firm in the bay west of Ferry Point. East of the Grand Junction dock the ice has been broken up and gone. Big Bay and the Reach are clear and the Bay is clear nearly to the Stone Mills. In Picton Bay ice is firm, consequently it will be some days before the small steamers can run.

THE NORTH-WEST.

THE FATE OF THE CREW OF THE G. S. WRIGHT.

The Victoria (B. C.) Colonist has additional particulars of the murder by Indians of a portion of the passengers and crew of the steamer G. S. Wright. The story is that a number of white men came ashore in a boat, and that they had with them many papers and a large sum of money in gold and silver. They bargained with a party of Kingout Indians who were bound to Victoria to take them to Fort Rupert for $7 each. The white men were without arms and when night came and all were asleep, the Indians murdered them and threw the bodies into the sea after stripping them of everything of value. The money in the box was divided by the savages who then came on to Victoria.

With respect to the destruction of the village Sargeant Bloomfield (b) landed with three others from the Rocket and demanded four men who were suspected of complicity in the murder.

The Indians came out armed, and refused to give up the men. The party then secured two of the suspected savages and made for the boat. They were fired on, but got back to the ship safely. Captain Harris then fired blank cartridges, and the Indians ran away. The village was then afterwards shelled and burned; no one killed.

A recent raid on gamblers at Selkirk resulted in the capture of six persons each of whom was fined $25 by J. W. Selifton, J. P.

A gun club, having for its object the protection of game by procuring the enforcement of the law for the close season and for establishing a pack of fox hounds, has been organized in Winnipeg.

The customs duties collected during the first three months of 1877 amount to $14,000.

Buffalo are in immense herds one day's journey from Battledore. The snow having gone, the animals are in excellent condition.

150 French Canadian families will leave the United States for Manitoba on the 20th.

ready been let.

A Mr. Dennison of Perth started for Winnipeg with eighteen fine carriage horses.

A young girl at Montreal who was arrested for stealing wood became so terror stricken at the prospect of being locked up that she went into hysterics and exhibited signs of mental derangement.

Exilda Paquette, a girl of 17 years, was arrested in Montreal at the instance of her mother. It appears that she left her home at St. Sauveur three years ago, and has been living for nearly a year in houses of prostitution.

The manager of the Montreal Academy of Music advertised a concert by a slave troupe for next Sunday evening, but the press and public are so strongly condemning the project that it will probably be abandoned.

Seventy-five agriculturists, from the Counties of Lanark, Renfrew, Pontiac and Ottawa, will leave the city on the 17th instant, for the Northwest Territories, where they intend to take up lands. Another settlement of one hundred and fifty will leave Ottawa on the 10th of May next.

The Montreal Star says:—"A sad instance of the danger of throwing orange peel on the sidewalks is reported. A young lady of this city, some little time back, slipped and fell through having trod upon a piece of the treacherous rind. A hub was broken, mortification set in, amputation was found to be necessary, and a day or two ago the poor girl died."

AMERICAN.

Last night in a house of questionable repute on 25th street, New York, a Frenchman, after unbraiding a notorious woman named Lucy Edwards for the life she was leading, set fire to her gauzy clothing. She ran to her friends, who attempted to extinguish the flames, and then into the street, when the police put out the flames. She died this morning.

A letter dated February 10th from Port Elizabeth, Cape Colony, has been received from Alice Wren, the Brooklyn actress, reported murdered in South Africa. This insures her safety.

NEW YORK, April 5.—The funeral of the venerable Captain Labrush took place from the Church of the Ascension this morning. Deceased was in his 111th year, and had served under the Duke of Wellington and stood guard over the First Napoleon at the Island of St. Helena. Among those present were Thurlow Weed, Gen. Lloyd Assinwall, and Gen. Fredk de Peyster. The remains were interred in Greenwood.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 6.—Wm. Calhoun, of Brooklyn, was run over and fatally injured by cars. He had ruined a young lady at Lockhaven, and was fleeing from justice.

SALT LAKE, April 6.—The semi-annual Mormon conference commenced to-day at St. George, Utah. Brigham Young and many prominent Mormons were in attendance. The non-Mormons of the territory held a mass meeting on the 14th to arrange legislation for the coming special term of Congress, and the parties to be sent from here to represent them.

The settlement of the Vanderbilt estate is delayed by Cornelius J. Vanderbilt's demand for two millions. All the other heirs have agreed to accept one million each. Cornelius' sister, Mrs. Liffite, also refuses to settle until Cornelius is satisfied.

The body of James Howie, who disappeared on Saturday at noon, was found in the East River yesterday with $6,000 in bonds in his pockets.

Sadie Martin, aged 13, of Union Street Brooklyn, was attacked on Tuesday by two Spitz dogs, who tore her clothes and lacerated the flesh of her leg in a frightful manner. She is now suffering from violent paroxysms, and hydrophobia is feared.

to London.

The Pall Mall Gazette's leading article says unless Turkey yields to all, or nearly all that Russia ever demanded, it will be war before many days.

While a Roman Catholic demonstration was in progress in Derry on St. Patrick's day, the police discovered a large charge with gunpowder and stones, and a fuse attached to it, placed near the route of the procession.

SPORTING NEWS.

THE CANADIAN BASEBALL ASSOCIATION.—The annual convention of Canadian Baseball Association was at the Walker House yesterday afternoon. The rules of the International Baseball Association, passed at the Pittsburgh convention, were adopted, and it was voted to have two championships embodied for professional and the other amateur clubs, entries for which close 15th May. The following officers elected for 1877:—President, Mr. Sleeman, Guelph; Vice-President, T. Smith, Atlantic, London; Secre Treasurer, W. Mountain, Toronto; Judiciary Committee, W. Macpherson, T. Nicholls, W. McGill, A. Smart, and G. Moorhead.

Tom Allen and Jack Maiden, pugilists, give an exhibition in Mon on Monday.

London, April 8.—O'Leary won walking match of six days for $1 aside, which ended yesterday, having completed 500 miles, W. being twenty two miles behind.

The yacht Peerless in Belleville being caulked and fitted out for the sea. She will be launched a few days and transferred to her new owner Toronto.

On Monday the first game of Football of the season, was played in Toronto.

Mr. Jame Ward has presented Ed Hanlan with a handsome silver medal token of his appreciation and esteem. Mr. Ward, it will be remembered, the first to recognize the great abilities of the Canadian champion, was instrumental in bringing him to fore.

MOLLY MAGUIRISM RAMPA.

THE RESULT.

We lately noticed the shooting French-Canadian non-union iron men at Albany, by trades union men. Consequently, another non-union hand in John Cleary, while returning home enquiring what time the train left Montreal, was shot in a dastardly manner through the back, and will likely die. He is a quiet inoffensive man, and J. Kelly, the union moulder who had him, was not to his knowledge his enemy. These and other gross outrages have last caused the leading stove manufacturers of Troy and Albany to enter contracts with the Government for employment of prison labor in manufacture. About 150 convict Sing-Sing will be employed by one. There are now 1,450 prisoners at Sing, more than one-half of whom idle. Another firm is negotiating the Ohio authorities for a contract for labor of convicts confined in the prison of that State. They give as their reason for this movement that two of their have been shot in the streets of All and their business interfered with order of the Moulders' Union. This satisfied them that their trap policy get their goods manufactured out of bany, or remove their business to point where they can be protected by prosecution. The trades union is fully responsible for such a result.—Wit

One of the biggest things in Ottawa a policeman 6 feet 3 inches high, weighing two hundred and twenty pounds without his baton.

from London, Ont., to Winnipeg recently made in six days—pretty inter time.
Ten cases of testaments and gospels in Cree language are now on the way inland. They are being sent by British and Foreign Bible Society, and directed to Canon Grisdale, Winchilder gives it as his opinion that will be from 75 to 100 dwellings of a class put up within the Victoria limits during the coming season.

Shipping operations are brisk in Winarcel from a London bookseller was sent, through the mail, by a Winnipeg yesterday (25th), just forty-seven after despatch of order.

Mrs. Smith & Mellville, from Hamilton St. Catharines, have purchased from the Hudson Bay Company in Winnipeg, they intend to erect extensive planing mill, sash, blind, ornamental wood factory.

largely increased trade with Manitoba and the Hudson Bay regions is noted, and the Red River steamers and land transportation people are beginning to reap a rich harvest during summer of 1877."

dozen different parties, from twenty strong, intend coming to Manitoba in the spring, and an influx of about a thousand to the Prairie Province.

ready the tide of immigration is gaining. One hundred farmers, with teams left Almonte for Manitoba, are going to land immediately. They are received from the principal of Ontario, and from all along the extensive movements of emigration in Manitoba. In some sections of it there is a greater feeling in favor of Manitoba than ever before existed.

CANADIAN.

officer of high standing in one of our volunteer regiments, in Montreal rendered his services to the Militia Regiment, for duty in the North-west Mounted Police. As the gentleman is a graduate of the Military College, an expert rider and has been for fourteen years in the active militia, he would be an acquisition. He intends to settle his family in the Far West.

Police in Montreal have found two human thigh bones in the vicinity of the City of Music, where it is supposed were placed by medical students.

A magnificent album, which is to be dedicated to the Pope by the approach of pilgrimage, is now on view in Quebec. It contains the likenesses of the Roman Catholic clergy and a number of prominent Canadians.

Edward Thornton, British Minister in Washington, arrived in Ottawa Friday noon, and is the guest of his Excellency the Governor-General at Rideau.

Large numbers of French Canadians again reported to be leaving for the States, as many as two hundred having left the neighbourhood of Richmond in the past two days.

A pilgrimage to Rome from the Dominion under the guidance of Mr. Racine, of Sherbrook, left Montreal, Wednesday the 11th instant. Forty pilgrims went from that city.

A gang of female thieves has been detected in Ottawa. One Mrs. Tighe, in the direction of a number of juvenile girls, who for some time past have been stealing boots, rubbers, purses, gloves, and a variety of articles from shops, under the guise of soliciting charity.

A large meeting of the prominent members of the Dominion Grange was held at Owen Sound last week to organize a Life Insurance Company.

Six European steamers sailing from New York on the 7th, carried large cargoes of beef, corn, cheese, lard, &c., 160 head of cattle, and 178 sheep.

The Canadian and United States pilgrimage to Rome sails from New York on April 21st.

Mrs. William Scott, of Grenville, N. J. gave birth to four infants on Thursday. Three are living.

The police records of New York and Brooklyn show 105 mysterious disappearances in both cities since Jan. 1st.

Grant's friends in Washington are favouring a movement for his nomination to succeed Hayes.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The consul at Melbourne advises that no American emigrate to Australia who does not carry means for returning in a year, as such emigrants are likely to return.

In New York, Henry McGinnis fell six stories down the Grand Central Hotel elevator on Saturday night, and was mangled to death. Since this hotel was built, seven years ago, six boys have been killed by the elevator.

Samuel Richardson died in New York from the bite of a strange cat, inflicted on New Year's day.

FOREIGN.

The first sitting of the Turkish Parliament was held in private.

The Irish Catholic members of the House of Commons have resolved to present a suitable address to the Pope on the occasion of his great jubilee or fiftieth year of episcopate.

Mr. Edwin Chadwick, C. B., in his evidence before the Commons' Committee on the London Fire Brigade, advocated the use of hydrants. The whole of London, he said, might be sufficiently protected by fixing hydrants at an average distance of fifty yards.

The case of Robbins v. Day was heard at Swaffham, Eng. The defendant was proprietor of a menagerie, and in September, whilst Mrs. Robbins was visiting the exhibition, her arm was so badly bitten by a dromedary that the limb had to be amputated. The jury awarded £200 damages, with £45 for expenses and costs.

A draper named Copeland recovered £130 damages from the Liverpool Omnibus Company, as compensation for personal injuries he had sustained through a guard in the employ of the defendants causing his omnibus to be restarted when plaintiff was in the act of alighting.

Morocco news received at Gibraltar states that locusts in vast numbers had reached Mogador and Safi, and were proceeding along the coast northwards. They had committed great ravages, and it was feared that the crops had suffered extensively.

A shock of earthquake lasting some fifty seconds, visited the Island of Jamaica, the 19th ult. Beyond damage in shops; by the throwing down of articles on shelves and the scattering of printer's types, no serious damage is yet reported.

A Constantinople despatch to London says the plague has appeared in Bagdad.

LONDON, April 5.—Charles Bradlaugh, the agitator, and Mrs. Annie Besant, a free thought advocate, were arrested to-day for publishing a pamphlet alleged to be immoral.

ROME, April 9.—Bands of Internationalists belonging to the lowest classes and bent on mischief have appeared in various provinces. A Salino band of thirty took possession of the town hall and burned the archives. Many were arrested.

BIRMINGHAM, April 9.—Thornycroft & Co's. Wolverhampton iron works are to be closed because the enforcement of the eight-hour system by the miners has resulted in continuous loss. Twelve hundred workmen will be thrown out of

SPRING OPENING!

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE,

WILL OPEN THEIR

MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

FOR THE SEASON, ON

Saturday Next, April 14th,

WITH THE

LARGEST AND FINEST STOCK OF

MILLINERY

Ever shown. We have not time to send Special Cards of Invitation, and we hope this will be accepted as a general invitation for every one to come.

Old and Young, Rich and Poor,

Everybody will be welcome and be treated with the same attention.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

Public Attention

Is directed to the following Provisions of the Fishery and Game Laws in the Province of Ontario.

CLOSE SEASONS FOR FISH.

Whitefish cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th November, both days inclusive.

Salmon Trout, and Lake Trout, cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th November, both days inclusive.

List of Music Books

NOW IN STOCK, AT

HENDERSON'S BOOKSTORE, DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

Any Book not on this list can be ordered, and be had on Short Notice.

Books mailed post free to any part of Canada, on receipt of the annexed price.

Mari's Concina Tutor, price 15 cts.

Regondi's German Concertina Tutor, price 15 "

One Hundred Sacred Airs

ny as two hundred having neighbourhood of Richmond last two days.

mage to Rome from the Dom- the guidance of Mgr. Racine, Sherbrook, left Montreal, esday the 11th instant. pilgrims went from that city. of female thieves has been a Ottawa. One Mrs. Tighe section of a number of juven- girls, who for some time past eating boots rubbers, hams, oves, and a variety of articles under the guise of soliciting meeting of the prominent the Dominion Grange was a Sound last week to organize surance Company.

ee post office clerk, Lemoine, le week ago for stealing let- gen convicted and sentenced in the penitentiary.

Catholics of Walkerton have rect a large convent in that uth the contracts have ad- et.

emission of Perth started for uth eighteen fine exchange girl at Montreal who was ar- ening wood become so ter- at the prospect of being lock- he went into hysterics and us of mental derangement.

quette, a girl of 17 years, lin Montreal at the instance er. It appears that she left St. Sauveur three years ago, n living for nearly a year in ostitution.

ger of the Montreal Academy advertised a concert by a slave ext Sunday evening, but the ible are so strongly condem- roject that it will probably be ive agriculturists, from the Lanark, Renfrew, Pontiac will leave the city on the for the Northwest Territories, intend to take up lands. An- ment of one hundred and ave Ottawa on the 10th of real Star says:—"A sad in- danger of throwing orange siderswalks is reported. A of this city, some little time and fell through having piece of the treacherous rind. Broken, mortification set in, was found to be necessary. two ago the poor girl died."

AMERICAN.

lin a house of questionable 25th street, New York, a after unbraiding a notorious ed Lucy Edwards for the life ting, set fire to her gauzy he ran to her friends, who at- extinguish the flames, and e street, when the police put es. She died this morning, dated February 10th from th, Cape Colony, has been re- Alice Wren, the Brooklyn orted murdered in South s insures her safety.

5, April 5.—The funeral of e Captain Labrbush took ie Church of the Ascension . Deceased was in his 111th l served under the Duke of l stood guard over the on at the Island of St. among those present were ed, Gen. Lloyd Aspinwall, edk de Peyster. The re- nterred in Greenwood.

16, Pa., April 6.—Wm: Brooklyn, was run over and d by cars. He had ruined at Lockhaven, and was flee- ice.

, April 6.—The semi-annual erence commenced to-day at printer's types, 20 serious damage is yet reported.

A Constantinople despatch to London says the plague has appeared in Bagdad.

LONDON, April 5.—Charles Bradlaugh, the agitator, and Mrs Annie Besant, a free thought advocate, were arrested to-day for publishing a pamphlet alleged to be immoral.

ROME, April 9.—Bands of Internation- alists belonging to the lowest classes and bent on mischief have appeared in various provinces. A Selino a band of thirty took possession of the town hall and burned the archives. Many were arrested.

BIRMINGHAM, April 9.—Thornycraft & Co's. Wolverhampton iron works are to be closed because the enforcement of the eight-hour system by the miners has re- sulted in continuous loss. Twelve hundred workmen will be thrown out of employment.

LONDON, April 9.—The cattle plague has broken out at Willesden, Middlesex county, on a large dairy farm. The entire farm herd of 150 will probably have to be slaughtered. Within three miles are 2,000 or 3,000 cows whose milk goes to London.

The Pall Mall Gazette's leading article says unless Turkey yields to all, or nearly all that Russia ever demanded, there will be war before many days.

While a Roman Catholic demonstration was in progress in Derry on St. Patrick's day, the police discovered a large jar charged with gunpowder and sharp stones, and a fuse attached to it, placed near the route of the procession.

SPORTING NEWS.

THE CANADIAN BASEBALL ASSOCIATION.—The annual convention of the Canadian Baseball Association was held at the Walker House yesterday afternoon. The rules of the International Baseball Association, passed at the Pittsburg convention, were adopted, and it was de- cided to have two championship emblems one for professional and the other for amateur clubs, entries for which close on 15th May. The following officers were elected for 1877:—President, Mr. Geo. Sleeman, Guelph; Vice-President, H. C. Smith, Atlantic, London; Secretary-Treasurer, W. Mountain, Toronto; Judiciary Committee, W. Macpherson, J. T. Nicholls, W. McGill, A. Smart, and C. G. Moorhead.

Tom Allen and Jack Madden, the pugilists, give an exhibition in Montreal on Monday.

London, April 8.—O'Leary won the walking match of six days for $5,000 aside, which ended yesterday, he having completed 500 miles, Weston being twenty two miles behind.

The yacht Peerless in Belleville is being caulked and fitted out for the season. She will be launched a few days hence, and transferred to her new owners in Toronto.

On Monday the first game of Football of the season, was played in Toronto.

Mr. Jame Ward has presented Edward Hazlan with a handsome silver medal in token of his appreciation and esteem. Mr. Ward, it will be remembered, was the first to recognize the great rowing abilities of the Canadian champion, and was instrumental in bringing him to the fore.

MOLLY MAGUIRISM RAMPANT.

THE RESULT.

We lately noticed the shooting of a French-Canadian non-union iron moulder at Albany, by trades union men. Sub- sequently, another non-union hand named John Cleary, while returning home after enquiring what time the train left for Montreal, was shot in a dastardly man- ner through the back, and will likely die. He is a quiet inoffensive man, and James Kelly, the union moulder who had shot him, was not to his knowledge his enemy. These and other gross outrages have at last caused the leading stove manufact-

Public Attention

Is directed to the following Provisions of the Fishery and Game Laws in the Province of Ontario.

CLOSE SEASONS FOR FISH.

Whitefish cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th November, both days inclusive.

Salmon Trout, and Lake Trout, cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th November, both days inclusive.

Speckled Trout, Brook or River Trout, cannot be caught from 15th September to 1st May.

Bass, cannot be caught from 15th May to 15th June.

Pickarel, cannot be caught from 15th April to 15th May.

Maskinonge, cannot be caught from 15th April to 15th May.

CLOSE SEASONS FOR GAME.

Deer and Cariboo, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.

Moose, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.

Partridge, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st September.

Duck, cannot be killed from 1st January to 15th August.

Woodcock, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st July.

Snipe, cannot be killed from 1st May to 15th August.

Quail, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st October.

A l well-disposed persons are requested to afford the local Fishery Officers what- ever information and assistance they can towards carrying out these provisions of the Fishery Laws.

Fishing without Licences is prohibited. Indians are forbidden to fish or shoot illegally the same as whitemen.

Complainants will receive one-half of the fines imposed, and be paid for their cost and attendance as witnesses.

Each person guilty of violating these regulations is liable to find and costs, or in default of payment is subject to im- prisonment.

No person shall, during such prohibited times, fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or have in possession any of the above men- tioned kind of Fish or Game.

In Quebec, Fishery Officers exercise Magisterial powers under the Game Laws.

BY ORDER.

W. F. WHITCHER, Commissioner of Fisheries.

N. B.—Deer killed before the 1st De- cember, cannot be legally disposed of after the 1st of January following.

Department of Ma ine and Fisheries, Fisheries Branch, Ottawa.

ALFRED KNIGHT, Fishery Overseer, Petworth.

NEW TAILORING ESTABLISHMENT.

MAX FOX

Begs leave to inform the gentlemen of Nap- eene and vicinity, that he has opened a shop over

SWENEY BROS., where he is prepar d to cut and make

GENTLEMENS CLOTHI

in the Latest Style, as Cheap as the Cheapest and as good as the Best.

List of Music Books

NOW IN STOCK, AT

HENDERSON'S BOOKSTORE,

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

Any Book not on this list can be ordered, and be had on Short Notice.

Books mail a post free to any part of Canada, on receipt of the annexed price.

Marr's Cornetina Tutor, price	15 cts.
Regondi's German Concertina Tutor, price	15 "
" One Hundred Sacred Ains for the Concertina	15 "
" One Hundred Melodies for the Concertina	15 "
" Sacred Album for the Con- certina	15 "
Westrop's Universal Harmonium Tutor	15 "
50 Christy's Minstrels Songs	15 "
Adams 100 Scottish Aias for the Violin, price	20 "
100 Christy's Minstrels melodies for the Flute	20 "
Adams 115 Dancing Tunes for the Cornetina	20 "
" 115 Scottish Dancing tunes for the Concertina	20 "
Marr's Army and Navy tunes for the Concertina	30 "
" Selection of Dance Music for the Concertina	20 "
" Repository of Music for the Concertina	20 "
" Christy's Minstrels tunes for the Concertina	20 "
" Concertina Companion	20 "
Jonsen's Musical Catechism	25 "
Wases Songs and Ballads, ar- ranged for the Guitar	30 "
W. trop's 50 Selected Polkas for the Pianoforte	30 "
Regondi's 200 Melodies for the Concertina	30 "
Selzwick's 200 Melodies for the English Concertina	30 "
Regondi's 20 sets of Quadrilles for the Concertina	30 "
50 Christy's Minstrel Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
58 English and National Melo- dies for the Pianoforte	30 "
16 Operatic Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
51 Scottish Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
16 Moore's Irish Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
36 Pieces of Scottish Dance Music for the Pianoforte	30 "
32 Waltz & Polkas & Schot- tisches for the Pianoforte	30 "
Bacon & Cos Violin Tutor	30 "
" " Cornetina Tutor	30 "
Winnowed Hymns	30 "
Bidemann's 200 Sacred M lodies	30 "
Georgel Hymns and Sacred songs by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Gospel Hymns No. 2 (a new col- lection) by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Brightest and Best	35 "
Page Gold	35 "
Royal Dead-m	35 "
Accordeon with a Master	50 "
Moore's Eclectic School for the Piano	50 "
Canadian Sunday School Organ	50 "
The Standard Singer by Philip Phillips	50 "
The Singing Minstrel by Philip Phillips	50 "
The Song Queen by H. R.

All I

That the Firm

FIRST- Pi

SECONI de

THIRD. th

FOURTH ch

DO

Because I Beca

ALL GO

S

Will prev

Adams 100 Scottish Airs for the Violin, price	20	"
100 Christy's Minstrels melodies for the Flute	20	"
Adams 115 Dancing Tunes for the Concertina	20	"
" 115 Scottish Dancing tunes for the Concertina	20	"
Marr's Army and Navy tunes for the Concertina	30	"
" Selection of Dance Music for the Concertina	20	"
" Repository of Music for the Concertina	20	"
" Christy's Minstrels tunes for the Concertina	20	"
" Concertina Companion	20	"
Joussé's Musical Catechism	25	"
Wales Songs and Ballads, arranged for the Guitar	30	"
Wetrops 50 selected Polkas for the Pianoforte	30	"
Regaults 200 Melodies for the Concertina	30	"
Sedgwick's 200 Melodies for the English Concertina	30	"
Regault's 20 sets of Quadrilles for the Concertina	30	"
50 Christy's Minstrels Melodies for the Pianoforte	30	"
58 English and National Melodies for the Pianoforte	30	"
10 Operatic Melodies for the Pianoforte	30	"
51 Scottish Melodies for the Pianoforte	30	"
16 Moore's Irish Melodies for the Pianoforte	30	"
36 Pieces of Scottish Dance Music for the Pianoforte	30	"
32 Waltz & Polkas & Schottisches for the Pianoforte	30	"
Bowery & Co's Violin Tutor	30	"
" " " Concertina Tutor	30	"
Winnow'd Hymns	30	"
Bodenius 200 Sacred Melodies	30	"
Gospel Hymns and Sacred songs by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35	"
Gospel Hymns No. 2 (a new collection) by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35	"
Brightest and Best	35	"
Pure Gold	35	"
Royal Drum	35	"
Accordeon with a Master	50	"
Moore's Eclectic School for the Piano	50	"
Canadian Sunday School Organ	50	"
The Standard Singer by Philip Phillips	50	"
The Singing Pilgrim by Philip Phillips	50	"
The Song Queen by H. R. Palmer	60	"
The Song King by H. R. Palmer	75	"
White's Piano with a Master	75	"
Winners New Primer for the Guitar	75	"
" New School for the Violin	75	"
The Song Echo by H. S. Perkins	75	"
Reinhardt's Instruction book for the Organ	$1.25
The Songs of Ireland by J. L. Molloy	1.25
Hollah's Method of Teaching Singing	1.65
Hartens Pianoforte School	2.00
The Welcome Guest	2.50
The Home Circle No. 1	2.50
The Home Circle No. 2	2.50
The Home Circle No. 3	2.50
Richardson's New Method for the Pianoforte reduced to	$3.25.
JOHN HENDERSON,
Bookseller,
Granges' Block, Napanee,

APRIL, 13 1877.

GRAND OPENING!

THE NEW FIRM

—OF—

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE,

WILL OPEN THEIR

MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

FOR THE SEASON, ON

Saturday Next, April 14th,

WITH THE

LARGEST AND FINEST STOCK OF

MILLINERY

own. We have not time to send Special Cards of Invitation, and we e this will be accepted as a general invitation for every one to come.

Old and Young, Rich and Poor,

only will be welcome and be treated with the same attention.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

DOWNEY & SPENCE,

ARE NOW OPEN.

Look out for Bargains,

AS SUCCESSORS TO

R. DOWNEY & BROS.,

HAVING PURCHASED THEIR

LARGE STOCK OF DRY GOODS,

THE GREAT COST SALE

Will be continued, and as it is the intention of the New Firm to

SELL GOODS STRICTLY FOR CASH,

All New Goods in, and coming in, are marked to sell

Public Attention

ted to the following Provisions of Fishery and Game Laws in the Province of Ontario.

USE SEASONS FOR FISH.
fish cannot be caught from 1st

List of Music Books

NOW IN STOCK, AT

HENDERSON'S BOOKSTORE,
DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

Any Book not on this list can be ordered, and be had on Short Notice.

Books mailed post free to any part of Canada, on receipt of the annexed

We have not time to send Special Cards of Invitation, and we will be accepted as a general invitation for every one to come.

and Young, Rich and Poor,

all be welcome and be treated with the same attention.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

Attention

The following Provisions of Fish and Game Laws in the Province of Ontario.

SEASONS FOR FISH.

Not to be caught from 1st 10th November, both days and Lake Trout, cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th both days inclusive.

Brook or River Trout, cannot be caught from 15th September

to 15th May

Not to be caught from 1st 15th May.

Not to be caught from 1st 15th May.

SEASONS FOR GAME.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

Not to be killed from 1st 1st September.

List of Music Books

NOW IN STOCK, AT

HENDERSON'S BOOKSTORE,
DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

Any Book not on this list can be ordered, and be had on Short Notice.

Books mailed post free to any part of Canada, on receipt of the annexed price.

Marr's Concertina Tutor, price 15 cts.

Regondi's German Concertina

Tutor, price 15 "

" One Hundred Sacred Airs

for the Concertina 15 "

" One Hundred Melodies for

the Concertina 15 "

" Sacred Album for the Con-

certina 15 "

Westrop's Universal Harmonium

Tutor 15 "

50 Christy's Minstrel's Songs 15 "

Adams 100 Scottish Aias for the Violin, price 20 "

100 Christy's Minstrel's melodies

for the Flute 20 "

Adams 115 Dancing Tunes for

the Concertina 20 "

" 115 Scottish Dancing tunes

for the Concertina 20 "

Marr's Army and Navy tunes

for the Concertina 30 "

" Selection of Dance Music

for the Concertina 20 "

" Repository of Music for the Concertina 20 "

" Christy's Minstrel's tunes

for the Concertina 20 "

" Concertina Companion 20 "

Jonsen's Musical Catechism 25 "

Waltz Songs and Ballads, arranged for the Guitar 30 "

Westrop's 50 selected Polkas for

the Pianoforte 30 "

Regondi's 200 Melodies for the Concertina 30 "

Sedgwick's 200 Melodies for the

English Concertina 30 "

Regondi's 20 sets of Quadrilles

for the Concertina 30 "

50 Christy's Minstrel's Melodies

for the Pianoforte 30 "

58 English and National Melo-

di- es for the Pianoforte 30 "

16 Operatic Melodies for the

Pianoforte 30 "

54 Scottish Melodies for the

Pianoforte 30 "

16 Modern Irish Melodies for

the Pianoforte 30 "

36 Pieces of Scottish Dance

Music for the Pianoforte 30 "

32 Waltz & Polkas & Schottisches for the Pianoforte 30 "

Boas & Cos Violin Tutor 30 "

" " " " " " " " " " " "

Winnowed Hymns 30 "

Batemans 200 Sacred Melodies 30 "

LARGE STOCK OF DRY GOODS,

THE GREAT COST SALE

Will be continued, and as it is the intention of the New Firm to

SELL GOODS STRICTLY FOR CASH,

All New Goods in, and coming in, are marked, to sell

At a Small Advance on Cost.

That the public may have the same confidence in the New Firm as they have had in the Old ; They commence business on the sound basis of

FIRST.—Buying their goods for Cash, at the Very Lowest Prices.

SECOND.—Marking their goods in plain figures, that no deception can be practised.

THIRD.—Selling their goods at the prices marked. That is they will have no second price.

FOURTH.—Selling for Cash only, saving the cost of extra clerks and bad debts.

THE CUSTOMERS OF

DOWNEY & SPENCE

Will get their Goods Cheap,

Because Downey & Spence buy them Cheap for Cash.
Because Downey & Spence sell for Cash, and can afford to sell Cheap. Also,

ALL GOODS MARKED IN PLAIN FIGURES,

April to 15th May.

CLOSE SEASONS FOR GAME.

er and Cariboo, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.
oose, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.
tridge, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st September.
uck, cannot be killed from 1st January to 15th August.
oodcock, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st July.
ipe, cannot be killed from 1st May to 15th August.
uail, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st October.

All well-disposed persons are requested to afford the local Fishery Officers whatever information and assistance they can towards carrying out these provisions of the Fishery Laws.
Fishing without Licenses is prohibited. Indians are forbidden to fish or shoot equally the same as whitemen.
Complainants will receive one-half of the fines imposed, and be paid for their cost and attendance as witnesses.
Each person guilty of violating these regulations is liable to find and costs, or default of payment is subject to imprisonment.
No person shall, during such prohibited times, fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or have in possession any of the above mentioned kind of Fish or Game.
In Quebec, Fishery Officers exercise magisterial powers under the Game Laws.

BY ORDER.

W. F. WHITCHER,

Commissioner of Fisheries.

N. B.—Deer killed before the 1st December, cannot be legally disposed of after the 1st of January following.
Department of Marine and Fisheries, Fisheries Branch, Ottawa.

ALFRED KNIGHT,

Fishery Overseer, Petworth.

NEW TAILORING ESTABLISHMENT.

MAX FOX

who leave to inform the gentlemen of Napanee and vicinity, that he has opened a shop at

SWFENEY BROS.,

where he is prepared to cut and make the latest style, as cheap as the cheapest and as good as the best.

GENTLEMENS CLOTHING

THE GREAT FEMALE REMEDY.
JOB MOSES' PERIODICAL PILLS.

This well known medicine is no imposition, it is a sure and safe remedy for Female Obstructions and Obstructions, from any cause whatever, and although a powerful remedy, it contains nothing hurtful to the constitution.
The Manufacturer of it is peculiarly suited. It is in a short time brings on the monthly period, in regularity.
In all cases of Nervous and spinal Affections, in the Back and Limbs, Headaches, Fatigue, slight exertion, Palpitation of the Heart, Loss of Spirit, Hysterics, Sick Headaches, fits, and all the painful diseases occasioned by a disordered system, these Pills will effect a cure when all other means have failed.
These Pills have never been known to fail, here the directions on the last page of pamphlet are well observed.
For further particulars, get a pamphlet, from agent.

JOB MOSES' NEW YORK, SOLE PROPRIETOR.
$1.00 and 12 cents for postage, enclosed to Dr. J. P. & Lyman, Toronto, Ont. Gentlemen for the Dominion, will insure a bottle containing over 50 pills, by return mail.
Sold in Napanee by all Druggists. Mill Point, W. G. Edgar, Tainworth, Aylsworth & Huggan, and all medicine dealers.

Adams 100 Scottish Aias for the Violin, price	20 "
100 Christy's Minstrels melodies for the Flute	20 "
Adams 115 Dancing Tunes for the Concertina	20 "
" 115 Scottish Dancing tunes for the Concertina	20 "
Mart's Army and Navy tunes for the Concertina	30 "
" Selection of Dance Music for the Concertina	20 "
" Repository of Music for the Concertina	20 "
" Christy's Minstrels tunes for the Concertina	20 "
" Concertina Companion	20 "
Jansse's Musical Catechism	25 "
Wales Songs and Ballads, arranged for the Guitar	30 "
Waltzes 50 selected Polkas for the Pianoforte	30 "
Regards 200 Melodies for the Concertina	30 "
Selgwick's 200 Melodies for the English Concertina	30 "
Regard's 20 sets of Quadrilles for the Concertina	30 "
50 Christy's Minstrels Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
58 English and National Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
16 Operatic Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
51 Scottish Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
16 Mores Irish Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
36 Pieces of Scottish Dance Music for the Pianoforte	30 "
32 Waltzes, Polkas & Schottisches for the Pianoforte	30 "
Bosny & Cos Violin Tutor	30 "
" " " Concertina Tutor	30 "
Winnow's 4 Hymns	30 "
Bohemian 200 Sacred Melodies	30 "
Gospel Hymns and Sacred songs by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Gospel Hymns No. 2 (a new collection) by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Brightest and Best	35 "
Pure Gold	35 "
Royal Duet	35 "
Accordeon with a Master	50 "
Moore's Eclectic School for the Piano	50 "
Canadian Sunday School Organ	50 "
The Standard Singer by Philip Phillips	50 "
The Singing Magazine by Philip Phillips	50 "
The Song Queen by H. R. Palmer	60 "
The Song King by H. R. Palmer	75 "
White's Piano with a Master	75 "
Winners New Primer for the Guitar	75 "
" New School for the Violin	75 "
The Song Echo by H. S. Perkins	75 "
Reinhardt's Instruction book for the Organ	$1.25
The Songs of Ireland by J. L. Molloy	1.25
Hollins Method of Teaching Singing	1.65
Hautens Pianoforte School	2.00
The Welcome Guest	2.50
The Home Circle No. 1	2.50
The Home Circle No. 2	2.50
The Home Circle No. 3	2.50
Richardson's New Method for the Pianoforte reduced to	$3.25.

JOHN HENDERSON,

Bookseller, Granges' Block, Napanee.

FIRST.—Buying their goods for Cash, at the Very Lowest Prices.

SECOND.—Marking their goods in plain figures, that no deception can be practised.

THIRD.—Selling their goods at the prices marked. That is they will have no second price.

FOURTH.—Selling for Cash only, saving the cost of extra clerks and bad debts.

THE CUSTOMERS OF

DOWNEY & SPENCE

Will get their Goods Cheap,

Because Downey & Spence buy them Cheap for Cash.
Because Downey & Spence sell for Cash, and can afford to sell Cheap. Also,

ALL GOODS MARKED IN PLAIN FIGURES,

Sold at One Price,

Will prevent any deception being practised, or one customer getting goods cheaper than another.

DOWNEY & SPENCE,

ARE NOW SECURING

NEW GOODS EVERY DAY,

Therefore, customers may expect a

FRESH STOCK TO SELECT FROM AT ALL TIMES.

Call and see them, and give them a trial,

AND SECURE SOME OF THE GREAT BARGAINS THEY ARE OFFERING

DOWNEY & SPENCE.

List of New Advertisements.

Phosphozone—Evans Mercer & Co.
Spring Goods—Slaven & Ironside.
Insurance—W. Hanson.
Lost—J. T. Clark.
Special Notices—Close's Mills.

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, APRIL 13th, 1877.

If your flour don't rise in ten days go to,
CLOSES MILLS.
Spring Planting.

Is progressing all around us owing to the fine weather of the past week.

Fresh Fish.

Pike, Pickerel and Suckers, are now on our market, being mostly brought from Hay Bay. A few are still caught below the falls.

The Swing Bridge.

Notwithstanding the enormous ice pressure the bridge has been subject to during the past winter, the piers remain as firm as ever.

Spring.

If no other signs were visible, the number of ash-heaps—which the disappearance of snow on our streets, has brought to light—would be a sufficient proof.

Building Prospects.

Are unusually dull, Mr. Philips is erecting an organ factory, and Mr. Rankin a two story brick, both over the river, these are all we know of at present.

Pike Fishing.

A party of piscatorial sports left for the spearing grounds on Monday last, being well provided against every contingency. We expect to report big things on their return.

"Oswego Belle."

This is the only boat in our harbour, showing signs of activity. It is being thoroughly repaired and the necessary repairs are in progress. She will probably leave port the first of May.

Farmers save 25 percent of their feed, by having it ground fine, at CLOSES MILLS.

Maple Sugar.

This luscious commodity is brought in by the ton, finding a ready sale at 12½ c. per lb. Maple Syrup sells for $1 per gal. (imperial,) but some of it is so well watered, that it would not float a mosquito.

A Bounty Jumper.

The market clerk caught one of these fellows on Monday, who economized, by promptly paying $3.00—costs—and saving the extra expense of a visit to the Police Court.

Good for Travellers.

Our citizens visiting Kingston, will appreciate the advantages of going from the station to the city by railway. A change, which will shortly be effected. The Horse-cars will also be running by the 21st of May.

Telegraph Reduction.

The Montreal and Dominion Telegraph Companies, now send messages to all points in the United States, east of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, including Omaha, Nebraska, Atchison, Kansas, at a uniform rate of fifty cents.

New Paper.

The North Hastings Review, an independent, eight-page paper has made its appearance. It is published in Madoc by J. A. Orr & Bro. As that locality has long been in need of a mouth-piece, a success can be guaranteed under proper management.

The Juvenile Temple Concert.

will take place in the Town Hall this

Downey & Bros.

Are receiving a few cars of Grafton Effe Wheat, for seed.

Hard Luck.

We clip this item from the Newburgh Reporter:—"The composers of this paper, and we also might add the editor, are waiting very anxiously for some generous hearted farmer to lay on the editor's table a nice cake of new maple sugar. We trust our friends who are making the delicious article will not all rush in on the same day." On behalf of the managing committee, we give our Newburgh friends a special invitation to the next union sugar social. Napanee is noted for her hospitality.

"Right about Face."

Old veterans in Napanee and vicinity, who have been foremost in the hour of danger, should not be backward now. Notice is given in the Canada Gazette that Militiamen who served in the war of 1812-15, and who have not as yet sent in their claims to participate in the special appropriation made by Parliament for such services, to enable them to participate therein, should forward their claims and declarations to the Department of Militia and Defence before the 10th of May next. Claims received on or after that date will not be admitted.

Grand Trunk Fares.

When from any exceptional circumstance, a conductor on a freight or other train is authorized to carry passengers, and he has not been furnished with a ticket book, he must collect the fare from any passenger who is not provided with a ticket. The fare from any station in Canada to any other station can be ascertained by dividing the distance, with an 0 added, by 3, to get the first-class fare, and by 4 to get the second-class fare, thus: From Napanee to Montreal, say 198 miles:

1980

$6.60, 1st class.
$4.95, 2nd class.

Divide by 12 to get the difference between the two—$1.65 excess.

Silver Leaf B. B. Club.

The first-nine team consists of the following: J. Phelan, pitcher; J. Davis, catcher; F. Blair, 1st b; A. Boyes, 2nd b; C. Mair, 3rd b; C. Mills, s. s.; C. C. Hann, r. f; C. Butler, l. f; J. E. Herring, c. f. The officers are: President, J. E. Herring; Capt. J. P. Davis; Field Capt. C. W. Mills; Sec., W. G. Fralick; Treas. C. Mair; and Committee, F. Blair, J. Herring, and J. Phelan. This favorite club will use the ground they occupied last year. A complete outfit has been ordered, consisting of navy-blue pants—white shirts—blue and white stockings and double-peaked hats. The opening match will be with the Troublers of B. Beville on the 24th of May, and it will trouble them or any other club, to sore ahead of our popular team.

Union Sugar Social.

The young men's union sugar social on Monday night, overflowed with genuine enjoyment, and old-fashioned hospitality. The excellent arrangement of the seats enabled every one to exchange smiles with his opposite neighbour—and any fellow who wouldn't smile, with a pound of maple-sugar in his fist, and a pleasant looking girl in front of him, should be charged double fare, and put on half rations. An excellent selection was given by the Quintette Club. Misses Grange, Daly and Mrs. Hanson, an instrumental trio. Mrs. W. Anderson gave an original reading, including some capital, and laughable hits at the managing committee. A vocal solo by Mrs. Mills, accompanied by Miss Herring on the piano. Mr. Warren recited "Gone with a hand-saw man." Miss Selden accompanied by Miss Pennycook, sang a

A BRITISH VETERAN.

ONE HUNDRED AND ELEVEN YEARS OLD.

From the New York Herald, April 4

Captain Frederick Lahrbush breathed his last on yesterday afternoon, at the dwelling of his friend, Mr. McGrath, No. 518 Third avenue, Captain Lahrbush was born on March 9, 1766. He contracted his fatal illness two months ago, when he went out one raw and bitter morning for the purpose of making a call on Mrs. A. T. Stewart. Up to a few years ago the anniversary of the birthday of this remarkable centenarian was celebrated by a dinner party given in his honour by General John Watts De Peyster, and which was attended by a large number of distinguished people. The most prominent men of New York—Thurlow Weed, A. T. Stewart, and many others—have taken pleasure in doing him honor, he has received for a long time a pension from a wealthy citizen interested in his extraordinary history. While living on the second floor of a plain brick house on Third avenue, near Thirty-fourth street, he would often breakfast at the residences of some of the wealthy friends on Fifth avenue, who always delighted in hearing him recount the interesting episodes of his chequered career, touching the members of a generation who had been sleeping their last sleep for half a century. Some doubts have been raised as to Captain Lahrbush's veracity concerning his age, but all the prominent men who have investigated the matter and made inquiries at the British War Office proclaim their faith in his claim to have been one of the oldest men in the world. It is no easy task even for one who has read a sketch of Captain Lahrbush's life, and who is familiar with the date of his birth, to realise the matter of fact significance of his wondrous age, that this man was born three years before Napoleon I., who has been dead these fifty six years; that at his birth Louis XV. ruled in long-suffering France, that Maria Theresa and Frederick the Great swayed the sceptres of Austria and Prussia, that William Pitt was only a boy of seven, and that Mme. de Staël was born in the same year? Who can call that time vividly before the mind and associate it with the life of one who, until a few weeks ago, took his meals regularly, and might be seen riding down town in a Third avenue car any fine day, a hale and hearty old man? The dim and faded historical past seemed to spring into life and flesh in the presence of this living remnant of an epoch long, long gone by. This man was a friend of Blücher, knew Marshal Ney, Eugene, Victor, and Lefevre; he fought under Sir Arthur Wellesley in the Peninsular war, and kept guard at Napoleon's prison on St. Helena sixty long years ago. His strange history would fill a thrilling chapter of romance. Entering the British army at an early age, fighting against Napoleon's heroes during the most memorable years of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, retiring finally at fifty-two from active service, and marrying the wife of his bosom, then suffering shipwreck and losing both wife and fortune—the latter the savings of a whole life—and finally living to be revered for his venerable past by the members of a generation who look upon him as some wondrous monumental robe of antiquity—this is no ordinary career, and it becomes even more astonishing when the pitiful scenes through which he passed unharmed are remembered. It seems as though he bore a charmed life, and a special Providence had watched over him in order to preserve him to us as one of the greatest centenarians of the age.

CANADIANS ABROAD.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27, 1877.

To the Editor of the FREE PRESS.

DEAR SIR, I take great pleasure in informing you that an organization has

THE DECLINE OF THE GRANGE.

From the annual report of the N. Grange it appears that both in numbers and Granges and Grangers the Order has suffered a serious decline, comparing with 1875. In eighteen States, sending every section of the United over 9,000 granges have gone out of existence, and membership has fallen 180,000 since the report of 1875 was made. The decline is most marked in the movement had its origin, that is, Western States. In Missouri 9744 with a membership of 42,529, reported 1866, against 2,034 grangers, with members in 1875. The South-west Northwest are next to show wear. In the eastern and some of the States, where the movement was appearing it remained almost as still in 1876. The table below gives changes in a few of the States:—

	No. granges.	No. Mem.	1875.	1876.	1875.	1876.
Alabama.....	678	300	17,440	17,440
California.....	283	173	14,228	14,228
Connecticut.....	16	13	480	480
Georgia.....	708	277	17,800	17,800
Illinois.....	1,592	646	28,003	28,003
Indiana.....	2,036	1,145	60,236	60,236
Iowa.....	2,002	1,132	51,322	51,322
Kansas.....	3,373	874	40,261	40,261
Kentucky.....	1,618	1,003	52,433	52,433
New Hampshire.....	69	77	2,508	2,508
New Jersey.....	69	90	4,065	4,065
Ohio.....	1,216	1,114	53,327	53,327
Pennsylvania.....	615	629	22,471	22,471
Wisconsin.....	514	294	17,226	17,226

THE LOCOMOTIVE BROTHERHOOD.

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—General Manager of the Reading states that his conference with the engineers of the road last evening ended an agreement on their part to accept the new arrangement proposed by the Company. The plan of insurance proposed by the Railroad Company is to tribute $15,000 to a life insurance and $10,000 to an accident insurance for the benefit of such of their train as comply with the provisions in the assessments agreed upon.

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—The R. railway suspended all the Brotherhood engineers, numbering thirty-four, employed upon the Germantown andristown branch yesterday, and a them two days, time to decide whether remain in the employ of the Company leave the Brotherhood. Seven were discharged previously. A meeting was held from various railways is in progress. The locomotive engineers had met day at which 350 members of the Brotherhood were present. Delegates appeared from over forty divisions in the States and Canada, who promised port to the engineers of the Reading in case of a strike, or if discharged count of their connection with Brotherhood. Fifteen firemen refused to take charge of their engines have been discharged.

RUMOURED SCANDALS AT HOUSE OF INDUSTRY.

Various rumours have been around town regarding some scandalous proceedings which have been brought at the Kingston House of Industry. There seems to be no doubt that during the last few months there has been a place of refuge for a number of abandoned women; in fact, made of a lying-in hospital. Several, e.g., a woman of loose character, Ann Hunter, who was an inmate birth to a child, which was found morning in a water pail. An invitation was held by the Directors, a doctors who were called stated the child was prematurely born and never breathed. From these circumstances it was not deemed advisable to intrude in an affair public, but we are of opinion an inquest should have been held, evidence taken on oath. To day we heard of a like circumstance, where a woman who had been an inmate was sent to Montreal, where she is ed to have been confined.—News.

by the ton, making ready sale at 122 c. per lb. Maple Syrup sells for $1 per gal. (imperial), but some of it is so well watered, that it would not float a mosquito.

A Bounty Jumper.

The market clerk caught one of these fellows on Monday, who economized, by promptly paying $3.00—costs—and saving the extra expense of a visit to the Police Court.

Good for Travellers.

Our citizens visiting Kingston, will appreciate the advantages of going from the station to the city by railway. A change, which will shortly be effected. The Horse-cars will also be running by the 21st of May.

Telegraph Reduction.

The Montreal and Dominion Telegraph Companies, now send messages to all points in the United States, east of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, including Omaha, Nebraska, Atchison, Kansas, at a uniform rate of fifty cents.

New Paper.

The New Hastings Review, an independent, eight-page paper has made its appearance. It is published in Madoc by J. A. Orr & Bro. As that locality has long been in need of a mouth-piece, a success can be guaranteed under proper management.

The Juvenile Temple Concert.

Will take place in the Town Hall this (Friday) evening, 13th inst. Readings, Recitations, Songs and Dialogues by the children, Quintette Club and local amateurs. The object being a worthy one, a full house is expected. Admission adults 20, children 10 cents.

Grind feet and flout some dry, at Closes Mill.

A True Blue Lodge.

Was organized at Clark's Mills, on Thursday evening the 5th inst., by Bros. John Donnelly and W. McCannion of Kingston, assisted by brethren from Nanapan. The new lodge includes 14 members and is known as the Walker Lodge No. 23. Bro. E. Lewis in W. M.

Look out for Them.

A number of five dollar bills, on the Bank of British North America, are said to be in circulation, we need not mention our readers to draw a bead on them, but from the extreme scarcity of the genuine article it will be difficult to make a comparison.

The Annual Education Meeting.

In connection with the Methodist Church was held on Monday. The audience had the pleasure of listening to eloquent and effective addresses by W. A. Reeve, Esq. and the Rev. Dr. Douglass. The subscriptions amounted to $75.

Addressing Letters.

Postmasters generally desire to impress upon the public the necessity of putting on letters and papers, the name of the county to which the post office is situated, as well as the name of the post office itself, except such as are destined for cities and large towns. The omission is often the cause of letters being delayed.

Fishing License.

By a late order from the Departments of Fisheries, all fishermen must give the value of their boats, number of rods, nets, the number of men required to each boat, and value of seine, and their size. All the above information in detail to be sent to the fishery overseer, before commencing to fish, in order to get a license.

Grand Opening.

That pushing individual "Honest Sam" made his usual spring opening on Saturday last, by painting his shop front a very delicate sky-blue, and removing the French bay window, thereby exposing a splendid collection of tropical fruits, from Cape Horn, Capricorn, and Timbuctoo. The excellence of Sam's fresh importations

c. f. The officers are: President, J. E. Herring; Capt. J. P. Davis; Field Capt. C. W. Mills; Sec., W. G. Fralick; Treas. C. Mair; and Committee, F. Blair, J. Herring, and J. Phelan. This favorite club will use the ground they occupied last year. A complete outfit has been ordered, consisting of navy-blue pants—white shirts—blue and white stockings and double-peaked hats. The opening match will be with the Troublers of B-Hville on the 24th of May, and it will trouble them or any other club, to score ahead of our popular team.

Union Sugar Social.

The young men's union sugar social on Monday night, overflowed with genuine enjoyment, and old-fashioned hospitality. The excellent arrangement of the seats enabled every one to exchange smiles with his opposite neighbour—and any fellow who would not smile, with a pound of maple-sugar in his fist, and a pleasant looking girl in front of him, should be charged double fare, and put on half rations. An excellent selection was given by the Quintette Club. Misses Grange, Daly and Mrs. Hanson, an instrumental trio. Mrs. W. Anderson gave an original reading, including some capital, and laughable hits at the managing committee. A vocal solo by Mrs. Mills, accompanied by Miss Herring on the piano. Mr. Warren recited "Gone with a hand-cupper man." Miss Selden accompanied by Miss Pennycook, sang a pretty ballad, Mr. Middleton joining in the chorus. A recitation by Mr. Perry, was good but not completed. Another selection by the Quintette Club. "Only a Dream" by Mrs. Hanson, with piano accompaniment by Miss Blackcock. The Quintette Club closed the programme and Rev. Mr. Pope dismissed the audience. Receipts $30.75 cts.

A MAN KILLED BY THE CARS.

On Tuesday morning, at 1.30 the No. 3 down passenger train was standing at the station. The driver, stepping off to oil his engine, found the remains of a man beside the rails.

The body, being very badly mangled, was taken to the baggage-room, and Conover Huffman notified, a jury was summoned and an inquest held at the station. Five witnesses were sworn, J. P. Hanley, Station Agent, Albert Brown, night operator, Neil McKinty, night switchman, James Richardson, day switchman, and R. McConachie, freight-checker.

From their evidence it appears the man was last seen on Monday evening at different times between 6 and 8, and was then under the influence of liquor, he told his name saying he was from Lansdowne.

It seems now Mr. Brown's evidence, he was with him over by the No. 7, at 10.25 p. m., or the mid at 11.30 p. m., going east.

At the inquest Mr. Hanley read an answer to a telegram as follows:—"I have made enquires in the village and find that a man named Delarney, a blacksmith, working for R. Austin, about six miles from here, was seen in the village yesterday. Cannot say whether he got on the express or not. He was a hard drinker."

(Signed) WALLACE, Agent Lansdowne. Dr. Bristol testified as follows: "I have made a careful examination of the body of a man now lying dead in the baggage room: I found the left leg nearly severed at the knee; the right leg nearly severed about the middle of the thigh; the right hand partially severed; there were no other marks on the body except some slight bruises; on the head there were three lacerated wounds, but after careful examination and dissection I satisfied myself that the skull was not fractured; am of the opinion that a train passed over his legs and hand, and that death was caused by the shock and loss of blood from injuries received."

In reply to jurors the Dr. said that the wounds on the head were insufficient to kill, but might stun him. They were not necessarily fatal. Thinks he was moved after receiving the injuries. He might have been on his feet, and in the historical past seemed to spring into life and flesh in the presence of this living remnant of an epoch long, long gone by. This man was a friend of Blucher, knew Marshal Ney, Eugene, Victor, and Lefevre; he fought under Sir Arthur Wellesley in the Peninsula war, and kept guard at Napoleon's prison on St. Helena sixty long years ago. His strange history would fill a thrilling chapter of romance. Entering the British army at an early age, fighting against Napoleon's heroes during the most memorable years of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, retiring finally at fifty-two from active service, and marrying the wife of his bosom, then suffering shipwreck and losing both wife and fortune—the latter the savings of a whole life—and finally living to be revered for his venerable past by the members of a generation who look upon him as some wondrous monumental robe of antiquity—this is no ordinary career, and it becomes even more astonishing when the pathetic scenes through which he passed unharmed are remembered. It seems as though he bore a charmed life, and a special Providence had watched over him in order to preserve him to us as one of the greatest centenarians of the age.

CANADIANS ABROAD.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27, 1877.

To the Editor of the FREE PRESS.

DEAR SIR, I take great pleasure in informing you that an organization has been formed by Canadians residing in this city. The name adopted is the "The Canadian Association," and its jurisdiction embraces the entire Pacific Coast. All persons born in the Dominion, or who have resided in any of the Provinces for five years, either before or since Confederation, on their sons, are eligible to membership. The initiation fee was fixed at two dollars, monthly dues, fifty cents and the fee for life members at fifty dollars. The Association is not strictly benevolent one, but is formed more for the purpose of having a place where natives and residents of Canada can meet, and also for the inaugurating and perpetuating an era of good-fellowship, and a hearty welcome for the home land among the members. The enclosed list of officers with place of birth of those who were elected at the last meeting, and their term of office expires on the first of July, which is to be the date of our annual meeting.

J. KIPPEN.

Cor Secretary,
217 Moor Street.

A CHURCH ON FIRE.

GOOD FRIDAY NEARLY TURNED INTO A DAY OF DOUBLE MOURNING.

Rome, N. Y., March 30.—There was a great sensation at St. Mary's church this morning about half past ten o'clock. It being good Friday, the service was a large number in attendance. The altar was trimmed with muslins and cambrics which hung in festoons about the altar in profusion. The services had just concluded when the audience were suddenly startled by the cry of "fire!" An instant afterwards the muslin was seen enveloped in flames. Some of the trimmings had caught from the burning candles. The blaze travelled with lightning rapidity and in a brief space of time the flames enveloped half of the altar, were hurling the light material very rapidly and soon commenced to feed upon the woodwork of the church. The congregation was thrown into a state of great alarm. The rush for the doors was terrific, but fortunately no one was injured. Some of the men present commenced to pull down the burning fabrics and smother the flames. With great presence of mind and greater cohesion they succeeded in extinguishing the flames, which had already done damage to the amount of $300. The statue of the Virgin Mary was situated in the immediate vicinity of where the fire originated. Two men rushed into the flames and rescued it. They were badly singed, but succeeded in getting the statue out before it had day at which 350 members of the Brotherhood were present. Delegates appeared from over forty divisions in the United States and Canada, who promised support to the engineers of the Reading road in case of a strike, or if discharged on account of their connection with the Brotherhood. Fifteen firemen who refused to take charge of their engine have been discharged.

RUMOURED SCANDALS AT THE HOUSE OF INDUSTRY.

Various rumours have been flying around town regarding some scandalous proceedings which have been brought to light at the Kingston House of Industry. There seems to be no doubt that the House during the last few months at least, has been a place of refuge for a number of abandoned women; in fact, made a sort of a lying-in hospital. Several weeks ago a woman of loose character, named Ann Hunter, who was an inmate, gave birth to a child, which was found one morning in a water pail. An investigation was held by the Directors, and two doctors who were called stated that the child was prematurely born and had never breathed. From these circumstances it was not deemed advisable to make the affair public, but we are of opinion that an inquest should have been held, an evidence taken on oath. To day we have heard of a like circumstance, wherein a woman who had been an inmate went, was sent to Montreal, where she is believed to have been confined.—News.

AN OLD OAK.

A huge oak tree was recently cut down in Willoughby township that is regarded as having been upwards of 500 years old. The trunk when stripped of its bark measured 7 ft 10 in in diameter. With the bark on, as it formerly stood, the girth of the monster would be in the neighbourhood of 30 feet. It would require five men with outstretched arms, encircle it. To the first limb, which branched off in a southerly direction, was a distance of 40 feet. This first arm measured 40 feet in length, with a diameter of 22 inches. Above this the tree assumed the shape of a fork, the two prongs of which measured over 10 feet each. One arm was 35 ft in diameter, while its mate was 2 ft 6 in. The body of the tree has for some years past shown signs of decay, and seven inches from its surface was found to be decay, but the rest was perfectly sound. The ring each marking one year's growth, showed it to be more than five centuries old. It took two men nearly a whole day to cut down the tree.

BRANTFORD-A RAILWAY WAR.

BRANTFORD, April 9.—On Sunday morning about three o'clock this city was awakened by the fire bell. It was at first thought that the flats were flooded, but it was afterwards found that a train from the Southern railway had arrived. The Brantford branch, and Port B. well branch with about fifty men were tearing up about 100 yards of track and taking away the timber belonging to the Southern Road. The branch is now abandoned by the Southern. The Mayor, Sheriff and Aldermen were called out and stopped the proceedings and saw nothing was more but Southern railway property. It reported that the Western will run in a few days. This branch has been in dispute for some months between the Great Western Railway and Canada Southern Railway. It is supposed that the Great Western Railway won the case in Toronto courts, and Southern took this means to secure its own property.

THE POPE'S HEALTH.

LONDON, April 6.—A Rome despatch says the Pope may live to see his episcopal jubilee but certainly never before was anticipation of approaching change evident as now. To be prepared against any emergency

A True Blue Lodge.

Was organized at Clark's Mills on Thursday evening the 5th inst., by Bros. John Donnelly and W. McCannum of Kingston, assisted by brethren from Napanee. The new lodge includes 14 members and is known as the Walker Lodge No. 24. Also, F. Lewis in W. M.

Look out for Them.

A number of bogus five dollar bills, on the Bank of British North America, are said to be in circulation, and need not mention our readers, to draw a bead on them, but from the extreme scarcity of the genuine article it will be difficult to make a comparison.

The Annual Education Meeting.

In connection with the Methodist Church was held on Monday. The audience had the pleasure of listening to eloquent and effective addresses by W. A. Reeve, Esq., and the Rev. Dr. Douglass. The subscriptions amounted to $75.

Addressing Letters.

Postmasters generally desire to impress upon the public the necessity of putting on letters and papers, the name of the county to which the post office is situated, as well as the name of the post office itself, except such as are destined for cities and large towns. The omission is often the cause of letters being delayed.

Fishing License.

By a late order from the Departments of Fisheries, all fishermen must give the value of their boats, number of rods, net, and value of seine, and their size. All the above information in detail to be sent to the fishery over-see, before commencing to fish, in order to get a license.

Grand Opening.

That pushing individual "Honest Sam," made his usual spring opening on Saturday last, by painting his shop front every delicate shade of blue, and removing the cloudy bay window, thereby exposing a splendid collection of tropical fruits, from Cape Horn, Capricorn, and Timbuctoo. The excellence of Sam's fresh importations, is duly appreciated by his numerous customers.

Half-fare Travelling.

All ministers of the Gospel and nuns can now travel on the Grand Trunk Railway for half-fare. Application for these tickets must be made to the Local agent, who then applies to the General Passenger Agent at Montreal for the necessary ministerial voucher, which must be shown at ticket offices when applying for regular passenger tickets at reduced rates.

Yachting Notes.

Napanee can boast of as complete an outfit in the yachting line as any place of equal size in the Dominion. Commodore John Dickens is, as yet, the first "on deck." Jack is as good a sailor as ever pulled a baidar or hauled a bow line. He is now busy putting the Pioneer in "ship-shape," for the coming season. The remainder of the fleet are still in their winter quarters. We shall keep our readers posted of every movement.

Cricket.

If anyone thinks the popular American game of base-ball has almost driven this old-time sport from the field, an attendance at the meeting of Monday night would convince him of his mistake. A new club was formed enrolling no less than forty-eight members. The officers elected were: H. L. Goddes, President; H. E. Moore, 1st Vice-President; Jno. Bowey, 2nd Vice-President; B. S. Abrams, Secy-Treasr. The ground for practice is not yet decided upon, but will probably, for the present, be back of Mr. McNeill's residence.

A MAN KILLED BY THE CARS.

On Tuesday morning, at 1.30 the No. 3, down passenger train was standing at the station. The driver, stepping off to oil his engine, found the remains of a man beside the rails.

The body, being very badly mangled, was taken to the baggage-room, and Coroner Hoffman notified, a jury was summoned and an inquest held at the station. Five witnesses were sworn, J. P. Hanley, Station Agent, Albert Brown, night operator, Neil McKinlay, night switchman, James Richardson, day switchman, and R. McConachie, freight-checker.

From their evidence it appears the man was last seen on Monday evening at different times between 6 and 8, and was then under the influence of liquor, he told his name saying he was from Lansdowne.

It seems from Mr. Brown's evidence, he was with him over by the No. 7, at 10.25, p. m., and the missed at 11.30 p. m., going east.

At the inquest Mr. Hanley read an answer to a telegram as follows:—"I have made enquires in the village and find that a man named Delarney, a blacksmith, working for R. Austin, about six miles from here, was seen in the village yesterday. Could say whether he got on the express or not. He was a hard drinker."

(Signed) WALLACE AGENT Lansdowne. Dr. Bristol testified as follows:—"I have made a careful examination of the body of a man now lying dead in the baggage room; I found the left leg nearly severed at the knee; the right leg nearly severed about the middle of the thigh; the right hand partially severed; there were no other marks on the body except some slight bruises; on the head there were three lacerated wounds, but after careful examination and dissection I satisfied myself that the skull was not fractured; am of the opinion that as train passed over his legs and hand, and that death was caused by the shock and loss of blood from injuries received."

In reply to jurors the Dr. said that the wounds of the head were insufficient to kill, but might stun him. They were not necessarily fatal. Thinks he was moved after receiving the injuries. He might have rolled over involuntarily, or attempted to drag himself. The wounds on his head were not club cuts. He was about 50 years of age.

After a short deliberation the jury returned a verdict as follows:—"We, the undersigned jurors, empanelled, have investigated the case and find as follows: That the deceased, supposed to be Robert Delarney, came to his death by being run over by one of the down trains on the evening of the 9th inst., while under influence of liquor and there is no blame attached to any of the G. T. R. officials."

The deceased was about 5 ft. 6 in. in height, nearly bald, no whiskers and plainly dressed, 25 cents and a pair of spectacles were found in his pocket. He was buried in Napanee.

BISMARCK'S RESIGNATION.

The veteran statesman of Prussia, the founder of the united Germany and the humiliated of France, has resigned the Chancellorship of the Empire. Notwithstanding Bismark's advancing years he only asks for a temporary leave of absence, and a furlon of a year is said to have been consented to by the Emperor, to whom he is simply indispensable. During this vacation the retiring Chancellor consents to retain the supervision of Foreign Affairs, while for the remaining duties of his office two statesmen are required and have been appointed to fill his place and to do his work. After his holiday the vigorous old man expects to resume full work with renewed energy. It is doubtful, however, if at his time of life retirement from official duty will not prove fatal to any resumption of his old position.

membership. The initiation fee was fixed at two dollars, monthly dues, fifty cents and the fee for life members at fifty dollars. The Association is not strictly benevolent one, but is formed more for the purpose of having a place where natives and residents of Canada can meet, and also for the inaugurating and perpetuating an era of good-fellowship, and a hearty foe for the home land among the members. The enclosed list of officers with place of birth of those who were elected at the last meeting, and their term of office expires on the first of July, which is to be the date of our annual meeting.

J. KIPPEN.

Cor Secretary,
217 Moor Street.

A CHURCH ON FIRE.

GOOD FRIDAY NIGHTLY TURNED INTO A DAY OF DOUBLE MOURNING.

Rome, N. Y., March 30.—There was a great sensation at St. Mary's church this morning about half past ten o'clock. It being good Friday, there was a large number in attendance. The altar was trimmed with muslins and cambrics which hung in festoons about the altar in profusion. The services had just concluded when the audience were suddenly startled by the cry of "fire!" An instant afterwards the muslin was seen enveloped in flames. Some of the trimmings had caught from the burning candles. The blaze travelled with lightning rapidity and in a brief space of time the flames enveloped half of the altar, were burning the light material very rapidly and soon commenced to feed upon the woodwork of the church. The congregation was thrown into a state of great alarm. The rush for the doors was terrific, but fortunately no one was injured. Some of the men present commenced to pull down the burning fabrics and smother the flames. With great presence of mind and greater exertion, they succeeded in extinguishing the flames, which had already done damage to the amount of $300. The statue of the Virgin Mary was situated in the immediate vicinity of where the fire originated. Two men rushed into the flames, and rescued it. They were badly singed, but succeeded in getting the statue out before it had been greatly damaged.

THE BERMUDAS.

Mr. R. J. Smith (colored) delivered a very interesting lecture in Montreal, on the Bermudas, of which he is a native, in the Dorchester street Methodist Church. The group is composed of five principal islands, and a number of smaller ones, situated about 600 miles from North Carolina, and having an area of about 25 square miles, and a population of 13,000 (6,000 white and 7,000 colored), exclusive of 2,000 soldiers. The spiritual condition of the inhabitants is well looked after, as there are twenty five churches—chiefly Church of England—on the island, the capital of which is Hamilton on Long Island. The Government helps the poor people to educate their children. The islands boast of a lighthouse and the largest floating dock in the world. The inhabitants use rain water, which they collect in large cisterns, and which is remarkably pure, to drink, as there are not even streamlets in the group. The Gulf Stream flows by the islands, and its effect is to make the climate one continual and delightful spring. Onions grow to an unusual size, and are much cultivated. While flesh is held in high esteem by the people, who prefer it to beef. The oil obtained from this fish is one of the chief exports. The lecturer described the people as thoroughly loyal to our Queen, and speak even a purer English than Canadians.

An Englishman, pretty well posted on both democratic and republican quarrels has come to the conclusion that an "honest American is the noblest work of God."

the bark on, as it formerly stood, the girth of the monster would be in the neighborhood of 30 feet. It would require five men with outstretched arms to encircle it. To the first limb, which branched off in a southerly direction, was a distance of 40 feet. This first arm measured 40 feet in length, with a diameter of 22 inches. Above this the tree assumed the shape of a fork, the two prongs of which measured over 10 feet each. Of this, one was 21 ft. 6 in. in diameter, while the other was 21 ft. 6 in. The body of the tree has for some years past shown signs of decay, and seven inches from the surface was found to be decay, but all the rest was perfectly sound. The rings, each marking one year's growth, showed, it to be more than five centuries old. It took two men nearly a whole day to cut down the tree.

BRANTFORD A RAILWAY WAR.

BRANTFORD, April 9.—On Sunday morning about three o'clock this city was awakened by the fire bell. It was at first thought that the flats were flooded, but it was afterwards found that a train from the Southern railway had arrived here on the Brantford branch, and Port Brant well braced with about fifty men who were tearing up about 100 yards of the track and taking away the ties and rails belonging to the Southern Road. That branch is now abandoned by the Southern. The Mayor, Sheriff and Bailiff were called out and stopped the proceedings and saw nothing was moved but Southern railway property. It is reported that the Western will run it in a few days. This branch has been in dispute for some months between the Great Western Railway and the Canada Southern Railway. It is supposed that the Great Western Railway won the case in Toronto courts, and the Southern took this means to secure their own property.

THE POPE'S HEALTH.

LONDON, April 6.—A Rome despatch says the Pope may live to see his episcopal jubilee but certainly never before was the anticipation of approaching change as evident as now.

To be prepared against any emergency, Cardinal Simeoni is about to move into the apartments on the upper floor of the Vatican formerly occupied by Cardinal Antonelli in order that the rooms on the lower floor, where many of the arrangements for the conclave of 1775 are still existing, may be prepared so that the election of the next Pope may be held without a moment's unnecessary delay.

NOT READY TO BE BURIED.

A few days ago a resident of Buckingham County, named Benjamin Winter, who has an unusual propensity for taking medicines of various kinds for real or imaginary diseases, swallowed a dose of opium, mixed with some other drugs, and when found by his wife was believed to be dead.

Accordingly, the usual preparations were made for the burial, but owing to the weather the supposed corpse was kept unburied longer than is customary. Finally, however, the coffin was followed to the grave by a procession of friends and neighbors; and, in obedience to an expressed wish of some person present, who desired once more to behold the face of the departed, the lid of the coffin was removed.

A wonderfully unexpected scene was the result, for as soon as the cold air touched the body the eyes opened, and the supposed corpse was found to be alive. It is further stated that Mr. Winter actually walked back home!

Advices from the Darien Canal expedition to Panama state, it is certain the Commission will return with a favorable report, and that the canal will be cut by the Darien route.

A BRITISH VETERAN.

ONE HUNDRED AND ELEVEN YEARS OLD.

From the New York Herald, April 4

Captain Frederick Labrbush breathed his last on yesterday afternoon, at the dwelling of his friend, Mr. McGrath, No. 518 Third Avenue, Captain Labrbush was born on March 9, 1766. He contracted his fatal illness two months ago, when he went out one raw and bitter morning for the purpose of making a call on Mrs. A. T. Stewart. Up to a few years ago the anniversary of the birth of this remarkable centenarian was celebrated by a dinner party given in his honour by General John Watts De Peyster, and which was attended by a large number of distinguished people. The most prominent men of New York—Thurlow Weed, A. T. Stewart, and many others—have taken pleasure in doing him honor, he has received for a long time a pension from a wealthy citizen interested in his extraordinary history. While living on the second floor of a plain brick house on Third Avenue, near Thirty-fourth street, he would often breakfast at the residences of some of the wealthy friends on Fifth Avenue, who always delighted in hearing him recount the interesting episodes of his chequered career, touching the members of a generation who had been sleeping their last sleep for half a century. Some doubts have been raised as to Captain Labrbush's veracity concerning his age, but all the prominent men who have investigated the matter and made inquiries at the British War Office proclaim their faith in his claim to have been 'one of the oldest men in the world.' It is no easy task even for one who has read a sketch of Captain Labrbush's life, and who is familiar with the date of his birth, to realise the matter of fact significance of his wondrous age, that this man was born three years before Napoleon I., who has been dead these fifty six years; that at his birth Louis XV. ruled in long-suffering France, that Maria Theresa and Frederick the Great swayed the sceptres of Austria and Prussia, that William Pitt was only a boy of seven, and that Mme. de Stael was born in the same year? Who can call that time vividly before the mind and associate it with the life of one who, until a few weeks ago, took his meals regularly, and might be seen riding down town in a Third Avenue car any fine day, a hale and hearty old man? The dim and faded historical past seemed to spring into life and flesh in the presence of this living remnant of an epoch long, long gone by. This man was a friend of Blucher, knew Marshal Ney, Eugene, Victor, and Lefevre; he fought under Sir Arthur Wellesley in the Peninsular war, and kept guard at Napoleon's prison on St. Helena sixty long years ago. His strange history would fill a thrilling chapter of romance. Entering the British army at an early age, fighting against Napoleon's heroes during the most memorable years of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, retiring finally at fifty-two from active service, and marrying the wife of his bosom, then suffering shipwreck and losing both wife and fortune—the latter the savings of a whole life—and finally living to be revered for his venerable past by the members of a generation who look upon him as some wondrous monumental robe of antiquity—this is no ordinary career, and it becomes even more astonishing when the perilous scenes through which he passed unharmed are remembered. It seems as though he bore a charmed life, and a special Providence had watched over him in order to preserve him to us as one of the greatest centenarians of the age.

CANADIANS ABROAD.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27, 1877.

THE DECLINE OF THE GRANGE.

From the annual report of the National Grange it appears that both in number of Granges and Grangers the Order has suffered a serious decline, comparing 1876 with 1875. In eighteen States, representing every section of the United States over 9,000 granges have gone out of existence, and membership has fallen off 180,000 since the report of 1875 was made. The decline is most marked where the movement had its origin, that is in the Western States. In Missouri 974 granges with a membership of 42,529, report from 1866, against 2,034 grangers, with 80,059 members in 1875. The South-west and Northwest are next to show weakness. In the eastern and some of the middle States, where the movement was later in appearing it remained almost at a standstill in 1876. The table below gives the changes in a few of the States:—

	No. granges.	No. Members.
Alabama.....	1875. 678	1876. 11,200
California.....	283	9,885
Connecticut.....	16	328
Georgia.....	708	10,161
Illinois.....	1,592	12,639
Indiana.....	2,036	48,959
Iowa.....	2,004	52,011
Kansas.....	1,372	24,438
Kentucky.....	1,618	35,363
New Hampshire.....	69	3,947
New Jersey.....	69	4,923
Ohio.....	1,216	53,977
Ontario.....	626	28,174
Pennsylvania.....	615	22,471
Wisconsin.....	514	12,385

THE LOCOMOTIVE BROTHERHOOD.

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—The General Manager of the Reading railway states that his conference with the engineers of the road last evening ended with an agreement on their part to accept the new arrangement proposed by the Company. The plan of insurance provides that the Railroad Company is to contribute $15,000 to a life insurance fund, and $10,000 to an accident insurance fund for the benefit of such of their train hands as comply with the provisions and pay the assessments agreed upon.

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—The Reading railway suspended all the Brotherhood engineers, numbering thirty-four, employed upon the Germantown and Norristown branch yesterday, and allowed them two days, time to decide whether to remain in the employ of the Company or leave the Brotherhood. Seven were discharged previously. A meeting of delegates from various railways is in progress. The locomotive engineers had meeting to-day at which 350 members of the Brotherhood were present. Delegates appeared from over forty divisions in the United States and Canada, who promised support to the engineers of the Reading road in case of a strike, or if discharged on account of their connection with the Brotherhood. Fifteen firemen who refused to take charge of their engines have been discharged.

RUMORED SCANDALS AT THE HOUSE OF INDUSTRY.

Various rumours have been flying around town regarding some scandalous proceedings which have been brought to light at the Kingston House of Industry. There seems to be no doubt that the House during the last few months at least, has been a place of refuge for a number of abandoned women; in fact, made a sort of a lying-in hospital. Several cases, eg., a woman of loose character, named Ann Hunter, who was an inmate, gave birth to a child, which was found next morning in a water pail. An investigation was held by the Directors, and two doctors who were called stated that the child was prematurely born and had never breathed. From these circumstances it was not deemed advisable to make the affair public, but we are of opinion that an inquest should have been held, and evidence taken on oath. To day we have heard of a like circumstances, wherein a

THE SAILORS MISTAKE.

There was a strange case of a woman, that came to a tragedy, at San Francisco recently. A sailor returned from sea, and found his wife fondling a baby. Without giving her a chance to say that the child was a neighbour's, he knocked her down and then tried to throw her from the window. A crowd gathered below, and the man stabbed his wife in the back, jumped from the window, and escaped unhurt. But some of the crowd had entered the house, and going to the wrong room, awoke a sleeper, who emptied his revolver on them, but was dragged to the street, and was just being hanged to a lamp post when the mistake was ascertained, though not before a rib or two was broken by the mob. The woman was not much hurt, and is anxious to have her husband find his mistake and return.

REVENUE FRAUDS.

TORONTO, April 7.—If the confession of a tinsmith, made to-day, is to be believed there is plenty of work in this part of the Dominion for revenue officers. He says he has been in the employ of a well known Alderman of this city making stills, having made no less than twenty recently. Orangeville has been the latest scene of the tinsmith's labors, he having been sent up there where he worked at his illicit trade, being supplied with the copper and other material from his employees in this city. Some of the stills made sold for a hundred dollars, twenty five of which went to the tinsmith. He says further that some have recently been made for use in Toronto. He says farmers and unlicensed hotel-keepers are the principal customers for the stills.

ONE MORE UNFORTUNATE.

Another man dead and his family unprovided for! Motives of delicacy prevent us from naming him or detailing the circumstances connected with his death. It is enough to say that he was alive and well but a few days ago, and that now he is dead. He was "counting on long years to come," and laughed and jested at the idea of death as a near possibility, but while "his breast were full of milk and his bones full of marrow," and while his mind was teeming with plans and purposes in respect the future the end was reached. His sun went down while it was yet noon, and at the moment almost, in which he was saying in respect to some of the most solemn interests of life which were clamoring for attention, "there is time enough," the last end fell from his glass, and so far as he was concerned, time existed no longer.

What matter who he was, or where he lived? His is but an old story which is being repeated every day. History in this respect has repeated itself in twice ten thousand instances. While we write, another is being added to the list; and the wail of anguish is going up from another and another household, not only bereaved of its head, but left helpless and unprovided for to struggle as best it can with pitiless and iron-handed poverty. As it has been, it is now, and except men grow wiser than they have been, or are, in this generation, so it will be to "the latest syllable of recorded time." The words of wisdom have been singing out through the ages, "What thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." We have read it on the illuminated page of revelation; we have heard it sounded in trumpet tones from the pulpits of Christendom; it has come to us backed by paternal authority and maternal tenderness; its impressiveness has been enhanced by the constantly accumulating illustrations of the observation and experience of every day life; and yet it is regarded with indifference by thousands. The most vital and enduring interests—their knowledge of the patient's disease by the practical application of well established principles of modern science to the practice of medicine. And it is to the accuracy with which this system has endowed them that they owe their almost world-wide reputation for the skillful treatment of all lingering or chronic affections. This system of practice and the marvelous success which has been attained through it, demonstrate the fact that diseases display certain phenomena, which being subjected to scientific analysis or synthesis, furnish abundant and unmistakable data to guide the judgment of the skillful practitioner aright in determining the nature of diseased conditions. The amplest resources for treating lingering or chronic diseases and the greatest skill, are thus placed within the easy reach of every invalid, however distant he or she may reside from the physicians making the treatment of such affections a specialty. The peculiarities of this scientific system of practice are fully explained in the Appendix of "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser,"—a book of over nine hundred large pages, which is so popular as to have reached a sale of almost one hundred thousand copies within a few months of its first publication. It is sent (post-paid) by the Author to any address, on receipt of one dollar and fifty cents. Address, R. V. Pierce, M.D., World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y.

ELECTRICITY! THOMAS' EXCELSIOR ELECTRIC OIL!—WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.—Pain cannot stay, where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old-standing cough. It positively cures catarrh of the bladder, and croup. Fifty cents' worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most sceptical: J. Collard, of Sparta, Ont., writes, "Send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, have sold all I had from you and want more now; it cures are truly wonderful." Wm. McGuire, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agents left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendid now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "Please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Electric Oil, I am newly out, nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes, "Send at once a further supply of Electric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well and give general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford writes, "Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reid, Ulverton, P. Q., writes, "The Electric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the name of Northrop and Lyman are blown in the bottle, and "Take no other." Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cents. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE.—ELECTRIC—Selected and Electrized.

THE CRADLE.

CLARK.—On Wednesday the 28th ult., the wife of Mr. Robert Clark of a son.
STURM.—In Newburgh, on the 5th inst., the wife of Mr. C. Sturm, of a daughter.
COATES.—At Napanee, on the 10th inst., the wife of John Coates, of a son.
TRUMPOUR.—At Napanee, on the 4th inst., the wife of Mr. Joseph Trumpour, of a daughter.
BOYES.—At Napanee, on the 10th inst., the wife of Mr. Robert Boyes, of a son.

THE ALTAR.

ASH.—ANDERSON.—At Bath, on the 4th ult., by the Rev. E. S. Shorey, Mr. Cyrus S. Ash, merchant, Centreville, to Miss Agnes Georgina Anderson, of Ernestown.

THE TOMB.

NICOLLS.—At North Fredericksburgh, on the 5th ult., Levi W. Nicolls, aged 77 years.

in the presence of this living remnant of an epoch long gone by. This man was a friend of Blucher, knew Marshal Ney, Eugene, Victor, and Lefevre; he fought under Sir Arthur Wellesley in the Peninsular war, and kept guard at Napoleon's prison on St. Helena sixty long years ago. His strange history would fill a thrilling chapter of romance. Entering the British army at an early age, fighting against Napoleon's heroes during the most memorable years of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, retiring finally at fifty-two from active service and marrying the wife of his bosom, then suffering shipwreck and losing both wife and fortune—the latter the savings of a whole life—and finally living to be revered for his venerable past by the members of a generation who look upon him as some wondrous monumental relic of antiquity—this is no ordinary career, and it becomes even more astonishing when the pathetic scenes through which he passed unharmed are remembered. It seems as though he bore a harmed life, and a special Providence had watched over him in order to preserve him to us as one of the greatest centenarians of the age.

CANADIANS ABROAD.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 27, 1877.
To the Editor of the FREE PRESS.

DEAR SIR, I take great pleasure in informing you that an organization has been formed by Canadians residing in this city. The name adopted is the "The Canadian Association," and its jurisdiction embraces the entire Pacific Coast. All persons born in the Dominion, or who have resided in any of the Provinces or five years, either before or since Confederation, on their sons, are eligible to membership. The initiation fee was fixed at two dollars, monthly dues, fifty cents and the fee for life members at fifty dollars. The Association is not strictly benevolent one, but is formed more for the purpose of having a place where natives and residents of Canada can meet, and also for the inaugurating and perpetuating an era of good-fellowship, and a hearty love for the home land among the members. The enclosed list of officers with place of birth of those who were elected at the last meeting, and their term of office expires on the first of July, which is to be the date of our annual meeting.

J. KIPTEN,
Cor Secretary,
214 Montgomery Street.

A CHURCH ON FIRE.

GOOD FRIDAY NEARLY TURNED INTO A DAY OF DOUBLE MOURNING.

Rome, N. Y., March 30.—There was a great sensation at St. Mary's church this morning about half past ten o'clock. It being Good Friday, there was a large number in attendance. The altar was rimmed with muslins and cambrics which hung in festoons about the altar in profusion. The services had just concluded when the audience were suddenly startled by the cry of "fire!" An instant afterwards the muslin was seen enveloped in flames. Some of the trimmings had caught fire on the burning candles. The blaze travelled with lightning rapidity and in a brief space of time the flames enveloped half of the altar, were burning the light material very rapidly and soon commenced to feed upon the woodwork of the church. The congregation was thrown into a state of great alarm. The rush for the doors was terrific, but fortunately no one was injured. Some of the men present commenced to pull down the burning fabrics and smother the flames. With great presence of mind and general co-operation they succeeded in extinguishing the flames, which had already done damage to the amount of $300. The statue of the Virgin Mary was situated in the immediate vicinity of where the fire originated. Two men rushed into the flames and rescued it. They were badly singed, but succeeded in getting the statue out before it had been greatly damaged.

from over forty divisions in the United States and Canada, who promised support to the engineers of the Reading road in case of a strike, or if discharged on account of their connection with the Brotherhood. Fifteen firemen who refused to take charge of their engines have been discharged.

RUMORED SCANDALS AT THE HOUSE OF INDUSTRY.

Various rumors have been flying around town regarding some scandalous proceedings which have been brought to light at the Kingston House of Industry. There seems to be no doubt that the House during the last few months at least, has been a place of refuge for a number of abandoned women; in fact, made a sort of a lying-in hospital. Several "corks" (a woman of loose character, named Ann Hunter, who was an inmate, gave birth to a child, which was found next morning in a water pail. An investigation was held by the Directors, and two doctors who were called stated that the child was prematurely born and had never breathed. From these circumstances it was not deemed advisable to make the affair public, but we are of opinion that an inquest should have been held, and evidence taken on oath. To day we have heard of a like circumstance, wherein a woman, who had been an inmate, went, or was sent to Montreal, where she is believed to have been confined.—News.

AN OLD OAK.

A huge oak tree was recently cut down in Willsborough township that is regarded as having been upwards of 500 years old. The trunk when stripped of its bark, measured 7 ft 10 in in diameter. With the bark on, as it formerly stood, the girth of the monster would be in the neighborhood of 30 feet. It would require five men with outstretched arms to encircle it. To the first limb, which branched off in a southerly direction, was a distance of 40 feet. This first arm measured 40 feet in length, with a diameter of 22 inches. Above this the tree assumed the shape of a fork, the two prongs of which measured over 40 feet each. Of this, the greater part in diameter, while its mate was 20 in. The body of the tree has for some years past shown signs of decay, and seven inches from the surface was found to be decayed, but all the rest was perfectly sound. The rings, each marking one year's growth, showed, it to be more than five centuries old. It took two men nearly a whole day to cut down the tree.

BRANTFORD A RAILWAY WAR.

BRANTFORD, April 9.—On Sunday morning about three o'clock this city was awakened by the fire bell. It was at first thought that the flats were flooded, but it was afterwards found that a train from the Southern railway had arrived. The train was the Brantford branch, and Port Burwell branch with about fifty men who were tearing up about 100 yards of the track and taking away the ties and rails belonging to the Southern Road. That branch is now abandoned by the Southern. The Mayor, Sheriff and Bailiff were called out and stopped the proceedings and saw nothing was moved but Southern railway property. It is reported that the Western will run it in a few days. This branch has been in dispute for some months between the Great Western Railway and the Canada Southern Railway. It is supposed that the Great Western Railway won the case in Toronto courts, and the Southern took this means to secure their own property.

THE POPE'S HEALTH.

LONDON, April 6.—A Rome despatch says the Pope may live to see his episcopal jubilee but certainly never before was the anticipation of approaching change as evident as now.

To be prepared against any emergency, Cardinal Simoni is about to move into the apartments in the Vatican of the most solemn interests of life which were clamoring for attention. "There is time enough," the last said fell from his glass, and so far as he was concerned, time existed no longer.

What matter who he was, or where he lived? His is but an old story which is being repeated every day. History in this respect has repeated itself in twice ten thousand instances. "While we write, another is being added to 'the list'; and the wail of anguish is going up from another and another household, not only bereaved of its head, but left helpless and unprovided for to struggle as best it can with pitiless and iron-handed poverty. As it has been, it is now, and except men grow wiser than they have been, or are, in this generation, so it will be to "the latest syllable of recorded time."

The words of wisdom have been singing it through the ages. "What thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." We have read it on the illuminated page of revelation; we have heard it sounded in trumpet tones from the pulpits of Christendom; it has come to us backed by paternal authority and maternal tenderness; its impressiveness has been enhanced by the constantly accumulating illustrations of the observation and experience of every day life; and yet it is regarded with indifference by thousands. The most vital and enduring interests—interests upon which, in this place, we may not dwell—are constantly being imperiled, and even actually sacrificed in this way. We are appalled and petrified in the contemplation of the consequences which men are bringing upon themselves every day, by want of promptness in doing what in their heart of hearts they believe ought to be done.

The air is full of rumors of commercial disaster. One failure follows close upon the heels of another. Men are not only coming down themselves but they are pulling their neighbors down with them. In nine cases out of ten there was a time when these things could have been prevented. When the cry was first heard, "Breakers ahead!" a prompt shortening of sail, or reversal of the engine, might have kept the ship from the rocks. If that stock had been reduced, if expenses had been brought down, if an humble style of living had been adopted, and a more stringent system of economy had been introduced into the business, both of public and private life, things would have been different to-day. Procrastination is the rock upon which these fortunes have been wrecked. The necessity for retrenchment was foreseen; attention to it was intended, but it was not done at once, and therefore was done at all. So it was with our friend whose case has suggested these reflections. He saw that the only means by which he could secure his helpless and dependent family against the very evils which they are suffering at this hour, was to insure his life. He felt that he ought to do it; he resolved that he would do it, but he did not perceive any necessity of his doing it just yet. He was warned, and "labored with" by Hanson of the Travelers Ins. Co., but then he was only an Insurance agent and like the Minister of religion it was but business to preach the uncertainty of Life; and we know the result—He is in his grave and his family are left to struggle with the world alone. Reader with thou go and repeat the same folly? Better we say, by the timely investment of a few dollars place such a possibility beyond the pull of human events and let it be done AT ONCE.

WONDERS OF MODERN SCIENCE.

The perfect accuracy with which scientists are enabled to deduce the most minute particulars in their several departments, appears almost miraculous if we view it in the light of the early ages. Take for example the electro-magnetic telegraph—the greatest invention of the age. Is it not a marvelous degree of accuracy which enables an operator to exactly locate a fracture in a submarine cable nearly three thousand miles long? Our venerable "clerk of the weather" has become so thoroughly familiar with those most wayward elements of nature that he can accurately predict their movements. He can sit in Washing-takes like it." Miller & Reid, Ulverton, P. Q., writes, "The Electric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask For Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the name of Northrop and Lyman are blown in the bottle, and "Take no other." Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cts. NOR THROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE.—ELECTRIC—Selected and Electrized.

THE CRADLE.

CLARK.—On Wednesday the 28th ult., the wife of Mr. Robert Clark of a son.
STERN.—In Newburgh, on the 5th inst., the wife of Mr. C. Sturm, of a daughter.
COATES.—At Napanee, on the 10th inst., the wife of John Coates, of a son.
TRUMPOUR.—At Napanee, on the 4th inst., the wife of Mr. Joseph Trumpour, of a daughter.
BOYES.—At Napanee, on the 10th inst., the wife of Mr. Robert Boyes, of a son.

THE ALTAR.

ASH.—ANDERSON.—At Bath, on the 4th ult., by the Rev. E. S. Shorey, Mr. Cyrus S. Ash, merchant, Thoreby, to Miss Agnes Georgina Anderson, of Ernestown.

THE TOMB.

NICOLLS.—At North Fredericksburgh, on the 5th ult., Levi W. Nicolls, aged 77 years.
BOTTING.—At Napanee, on the 9th inst., Edward Botting, aged 35 years.
[Deceased has been suffering from consumption for nine years. The funeral sermon will be preached by the Rev. Mr. Pope, in the M. E. Church on next Sunday morning.]
GRAY.—At Madoc on Thursday, 5th inst., at the residence of her son, E. T. Gray, Esq., Catharine, relict of the late Walter Gray, aged 65 years.
WALTERS.—In memory of Elizabeth Walters, the beloved wife of George Walters, near Tamworth who died Friday morning, the sixth day of April, aged 25 years.
She endured her sickness with patience, longing for the moment to arrive, when she would pass from this world of grief and sorrow, and be at home forever with Jesus.

MEMORIAL.

That very morn, about three the hour,
Her spirit pass'd away,
Said of this its earthly tenement,
To realms of endless day:
The tears of friends upon her grave,
Should not be as in vain;
There is a voice that speaks aloud,
Behold! she'll rise again:
In fall we see the blossom dies,
Decaying, pass away,
But yet, when spring, God calls it forth,
It then, His voice obey:
So He the kind and gracious God,
Who bids fair flowers to rise:
Will surely raise her body up,
To dwell above the skies.
Oh death, and must it ever be,
That thou wilt bear away,
From us our loved and cherished ones,
To have them for the next prey?
Then speed the in thy daring work,
Nor stay the swift wing'd hours,
For we will seek a better land,
Beyond thy spoiling powers.
Where parted friends will meet again,
In holier friendship prove:
Much sweeter than this earth e'er known,
With Him the source of love
Free from the power of sin and death,
Exalted and refined:
Our ransom souls pure bliss enjoy,
And perfect freedom find.
Hush! be each sigh, restrained each tear
By all her friends, whom sighs here
Reminded thus, their bosom cheer,
That she is happy there:
Hush! then each voice, her soul has fled,
These passing lines, declare her dead,
By angels she was highly led,
The glorious crown'd wear.
Farewell now friend, this earthly soil,
Thy journey hath, we here must tread,
Until we are call'd away by God,
Then, through the pathless sky,
May angels bear aloft and land,
May God give them a stricken command,
When the appointed time's at hand,
To wait our souls on high,
April 9th 1877. J.O.A.S.

NAPANEE MARKETS.

EXPRESS OFFICE,
Friday, April 13th, 77.

Barley—50c.
Wheat—54 1/2.
Oats—40c.
Rye—60c. to 65c.
Peas—70c. to 72c.
Buckwheat—75c. to 80c.
Bent—100c. to $3.00 to $3.40 retail.
Hay—$1.00 to $1.20 per ton.
Hides—$3.00 to $5.00.
Onions—80c. to $1.00 per bushel.
Butter—25c. to 25c. per lb.
Eggs—10c. to 12c. per dozen.
Lamb and Pork—10c. to $1.20.
Apples—80c. to $1.20 per bag.
Potatoes—$1.00 to $1.20 per bag.
Chickens—30c. to 40c. per pair.
Geese—50c. to 60c. each.
Ducks—40c. to 50c. per brace.

for five years, either before or since Confederation, on their sons, are eligible to membership. The initiation fee was fixed at two dollars, monthly dues, fifty cents and the fee for life members at fifty dollars. The Association is not strictly benevolent one, but is formed more for the purpose of having a place where natives and residents of Canada can meet, and also for the inaugurating and perpetuating an era of good-fellowship, and a hearty love for the large land among the members. The enclosed list of officers with place of birth of those who were elected at the last meeting, and their term of office expires on the first of July, which is to be the date of our annual meeting.

J. KIPPEN,
Cor Secretary,
217 Moor Street.

A CHURCH ON FIRE.

GOD FRIDAY NIGHTLY TURNED INTO A DAY OF DOUBLE MOURNING.

Rome, N. Y., March 30.—There was a great sensation at St. Mary's church this morning about half past ten o'clock. It being good Friday, the service was a large number in attendance. The altar was trimmed with muslin and cambric which hung in festoons about the altar in profusion. The services had just concluded when the audience were suddenly startled by the cry of "fire!" An instant afterwards the muslin was seen enveloped in flames. Some of the trimmings had caught from the burning candles. The blaze travelled with lightning rapidity and in a brief space of time the flames enveloped half of the altar, were burning the light material very rapidly and soon commenced to feed upon the woodwork of the church. The congregation was thrown into a state of great alarm. The rush for the doors was terrific, but fortunately no one was injured. Some of the men present commenced to pull down the burning fabrics and smother the flames. With great presence of mind and general exertion, they succeeded in extinguishing the flames, which had already done damage to the amount of $300. The statue of the Virgin Mary was situated in the immediate vicinity of where the fire originated. Two men rushed into the flames and rescued it. They were badly singed, but succeeded in getting the statue out before it had been greatly damaged.

THE BERMUDAS.

Mr. R. J. Smith (colored) delivered a very interesting lecture in Montreal, on the Bermudas, of which he is a native, in the Dorchester street Methodist Church. The group is composed of five principal islands, and a number of smaller ones, situated about 600 miles from North Carolina, and having an area of about 25 square miles, and a population of 13,000 (6,000 white and 7,000 colored), exclusive of 2,000 soldiers. The spiritual condition of the inhabitants is well looked after, as there are twenty five churches—chiefly Church of England—on the island, the capital of which is Hamilton on Long Island. The Government helps the poor people to educate their children. The islands boast of a lighthouse and the largest floating dock in the world. The inhabitants use rain water, which they collect in large cisterns, and which is remarkably pure, to drink, as there are not even streamlets in the group. The Gulf Stream flows by the islands, and its effect is to make the climate one continual and delightful spring. Onions grow to an unusual size, and are much cultivated. Whale flesh is held in high esteem by the people, who prefer it to beef. The oil obtained from this fish is one of the chief exports. The lecturer described the people as thoroughly loyal to our Queen, and speak even a purer English than Canadians.

An Englishman, pretty well posted on both democratic and republican quarrels has come to the conclusion that an "honest American is the noblest work of God."

the trunk when shipped of its bark, measured 7 ft 10 in in diameter. With the bark on, as it formerly stood, the girth of the monster would be in the neighborhood of 30 feet. It would require five men with outstretched arms to encircle it. To the first limb, which branched off in a southerly direction, was a distance of 30 feet. This first arm measured 40 feet in length, with a diameter of 22 inches. Above this the tree assumed the shape of a fork, the two prongs of which measured over 10 feet each. Of this, the greatest limb measured, while its mat was 2 ft. 6 in. The body of the tree has for some years past shown signs of decay, and seven inches from the surface was found to be decay, but all the rest was perfectly sound. The rings, each marking one year's growth, showed it to be more than five centuries old. It took two men nearly a whole day to cut down the tree.

BRANTFORD A RAILWAY WAR.

BRANTFORD, April 9. On Sunday morning about three o'clock this city was awakened by the fire bell. It was at first thought that the flats were flooded, but it was afterwards found that a train from the Southern railway had arrived. The train the Brantford branch, and Port Barwell branch with about fifty men who were tearing up about 100 yards of the track and taking away the ties and rails belonging to the Southern Road. That branch is now abandoned by the Southern. The Mayor, Sheriff and Barrister were called out and stopped the proceedings and saw nothing was moved but Southern railway property. It is reported that the Western will run it in a few days. This branch has been in dispute for some months between the Great Western Railway and the Canada Southern Railway. It is supposed that the Great Western Railway won the case in Toronto courts, and the Southern took this means to secure their own property.

THE POPE'S HEALTH.

London, April 6.—A Rome despatch says the Pope may live to see his episcopal jubilee but certainly never before was the anticipation of approaching change as evident as now.

To be prepared against any emergency, Cardinal Simoni is about to move into the apartments on the upper floor of the Vatican formerly occupied by Cardinal Antonelli in order that the rooms on the lower floor, where many of the arrangements for the conclave of 1775 are still existing, may be prepared so that the election of the next Pope may be held without a moment's unnecessary delay.

NOT READY TO BE BURIED.

A few days ago a resident of Buckingham County, named Benjamin Winter, who has an unusual propensity for taking medicines of various kinds for real or imaginary diseases, swallowed a dose of opium, mixed with some other drugs, and when found by his wife was believed to be dead.

Accordingly, the usual preparations were made for the burial, but owing to the weather the supposed corpse was kept unburied longer than is customary. Finally, however, the coffin was followed to the grave by a procession of friends and neighbors; and, in obedience to an expressed wish of some person present, who desired once more to behold the face of the departed, the lid of the coffin was removed.

A wonderfully unexpected scene was the result, for as soon as the cold air touched the body the eyes opened, and the supposed corpse was found to be alive. It is further stated that Mr. Winter actually walked back home!

Advices from the Darien Canal expedition to Panama state, it is certain the Commission will return with a favorable report, and that the canal will be cut by the Darien route.

The air is full of rumors of commercial disaster. One failure follows close upon the heels of another. Men are not only coming down themselves but they are pulling their neighbors down with them. In nine cases out of ten there was a time when these things could have been prevented. When the cry was first heard, "Breakers ahead!" a prompt shortening of sail, or reversal of the engine, might have kept the ship from the rocks. If that stock had been reduced, if expenses had been brought down, if an humbler style of living had been adopted, and a more stringent system of economy had been introduced into the business, both of public and private life, things would have been different to-day. Procrastination is the rock upon which these fortunes have been wrecked. The necessity for retrenchment was foreseen; attention to it was intended, but it was not done as ought, and therefore was done at all. So it was with our friend whose case has suggested these reflections. He saw that the only means by which he could secure his helpless and dependent family against the very evils which they are suffering at this hour, was to insure his life. He felt that he ought to do it; he resolved that he would do it, but he did not perceive any necessity of his doing it just yet. He was warned, and "labored with" by Hanson of the Travelers Ins. Co., but then he was only an insurance agent and like the Minister of religion it was but business to preach the uncertainty of Life; and we know the result—He is in his grave and his family are left to struggle with the world alone. Reader with thou go and repeat the same folly? Better we say, by the timely investment of a few dollars place such a possibility beyond the pull of human events and let it be done at once.

WONDERS OF MODERN SCIENCE.

The perfect accuracy with which scientists are enabled to deduce the most minute particulars in their several departments, appears almost miraculous if we view it in the light of the early ages. Take for example the electro-magnetic telegraph—the greatest invention of the age. Is it not a marvelous degree of accuracy which enables an operator to exactly locate a fracture in a submarine cable nearly three thousand miles long? Our venerable "clerk of the weather" has become so thoroughly familiar with those most wayward elements of nature that he can accurately predict their movements. He can sit in Washington and foretell what the weather will be to-morrow in Florida or New York, as well as if several hundred miles did not intervene between him and the places named. And so in all departments of modern science, what is required is the knowledge of certain signs. From these the scientists deduce accurate conclusion regardless of distance. A few fossils sent to the expert geologist enable him to accurately determine the rock formation from which they were taken. He can describe it to you as perfectly as if a cleft of it were lying on his table. So also the chemist can determine the constitution of the sun as accurately as if that luminary were not ninety-five million miles from his laboratory. The sun sends certain signs over the "infinitude of space" and the chemist classifies them by passing them through the spectroscopic. Only the presence of certain substances could produce these solar signs. So also, in medical science, diseases have certain unmistakable signs, or symptoms, and by reason of this fact, Dr. Pierce, of the World's Dispensary, has been enabled to originate and perfect a system of determining, with the greatest accuracy, the nature of chronic diseases without seeing and personally examining his patient. He has spared neither pains nor expense to associate with himself, as the Faculty of the World's Dispensary, a large number of medical gentlemen of rare attainments and skill—graduates from some of the most famous Medical Colleges and University of both Europe and America. By aid of Dr. Pierce's system of diagnosis, these physicians and surgeons annually treat, with the most gratifying success, many thousands of invalids without ever seeing them in person. In recognizing diseases without a personal examination of the patient they claim to possess no miraculous powers. They attain believed wife of George Waters, near Tamworth who died Friday morning, the sixth day of April, aged 25 years.

She endured her sickness with patience, longing for the moment to arrive, when she would pass from this world of grief and sorrow, and be at home forever with Jesus.

MEMORIAL.

That very morn, about three the hour,
Her spirit pass'd away.
Sord'd from its earthly tenement,
To realms of endless day.
The tears of friends upon her grave,
Should not be as in vain;
There is a voice that speaks aloud,
Behold! she'll rise again!

In all we see the blossom dies,
Decaying, pass away,
But yet, when spring, God calls it forth.
It then, His voice obey:
So He the kind and gracious God,
Who his fair flowers to rise;
Will surely raise her body up,
To dwell above the skies.

Oh death, and must it ever be,
That thou wilt tear a cherished one,
From us our loved and cherished ones,
To have them for thy prey?
Then speed the in thy daring work,
Nor stay the swift wing'd hours,
For we will seek a better land,
Beyond thy spilling powers.

Where parted friends will meet again,
In holier friendship prove;
Much sweeter than this earth's e'er known,
With him the source of love;
Free from the power of sin and death,
Exalted and refined;
Our ransom souls pure bliss enjoy,
And perfect freedom find.

Hush! be each sigh, restrained each tear
By all her friends, whom sorrows here
Reminded thus, their bosom cheer,
That shall supply there;
Hush! then each voice, her soul has fled,
These passing lines declare her dead,
By angels she was highly led,
The glorious crown to wear.

Farewell now friend, this earthly soil,
This thorny path, we here must tread,
Until we are call'd away by God,
Then, through the pathless sky,
May angels bear aloft and land,
May God give us a safe command,
When the appointed time's at hand,
To wait our souls on high.

April 9th 1877.

JOHN.

NAPANEE MARKETS.

EXPRESS OFFICE,
Friday, April 13th, 77.

Barley—50c.
Wheat—$1.25.
Oats—50c.
Rye—60c. to 70c.
Peas—70c. to 75c.
Buckwheat—75c. to 80c.
Wheat Flour—$3.00 to $3.40 retail.
Hay—$11.00 to $12.00 per ton.
Hides—$3.00 to $5.00.
Onions—80c. to $1.00 per bushel.
Butter—25c. to 26c. per lb.
Eggs—10c. to 12c. per dozen.
Lamb and Pelts—$1.00 to $1.25.
Apples—80c. to $1.20 per bag.
Potatoes—$1.00 to $1.20 per bag.
Chickens—30c. to 40c. per pair.
Geese—30c. to 40c. each.
Ducks—40c. to 50c. per brace.
Turkeys—50c. to $1.00 each.
Wood hard—$2.50 to $3.00 per cord.
Soft—$1.50 to $2.00.
Beef per cwt.—$5.00 to $7.00.
Pork—$7.00 to $7.50.
Lard—11c. to 15c.
Calf skins 8c. per lb rough.
Horse—9c. to 12c. per head.
Straw—$1.00 to $1.50 per load.
Cl ver Seed—$7 per bushel.
Timothy Seed—$2.00 to 2.50 per bush.
Tallow—7c. to 8c. per lb.
Oatmeal—$1.00 per cwt. retail.
Cheese—11c. to 12c. per lb.
Deacon skins 25c.

IF IS A FACT, THAT PHOSFOZONE,
is a preparation of Phosphorus which restores to the human frame the most essential elements of life, giving blood and vitality to the whole system, and nervous system, strengthens the Lungs, Liver, Stomach, Heart and Kidneys. A fresh supply just received by DETLOF & SCOTT, Napanee.

LOST.
ON Saturday evening, March 24th, between Selby and Griev's corners, a sample case of pictures, the finder will confer a favor by leaving it at the Weekly Express Office Napanee or at H. Walrath's Grievs Corners.
J. T. CLARK, Agent.
Ardens Ont.
51-11.
TO RENT,
The dwelling known as Dr. Oronhyetkha's.
Apply to
W. S. WILLIAMS
Napanee March 16th, 1877. 47-1

THE SAILORS MISTAKE.

There was a curious remedy of error, it came about tragically, at San Francisco recently. A sailor returned from a voyage, and found his wife fondling a baby, and giving her a chance to say that child was a neighbour's, he knocked down and then tried to throw her in the window. A crowd gathered, and the man stabbed his wife in the back, jumped from the window, and fell unhurt. But some of the crowd entered the house, and, going to the bedroom, awoke a sleeper, who emptied his revolver on them, but was dragged to a lamp post when the mistake was ascertained, though not before a rib was broken by the mob. The woman was not much hurt, and is anxious to have her husband find his mistake and return.

REVENUE FRAUDS.

TORONTO, April 7.—If the confession of Smith, made to-day, is to be believed, there is plenty of work in this part of the nation for revenue officers. He says he has been in the employ of a well known Alderman of this city making stills, having made no less than twenty lately. Orangeville has been the latest scene of the tinsmith's labors, he having sent up there where he worked at illicit trade, being supplied with the per and other material from his stills in this city. Some of the stills sold for a hundred dollars, twenty of which went to the tinsmith. He says further that some have recently been let for use in Toronto. He says there are and unlicensed hotel-keepers are principal customers for the stills.

ONE MORE UNFORTUNATE.

Another man dead and his family undecided for motives of delicacy prevent from naming him or detailing the instances connected with his death. It is enough to say that he was alive and but a few days ago, and that now he is dead. He was "counting on long years more," and laughed and joked at the thought of a near possibility, but his breast was full of milk and bones full of marrow, and while his life was teeming with plans and purposes in respect to the future the end was near. His sun went down while it was noon, and at the moment almost. In his life he was saying in respect to some of the most solemn interests of life which clamored for attention, "there is a bubble," the last sand fell from his hand, so far as he was concerned, existed no longer.

What matter who he was, or where he was? His is but an old story which is repeated every day. History in respect has repeated itself in twice thousand instances. While we write, her is being added to the list; and veil of anguish is going up from her and another household, not only veiled of his head, but left helpless and devoided for to struggle as best it can pitiless and iron-handed poverty. Has been, it is now, and except men wiser than they have been, or are, is generation, so it will be to "the syllable of recorded time." Words of wisdom have been sung through the ages, "What thy handeth to do, do it with thy might," have read it on the illuminated page of revelation; we have heard it sounded in trumpet tones from the pulpits of stendom; it has come to us backed with eternal authority and maternal tenderness; its impressiveness has been need by the constantly accumulated illustrations of the observation and experience of every day life; and yet it is read with indifference by thousands. A most vital and enduring interest rests upon which, in this place, we do not dwell—are constantly being ridiculed, and even actually sacrificed in their knowledge of the patient's disease by the practical application of well established principles of modern science to the practice of medicine. And it is to the accuracy with which this system has endowed them that they owe their almost world-wide reputation for the skillful treatment of all lingering or chronic affections. This system of practice and the marvelous success which has been attained through it, demonstrate the fact that diseases display certain phenomena, which being subjected to scientific analysis or synthesis, furnish abundant and unmistakable data to guide the judgment of the skillful practitioner aright in determining the nature of diseased conditions. The amplest resources for treating lingering or chronic diseases and the greatest skill, are thus placed within the easy reach of every invalid, however distant he or she may reside from the physicians making the treatment of such affections a speciality. The peculiarities of this scientific system of practice are fully explained in the Appendix of "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser,"—a book of over nine hundred large pages, which is so popular as to have reached a sale of almost one hundred thousand copies within a few months of its first publication. It is sent (post-paid) by the Author to any address, on receipt of one dollar and fifty cents. Address, R. V. Pierce, M.D., World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y.

ELECTRICITY! THOMAS' EXCELSIOR ELECTRIC OIL!—WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.—Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures catarrh of the asthma and croup. Fifty cents' worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. The Following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most sceptical: J. Collard, of Sparta, Ont., writes, "Send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, have sold all I had from you and want more now; it cures are truly wonderful." Wm. McGuire, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agents left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendid now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "Please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Electric Oil, I am nearly out, nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, of Thamesville, writes, "Send at once a further supply of Electric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well and give general satisfaction." J. Thompson, of Woodford writes, "Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reid, of Uiverton, P. Q., writes, "The Electric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the name of Northrop and Lyman are blown in the bottle, and "Take no other." Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cts. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE.—ELECTRIC—Selected and Electrized.

THE CRADLE.

CLARK—On Wednesday the 28th ult., the wife of Mr. Robert Clark of a son.

STERN—In Newburgh, on the 5th inst., the wife of Mr. C. Sturm, of a daughter.

COATES—At Napanee, on the 10th inst., the wife of John Coates, of a son.

TRUMPOUR—At Napanee, on the 4th inst., the wife of Mr. Joseph Trumpour, of a daughter.

BOYES—At Napanee, on the 10th inst., the wife of Mr. Robert Boyes, of a son.

THE ALTAR.

ASH—ANDERSON—At Bath, on the 4th ult., by the Rev. E. S. Shorey, Mr. Cyrus S. Ash, merchant, Centreville, to Miss Agnes Georgina Anderson, of Ernesttown.

THE TOMB.

NICOLLS—At North Fredericksburgh, on the 5th ult., Levi W. Nicolls, aged 77 years.

BOTTING—At Napanee, on the 9th inst., Edward Botting, aged 35 years.

[Deceased has been suffering from consumption for nine years. The funeral sermon will be

JOB

PRINTING!

THE JOBBING DEPARTMENT

—OF THE—

NAPANEE EXPRESS

IS EXCELLED BY

No Office In The Dominion,

ITS OUTFIT, INCLUDES A

LARGE STOCK

OF THE

Very Latest Styles Of New Type,

And every Facility exists for turning out

JOB PRINTING

IN THE

Fish! Fish!! Fish!!!

RECEIVED DAILY.

Fresh and good at S. McLaughlins, also New Oranges, Lemons, Dates, &c., kept constantly on hand.

S. McLAUGHLIN
Dundas St.

Valuable Farm for Sale

BEING composed of west half Lot No. 17, in the 4th Concession of the Township of Richmond, containing 100 acres; 80 acres of which is cleared and in a good state of cultivation, half mile from the Village of Selby and four and a half from the Town of Napanee. Terms liberal.

For full particulars apply to Grange & Bros., Napanee. 47-2in.

Farmland and Town Property FOR SALE.

A NUMBER of farms in the Counties of Northumberland and Hastings, also some very valuable city property in Belleville, and both village and farming property, in and near the village of Brighton.

Apply to
J. B. BENSON,
Napanee.

March 12th, 1877.

47-4in.

FARM FOR SALE.

FARM of 175 Acres, the most desirable property in the County of Northumberland, for sale. Being all that portion of lot No. 34 in Concession A, of the Village and Township of Brighton, lying North of the old Kingston Road, and only quarter of a mile from the P. O. and the centre of the village. Upon the premises are good brick and wooden buildings; a large orchard of young and bearing trees; a beautiful grove of pine and hardwood timber; spring creeks, and other advantages which rendered it desirable. Also several other good Farms and Village Properties for sale.

I. O. PROCTOR.
47-4in. Brighton.

Land PLASTER

Now grinding and ready for use.

Superior Fine Ground

Land Plaster,

AT THE LOW RATE OF

$5 per Ton, or, 25 cts. per Hundred.

ALL orders left at the Mill, or at the Woollen Factory, for Williams' and Lasher's Water Lime, or Quick Lime, will be promptly attended to. Lime delivered when required. No Credit.

JAMES PERRY.
Napanee, March 5th, 1877. 46.

T. T. T.

SEE OUR NEW STOCK OF TEAS,

NEW SEASON

and for! Motives of delicacy prevent naming him or detailing the chances connected with his death. ought to say that he was alive and a few days ago, and that now he was "counting on long years," and laughed and jested at the death as a near possibility, but his breast were full of milk and as full of marrow," and while his as teeming with plans and pur- respect the future the end was . His sun went down while it was . and at the moment almost, in e was saying in respect to some o t solemn interests of life which amoring for attention, "there is but," the last and fell from his bid, so far as he was concerned, sted no longer.

matter who he was, or where he His is but an old story which is peated every day. History in ect has repeated itself in twice sand instances. While we write, is being added to the list; and of anguish is going up from and another household, not only l of its head, but left helpless and led for to struggle as best it can fless and iron-handed poverty. s been, it is now, and except men er than they have been, or are, eneration, so it will be to "the llable of recorded time."

ords of wisdom have been sing- through the ages, "What thy deth to do, do it with thy might." e read it on the illuminated page tion; we have heard it sounded pet tones from the pulpits of dom; it has come to us backed nal authority and maternal ten- its impressiveness has been d by the constantly accumulat trations of the observation and ee of every day life; and yet it is l with indifference by thousands. t vital and enduring interests— upon which, in this place, we dwell—are constantly being d, and even actually sacrificed in . We are appalled and petrified on contemplation of the consequences en are bringing upon themselves y, by want of promptness in at in their heart of hearts they ought to be done.

r is full of rumors of commercial One failure follows close upon s of another. Men are not only lown themselves but they are their neighbors down with them cases out of ten there was a time ese things could have been pre-

When the cry was first heard, rs ahead!" a prompt shortening r reversal of the engine, might d the ship from the rocks. If k had been reduced, if expenses a brought down, if an humble living had been adopted, and a fringent system of economy had reduced into the business, both and private life, things would en different to-day. Procrastina- s the rock upon which these have been wrecked. The neces- retrenchment was foreseen; at- to it was intended, but it was not ones, and therefore was done at it was with our friend whose case tested these reflections. He saw only means by which he could is helpless and dependent family the very evils which they are suf- f this hour, was to "insure his life, that he ought to do it; he resolve- he would do it, but he did not any necessity of his doing it just e was warned, and "labored with" son of the Travelers Ins. Co., but e was only an Insurance agent the Minister of religion it was ness to preach the uncertainty of id we know the result—He is in e and his family are left to strug- the world alone. Reader wilt and repeat the same folly? Bet ay, by the timely investment of a ars place such a possibility be e pull of human events and let it at once.

writes, "Send me six dozen Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, have sold all I had from you and want more now; it cures are truly wonderful." Wm. McGuire, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agents left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendid now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "Please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Electric Oil, I am newly out, nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes, "Send at once a further supply of Electric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well and give general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford writes, "Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reid, Ulverton, P. Q., writes, "The Electric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. Thomas is on the wrapper, and the name of northrop and Lyman are blown in the bottle, and "Take no other." Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cts. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE.—ELECTRIC—Selected and Electrized.

THE CRADLE.

CLARK—On Wednesday the 28th ult., the wife of Mr. Robert Clark of a son.

STURM—In Newburgh, on the 5th inst., the wife of Mr. C. Sturm, of a daughter.

COATES—At Napanee, on the 10th inst., the wife of John Coates, of a son.

TRUMPOUR—At Napanee, on the 4th inst., the wife of Mr. Joseph Trumpour, of a daughter.

BOYES—At Napanee, on the 10th inst., the wife of Mr. Robert Boyes, of a son.

THE ALTAR.

ASH—ANDERSON—At Bath, on the 4th ult., by the Rev. E. S. Shorey, Mr. Cyrus S. Ash, merchant, Centreville, to Miss Agnes Georgina Anderson, of Ernestown.

THE TOMB.

NICOLLS—At North Fredericksburgh, on the 5th ult., Levi W. Nicolls, aged 77 years.

BOTTING—At Napanee, on the 9th inst., Edward Botting, aged 35 years.

(Deceased has been suffering from consumption for nine years. The funeral sermon will be preached by the Rev. Mr. Pope, in the M. E. Church on next Sunday morning.)

GRAY—At Madoc on Thursday, 5th inst., at the residence of her son, R. T. Gray, Esq., Catharine, relict of the late Walter Gray, aged 60 years.

WALTERS—In memory of Elizabeth Walters, the beloved wife of George Walters, near Tamworth who died Friday morning, the sixth day of April, aged 25 years.

She endured her sickness with patience, longing for the moment to arrive, when she would pass from this world of grief and sorrow, and be at home forever with Jesus.

MEMORIAL.

That very morn, about three the hour,
Her spirit pass'd away,
Soar'd from its earthly tenement,
To realms of endless day;
The tears of friends upon her grave,
Should not be as in vain;
There is a voice that speaks aloud,
Behold! she'll rise again;

In full we see the blossom dies,
Decaying, pass away,
But yet, when spring, God calls it forth,
It then, His voice obey;
So He the kind and gracious God,
Who bids fair flowers to rise;
Will surely raise her body up,
To dwell above the skies.

Oh death, and must it ever be,
That thou wilt bear away,
From us our loved and cherish'd ones,
To have them for thy prey?
Then speed the in thy daring work,
Nor stay the swift wing'd hours,
For we will seek a better land,
Beyond thy spoiling powers.

Where parted friends will meet again,
In holier friendship prove;
Much sweeter than this earth e'er known,
With Him the source of love;
Free from the power of sin and death,
Exalted and refined;
Our ransom souls pure bliss enjoy,
And perfect freedom find.

Hush'd be each sigh, restrained each tear
By all her friends, whom sojourns here
Reminded thus, their bosom cheer,
That she is happy there;
Hush'd then each voice, her soul has fled,
These passing lines, declare her dead,
By angels she was highly led,
The glorious crown to wear.

Farewell now friend, this earthly soil,
This thorny path, we here must tread,
Until we are call'd away by God,
Then, through the pathless sky,
May angels bear aloft and land,
May God give them a strict command,
When the appointed time's at hand,
To wait our souls on high,
April 9th 1877.

JOHN.

NAPANEE MARKETS.

No Office In The Dominion,

ITS OUTFIT INCLUDES A

LARGE STOCK

OF THE

Very Latest Styles Of New Type,

And every Facility exists for turning out

JOB PRINTING

IN THE

BEST STYLE

OF THE ART.

LAW WORK A SPECIALITY.

Assessment Blanks,
Auction Bills,
Articles of Agreement,
Briefs,
Bill Heads,
Ball Programmes,
Bills of Fare,
Circulars,
Chancery Bills,
Cards,
Catalogues,
Debitures,
Dodgers,
Date Lines,
Envelopes,
Exhibition Bills,
Funeral Circulars,
Financial Reports,
Headings,
Horse Bills,
Indentures,
Invitations,
Letter Headings,
Law Forms,
Lawyers' Briefs,
Labels,

property in the County of Northumberland, for Sale. Being all that portion of lot No. 34 in Concession A, of the Village and Township of Brighton, lying North of the old Kingston Road, and only quarter of a mile from the P. O. and the centre of the village. Upon the premises are good brick and wooden buildings; a large orchard of young and bearing trees; a beautiful grove of pine and hardwood timber; spring creeks, and other advantages which rendered it desirable. Also several other good Farms and Village Properties for sale.

I. O. PROCTOR,
47-48. Brighton.

Land PLASTER

Now grinding and ready for use.

Superior Fine Ground

Land Plaster,

AT THE LOW RATE OF

$5 per Ton, or, 25 cts. per Hundred.

ALL orders left at the Mill, or at the Woolen Factory, for Williams' and Lasher's Water Lime, or Quick Lime, will be promptly attended to. Lime delivered when required. No Credit.

JAMES PERRY.
Napanee, March 5th, 1877. 46.

T. T. T.

SEE OUR NEW STOCK OF TEAS,

NEW SEASON

1877,

GREAT STRENGTH AND FINE FLAVOR,

TRY THEM BUY THEM!!

A LARGE STOCK OF CHOICE

Family Groceries,

NEW AND FRESH, JUST TO HAND.

Brisco Block, opposite Wright & Co's.

SMITH & ANDERSON.

REMOVED

Mrs. Jackson

Bears to inform the public that she has removed from the premises formerly occupied by her, and will now be found in the rooms above SYMINGTON'S FLOUR STORE, and opposite Grange's Drug Store, where she is still prepared to do all kinds of hair-work, such as

SWITCHES,
PUFFS,
BRAIDS,
CURLS,
SWITCHES DRESS OR STONE

aster. One failure follows o'ae upon a heels of another. Men are not only tiling down themselves but they are tiling their neighbors down with them. Nine cases out of ten there was a time ten these things could have been prevented. When the cry was first heard, Breakers ahead!" a prompt shortening sail, or reversal of the engine, might have kept the ship from the rocks. If at stock had been reduced, if expenses had been brought down, if an humble mode of living had been adopted, and a more stringent system of economy had been introduced into the business, both public and private life, things would have been different to-day. Procrastination is the rock upon which these fortunes have been wrecked. The necessity for retrenchment was foreseen; attention to it was intended, but it was not done at once, and therefore was done at all. So it was with our friend whose case is suggested these reflections. He saw at the only means by which he could cure his helpless and dependent family against the very evils which they are suffering at this hour, was to insure his life. He felt that he ought to do it; he resolved that he would do it, but he did not receive any necessity of his doing it just then. He was warned, and "labored with" by Hanson of the Travelers Ins. Co., but he was only an Insurance agent. He like the Minister of religion it was his business to preach the uncertainty of life; and we know the result—He is in a grave and his family are left to struggle with the world alone. Reader will not go on and repeat the same folly? Better we say, by the timely investment of a few dollars place such a possibility beyond the pull of human events and let it be done at once.

WONDERS OF MODERN SCIENCE.

The perfect accuracy with which scientists are enabled to deduce the most minute particulars in their several departments, appears almost miraculous if we view it in the light of the early ages. Take for example the electro-magnetic telegraph the greatest invention of the age. Is it not a marvelous degree of accuracy which enables an operator to exactly locate a fracture in a submarine cable nearly three thousand miles long? Our venerable "clerk of the weather" has become so thoroughly familiar with those most wayward elements of nature that he can accurately predict their movements. He can sit in Washington and foretell what the weather will be tomorrow in Florida or New York, as well as several hundred miles did not intervene between him and the places named. And so in all departments of modern science, what is required is the knowledge of certain signs. From these the scientists deduce accurate conclusion regardless of space. A few fossils sent to the expert geologist enable him to accurately determine the rock formation from which they are taken. He can describe it to you as perfectly as if a cleft of it were lying on his table. So also the chemist can determine the constitution of the sun as accurately as that luminary were not ninety-five million miles from his laboratory. The sun sends certain signs over the "infinite of space" and the chemist classifies them by assing them through the spectroscopic. Only the presence of certain substances could produce these solar signs. So also, in medical science, diseases have certain unmistakable signs, or symptoms, and by reason of this fact, Dr. Pierce, of the World's Dispensary, has been enabled to originate and erect a system of determining, with the greatest accuracy, the nature of chronic diseases without seeing and personally examining his patients. He has spared neither pains nor expense to associate with himself, as the Faculty of the World's Dispensary, a large number of medical gentlemen of rare attainments and skill—graduates from some of the most famous Medical Colleges and University of both Europe and America. By aid of Dr. Pierce's system of diagnosis, these physicians and surgeons annually treat, with the most gratifying success, many thousands of invalids without ever seeing them in person. In recognizing diseases without a personal examination of the patient they claim to possess no miraculous powers. They attain of April, aged 25 years. She endured her sickness with patience, longing for the moment to arrive, when she would pass from this world of grief and sorrow, and be at home forever with Jesus.

MEMORIAL.

That very morn, about three the hour,
Her spirit pass'd away.
Saw'd from its earthly tenement,
To realms of endless day;
The tears of friends upon her grave,
Should not be as in vain;
There is a voice that speaks aloud,
Behold! she'll rise again;
In full we see the blossom dies,
Decaying, pass away,
But yet, when spring, God calls it forth.
It then, His voice obey:
So He the kind and gracious God,
Who bids fair flowers to rise;
Will surely raise her body up,
To dwell above the skies.
Oh death, and must it ever be,
That thou wilt bear away,
From us our loved and cherish'd ones,
To have them for they prey?
Then speed the in thy daring work,
Nor stay the swift wing'd hours,
For we will seek a better land,
Beyond thy spoiling powers.
Where parted friends will meet again,
In holier friendship prove;
Much sweeter than this earth e'er known,
With Him the source of love;
Free from the power of sin and death,
Exalted and refined;
Our ransom souls pure bliss enjoy,
And perfect freedom find.
Hush'd be each sigh, restrained each tear
By all her friends, whom sorrows here
Reminded thus, their bosom cheer,
That she is happy there;
Hush'd then each voice, her soul has fled,
These passing lines, declare her dead,
By angels she was highly led,
The glorious crown to wear.
Farewell now friend, this earthly sod,
This thorny path, we here must tread,
Until we are call'd away by God,
Then, through the pathless sky,
May angels bear auld and land,
May God give them a strict command,
When the appointed time's at hand,
To wait our souls on high,
April 9th 1877.

JOAN.

NANANEE MARKETS.

EXPRESS OFFICE.
Friday, April 13th, 77.

Barley—50c.
Wheat—$1.25
Oats—40c.
Rye—60c. to 65c.
Peas—70c. to 75c.
Buckwheat—75c. to 80c.
Wheat Flour—$3.00 to $3.10 retail.
Hay—$11.00 to $12.00 per ton.
Hides—$3.00 to $5.00.
Onions—80c. to $1.00 per bushel.
Butter—25c. to 25c. per lb.
Eggs—10c. to 12c. per dozen.
Lamb and Pelts—$1.00 to $1.25.
Apples—80c. to $1.20 per bag.
Potatoes—$1.00 to $1.20 per bag.
Chickens—30c. to 40c. per pair.
Geese—50c. to 60c. each.
Ducks—40c. to 50c. per brace.
Turkeys—50c. to $1.00 each.
Wood hard—$2.50 to $3.00 per cord.
" soft—$1.50 to $2.00 " "
Beef per cwt.—$5.00 to $7.00.
Pork " " —$7.00 to $7.50.
Lard " lb.—13c. to 15c.
Calf skins 8c. per lb rough
" " " " 10c. to 12c. " "
Straw—$3.00 to $4.00 per load.
Cl ver Seed—$7 per bushel.
Timothy Seed—$2.00 to 2.60 per bush.
Tallow—7c. to 8c. per lb.
Oatmeal—$1.00 per cwt., retail.
Cheese—11c. to 12c. per lb.
Deneon skins 25c.

IT IS A FACT, THAT

PHOSFOZONE.

Is a preparation of Phosphorus which restores to the human frame the most essential elements of life, giving Energy and Vitality to the whole muscular and nervous system, strengthens the Lungs, Liver, Stomach, Heart and Kidneys. A fresh supply just received by DETLOF & SCOTT, Nananee.

51.

LOST.

ON Saturday evening, March 24th, between Selby and Griev's corners, a sample case of pictures, the finder will confer a favor by leaving it at the Weekly Express Office Nananee, or at H. Walrath's Griev's Corners.

51-44.

J. T. CLARK, Agent.
Arden Ont.

TO RENT,

The dwelling known as Dr. Oronhyatka's.
Apply to
W. S. WILLIAMS.
Nanabee March 16th, 1877. 47-44

LAW WORK A SPECIALITY.

Assessment Blanks,
Auction Bills,
Articles of Agreement,
Briefs,
Bill Heads,
Ball Programmes,
Bills of Fare,
Circulars,
Chancery Bills,
Cards,
Catalogues,
Debitures,
Dodge's,
Date Lines,
Envelopes,
Exhibition Bills,
Funeral Circulars,
Financial Reports,
Headings,
Horse Bills,
Indentures,
Invitations,
Letter Headings,
Law Forms,
Lawyers' Briefs,
Labels,
Monthly Statements,
Mourning Cards,
Municipal Forms,
Note Headings,
Notarial Circulars,
Ordinary Notices,
Pamphlets,
Factors, Programmes,
Promissory Notes,
Receipt Books,
Shipping Tags,
Statements,
Sale Bills,
Tickets,
Tax Collectors Rolls,
Tax Receipts,
Visiting Cards,
Voters' Lists,
Wheat Receipts,
Wedding Cards.

ALL THE ABOVE

PRINTED WITH DESPATCH,

AT THE

"EXPRESS" OFFICE.

J. B. BENSON,

Proprietor.

GREAT STRENGTH AND FINE FLAVOR.

TRY THEM BUY THEM!!

A LARGE STOCK OF CHOICE

Family Groceries,

NEW AND FRESH, JUST TO HAND.

Brisco Block, opposite Wright & Co's.

SMITH & ANDERSON,

REMOVED

Mrs. Jackson

Begs to inform the public that she has removed from the premises formerly occupied by her, and will now be found in the rooms above
— SYMINGTON'S FLOUR STORE,
and opposite Grange's Drug Store, where she is well prepared to do all kinds of hair-work, such as

SWITCHES,
PUFFS,
BRAIDS,
CURLS,
SWITCHES DYED ON SHORT NOTICE.

ALL WORK DONE SATISFACTORILY.
Roots of curls being all turned one way. Instructions given in the art on reasonable terms. Highest price paid for human hair.
SWITCHES FOR SALE.

LIVERY at MILL POINT.

MR. JOHN FINLAYSON is prepared to furnish the best of rigs, either single or double.
At the Old Commercial Hotel
MAIN STREET.
Mill Point, Jan 30th, 1877. 45

OCEAN TICKETS.

() OCEAN Tickets for sale via Quebec or Halifax in summer, Halifax or Portland in winter, by the Allan S. S. Line, White Star Line, Isman and National, via New York. Also return tickets at reduced rates to any point in the Old Country.

RAILWAY TICKETS.

Tickets by the Great Western Railway, to all points and return at reduced rates.

EXCHANGE OFFICE.

American money bought and sold, and drafts on New York.

ACCIDENTAL INSURANCE.

Agent for the Accidental Insurance Co. of Canada,
A. H. ALLISON, Agent.
Montreal Telegraph Office.
Over Mallory's Drug Store
4-1m.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, NOW RESTORED!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.
1st—Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, of this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address
THE CULVERTWELL MEDICAL CO.,
41 Ann St., New York,
Post Office Box, 4586. 45-yl.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC MANAGEMENT OF DUCKS

There are four kinds of domestic ducks that claim our attention, viz: Aylesbury, Rouen, Cayuga and Pekin. I do not propose to discuss their comparative merits, but for good reasons, I prefer them in the order named. I have omitted Muscovys, having little to say about them. Their ugliness and destructiveness is beyond endurance, and all who are acquainted with them should never seek an introduction.

It is a mistaken idea that a pond or stream is absolutely necessary to success in raising ducks, although beneficial, it is not a necessity. Those who have a fondness for ducks can succeed with them without a bountiful supply of water, yet they will not thrive in confinement. If one has only a small yard he should not keep more than a pair or a trio, but a dozen or more can be kept with profit if they have the range of a pasture or meadow.

Ducks are great foragers, and should have good range. It is not enough to give them a pen extending into a pond or stream. They should be free to roam over fields, where they may be seen at early dawn seeking worms and insects, their favorite diet. When this can be allowed them, they should never be fed in the morning. Feed only once a day, at night, then they will be sure to return for their evening meal, and may be penned up so as to secure their eggs, which are deposited at about daybreak.

The color of the eggs varies considerably. The first eggs of the season laid by Cayugas are generally almost black, and the color of the others is pale green, but they soon lose their shade, and are a creamy white in color; although I have known Rouens to lay greenish colored eggs throughout the season. This diversity of shade cannot be accounted for. The size of the eggs is double that of a hen's egg, very sure to be fertile, and they bear transportation splendidly. I have frequently sent them a distance of five hundred to fifteen hundred miles, and from ninety to one hundred per cent. hatched; but only from two to four ducks are allowed with one drake. Perhaps that number may be increased to six or eight but I never risked it.

I have tried to hatch duck's eggs under ducks, but have always failed; consequently I place them under hens and put several breeds together. After they are hatched, ducklings should be kept in a dry yard, containing a good shelter. Never allow them free use of the streams and ponds till they are six weeks old. It is not necessary to feed the boiled eggs. I always use corn and oats ground together, and wheat bran in equal portions by measures, mixed and scalded. Never feed raw mash. Ground worms are especially beneficial to ducklings, and should be supplied them every day if possible; if not animal food should be given them. Beef liver or other cheap meat may be cooked and chopped for them and fed stirred in the broth while it is boiling hot. Thus nothing is lost. Never feed whole or uncooked grain to ducklings till they are well fledged; then alternate with cracked corn, or other grain, once a day, but continue the soft food. If whole grain is fed when young, a frothy substance appears in their eyes, the beak becomes sore and death soon follows. You can get along without a bountiful supply of water, but not without animal food and soft food.—Poultry Bulletin

A CHEAP CARPET.

We lately heard of a very cheap and, it seems to us, a feasible way of carpeting rooms which are not in constant use. First make a good paste, and cover the floor with some strong light-colored plain paper—cheap wrapping-paper is as good as any, only it must be soft and not dark enough to show through. Let it become perfectly dry, and see that there are no

VARIOUS ITEMS.

Montreal is convulsed by a terrible scandal. A Dr. W.H. Mondelet, son of Judge Mondelet, has been arrested and indicted at the Assizes for abducting a young girl of 12 years of age, a niece of James Worthington, the eminent contractor, and a cousin of the Doctor's wife at whose house she was visiting. He took the girl away from the city, ostensibly for a short drive but did not bring her back till next morning, having kept her at a country hotel all night. The accused is a young physician in good practice among the best families, and has been married only six months.

There is nothing like the excitement over periodic literature which exists at this moment in England. New papers and magazines are started almost at a moment's notice. It would trouble one to keep the run of their names. The January Church Quarterly Review reached a second edition, the Contemporary Review for March reached a second, and Nineteenth Century a third edition before they could be fairly said to be in the hands of their readers.

German music is having a rapid influence in changing English taste; and the most popular music in London drawing rooms is heard in the singing of Scotch songs.

Mr. William Morris proposes to the London Athenaeum the establishment of an association whose object shall be to keep a watch on old monuments, to protest against all "restoration" that means more than keeping out wind and weather, and by all means, literary and and other, to awaken a feeling that English buildings are not mere ecclesiastical toys, but sacred monuments of the nation's growth and hope. He considers "restoration" and "destruction" synonymous architectural terms.

The British Navy estimates for the year 1877-8 amount to the large sum of $54,899,145—a decrease compare with last year of $1,545,215.

Mlle. Montaland is an actress of some celebrity; ten years ago she was as thin as her colleague, Sarah Bernhardt, whom Dumas says, could be found, more than a needle in a bundle of hay. At present Mlle. is enormously stout, so as to excite laughter. She employs a doctor to reduce her solid flesh by frictions, but she only becomes fatter, and one evening she was rubbed with an ointment rolled in wadding, and next morning all her skin peeled off. She paid the doctors his fee, 6000 francs, but he claimed 40000 francs, and was beaten. Counsel for the defendant, tyro, offered to produce his client before the Areopagus; following the Athenian precedent, the jury declined the spectacle.

At Berle, France, a peasant committed suicide by eating raw cabbages, and finally thrusting the stalk down his throat. Two respectable young women, fatigued with life, committed suicide a few days ago on a suburban railway. Both enveloped their heads in their jupons, and then quietly lay down to be decapitated.

The late Duke of Orleans, when a lad visited a circus, and related to Alfred de Musset, his comrade, that the showman had an elephant that instinctively saluted the sun, like a Parsee, and another swept a room, elephants being employed in the East by ladies for making up their boudoirs.

Lady to cabman—"Who is that with you on the seat?" "A town councillor, madame, who has changed all the names of the street, and without his aid I could not find my way."

A Canadian lady makes the suggestion that upon the foot of every programme be printed a diagram of the theatre or hall in which performance is taking place, and upon these diagrams every means of egress from the building should be distinctly marked.

"BEST PIANOS, LOWEST PRICES."

CHARLES D. BLAKE & Co's.

Grand Square and Upright Piano-Fortes

JOHN N. LAZIER,

BELLEVILLE,

General Agent for the Dominion of Canada

MERITS OF THE BLAKE PIANOE-FORTE

Its Great Durability

In Workmanship it Cannot be Surpassed, if Equaled.

I have tried to hatch ducks eggs under ducks, but have always failed; consequently I place them under hens and put several breeds together. After they are hatched, ducklings should be kept in a dry yard, containing a good shelter. Never allow them free use of the streams and ponds till they are six weeks old. It is not necessary to feed the boiled eggs. I always use corn and oats ground together, and wheat bran in equal portions by measures, mixed and scalded. Never feed raw mash. Ground worms are especially beneficial to ducklings, and should be supplied them every day if possible; if not animal food should be given them. Beef liver or other cheap meat may be cooked and chopped for them and fed stirred in the broth while it is boiling hot. Thus nothing is lost. Never feed whole or uncooked grain to ducklings till they are well fledged; then alternate with cracked corn, or other grain, once a day, but continue the soft food. If whole grain is fed when young, a frothy substance appears in their eyes, the beak becomes sore and death soon follows. You can get along without a bountiful supply of water, but not without animal food and soft food.—Poultry Bulletin

A CHEAP CARPET.

We lately heard of a very cheap and, it seems to us, a feasible way of carpeting rooms which are not in constant use. First make a good paste, and cover the floor with some strong light-colored plain paper—cheap wrapping-paper is as good as any, only it must be soft and not dark enough to show through. Let it become perfectly dry, and see that there are no wrinkles or uneven spots. Select at some wall-paper store rich colored paper, not very light—and it need not be very expensive, but should be firm and strong. Be particular about the designs—look for such as would be pretty in a real carpet. Measure the room, and cut the paper in length to correspond. Put a good coat of paste over the whole breadth, and also over the floor, or rather the lining that has been pasted down over the floor; lay it down carefully, unrolling and smoothing with a soft, clean white cloth, pressing it all over on the floor, and take the same care to prevent the air getting under to form blisters as a paper-hanger would in covering the wall. It would be safer and doubtless more satisfactory to get a paper-hanger to take charge of the job. When the floor is all covered, "size" and then varnish the paper. Use dark glue for sizing, and furniture varnish, as the dark shade they give will make the paper look rich. When all is finished and the furniture in place we can imagine this might make a pretty carpet, and in a room not liable to be used roughly can believe it might last a long time. If there is proper care in moving furniture when sweeping, and rugs are laid before the bed, washstands and bureau, we think a sensible young lady could make this paper carpet last quite as long as many of the ingrain carpets now in use. Some of the dark, rich paper we often see in the stores with exquisite flowers, vines, and various beautiful designs, and with broad, handsome borders, would make an elegant carpet, at half the cost of an ingrain.—Christian Union.

CANADIAN PRODUCE IN ENGLAND.

TIMELY ADVICE TO EXPORTERS.

A London correspondent writes:—I have "interviewed" this week two great wholesale distributors of meat. They are of opinion that the live cattle trade will not do; The oxen waste on their passage, they arrive out of condition, the loss by deaths is considerable, and the cost of transport great. Both my informants agreed that the dead meat trade was by far the best for Canada, and likely to assume large proportions.

I tasted lately several samples of the cheese sold here as Canadian Cheddar. The price is 7½d per pound, by the half or whole cheese. Also the cheese sold here as Canadian Stilton, which is made present time, is enormously stout, so as to excite laughter. She employs a doctor to reduce her solid flesh by frictions, but she only becomes fatter, and one evening she was rubbed with an ointment rolled in wadding, and next morning all her skin peeled off. She paid the doctor his fee, £300, but he claimed 4000£, and was beaten. Counsel for the defendant, tyro, offered to produce his client before the Areopagus; following the Athenian precedent, the jury declined the spectacle.

At Berle, France, a peasant committed suicide by eating raw cabbages, and finally thrusting the stalk down his throat. Two respectable young women, fatigued with life, committed suicide a few days ago on a suburban railway. Both enveloped their heads in their jupons, and then quietly lay down to be decapitated.

The late Duke of Orleans, when a lad visited a circus, and related to Alfred de Musset, his comrade, that the showman had an elephant that instinctively saluted, the sun, like a Parsee, and another swept a room, elephants being employed in the East by ladies for making up their bondoirs.

Lady to cabman—"Who is that with you on the seat?" "A town councillor, madame, who has changed all the names of the street, and without his aid I could not find my way."

A Canadian lady makes the suggestion that upon the foot of every programme be printed a diagram of the theatre or hall in which performance is taking place, and upon these diagrams every means of egress from the building should be distinctly marked. This, she thinks, would make every theatre-goer acquainted with the exits, and prove of inestimable value in case of panic or fire.

An invalid woman who lived with a servant at Great Falls, N. H., has for some time been a victim of systematic robbery by this servant and three others. The robbery went on night after night, and almost all the valuables had been carried off. She discovered it at last, and attempted to give the alarm, but the villains confined her for two days, until the police accidentally surprised and arrested them as they were taking up the carpets.

Suicide is losing favor in New York city, the deaths from this cause last year were thirty less than in 1874, and only twenty-eight were natives of the United States. There was the usual preponderance of men, there being one hundred and fourteen to thirty-six women. Of the modes of suicide, shooting was the favorite last year, the deaths from this cause numbering thirty-six. Paris green was as popular as ever, twenty-four having resorted to it, while twenty their quietus took with knife or daggers, and thirty-one hanged themselves.

A Swede is preaching in the Swedish language to twenty-five hundred of his countrymen in Mr. Moody's Church at Chicago, the sermons being literal translations of Mr. Moody's discourses in different parts of the country. The preacher was converted in Sweden, it is said, by reading Mr. Moody's sermons, and resembles Mr. Moody very closely in appearance. An edition of Mr. Moody's sermons has been published at Constantinople in the Armenian language, and a Spanish edition has also been discovered.

The chief result of the new prohibitory law in Maine seems to have been the diversion of the retail traffic from the hotels and bars of the drug stores and groceries. The hotel and saloon-keepers have combined to secure a strict enforcement, being determined that no one shall sell if they cannot. They entertain, not unreasonably, the idea that if they succeed in really stopping the sale, a good many who voted for the prohibitory law will clamour for its repeal.

The new Chinese Ambassador to Great Britain, with his suite, visited the Queen's Theatre, in London, recently arrayed in gorgeous apparel, and gratified the audience by taking tea during the intermission.

General Agent for the Dominion of Canada

MERITS OF THE BLAKE PIANOE-FORTE

Its Great Durability

In Workmanship it Cannot be Surpassed, if Equaled.

In Power, Solidity, Purity and Equality of Tone.

It has no Competitor.

As a Safe Investment, it is the Best.

It is Warranted in the most Satisfactory Manner.

Every Improvement that has been recognized by people of cultivated taste

to be of real benefit and utility, has been adopted by the Manufacturers

these pianos, and the grand result is, that for power, sweetness, brilliancy singing quality of tone, even throughout the entire scale, delicacy and elastic and also over the floor, or rather the lining that has been pasted down over the floor; lay it down carefully, unrolling and smoothing with a soft, clean white cloth, pressing it all over on the floor, and take the same care to prevent the air getting under to form blisters as a paper-hanger would in covering the wall. It would be safer and doubtless more satisfactory to get a paper-hanger to take charge of the job. When the floor is all covered, "size" and then varnish the paper. Use dark glue for sizing, and furniture varnish, as the dark shade they give will make the paper look rich. When all is finished and the furniture in place we can imagine this might make a pretty carpet, and in a room not liable to be used roughly can believe it might last a long time. If there is proper care in moving furniture when sweeping, and rugs are laid before the bed, washstands and bureau, we think a sensible young lady could make this paper carpet last quite as long as many of the ingrain carpets now in use. Some of the dark, rich paper we often see in the stores with exquisite flowers, vines, and various beautiful designs, and with broad, handsome borders, would make an elegant carpet, at half the cost of an ingrain.—Christian Union.

CANADIAN PRODUCE IN ENGLAND.

TIMELY ADVICE TO EXPORTERS.

A London correspondent writes:—I have "interviewed" this week two great wholesale distributors of meat. They are of opinion that the live cattle trade will not do; The oxen waste on their passage, they arrive out of condition, the loss by deaths is considerable, and the cost of transport great. Both my informants agreed that the dead meat trade was by far the best for Canada, and likely to assume large proportions.

I tasted lately several samples of the cheese sold here as Canadian Cheddar. The price is 7½d per pound, by the half or whole cheese. Also the cheese sold here as Canadian Stilton, which is made in the conventional Stilton shape, and is sold at 9½d per pound by the whole cheese. All the samples were good, but to command a higher price in the English market, Canadian makers must turn their attention to the matter of flavor. Butter might be made a great article of export from the Dominion. The price in London of good butter is 22d per pound in Canada, very generally, I believe, it is 25 cents. But the butter should come over in a more attractive shape, in four pound rolls instead of in tubs. A gentleman recently brought over ten pounds of Canadian butter in a crock, which conveyed in the ship's lard, was equal in flavor, when it arrived in London, to the best English butter at 2s. per lb. The difference in price—nearly double—between English and Canadian markets ought to make Canadian farmers great exporters. There is an unlimited market here for high class butter, at very good prices for the producer.

CHEESE FACTORY NEWS.

The cheese business this year (says the Ingersoll Tribune) will commence earlier than usual. High prices have already been offered for the first make, and factorymen are pushing forward to get to work as soon as possible. Some of the factories commenced on Monday last, and others will follow next week. In all probability the majority of the factories will be at work by the middle of April. As high as 12½ to 13½ c. have been offered for the first make of some of the best factories.

The Harris street Cheese Factory, Oxford, Wm. Wilkinson, proprietor, commenced cheese-making on Monday last. This is the first factory that has reported and it is the earliest commencement we have ever heard of in Canada.

the largest of the varieties had been carried off. She discovered it at last, and attempted to give the alarm, but the villains confined her for two days, until the police accidentally surprised and arrested them as they were taking up the carpets.

Suicide is losing favor in New York city, the deaths from this cause last year were thirty less than in 1874, and only twenty-eight were natives of the United States. There was the usual preponderance of men, there being one hundred and fourteen to thirty-six women. Of the modes of suicide, shooting was the favorite last year, the deaths from this cause numbering thirty-six. Paris green was as popular as ever, twenty-four having resorted to it, while twenty their quietus took with knife or daggers, and thirty-one hanged themselves.

▲ Swede is preaching in the Swedish language to twenty-five hundred of his countrymen in Mr. Moody's Church at Chicago, the sermons being literal translations of Mr. Moody's discourses in different parts of the country. The preacher was converted in Sweden, it is said, by reading Mr. Moody's sermons, and resembles Mr. Moody very closely in appearance. An edition of Mr. Moody's sermons has been published at Constantinople in the Armenian language, and a Spanish edition has also been discovered.

The chief result of the new prohibitory law in Maine seems to have been the diversion of the retail traffic from the hotels and bars of the drug stores and groceries. The hotel and saloon-keepers have combined to secure a strict enforcement, being determined that no one shall sell if they cannot. They entertain, not unnaturally, the idea that if they succeed in really stopping the sale, a good many who voted for the prohibitory law will clamour for its repeal.

The new Chinese Ambassador to Great Britain, with his suite, visited the Queen's Theatre, in London, recently arrayed in gorgeous apparel, and gratified the audience by taking tea during the intermission. After the performance the entire embassy went "behind the scenes," and examined minutely all the scenic appliances, for it was the first time that His Excellency had been in a theatre. When asked whether he would return to the Queen's Theatre, he replied, with Oriental politeness, "Every night." He is a young man, and as a distinguishing mark of superiority wears white soles to his shoes. The London World announces that in honor of this celestial magnate, the fashionable color for ladies to wear is downright brilliant yellow.

Paris has been scandalized by a gentleman at a club losing $100,000 at a card table in a single night. The Police the next day closed the establishment.

On a road outside Paris is a notice:—"Route prohibited to unaccompanied cattle."

President Hayes announces that he will spend most of the summer at the Capitol. He has a distaste for the fashionable watering place.

Miss Catherine Graveline, who was married last week to Mr. P. D. Campbell, of Malden is the seventeenth child that Mr. Joseph Graveline has married off—four being son, and thirteen daughters. He thinks this is the last one, and that he has now done his duty by his country.

Says the Strathroy Dispatch:—"From an exchange learn that a Mr. Lion has been united in holy matrimony to Miss Lamb. Now if they only had a little child to lead them how thoroughly would the prophecy of the Bible be fulfilled, wherein it says:—"The Lion and the Lamb shall lie down together, and a little child shall lead them." But "bide a wee."

It has no Competitor.

As a Safe Investment, it is the Best.

It is Warranted in the most Satisfactory Manner.

Every Improvement that has been recognized by people of cultivated taste

to be of real benefit and utility, has been adopted by the Manufacturers

these pianos, and the grand result is, that for power, sweetness, brilliancy and

singing quality of tone, even throughout the entire scale, delicacy and elasticity

of touch, strength durability and beauty of finish, these Instruments stand unrivalled

MOST SATISFACTORY TERMS OF PAYMENT

EVERY PIANO WARRANTED FOR 7 YEARS.

AGENTS WANTED.

Illustrated Catalogues sent on application.

JOHN N. LAZIER, Belleville,

"BEST PIANOS, LOWEST PRICES." IMMENSE STOCK !!

CHARLES D. BLAKE & Co's..

Grand Square and Upright Piano-Fortes.

JOHN N. LAZIER,

BELLEVILLE,

General Agent for the Dominion of Canada.

MERITS OF THE BLAKE PIANOE-FORTE

Its Great Durability

In Workmanship it Cannot be Surpassed, if Equaled.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE,

ARE NOW SHOWING AN IMMENSE STOCK OF

NEW SPRING GOODS,

COMPRISING A GENERAL ASSORTMENT OF

STAPLE & FANCY DRY GOODS.

We are Selling New Fresh Good Cheaper than other Houses are Selling their Old ones.

M R . H O G A N .

IS SHOWING A MAGNIFICENT ASSORTMENT OF GOODS IN HIS DEPARTMENT FOR GENTLEMANS WEAR, CONSISTING OF

NEW WORSTED COATINGS,

NEW FRENCH COATINGS,

VESTINGS & TROWSERINGS,

AND THE LARGEST AND CHEAPEST STOCK OF

Canadian Tweeds in Napanee.

WE INVITE A COMPARISON OF OUR GOODS WITH ANY OTHERS IN TOWN

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF

PARLOUR and BEDROOM

FURNITURE,

—AT—

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY!!

General Agent for the Dominion of Ganada.

MERITS OF THE BLAKE PIANOE-FORTE

Its Great Durability

In Workmanship it Cannot be Surpassed, if Equaled.

In Power, Solidity, Purity and Equality of Tone.

It has no Compete,

As a Safe Investment, it is the Best.

It is Warranted in the most Satisfactory Manner.

Every Improvement that has been recognized by people of cultivated taste,

to be of real benefit and utility, has been adopted by the Manufacturers of these pianos, and the grand result is, that for power, sweetness, brilliancy and

singing quality of tone, even throughout the entire scale, delicacy and elasticity

Canadian Tweeds in Napanee.
WE INVITE A COMPARISON OF OUR GOODS WITH ANY OTHERS IN TOWN
SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

GIBBARD & SON,
ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF
PARLOUR AND BEDROOM
FURNITURE,
—AT—
GREATLY EDUCED PRICES.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY!!

WILL UNDERSELL
Any Other House in this part of the Province

FUNERAL FURNISHINGS
ALWAYS IN STOCK.
CALL AND EXAMINE.
J. GIBBARD & SON.

MONEY TO LOAN
We have received instructions from England, to Lend a large amount of Money,
AT LOWER RATES THAN HAS YET BEEN OFFERED.
CALL IN AND EXAMINE RATES.
NO COMMISSION CHARGED.
WILLIAMS & HOOPER.

BOYS AND GIRLS FARMERS
WANTED.

10,000 OR MORE
LITTLE CHRISTIAN BOYS & GIRLS,
TO WORK FOR JESUS,
In helping to circulate Little Books, Tracts, &c.

WE will send FREE, complete Catalogue of Books, &c., on hand to any address, and for Each Order received, to the amount of ONE DOLLAR, we will send the LITTLE BOY OR GIRL (sending the order) Books to the value of FIFTEEN CENTS on each dollar. Address.
WILLARD TRUST DEPOSITORY,
Shaftesbury Hall Toronto.

On the 1st of July, 1877, we will send to the six Boys or Girls sending the Largest number of orders up to that date, one nice Pocket Bible, each.

—OF—
LENNOX & ADDINGTON,
—WE—

Diamond & Sherwood,
Being alive to your interests as well as our own, wish to say to you we now have on hand all kinds of

SEED GRAINS.
Wheat, Best "fyf," especially imported from the west,
Barley, Canadian No 1 Prize Centennial Medal,
Peas, Buckwheat, Rye,

It has no Compete,

As a Safe Investment, it is the Best.

It is Warranted in the most Satisfactory Manner.

Every Improvement that has been recognized by people of cultivated taste,

o be of real benefit and utility, has been adopted by the Manufacturers of hese pianos, and the grand result is, that for power, sweetness, brilliancy and singing quality of tone, even throughout the entire scale, delicacy and elasticity

of touch, strength durability and beauty of finish, these Instruments stand un-

ivalled,

MOST SATISFACTORY TERMS OF PAYME

EVERY PIANO WARRANTED FOR 7 YEARS.

AGENTS WANTED.

Illustrated Catalogues sent on application.

JOHN N. LAZIER, Belleville,

Any Other House in this part of the Province

FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

ALWAYS IN STOCK.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

J. GIBBARD & SON.

MONEY TO LOAN

We have received instructions from England, to Lend a large amount of Money,

AT LOWER RATES THAN HAS YET BEEN OFFERED.

CALL IN AND EXAMINE RATES.

NO COMMISSION CHARGED.

WILLIAMS & HOOPER.

BOYS AND GIRLS FARMERS

WANTED.

10,000 OR MORE

LITTLE CHRISTIAN BOYS & GIRLS,
TO WORK FOR JESUS.

In helping to circulate Little Books, Tracts, &c.

WE will send FREE, complete Catalogue of Books, &c., on hand, to any address, and for Each Order received, to the amount of ONE DOLLAR, we will send the LITTLE BOY OR GIRL (sending the order) Books to the value of FIFTEEN CENTS on each dollar. Address.

WILLARD TR CT DEPOSITORY,
Shaftesbury Hall Toronto.

On the 1st of July, 1877, we will send to the six Boys or Girls sending the Largest number of orders up to that date, one nice Pocket Bible, each.

For the information of Christian generally, it may be briefly stated that this Institution, now in full operation, owes its origin to the liberality of a Christian gentleman, a resident of Toronto, who has invested a portion of his means in the enterprise, as a free-will offering to the Lord, with the view of scattering broadcast over our land, Tracts, Books, &c., which unfold the exalted privileges of the believers, and treat of the "LIFE OF FAITH" or Trust, and of the power and peace of HOLINESS, and Gospel and Evangelical Literature.

Special notice is called to the fact that this

No Denominational Institution.

It is neither connected with, nor under the patronage of any particular church. All the Publications it issues will be strictly evangelical, and will meet the wants of all Christians. Largely the Books, &c., &c., will be those published by the Willard Tract Repository of Boston, under the care of the well known DR. CULLIS.

ALL PROFITS that may be made will be devoted to the establishment of a fund for gratuitous distribution of the Tracts and Books to persons and places where they are needed, as may be directed by the Committee. We beg also to say that this Fund for free distribution is open for donations to all who may desire to help in this work of God.

We ask all who may desire to promote the higher spiritual life of the churches and to help in winning souls for Christ, to co-operate with us by circulating sound religious literature throughout the land.

References for further information may be made to the following brethren (and others, who may be added, who will act as a Committee for selection and distribution.

Rev. JOHN POTTS, Methodist.
" R. WALLACE, Presbyterian.
" T. CUTTER, Primitive Methodist.
" J. A. R. DICKSON, Congregationalist.
" J. DOUGLAS, Presbyterian, Cobourg.
" R. CAMERON, Baptist, Brantford.
Mr. G. HAGUE, Congregationalist.
" R. W. LAIRD, Baptist.
" W. T. MASON, Methodist.
" COL. BURNHAM, Christian.
" W. A. PALLAN, Episcopal.
" T. J. WILKIE, Congregationalist.
S. R. BRIGGS, Manager, Toronto.
A. BURSON, Manager, Manchester, England.
W. H. VAN TASSEL, General Agent, Toronto.

P. S.—Nearly all of D. L. MOODY'S sermons, and many other precious little gems in book form at only 2c. and 3c. each.

—OF—

LENNOX & ADDINGTON,

—WE—

Diamond & Sherwood,

Being alive to your interests as well as our own, wish to say to you we now have on hand all kinds of

SEED GRAINS.

Wheat, Best "fyfe" especially imported from the west,
Barley, Canadian No 1 Prize Centennial Medal,
Peas, Buckwheat, Rye,
Oats and Corn.

We also have on hand a quantity of No 1 Western Corn, and with the facilities for manufacturing which we possess, we can in a few minutes please the most fastidious, as to manner they wish it ground.

BRAN AND SHORTS.

We also present to your notice our
FLOUR,
OAT MEAL,
CRACKED WHEAT,
CORN MEAL,
GRAHAM FLOUR,
CRACKED CORN.

Each and every article of which stands unrivalled, and in which we intend to maintain our reputation both as to quality and price.

We ask for our goods a fair trial only, leaving it to our customers to answer any misrepresentation by our detractors, as we are assured no adverse judgement will be pressed by a jury composed of the general community who have once patronized us. To them we leave our case.

—ALSO—

MESS PORK,
BACON,
LARD,
TIMOTHY AND
CLOVER SEEDS.

DIAMOND & SHERWOOD,

49-41n.

IL, 13 1877.

IMENSE STOCK !! HARDWARE CHEAP

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE,

ARE NOW SHOWING AN IMMENSE STOCK OF
NEW SPRING GOODS,

COMPRISING A GENERAL ASSORTMENT OF

APLE & FANCY DRY GOODS.

are Selling New Fresh Good Cheaper than other Houses are Selling their Old ones.

M R . H O G A N .

OWING A MAGNIFICENT ASSORTMENT OF GOODS IN HIS PARTMENT FOR GENTLEMANS WEAR, CONSISTING OF

WORSTED COATINGS,

NEW FRENCH COATINGS,

VESTINGS & TROWSERINGS,

AND THE LARGEST AND CHEAPEST STOCK OF

Canadian Tweeds in Napanee.

VITE A COMPARISON OF OUR GOODS WITH ANY OTHERS IN TOWN

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF

PARLOUR and BEDROOM
FURNITURE,

—AT—

GREATLY EDUCED PRICES.

W IS THE TIME TO BUY !!

AT THE SIGN OF THE

GOLDEN AUGER,

RALPH PURDY.

Napanee, April 6th, 1877.

50

MORE NEW GOODS.

Every Department is now Complete

AND WE INVITE

INSPECTIN OF OUR STOCK AND PRICES.

CUTLERY,

SIVER-PLATED WARE,

SHELF HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION

CARRIAGE HARDWARE,

BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS AND STOCK,

CARPENTER'S AND JOINER'S TOOLS,

BUILDER'S HARDWARE,

CABINETMAKER'S SUPPLIES,

SAW MILL SUPPLIES,

CHEESE FACTORY APPARATUS AND SUPPLIES

PLOUGHS AND PLOUGH CASTING,

WOODENWARE, TINWARE, HOUSE FURNISHINGS

PAINTS, OILS AND VARNISH,

GLASS AND PUTTY.

STEAM AND GAS FITTING, ETC., ETC

All of the above goods will be sold at Rock-Bottom Prices.
Call and See.

WRIGHT & CO.

No-48.

The Largest, Best Equipped, Most Thorough

AND

Practical Business School in Canada.

HAVING increased our faculties, we now offer better advantages than ever before. The Business Course is under the supervision of

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

Call and See.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF

FLOUR and BEDROOM FURNITURE,

—AT—

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

IT IS THE TIME TO BUY!!

WILL UNDERSELL

Other House in this part of the Province

GENERAL FURNISHINGS
ALWAYS IN STOCK.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

J. GIBBARD & SON.

MONEY TO LOAN

We received instructions from England, to lend a large amount of Money;

LOWER RATES THAN HAS YET BEEN OFFERED.

CALL IN AND EXAMINE RATES.

NO COMMISSION CHARGED.

WILLIAMS & HOOPER.

WANTED. S AND GIRLS FARMERS

2,000 OR MORE
CHRISTIAN BOYS & GIRLS, WORK FOR JESUS,

to circulate Little Books, Tracts, &c.

send FREE, complete Catalogue of s, &c., on hand to any address, and order received, to the amount of ONE will send the LITTLE BOOK OR GIRLS order Books to the value of FIVE s on each dollar. Address.
LLARD TRUST DEPOSITORY, Shatteshbury Hall Toronto.

1st of July, 1877, we will send to the Girls sending the Largest number of o that date, one nice Pocket Bible, information of Christian generally,

briefly stated that this Institution, operation, owes its origin to the
of a Christian gentleman, a resident of to has invested a portion of his means prise, as a free-will offering to the the view of scattering broadcast over TRACTS, BOOKS, &c., &c., which unfold

LENNOX & ADDINGTON,

Diamond & Sherwood,

Being alive to your interests as well as our own, wish to say to you we now have
on hand all kinds of

SEED GRAINS.

Wheat, Best "fife" especially imported
from the west,
Barley, Canadian No 1 Prize Centennial Medal,
Peas, Buckwheat, Rye,
Oats and Corn.

We also have on hand a quantity of
No 1 Western Corn, and with the facilities for manufacturing which we possess,
we can in a few minutes please the most

WRIGHT & CO.

No. 48.

The Largest, Best Equipped, Most Thorough

AND

Practical Business School in Canada.

HAVING increased our faculties, we now offer better advantages than ever before. The Business Course is under the supervision of

S. G. BEATTY, Principal Actual Business Department.
W. B. ROBINSON, Principal Practical Department.
G. A. SWAYZE, Principal Theoretical Department.

IT IS SHORT, PRACTICAL AND USEFUL.

Able and Practical Instructors in the other Departments.

The whole time and attention of Students are devoted to just such subjects as every Farmer, Mechanic, Merchant, and Professional man requires in transacting every day business.

When desired by parents, boys will be placed in a boarding house under the supervision of a teacher, who will assist them in their evening studies, and see that they keep proper hours.

Specimens of Penmanship and circular containing full information respectin
Terms, Nature of Course, etc., sent free of charge.

Address, S. G. BEATTY & Co.,
BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO.

SAVE YOUR MONEY!

Times are hard and you can avoid buying new clothes if you will get those you have dyed
and scoured so as to

LOOK AS GOOD AS NEW.

at a trifling expense. Remember that at

Montgomery's Steam Dye Works,

Opposite Madden's Tanney, near the River, all kinds of goods are cleaned and dyed on the shortest notice, and at the cheapest rates.

GENTLEMEN'S CLOTHING, MOURNING GOODS KID GLOVES,
PLUMES, &c.

CLEANED AND DYED.

Call and give Montgomery a trial and be satisfied.

Dr. William Gray's Specific Medicine.

The Great
English Remedy is especially recommended as an unfailing cure for Seminal Weakness, Spermatorrhea, Impe-tency, and all diseases that

Before Taking After Taking.
follow as a sequence of Self Abuse, as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave, all of which as a rule are first caused by deviating from the path of nature and over-indulgence.
The Specific Medicine is the result of a life
study and many years of experience in treating these special diseases. Pamphlet free by mail.
The Specific Medicine is sold by all Druggists
at 25¢ per package, or six packages for $3, or will be sent by mail on receipt of the money by addressing.

WESTERN

ASSURANCE COMPANY

Incorporated 1851.

CAPITAL, $800,000.

With power to increase to $1,000,000.

FIRE AND MARINE.

HEAD OFFICE: Toronto, Ont.

President.

Able and Practical Instructors in the other Departments.

GENERAL FURNISHINGS

ALWAYS IN STOCK.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

J. GIBBARD & SON.

MONEY TO LOAN

Have received instructions from England, to Lend a large amount of Money,

LOWER RATES THAN HAS YET BEEN OFFERED.

CALL IN AND EXAMINE RATES.

NO COMMISSION CHARGED.

WILLIAMS & HOOPER.

BOYS AND GIRLS FARMERS WANTED.

10,000 OR MORE

LE CHRISTIAN BOYS & GIRLS, TO WORK FOR JESUS.

ing to circulate Little Books, Tracts, &c.

will send FREE, complete Catalogue of books, &c., on hand to any address, and on Order received, to the amount of ONE n, we will send the LITTLE BOOK OR GIVE the order Books to the value of FIFTY cents on each dollar. Address.

WILLARD TRCT DEPOSITORY, Shattsbury Hall Toronto.

On the 1st of July, 1877, we will send to the ys or Girls sending the Largest number of up to that date, one nice Pocket Bible, the information of Christian generally, be briefly stated that this Institution, full operation, owes its origin to the ity of a Christian gentleman, a resident of o, who has invested a portion of his means enterprise, as a free will offering to the with the view of scattering broadcast over id, Tracts, Books, &c., &c., which unfold alled privileges of the believers, and treat "LIFE OF FAITH" or Trust, and of the and peace of HOLINESS, and Gospel and elical Literature.

sal notice is called to the fact that this is Denominational Institution.

neither connected with, nor under the age of any particular church. All the ations it issues will be strictly evangelical. It meet the wants of all Christians. Large Books, &c., &c., will be those published Willard Tract Repository of Boston, under care of the well known Dr. CULLIS.

PROFITS that may be made will be d to the establishment of a fund for the distribution of the Tracts and Books, to s and places where they are needed as s directed by the Committee. We beg also that this Fund for free distribution in for donations to all who may de o help in this work of God.

sk all who may desire to promote the spiritual life of the churches and to help ing souls for Christ, to co-operate with circulating sound religious literature bout the land names for further information may be o the following brethren (and others who s added), who will act as a Committee for and distribution.

JOHN POTTS, Methodist.
WALLACE, Presbyterian.
GUTTERY, Primitive Methodist.
A. R. DICKSON, Congregationalist.
DOUGLAS, Presbyterian, Cobourg.
CAMERON, Baptist, Brantford.
HAGUE, Congregationalist.
W. LAIRD, Baptist.
T. MASON, Methodist.
M. WILSON, Christian.
A. PARLANE, Episcopal.
J. WILKIE, Congregationalist.
S. R. BRIGGS, Manager, Toronto.
A. BURSON, Manager, Manchester, England.
W. H. VAN TASSEL, General Agent, Toronto.

Nearly all of D. L. MOODY'S sermons, ny other precious little gems in book form 2c, and 3c. each.

42-11.

Diamond & Sherwood,

Being alive to your interests as well as our own, wish to say to you we now have on hand all kinds of

SEED GRAINS.

Wheat, Best "fife" especially imported from the west,
Barley, Canadian No 1 Prize Centennial Medal,
Peas, Buckwheat, Rye,
Oats and Corn.

We also have on hand a quantity of No 1 Western Corn, and with the facilities for manufacturing which we possess, we can in a few minutes please the most fastidious, as to manner they wish it ground.

BRAN AND SHORTS.

We also present to your notice our

FLOUR,
OAT MEAL,
CRACKED WHEAT,
CORN MEAL,
GRAHAM FLOUR,
CRACKED CORN.

Each and every article of which stands unrivalled, and in which we intend to maintain our reputation both as to quality and price.

We ask for our goods a fair trial only, leaving it to our customers to answer any misrepresentation by our detractors, as we are assured no adverse judgement will be pressed by a jury composed of the general community who have once patronized us. To them we leave our case.

— ALSO —

MESS PORK,
BACON,
LARD,
TIMOTHY AND
CLOVER SEEDS.

DIAMOND & SHERWOOD,

49-4in.

SAVE YOUR MONEY!

Times are hard and you can avoid buying new clothes if you will get those you have dyed and scoured so as to

LOOK AS GOOD AS NEW.

at a trifling expense. Remember that at

Montgomery's Steam Dye Works,

Opposite Madden's Tanney, near the River, all kinds of goods are cleaned and dyed on the shortest notice, and at the cheapest rates.

GENTLEMEN'S CLOTHING, MOURNING GOODS KID GLOVES, PLUMES, &c.

CLEANED AND DYED.

Call and give Montgomery a trial and be satisfied.

Dr. William Gray's Specific Medicine.

Before Taking. After Taking.

follow as a sequent of Self Abuse, as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave, all of which as a rule are first caused by deviating from the path of nature and over indulgence.

The Specific Medicine is the result of a life study and many years of experience in treating these special diseases. Pamphlet free by mail. The Specific Medicine is sold by all Druggists at $1 per package, or six packages for $5, or will be sent by mail on receipt of the money by addressing.

WILLIAM GRAY & Co., Windsor, Ont.

GOOD ADVERTISING!

$3250.10 worth of space in various newspapers distributed through thirty states, will be sold for $700 cash. Accurate insertions guaranteed. A list of papers giving daily and weekly circulation and printed schedule of rates, sent free on application to GEO. P. HOWELL & Co., Newspaper Advertising Agents, No. 41 Park Row, New York.

THE GREAT FEMALE REMEDY.

JOB MOSES' PERIODICAL PILLS.

This well known medicine is no imposition, but a sure and safe remedy for Female Difficulties and Obstructions, from any cause whatever, and although a powerful remedy, it contains nothing hurtful to the constitution.

Te MARRIED LADIES it is peculiarly suited. It will, in a short time bring on the monthly period with regularity.

In all cases of Nerves and spinal Affections, pain in the Back and Limbs, Headaches, Fatigue on slight exertion, Palpitation of the Heart, Lowness of Spirits, Hysteria, Sick Headaches, Whites, and all the painful diseases occasioned by a disordered system, these Pills will effect a cure, when all other means have failed. These Pills have never been known to fail where the directions on the 2nd page of pamphlet are well observed.

For further particulars, get a pamphlet, from the agent.

JOB MOSES, NEW YORK, SOLE PROPRIETOR.

$1.00 and 12 cents for postage, enclosed to Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., general agents for the Dominion, will insure a bottle containing over 50 pills, by return mail.

Sold in Napanee by all Druggists. Mail Point by W. G. Egar, Tamworth Aylsworth & Huff man, and all medicine dealers.

WESTERN ASSURANCE COMPANY

Incorporated 1851.

CAPITAL, $800,000.

With power to increase to $1,000,000.

FIRE AND MARINE.

HEAD OFFICE: Toronto, Ont.

President.

HON. JOHN MC MURRICH.

Vice-President.

CHARLES MAGRATH

Directors.

JAS. MICHIE, Esq. NOAM BARNHART, Esq.
JOHN FISKE, Esq. ROBT. BEATTY, Esq.
A. M. SMITH, Esq. WM. GOODERHAM, Esq.

BARNARD H. ALDAN, Managing Director
FREDK G. C. LOVELACE, Secretary.
WM. BLIGHT, Fire Inspector.
JAMES PRINGLE, General Agent.
Marine Inspector.

Insurances effected at the lowest current rates on Buildings, Merchandise, and other property, against loss or damage by fire.

On all Cargo, and Freight against the perils of Inland Navigation.

On Cargo Risks with the Maritime Provinces, by sail or steam.

On Cargoes by Steamers to British Ports.

W. V. DETLOW.

Agent for Napanee.

NEW TAILORING ESTABLISHMENT.

MAX FOX

Begs leave to inform the gentlemen of Napanee and vicinity, that he has opened a shop over

SWEENEY BROS.,

where he is prepared to cut and make-up

GENTLEMEN'S CLOTHING in the Latest Style, as Cheap as the Cheapest and as Good as the Best.

THE "Napanee Express,"

A Reform Political and Family Newspaper,

IS PUBLISHED
EVERY FRIDAY MORNING, AT THE OFFICE,

Warner's Block, East Street, Napanee, a few
doors north of Soby House Corner.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.
$1.00 per annum in advance, free of postage, or
$1.50 if not so paid.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.
Column for one year, $80.00
Column for six months, 45.00
Column for three months, 24.00
Half a column for one year, 40.00
Half a column for six months, 24.00
Half a column for three months, 15.00
Quarter of a column for one year, 20.00
Quarter of a column for six months, 15.00
Quarter of a column for three months, 10.00
Notices under ten lines, three times, 1.00
Over ten lines, first insertion, per line, 10
Each subsequent insertion, per line, 03
Business Cards under ten lines per year, 4.00

Displayed Advertisements are measured by a scale of solid Nonpareil, and charged accordingly.
Advertisements sent without written instructions
inserted until forbidden, and charged for full time.

Orders for discontinuing advertisements must be in writing, otherwise the publisher will not be responsible.

A liberal discount for contract advertisements
by the year.

Business notices in local columns, first insertion
ten cents per line of Nonpareil; five cents per line each subsequent insertion. Five cents
per line per annum.

To Subscribers.—No paper will be stopped until all arrears are paid, except in the option of the proprietor. A post office notice to discontinue is not sufficient.

Yearly and half yearly Contracts are
payable every THREE MONTHS.

Correspondence solicited from all parts of the county or neighboring townships. Correspondents are requested to send in their communications as promptly as possible.

JOB PRINTING
In every style and of every description, executed
with neatness and despatch at reasonable rates.
J. B. BENSON,
Publisher and Proprietor.

Business Cards.

Alex. C. Davis,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Napanee
Ontario

James Aylsworth,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Tam-
worth.

S. D. Clarke,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Odessa,
Ontario.

J. J. Watson,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates, Adolphustown.

Peter E. R. Miller,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Switzer-
ville Ont.

Robert Graham,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses. Office
in the Dominion Store, Enterprise.

J. B. Allison,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Parma P. O., South
Fredericksburg.

Charles Lane,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Office—Front of Grammar
School, Bridge Street, Napanee.

A. B. Randall,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Also Agent for the Beaver and
Toronto Fire Insurance Company and the
Mutual Life Association of Canada. Residence—Shanmerville, Ont.

Murphy & Bedford,

BARRISTERS &c., MILL POINT.
Money to lend on improved Real Estate.

H. M. Deroche,

Attorney-at-Law, So-

Napanee

J. B. BENSON, Publisher.)

VOL. 15.

"THE GREATEST"

NAPANEE, ONT.

NAPANEE TICKET AGENCY.

Grand Trunk Railway Tickets for sale at Grange & Bro's Drug Store,
For all stations east and west. American money taken at par, from Napanee to Milwaukee, Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha, San Francisco &c., to all Lake Ports. Passengers purchasing tickets from the undersigned avoid
the double and delay of exchanging tickets and re-checking baggage to Toronto. Cheapest route to the west. Return tickets to Kingston, Belleville, Toronto, Montreal, Portland
&c. For further particulars apply at GRANGE
& BROS. Exchange Office, Passenger agent
G. T. R. Uncurrent money ought and sold

Imperial Life Insurance Co.

OFFICE LONDON (ESTABLISHED 1803,) Capital and Reserved
Fund
£1,939,000 - - - Stirling.
Funds invested in Canada.—$105,000
RINTOUL BROS., General Agents.
24 St. Sacrament St. Montreal.
H. L. GEDDES, Agent,
Napanee and vicinity.

THE PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY

MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE CO.

HEAD OFFICE—PICTON, ONT.
(Established 30th Sept., 1854).

PRESIDENT—LEWIS B. STINSON
VICE-PRESIDENT—W. BOULTER.
MANAGER—L. B. STINSON.
SECRETARY—JOHN TWIGG.
TREASURER—PHILIP LOW, Q. C.
INS. OF LOSSES & A's.—J. HOWELL,
Solicitor—W. H. R. ALLISON
DIRECTORS.—JAS. JOHNSTON, WM.
DELONG, JOHN PRINYER,
S. B. HUBBS, J. VANALSTINE.
HONORARY DIRECTORS.—G. Striker, Esq., Mil-
ford; K. Graham, Esq., Belleville; P.
Allan, C. A. Lloyd, J. P. Dorland, Esqs., Adolphustown; J. C. Huffman, Esq., J. T.
Grange, Esq., M. P. P., Napanee; J. E.
Proctor, Esq., Brighton; G. W. Webb,
Esq., Colborne; G. Jones, Esq., Trenton;
J. Redner, Esq., Rednersville; Owen
Roblin, Esq., Ameliasburg; H. A.
McFaul, Esq., Hallowell.

This Company is established upon strictly
Mutual principles, insuring farm property
Townships, and property not more hazardous in Towns and Villages and offers great advantages to insure at low rates for Three or Four Years either on the Premium
Note or Cash System.

March 9th, 1875. 521-y.

CATARRH!

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Cat-
arrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs,
and Droppings in Throat Disappear.

SE. MAY 12, 1875, 12, 1876

DEAR SIR.—Being desirous that others may know the result of the treatment of your excellent Catarrh Remedy, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about
five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines,
without receiving any permanent benefit, but
continued rather to grow worse, until last fall,
when I had become so bad as to be unable to do a hour's work at a time. Had severe sore-

BRISCO HOUSE, NAPANEE, ONT.

JOHN SOBY, - - Proprietor.

A First-Class Hotel

in all its Appointments.
Omnibus meet all Trains and Steamers.

PAISLEY HOUSE.

(John St. opposite the Market.)

NAPANEE, ONT.

A First Class Hotel centrally located, with excellent yard and stabling accommodations.

CHAS. PAISLEY,

PROPRIETOR

CAMPBELL HOUSE,

NAPANEE, Ont.

THE PRINCIPAL HOTEL

IN TOWN.

Good Stabling & Attentive Ostler.
CHARGES AS USUAL.

MARSDEN & MOORE,

PROPRIETORS.

TICHBORNE HOUSE,

(Corner Dundas & John Streets.)

NAPANEE.

ROBERT McDONALD,
Proprietor.

A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL.

CHARGES MODERATE.

QUEEN'S HOTEL,

BELLEVILLE

Every Accommodation for Commercial
Travellers.

A. P. FARRELL,

PROPRIETOR.

McDONALD HOUSE,

(Late Clark House)

BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.

Bus to and from the cars. 30-y.

Land for Sale

30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for
the sale of Splendid Improved Farms and
Wild Timber Lands to the extent of 30,000 acres;
also of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low
prices and easy terms.

Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets
Napanee.

JAMES F. BARTLES.

Napanee, Sept. 12th 1876.

FOR CHEAP

GROCERIES,

CROCKERY &

GLASSWARE

SPRING IS COMING

BY F. W. BOURDILLON.

Spring is coming; o'er the meadow
Lightly are her footsteps laid,
Through their foliage in dew shadow,
On the flowers in sunny glade.

East winds cease and north winds die
Gossamer of silken sheen Weaves the robes of whereby we see
Else she is not to be seen.

Yea who with a pure heart gazes
Through her robes that wind and w
Sees her lips in rose-tipped daisies,
Sees her eyes in stars of eve.

Men catch glimpses few and fower,
Her sweet look of happiness;
But the holy flowers view her,
And the birds that know not sin.

Hence the calm-eyed primrose wears
Her sweet look of happiness;
Hence the violet perfume beareth;
Daffodils their dazzling dress.

Hence the blackbird sings sweet vesp,
And the lark loud hymns of praise,
And the very winds have whispers
That to Heaven the heart can raise.

A CURATE'S HOLID.

A SHORT STORY OF THRILLING IN

It was not long past noon alighted before the door of the S Anchor at Lleydrudrig. But in entering that inn, I waited mere Jonathan had driven the dog-ca stable yard round the corner, a walked away at a quick pace tow beach. Arrived there, I col number of fishermen whom, in dance with my anticipations, loitering about the sands, and to my story. I did so in as clear cinct a manner as possible. com with an account of Mr. John v suspicious conduct, and procee regular order to its termination narrative, however, was frequen interrupted by excited exclamation the sturdy Welshmen, and its considerably delayed by the neces interpretation to those among who did not understand Englis the time it was finished quite crowd had gathered around m when finally I made an appeal fiance in rescuing Mr. Morgan I dangerous situation, a dozen st lows volunteered to accompany the spot. Thinking th in with critical cordiality, I enquired, all some doubt, whether conveyance large party could be obtained village. Cautiously, a ch voices assured me in reply that t and speediest method of return Spoke Rocks would be by sea—on sailors adding with agreeable int that with wind and tide both in o as they were at present, we mig to reach them in little over an ho

The suggestion meeting, as scarcely say with my delighted ap friendly contention ensued as to the fishing snacks offered by thei tive owners for the purpose shou the honor of making the little But hastened by my impatient on the question was quickly and a settled, and the anchor of the vessel having been weighed, I ca along with my rough but kindly companions. As might be expect accompanied during the short and

by the year.
Business notices in local columns, first insertion ten cents per line of Nonpareil; five cents per line each subsequent insertion. Five cents per line per annum.
To Subscribers.—No paper will be stopped until all arrears are paid, except at the option of the proprietor. A post office notice to discontinue is not sufficient.
Yearly and half yearly Contracts are payable every THREE MONTHS.
Correspondence solicited from all parts of the county or neighboring townships. Correspondents are requested to send in their communications as promptly as possible.

JOB PRINTING
In every style and of every description, executed with neatness and despatch at reasonable rates.
J. B. BENSON,
Publisher and Proprietor.

Business Cards.

Alex. C. Davis,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Napanee (Ontario)

James Aylsworth,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Tamworth.

S. D. Clarke,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Odessa, Ontario.

J. J. Watson,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates, Adolphustown.

Peter E. R. Miller,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Switzer-ville Ont.

Robert Graham,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses. Office in the Dominion Store, Enterprise.

J. B. Allison,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Parma P. O., South Fredericksburg.

Charles Lane,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Office—Front of Grammar School, Bridge Street, Napanee.

A. B. Randall,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Also Agent for the Beaver and Toronto Fire Insurance Company and the Mutual Life Association of Canada. Residence—Shanmerville, Ont.

Murphy & Bedford,
BARRISTERS, &c., MILL POINT.
Money to lend on improved Real Estate.

H. M. Deroche,
BARRISTER and Attorney-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Conveyancer, Notary Public, etc. Office—In Grange Block, John Street, Napanee, Ont.

E. B. Stone,
Attorney-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Conveyancer, &c. OFFICE—Over T. McIlroy's Dry Goods Store. Money to Lend at 5 per cent.

Cartwright & Gibson,
BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery and Insolvency, Notaries Public, etc. Office—Grange Block John Street, Napanee.
J. S. CARTWRIGHT S. GIBSON.

R. Tracy, M. D.,
BELLEVILLE.
PHYSICIAN, Surgeon and Accoucheur. Office and Residence, two doors east on the Bank of Montreal, near the Congregational Church, Hotel St.

Reeve & Morden,
BARRISTERS and Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, etc. Office—Perry's New Block Dundas Street, Napanee, Ontario.
W. A. REEVE, M. A., L. MORDEN.
C. Brown Attorney.

E. A. Deroche,
OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE under New Act of 1875.
Office in H. M. Deroche's Law Office.

G. T. R. Uncurrent money bought and sold
Imperial Life Insurance Co.
OFFICE LONDON (ESTABLISHED 1803,) Capital and Reserved Fund
£1,939,000 - - - - - Sterling.
Funds invested in Canada.—$105,000
RINTOUL BROS., General Agents.
24 St. Sacrament St. Montreal.
H. L. GEDES, Agent,
Napanee and vicinity.

THE PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY
MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE CO.
HEAD OFFICE—PICTON, ONT.
(Established 30th Sept., 1854).

PRESIDENT—LEWIS B. STINSON
VICE-PRESIDENT—W. BOULTER.
MANAGER—L. B. STINSON.
SECRETARY—JOHN TWIGG.
TREASURER—PHILIP LOW, Q. C.
INS. OF LOSSES & A's.—J. HOWELL.
SOLICITOR—W. H. R. ALLISON
DIRECTORS.—JAS. JOHNSTON, W. M. DELONG, JOHN PRINCEYER, S. B. HUBBS, J. VANALSTINE.
HONORARY DIRECTORS.—G. Striker, Esq. M. P. P., Picton; R. Clapp, Esq., Milford; K. Graham, Esq., Belleville; P. Allan, C. A. Lloyd, J. P. Dorland, Esqs., Adolphustown; J. C. Huffman, Esq., J. T. Grange, Esq., M. P. P., Napanee; J. E. Proctor, Esq., Brighton; G. W. Webb, Esq., Colborne; G. Jones, Esq., Trenton; J. Redner, Esq., Rednersville; Owen Roblin, Esq., Ameliasburg; H. A. McFaul, Esq., Hillier.
This Company is established upon strictly Mutual principles, insuring farm property Townships, and property not more hazardous in Towns and Villages and offers great advantages to insure at low rates for Three or Four Years either, on the Premium Note or Cash System.
March 9th, 1875. 521-y.

CATARRH!
Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs, and Droppings in Throat Disappear.
ST. MARY'S, P. O. 12, 1376.
MR. T. J. B. HARDING,
DEAR SIR—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old, and have been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do any hard work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades, and through the shoulders, with very lame back, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual droppings in the throat and down upon the face, such was my condition when I commenced taking your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to do my hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.
Yours truly HENRY NIDER.
Price 25¢ per bottle; For sale by all Druggists

Consumption Cured!
An old physician, retired from active practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a Vegetable Remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat and Lung Affections: also a Positive and Radical Cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send FREE OF CHARGE, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail, by addressing with stamp, naming this paper.
DR. W. C. STEVENS,
Box 86, Brockville, Ont.

(John St. opposite the Market.)
NAPANEE, ONT.
A First Class Hotel centrally located, with excellent yard and stabling accommodations.
CHAS. PAISLEY,
PROPRIETOR.
CAMPBELL HOUSE,
NAPANEE, Ont.

THE PRINCIPAL HOTEL
IN TOWN.
Good Stabling & Attentive Ostrich CHARGES AS USUAL.
MARSDEN & MOORE,
PROPRIETORS.

TICHBORNE HOUSE,
(Corner Dundas & John Streets.)
NAPANEE.
ROBERT McDONALD,
Proprietor.

A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL.
CHARGES MODERATE.
QUEEN'S HOTEL,
BELLEVILLE
Every Accommodation for Commercial Travellers.
A. P. FARRELL,
35. PROPRIETOR.

McDONALD HOUSE,
(Late Clark House)
BRIGHTON, ONT.
Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.
Buss to and from the cars. 30-y.

Land for Sale
30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and Wild Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres; also of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low prices and easy terms.
Office corner of Dundas and West Streets Napanee.
JAMES F. BARTLES.
Napanee, Sept. 12th 1876.

FOR CHEAP
GROCERIES,
CROCKERY & GLASSWARE
GO TO,
GEORGE REID'S
NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE.

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.
A. PETERS, ODESSA,
DEALER IN
Sash, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese Boxes, Tubs, Firkins, etc.
I am now making a very superior article in a sawed cheese box, which I will sell at 12¢. All orders entrusted to me will receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS.,
LIVERY AND SALE STABLES
(ADJOINING THE BRISCO HOUSE.)
NAPANEE ONT

Sees her eyes in stars of eve.
Men catch glimpses few and fewer,
Through their toil and strife and din
But the holy flowers view her.
And the birds that know not sin.
Hence the calm-eyed primrose weareth
Her sweet look of happiness;
Hence the violet perfume beareth;
Daffodils their dazzling dress.
Hence the blackbird sings sweet, yespe
And the lark loud hymns of praise,
And the very winds have whispers
That to Heaven the heart can raise.

A CURATE'S HOLIDAY

A SHORT STORY OF THRILLING INTEREST.
It was not long past noon v alighted before the door of the St. Anchor at Lleydrudrig. But ins entering that inn, I waited mere Jonathan had driven the dog-car stable yard round the corner, as walked away at a quick pace towa beach. Arrived there, I coll number of fishermen whom, in dance with my anticipations, loitering about the sands, and tol my story. I did so in as clear a cinct a manner as possible, comm with an account of Mr. John W suspicious conduct, and proceed regular order to its termination. narrative, however, was frequen interrupted by excited exclamatio: the sturdy Welshmen, and its p considerably delayed by the neces interpretation to those amongst who did not understand English the time it was finished quite a crowd had gathered around m when finally I made an appeal fo tance in rescuing Mr. Morgan fr dangerous situation, a dozen sto lows volunteered to accompany the spot. Thanking them with m critical cordiality, I enquired, al some doubt, whether conveyance large party could be obtained village. Unhesitatingly, a cho voices assured me in reply that th and speediest method of returning Spike Rocks would be by sea—one sailors adding with agreeable int that with wind and tide both in ot as they were at present, we migh to reach them in little over an hou
The suggestion meeting, as I scarcely say with my delighted ap friendly contention ensued as to w the fishing-smacks offered by thei tive owners for the purpose shoul the honor of making the little v But hastened by my impatient en the question was quickly and ar settled, and the anchor of the s vessel having been weighed, I em along with my rough but kindly companions. As might be expect conversation during the short rail exclusively on the one theme, an and ever again I was called upo peat to those of the fishermen raged in working the vessel, port the tale I had already related information was not all on one sid for my part I learned from my se associates one or two very sig facts—the chief amongst them bei the owners of Spike Rock farm: Ship and Anchor inn were brothe that two other gentlemen who ha ted the Spike Rocks, after staying hotel at Lleydrudrig, had also mys disappeared from that neighb With light thrown upon the mat the former of these facts, I now stood how it was that the former sign my had impressed me as f —the resemblance between the b though not very striking, being p ficient to account for it—and by th I was, if possible, more thorough yined than ever of the diabolical ditation with which the intended had been committed.
The sailor who had made it pr be not far wrong in his calculation the length of time it would take t our destination. Exactly one hor quarter after quitting Lleydrud landed, with some difficulty, a lit upon the bird-haunted crags, o once started, almost at a run, f farther of the two "Devils Hole seamen by my direction, carryin

Cartwright & Gibson,
BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, So-licitors in Chancery and Insolvency, Not-aries Public, etc. Office—Grange Block
John Street, Napanee.
J. S. CARTWRIGHT
S. GIBSON.

R. Tracy, M. D.,
BELLEVILLE.
PHYSICIAN, Surgeon and Accoucheur
Office and Residence, two doors east
of the Bank of Montreal, near the Congregational Church, Hotel St. 39

Reeve & Morden,
BARRISTERS and Attorneys-at-Law
Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers,
etc. Office—Perry's New Block Dundas
Street, Napanee, Ontario.
A. C. REEVE, M. A.
J. L. MORDEN.

E. A. Deroche,
OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE under New Act
of 1875.
Office in H. M. Deroche's Law Office.

Williams & Hooper,
BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, So-
licitors in Chancery and Insolvency,
Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.,
Napanee, Ontario.
W. S. WILLIAMS
E. S. HOOPER, M.A.
Official Assignee

W. F. Hall,
OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE under Insol-
vent Act of 1875. Fire Insurance
Agent, &c. Office of Napanee Paper Mills,
East Street.

Henderson & Coats,
LAW, Chancery, and Conveyancing
Solicitors in Insolvency and Bankruptcy. Office in Grange Block,
John Street, Napanee.
ROBERT L. HENDERSON,
Attorney Solicitor and Notary Public,
Canadian Courts.
COATS,
Solicitor in High Courts of Judicature, and Notary Public English
Courts.
Money to Loan.

James Grange, M. D.,
GRADUATE University of Victoria
College, Canada, and College and
Physicians and Surgeons, Ontario,
Member of the College of Physicians
and Surgeons, Ontario.
Special Attention paid to Diseases of
the Eye.
Office and Residence: Centre Street,
Napanee, Ont.

James F. Bartles,
LAND AGENT, Fire, Life and Accident Insurance Agent. Office—corner of Dundas and West Streets, Napanee.

F. Bartlett
ARCHITECT AND BUILDER, West Street, Napanee. Plans, Specifications,
and Detail Drawings furnished. Builders'
work measured and value computed.

Yan Machine Shop,
STEAM ENGINES and all kinds of Machinery repaired on the shortest notice. Remunerative place, opposite the old City Hotel, corner of Adelaide and Bridge Streets.

Barfield Life Insurance Co.
ESTABLISHED 1816
CAPITAL, $1,000,000.

A MOUNT DEPOSITED IN CAN-ADA in accordance with the Act
30,000.
Insures property against fire as low as any other reliable company. All loans, equitably adjusted and promptly paid in Canada funds or Gold. Isolated dwellings insured at exceedingly
low rates.

H. L. GEDDES, Agent,
for Napanee and vicinity.

tribute solely, with Gods blessing to the use
of your Catarrh Remedy.
Yours truly HENRY NIDEL,
Price $1 per bottle; For sale by all Druggists

Consumption Cured!
An old physician, retired from active
practice, having had placed in his hands
by an East India Missionary the formula
of a Vegetable Remedy, for the speedy
and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat
and Lung Affections: also a Positive and
Radical Cure for Nervous Debility and
all Nervous Complaints, after having
thoroughly tested its wonderful curative
powers in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering
fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send FREE OF CHARGE, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail, by addressing with stamp, naming this paper.
DR. W. G. STEVENS,
Box 86, Brookville, Ont.

700 Doz. have been sold since April last, of Brunton's Rheumatic Absorbent and Dissolving Fluid.
The Rheumatic Absorbent will positively relieve all pain from rheumatism or other Inflammatory swellings in 12 hours.
The Dissolving Fluid has never failed to cure Dyspepsia. Relief is felt in a few hours. The most obstinate cases are cured within a week.
A Lady writes: "I have been saved from Life
Longing Pains. I had Bronchitis, Catarrh and Dyspepsia, and was cured in a few days by its use. Sold by Druggists, price 50 cts. Wholesale by Northrop & Lyman. Advice for particular cases free. Address—
W. Y. BRUNTON, London

WANTED.
We want reliable, energetic canvassing
agents in every town in the Dominion for the new "Illustrated History of the Dominion of Canada." This work is truly magnificent, containing over 2,000 double column quarto pages, and over 300 superb
full page engravings. The work is published in Parts, on a plan which insures its welcome to every English reading family. To energetic young men and ladies,
who are willing to work, we will guarantee a permanent position for two years, and coming as Don't fail write! to for our private terms, sample pages, etc. This is a grand opportunity for school teachers
to make more than double their salaries
without interfering with their professional duties. The works being manufactured at a cost of over $20,000 for the literary, artistic and mechanical work of providing the plates by the old well known, reliable Lovell Printing and Publishing Co., of Montreal. All letters from agents must be addressed to the Publishers
General agents as follows:
HAZEN B. BIGNEY & Co.,
28 and 30 St. Francis Xavier Street,
MONTREAL, QUE.

SEE! LOOK! BEHOLD!

A NEW SIGHT HAS COME TO TOWN
IT IS PATENTED EYE-SIGHT!
F. W. SMITH,
IS THE HAPPY POSSESSOR.
He will provide all who desire it at reasonable rates. Call and look at
JOHNSTON & CONRATH'S
Economical Spectacles,
EASY-FITTING.
Eye-Glasses and Superior Eye Tryer.
The firm has appointed me sole agent of their goods in this vicinity.
F. W. SMITH,
Napanee.
Optician and Jeweler.
No-47

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.
A. PETERS, ODESSA,
DEALER IN
Sash, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese
Boxes, Tubs, Firkins, etc.
I am now making a very superior article
in a sawed cheese box, which I will sell at 12s. All orders entrusted to me
will receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS.,
LIVERY AND SALE STABLES
(ADJOINING THE BRISCON HOUSE.)
NAPANEE, ONT.
We keep nothing but First-Class
Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE
PRICES

JNO. A. REID

VET. SURGEON
NAPANEE ONT.
GRADUATE OF
Ontario Veterinary College.

May be consulted on all diseases of Domesticated Animals, personally at Campbell House
or by letter.
FEE—MODERATE
Office—Wagner Block

OCEAN TICKETS.
OCEAN Tickets for Sale via Quebec or Halifax
in summer, Halifax or Portland in winter, by the Allan S. S. Line, White Star Line, Canadian and National, via New York. Also return tickets at reduced rates to any point in the Gt. Country.

RAILWAY TICKETS.
Tickets by the Great Western Railway, to all
points and return at reduced rates.
EXCHANGE OFFICE.
American money bought and sold, and drafts
on New York.

ACCIDENTAL INSURANCE.
Agent for the Accidental Insurance Co. of Canada.
A. H. ALLISON, Agent.
Montreal Telegraph Office.
Over McNelly's Drug Store

THE GREAT FEMALE REMEDY.
J. B. MOSEY PERIODICAL PILLS.
This well known medicine is no imposition,
but a sure and safe remedy for Female Difficulties and Obstructions, from any cause whatever and although a powerful remedy, it contains nothing hurtful to the constitution.
To Married Ladies it is peculiarly suited. It will, in a short time bring on the monthly period,
with regularity.
In all cases of Nervous and spinal Affections,
rains in the Back and Limbs, Headaches, Fatigue on slight exertion, Palpitation of the Heart, Low-ness of Spirits, Hysterics, Sick Headaches, Whites, and all the painful diseases occasioned
by a disordered system, these Pills will effect a cure when all other means have failed.
These Pills have never been known to fail where the directions on the 2nd page of pamphlet are well observed.
For further particulars, get a pamphlet, from the agent.
JOB MOSEY, NEW YORK, SOLE PROPRIETOR.
$1.00 and 12 1/2 cents for postage, enclosed to Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., general
agents for the Dominion will insure a bottle containing over 50 pills by return mail.
Sold in Napanee by all Druggists. Mill Point
by W. G. Bear, Tamworth Aylsworth & Hen-man, and all medicine dealers.

the owners of Spike Poek farm an Ship and Anchor Inn were brothers that two of her gentlemen who had ted the Spike Pops, after staying hotel at Bleyndrigg, had also myste-ly disappeared from that neighbor-With light thrown upon the mat-the former of these facts, I now ustood how it was that the farmer's sign my hand had impressed me as fa-
—the resemblance between the bro-though not very striking, being quificient to account for it—and by the I was, if possible, more thoroughly vinced than ever of the diabolical ptation with which the intended m-had been committed.

The sailor who had made it prov-be not far wrong in his calculation the length of time it would take to our destination. Exactly one hour quarter after quitting Bleyndrigg handed, with some difficulty, a lit-yond the bird-haunted crags, at once started, almost at a run, for farther of the two "Devils' Holes," seamen by my direction, carrying them a coil of strong rope. But aft-upon attaining it, we all shouted in cert, urging my reserved friend to some sign from his place of conceal-no response was given to the sum-
And when time after time it had repeated with our other results the series of echoes, loud enough to be above the din of the restless water-low, I could see some of the man I ning to look at me askance; then I gally upon the faces of one or two of of questioning doubt gave place to angry scowl; and from certain low terms which reached my ear, I gat that an impostor was beginning formed that I was either mad, or I had mischievously brought them a fool's errand.

Determined at once to alter this st-affairs, I adopted what, with my tiveness to giddiness, was certainly measure. Requesting that the might be fastened about my waist, rected my companions to lower m-
the spot I asserted that I had sec-ministered. Reassured by the confi-implied in this step, the men obeand accordingly, I shortly found m-swinging within that awful chasm, the rope vibrating to and fro, and a eering roar coming up from be-Presently my feet touched the sh-granite shelf described in the pre-chapter, and immediately I felt the from under me; then as the rope cut with a jerk, I slid downward tha narrow opening into a minute cathe rock, and lay there for a few m-stunned by the violence of a blow—my head had received in the fall—recovering consciousness, I found m-resting upon the body of my friend moving so as to obtain a view of hi-I soon discovered why there had be-reply to our reiterated calls.

The little monster—I saw it with thankfulness—was still alive, but it had been rendered obtuse by the deof a ragged corner of the cave, where were fixed upon the roof of the cavern, and though, upon my addr-him, they wandered during some seconds over my countenance, was out the slightest sign of recognition. commenced a rignarole of rambling connected sentences, at all times ful to hear from the lips of the post-fer from a perturbed brain, but uttered in that weird and a ful-was naturally invested with double h-My fingers trembling in the attenhad hastened to undo the rope about my own person, in order might secure it around that of Morgan. But owing to the oppo-offered by the unconscious man the proved to be one of no small diffi-At length, however, it was accom-and signalling to those above to c-the rope, I gently guided the body o-little Welshman through the entra-the cavern, noticing as I did so th-

Napanee Express

"THE GREATEST GOOD TO THE GREATEST NUMBER."

NAPANEE, ONT., FRIDAY, APRIL 20 1877.

BRISCO HOUSE, NAPANEE, ONT.

JOHN SOBY, - - Proprietor.

A First-Class Hotel

all its Appointments.
 omnibus meet all Trains and Steamers.

PAISLEY HOUSE.

(John St. opposite the Market.)

NAPANEE, ONT.

A First-Class Hotel centrally located, with excellent yard and stabling accommodations.

CHAS. PAISLEY,
PROPRIETOR.

CAMPBELL HOUSE, NAPANEE, ONT.

THE PRINCIPAL HOTEL IN TOWN.

Good Stabling & Attentive Ostler.
CHARGES AS USUAL.

MARSDEN & MOORE,
PROPRIETORS.

TICHBORNE HOUSE, (Corner Dundas & John Streets.)

NAPANEE.

ROBERT McDONALD,
Proprietor.

A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL CHARGES MODERATE.

QUEEN'S HOTEL, BELLEVILLE

Every Accommodation for Commercial Travellers.

A. P. FARRELL,
PROPRIETOR.

McDONALD HOUSE, (Late Clark House)

BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Unbelleford.
Buses to and from the cars. 33-yl.

Land for Sale 30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and 13 Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres; of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low and reasonable terms.
Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets Napanee.

JAMES F. BARTLES.

Napanee, Sept. 12th. 1876.

FOR CHEAP

ROCERIES,
CROCKERY &

SPRING IS COMING.

BY F. W. BOURDILLON.

Spring is coming; o'er the meadow
Lightly are her footsteps laid,
On the leaves in dew shadow,
On the flowers in sunny glade.

East winds cease and north winds flee here,
Gossamer of silken sheen
Weaves the robes of whereby we see her,
Else she is not to be seen.

Yet who with a pure heart gazes
Through her robes that wind and weave,
Sees her lips in rose-tipped daisies,
Sees her eyes in stars of eve.

Men catch glimpses few and fewer,
Through their toil and strife and din;
But the holy flowers view her,
And the birds that know not sin.

Hence the calm-eyed primrose weareth
Her sweet look of happiness;
Hence the violet perfume beareth;
Daffodils their dazzling dress.

Hence the blackbird sings sweet vespers,
And the lark loud hymns of praise,
And the very winds have whispers
That to Heaven the heart can raise.

A CURATE'S HOLIDAY.

A SHORT STORY OF THRILLING INTEREST.

It was not long past noon when I alighted before the door of the Ship and Anchor at Lleyrudrig. But instead of entering that inn, I waited merely until Jonathan had driven the dog-cart to a stable yard round the corner, and then walked away at a quick pace towards the beach. Arrived there, I collected a number of fishermen whom, in accordance with my anticipations, I found loitering about the sands, and told them my story. I did so in as clear and succinct a manner as possible, commencing with an account of Mr. John William's suspicious conduct, and proceeding in regular order to its termination. The narrative, however, was frequently interrupted by excited exclamations from the sturdy Welshmen, and its progress considerably delayed by the necessity for interpretation to those amongst them who did not understand English. By the time it was finished quite a small crowd had gathered around me; and when finally I made an appeal for assistance in rescuing Mr. Morgan from his dangerous situation, a dozen stout fellows volunteered to accompany me to the spot. Thinking that in with no hypocritical cordiality, I enquired, albeit with some doubt, whether conveyance for so large a party could be obtained in the village. Unhesitatingly, a chorus of voices assured me in reply that the best and speediest method of returning to the Spike Rocks would be by sea—one of the sailors adding with agreeable intelligence that with wind and tide both in our favor as they were at present, we might expect to reach them in little over an hour.

The suggestion meeting, as I need scarcely say with my delighted approval, a friendly contention ensued as to which of the fishing smacks offered by their respective owners for the purpose should have the honor of making the little voyage. But hastened by my impatient entreaties, the question was quickly and amicably settled, and the anchor of the selected vessel having been weighed, I embarked along with my rough but kindly-natured companions. As might be expected, all right leg was fractured and terribly swollen. Not caring to witness the perilous ascent, I remained within the cave until a loud "Hurrah!" proclaimed his safe arrival upon terra firma. Then scrambling out, I watched the rope redescending once more adjusted it around my waist, and in a few moments afterwards was kneeling by my friend's side upon the grass, and at the request of the excited fishermen, searching his pockets for the huge wash-leather purse of which I had spoken to them.

Its absence, as well as that of his watch and chain, appeared to settle beyond question in their minds the fact that there had been foul play; and a motion emanating from one of their number that we should take the law into our own hands, and proceed to arrest the farmer and his family, was unanimously carried.

Accordingly, leaving Mr. Morgan under the care of a couple of the elder men, we adjourned in a body to the Spike Rock farm; but only to find it, to our extreme mortification, entirely untenanted. Evidences, however, of hastily flight existed in such abundance, that we could not but conclude that its late inmates had only just departed. And confirmation of this supposition was not wanting; for one of the sailors gazing from an upper window, presently espied, far down the winding lane up which I had yesternight driven, a mass of heads progressing rapidly, but with a jolting kind of motion, as though their owners were being carried along in a spring cart or some such vehicle. Drawing the obvious inference that our large party must have been seen by the criminals, surrounding the supposed grave of the victim, and that conscious guilt having excited their alarm, they were now endeavouring to escape from the justice which would follow detection, we consulted with each other as to what it were best to do. The rest of the conference was a decision to take the vessel further round the headland, to a small town where better accommodation could be found for the sick man than that at Lleyrudrig and in the vicinity of which was a station of coast-guardsmen. The resolution being promptly carried out, Mr. Morgan was conveyed upon landing to a comfortable hotel, where a physician was speedily procured to attend him; and accompanied by my corps of witnesses, I proceeded to lay before the proper authorities a full statement of the events I have described, and to place the case in their hands. Then bestowing upon my quondam companions a good dinner, and promising to obtain for them a reward for their services, which I was myself unable to afford, I walked with them to the landing stage, and I saw them off upon their return voyage. A message directed that same afternoon to Mrs. Morgan, Pwllwyn, brought with great celerity to the side of the little minister the tenderest and most devoted nurse in the world; and before many days, he was so far recovered as to be able to supply any further testimony which was wanting for the conviction of his intending murderers. Such testimony, however, had by that time become almost unnecessary, since upon being captured (as they had been

THE YANKEE AND THE BEES.

A Yankee out a-walking
In Virginia, at Wheeling,
While to himself a-talking
Experienced a feeling.
Strange, painful, and alarming,
From his caput to his knees,
As he suddenly discover'd
He was cover'd o'er with bees,
They rested on his eyelids,
And perch'd upon his nose;
They colonized his peak'd face,
And swarm'd upon his clothes.
They crawl'd up his trousers,
And fill'd his eyes with tears.
Did he yell like a hyena?
Did he holler like a loon?
Was he scart, and did he cut and run?
Or did the critter—swoon?
Ne'er a one! He wasn't scart a mite:
He never swoons or hollers;
But hizzel'em in a nait key tait,
AND SOLD 'EM FOR TEN DOLLARS!

—(American.)

FASHION NOTES.

Birds and wings have entirely flown away from our fashionable milliners.

Camel's hair grenadine is the novelty in thin goods for summer.

Lace pockets to match lace necklaces are the latest importations.

The sleeves of new dresses fit tighter than ever. To laugh in one's sleeve has now become purely metaphorical.

The extremely scant dresses of the present season will be worn hereafter only by extremists.

Moonlight-blue is the new shade for summer dresses. This will be a favorite with sentimental damsels.

The fashion of wearing black at a wedding is permitted in France, but is considered bad taste in England.

The most fashionable flower is the common yellow cowslip. It should be worn in promenades among "primrose paths."

Locketts on black velvet are no longer worn. Few lockets, if any, are worn, and chains are substituted, the high Valois ruffle of the inside handkerchief allowing no room for throat ornaments.

High heeled shoes for ladies are going out in Paris, where it is no longer considered correct to wear those stilted heels which for some time past must have so severely taxed ladies' patience.

An Albany damsel asked one of her fellow boarders, a stylish dry goods clerk, at the breakfast table:—"Why is your moustache like my back hair?" He blushing gave it up, when the answer caused him to blush still more—"Because it's all down."

A friar when preaching in a nunnery observed to his female auditors:—"Be not too proud that our blessed Lord paid your sex the distinguished honor of appearing first to a female after the resurrection; for it was done that the glad tidings might spread the sooner."

The fancy of demi-high dresses and lace sleeves is spreading rapidly. They are to be seen even at balls, although they are not considered as dressy as low bodices. Birds are being much worn as head-dresses at balls; brilliant humming-birds, of paradise, and even bronzed blackbirds. The eyes of these are diamonds, and some hold a diamond in their beaks.

Land for Sale

30,000 ACRES.

Subscriber has been appointed Agent for the sale of splendid improved Farms and Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres, of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low and satisfactory terms.

JAMES F. BARTLES.
Janer, Sept. 12th 1876.

FOR CHEAP

GROCERIES,
CROCKERY &
GLASSWARE

GO TO:

GEORGE REID'S

ST. DOOR TO POST OFFICE.

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

A. PETROS, ODESSA,

DEALER IN

S, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese

s, Tubs, Firkins, etc.

am now making a very superior arti-

a sawed cheese box, which I will

t 125. All orders entrusted to me receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS.,

ERY AND SALE STABLES

ADJOINING THE BRISCO HOUSE.)

NAPANEE, ONT.

We keep nothing but First-Class

ses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE

ES

GRADUATE OF

Ontario Veterinary College.

ty be consulted on all diseases of Domestic

A animals, or on any at Campbell House

y letter.

ILLI'S MODERATE

Office—Warner Block

OCEAN TICKETS.

IN Tickets for sale via Quebec or Halifax

in summer, Halifax or Portland in winter, by

Alban S. S. Line, White Star Line, and

onal, via New York. Also return tickets at ed rates to any point in the G. I. Country.

RAILWAY TICKETS.

ickets by the Great Western Railway, to all its and return at reduced rates.

EXCHANGE OFFICE.

erican money bought and sold, and drafts few York.

ACCIDENTAL INSURANCE.

gent for the Accidental Insurance Co. of ndia.

A. H. ALLISON, Agent.

etrical community. I enquired, and with some doubt, whether conveyance for so large a party could be obtained in the village. Unhesitatingly, a chorus of voices assured me in reply that the best and speediest method of returning to the Spike Rocks would be by sea—one of the sailors adding with agreeable intelligence that with wind and tide both in our favor as they were at present, we might expect to reach them in little over an hour.

The suggestion meeting, as I need scarcely say with my delighted approval, a friendly contention ensued as to which of the fishing smacks offered by their respective owners for the purpose should have the honor of making the little voyage. But hastened by my impatient entreaties, the question was quickly and amicably settled, and the anchor of the selected vessel having been weighed, I embarked along with my rough but kindly-natured companions. As might be expected all conversation during the short sail turned exclusively on the one theme, and over and over again I was called upon to repeat to those of the fishermen not engaged in working the vessel, portions of the tale I had already related. But the information was not all on one side, since for my part I learned from my seafaring associates one or two very significant facts—the chief amongst them being that the owners of Spike Rock farm and the Ship and Anchor inn were brothers; and that two of her gentlemen who had visited the Spike Rocks, after staying at the hotel at Lleydrugg, had also mysteriously disappeared from that neighborhood. With light thrown upon the matter by the former of these facts, I now understood how it was that the farmer's physician had impressed me as familiar—the resemblance between the brothers, though not very striking, being quite sufficient to account for it—and by the latter I was, if possible, more thoroughly convinced than ever of the diabolical premeditation with which the intended murder had been committed.

The sailor who had made it proved to be not far wrong in his calculation, as to the length of time it would take to reach our destination. Exactly one hour and a quarter after quitting Lleydrugg, we landed, with some difficulty, a little beyond the bird-haunted crags, and at once started, almost at a run, for the farther of the two "Devil's Holes," the seamen by my direction, carrying with them a coil of strong rope. But although upon attaining it, we all shouted in concert, urging my reserved friend to make some sign from his place of concealment, no response was given to the summons. And when time after time it had been repeated without other results than a series of echoes, loud enough to be heard above the din of the restless waters below, I could see some of the men beginning to look at me askance, then gradually upon the faces of one or two, the air of questioning doubt gave place to an angry scowl, and from certain low mutterings which reached my ear, I gathered that an impetuous and beginning to be formed that I was either mad, or that I had unluckily brought them upon a fool's errand.

Determined at once to alter this state of affairs, I adopted what, with my sensitiveness to guiltiness, was certainly a bold measure. Requesting that the rope might be fastened about my waist, I directed my companions to lower me to the spot I indicated that I had seen the minister. Assured by the confidence implied in this step, the men obeyed; and accordingly, I shortly found myself swinging within the awful chasm, with the rope vibrating to and fro, and a deafening roar coming up from beneath. Presently my feet touched the slanting granite shelf described in the previous chapter, and immediately I felt them slip from under me; then, as the rope paid out with a jerk, I slid downward through a narrow opening into a minute cave in the rock, and lay there for a few moments stunned by the violence of a blow which my head had received in the fall. Upon recovering consciousness, I found myself resting upon the body of my friend; and moving so as to obtain a view of his face I soon discovered why there had been no reply to our reiterated calls.

joined by my corps of witnesses, I proceeded to lay before the proper authorities a full statement of the events I have described, and to place the case in their hands. Then bestowing upon my quondam companions a good dinner, and promising to obtain for them a reward for their services, which I was myself unable to afford, I walked with them to the landing stage, and I saw them off upon their return voyage. A message directed that same afternoon to Mrs. Morgan, Pwlwyn, brought with great celerity to the side of the little minister the tenderest and most devoted nurse in the world; and before many days, he was so far recovered as to be able to supply any further testimony which was wanting for the conviction of his intending murderers. Such testimony, however, had by that time become almost unnecessary, since upon being captured (as they had been with prompt dispatch) the youngest of the culprits had consented to earn a pardon by turning king's evidence. By this his confession it was now clearly proved that the minister's glass of spirits as I expected, had been heavily drugged, that his gun had been stolen, and that he himself had been cast into the "Devil's Hole;" and from the same source it was ascertained that two other gentlemen—one of them a jeweler, known to be travelling with valuable diamonds in his possession—had by Abel Williams, owner of Spike Rock farm, and his two eldest sons, and at the instigation of John Williams, of Lleydrugg, been done to death by being precipitated into the same chasm.

At the following summer assizes, Abel, Robert and Thomas were condemned to suffer the full penalty of the law; Jonathan Williams, the hunchback and the farmer's remaining sons received sentence of imprisonment of more or less severity; whilst to the landlord of the Ship at Anchor was awarded the well merited punishment of transportation for life.

A few sentences will now suffice to complete my story. At the urgent request of the good couple, to whom I had become sincerely attached, and to whom indeed my services for the journey were, I thought, almost indispensable, I consented to return with them to their home. I did not, however, when giving that consent, intend to remain longer than one evening at Pwlwyn—my leave of absence from my duties having long since expired. But strange to say, when a full week had elapsed I was still lingering in that small and in itself unattractive Welsh village; and it was not until an entire change in my sentiments and in all my prospects for life had been wrought by my visit, that I eventually left it for Ollyhill.

During the time she had spent at the hotel whilst engaged in nursing her husband, and especially when upon the way home, Mrs. Morgan had made frequent allusion in my presence and in the terms of the highest praise to a certain young cousin under whose charge she had left her house and children. But little did I dream that that cousin—the Lily whose name I had so often heard repeated—was my Lily—Lily Thornton! Such, however, upon arriving at Pwlwyn, I found to be the case; and in the surprise and uncontrollable joy of that unexpected meeting, I knew that I, in fact that both of us, had betrayed ourselves. Then followed days full of bliss so sweet, that resolved as I would, I could not forgo it when in the delightful consciousness of tacitly confessed love, Lily and I wandered forth together, seeking the shady woods and conversing in confiding tones—principally about nothing. At length there came a certain sunny afternoon, when, seated side by side upon a rustic bridge, we bent in silence over a little babbling stream, our heads caving into closer and closer proximity until in the end, with a sudden movement "our spirits rushed together in the meeting of the lips." After that, as any person of the slightest experience in such matters will readily believe, it was to use a slang phrase—all up with me. I left that bridge an affianced man; and upon returning to Ollyhill I resigned my curacy; and upon receiving Squire Thornton's somewhat reluctant consent to my engagement with his daughter, I obtained a situation in a at the breakfast table:—"Why is your moustache like my back hair?" He blushing gave it up, when the answer caused him to blush still more—"Because it's all down."

Afriar when preaching in a nunnery observed to his female auditors:—"Be not too proud that our blessed Lord paid your sex the distinguished honor of appearing first to a female after the resurrection; for it was done that the glad tidings might spread the sooner."

The fancy of demi-high dresses and lace sleeves is spreading rapidly. They are to be seen even at balls, although they are not considered as dressy as low bodices. Birds are being much worn as head-dresses at balls; brilliant humming-birds, of paradise, and even bronzed blackbirds. The eyes of these are diamonds, and some hold a diamond in their beaks.

Poor Old Darbigne.

A THRILLING NIGHT SCENE—HOW AN INDIGNANT HUSBAND MET HIS FATE.

Mr. Darbigne didn't go home until very late Tuesday night, and when he reached his domicile he let himself in with a latch key and stole softly up stairs so as not to disturb his family. A night lamp was burning in his room and Mrs. Darbigne's sores came from the shaded bed like the calenches of a freight engine on the up grade. As he was removing his coat, Mr. Darbigne suddenly still, frozen, rooted to the spot with horror sublime, and rage. Then he fell on his knees and holding his hands towards the ceiling shrieked, "Oh! heaven, have mercy on this dishonored house," and then sprang to his feet yelling, "Villain, villain, villain, your life or mine." Mrs. Darbigne sprang up in bed screaming, "What is it? Oh, mercy, mercy, madman, what is it?" And the children in the adjoining room woke up and shrieked and hollowed and went in piteous terror, while Mr. Darbigne charged round and round the room with a revolver in his hand, diving into the closets, plunging under the bed, upsetting the furniture, chasing Mrs. Darbigne out of sight, and calling on his innocent babes to fling themselves out of the windows and save themselves from misery and shame—a preventive that the babes did not take to very kindly, preferring to huddle up in the middle of their bed and yell. The uproar roused the neighbors. They kicked in the front door and rushed up stairs, seized the raving Mr. Darbigne, pounding him over the head with a chair leg, and wresting his revolver from his reckless grasp, and then they demanded explanations.

"Find him for me!" said Mr. Darbigne. "Set me face to face with the villain, and I'll drink his heart's blood? Oh, madness! madness! Oh, shame! shame! shame! Find him for me or kill me! He's in this house this very minute."

"Who?" they all yelled. "Who is he?" "Yes," wailed poor Mrs. Darbigne, who had hurriedly dressed herself in a log-cabin quilt. "Who? in heaven's name, who?"

"Oh, oh, oh," yelled Mr. Darbigne: "You hear her, men, you hear this perfidious woman? Who! Here," he shrieked, pointing with his trembling finger, while the words shot like fiery arrows from his pale and foam-flecked lips. "Here! The man who wore those trousers!"

All eyes looked toward the chair on which they hung, and then, with one wild, heaven piercing yell of laughter, the crowd of neighbors let go of Mr. Darbigne, and went tumbling over each other down stairs, howling in derision and splitting the midnight with roars of mextingishable laughter. The children who had trooped into the room went giggling off to bed, and Mrs. Darbigne, flinging herself on the pillows, screamed hysterically, "Oh Darby, Darby! Oh Marmaduke, you'll kill me yet, I know you will! Oh, you old fool! Crawl into bed! Oh, you senseless idiot, that's my chemiloon!"

Tableaux.

MONKEYS' FATAL CURIOSITY

dept of F of H or B upon sign hum a wl of bi 1890 the conf
t Rev year
and by me 181.

N Un hav able pin swe clea from the only get leav whi mor mak
the flo scon littl
and acco lint, brar
so tl can in ti will take

A
the was at v unai
ing of o Fac smo
the fact case
the conc the Swit
toba
Dr. decl
the hope chil
Lon
teac toba
"err
and this Ado

Ti hant tatio about ceste
His
the Pow his ing
High enjo mad
M
ment to th meet mad up a hunc

JOB MOSES, NEW YORK, SOLE PROPRIETOR.
 100 and 121 cents for postage, enclosed to throp & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., general nts for the Dominion, will insure a bottle taining over 60 pills, by return mail.
 ill in Nepanee by all Druggists. Mill Point W. G. Egar, Tanworth Aylsworth & Hun
 n, and all medicine dealers.

The little mugger—"I saw it with deep thoughtfulness," was still alive, but his ear had been rendered obtuse by the delirium of a rapid fever. His eyes, wide open, were fixed upon the wall of the tiny cavern, and though, upon my addressing him, they wandered during several seconds over my countenance, was without the slightest sign of recognition. He commenced a rigmarole of rambling disconnected sentences, at all times painful to hear from the lips of the poor sufferer from a perturbed brain, but which attested in that weird and a fit place, was naturally invested with double horror. My fingers trembling in the attempt, I now hastened to undo the rope from about my own person, in order that I might secure it around that of Mr. Morgan. But owing to the opposition offered by the unconscious man the task proved to be one of no small difficulty. At length, however, it was accomplished; and signalling to those above to draw in the rope, I gently guided the body of the little Welshman through the entrance of the cavern, noticing as I did so that his

The ice in Port Hope harbor was loosened by dynamite.

The soldiers at the United States Arsenal at Sumnerville had, a pet monkey, the "funningest" Darwinian that ever left the African forests. Jocko was ordinarily a good monkey, but, like too many of his biped contemporaries, he possessed a great fault. Jocko was tormented by curiosity, and alas it finally brought him to an untimely grave. For some time Jocko has been in the habit of watching the artillerymen as they fired the morning and evening gun, and finally became imbued with an ardent desire to be a "gay soldier boy." Last Monday morning he slyly approached the piece, which is used for firing the salute, and jerked the lanyard. To the amateur artilleryist's surprise and disappointment the cannon didn't fire. He immediately darted to the mouth to see what was the matter, when the piece suddenly went off, and so did Jocko—all his aspirations and his limbs blown to the winds. His remains were literally strewn over the sward.—Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle.

The carry in Th

Express.

THE GREATEST NUMBER.

($1.00 per annum, if paid in advance.)

FRIDAY, APRIL 20 1877.

NO. 52.

Right leg was fractured and terribly swollen. Not caring to witness the perilous ascent, I remained within the cave until loud "Hurrah!" proclaimed his safe arrival upon terra firma. Then scrambling out, I watched the rope redescending once more adjusted it around my waist, and in a few moments afterwards was kneeling by my friend's side upon the grass, and at the request of the excited sheriffs, searching his pockets for the ugly wash-leather purse of which I had taken to them.

His absence, as well as that of his watch and chain, appeared to settle beyond question in their minds the fact that there had been foul play; and a motion emanating from one of their number that we should take the law into our own hands, and proceed to arrest the farmer and his family, was unanimously carried.

Accordingly, leaving Mr. Morgan under the care of a couple of the elder men, we adjourned in a body to the pike Rock farm; but only to find it, to our extreme mortification, entirely unattended. Evidences, however, of hastily existing in such abundance, that we could not but conclude that its inmates had only just departed. Confirmation of this supposition was wanting; for one of the sailors gazing from an upper window, presently picked far down the winding lane upon which I had just been driven, a mass of sad-looking people, but with a lunging kind of motion, as though their members were being carried along in a ring cart or some such vehicle. Drawing the obvious inference that our large party must have been seen by the criminals, surrounding the supposed grave of a victim, and that conscious guilt having excited their alarm, they were now endeavouring to escape from the justice which would follow detection, we consulted with each other as to what it were best to do. The rest of the conference was a decision to take the vessel further up the headland, to a small town where better accommodation could be found for the sick man than that at Lleydrizg in the vicinity of which was a station coast-guardsmen. The resolution being promptly carried out, Mr. Morgan was conveyed upon landing to a comfortable bed, where a physician was speedily procured to attend him; and accompanied by my corps of witnesses, I proceeded to lay before the proper authorities a full statement of the events I have scribbled, and to place the case in their hands. Then bestowing upon my quorum companions a good dinner, and promising to obtain for them a reward for their services, which I was myself unable to afford, I walked with them to the landing stage, and I saw them off upon their return voyage. A message directed at same afternoon to Mrs. Morgan, elywn, brought with great celerity to a side of the little minister the tender, and most devoted nurse in the world; and before many days, he was so far recovered as to be able to supply any testimony which was wanting for his conviction of his intending murderers. Each testimony, however, had by that

THE YANKEE AND THE BEES.

A Yankee out a-walking
In Virginia, at Wheeling,
While to himself a-talking
Experienced a feeling.
Strange, painful, and alarming,
From his caput to his knees,
As he suddenly discover'd
He was cover'd o'er with bees,
They rested on his eyelids,
And perch'd upon his nose;
They colonized his peak'd face,
And swarm'd upon his clothes.
They crawl'd up his trousers,
And filled his eyes with tears.
Did he yell like a hyena?
Did he holler like a loon?
Was he scart, and did he cut and run?
Or did the critter—swoon?
N'er a one! He wasn't scart a mite:
He never swoons or hollers;
But hived 'em in a nail keg tight,
And sold 'em for ten dollars!—
(American.)

FASHION NOTES.

Birds and wings have entirely flown away from our fashionable milliners.

Camel's hair grenadine is the novelty in thin goods for summer.

Lace pockets to match lace necklaces are the latest importations.

The sleeves of new dresses fit tighter than ever. To laugh in one's sleeve has now become purely metaphorical.

The extremely scant dresses of the present season will be worn hereafter only by extremists.

Moonlight-blue is the new shade for summer dresses. This will be a favorite with sentimental dandies.

The fashion of wearing black at a wedding is permitted in France, but is considered bad taste in England.

The most fashionable flower is the common yellow cowslip. It should be worn in promenades among "primrose paths."

Locketts on black velvet are no longer worn. Few locketts, if any, are worn, and chains are substituted, the high Valois ruffle of the inside handkerchief allowing no room for throat ornaments.

High heeled shoes for ladies are going out in Paris, where it is no longer considered correct to wear those stilted heels which for some time past must have so severely taxed ladies' patience.

An Albany damsel asked one of her fellow boarders, a stylish dry goods clerk, at the breakfast table:—"Why is your moustache like my back hair?" He blushing gave it up, when the answer caused him to blush still more—"Because it's all down."

Afriar when preaching in a nunnery observed to his female auditors:—"Be not too proud that our blessed Lord paid your sex the distinguished honor of appearing first to a female after the resurrection; for it was done that the glad tidings might spread the sooner."

The fancy of demi-high dresses and lace sleeves is spreading rapidly. They are to be seen even at balls, although they are not considered as dressy as low bodices. Birds are being much worn as head-dresses at balls: brilliant humming-birds, of paradise, and even bronzed blackbirds.

NAPOLEON AND THE LEGION OF HONOR.

Napoleon, when in the height of his power, being once at Amiens, while traversing the square, in the midst of the acclamations of the inhabitants who had assembled around him, cast his eyes upon the multitude, and perceived, in one of the corners of the square, a stone-cutter, who had not been induced to quit his work by the curiosity which animated the crowd by whom he was surrounded. The indifference of this man excited the curiosity of Napoleon. He wished to know something about him, and, passing through the crowd, urged on his horse until he arrived close to him. "What are you doing there?" said Napoleon. "I am cutting stone." "You have served under me," quickly observed the Emperor, who recognized an old soldier. "It is true, sire." "You were present at the campaign of Egypt—you were a brigadier in such a corps?" "Yes, sire." "Why have you quitted the service?" "Because I had completed my time and obtained my discharge." "I am sorry for it. You were a brave man. I shall be happy to do anything in my power for you. Say, what do you require from me?" "That your majesty will leave me to cut my stone in quiet. My work suffices me; I am in want of nothing." This fact brings to mind the interview of Diogenes with Alexander; but the modest pride of the Greek philosopher was not equal to the reply of the stone-cutter.

The Legion of Honor was established in 1802, by Napoleon Bonaparte, then first Consul. It was resisted when first proposed, on the simple ground that it was opposed to the broad principle of civic equality. Napoleon, who even then had the imperial crown and sceptre in view, pretended that his object was solely to popularize the idea of personal distinction—thus paving the way for the establishment of the empire and the creation of all grades of the nobility, which accompanied it. The Legion of Honor, however, speedily became popular. There were small pensions paid out of the national treasury to the sub-officers and lower members, whose children and other youthful kindred of both sexes were educated free of cost to them. Orphans of tender age also received free education. Napoleon, who had thoroughly sounded the depths and shallows of the military mind of France, made great use of the Legion of Honor. He would often take its cross or badge from his own coat, and pin it upon the breast of some soldier who had signalized himself by a deed of valor or humanity. This, done in the presence of a whole army, and generally on the eve of battle, bound the soldiers to him. In 1830, the Legion was supplemented by the establishment of the "Cross of July," conferred upon those who had distinguished themselves or been wounded in the Revolution of the Three Days, in that year. There was also a "Medal of July," and the "St. Helena Medal," established by Napoleon III., was intended to commemorate all the campaigns from 1782 to 1815.

EASTER THOUGHTS.

Kneeling beside her 'mid a kneeling throng
In the dim twilight of the temple, where
The Easter buds, scent-laden, filled the air
With sweet aroma, and the solemn song,
Low chanted, floated through the holy place,
I watched the curtains of her melting eyes
Veil their soft radiance, and o'er that fair face
Stole reverent stillness, as with gentle sighs Sins from her sinless lips were soon confessed.
(Ah, fairest saint, were all sins but as thine!)
Then lifting her white forehead from its pillowed rest,
Turning, her sad sweet visage, pure with thought divine,
She murmured, bending toward me as I sat,
"Charles, Mrs. Smith yet wears her winter hat!"
—Harper.

HOW A SPANISH SEXTON IMPERSONATED THE DEVIL.

A strange story comes from the north of Spain. A moribund landed proprietor, notwithstanding the entreaties of his family and friends, refused to receive the consolations of religion. His family, thinking they had overcome his scruples, sent for the parish priest; but upon his arrival the sick man declined to receive him, and the priest withdrew, declaring that the devil would come in person to carry off so hardened a sinner as soon as he was dead.

A few hours afterward the sick man died, and while the family were watching over the body, the door of the room was opened with a great noise, and there appeared upon the scene a personage arrayed in red, brandishing a pitchfork, dragging a long tail after him, and smelling very strongly of sulphur. His appearance created so much terror that the women present fainted, and the men rushed out of the room by another door. A man servant, hearing the screams, and thinking that thieves had broken into the house, armed himself with a revolver, and made his way to the room from whence they proceeded.

For a moment he, too, was terrified by the appearance of "the devil," who by this time had got the body in his arms; but, mastering his fears, he fired three barrels of his revolver at him, and the supposed devil, who fell to the ground, proved to be the parish sexton, who, by the order of the priest, had disguised himself, as he conceived, as Satan. He was quite dead when picked up, and four priests, who are suspected of complicity in this attempt to work upon the superstitious feelings of the family of the deceased, have been taken into custody.—Pall Mall Gazette.

SOME EXTRAORDINARY WEDDINGS.

The first was in the Raleigh (N. C.) jail last week. James is serving a three months' sentence for stabbing three men. He fell in love with Louisa, who lived across the way; she showed him little attentions, and he courted her and proposed through the bars. The sheriff gave out invitations to the wedding, which was a brilliant affair, and, after the ceremony, the bride entered the cell to finish her sentence with her lord.

A queer old German, past 70, called at the Badmore city hall last week for a permit to go to the Bay view asylum and take his choice of a wife from the female inmates. He said that seven years ago he went there on a similar errand, selected a woman, popped the question and was accepted and married at once. She made him a good frau, and they lived happily together; but she had been dead three years, and he was lonely and wanted to try a Bayview woman once more. The permission was given him, and the old fellow got another one.

There was a romantic wedding at East St. Louis recently. The couple were engaged in Illinois in 1856, but the girl suddenly married another man, who afterward became a prominent railroad official. The disconsolate lover, J. H. McCallough, enlisted in the regular army and finally became a lieutenant. The two knew nothing more of each other till a year ago, when the husband died.

counting to escape from the justice which would follow detection, we coned with each other as to what it were to do. The rest of the conference was a decision to take the vessel further and the headland, to a small town where better accommodation could be found the sick man than that at Lleyrudrig in the vicinity of which was a station post-guardsmen. The resolution being promptly carried out, Mr. Morgan was veined upon landing to a comfortable inn, where a physician was speedily secured to attend him; and accompanied by my corps of witnesses, I proceeded to lay before the proper authorities a full statement of the events I have related, and to place the case in their hands. Then bestowing upon my quondam companions a good dinner, and desiring to obtain for them a reward for their services, which I was myself unable to afford, I walked with them to the ling stage, and I saw them off upon their return voyage. A message directed me some afternoon to Mrs. Morgan, who, brought with great celerity to side of the little minister the tendermost and most devoted nurse in the world; before many days, he was so far recovered as to be able to supply any her testimony which was wanting for conviction of his intending murderers. His testimony, however, had by that time become almost unnecessary, since he being captured (as they had been by prompt dispatch) the youngest of the culprits had consented to earn a parly by turning king's evidence. By this confession it was now clearly proved that the minister's glass of spirits as I noted, had been heavily drugged, that $200 had been stolen, and that he self had been cast into the "Devil's cell" and from the same source it was retained that two other gentlemen—of them a jeweler, known to be dealing with valuable diamonds in his session—had by Abel Williams, owner of the Rock farm, and his two eldest sons, and at the instigation of John Wills, of Lleyrudrigg, been done to death being precipitated into the same sea.

At the following summer assizes, Abel, Bert and Thomas were condemned to suffer the full penalty of the law; Jonathan Williams, the hunchback and the other's remaining sons received sentence of imprisonment of more or less severity; as to the landlord of the Ship at Anchor was awarded the well merited punishment of transportation for life. A few sentences will now suffice to complete my story. At the urgent request of the good couple, to whom I had become sincerely attached and to whom I owed my services for the journey were sought, almost indispensable, I consented to return with them to their home. I did not, however, when giving that consent, intend to remain longer than one night at Pwlywn—my leave of absence from my duties having long since expired. Strange to say, when a full week had passed I was still lingering in that small in itself unattractive Welsh village; it was not until an entire change in my sentiments and in all my prospects of life had been wrought by my visit, that I eventually left it for Ollyhill.

During the time she had spent at the little whilst engaged in nursing her husband, and especially when upon the way, Mrs. Morgan had made frequent mention in my presence and in the terms of the highest praise to a certain young man in under whose charge she had left her house and children. But little did I know in that that cousin—the Lily whose name I had so often heard repeated—was Lily—Lily Thornton! Such, how, upon arriving at Pwlywn, I found to be the case; and in the surprise and uncontrollable joy of that unexpected thing, I knew that I, in fact that both of us, had betrayed ourselves. Then followed days full of bliss so sweet, that I could not, as I would, I could not forgo it in the delightful consciousness of my confessed love, Lily and I wandered forth together, seeking the shady spots and conversing in confiding tones principally about nothing. At length came a certain sunny afternoon, when seated side by side upon a rustic in promenades among "primrose paths."

Locketts on black velvet are no longer worn. Few lockets, if any, are worn, and chains are substituted, the high Valois ruffle of the inside handkerchief allowing no room for throat ornaments.

High heeled shoes for ladies are going out in Paris, where it is no longer considered correct to wear those stilted heels which for some time past must have so severely taxed ladies' patience.

An Albany damsel asked one of her fellow boarders, a stylish dry goods clerk, at the breakfast table:—"Why is your mustache like my back hair?" He blushing gave it up, when the answer caused him to blush still more—"Because it's all down."

A friar when preaching in a nunnery observed to his female auditors:—"Be not too proud that our blessed Lord paid your sex the distinguished honor of appearing first to a female after the resurrection; for it was done that the glad tidings might spread the sooner."

The fancy of demi-high dresses and lace sleeves is spreading rapidly. They are to be seen even at balls, although they are not considered as dressy as low bodices. Birds are being much worn as head-dresses at balls; brilliant humming-birds, of paradise, and even bronzed blackbirds. The eyes of these are diamond studs, and some hold a diamond in their beaks.

Poor Old Darbigne.

A THRILLING NIGHT SCENE—HOW AN INDIGNANT HUSBAND MET HIS FATE.

Mr. Darbigne didn't go home until very late Tuesday night, and when he reached his domicile he let himself in with a latch key and stole softly upstairs so as not to disturb his family. A night lamp was burning in his room and Mrs. Darbigne's snores came from the shaded bed like the catenances of a freight engine on the up grade. As he was removing his coat, Mr. Darbigne suddenly still, frozen, rooted to the spot with horror sublime, and rage. Then he fell on his knees and holding his hands towards the ceiling shrieked: "Oh! heaven, have mercy on this dishonest house," and then sprang to his feet yelling, "Villain, villain, villain, your life or mine." Mrs. Darbigne sprang up in bed screaming, "What is it? Oh, mercy, mercy, madman, what is it?" And the children in the adjoining room woke up and shrieked and howled and wept in piteous terror, while Mr. Darbigne charged round and round the room with a revolver in his hand, diving into the closets, plunging under the bed, upsetting the furniture, chasing Mrs. Darbigne out of sight, and calling on his innocent babes to fling themselves out of the windows and save themselves from misery and shame—a preventive that the babes did not take to very kindly, preferring to huddle up in the middle of their bed and yell. The uproar roused the neighbors. They kicked in the front door and rushed up stairs, seized the raving Mr. Darbigne, pounding him over the head with a chair leg, and wresting his revolver from his reckless grasp, and then they demanded explanations.

"Find him for me!" said Mr. Darbigne. "Set me face to face with the villain, and I'll drink his heart's blood? Oh, madness! madness! Oh, shame! shame! shame! Find him for me or kill me! He's in this house this very minute."

"Who?" they all yelled. "Who is he?" "Yes," wailed poor Mrs. Darbigne, who had hurriedly dressed herself in a jogging quilt. "Who? In heaven's name, who?"

"Oh, oh, oh," yelled Mr. Darbigne; "you hear her, men, you hear this perfidious woman? Who! Here," he shrieked, pointing with his trembling finger, while the words shot like fiery arrows from his pale and foam-flecked lips. "Here! The man who wore those trousers!"

All eyes looked toward the chair on which they hung, and then, with one wild, heaven piercing yell of laughter, the crowd of neighbors let go of Mr. Darbigne, pretended that his object was solely to popularize the idea of personal distinction—thus paving the way for the establishment of the empire and the creation of all grades of the nobility, which accompanied it. The Legion of Honor, however, speedily became popular. There were small pensions paid out of the national treasury to the sub-officers and lower members, whose children and other youthful kindred of both sexes were educated free of cost to them. Orphans of tender age also received free education. Napoleon, who had thoroughly sounded the depths and shallows of the military mind of France, made great use of the Legion of Honor. He would often take its cross or badge from his own coat, and pin it upon the breast of some soldier who had signalized himself by a deed of valor or humanity. This, done in the presence of a whole army, and generally on the eve of battle, bound the soldiers to him. In 1830, the Legion was supplemented by the establishment of the "Cross of July," conferred upon those who had distinguished themselves or been wounded in the Revolution of the Three Days, in that year. There was also a "Medal of July," and the "St. Helena Medal," established by Napoleon III., was intended to commemorate all the campaigns from 1782 to 1815.

HOW TO SWEEP CARPETS.

Mrs. Beecher, writing in the Christian Union, says: In all our experience we have found nothing so safe and serviceable as moistened bran. Instead of stopping to clean the broom every few minutes, sweeping the carpet with bran not only cleans the carpet, frees it almost entirely from dust, but keeps the broom clean at the same time. It must be moistened only enough to keep the particles together. If moistened too much it will leave the carpet so damp that the dust which will settle over it will deface it more than it will clean it. Besides it makes the work much harder, because the bran becomes heavy with much moisture. Distribute the bran evenly over the floor and then sweep as usual. The bran scours or cleans the whole fabric. Very little dust is made when sweeping with it, and scarcely any settles after the work is accomplished, for every thread, bits of lint, or dust, is gathered into the mass of bran that is moved over the floor, and is so thoroughly incorporated with it that it cannot be easily separated. Carpets swept in this manner gather very little dust, as will be plainly seen when ver they are taken up for shaking.

THE ANTI-TABACCO CRUSADE.

A largely-attended conference, under the auspices of the Anti-Tobacco Society, was held recently in Manchester, England, at which the following resolution was unanimously adopted. "That this meeting considers that the recent expressions of opinion of medical officers under the Factory Acts, pointing to the increasing smoking and chewing of tobacco as one of the sources of the deterioration of our factory population, constitute a strong case for a Parliamentary enquiry into the national results of a practice which is condemned by all medical men; and into the practical operation of the law in Switzerland which prohibits the use of tobacco by boys." One of the speakers, Dr. C. J. Russell, a well-known physician, declared "that tobacco was destroying the very vitality of the nation"; that the hope of the country rested with the children; and urged, especially, says the London Christian, "that Sunday-school teachers inculcate total abstinence from tobacco among their pupils." The "crusade" has not been begun too soon and should be vigorously inaugurated on this side of the Atlantic.—Temperance Advocate.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales, when he goes hunting, likes to enjoy himself unostentatiously, and doesn't want a fuss made about him. But when he went to Gloucestershire lately, to visit Lord Shannon His lordship, anxious to show the Prince

The first time in the Raleigh (N.C.) jail last week, James is serving a three months' sentence for stabbing three men. He fell in love with Louisa, who lived across the way; she showed him little attentions, and he courted her and proposed through the bars. The sheriff gave out invitations to the wedding, which was a brilliant affair, and, after the ceremony, the bride entered the cell to finish these sentences with her lord.

A queer old German, past 70, called at the Halimore city hall last week for a permit to go to the Bay view asylum and take his choice of a wife from the female inmates. He said that seven years ago he went there on a similar errand, selected a woman, payed the question and was accepted and married at once. She made him a good frau, and they lived happily together; but she had been dead three years, and he was lonely and wanted to marry a Bayview woman once more. The permission was given him, and the old fellow got another one.

There was a romantic wedding at East St. Louis recently. The couple were engaged in Illinois in 1856, but the girl suddenly married another man, who afterward became a prominent railroad official. The disconsolate lover, J. H. McCullough, enlisted in the regular army and finally became a lieutenant. The two knew nothing more of each other till a year ago, when the husband died. McCullough's old love revived. He resigned from the army, found the widow keeping a boarding-house for conductors, engineers and clerks at St. Louis, was accepted, and on a recent Sunday night married her. The boarders perceived all the locomotives not engaged, took them near the house and kept the whistles going during the ceremony.

A FAIR DECISION.

Brother Gardner was yesterday called into a house on Grove street to render a decision in the case of a colored man who had jumped his board bill, the landlady desiring to know if she could sue the deserter without his being present.

"What is de object of a suit?" asked the philosopher.

"So as to secure a debt," she replied.

"After securing de debt, den what?"

"Den collect it."

"How kin you collect it if de man hasn't got nuffin?"

"Dat's what I called you in for," she continued. "I want a 'ciston on dat point."

"De case am—de case am," he mused, as he rubbed his head, "de cause am, kin you collect anything from a cullud man who hasn't got nuffin? Tell you what I'd do, Misses Brown, I'd write for dat nigger to come back, make a bargain to board him for six weeks, at den slap an execution on to him an' seize de contract."

"But how would dat git what he owes me now?" she asked.

"It won't git de lost money, ob course, but you see it would keep him from boardin' on you six weeks mo'. Dat's de 'ciston, Mrs. Brown, and now I'll take one of dem pies an' be goin' home to dinner."—Detroit Free Press.

BE COURTEOUS.

There are a thousand little courtesies and salutations and compliments of life, but it would be well if there were still more of them. Bluntness does not mean honesty, and a recognition of whatever is good in men does not mean sincerity. It would be promotive of happiness if every time men descended in the morning they would look for that which is comely and praiseworthy, and single it out and tell it to their wives. Oh, if men would only court after they are married as they do before, what joy there would be! What praise there would be distributed among the community! But the faults of men are generally first thought of, and are condemned. There are a multitude of little, imperfect, irregular things in human conduct; and a man says: "I am not one of those who go around and flatter folks; I'll tell them what I think of them; if they have faults I'll hit them strong." But it is not necessary to be hard and repellent and un-been stolen, and that he had been cast into the "Devil's" and from the same source it was stated that two other gentlemen—of them a jeweler, known to be dealing with valuable diamonds in his line—had by Abel Williams, owner of the Rock farm, and his two eldest sons, at the instigation of John Williams, of Lleydriddig, been done to death being precipitated into the same.

The following summer assizes, Abel and Thomas were condemned to the full penalty of the law; John Williams, the hunchback and the other remaining sons received sentence of imprisonment of more or less severity; and to the landlord of the Ship at Pwllwryn was awarded the well merited punishment of transportation for life. A few sentences will now suffice to relate my story. At the urgent request of the good couple, to whom I had been sincerely attached and to whom my services for the journey were, night, almost indispensable, I consented to return with them to their home.

Not, however, when giving that intent, intend to remain longer than one night at Pwllwryn—my leave of absence my duties having long since expired. Strange to say, when a full week had elapsed I was still lingering in that small, itself unattractive Welsh village; it was not until an entire change in circumstances and in all my prospects had been wrought by my visit, I eventually left it for Ollyhill. During the time she had spent at the whilst engaged in nursing her husband, and especially when upon the way, Mrs. Morgan had made frequent mention in my presence and in the terms of highest praise to a certain young man under whose charge she had left house and children. But little did I know that that cousin—the Lily whose I had so often heard repeated—was Lily—Lily Thornton! Such, how upon arriving at Pwllwryn, I found the case; and in the surprise and untrollable joy of that unexpected thing, I knew that I, in fact that both had betrayed ourselves. Then for 11 days full of bliss so sweet, that red as I would, I could not forgo it in the delightful consciousness of my confessed love, Lily and I wandered forth together, seeking the shady spots and conversing in confiding tones amicably about nothing. At length came a certain sunny afternoon, seated side by side upon a rustic seat, we bent in silence over a little stream, our heads coming into a closer proximity until in the sudden movement "our spirits met" together in the meeting of the

After that, as any person of the test experience in such matters will believe, it was to use a slang expression—all up with me. I left that bridge lianced man; and upon returning to my ill I resigned my curacy; and unceasing Squire Thornton somewhat tant consent to my engagement with daughter, I obtained a situation in a antile house in Liverpool, the prince of which was an uncle of my intergrade. With indefatigable industry I toiled for two years to earn for myself a position; and at the close of that took to my bosom, for weal or woe, life for those sake I had quitted the chain and joined the Merchant's service. In conclusion, the events I have here fully related, involve a virtue which one ought to endeavor to practice—irritate of presence of mind. In case sudden peril, a moment or two of calm thought on the part of one person has recently been the means of saving not his own but the lives of his fellow-creatures. In the case of a theatre on fire or in a runaway carriage he (or she) has the presence of mind to sit still, he best chance of saving his (or her) self.

In my case, feigning sleep probably I mine.—Chamber's Journal.

(THE END.)

ice in Port Hope harbor was loosened by dynamite.

MR. DARBIGNE didn't go home until very late Tuesday night, and when he reached his domicile he let himself in with a latch key and stole softly upstairs so as not to disturb his family. A night lamp was burning in his room and Mrs. Darbigne's snore came from the shaded bed like the caresses of a freight engine on the up grade. As he was removing his coat, Mr. Darbigne suddenly still, frozen, rooted to the spot with horror sublime, and rage. Then he fell on his knees and holding his hands towards the ceiling shrieked. "Oh! heaven, have mercy on this dishonored house," and then sprang to his feet yelling, "Villain, villain, villain, your life or mine." Mrs. Darbigne sprang up in bed screaming, "What is it? Oh, mercy, mercy, madman, what is it?" And the children in the adjoining room woke up and shrieked and hollowed and went in piteous terror, while Mr. Darbigne charged round and round the room with a revolver in his hand, diving into the closets, plunging under the bed, upsetting the furniture, chasing Mrs. Darbigne out of sight, and calling on his innocent babes to fling themselves out of the windows and save themselves from misery and shame—a preventive that the babes did not take to very kindly, preferring to huddle up in the middle of their bed and yell. The uproar roused the neighbors. They kicked in the front door and rushed up stairs, seized the raving Mr. Darbigne, pounding him over the head with a chair leg, and wresting his revolver from his reckless grasp, and then they demanded explanations.

"Find him for me!" said Mr. Darbigne. "Set me face to face with the villain, and I'll drink his heart's blood? Oh madness! madness! Oh, shame! shame! shame! Find him for me or kill me! He's in this house this very minute."

"Who?" they all yelled. "Who is he?" "Yes," wailed poor Mrs. Darbigne, who had hurriedly dressed herself in a log-cabin quilt. "Who? in heaven's name, who?"

"Oh, oh, oh," yelled Mr. Darbigne; "you hear her, men, you hear this perfidious woman? Who? Here," he shrieked, pointing with his trembling finger, while the words shot like fiery arrows from his pale and foam-flecked lips. "Here! The man who wore those trousers!"

All eyes looked toward the chair on which they hung, and then, with one wild, heaven-piercing yell of laughter, the crowd of neighbors let go of Mr. Darbigne, and went tumbling over each other down stairs, howling in derision and splitting the midnight with roars of mextinguishable laughter. The children who had trooped into the room went giggling off to bed, and Mrs. Darbigne, flinging herself on the pillows, screamed hysterically, "Oh Darby, Darby! Oh Marmaduke, you'll kill me yet, I know you will! Oh, you old fool! Crawl into bed! Oh, you senseless idiot, that's my chemise!"

Tableaux.

A MONKEY'S FATAL CURIOSITY.

The soldiers at the United States Arsenal at Summerville had, a pet monkey, the "funniest" Darwinian that ever left the African forests. Jocko was ordinarily a good monkey, but, like too many of his kindred contemporaries, he possessed a great fault. Jocko was tormented by curiosity, and alas! it finally brought him to an untimely grave. For some time Jocko has been in the habit of watching the artillerymen as they fired the morning and evening gun, and finally became imbued with an ardent desire to be a "gay soper boy." Last Monday morning he silyly approached the piece, which is used for firing the salute, and jerked the lanyard. To the amateur artilleryist's surprise and disappointment the cannon didn't fire. He immediately darted to the mouth to see what was the matter, when the piece suddenly went off, and so did Jocko—all his aspirations and his limbs blown to the winds. His remains were literally strewn over the sward.—Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle.

cleans the carpet, frees it almost entirely from dust, but keeps the broom clean at the same time. It must be moistened only enough to keep the particles together. If moistened too much it will leave the carpet so damp that the dust which will settle over it will deface it more than it will clean it. Besides it makes the work much harder, because the bran becomes heavy with much moisture. Distribute the bran evenly over the floor and then sweep as usual. The bran scours or cleans the whole fabric. Very little dust is made when sweeping with it, and scarcely any settles after the work is accomplished, for every thread, bits of lint, or dust, is gathered into the mass of bran that is moved over the floor, and is so thoroughly incorporated with it that it cannot be easily separated. Carpets swept in this manner gather very little dust, as will be plainly seen when ver they are taken up for shaking.

THE ANTI-TOBACCO CRUSADE.

A largely-attended conference, under the auspices of the Anti-Tobacco Society, was held recently in Manchester, England, at which the following resolution was unanimously adopted. "That this meeting considers that the recent expressions of opinion of medical officers under the Factory Acts, pointing to the increasing smoking and chewing of tobacco as one of the sources of the deterioration of our factory population, constitute a strong case for a Parliamentary enquiry into the national results of a practice which is condemned by all medical men; and into the practical operation of the law in Switzerland which prohibits the use of tobacco by boys." One of the speakers, Dr. C. J. Russell, a well-known physician, declared "that tobacco was destroying the very vitality of the nation"; that the hope of the country rested with the children; and urged, especially, says the London Christian, "that Sunday-school teachers inculcate total abstinence from tobacco among their pupils." The "crusade" has not been begun too soon and should be vigorously inaugurated on this side of the Atlantic.—Temperance Advocate.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales, when he goes hunting, likes to enjoy himself unostentatiously, and doesn't want a fuss made about him. But when he went to Gloucestershire lately, to visit Lord Shannon, His Lordship, anxious to show the Prince the cream of his country, had asked Mr. Powell to allow one of the meets to be at his residence, Eastcourt House, mentioning at the same time that His Royal Highness had come simply to hunt and enjoy himself, and did not wish any fuss made.

Mr. Powell, a member of Parliament and a newly rich person, appeared to think this all nonsense, and when the meeting was appointed on his estate, made a very great fuss indeed. He set up a marquee on the lawn for the Prince's luncheon; he prepared his reception-rooms for the entertainment of his hunting friends and acquaintances; he laid in bread and cheese by the ton weight, and strong beer by the hoghead for the consumption of the country side. Consequences:—The Prince never entered the marquee prepared for him, but the mob of mechanics and laborers of the neighborhood and the roughs in general broke in, devoured the royal luncheon, and made the day hideous with their orgies. Great damage was done; the farmers complained of the drunken trespassers found lying about their fields; Lord Shannon and the members of the Hunt were naturally much disgusted. The Prince was too good-natured to look or feel annoyed; and after a long day's hunting refreshed himself with tea and poached eggs at the nearest clergyman's residence, not having been seen at all by his ambitious would-be host, Mr. Powell.

There are no less than fifteen ladies carrying on the business of dressmaking in Thorold.

ing during the ceremony.

A FAIR DECISION.

Brother Gardner was yesterday called into a house on Grove street to render a decision in the case of a colored man who had jumped his board bill, the landlady desiring to know if she could sue the deserter without his being present.

"What is the object of a suit?" asked the philosopher.

"So as to secure a debt," she replied.

"After securing the debt, den what?"

"Den collect it."

"How kin you collect it if de man hasn't got nuffin?"

"Dat's what I called you in for," she continued. "I want a 'cision on dat point."

"De case am—de case am," he mused, as he rubbed his head, "de cause am, kin you collect anything from a cullud man who hasn't got nuffin? Tell you what I'd do, Misses Brown. I'd write for dat nigger to come back, make a bargain to board him fur six weeks, at den slap an execution on to him an' seize de contract."

"But how would dat git what he owes me now?" she asked.

"It won't git the lost money, ob course, but you see it would keep him from boardin' on you six weeks mo'. Dat's de 'cision, Mrs. Brown, and now I'll take one of dem pies an' be goin' home to dinner."—Detroit Free Press.

BE COURTEOUS.

There are a thousand little courtesies and salutations and compliments of life, but it would be blunt if there were still more of them. Bluntness does not mean honesty, and a recognition of whatever is good in men does not mean sincerity. It would be promotive of happiness if every time men descended in the morning they would look for that which is comely and praiseworthy, and single it out and tell it to their wives. Oh, if men would only court after they are married as they do before, what joy there would be! What praise there would be distributed among the community! But the faults of men are generally first thought of, and are condemned. There are a multitude of little, imperfect, irregular things in human conduct; and a man says: "I am not one of those who go around and flatter folks; I'll tell them what I think of them; if they have faults I'll tell them strong." But it is not necessary to be hard and repellent and unsympathetic to be honest. There is good as well as evil in men, and it is surely as worthy of recognition.—Christian Union.

Cooking In The Army.

An order has been lately received at Aldershot which cannot fail to have a beneficial influence upon the soldier's mode of life. All recruits, on completion of their musketry instruction, are to be put through a course of cooking in the field, which is to be carried out under the auspices of the Assistant Quartermaster-General, so that every young soldier may be dependent upon himself for the proper cooking of his meals on a campaign. The British soldier is far behind his French and German brethren in culinary skill, and probably not half a dozen men in a company, beyond the professional cooks, could make a stew properly, or grill a bit of beef or mutton in the open air. In the French army cooking is one of the subjects of examination in which a private must display competent knowledge before he is promoted to the rank of corporal, and in consequence the art is cultivated throughout every regiment.

An effort will be made to get the 20th and 97th regiments to call at Montreal en route to British Columbia.

Rev. W. S. Ball, of Knox church, Guelph, has been presented by his congregation with a purse containing $181 in gold.

DIRECTORY

TRAVELER'S GUIDE.

G. T. RAILWAY.

GOING EAST.	GOING WEST.
Express. 1:10 A. M.	Express. 5:12 P. M.
Express. 12:58 P. M.	Express. 5:52 A. M.
Mixed. 11:28 P. M.	Mixed. 7:55 A. M.

STAGES ARRIVE AT NAPANEE.
From Newburgh and Tamworth.	10 1/2 a. m.
From Picton and Mill Point.	7 p. m.
From Erienville.	10 1/2 a. m.

DEPART FROM NAPANEE.
To Newburgh and Tamworth.	2 1/2 p. m.
To Mill Point and Picton.	3 1/2 a. m.
To Erienville.	2 1/2 p. m.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.
Hon. R. J. Cartwright, Finance Minister.
Schuyler Shibley, M. P.

ONTARIO PARLIAMENT.
J. T. Grange, M. P. P.
H. M. Deroche, M. P.

COUNTY AND TOWN OFFICIALS.
W. H. Wilkinson, Judge.
O. T. Pruyn, Sheriff.
W. A. Reeve, Clerk of the Peace and County Attorney.
J. B. McGuin, Clerk of the County Court, and Deputy Clerk of the Crown.
Do, Surrogate Registrar.
W. N. Dollar, Warden.
F. Burrows, County School Inspector.
W. V. Dettlor, County Clerk.
E. Hooper, Treasurer.
M. P. Roblin, Registrar.
W. S. Williams, Mayor.
John Herring, Reeve.
Chas. H. Miller, Deputy Reeve.
Wm. Chamberlain, Town Clerk.
Robert Easton, Town Treasurer.
Jas. Allen, Chief of Police.
J. Benson, Collector of Customs and Registrar of Shipping.
C. B. Perry, Landing Waiter and Searcher.
T. G. Pile, Landing Waiter and Searcher, Mill Point.
G. Bogart, Postmaster, Napanee.
G. B. Sills, Inspector of Weights and Measures.
Wm. Hoyle, Inspector of Licenses.
Chas. James, Clerk 1st Division Court, Napanee.
C. L. Rogers, 2d " "
J. J. Watson, 3d " "
Peter Johnston, 4th " "
Wm. Wheelan, 5th " "
Henry Fultz, 6th " "
Thos. Miller, 7th " "

POST OFFICE.

The Post Office Napanee is open from 8 a. m. till 6 p. m.
Day Train East Mail closes,	12:05 p. m.
West " "	4:30 p. m.
Night Train East " "	9:00 p. m.
West " "	9:00 p. m.
Camden Route—Tamworth, Centreville, Camden East, Newburgh and Napanee Mills—Mail closes 2:15 p. m.
Mill Point and Prince Edward County Route—Mill Point, Picton, Napanee, Port, and Demoreville—Mail closes 6:30 a. m.
Fredericksburg Route—Morven, Hamburg, Sillsville, Parma and Conway—Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays—Mail closes 1 p. m.
Switzer'sville—Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays—Mail closes 1:15 p. m.
Gosport and Gretina—Saturday—Mail closes 1 p. m.
Erienville, Roblin and Selby, daily—Mail closes 1:30 p. m.
Overton, Forest Mills and Leinster, daily—Mail closes 1:30 p. m.

CHURCHES.

HOURS OF SERVICES.

Episcopal Methodist—Rev. R. M. Pope. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
Canada Methodist—Rev. W. S. Blackstock. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
Episcopal—Rev. J. J. Bogart, Rector. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
Presbyterian—Rev. A. Young. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
Roman Catholic—Rev. Father MacDonagh. Mass 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School 2:30 p. m.
The Brethren—Meet at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30 p. m., every Sunday in Grange Block.

GEO. P. ROWELL & Co.,
40 PARK ROW, NEW YORK,
—AND—
ROWELL & CHESMAN,
ST. LOUIS.
AGENTS for the "NAPANEE EXPRESS".
Napanee, Ont.

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, APRIL, 20th, 1877.

A professional diver in Ottawa, has been employed in building the piers for the rail ray bridge over Gatineau. He recently went down in twenty five feet of water to remove some ice from under a crib, and while down the air pipe became twisted and the supply was cut off. Finding his danger he pulled the alarm rope, but before he reached the surface he was unconscious and was with difficulty restored.

HAMILTON, April 12.—This morning as No. 24 freight was approaching Cayuga bridge on the Loop line, the drawhead of one of the cars broke, causing it to leave the rails. In this state it was dragged on the bridge, where, smashing through the side truss of the first span, it fell through, dragging with it five other cars. No one was injured, and the damage as far as can be seen is not very serious. But slight delay was caused to the passenger trains, which are now running via the main line. Welland branch, and International bridge.

At a meeting held in Ottawa on the 10th to consider the best means of relieving the unemployed workmen, a memorial was drawn up for presentation to the Senate, requesting that body to urge upon the Government the desirability of originating and carrying on immediately in Ottawa and its vicinity such public works as may to them seem necessary and in the public interest, and by so doing alleviate the present destitution.

Charles Satch, a brakeman on the Great Western at Brucefield, Ont., while attempting to ascend a car while in motion, slipped and fell below the cars. Two cars passed over the body, almost severing it in two. His death was instantaneous.

The cabmen of the Upper Town (Ottawa) stand are having a magnificent gold-headed cane made, which they intend to ask his Excellency the Governor-General to accept as a token of their esteem.

THE NORTH-WEST.

Mr. Joseph Hunter, C. E., and party left Victoria on the 28 inst for the purpose of determining the boundary line between British Columbia and Alaska.

Fourteen thousand acres of land have been taken up in the New Westminster district by purchase and pre-emption, since 1st of January. This is one of those facts which tells its own story and needs little comment. The superior advantages offered to the agriculturist by New Westminster district are pretty generally recognized, and the conversion of the Frazer Valley into a flourishing settlement is now only a question of time.

The Chinese question comes up in Victoria repeatedly. The Colonist of the 28th inst says.—considerable number of white men and women are now in this city in quest of work. They have come to settle if they can find employment, and it is the duty of every resident to assist them as far as he can in obtaining it. In every case where help is required preference should be given to the Caucasian over the Mongolian. Valuable immigrants are coming and going every day, and there should be a vigorous effort made to retain them amongst us. But if people will continue to employ Chinamen to the exclusion of their own race, we shall have no inducement to offer white immigrants.

In Victoria is shown a sample of 140 ounces of gold dust taken from the mines in the Okanagan District. This is the third shipment of dust from this locality, besides a considerable quantity which came down in Chinese hands.

AMERICAN.

A New York butcher bought his cattle on thirty days, sent them to England, sold them, and the cable told him that he had cleared $16,000 before the thirty days

Defences of the River Thames are being strengthened.

LIVERPOOL, April 11.—At a meeting of the steamship conference to-day, it was resolved that from the 1st May the Inman, Gilson, National, and White Star lines would run steamers fortnightly instead of weekly thus withdrawing half the present fleet.

The Times publishes what it pronounces a most extraordinary address to Archbishops and Bishops of the Church of England, signed by the Dean of St. Paul's, Dean of York and others, and deprecating Parliamentary encroachment on the spiritual work of the Church.

On the 1st of May, the tariff on Atlantic cables will be increased to three shillings per word.

The American squadron in European waters has been ordered to assemble at Nice, preparatory to sailing to Constantinople and other Eastern ports to protect American interests.

Queen Victoria has sent from her private purse, £5 to Captain Wilson, of New Orleans, who, in 1850, saved the crew and passengers of the emigrant steamship Connaught.

A remarkable movement is now in progress in Ireland for closing all drinking places on Sunday. A petition from the city of Dublin has been sent to Parliament, a mile in length, and bearing 60,000 signatures. Meetings are frequently held to protest against the exemption of large towns from the operation of the proposed closing law. A careful house to house canvass of nineteen towns has shown that in them 100,000 persons voted Sunday closing and only 11,331 against it. The bill is likely to pass at this session of Parliament.

SPORTING NEWS.

At a numerously attended meeting on 5th inst., a club to be called the "Toronto Hare and Hounds," was formed, which now numbers some forty members.

A Californian proposes to sail to Liverpool, by the way of Cape Horn, in a boat only twenty feet long.

The ten-ton centreboard yacht which Captain Cuthbert has just completed is for Mr. John Bell, of Belleville. Work will at once be commenced on another yacht which Mr. Cuthbert intends building for himself.

The yacht Peerless was launched in Belleville on the 13th, at 3:30, and in about three hours her sails were bent and made ready for business.

It is said that Captain Cuthbert, of Cobourg, has attached the Yacht Countess of Duferin, for last year's wages. The Countess is an unfortunate craft.

A DISAGREEABLE SORT OF A NURSE.

Recently, in England, a servant employed as a nurse in the household of a farmer was committed for trial by the magistrate at Shipston-on-Stour on three charges attempted murder of her master's children. Within six weeks this youthful domestic set the house on fire 10 times. Three times set the cradle on fire while a baby of three weeks old was reposing in it. On one of these occasions, when the unfortunate infant intrusted to her charge was frightfully burned, a live coal was found on her pillow. On another occasion she "fired" a bed in which three children were sleeping. Of course, these repeated acts of incendiarism and attempted murder kept the household in a constant fidget, but they were attributed to "supernatural agency," and the clergyman of the parish was appealed to to quell the mischievous spirit which played such vagaries. The parson, however, confessing his inability to perform this task, the Deputy Chief Constable of the district took the matter in hand, and adopting an "unmystic" view of the mat-

THE EAST.

The Athens correspondent of the D News states that the Greek Government has given orders for an army of 60 men, to be in readiness for active service in case of need. The feeling in Athens is intensely anti-Russian.

ROME, April 16.—Reports have reached Cardinal Simeoni from Central Russia intimating that an international outbreak is imminent in Russian-Poland and adjacent Russian provinces. Preparations for the movement have been long going on.

VIENNA, April 16.—It is officially affirmed that Roumanian troops will pose the passage of the Danube by Turkish army, but will allow the Russians to cross the Pruth.

The Czar will join the army on 24th instant.

LONDON, April 16.—A Rome correspondent represents that the Vatican is elated at the prospect of war, ardently hopes the Russians may secure preliminary advantages, in which case it has persuaded itself that the world would become general.

The Standard's special from Pesth, "all journals here are agreed that it is impossible for Austria and Hungary remain neutral in the war which impels them unanimously argue in favour of alliance with England against Russia. Austria and Hungary are even more interested than England in preventing entrance of the Russians into Bulgaria."

TWENTY-TWO YEARS IN PRISON.

Here is a little story. Twenty-years ago a young man in New Ha was engaged to marry a young woman there. For some reason she transferred her promise to marry, if not affections, to another person. The suitor, who was a respectable mechanic, disapproved of the match, and declared that his rival was a disreputable person who would lead his affianced a wretched life, and that while he could surrender her himself, he would rather she should die than marry that man. Accordingly, and as he said, solely to save her from the awful fate of such a degrading marriage, he killed the girl. He did not attempt to conceal his deed; he justified and regarded himself as the savior of girl's happiness. He was tried for murder and acquitted on the ground of insanity, although he stoutly denied that he was insane, and said that he had acted up to his cool conviction of what was best for the girl, and was ready to suffer penalty of the law for the homicide. Acquired he was remanded to the county gaol by the Court. He remained there seven or eight years, all the time protesting that he was in his right mind and that the State should either hang him for murder or release him. He was then transferred to the State prison at Wethersfield, by what authority it did not appear, under no sentence. There he has remained until this day, in the same state of mind, apparently rational on all subjects, except that he insists that he had a right to kill the girl to save from dishonor; and that if the State thought otherwise it should have punished him as a murderer. This is the story of Willard Clarke, who has now petitioned the Assembly to remove him from State prison to the insane asylum at Middletown. If he is sane, he has a right to his liberty, having been once acquitted on trial for his life. So far as as it appears, he has been in gaol nearly a quarter of a century without authority of law for there is anywhere existing a legal commitment of Clarke as a lunatic. State prison is not a legal place for confinement of lunatics who have been convicted of crime. It is quite fitting that the Assembly relieved the State of the disgrace of such ship-shod proceedings.

CHURCHES.

HOURS OF SERVICES.

Episcopal Methodist—Rev. R. M. Pope. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
Canada Methodist—Rev. W. S. Blackstock. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
Episcopal—Rev. J. J. Bogart, Rector. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
Presbyterian—Rev. A. Young. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
Roman Catholic—Rev. Father MacDonagh. Mass 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School 2:30 p. m.
The Brethren—Meet at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30 p. m., every Sunday in Grange Block.

GEO. P. ROWELL & Co.,

40 PARK ROW, NEW YORK,

ROWELL & CHESMAN,

St. Louis,

AGENTS for the "NAPANEE EXPRESS",
Napanea, Ont.

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, APRIL, 20th, 1877.

MR. CARTWRIGHT'S LOAN.

The general opinion in Ottawa is that the Opposition made a great mistake in once more raising the question of the Canadian loan. The news from Europe is of such a nature as to show that but for the foresight which induced Mr. Cartwright to visit London last year the financial situation might at the present time be one of great embarrassment. Heavy obligations are accruing in the shape of debts, requiring to be paid off, and at this moment were a demand for a new loan to be made it is doubtful whether it could be effected except at a most ruinous sacrifice and on terms injurious to the credit and reputation of the country. With respect to the transaction of November last it is now demonstrated beyond a doubt that the loan was the best ever made by a Canadian Minister. So far from any loss having been sustained, it is certain that it was the highest rate that could have been reasonably expected. Canadian four per cents. were selling at 90½ in June and July, 1876, or ¾ per cent less than the price offered in November following. Owing to a considerable amount of the last loan remaining on hand sales were very heavy even on these terms. The agents had rendered most valuable services in removing the stock on the market previous to Mr. Cartwright's visit the activity they displayed having temporarily increased the last quotation, a fact which has served as a test for Opposition commentators. Messrs Barings and Glyn's were of course bound by every sentiment of honour to give their best advice and aid to the Minister of Finance who stood towards them in the relation of client to professional advisers, and it is a most contemptible and ridiculous slur upon the character of these eminent firms to assume that for the sake of pocketing a few thousands they would have forfeited the claim to the confidence of the Governments of half a dozen countries towards which they stand in the most confidential relations. The time was extremely critical, and a few hours after the last of the applications was closed the loan could have been bought back at a heavy discount.—Globe.

KINGSTON.

"Building operations are very active at present, and our mechanics look forward to a season of prosperity. There is great demand for first-class men, and the supply is scarcely equal to the demand."

Monday April 16.—The schooner Denmark arrived at Garden Island to-day with timber from Toronto, having made three comment. The superior advantages offered to the agriculturalist by New Westminster district are pretty generally recognized, and the conversion of the Frazer Valley into a flourishing settlement is now only a question of time.

The Chinese question comes up in Victoria repeatedly. The Colonist of the 28th inst. says.—considerable number of white men and women are now in this city in quest of work. They have come to settle if they can find employment, and it is the duty of every resident to assist them as far as he can in obtaining it. In every case where help is required preference should be given to the Caucasian over the Mongolian. Valuable immigrants are coming and going every day, and there should be a vigorous effort made to retain them amongst us. But if people will continue to employ Chinamen to the exclusion of their own race, we shall have no inducement to offer white immigrants.

In Victoria is shown a sample of 140 ounces of gold dust taken from the mines in the Okanagan District. This is the third shipment of dust from this locality, besides a considerable quantity which came down in Chinese hands.

AMERICAN.

A New York butcher bought his cattle on thirty days, sent them to England, sold them, and the cable told him that he had cleared $16,000 before the thirty days had expired.

A mass-meeting of non-Mormons at Salt Lake, adopted a resolution favouring amending the territorial law, so as to disfranchise the Mormons and prevent them holding office, and to provide for secret balloting.

NEW YORK, April 14.—350 emigrants from the United States sailed for Australia this morning.

The Minnesota Forestry Association has offered to furnish from three to five hundred thousand young forest trees and cuttings to those who have lost their crops, and are now in danger of losing their timber claims for lack of money to purchase.

CHICAGO, April 12.—Intense excitement prevails among the guests at the large hotels in consequence of the destruction of the Southern Hotel at St. Louis. Hotel proprietors are doing their utmost to suppress the excitement by adding the latest means of fire escape to the buildings and employing special fire patrols to guard against such accidents. One of the principal hotel owners here offers to expose any room in his hotel to ignited combustibles, in order to test the absolute security of the house against fire. The test will take place this week.

NEW YORK, April 14.—A World's St. John special reports this year's seal fighting most promising. One vessel has returned with 2,000 seals, worth $126,000, after a twenty-six days' trip.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 14.—A special from Baxter Springs says the Baxter and Joplin mail coming this way was robbed yesterday by highwaymen who presented pistols at the head of the driver and compelled him to throw off the mail bags. There were no passengers.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Armed oystermen in a tug were prepared to resist the city garbage men, who were proceeding to dump refuse near Hart's island in the sound yesterday. Another fleet of scows, with officials on board, went out to-day. Trouble is anticipated.

An English steamer leaves New Haven with 10,000,000 Winchester cartridges and 700 rifles for Turkey.

While laborers were blasting rocks in Astoria, N. Y. a boulder, weighing two hundred pounds, was blown into the air, and alighted on Wm. Dean's house, going through the roof and falling on the infant son of Dean, crushing him into an unrecognizable mass.

The steamer "Germanic," of the White Star Line, arrived at New York the 13th inst., after a passage of seven days and eleven hours.

The yacht Peerless was launched in Belleville on the 13th, at 3:30, and in about three hours her sails were bent and made ready for business.

It is said that Captain Cuthbert, of Cobourg, has attached the Yacht Countess of Duferin, for last year's wages. The Countess is an unfortunate craft.

A DISAGREEABLE SORT OF A NURSE.

Recently, in England, a servant employed as a nurse in the household of a farmer was committed for trial by the magistrate at Shipston-on-Stour on three charges attempted murder of her master's children. Within six weeks this youthful domestic set the house on fire 10 times. Three times set the cradle on fire while a baby of three weeks old was reposing in it. On one of these occasions, when the unfortunate infant intrusted to her charge was frightfully burned, a live coal was found on her pillow. On another occasion she "fired" a bed in which three children were sleeping. Of course, these repeated acts of incendiarism and attempted murder kept the household in a constant fidget, but they were attributed to "supernatural agency," and the clergyman of the parish was appealed to to quell the mischievous spirit which played such vagaries. The parson, however, confessing his inability to perform this task, the Deputy Chief Constable of the district took the matter in hand, and adopting an "unmystic" view of the matter, arrested the servant girl, notwithstanding the remonstrances of her employers. She then, with touching naivete, admitted that she had intended to destroy the children and then drown herself.

A NEW MOVE AMONG THE RITUALISTS.

We make public the astounding fact that a section of members of the Church of England have taken measures for founding what will be nothing less than a new Anglican Communion. This resolution has been come to in consequence of the action taken by the Anglican prelates, under the Public Worship Regulation Act. A brand-new Archbishop, with a very ancient title, is to be consecrated by one or more foreign prelates. Secondly, two suffragans, each with titles from old English sees, are to be consecrated simultaneously, but (as we are given to understand) independently, and are to begin their conjoined labours in England, in the High Church interest in July next. The difficulties attendant upon the consecration of the Archbishop and his suffragans (as far as regards any interference with existing jurisdictions, whether Popish or others) will be surmounted by the ingenious plan of consecrating them upon the high seas. The formularies of this new ecclesiastical body are based upon the dogmas and writes of the Latin and Greek churches. A brief "Sacramentary" has been officially drawn up containing the order for the administration of the Seven Sacraments. The manual contains instructions for the use of the chrisom or prayer-oil as in the Greek and Roman Churches.

The ceremonial will be exceedingly exceedingly expressive and elaborate, and by after additions—not essential—even imposing. The three creeds of the undivided Church and of the Church of England—viz., the Apostles', the Athanasian and the Nicene—will continue to be used in the new communion. Finally, the new communion will be unaggressive and conservative, not destructive. In addition to 12,000 beneficed parsons, there are no less than 8,000 unbeneficed clergymen to whom we suppose the new spiritual intruders will look for support.—Whitell's Review.

TEMPERANCE AMONG THE VOLUNTEERS.

PRINCE OF WALES RIFLES TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATION.

On January 14, 1876, a Temperance Association was organized in the Prince of Wales Rifles, with a membership of

although the society denied that he was insane, and said that he had acted up his cool conviction of what was best for the girl, and was ready to suffer the penalty of the law for the homicide. Acquitted he was remanded to the county jail by the Court. He remained there seven or eight years, all the time protesting that he was in his right mind and that the State should either hang him for murder or release him. He was then transferred to the State prison at Wethersfield, by what authority it does not appear, under no sentence. Then he has remained until this day, in the same state of mind, apparently rational on all subjects, except that he insists that he had a right to kill the girl to save him from dishonor; and that if the State thought otherwise it should have punished him as a murderer. This is the story of Willard Clarke, who has now petitioned the Assembly to remove him from the State prison to the insane asylum at Middletown. If he is sane, he has a right to his liberty, having been once acquitted on trial for his life. So far as it appears, he has been in gaol nearly a quarter of a century without authority of law for if there is anywhere existing a legal commitment of Clarke as a lunatic the State prison is not a legal place for the confinement of lunatics who have not been convicted of crime. It is quite time that the Assembly relieved the State of the disgrace of such ship-shod proceedings.

DR. SCHLIEMANN'S DISCOVERIES.

Dr. Schliemann complains of the envy displayed by the Greek antiquaries, claiming in his indignation. "The world will kill me, they would kill me." The gentleman appointed by the Greek Government to direct the operations had Schliemann's life a burden to him. The tomb of Agamemnon was a scene of continual conflict, and the unhappy excavator could not even leave the dinner table without finding his custodian at his heel.

On the occasion of a dinner given lately by the Doctor to some of his intimate friends in Athens he exhibited an opinion of what he believes to be the remains of Agamemnon recently exhumed at Mykenae. One of the guests writes—"We counted his teeth, measured his proportions, and discussed the old fellow from head to toe. I should say that Agamemnon was physically well proportioned, and in that respect a man of parts. The skeleton itself is carefully guarded at Mykenae; it cannot be removed by ordinary means without destroying it but it is to be hoped that some method may be devised by which it may be held together and brought to take its place with the valuable treasures, many of which, no doubt, were seen and handled by Agamemnon himself."

TEMPERANCE IN ONTARIO.

At a Sunday Temperance Meeting in Toronto, Mr. T. W. Handford addressed the audience on the present aspects of the question. He said that after six months' working for the cause he was convinced that Toronto was far behind the country districts in temperance sentiment. The Dunkin Act was in almost everybody's mouth, and he found men who were not at all favourable to the temperance cause, voting in its favour because they had no desire to be classed with the opposition. There is not a country in Ontario where the Dunkin Act might not be passed if the temperance people went earnestly and unitedly to work and saw that no blundering except upon the individual who indulged in it, it would be bad enough, but the evil reached everyone with whom he was connected. Mr. Handford then gave a graphic description of a visit to the Penitentiary at Kingston, and the daily life of convicts there, and asserted upon the testimony of themselves that 500 out of the 700 at present incarcerated were brought there through drink. The speaker closed his address by expressing the belief that the day was fast coming when all God's servants would rally to the conflict and crush the terrible monster that for the foresight which induced Mr. Cartwright to visit London last year the financial situation might at the present time be one of great embarrassment. Heavy obligations are accruing in the shape of debts, requiring to be paid off, and at this moment there is a demand for a new loan to be made it is doubtful whether it could be effected except at a most ruinous sacrifice and on terms injurious to the credit and reputation of the country. With respect to the transaction of November last it is now demonstrated beyond a doubt that the loan was the best ever made by a Canadian Minister. So far from any loss having been sustained, it is certain that it was the highest rate that could have been reasonably expected. Canadian four per cents. were selling at 90½ in June and July, 1876, or 7½ per cent less than the price offered in November following. Owing to a considerable amount of the last loan remaining on hand sales were very heavy even on these terms. The agents had rendered most valuable services in removing the stock on the market previous to Mr. Cartwright's visit the activity they displayed having temporarily increased the last quotation, a fact which has served as a test for Opposition commentators. Messrs Barings and Glynns were of course bound by every sentiment of honour to give their best advice and aid to the Minister of Finance who stood towards them in the relation of client to professional advisers, and it is a most contemptible and ridiculous slur upon the character of these eminent firms to assume that for the sake of pocketing a few thousands they would have forfeited the claim to the confidence of the Governments of half a dozen countries towards which they stand in the most confidential relations. The time was extremely critical, and a few hours after the last of the applications was closed the loan could have been bought back at a heavy discount. —Globe.

KINGSTON.

"Building operations are very active at present, and our mechanics look forward to a season of prosperity. There is great demand for first-class men, and the supply is scarcely equal to the demand."

Monday April 16.—The schooner Denmark arrived at Garden Island to-day with timber from Toronto, having made the first round trip of the season.

The Maud made her first trip to Cape Vincent and back this morning. She will run regularly now twice a day.

The Brooklyn and Prince Alfred left on Saturday night, the former for Bay City and the latter for Toledo.

BELLEVILLE.

Immense revival meetings are progressing in some of the methodist and presbyterian churches.

The body of a young man named Robillard, who was drowned through the ice in the early part of the winter, was found floating near Cew Island on last Friday afternoon.

CANADIAN.

Twenty captains of lake crafts signed the pledge at East Saginaw, Michigan, on the 21st of March. This is a commendable way to begin the season of navigation.

At Doyer, a fishing settlement, thirty miles from Halifax, Charles Cleveland shot his wife and then shot himself in the face, the upper part of his head being blown off. Family troubles relative to property caused the crime. The husband was taking a gun out of the house he said to shoot a son with whom he had a law suit. The wife endeavored to prevent him leaving, when he shot her, and loading the gun again fired a second charge into her. He then reloaded and shot himself. They leave five sons and three daughters, all married.

lia this morning.

The Minnesota Forestry Association has offered to furnish from three to five hundred thousand young forest trees and cuttings to those who have lost their crops, and are now in danger of losing their timber claims for lack of money to purchase.

Chicago, April 12.—Intense excitement prevails among the guests at the large hotels in consequence of the destruction of the Southern Hotel at St. Louis. Hotel proprietors are doing their utmost to suppress the excitement by adding the latest means of fire escape to the buildings and employing special fire patrols to guard against such accidents. One of the principal hotel owners here offers to expose any room in his hotel to ignited combustibles, in order to test the absolute security of the house against fire. The test will take place this week.

New York, April 14.—A World's St. John special reports this year's seal fishing most promising. One vessel has returned with 42,000 seals, worth $126,000, after a twenty-six days' trip.

Kansas City, Mo., April 14.—A special from Baxter Springs says the Baxter and Joplin mail coming this way was robbed yesterday by highwaymen who presented pistols at the head of the driver and compelled him to throw off the mail bags. There were no passengers.

New York, April 14.—Armed oystermen in a tug were prepared to resist the city garbage men, who were proceeding to dump refuse near Hart's island in the sound yesterday. Another fleet of scows, with officials on board, went out to-day. Trouble is anticipated.

An English steamer leaves New Haven with 10,000,000 Winchester cartridges and 700 rifles for Turkey.

While laborers were blasting rocks in Astoria, N. Y. a boulder, weighing two hundred pounds, was blown into the air, and alighted on Wm. Dean's house, going through the roof and falling on the infant son of Dean, crushing him into an unrecognizable mass.

The steamer "Germanic," of the White Star Line, arrived at New York the 13th inst., after a passage of seven days and eleven hours.

FOREIGN.

A bill has been brought forward in the English Parliament to abolish the death penalty. Whoever is convicted of murder after the passing of the Act shall be kept in penal servitude for life, and whoever is found guilty of high treason shall, at the discretion of the court, be sentenced to penal servitude for life or for any term not less than seven years.

Four tons weight of valentines have been returned to the Dead Letter Office in London from all parts of the kingdom. This immense mass of amatory rubbish is to be worked into pulp before being sold to the paper makers.

Mr. Jonas Reiss, a banker and money-changer, in Liverpool, has poisoned himself in that city. He had sent a letter to his relatives stating that in consequence of heavy losses on the Stock Exchange he had resolved to destroy himself. He had been in business many years, and was widely known and much respected. He was a Jew.

Mr. Geo. Morley Harrison, a well-known surgeon of Manchester, went to a dentist to have a tooth extracted, and whilst under the influence of nitrous gas he suddenly died. The coroner's jury returned a verdict that "death resulted from syncope during the administration of gas for the extraction of teeth whilst suffering from fatty degeneration of the heart." Deceased was 52 years of age.

Constantinople, April 12.—A fire at Stambul on Tuesday destroyed between three hundred and five hundred houses.

We make public the astounding fact that a section of members of the Church of England have taken measures for founding what will be nothing less than a new Anglican Communion. This resolution has been come to in consequence of the action taken by the Anglican prelates, under the Public Worship Regulation Act. A brand-new Archbishop, with a very ancient title, is to be consecrated by one or more foreign prelates. Secondly, two suffragans, each with titles from old English sees, are to be consecrated simultaneously, but (as we are given to understand) independently, and are to begin their conjoined labours in England, in the High Church interest in July next. The difficulties attendant upon the consecration of the Archbishop and his suffragans (as far as regards any interference with existing jurisdictions, whether Popish or others) will be surmounted by the ingenious plan of consecrating them upon the high seas. The formularies of this new ecclesiastical body are based upon the dogmas and rites of the Latin and Greek churches. A brief "Sacramentary" has been officially drawn up containing the order for the administration of the Seven Sacraments. The manual contains instructions for the use of the chrism or prayer-oil as in the Greek and Roman Churches.

The ceremonial will be exceedingly exceedingly expressive and elaborate, and by after additions—not essential—even imposing. The three creeds of the undivided Church and of the Church of England—viz., the Apostles', the Athanasian and the Nicene—will continue to be used in the new communion. Finally, the new communion will be non-aggressive and conservative, not destructive. In addition to 12,000 beneficed parsons, there are no less than 8,000 unbeneficed clergymen to whom we suppose the new spiritual intruders will look for support. —Whitchell Review.

TEMPERANCE AMONG THE VOLUNTEERS.

PRINCE OF WALES RIFLES TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATION.

On January 14, 1876, a Temperance Association was organized in the Prince of Wales Rifles, with a membership of sixty, which was considered large at the time, and some thought that it would scarcely retain all its members. However, the annual report of the Society, read at its first annual meeting Monday evening in St. George's Church, showed that since that time twenty-six names had been added to the roll, making a total of eighty-six members. The aim of the promoters of the Society, headed by its popular Sergeant-Major, is to make the good old Prince of Wales Rifles a regiment of total abstainers.

Rev. Mr. Carmichael showed Monday evening that while thirty or forty years ago there was an almost universal opinion that no man could really be a good soldier unless he drank hard, this was not held to such an extent now after the success of the Red River and Abyssinian expeditions, which had plainly manifested the advantage of being total abstainers. He gave an amusing description of three "hard up" men who, just before the Red River expedition, clung to him with all the "affection of fellow-countrymen." He suggested to them that they should join the expedition, and they did so, although he never could tell how they passed the necessary examination, for he supposed they had to pass some sort of scrutiny. These men were obliged to be abstainers on the route up, and when they arrived at Red River they had improved so much as to be hardly recognizable as the same men. Sir Garnet Wolseley was not himself a total abstainer, and the testimony he bore to the benefits of total abstinence in his expeditions consequently came with more weight than form an avowed advocate of temperance principles. —Montreal Witness.

tion of Agamemnon was a scene of continual conflict, and the unhappy excavator could not even leave the dinner table without finding his custodian at his heels.

On the occasion of a dinner given lately by the Doctor to some of his intimate friends in Athens he exhibited an oil painting of what he believes to be the remains of Agamemnon recently exhumed at Mykenæ. One of the guests writes:—"We counted his teeth, measured his proportions, and discussed the old fellow from head to toe. I should say that Agamemnon was physically well proportioned, and in that respect a man of parts. The skeleton itself is carefully guarded at Mykenæ; it cannot be removed by ordinary means without destroying it, but it is to be hoped that some method may be devised by which it may be held together and brought to take its place with the valuable treasures, many of which, no doubt, were seen and handled by Agamemnon himself."

TEMPERANCE IN ONTARIO.

At a Sunday Temperance Meeting in Toronto, Mr. T. W. Handford addressed the audience on the present aspects of the question. He said that after six months' working for the cause he was convinced that Toronto was far behind the country districts in temperance sentiment. The Dunkin Act was in almost everybody's mouth, and he found men who were not at all favourable to the temperance cause, voting in its favour because they had no desire to be classed with the opposition. There is not a country in Ontario where the Dunkin Act might not be passed if the temperance people went earnestly and unitedly to work and saw that no blundering took place. If drink had no evil effects except upon the individual who indulged in it, it would be bad enough, but the evil reached everyone with whom he was connected. Mr. Handford then gave a graphic description of a visit to the Penitentiary at Kingston, and the daily life of convicts there, and asserted upon the testimony of themselves that 500 out of the 700 at present incarcerated were brought there through drink. The speaker closed his address by expressing the belief that the day was fast coming when all God's servants would rally to the conflict and crush the terrible traffic that threatens both Church and home.

"TIME."

"JOHN" ON HIS MUSCLE.

Wah Ling and Sam Sing, two Chinese laundrymen, were arrested for disturbing the peace on Monday. There is a war of rates between the various Celestial laundries in Toronto, five of which have been established within the last month, and Ling, whose place is on Adelaide street, visited Sing on Queen street, and urged a little vigorously that no further reduction should take place. Sing protested that he would do as he liked, and the discussion waxing warm, Ling snatched up a knife to assault Sing, who, catching the weapon by the blade, severely cut all the fingers on the right hand, and then endeavored to stab Ling, who made his escape on to the street, lightly pursued by his antagonist. The police finally appeared on the scene, and marched the two combatants to the station amid a string of good sound English and American oaths, which would have done infinite credit to any Christian.

The Sydney Exhibition.

By private letter, just received, we learn that the Sydney Exhibition Committee have agreed to keep it open a month instead of two weeks, as at first proposed, in order to allow Canadians time to show and sell their goods. The Exhibition opened on the 10th of April and will last till the 10th of May. It is stated that Canadian tweeds, boots and shoes, and fancy goods can be sold in large quantities at remunerative rates.

Defences of the River Thames are being strengthened.

LIVERPOOL, April 11.—At a meeting of the steamship conference to-day, it was resolved that from the 1st May the ship, Gun, National, and White Star lines would run steamers fortnightly instead of weekly thus withdrawing half the present fleet.

The Times publishes what it pronounces a most extraordinary address to rehbishops and Bishops of the Church of England, signed by the Dean of St. Paul's, Dean of York and others, and denouncing Parliamentary encroachment on the spiritual work of the Church.

On the 1st of May, the tariff on Atlantic cables will be increased to three shillings or more.

The American squadron in European waters has been ordered to assemble at ice, preparatory to sailing to Constantinople and other Eastern ports to protect American interests.

Queen Victoria has sent from her private purse, £5 to Captain Wilson, of New Orleans, who, in 1859, saved the crew and passengers of the emigrant steamship Connaught.

A remarkable movement is now in progress in Ireland for closing all drinking places on Sunday. A petition from the city of Dublin has been sent to Parliament, a mile in length, and bearing 2,000 signatures. Meetings are frequently held to protest against the exemption of large towns from the operation of the proposed closing law. A careful house to house canvass of nineteen towns has shown that in them 100,000 persons voted Sunday closing and only 11,331 against it. The bill is likely to pass at this session of Parliament.

SPORTING NEWS.

At a numerously attended meeting on the 1st inst., a club to be called the "Toronto Hare and Hounds," was formed, which now numbers some forty members.

A Californian proposes to sail to Liverpool, by the way of Cape Horn, in a boat only twenty feet long.

The ten-ton centreboard yacht which Captain Cuthbert has just completed is to be named "John Bell, of Belleville." Work will at once be commenced on another yacht which Mr. Cuthbert intends building for himself.

The yacht Peerless was launched in Belleville on the 13th, at 3:30, and in about three hours her sails were bent and made ready for business.

It is said that Captain Cuthbert, of Belleville, has attached the Yacht Countess of Duferin, for last year's wages. The Countess is an unfortunate craft.

A DISAGREEABLE SORT OF A NURSE.

Recently, in England, a servant employed as a nurse in the household of a farmer was committed for trial by the magistrate at Shipston-on-Stour on three charges attempted murder of her master's children. Within six weeks this youthful domestic set the house on fire 10 times. Three times set the cradle on fire while a baby of three weeks old was reposing in it. On one of these occasions, when the unfortunate infant intrusted to her charge was frightfully burned, a live coal was found on her pillow. On another occasion she "fired" a bed in which three children were sleeping. Of course, these repeated acts of incendiarism and attempted murder kept the household in a constant fidget, but they were attributed to "supernatural agency," and the clergyman of the parish was appealed to to quell the mischievous spirit which played such vagaries. The parson, however, confessing his inability to perform this task, the Deputy Chief Constable of the district took the matter in hand, and

THE EAST.

The Athens correspondent of the Daily News states that the Greek Government has given orders for an army of 60,000 men, to be in readiness for active service in case of need. The feeling in Athens is intensely anti-Russian.

Rome, April 16.—Reports have reached Cardinal Simeoni from Central Russia, intimating that an international outbreak is imminent in Russian-Poland and contiguous Russian provinces. Preparations for the movement have been long going on.

VIENNA, April 16.—It is officially confirmed that Roumanian troops will oppose the passage of the Danube by the Turkish army, but will allow the Russians to cross the Pruth.

The Czar will join the army on the 24th instant.

LONDON, April 16.—A Rome correspondent represents that the Vatican is elated at the prospect of war, and ardently hopes the Russians may gain some preliminary advantages, in which case it has persuaded itself that the war would become general.

The Standard's special from Peath says "all journals here are agreed that it is impossible for Austria and Hungary to remain neutral in the war which impends. They unanimously argue in favour of an alliance with England against Russia. Austria and Hungary are even more interested than England in preventing the entrance of the Russians into Bulgaria."

TWENTY-TWO YEARS IN PRISON.

Here is a little story. Twenty-two years ago a young man in New Haven was engaged to marry a young woman there. For some reason she transferred her promise to marry, if not her affections, to another person. The first suitor, who was a respectable mechanic, disapproved of the match, and declared that his rival was a disreputable person who would lead his affianced a wretched life, and that while he could surrender her himself, he would rather she should die than marry that man. Accordingly, and, as he said, solely to save her from the awful fate of such a degrading marriage, he killed the girl. He did not attempt to conceal his deed; he justified it, and regarded himself as the savior of the girl's happiness. He was tried for murder and acquitted on the ground of insanity, although he stoutly denied that he was insane, and said that he had acted upon his cool conviction of what was best for the girl, and was ready to suffer the penalty of the law for the homicide. Acquitted he was remanded to the county gaol by the Court. He remained there seven or eight years, all the time protesting that he was in his right mind, and that the State should either bring him for murder or release him. He was then transferred to the State prison at Wethersfield, by what authority it does not appear, under no sentence. There he has remained until this day, in the same state of mind, apparently rational on all subjects, except that he insists that he had a right to kill the girl to save her from dishonor; and that if the State thought otherwise it should have punished him as a murderer. This is the story of Willard Clarke, who has now petitioned the Assembly to remove him from the State prison to the insane asylum at Middletown. If he is sane, he has a right to his liberty, having been once acquitted on trial for his life. So far as it appears, he has been in gaol nearly a quarter of a century without authority of law; for if there is anywhere existing a legal commitment of Clarke as a lunatic the State prison is not a legal place for the confinement of lunatics who have not been convicted of crime. It is quite time that the Assembly relieved the State of the disgrace of such slipshod proceedings.

THE LOCOMOTIVE BROTHERHOOD.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—The order for the strike of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers on the Philadelphia and Reading railway was promulgated to-day and went into effect at midnight. As the trains came in the engineers were notified of the action of the Brotherhood and all left their engines. The Company had already employed men to fill their places anticipating the decision of the Brotherhood.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—The strike of the Reading Railroad engineers continues. The strikers are confident that they will gain their point, while the officers of the Company say they can get all the men they need. At the Pottsville terminus the strike of engineers continues, but the men are quiet and orderly. Passenger and freight trains are running as usual, but in charge of non-union men. No coal trains started from Pottsville. No trains except those carrying mails run on the Catawissa branch.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 17.—The Reading Railway Superintendent had an interview with the Governor regarding the insurance of commissions to policemen the company may see fit to appoint for the protection of their head employees.

READING, Pa., April 17.—All old conductors, baggage masters and brakemen in this section of the Reading railway have left work. The Pine Grove and Tremont passenger train for Pottsville was abandoned by the engineer to-day. A new man at Tremont delayed the mails and passengers six hours. Very little coal was shipped to-day.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—The Reading Railway Company has resolved to establish a fifth grade of engineers and a third class of fireman who shall receive 25c. and 15c. per day higher wages, and have directed all engineers and fireman in the service of the Company and still remaining at posts to be promoted to the new grades.

George Francis Train has issued a circular announcing a lecture, and proclaiming himself the champion of the strikers. The Brotherhood has disclaimed his championship.

The agent for Train says the Brotherhood engineers have recalled the resolution discountenancing Train.

THE IMPORTANT QUESTION.

Of all loathsome diseases Catarrh stands pre-eminent. It renders its victim as disgusting to himself as to others. And the most humiliating of all is the consciousness that his presence is offensive to those around him. If any disease deserves the name of universal, it is this. Dietetic errors and the follies which Fashion imposes upon us tend to foster and disseminate it. The pitiful cry of its victims, is there any cure for Catarrh? there is but one answer consistent with Christian reason. God has never sent one evil into the world for which he has not sent the remedy. For the greatest of all spiritual and moral evils, the Great Physician has prescribed a potent and never-failing remedy. He has given explicit rules for the treatment and preservation of the spiritual and moral man, but He is silent in all matters relating to the physical man. It would be an unwarrantable detraction from His beneficent character to suppose that He has afflicted the greater portion of humanity with an incurable disease. The day of plagues is past. The God of Christianity is a God of Love, of Mercy. His message is "good will to all men." The earth and all contained therein was intended by the great Designer to supply man's wants; and surely he has no greater wants than remedies for his infirmities. Science is rapidly proving that the earth is fitted to supply man's utmost need. New medicinal plants are constantly being discovered and new properties developed from those already known. For

LICENSES.

THE Board of License Commissioners for the Electoral District of Lennox, will meet on Saturday the 28th day of April inst., in the County Court Judges Chambers, at the Court House in Napanee, at 7 o'clock a.m.

A. L. MORDEN, Sec., B. L. C.
Napanee April 17th 1877.

52-2in.

CUSTOMS' DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, 13th April, 1877.
Authorized Discount on American Invoices until further notice 6 per cent.
J. JOHNSON, Commissioner.

52-2in.

List of Music Books

NOW IN STOCK, AT

HENDERSON'S BOOKSTORE,
DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

Any Book not on this list can be ordered, and be had on Short Notice.

Books mailed post free to any part of Canada, on receipt of the annexed price.

- | | |
|--|---------|
| Marr's Concertina Tutor, price | 15 cts. |
| Regondi's German Concertina Tutor, price | 15 " |
| " One Hundred Sacred Airs for the Concertina | 15 " |
| " One Hundred Melodies for the Concertina | 15 " |
| " Sacred Album for the Concertina | 15 " |
| Westrops Universal Harmonium Tutor | 15 " |
| 50 Christy's Minstrel's Songs | 15 " |
| Adams 100 Scottish Airs for the Violin, price | 20 " |
| 100 Christy's Minstrel's melodies for the Flute | 20 " |
| Adams 115 Dancing Tunes for the Concertina | 20 " |
| " 115 Scottish Dancing tunes for the Concertina | 20 " |
| Marr's Army and Navy tunes for the Concertina | 20 " |
| " Selection of Dance Music for the Concertina | 20 " |
| " Repository of Music for the Concertina | 20 " |
| " Christy's Minstrel's tunes for the Concertina | 20 " |
| " Concertina Companion | 20 " |
| Jousse's Musical Catechism | 25 " |
| Wales Songs and Ballads arranged for the Guitar | 30 " |
| Westrops 50 selected Polkas for the Pianoforte | 30 " |
| Regondi's 200 Melodies for the Concertina | 30 " |
| Sedgwick's 200 Melodies for the English Concertina | 30 " |
| Regondi's 20 sets of Quadrilles for the Concertina | 30 " |
| 50 Christy's Minstrel's Melodies for the Pianoforte | 30 " |
| 58 English and National Melodies for the Pianoforte | 30 " |
| 46 Operatic Melodies for the Pianoforte | 30 " |
| 54 Scottish Melodies for the Pianoforte | 30 " |
| 16 Moore's Irish Melodies for the Pianoforte | 30 " |
| 36 Pieces of Scottish Dance Music for the Pianoforte | 30 " |
| 32 Waltzes, Polkas & Schottisches for the Pianoforte | 30 " |
| Three & One Violin Tutor | 30 " |

for last year's wages. Countess is an unfortunate craft.

DISAGREEABLE SORT OF A NURSE.

Recently, in England, a servant engaged as a nurse in the household of a nobleman was committed for trial by the magistrate at Shipston-on-Stroud on three charges attempted murder of her master's child. Within six weeks this youth-domestic set the house on fire 10 times. Three times set the cradle on fire by a baby of three weeks old was rearing in it. On one of these occasions, on the unfortunate infant entrusted to her charge was frightfully burned, a live coal was found on her pillow. On another occasion she "fired" a bed in which the child was sleeping. Of course, so repeated acts of incendiarism and attempted murder kept the household in constant fidget, but they were attributed to "supernatural agency," and the clergyman of the parish was appealed to quell the mischievous spirit which yielded such vagaries. The parson, however, confessing his inability to perform his task, the Deputy Chief Constable of the district took the matter in hand, and giving an "unmystic" view of the matter, arrested the servant girl, notwithstanding the remonstrances of her employers. She then, with touching naïveté, admitted that she had intended to try the children and then drown her-

NEW MOVE AMONG THE RITUALISTS.

We make public the astounding fact that a section of members of the Church of England have taken measures for doing what will be nothing less than a new Anglican Communion. This action has been come to in consequence of the action taken by the Anglican prelates, under the Public Worship Regulation Act. A brand-new Archbishop, with a very ancient title, is to be consecrated by one or more foreign prelates. Secondly, two suffragans, each with titles from old English sees, are to be consecrated simultaneously, but (as we are given to understand) independently, before to begin their conjoint labours in England, in the High Church interest of July next. The difficulties attendant on the consecration of the Archbishop and his suffragans (as far as regards any preference with existing jurisdictions, either Popish or others) will be surmounted by the ingenious plan of consecrating them upon the high seas. The preliminaries of this new ecclesiastical ceremony are based upon the dogmas and rites of the Latin and Greek churches, brief "Sacramentary" has been officially drawn up containing the order for the ministrations of the Seven Sacraments, a manual contains instructions for the use of the chalice and prayer-oil as in the old and Roman Churches. The ceremonial will be exceedingly extravagant and elaborate, and after additions—not essential—even posing. The three creeds of the undivided Church and of the Church of England—viz., the Apostles', the Athanasian and the Nicene—will continue to be used in the new communion. Finally, the new communion will be non-aggressive and non-destructive. In addition, to 12,000 beneficed parsons, there are no less than 8,000 unbeneficed clergy to whom we suppose the new spiritual intruders will look for support.

At a Sunday Temperance Meeting in Toronto, Mr. T. W. Handford addressed the audience in the present aspects of the question. He said that after six months' working for the cause he was convinced that Toronto was far behind the country districts in temperance sentiment. The Duinker Act was in almost everybody's mouth, and he found men who were not at all favorable to the temperance cause, voting in its favour because they had no desire to be classed with the opposition. There is not a country in Ontario where the Duinker Act might not be passed if the temperance people went earnestly and unitedly to work and saw that no blundering took place. If drink had no evil effects except upon the individual who indulged in it, it would be bad enough, but the evil reached everyone with whom he was connected. Mr. Handford then gave a graphic description of a visit to the Penitentiary at Kingston, and the daily life of convicts there, and asserted upon the testimony of themselves that 500 out of the 700 at present incarcerated were brought there through drink. The speaker closed his address by expressing the belief that the day was fast coming when all God's servants would rally to the conflict and crush the terrible traffic that threatens both Church and home.

TEMPERANCE AMONG THE VOLUNTEERS.

On January 14, 1876, a Temperance Association was organized in the Prince of Wales Rifles, with a membership of 12, which was considered large at the time, and some thought that it would retain all its members. However, the annual report of the Society, read at its first annual meeting Monday evening in St. George's Church, showed seven or eight years, all the time protesting that he was in his right mind, and that the State should either hang him for murder or release him. He was then transferred to the State prison at Wethersfield, by what authority it does not appear, under no sentence. There he has remained until this day, in the same state of mind, apparently rational on all subjects, except that he insists that he had a right to kill the girl to save her from dishonor; and that if the State thought otherwise it should have punished him as a murderer. This is the story of Willard Clarke, who has now petitioned the Assembly to remove him from the State prison to the insane asylum at Middletown. If he is sane, he has a right to his liberty, having been once acquitted on trial for his life. So far as it appears, he has been in gaol nearly a quarter of a century without authority of law; for if there is anywhere existing a legal commitment of Clarke as a lunatic the State prison is not a legal place for the confinement of lunatics who have not been convicted of crime. It is quite time that the Assembly relieved the State of the disgrace of such ship-shod proceedings.

DR. SCHLIEMANN'S DISCOVERIES.

Dr. Schliemann complains of the envy displayed by the Greek antiquaries, exclaiming in his indignation, "They would kill me, they would kill me." The gentleman appointed by the Greek Government to direct the operations made Schliemann's life a burden to him. The tomb of Agamemnon was a scene of continual conflict, and the unhappy excavator could not even leave the dinner table without finding his custodian at his heels.

On the occasion of a dinner given lately by the Doctor to some of his intimate friends in Athens he exhibited an oil painting of what he believes to be the remains of Agamemnon recently exhumed at Mykenae. One of the guests writes:—"We counted his teeth, measured his proportions, and discussed the old fellow from head to toe. I should say that Agamemnon was physically well proportioned, and in that respect a man of parts. The skeleton itself is carefully guarded at Mykenae; it cannot be removed by ordinary means without destroying it, but it is to be hoped that some method may be devised by which it may be held together and brought to take its place with the valuable treasures, many of which, no doubt, were seen and handled by Agamemnon himself."

TEMPERANCE IN ONTARIO.

At a Sunday Temperance Meeting in Toronto, Mr. T. W. Handford addressed the audience in the present aspects of the question. He said that after six months' working for the cause he was convinced that Toronto was far behind the country districts in temperance sentiment. The Duinker Act was in almost everybody's mouth, and he found men who were not at all favorable to the temperance cause, voting in its favour because they had no desire to be classed with the opposition. There is not a country in Ontario where the Duinker Act might not be passed if the temperance people went earnestly and unitedly to work and saw that no blundering took place. If drink had no evil effects except upon the individual who indulged in it, it would be bad enough, but the evil reached everyone with whom he was connected. Mr. Handford then gave a graphic description of a visit to the Penitentiary at Kingston, and the daily life of convicts there, and asserted upon the testimony of themselves that 500 out of the 700 at present incarcerated were brought there through drink. The speaker closed his address by expressing the belief that the day was fast coming when all God's servants would rally to the conflict and crush the terrible traffic that threatens both Church and home.

"TIME."

"JOHN" ON HIS MUSCLE. Wah Ling and Sam Sing, two Chinese

Doctors, and the medicines which Fashion imposes upon us tend to foster and disseminate it. To the pitiful cry of its victims, is there any cure for Catarrh? There is but one answer consistent with Christian reason. God has never sent one evil into the world for which he has not sent the remedy. For the greatest of all spiritual and moral evils, the Great Physician has prescribed a potent and never-failing remedy. He has given explicit rules for the treatment and preservation of the spiritual and moral man, but He is silent in all matters relating to the physical man. It would be an unwarrantable deduction from His beneficent character to suppose that He has afflicted the greater portion of humanity with an incurable disease. The day of plagues is past. The God of Christianity is a God of Love, of Mercy. His message is "good will to all men." The earth and all contained therein was intended by the great Designer to supply man's wants; and surely he has no greater wants than remedies for his infirmities. Science is rapidly proving that the earth is fitted to supply man's uttermost need. New medicinal plants are constantly being discovered and new properties developed from those already known. For Catarrh, the most potent remedy yet discovered is Dr. Saxe's Catarrh Remedy. Its efficacy has been tested in many thousand cases with uniform success. Cases that had been repeatedly pronounced incurable, readily yielded to it. In confirmed or obstinate cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery should be taken in connection with the use of the Catarrh Remedy. Full particulars in Pierce's Memorandum Books. They are given away by druggists.

TWO MILLION OF PRECIOUS METAL.

Mr. Wheeler, who cultivated a ranch in Diamond Valley, left a most remarkable substance with an assayer. Mr. Wheeler had tested the compound and detected the presence of the precious metals. Mr. Wacke expended the whole night in a series of experiments, applying every known test to the article, and detecting the presence of iron, nickel, cadmium, lead, silver, gold, zinc, cobalt, silica, and phosphorus. A surprising feature of the case is the negative malleability and ductility. He has sent a portion of it to the San Francisco Academy of Sciences, and also to Professor Silliman, of New Haven, and in the meantime is prosecuting his researches. Professor Wacke has found that the substance will reach $887 in silver and $12 in gold per ton. The strangest part of the story remains to be told. On the morning of the 7th of January, Mr. Wheeler was almost thrown from his bed by a violent shock. Getting up and looking out of the window he observed at the foot of the mountain an immense mass glowing with a white heat and of intense brightness. Hastily dressing he approached, as near as possible, and found that the object lay just at the foot of the Diamond Mountain range, but the heat was so great that he could not go within 1,000 yards of the spot. He kept his own counsel, and made repeated attempts to get it, but did not succeed until the 14th, when it had cooled sufficiently to allow him to break off the portion brought to town. The main body will measure about 150 feet in height, eighty seven feet in width, and is 314 feet in length. These are the proportions of the body visible, and it is probable that as much more is embedded in the earth. Mr. Wheeler calculates that there are at least 2,000,000 tons in sight, and if it will work any where near the assay he will extract an immense sum from the mass.—From the Nevada Sentinel.

AN EAGLE BENT ON HUMAN PREY.

A few weeks since two boys, aged respectively three and five years, belonging to a family named McKenzie, living at Green Harbour, about three miles from Lockport, were playing at the back of the house, when a vulture it seemed to them to grow dark, and looking

"Concertina Companion	20 "
Joussé's Musical Catechism	25 "
Waters Songs and Ballads arranged for the Guitar	30 "
Westrop's 50 selected Polkas for the Pianoforte	30 "
Regondi's 200 Melodies for the Concertina	30 "
Sedgwick's 200 Melodies for the English Concertina	30 "
Regondi's 20 sets of Quadrilles for the Concertina	30 "
50 Christy's Minstrel Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
50 English and National Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
46 Operatic Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
54 Scottish Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
16 Moore's Irish Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
36 Pieces of Scottish Dance Music for the Pianoforte	30 "
32 Waltzes, Polkas & Schottisches for the Pianoforte	30 "
Boosey & Co's Violin Tutor	30 "
" " Concertina Tutor	30 "
Winnowed Hymns	30 "
Batemans 200 Sacred Melodies	30 "
Gospel Hymns and Sacred songs by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Gospel Hymns No. 2 (a new collection) by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Brightest and Best	35 "
Royal Gold	35 "
Royal Diadem	35 "
Accordeon with a Master	50 "
Moore's Eclectic School for the Piano	50 "
Canadian Sunday School Organ	50 "
The Standard Singer by Philip Phillips	50 "
The Singing Pigeon by Philip Phillips	50 "
The Song Queen by H. R. Palmer	60 "
The Song King by H. R. Palmer	75 "
White's Piano with a Master	75 "
Winners New Primer for the Guitar	75 "
" New School for the Violin	75 "
The Song Echo by H. S. Perkins	75 "
Reinhardt's Instruction book for the Organ	$1.25
The Songs of Ireland by J. L. Malloy	1.25
Hall's Method of Teaching Singing	1.65
Hunt's Pianoforte School	2.00
The Well-known Guest	2.50
The Home Circle No. 1	2.50
The Home Circle No. 2	2.50
The Home Circle No. 3	2.50

Richardson's New Method for the Pianoforte reduced to $3.25.
JOHN HENDERSON,
Bookseller,
Grange Block, Naperville.

REMOVED

Mrs. Jackson
To inform the public that she has removed from the premises formerly occupied by her, and will now be found in the rooms above
SYMINGTON'S FLOUR STORE, opposite Grange's Drug Store, where she is still prepared to do all kinds of hair-work, such as SWITCHES,
PUFFS,
BRAIDS,
CURLS,
SEE
SWITCHES DYED ON SHORT NOTICE.
ALL WORK DONE SATISFACTORILY.
Hats of combings all turned one way. Inexpensive given in the art on reasonable terms. Highest price paid for human hair.

make public the astounding fact a section of members of the Church England have taken measures for ling what will be nothing less than Anglican Communion. This tion has been come to in conse- ce of the action taken by the Ang- prelates, under the Public Worship lation Act. A brand-new Arch- p, with a very ancient title, is to be erated by one or more foreign pre-

Secondly, two suffragans, each titles from old English sees, are to ascerated simultaneously, but are iven to understand) independently, re to begin their conjoined labours gland, in the High Church interest ly next. The difficulties attendant the consecration of the Archbishop is suffragans (as far as regards any ference with existing jurisdictions, her Popish or others) will be sur- ted by the ingenious plan of con- senting them upon the high seas. The- ularies of this new ecclesiastical are based upon the dogmas and s of the Latin and Greek churches. ief "Sacramentary" has been official- awn up containing the order for the nistration of the Seven Sacraments. manual contains instructions for the of the chrism or prayer-oil as in the E and Roman Churches. ie ceremonial will be exceedingly ex- ingly expressive and elaborate, and ter additions—not essential—even sing. The three creeds of the un- led Church and of the Church of and—viz., the Apostles', the Athana- and the Nicene—will continue to be in the new communion. Finally, the communion will be nonaggressive and erative, not destructive. In addi- to 12,000 beneficed parsons, there no less than 8,000 unbeficed clergy- to whom we suppose the new spiri- intruders will look for support.—

PERANCE AMONG THE VOLUN- TEERS.
OF WALES RIFLES TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATION.

January 14, 1876. a Temperance ciation was organized in the Prince ales Rifles, with a membership of , which was considered large at the and some thought that it would ley retain all its members. How- the annual report of the Society, at its first annual meeting Monday ing in St. George's Church, showed since that time twenty-six names een added to the roll, making a of eighty-six members. The aim of omoters of the Society, headed by ular Sergeant-Major, is to make good old Prince of Wales Rifles a ent of total abstainers. v. Mr. Carmichael showed Monday that while thirty or forty years here was an almost universal opin- hat no man could really be a good er unless he drank hard, this was ield to such an extent now after the ss of the Red River and Abyssinian ditions, which had plainly manifest- e advantage of being total abstain- . He gave an amusing description of "hard up" men who, just before ed River expedition, clung to him all the "affection of fellow-country- . He suggested to them that they ld join the expedition, and they did lthough he never could tell how they d the necessary examination, for he sed they had to pass some sort of tiny. These men were obliged to be ainers on the route up, and when arrived at Red River they had in- ed so much as to be hardly recogniz- as the same men. Sir Garnet Wolse- was not himself a total abstainer, and testimony he bore to the benefits of abstinence in his expeditions conse- ntly came with more weight than an avowed advocate of temperance ciples.—Montreal Witness.

temb of Agamemnon was a scene of con- tinual conflict, and the unhappy exca- vator could not even leave the dinner table without finding his custodian at his heels. On the occasion of a dinner given lately by the Doctor to some of his intimate friends in Athens he exhibited an oil painting of what he believes to be the remains of Agamemnon recently exhumed at Mykenae. One of the guests writes:—"We counted his teeth, measured his proportions, and discussed the old fellow from head to toe. I should say that Agamemnon was physically well proportioned, and in that respect a man of parts. The skeleton itself is carefully guarded at Mykenae; it cannot be removed by ordinary means without destroying it, but it is to be hoped that some method may be devised by which it may be held together and brought to take its place with the valuable treasures, many of which, no doubt, were seen and handled by Agamemnon himself."

TEMPERANCE IN ONTARIO.
At a Sunday Temperance Meeting in Toronto, Mr. T. W. Handford addressed the audience in the present aspects of the question. He said that after six months' working for the cause he was convinced that Toronto was far behind the country districts in temperance sentiment. The Dunkin Act was in almost everybody's mouth, and he found men who were not at all favorable to the temperance cause, voting in its favour because they had no desire to be classed with the opposition. There is not a country in Ontario where the Dunkin Act might not be passed if the temperance people were earnestly and unitedly to work and saw that no blundering took place. If drink had no evil effects except upon the individual who indulged in it, it would be bad enough, but the evil reached everyone with whom he was connected. Mr. Handford then gave a graphic description of a visit to the Penitentiary at Kingston, and the daily life of convicts there, and asserted upon the testimony of themselves that 500 out of the 700 at present incarcerated were brought there through drink. The speaker closed his address by expressing the belief that the day was fast coming when all God's servants would rally to the conflict and crush the terrible traffic that threatens both Church and home.

"TIME."
"JOHN" ON HIS MUSCLE.
Wah Ling and Sam Sing, two Chinese laundrymen, were arrested for disturbing the peace on Monday. There is a war of rates between the various Celestial laundries in Toronto, five of which have been established within the last month, and Ling, whose place is on Adelaide street, visited Sing on Queen street, and urged a little vigorously that no further reduction should take place. Sing protested that he would do as he liked, and the discussion waxing warm, Ling snatched up a knife to assault Sing, who, catching the weapon by the blade, severely cut all the fingers on the right hand, and then endeavored to stab Ling, who made his escape on to the street, hotly pursued by his antagonist. The police finally appeared on the scene, and marched the two combatants to the station amid a string of good sound English and American oaths, which would have done infinite credit to any Christian.

The Sydney Exhibition.
By private letter, just received, we learn that the Sydney Exhibition Commissioners have agreed to keep it open a month instead of two weeks, as at first proposed, in order to allow Canadians time to show and sell their goods. The Exhibition opened on the 10th of April and will last till the 10th of May. It is stated that Canadian tweeds, boots and shoes, and fancy goods can be sold in large quantities at remunerative rates.

Pierce's Memorandum Books. They are given away by druggists.

TWO MILLION OF PRECIOUS METAL.

Mr. Wheeler, who cultivated a ranch in Diamond Valley, left a most remarkable substance with an assayer. Mr. Wheeler had tested the compound and detected the presence of the precious metals. Mr. Wacke expended the whole night in a series of experiments, applying every known test to the article, and detecting the presence of lead, nickel, cadmium, lead, silver, gold, zinc, cobalt, silica, and phosphorus. It is a rare feature of precious metal, and its ductility and ductility. He has sent a portion of it to the San Francisco Academy of Sciences, and also to Professor Silliman, of New Haven, and in the morning is prosecuting his researches. Professor Wacke has found that the substance will reach $387 in silver and $12 in gold per ton. The strangest part of the story remains to be told. On the morning of the 7th of January, Mr. Wheeler was almost thrown from his bed by a violent shock. Getting up and looking out of the window he observed at the foot of the mountain an immense mass glowing at a white heat and of intense brightness. Hastily dressing he approached, as near as possible, and found that the object lay just at the foot of the mountain range, but the heat was so great that he could not go within 1,000 yards of the spot. He kept his own counsel, and made repeated attempts to reach it, but did not succeed until the 14th inst., when it had cooled sufficiently to allow him to break off the portion brought to town. The main body will measure about sixty feet in height, eighty seven feet in width, and is 314 feet in length. These are the proportions of the body visible, and it is probable that as much more is imbedded in the earth. Mr. Wheeler calculates that there are at least 2,000,000 tons in sight, and if it will work any where near the assay he will extract an immense sum from the mass.—From the Elko, Nevada, Sentinel.

AN EAGLE BENT ON HUMAN PREY.

A few weeks since two boys, aged respectively three and five years, belonging to a family named McKenzie, living at Green Harbour, about three miles from Lockport, were playing at the back of the house, when suddenly it seemed to them to grow dark, and looking up they saw a tremendous eagle, with wings set and claws extended, almost in the very act of setting them into the smaller boy. The elder comprehended the danger at a glance and gave a terrific scream, which alarmed the eagle and brought the family at once to the rescue. They say, as far as they can judge, that the bird must have measured at least ten feet from tip to tip, and would have had no difficulty in lifting the boy. It was certainly a narrow escape. The same eagle, no doubt, has been discovered soaring above and about the premises Halifax (N. S.) Chronicle.

NOVEL SURGICAL OPERATION.

A very interesting and delicate operation was recently performed by several Montreal doctors upon a young man at Hochelaga. The case was one of anemia, or poverty of the blood, and the only chance of saving the man's life was by the transfusion of blood from a much healthier body. The operation was tried, two of the doctors present giving each six ounces of blood from their arms. Unfortunately, in spite of every effort the patient gradually sank, dying on Monday. This operation has been tried several times in Canada, but without success. In England and the United States success has attended the operation on several occasions. A private post mortem examination was held on Monday in the interest of medical science.

Ira D. Sankey	35 "	Brigh
Brightest and Best	35 "
Pure Gold	35 "
Royal Diamond	35 "
Accordion with a Master	50 "	More
Moore's Eclectic School for the
Piano	50 "
Canadian Sunday School Organ	50 "
The Standard Singer by Philip
Phillips	50 "	F
The Singing Pigeon by Philip		berial
Phillips	50 "	of lot
The Song Queen by H. R. R.		Villag
Volmet	60 "	Nort
The Song King by H. R. Pamer	75 "	quart
White's Piano with a Master	75 "	centre
Wimmers New Primer for the		are ge
Guitar	75 "	large
New School for the Violin	75 "	a beau
The Song Echo by H. S. Perkins	75 "	trunk
Reinhardt's Instruction book for		tages
the Organ	$1.25	severa
The Songs of Ireland by J. L.		Prope
Molloy	1.25	47-48
Half-Hours Method of Teaching
Singing	1.65
Heutons Piano-forte School	2.00	La
The Well-tune Guest	2.50	No
The Home Circle No. 1	2.50
The Home Circle No. 2	2.50
The Home Circle No. 3	2.50

Richardson's New Method for the Piano-forte reduced to $3.25.
JOHN HENDERSON,
Bookseller,
Grange's Block, Napanea.

REMOVED

Mrs. Jackson
Desires to inform the public that she has removed from the premises formerly occupied by her, and will now be found in the rooms above
SYMINGTON'S FLOUR STORE,
and opposite Grange's Drug Store, where she is still prepared to do all kinds of hair-work, such as

SWITCHES, PUFFS, BRAIDS, CURLS, SWITCHES DYED ON SHORT NOTICE.
ALL WORK DONE SATISFACTORILY.
Do not let combings all turned one way. Improvements given in the art on reasonable terms. Highest price paid for human hair.
SWITCHES FOR SALE.

LIVERY at MILL POINT.

MR. JOHN FINLAYSON is prepared to furnish the best of rigs, either single or double.
At the 'Old Commercial Hotel'
MAIN STREET.
Mill Point, Jan. 30th, 1877.

LOST.

On Saturday evening March 24th, between 2nd and 3rd streets, a sample case of pictures, the finder will offer a favor or reward if at the Weekly Express Office, Napanea, or at H. Walrath's Griefs Corner.
J. T. CLARK, Agent.
Arden Ont.

SHAFTEING
Belting and Mill Furnishings
GENERALLY KEPT IN STOCK
Waterloo Engine Works Co.
BRANTFORD, ONT.
State where you saw this advertisement

LOCOMOTIVE BROTHERHOOD.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—The order of the strike of the Brotherhood of motive Engineers on the Philadelphia and Reading railway was promulgated to-day and went into effect at mid-day. As the trains came in the engine-men were notified of the action of the heretofore and all left their engines. Company had already employed men in their places anticipating the decision of the Brotherhood.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—The strike of the Reading Railroad engineers continues. The strikers are confident that they will gain their point, while the officials of the Company say they can get all the men they need. At the Pottsville engine-house the strike of engineers continues, but the men are quiet and orderly. Passenger and freight trains are running, but in charge of non-union men. Coal trains started from Pottsville. No except those carrying mails run on the Pottsville branch.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 17.—The Reading Railway Superintendent had an interview with the Governor regarding assurance of commissions to policemen company may see fit to appoint for protection of their head employees.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 17.—All old conductors, baggage masters and brakemen are section of the Reading railway left work. The Pine Grove and Pottsville passenger train for Pottsville abandoned by the engineer to-day. A woman at Tremont delayed the train and passengers six hours. Very little coal was shipped to-day.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—The Reading Railway Company has resolved to employ a fifth grade of engineers and a class of fireman who shall receive $150 per day higher wages, and directed all engineers and firemen to service of the Company and still in line at posts to be promoted to the grades.

George Francis Train has issued a circular announcing a lecture, and claiming himself the champion of the Brotherhood. The Brotherhood has disclaimed his championship.

The agent for Train says the Brotherhood engineers have recalled the action discommenancing Train.

THE IMPORTANT QUESTION.

All loathsome diseases Catarrh is pre-eminent. It renders its victim disgusting to himself as to others, the most humiliating of all is the discharges that his presence is offensive to those around him. If any disease reveals the nature of universal, it is this, its errors and the follies which it imposes upon us tend to foster dissemination it. To the pitiful cry of victims, is there any cure for Catarrh? The answer is but one answer consistent with Christian reason. God has never sent evil into the world for which he has sent the remedy. For the greatest spiritual and moral evils, the Great Physician has prescribed a potent and refreshing remedy. He has given the rules for the treatment and preservation of the spiritual and moral man. He is silent in all matters relating to physical man. It would be an unaccountable detractor from His benevolent character to suppose that He has left the greater portion of humanity an incurable disease. The day of need is past. The God of Christianity God of Love, of Mercy, His message good will to all men. The earth all contained therein was intended by the great Designer to supply man's needs; and surely he has no greater than remedies for his infirmities. It is rapidly proving that the earth is intended to supply man's utmost need. Medicinal plants are constantly being discovered and new properties de-

LICENSES.

THE Board of License Commissioners for the Electoral District of Lennox, will meet on Saturday the 28th day of April inst., in the County Court Judges Chambers, at the Court House in Napanee, at 10 o'clock a. m.

A. L. MORDEN,
Sec., B. L. C.

Napanee April 17th 1877.

52-2in.

CUSTOMS DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, 13th April, 1877.

Authorized Discount on American Invoices until further notice 6 per cent.

J. JOHNSON,

Commissioner.

52-2in.

List of Music Books

NOW IN STOCK, AT

HENDERSON'S BOOKSTORE,
DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

Any Book not on this list can be ordered, and be had on Short Notice.

Books mailed post free to any part of Canada, on receipt of the annexed price.

- | | |
|---|---------|
| Marr's Concertina Tutor, price | 15 cts. |
| Regondi's German Concertina Tutor, price | 15 " |
| " One Hundred Sacred Airs for the Concertina | 15 " |
| " One Hundred Melodies for the Concertina | 15 " |
| " Sacred Album for the Concertina | 15 " |
| Westrop's Universal Harmonium Tutor | 15 " |
| 50 Christy's Minstrel's Songs | 15 " |
| Adams 100 Scottish Airs for the Violin, price | 20 " |
| 100 Christy's Minstrel's melodies for the Flute | 20 " |
| Adams 115 Dancing Tunes for the Concertina | 20 " |
| " 115 Scottish Dancing tunes for the Concertina | 20 " |
| Marr's Army and Navy tunes for the Concertina | 20 " |
| " Selection of Dance Music for the Concertina | 20 " |
| " Repository of Music for the Concertina | 20 " |
| " Christy's Minstrel's tunes for the Concertina | 20 " |
| " Concertina Companion | 20 " |
| J. Jusse's Musical Catechism | 25 " |
| Waltz Songs and Ballads arranged for the Guitar | 30 " |
| Westrop's 50 selected Polkas for the Piano-forte | 30 " |
| Regondi's 200 Melodies for the Concertina | 30 " |
| Schubert's 200 Melodies for the English Concertina | 30 " |
| Regondi's 20 sets of Quadrilles for the Concertina | 30 " |
| 50 Christy's Minstrel's Melodies for the Piano-forte | 30 " |
| 58 English and National Melodies for the Piano-forte | 30 " |
| 46 Operatic Melodies for the Piano-forte | 30 " |
| 54 Scottish Melodies for the Piano-forte | 30 " |
| 46 Moore's Irish Melodies for the Piano-forte | 30 " |
| 36 Pieces of Scottish Dance Music for the Piano-forte | 30 " |
| 32 Waltzes, Polkas & Schottisches for the Piano-forte | 30 " |

Public Attention

Is directed to the following Provisions of the Fishery and Game Laws in the Province of Ontario.

CLOSE SEASONS FOR FISH.

Whitefish cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th November, both days inclusive.

Salmon Trout, and Lake Trout, cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th November, both days inclusive.

Speckled Trout, Brook or River Trout, cannot be caught from 15th September to 1st May.

Bass, cannot be caught from 15th May to 15th June.

Pickrel, cannot be caught from 15th April to 15th May.

Maskinonge, cannot be caught from 15th April to 15th May.

CLOSE SEASONS FOR GAME.

Deer and Cariboo, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.

Moose, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.

Partridge, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st September.

Duck, cannot be killed from 1st January to 15th August.

Woodcock, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st July.

Snipe, cannot be killed from 1st May to 15th August.

Quail, cannot be killed from 1st January to 1st October.

All well-disposed persons are requested to afford the local Fishery Officers whatever information and assistance they can towards carrying out these provisions of the Fishery Laws.

Fishing without Licenses is prohibited. Indians are forbidden to fish or shoot illegally the same as whitemen.

Complainants will receive one-half of the fines imposed, and be paid for their cost and attendance as witnesses.

Each person guilty of violating these regulations is liable to find and costs, or in default of payment is subject to imprisonment.

No person shall, during such prohibited times, fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or have in possession any of the above-mentioned kind of Fish or Game.

In Quebec, Fishery Officers exercise Magisterial powers under the Game Laws.

BY ORDER.

W. F. WHITCHER,

Commissioner of Fisheries.

N. B.—Deer killed before the 1st December, cannot be legally disposed of after the 1st of January following.

Department of Marine and Fisheries, Fisheries Branch, Ottawa.

ALFRED KNIGHT,

Fishery Overseer,
Petworth.

Valuable Farm for Sale

BEING composed of west half Lot No. 17, in the 4th Concession of the Township of Richmond, containing 100 acres; 80 acres of which is cleared and in a good state of cultivation, half mile from the Village of Selby and four and a half from the Town of Napanee. Terms liberal.

For full particulars apply to Grange & Bros., Napanee. 47-2in.

Fish! Fish!! Fish!!!

RECEIVED DAILY.

Fresh and good at S. McLaughlins, also New Oranges, Lemons, Dates, &c., kept constantly on hand.

S. McLAUGHLIN.
Dundas St.

IT IS A

FACT, THAT

PHOSFOZONE,

Is a preparation of Phosphorus which restores to the human frame the most essential elements of life, giving Energy and Vitality to the whole muscular and nervous system, strengthens the Lungs, Liver, Stomach, Heart and Kidneys. A fresh supply just received by

DETLOF & SCOTT, Napanee.

WESTERN ASSURANCE COMPANY

Incorporated 1851.

CAPITAL, $800,000.
With power to increase to $1,000,000.

FIRE AND MARINE.

HEAD OFFICE: Toronto, Ont.

President.

HON. JOHN McMURRICH.

Vice-President.

CHARLES MAGRATH.

Directors.

JAS. MICHIE, Esq. NOAH BARNHART, Esq.
JOHN FISKIN, Esq. ROBT. HEATY, Esq.
A. M. SMITH, Esq. WM. GOODERHAM, Esq.

BARNARD ALDAN, Managing Director
FRED'K C. LOVELL, Secretary.
WM. BLIGHT, Fire Inspector.
JAMES PRINGLE, General Agent.

Insurances effected at the lowest current rates on Buildings, Merchandise, and other property, against loss or damage by fire.

On Hull Cargo, and Freight against the perils of Inland Navigation.

On Cargo Risks with the Maritime Provinces by sail or steam.

On Cargoes by steamers to British Ports.

W. V. DETLOF,
Agent for Napanee.

TO RENT,

The dwelling known as Dr. Oronhyatkeha's.

Apply to

W. S. WILLIAMS.
Napanee March 16th, 1877. 47-11

Head Quarterns.

PURE BRED, WHITE LEGHORNS.

I am prepared to furnish Eggs, from the best prize winning strains in the country, $2.00 per 18 eggs.

ROBERT WEBSTER,
East Street.
3-in.

FARMERS

--OF--

LENNOX & ADDINGTON,

--WE--

Diamond & Sherwood,

Being alive to your interests as well as

gent for Train says the Brother-engineers have recalled the on discountenancing Train.

THE IMPORTANT QUESTION.

all loathsome diseases Catarrh pre-eminent. It renders its vicligulating to himself as to others.
most humiliating of all is the ness that his presence is offenhose around him. If any disease the name of universal, it is this.
errors and the follies which imposes upon us tend to foster seminate it. To the pitiful cry of ms, is there any cure for Catarrh?
but one answer consistent with reason. God has never sent into the world for which he has t the remedy. For the greatest viritual and moral evils, the Great an has pre-cribed a potent and ailing remedy. He has given ex-des for the treatment and pres-of the spiritual and moral man, is silent in all matters relating to sical man. It would be an un-table detraction from His bene-character to suppose that He has l the greater portion of humanity incurable disease. The duty of us past. The God of Christianity d Love, of Mercy, His message d will to all men. The earth contained therein was intended great Designer to supply man's and surely he has no greater han remedies for his infirmities.
is rapidly proving that the earth
l to supply man's uttermost need.
edicinal plants are constantly discovered and new properties dis-l from those already known. For l, the most potent remedy yet dislia Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.
acy has been tested in many cases s with uniform success. Cases d been repeatedly pronounced in-r, readily yielded to it. In com-or obstinate cases, Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery should be n connection with the use of the Remedy. Full particulars in Memorandum Books. They are way by druggists.

MILLION OF PRECIOUS METAL.

Wheeler, who entered a remote nond Valley, left a most remark-stance with an assayer. Mr.
had tested the compound and d the presence of the precious
Mr. Wacker expended the whole a series of experiments to apply ry known test to the article, and g the presence of gold, silver, copper, lead, silver, gold, and nickel, and phosphorus. The quantity of the ore was so small and of little utility. He has sent a portion of e San Francisco Academy of s, and also to Professor Silliman.
Haven, in the meantime, finding his researches, Professor his found that the substance, worth 387 in silver and $12 in gold per the strangest part of the story to be told. On the 2nd of July, of quantity, Mr. Wheeler was thrown from his bed by a violent Getting up and looking out of dow he observed at the foot of the in an immense mass gleaming in a eat and of intense brilliancy.
dressing he approached, and near s, and found that the object lay the foot of the bed, and it was age, but the heat was so great that d not go within 1000 yards of it.
He kept his own counsel, and anated attempts to get it, but succeeded until the 14th inst., when solved sufficiently to enable him to ffle portion brought to market.
in body will measure about 18 1/2 height, eighty-seven feet in width, 114 feet in length. These are the ions of the body visible, and it is e that as much more is hidden earth. Mr. Wheeler estimates ere are at least 2,000,000,000 in

For the Flute	20 "
Adams 115 Dancing Tunes for the Concertina	20 "
" 115 Scottish Dancing tunes for the Concertina	20 "
Marr's Army and Navy tunes for the Concertina	20 "
" Selection of Dance Music for the Concertina	20 "
" Repository of Music for the Concertina	20 "
" Christy's Minstrels tunes for the Concertina	20 "
" Concertina Companion	20 "
J.usse's Musical Catechism	25 "
Wales Songs and Ballads arranged for the Guitar	30 "
Westrop's 50 selected Polkas for the Pianoforte	30 "
11 gowns 200 Melodies for the Concertina	30 "
Sedgwick's 200 Melodies for the English Concertina	30 "
Regondi's 20 sets of Quadrilles for the Concertina	30 "
50 Christy's Minstrels Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
55 English and National Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
46 Operatic Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
54 Scottish Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
16 Moore's Irish Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
36 Pieces of Scottish Dance Music for the Pianoforte	30 "
32 Waltzes, Polkas & Schottisches for the Pianoforte	30 "
Bossy & Cos. Violin Tutor	30 "
" " Concertina Tutor	30 "
Winnowed Hymns	30 "
Batemans 200 Sacred Melodies	30 "
Go pel Hymns and Sacred songs by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Gospel Hymns No. 2 (a new collection) by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Brightest and Best	35 "
Pure Gold	35 "
Royal Bazaar	35 "
Arcade with a Master	50 "
Moore's Eccletic School for the Piano	50 "
Canadian Sunday School Organ	50 "
The Standard Singer by Philip Phillips	50 "
The Singing Psalm by Philip Phillips	50 "
The Sing Queen by H. R. Palmer	60 "
The Song King by H. R. Palmer	75 "
White's Piano with a Master	75 "
Winners New Primer for the Guitar	75 "
" New School for the Violin	75 "
The Song Echo by H. S. Perkins	75 "
Reinhardt's Instruction book for the Organ	$1.25
The Songs of Ireland by J. L. Mulloy	1.25
Hall's Method of Teaching Singing	1.65
Hunt's Pianoforte School	2.00
The Well-worn Guest	2.50
The Home Circle No. 1	2.50
The Home Circle No. 2	2.50
The Home Circle No. 3	2.50
Richardson's New Method for the Piano-forte reduced to $3.25.
JOHN HENDERSON,
Bookseller,
Grange's Block, Napanee.

REMOVED
Mrs. Jackson
To inform the public that she has removed from the premises formerly occupied by her and will now be found in the new school.

Complainants will receive one-half of the fines imposed, and be paid for their cost and attendance as witnesses.
Each person guilty of violating these regulations is liable to find and costs, or in default of payment is subject to imprisonment.
No person shall, during such prohibited times, fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or have in possession any of the above-mentioned kind of Fish or Game.
In Quebec, Fishery Officers exercise Magisterial powers under the Game Laws.
BY ORDER.
W. F. WHITCHER,
Commissioner of Fisheries,
N. B.—Deer killed before the 1st December, cannot be legally disposed of after the 1st of January following.
Department of Marine and Fisheries,
Fisheries Branch, Ottawa.
ALFRED KNIGHT,
Fishery Overseer,
Petworth.

Valuable Farm for Sale
BEING composed of west half Lot No. 17, in the 4th Concession of the Township of Richmond, containing 100 acres; 80 acres of which is cleared and in a good state of cultivation, half mile from the Village of Selby and four and a half from the Town of Napanee. Terms liberal.
For full particulars apply to Grange & Bros., Napanee. 47-2in.

Farm and Town Property FOR SALE.
A NUMBER of farms in the Counties of Northumberland and Hastings, also some very valuable city property in Belleville, and both village and farming property, in and near the village of Brighton.
Apply to
J. B. BENSON,
Napanee.
March 12th, 1877. 47-4f.

FARM FOR SALE.
FARM of 175 Acres, the most desirable property in the County of Northumberland, for Sale. Being all that portion of lot No. 31 in Concession A, of the Village and Township of Brighton, lying North of the old Kingston Road, and only quarter of a mile from the P. O. and the centre of the village. Upon the premises are good brick and wooden buildings; a large orchard of young and bearing trees; a beautiful grove of pine and hardwood timber; spring creeks, and other advantages which rendered it desirable. Also several other good Farms and Village Properties for sale.
I. O. PROCTOR,
Brighton.
47-4f.

Land PLASTER
Now grinding and ready for use.
Superior Fine Ground
Land Plaster,
AT THE LOW RATE OF
$5 per Ton, or 25 cts. per Hundred.
All orders left at the Mill, or at the Wooden Factory, for Williams' and Fisher's Water Lime, or Quick Lime, will be promptly attended to. Lime delivered when required. No Credit.
JAMES PERRY.
Napanee, March 5th, 1877. 46.

Insurances effected at the lowest current rates on Buildings, Merchandise, and other property, against loss or damage by fire.
On Hull Cargo, and Freight against the perils of Inland Navigation.
On Cargo Risks with the Maritime Provinces by sail or steam.
On C—goes by steamers to British Ports.
W. V. DETLOR,
Agent for Napanee.
TO RENT,
The dwelling known as Dr. Oronhyatekha's.
Apply to
W. S. WILLIAMS.
Napanee March 16th, 1877. 47-1f

Head Quar'ers.
PURE BRED, WHITE LEGHORNS.
I am prepared to furnish Eggs, from the best prize winning strains in the country, $2.00 per 18 eggs.
ROBERT WEBSTER,
East Street.
3-in.

FARMERS
—OF—LENNOX & ADDINGTON,
—WE—
Diamond & Sherwood,
Being alive to your interests as well as our own, wish to say to you we now have on hand all kinds of
SEED GRAINS.
Wheat, Best "fyfe" especially imported from the west,
Barley, Canadian No 1 Prize Centennial Medal,
Peas, Buckwheat, Rye,
Oats and Corn.

We also have on hand a quantity of No 1 Western Corn, and with the facilities for manufacturing which we possess, we can in a few minutes please the most fastidious, as to manner they wish it ground.
BRAN AND SHORTS.
We also present to your notice our
FLOUR,
OAT MEAL,
CRACKED WHEAT,
CORN MEAL,
GRAHAM FLOUR,
CRACKED CORN.

Each and every article of which stands unrivalled, and in which we intend to maintain our reputation both as to quality and price.
We ask for our goods a fair trial only, leaving it to our customers to answer any misrepresentation by our detractors, as we are assured no adverse judgement will be passed by a jury composed of the general community who have once patronized us. To them we leave our case.
—ALSO—
MESS PORK,
BACON,
LARD,
TIMOTHY AND CLOVER SEEDS.
DIAMOND & SHERWOOD,
49-in.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!!
We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (with out medicine) of Nervous Debility.

Catarth Remedy. Full particulars in Pierce's Memorandum Books. They are given away by druggists.

TWO MILLION OF PRECIOUS METAL.

Mr. Wheeler, who cultivated a ranch in Diamond Valley, left a most remarkable substance with an assayer. Mr. Wheeler had tested the compound and detected the presence of the precious metals. Mr. Wacke expended the whole night in a series of experiments, applying every known test to the article, and detecting the presence of silver, nickel, cadmium, lead, silver, gold, antimony, silica, and phosphorus. It is a peculiar feature of the ore in its composition and ductility. He has sent a portion of it to the San Francisco Academy of Sciences, and also to Professor Silliman, of New Haven, and in the meantime is prosecuting his researches. Professor Wacke has found that the substance will reach $387 in silver and $12 in gold per ton. The strangest part of the story remains to be told. On the morning of the 7th of January, Mr. Wheeler was almost thrown from his bed by a violent shock. Getting up and looking out of the window he observed at the foot of the mountain an immense mass glowing with a white heat and of intense brightness. Hastily dressing he approached, as near as possible, and found that the object lay just at the foot of it. It was of a certain range, but the heat was so great that he could not go within 1,000 yards of the spot. He kept his own counsel, and made repeated attempts to get it, but did not succeed until the 14th inst., when it had cooled sufficiently to be brought to break off the portion brought to town. The main body will measure from thirty feet in height, eighty-seven feet in width, and is 314 feet in length. These are the proportions of the body visible, and it is probable that as much more is buried in the earth. Mr. Wheeler calculates that there are at least 2,000,000 tons in sight, and if it will work any where near the assay he will extract an immense sum from the mass.—From the Reno, Nevada, Sentinel.

AN EAGLE BENT ON HUMAN PREY.

A few weeks since two boys, aged respectively three and five years, belonging to a family named McKenna, living at Green Harbour, about three miles from Lockport, were playing at the back of the house, when suddenly it seemed to them to grow dark, and looking up they saw a tremendous eagle, with wings set and claws extended, almost in the very act of setting them into the smaller boy. The elder comprehended the danger at a glance and gave a terrific scream, which alarmed the eagle and brought the family at once to the rescue. They say, as far as they can judge, that the bird must have measured at least ten feet from tip to tip, and would have had no difficulty in lifting the boy. It was certainly a narrow escape. The same eagle, no doubt, has been discovered soaring above and about the premises Halifax (N. S.) Chronicle.

NOVEL SURGICAL OPERATION.

A very interesting and delicate operation was recently performed by several Montreal doctors upon a young man at Hochelaga. The case was one of anemia, or poverty of the blood, and the only chance of saving the man's life was by the transfusion of blood from a much healthier body. The operation was tried, two of the doctors present giving each six ounces of blood from their arms. Unfortunately, in spite of every effort the patient gradually sank, dying on Monday. This operation has been tried several times in Canada, but without success. In England and the United States success has attended the operation on several occasions. A private post mortem examination was held on Monday in the interest of medical science.

- | | |
|----------------------------------|--------|
| lection) by P. P. Bliss and | 35 " |
| Ira D. Sankey | 35 " |
| Biggest and Best | 35 " |
| Pure Gold | 35 " |
| Royal Bazaar | 35 " |
| Accordion with a Master | 50 " |
| Moore's Belletic School for the | |
| Piano | 50 " |
| Canadian Sunday School Organ | 50 " |
| The Standard Singer by Philip | |
| Phillips | 50 " |
| The Singing Pilgrim by Philip | |
| Phillips | 30 " |
| The Sing Queen by H. R. | |
| Vainot | 60 " |
| The Song King by H. R. Pomer | 75 " |
| White's Piano with a Master | 75 " |
| Wimmers New Primer for the | |
| Guitar | 75 " |
| New School for the Violin | 75 " |
| The Song Echo by H. S. Perkins | 75 " |
| Reinhardt's Instruction book for | |
| the Organ | $1.25 |
| The Songs of Ireland by J. L. | |
| Malloy | 1.25 |
| Hall's Method of Teaching | |
| Singing | 1.65 |
| Hentons Piano-forte School | 2.00 |
| The Well-tune Guest | 2.50 |
| The Home Circle No. 1 | 2.50 |
| The Home Circle No. 2 | 2.50 |
| The Home Circle No. 3 | 2.50 |
| Richardson's New Method for the | |
| Piano-forte reduced to $3.25. | |
| JOHN HENDERSON, | |
| Bookseller, | |
| Grange's Block, Napanee. | |

REMOVED

Mrs. Jackson
Desires to inform the public that she has removed from the premises formerly occupied by her and will now be found in the rooms above
SYMINGTON'S FLOUR STORE,
and opposite Grange's Drug Store, where she is still prepared to do all kinds of hair-work, such as

- SWITCHES,
PUFFS,
BRAIDS,
CURLS,
SWITCHES DYED ON SHORT NOTICE.
ALL WORK DONE SATISFACTORILY.
Hats of combings all turned one way. Improvements given in the art on reasonable terms. Highest price paid for human hair.

LIVERY at MILL POINT.

MR. JOHN FINLAYSON is prepared to furnish the best of rigs, either single or double.
At the 'Old Commercial Hotel'
MAIN STREET.
Mill Point, Jan. 30th, 1877.

LOST.

On Saturday evening March 24th, between O. Selby and Griev's corners, a sample case of pictures, the finder will confer a favor or bring it at the Weekly Express Office Napanee, or at H. Warrath's Griev's Corners.
J. T. CLARK, Agent.
Arden Ont.

SHAFTING Belting, and Mill Furnishings
GENERAL MANAGERS
Waterous Engine Works Co.
BRANTFORD, ONT.
State where you saw this advertisement

property, in and near the village of Brighton.

Apply to
J. B. BENSON,
Napanee.
47-4f.
March 12th, 1877.

FARM FOR SAL.

FARM of 175 Acres, the most desirable property in the County of Northumberland, for Sale. Being all that portion of lot No. 31 in Concession A, of the Village and Township of Brighton, lying North of the old Kingston Road, and only quarter of a mile from the P. O. and the centre of the village. Upon the premises are good brick and wooden buildings; a large orchard of young and bearing trees; a beautiful grove of pine and hardwood timber; spring creeks, and other advantages which rendered it desirable. Also several other good Farms and Village Properties for sale.

I. O. PROCTOR,
Brighton.

Land PLASTER

Now grinding and ready for use.
Superior Fine Ground
Land Plaster,
AT THE LOW RATE OF
$5 per Ton, or 25 cts. per Hundred.

All orders left at the Mill, or at the Wood-Factory, for Williams' and Fisher's Water Lime, or Quick Lime, will be promptly attended to. Lime delivered when required. No Credit.

JAMES PERRY.
Napanee, March 5th, 1877.

T. T. T.

SEE OUR NEW STOCK OF TEAS.

NEW SEASON

1877,
GREAT STRENGTH AND RICH FLAVOR,

TRY THEM BUY THEM!!

A LARGE STOCK OF CHOICE

Family Groceries,

NEW AND FRESH, JUST TO HAND.
Briggs Block, opposite Wright & Co's.
SMITH & ANDERSON.

Oats and Corn.

We also have on hand a quantity of No 1 Western Corn, and with the facilities for manufacturing which we possess, we can in a few minutes please the most fastidious, as to manner they wish it ground.

BRAN AND SHORTS.

We also present to your notice our
FLOUR,
OAT MEAL,
CRACKED WHEAT,
CORN MEAL,
GRAHAM FLOUR,
CRACKED CORN.

Each and every article of which stands unrivalled, and in which we intend to maintain our reputation both as to quality and price.

We ask for our goods a fair trial only, leaving it to our customers to answer any misrepresentation by our detractors, as we are assured no adverse judgement will be passed by a jury composed of the general community who have once patronized us. To them we leave our case.

--ALSO--

MESS PORK,
BACON,
LARD,
TIMOTHY AND CLOVER SEEDS.

DIAMOND & SHERWOOD,

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.
Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.
The celebrated author, of this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequence may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

THE CULVERTWELL MEDICAL CO.,
Address
Post Office Box, 4586.
41 Ann St., New York.
15-31.

Dr. William Gray's Specific Medicine.

Before Taking The Great English Remedy is especially recommended as an unfailing cure for Spermatorrhea, Spina-torrhea, Impotence, and all diseases that After Taking follow as a sequence of Self Abuse, as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave, all of which as a rule are first caused by deviating from the path of nature and over-indulgence.
The Specific Medicine is the result of a life study and many years of experience in treating these special diseases. Pamphlet free by mail.
The Special Medicine is sold by all Druggists at $1 per package, or six packages for $5, or will be sent by mail on receipt of the money by addressing.

WILLIAM GRAY & Co.,
Windsor, Ont.

GOOD ADVERTISING!

$325.40 worth of space in various newspapers distributed through thirty states, will be sold for $700 cash. Accurate insertions guaranteed. A list of papers giving daily and weekly circulation and printed schedule of rates, sent free on application to GEO. P. ROWELL & Co., Newspaper Advertising Agents, No. 41 Park Row, New York.
34-ly.

List of New Advertisements.

Millinery—Downey & Spence.
Customs Department—J. Johnson.
Special Notices—A. C. Davis & Bro.
License—A. L. Morden.
Special Notices—H. R. Spencer.
Dress Making—Downey & Spence.
Special Notices R. V. Pierce.
Head Quarters—R. Webster.

Notice to Subscribers!

A misunderstanding with some of our subscribers, has arisen in regard to the meaning conveyed by the wording of certain circulars, sent to them by Mr. T. W. Casey, late proprietor of the Express, asking for payment of arrears of subscriptions. We wish it distinctly understood, that Mr. Casey's connection with the Express, expired on the 16th day of October 1876, and all subscriptions due him, expired with that date. We hope that our subscribers will not infer from the said circulars, that we are, at this early date, pushing them for their subscriptions.

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, APRIL 22nd, 1877.

Fire Ladders.

These are to be all well painted. The "Big" one has been shortened 10 feet, and hewed down on all sides, to make it more manageable in future.

Grind feed and flour same day; at CLOSED MILL.

Rain.

The refreshing rain of Wednesday night and Thursday settled the intolerable dust, and will be of great benefit to the grass, and growing crops. The farmers have been very busy taking advantage of the fine weather of the past two weeks.

Have you seen Spencer's new Spring Hats?—Stylish.

Improvements.

Pursuant to an order in council, the plank walk on the north side of East street, has been put in a thorough state of repair. Other streets are receiving the same attention.

$20,000 worth of Damaged Goods at discount.
DAVIS & BRO.

Personal.

The Rev. A. Young, pastor of the Presbyterian church in Napanee, has been appointed one of the delegates from the Kingston Presbytery to the General Assembly.

First Boat Out.

The "Highland Beauty," 57 tons, of Toronto, owned by Capt. Richard Watters, was the first outward bound boat of the season, on Thursday the 12th inst.

Farmers save 25 per cent of their feed, by having it ground fine, at CLOSES MILL.

Silver Leaf B. B. C.

This team holds a medal which will be taken by the club winning the best two out of three. The second match will be played in Belleville on the 24th of May.

Street Coal-Oil Lamps.

Are to be used in certain parts of Belleville which are unsupplied with gas. This method of street-lighting would give great satisfaction in other localities, where moonshine is used as an equivalent.

Have you seen Spencer's new Worsted Coatings?—Superb.

Another Narrow Escape

A small rough-cast house occupied by James Hamilton on the north side of the track opposite the Railway Station, was on fire on Wednesday morning. But was extinguished by the neighbours after burning a hole through the roof.

A Live Newspaper.

That influential and widely-circulating journal The Globe appeared on Monday in a new and readable dress from stereotype plates, by the Dominion Type-

Stoves and Tinware.

Mr. Henry Boyle has been appointed agent for Chown and Cunningham of Kingston. Their stoves, tinware, ploughs, &c., have long been favourably known in our market. He will in a few days be prepared to manufacture and repair tinware, milk cans, and cheese vats. Everything in and about his shop has been fitted up anew, and he has every facility for turning out excellent samples of work at prices to suit the times. Old and new friends are invited to give him a call in Wm. Miller's old stand, below the Brisco House.

The rush for Damaged Good since the fire has been great,
DAVIS & BRO.

License Commissioners Meeting.

The meeting for the District of Lennox was held in the Judges Chamber, Court House on the 14th inst. Judge Wilkison, Robt. Dennison and A. L. Morden, Esq., composing the board were present. Judge Wilkison was appointed Chairman and A. L. Morden Secretary. Accounts for service in the conviction of parties infringing on the law, to the amount of $54.10, were allowed. A communication from Mr. M. W. Prunty, as read, asking for a license to sell wines, spirits, and ale, in the premises on John st., Napanee, but no action was taken. Next meeting on Saturday 28th inst.

We purpose selling off our whole stock, from 10 to 20 per cent, cheaper than any House in town.
DAVIS & BRO.

Foot-Ball.

On Saturday afternoon last, the first foot-ball match of the season was played in Kingston on the Military College grounds between the Military College team and a team from the city. After an exciting struggle of an hour and a half, the game was stopped, neither side having taken a goal. Nothing is more provocative of mirth—except it be the "roaring" game of curling—and none can be more easily understood, as the game progresses, than foot-ball. This is its principal advantage over cricket or baseball, in which the moves cannot be easily followed by spectators not posted in the rules. The outlay is little, and its beneficial effects recommend it to all seeking a healthful out door enjoyment. We hope Napanee will organize a club forthwith.

Our entire new stock of Millinery to select from.
DAVIS & BRO.

Hotel Keeper's Meeting—Final.

The Hotel Keepers of Napanee, Tamworth and other places in the county held a final meeting on Monday at the Tichborne House, when the following resolution was moved by Mr. H. Moore, and seconded by Mr. John Soby:—"That all the hotels and yards be closed on the 1st of May, and also that the boarders be dismissed, omnibuses to be discontinued, attending boats and trains, and that no accommodations whatever be granted at any of the hotels." The resolution was passed, all pledging themselves to strictly adhere to the same until a majority of the hotel men, after a fair trial, deemed it prudent in their interests to act otherwise. The hotel men are determined to hold out, and unless steps are taken in regard to accommodations—travellers as well as citizens will be put to a serious inconvenience. The temperance men should now prove themselves equal to the emergency, and act accordingly.

Scotch and Canadian Tweed Suits from $12 to 20 at,
DAVIS & BRO.

Diphtheria.

The following item from an American paper will be of personal interest to many of our readers:—"The extreme prevalence of diphtheria in parts of New York city within the range of odors from the Police Court.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

"Brickey" (alias David) Boyd rather roughly maltreated one Robin on the 11th inst. He also assaulted Albert Brooks for interfering. Mr. James fined him $5, and $5.20 costs—being out of funds, he was committed for 40 days.

John Windrum, our popular pound-keeper—and the terror of every stray duck on the street—was charged with using forcible means to eject Mrs. Hill—Presly, a tenant, who refused to vacate his premises, after receiving due notice. Fined by Mayor Williams $1.00 and costs.

TOWN COUNCIL.

At the meeting on Monday night the following petitions were presented.—

From D. Hayes and others for a plank walk on the south side on Graham street, from the west side of West street to Robinson st. Third time of asking.

From P. D. Burl and others for a plank walk from the turn on the Newburgh road, to the limits of the corporation.

From T. Scott and others for a plank walk on the Kingston road from the bridge to the Newburgh road and along said road.

Mr. Cliff said he understood the Agricultural Society intended removing the fence and they should be consulted.

Mr. James said the Proprietor, Mr. Cartwright, had better be consulted, lest ground not belonging to the town be taken.

From W. S. Bennett and others for a plank walk west side of Donald street from Dundas to Mill street.

From S. W. Bartles and others for a drain on the east side of Center street, south of the river. W. Evans agreeing to pay $10 of the cost.

From J. G. Chatterton and others for repairs on Mill street, from Richard street west. All of the above petitions were referred to the Street committee.

THE PRINGLE CASE.

The Reeve read a report regarding Mr. Pringle's communication, he being the only member who had signed it. The report stated that, in addition to the costs ($114) already paid, Mr. Reeve's costs were about $150, judging from the remarks of the judge who decided the appeal he did not think Mr. Pringle could recover damages, but he (Mr. Reeve) would not forgo his fees; and recommended the appointment of a special committee to ascertain upon what terms Mr. Pringle would settle and report to this council.

The following committee was then appointed, viz: Messrs. James, Miller and Geddes.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Mr. James said that the Committee had been unable to find a precedent for paying the auditors $25 each, and were likewise at a loss to find the authority upon which $20 each was paid last year, except the Treasurer's voucher. He moved that the account be referred back to the committee.

The West Ward Collector's Roll for 1875 had been examined, and the committee believed that of the $279 returned as back-taxes, a good part was collectable, and they therefore recommended that it be referred back to the collector. There was a balance of $165 43 still unpaid.

The committee had issued an order for the payment of the cost of the appeal in the Pringle case, amounting to $114.

THE GAS LAMPS.

Mr. Miller presented the report of the Town Property Committee, stating that they had examined the street lamps and found the flame flickering, and the Ellis' burner poorer than those first used, and recommended that lighting the street lamps be discontinued for the present; they had given an order for one month's gas, $1.50 for cleaning the Council Chamber and street lamps, renewed the issue.

UNSUITABLE EMIGRANTS.

MONTREAL YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION'S CIRCULAR TO YOUNG MEN CONTEMPLATING EMIGRATION TO CANADA.

Having experienced great difficulty our work among young men coming Great Britain seeking employment Canada as salesmen, clerks, &c., knowing that hundreds, if not thousands of such have been sadly disappointed while large numbers have totally failed their object, we desire to raise a voice to all who may contemplate coming out to Canada during the coming season. We frankly state, from actual experience that there are hundreds out of emigration, all of whom are willing to work could possibly be obtained. sufferings of many have been distressing in the extreme, and, notwithstanding every effort made by our association other societies, many have been compelled to accept of menial work. Not a from actual want have sought admission to Homes of Industry and Refuge, others have been glad to secure a night lodging in the Police Station.

As the commercial depression continues, there is every probability that coming season will find more unemployed labor than ever. We therefore strongly advise young men—clerks, salesmen,—not to think of Canada as a place offering any inducement, at least for present. This class of labor, poorly at all times (with but few exceptions, those where the parties have had a training in Canada), will absolutely not wanted.

We would also impress upon those may decide to come in after years, as a rule, young men coming from Great Britain as clerks, &c., are not sought after. The trade of Canada is conducted on a different plan, and those trained in Canada are more valued. We would have clearly understood that our sole object in issuing this circular is to prevent young men from being disappointed, and if able to hinder much suffering and sorrow the experience of which has saddened hearts during the past two years.

We would also say that the prospect for the artisan class are not good for coming year, but agricultural laborer small farmers, whether young men with families, if they are but willing work, will find that Canada offers inducements equal to, if not surpassing, other country. Here, such persons be sure to make progress and secure comfortable homes for themselves, with most certain prospects of still greater advantages for their families.

T. JAMES CLAXTON,
President Montreal Association
D. A. BUDGE,
Secretary Montreal Association

P.S. A copy of this circular was to the Association at Toronto, Ontario but for prudential reasons they declined signing it. The following resolution adopted by their Board and office communicated to us fully bears out statement made in this circular:—

"That while feeling the force of argument contained in your circular, the need there is of some action be taken in the matter, we are of the opinion that such action should be brought through our Government, and that issuing such a circular would be injurious to our cause and entirely outside of legitimate sphere."

The Montreal Association feels that it would be wrong to refrain from publishing this circular. Before more positive action would be taken by Government many young men may be led to take step which will be regretted for years not for a lifetime.

T. J. C., President

BRIGHAM YOUNG'S INFAMY.

Mr. George Lowery, of Haverhill Mass., is one of the few survivors of body of teamsters for the murder of moonshine is used as an equivalent.

Have you seen Spencer's new Worsteds Coatings?—Superb.

Another Narrow Escape

A small rough-cast house occupied by James Hamilton on the north side of the track opposite the Railway Station, was on fire on Wednesday morning. But was extinguished by the neighbours after burning a hole through the roof.

A Live Newspaper.

That influential and widely-circulating journal The Globe appeared on Monday in a new and readable dress from stereotype plates, by the Dominion Type-Founding Co. of Montreal and Toronto. This is a long-wished-for improvement, which will be hailed with pleasure by its thousands of readers.

Our Millinery Show Rooms will be opened on or about, 20 to the 25th, under Mrs. Mills. DAVIS & BRO.

The Fishing Season.

The Fishery Department has extended the open season for pickerel in the waters of the Moira and Bay of Quinte until the 1st of May. This is in accordance with the desires of the fishermen, as the fish do not, as a rule, begin to spawn in these waters until about May 1st, and all are out of the river by the 15th.

Incendiariism.

The Academy in the West Ward had a narrow escape from fire at 8 o'clock on Tuesday evening, a few sticks of stove-wood had been piled in the outside of the cellar window, at the south-west angle, and which, were in flames, when discovered and extinguished, by Mr. Murney McCoy, who lives a short distance from the building—cause, mysterious.

If your flour don't rise in ten days go to, CLOSING MILLS.

Navigation.

Is now completely open in the Bay and Lake parts. The buoys in our river have been repainted and placed in proper position by Capt. O'Flynn, under the superintendence of the Reeve and Chief Allen. This is a matter that requires special attention, and the amount received for the work—$2—is little enough when satisfactorily performed.

Have you seen Spencer's new Scotch Tweeds?—Cheap.

Gowan's Organization.

From the Ottawa Opera House, will perform in the Town Hall to-night. Judging from appearances, this troupe is first class, and their entertainments cannot be excelled. The Company's Silver Cornet Band will make a street parade at noon, and also give a free concert in front of the Hall at 7:15. Performance commences at 8.

The Late Railway Accident.

"Mrs. John Murphy, who lives at the head of Earl street Kingston, believes that the man named Robert Delormy, who was run over on the Grand Trunk Railway, near Napanee, on Tuesday morning, was her brother Edward Delargy, who was employed at Lansdowne, as the description given in the papers corresponds with his appearance. She would be thankful to receive information on the subject."—News.

Yachting.

The pleasure-loving portion of our population will have a chance to witness some pretty close races on the water during the present season. The yachting fever has thoroughly infected our neighbors in Oswego, Rochester, and other American lake ports. In Oswego during the past winter, one steam and four sailing yachts, have been built, all finely modelled and calculated to leave us far to windward unless we look to our laurels. Of our Canadian ports, Belleville seems to be taking the lead, but Kingston, Toronto, Port Hope, Cobourg and Napanee will contribute their quota towards this most exciting and enjoyable pastime.

to protect in their interests to act otherwise. The hotel men are determined to hold out and unless steps are taken in regard to accommodations—travellers as well as citizens will be put to a serious inconvenience. The temperance men should now prove themselves equal to the emergency, and act accordingly.

Scotch and Canadian Tweed Suits from $12 to 20 at, DAVIS & BRO.

Diphtheria.

The following item from an American paper will be of personal interest to many of our readers:—"The extreme prevalence of diphtheria in parts of New York city within the range of odors from the kerosene oil factories on Long Island, with other evidence of the same sort in Connecticut, has led to a theory that kerosene is the cause, or a cause of the disease. Dr. Wilson, a well-known physician of Meriden, adopted the theory from facts under his own observation, long before anything was said about the factory. He goes so far as to say that the simple lighting or extinguishing in the lamps of a house, will produce a visible effect upon the patient, and he always orders that the use of this oil be discontinued where he finds it in a family having a diphtheria patient. The disease, as is well known, is a new one, and it is said not to have appeared till after the discovery of petroleum."

DAVIS & BRO. get up the best clothing in town. DAVIS & BRO.

Educational Meeting.

The next meeting of the Teachers' Association of Lennox and Addington will be held in the High School, Napanee, on Friday and Saturday, 27th and 28th inst., commencing at 1 o'clock p.m. on the 27th. J. George Hodgins, Esq., L. L. D., Deputy Minister of Education, will address the Teachers on the 27th, and will deliver a lecture in the Town Hall in the evening. Subject—"The Educational Features of the Centennial." Competent instructors will be secured to treat subjects of special importance to Teachers, and as this is expected to be a meeting of far more than ordinary interest and importance, it is hoped that every Teacher in the County will be present. On the authority of the Hon. the Minister of Education, Friday, 27th, is granted to Teachers of the County, so that no School will suffer any pecuniary loss by being closed on that day. Accommodation will be provided for all Teachers who notify the Secretary, Wm. Tilley, on or before the 24th inst.

We are repairing up our store, and will sell the whole stock regardless of cost. DAVIS & BRO.

Juvenile Temple Concert.

This entertainment under the management of Mr. H. V. Fradick, last Friday night, was a great success in every respect. Nothing pleases the youngsters so much, as an opportunity to display their respective talents in public, and receive the well merited applause of their friends and relatives. The opening was an instrumental duet, by the Misses Libbie and Maggie Conger. A dialogue by A. Shorey, Fred Pringle and Harry Ashton, entitled "Hard Case." A song "Jubilee of Temperance," by all the children, a reading by Miss Frank Ashton. Prof. J. Kelly, with his Irish bag-pipe, gave some choice selections of popular airs. Including some soul-stirring strains from his native hills, and judging from the repeated encores—they were thoroughly appreciated by the immense delegation of Irish men present. Misses Sophie Woods and Minnie Rooney sang "Mill May," received with great applause. A dialogue "Aunt Polly's Lesson," by Misses Tilda Waller, Dollie McLiver, Ida Ashton and Emma Cornell, was capital. "The Seaside master abroad," by Masters W. Thompson, H. Clark, Myron Mills, N. Shorey, H. Ashton, F. Batting and F. Pringle. Miss Sophie Woods and Nellie Williams played an instrumental duet. Master Henry Clark sang "Till he be a great man by and by." A dialogue by Masters Blakely and and they therefore recommended that it be returned back to the collector. There was a balance of $165 43½ still unpaid.

The committee had issued an order for the payment of the cost of the appeal in the Pringle case, amounting to $114.

THE GAS LAMPS.

Mr. Miller presented the report of the Town Property Committee, stating that they had examined the street lamps and found the flame flickering, and the Ellis' burner poorer than those first used, and recommending that lighting the street lamps be discontinued for the present; they had given an order for one month's gas, $1.50 for cleaning the Council Chamber and street lamps, renewed the insurance on the Engine and Engine house for $2,000 in the Northern, and $2,000 in the Scottish Imperial each at 1 per cent. and received the payment of T. H. Waller's account less two dollars. Part of the report was adopted, and that relating to the street lamps was referred back with instructions to confer with the Gas Company and have it arranged.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. Roe introduced a by-law which was passed through its several stages, appointing J. Windrum, pound-keeper; C. B. Perry, Fence viewer, East ward; A. Fraser, do, Center ward and P. Bogart, do, West ward.

The Council then adjourned.

ST. PETER'S SUCCESSOR.

The death of Pio Nono may be expected any day. He is now past the first half of his ninth decade, and was he a man of the simplest habits and the most vigorous vitality he could hardly expect to live much longer in the ordinary course of nature. Though His Holiness has been shown of all his temporal power and through his influence over the minds and consciences of men has been greatly diminished with the extension of education, yet the subject of his succession to the throne is far from being a matter of indifference to several of the powers of Europe. Spain, Italy, France, Germany, and Austria all feel the liveliest interest in the succession, and all would play cross-purposes, if they intrigue in the matter at all Spain would, if she could, place a bigoted reactionist—an Ultramontane in the throne. France would have Cardinal Bonaparte elected, and French ideas control the Papal administration. Germany is hostile to any one closely identified with the infallibility dogma. Austria has indicated the kind of a Pope she wants and she will refuse to ratify election, if her wishes are not regarded, while Italy, of course, wants a man who will recognize, and somewhat in accord with the present school of Italian politics.

There are several candidates spoken of for the position. The French candidate is Cardinal Bonaparte. Germany has two—Archbishop Leochoewski and Cardinal Hohenlohe; England presents Cardinal Alcock. Besides there are numerous other candidates. There is every probability that an Italian will be chosen, as has been the case several centuries. The question is then whether he will be confirmed by Germany, Spain and Austria. It is feared that a man will not be found agreeable to all parties, in which event the gravest of diplomatic complications are threatened.

THE "MOLLY MAGUIRES."

DEFOUNDED BY THE HIBERNIANS.

At New York, April 3, the Convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, before adjournment, appointed a National Directory of eight members, to act with the national officers in the management of the affairs of the Order. Everything objectionable to the hierarchy of the Catholic Church was eliminated from the constitution and obligations of the Order. The total number of members in the Order is 472,078 and the number of delegates present, 152, representing 26 States. The Directory held a meeting to-day and issued.

AN ADDRESS TO THE PEOPLE.

through our Government, and that on issuing such a circular would be injurious to our cause and entirely outside of our legitimate sphere."

The Montreal Association feels that it would be wrong to refrain from publishing this circular. Before more positive action could be taken by Government many young men may be led to take steps which will be regretted for years, if not for a lifetime.

T. J. C., President.

BRIGHAM YOUNG'S INFAMY.

Mr. George Lowery, of Haverhill Mass., is one of the few survivors of the body of teamsters for the murder of whom while under Mormon escort, Brigham Young is alleged to have issued an order on the 19th of April, 1858. Mr. Lowery is very positive that the order had reference to the party of which he was one and not to the party so brutally murdered at Mountain Meadows the September previous. The survivor states that he was a teamster in General Johnston's expedition against Utah in 1857. He and eight other teamsters separated from the command and started for California. They got lost in the mountains, wandering about for a month, finally coming out in Molada Valley, where they were captured by a Mormon sergeant and taken to Box Elder city. From thence they were taken to Salt Lake City. At that point a party of forty-two teamsters were gathered, who wanted to go to California, and Colonel Lee, then in command there, gave permission for their departure, turning them over to Captain Smith, with an escort of seventy-two men, proposing to accompany them to Castle Rocks, a distance of 150 miles. Before starting they accidentally heard of the order from Young for their massacre at a point 100 miles away, but concluded to arm themselves and take the risk. They purchased guns and ammunition of apostate Mormons, the guns being taken apart and secreted with their ammunition in sacks of flour, constituting part of their supplies. The party of forty-two were only allowed to take one double-barrelled gun and a revolver. The teamsters and their escort had separated camps, and at the end of the first day's march, on entering camp for the night, the teamsters prepared their guns and were ready by morning to give 12 shots without reloading. In the morning the Mormons were astonished to find an armed party in charge, but moved on in another day's march, which took them 100 miles away. On the morning of the second day the Mormons announce their determination to leave the party there instead of accompanying them to Castle Rocks, and did so, returning to Salt Lake City. Had the teamsters been unarmed they would doubtless have been slaughtered in obedience to Brigham Young's order. They proceeded in safety, reaching California June, 1858.—N. Y. Herald.

A YOUTHFUL TRAVELLER.

One of the youngest travellers on record reached Liverpool lately in the City of Richmond. The person in question is an orphan named Maggie Wood who by her father's and mother's death was left at the age of four years an orphan in Chicago. Her only relation in the world is an aunt living at Stockport. This aunt, desiring the presence of the little one in England, communicated with the United States Consul in Manchester who wrote to friends in Chicago. A kind assistance there she was equipped for the voyage and placed in the hands of a guard of a railway train, under whose care she made a railway journey of 1,000 miles to New York. In that city she was received by strangers, who entertained her, and on March 3rd placed her, supplied with tops and amusements, on the City of Richmond, in the care of Captain Leitch and the stewardess. In due course she was landed from the steam and turned over to her aunt. At the age of four and a half years she has travelled over 4,500 miles without seeing a familiar face during the entire journey.

STEAM ON CANALS.

Mrs. Mills, DAVIS & BRO.

The Fishing Season.

The Fishery Department has extended the open season for pickerel in the waters of the Moira and Bay of Quinte until the 1st of May. This is in accordance with the desires of the fishermen, as the fish do not, as a rule, begin to spawn in these waters until about May 1st, and all are out of the river by the 15th.

Incendiarism.

The Academy in the West Ward had a narrow escape from fire at 8 o'clock on Tuesday evening, a few sticks of stove-wood had been piled in the outside of the cellar window, at the south-west angle, and which, were in flames, when discovered and extinguished, by Mr. Murney McCoy, who lives a short distance from the building—cause, mysterious.

If your flour don't rise in ten days go to, CLOSING MILLS.

Navigation.

Is now completely open in the Bay and Lake ports. The buoys in our river have been repainted and placed in proper position by Capt. O'Flynn, under the superintendence of the Reeve and Chief Allen. This is a matter that requires special attention, and the amount received for the work—$20 is little enough when satisfactorily performed.

Have you seen Spencer's new Scotch Tweeds?—Cheap.

Gowan's Organization.

From the Ottawa Opera House, will perform in the Town Hall to-night. Judging from appearances, this troupe is first class, and their entertainments cannot be excelled. The Company's Silver Cornet Band will make a street parade at noon, and also give a free concert in front of the Hall at 7:15. Performance commences at 8.

The Late Railway Accident.

"Mrs. John Murphy, who lives at the Head of Earl Street Kingston, believes that the man named Robert Delormy, who was run over on the Grand Trunk Railway, near Napanee, on Tuesday morning, was her brother Edward Delarcy, who was employed at Lansdowne, as the description given in the papers corresponds with his appearance. She would be thankful to receive information on the subject."—News.

Yachting.

The pleasure-loving portion of our population will have a chance to witness some pretty close races on the water during the present season. The yachting fever has thoroughly infected our neighbors in Oswego, Rochester, and other American lake ports. In Oswego during the past winter, one steam and four sailing yachts, have been built, all finely modelled, and calculated to leave us far to windward unless we look to our laurels. Of our Canadian ports, Belleville seems to be taking the lead, but Kingston, Toronto, Port Hope, Cobourg and Napanee will contribute their quota towards this most exciting and enjoyable pastime.

A Farce.

"Candour compels us to acknowledge that the Dunkin by-law in force in Ernestown is more of a moral farce than moral force. An informant, who is neither what the world calls a drinking man nor a regular traveller on the road, was on Saturday met with a proffer of the forbidden liquors in several taverns at which he called en route on business. The machinery of the law is at fault somewhere, and deeply so."—Whig. That's nothing—"Strawberry" is the only liquid offered in forbidden districts, it is non-intoxicating, and only taken medicinally. However, if this "farce" continues we'll all go over there the first of May.

$2,000 worth of Clothing, $2,000 worth of Carpets, 14,000 worth of Damaged Goods, all damaged by fire and smoke for sale at, DAVIS & BRO.

from facts under his own observation, long before anything was said about the factory. He goes so far as to say that the simple lighting or extinguishing in the lamps of a house, will produce a visible effect upon the patient, and he always orders that the use of this oil be discontinued where he finds it in a family having a diphtheria patient. The disease, as is well known, is a new one, and it is said not to have appeared till after the discovery of petroleum."

Davis & Bro., get up the best clothing in town. DAVIS & BRO.

Educational Meeting.

The next meeting of the Teachers' Association of Lennox and Addington, will be held in the High School, Napanee, on Friday and Saturday, 27th and 28th inst., commencing at 1 o'clock p.m. on the 27th. J. George Hodgins, Esq., L. L. D., Deputy Minister of Education, will address the Teachers on the 27th, and will deliver a lecture in the Town Hall in the evening. Subject—"The Educational Features of the Centennial." Competent instructors will be secured to treat subjects of special importance to Teachers, and as this is expected to be a meeting of far more than ordinary interest and importance, it is hoped that every Teacher in the County will be present. On the authority of the Hon. the Minister of Education, Friday, 27th, is granted to Teachers of the County, so that no School will suffer any pecuniary loss by being closed on that day. Accommodation will be provided for all Teachers who notify the Secretary, Wm. Tilley, on or before the 24th inst.

We are repairing up our store, and will sell the whole stock regardless of cost. DAVIS & BRO.

Juvenile Temple Concert.

This entertainment under the management of Mr. H. V. Fralick, last Friday night, was a great success in every respect. Nothing pleases the youngsters so much, as an opportunity to display their respective talents in public, and receive the well merited applause of their friends and relatives. The opening was an instrumental duet, by the Misses Libbie and Maggie Conger. A dialogue by A. Shorey, Fred Pringle and Harry Ashton, entitled "Hard Case." A song "Jubilee of Temperance," by all the children, a reading by Miss Frank Ashton. Prof. J. Kelly, with his Irish bag-pipe, gave some choice selections of popular airs. Including some soul-stirring strains from his native hills, and judging from the repeated encores—they were thoroughly appreciated by the immense delegation of Irish men present. Misses Sophie Woods and Minnie Rooney sang "Mill May," received with great applause. A dialogue "Aunt Polly's Lesson," by Misses Tilda Waller, Dollie McEiver, Ida Ashton and Emma Cornell, was capital. "The School master abroad," by Masters W. Thompson, H. Clark, Myron Mills, N. Shorey, H. Ashton, E. Bitting and F. Pringle. Miss Sophie Woods and Nellie Williams played an instrumental duet. Master Henry Clark sang "I'll be a great man by-and-by." A dialogue by Masters Blagely and W. Fralick "The Road to Windham." A recitation by Marion Mills, Margie Bozaris, another by Edgie Shorey entitled "Boys' Rights." "Temperance Sheep" by Master John Belch, with chorus by the Temple. Mr. C. Z. Perry recited "Our New Dominion." "Father's a Drunkard and Mother is Dead," was sung by Miss Fanny Husey. "The barkeeper by Miss Minnie Rooney and Master John Belch and Fred Pringle. A pretty song "The Orphan Flower Girl" by Nellie May Stratton. "On the Road to Mauro," a dialogue by Miss Maggie Perry, Master Harry Bitting and Mr. H. V. Fralick. "The Sleepy Song" with tableau, and a beautiful illumination by Greek Fire, closed the programme—Receipts $37.30.

We expect all past due accounts to be settled up. DAVIS & BRO.

of the report was adopted, and that relating to the street lamps was referred back with instructions to confer with the Gas Company and have it arranged.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. Roe introduced a by-law which was passed through its several stages, appointing J. Windrum, pound-keeper; C. B. Perry, Fence viewer, East ward; A. Fraser, do, Center ward and P. Bogart, do, West ward.

The Council then adjourned.

ST. PETER'S SUCCESSOR.

The death of Pio Nono may be expected any day. He is now past the first half of his ninth decade, and were he a man of the simplest habits and the most vigorous vitality he could hardly expect to live much longer in the ordinary course of nature. Though His Holiness has been shorn of all his temporal power and through his influence over the minds and consciences of men has been greatly diminished with the extension of education, yet the subject of his succession to the throne is far from being a matter of indifference to several of the powers of Europe. Spain, Italy, France, Germany, and Austria all feel the liveliest interest in the succession, and all would play cross-purposes, if they intrigue in the matter at all Spain would, if she could, place a devoted reactionist—an Ultramontane in the throne. France would have Cardinal Bonaparte elected, and French ideas control the Papal administration. Germany is hostile to any one closely identified with the infallibility dogma. Austria has indicated the kind of a Pope she wants and she will refuse to ratify the election, if her wishes are not regarded, while Italy, of course, wants a man who will recognize, and somewhat in accord with the present school of Italian policies.

There are several candidates spoken of for the position. The French candidate is Cardinal Bonaparte. Germany has two—Archbishop Ledochowski and Cardinal Hohenlohe; England presents Cardinal Howard. Besides there are numerous Italian candidates. There is every probability that an Italian will be chosen, as has been the case several centuries. The question is then whether he will be confirmed by Germany, Spain and Austria. It is feared that a man will not be found agreeable to all parties, in which event the gravest of diplomatic complications are threatened.

THE "MOLLY MAGUIRES."

DEBUNKED BY THE HIBERNIAN.

At New York, April 3, the Convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, before adjourning, appointed a National Directory of eight members, to act with the national officers in the management of the affairs of the Order. Everything objectionable to the hierarchy of the Catholic Church was eliminated from the constitution and obligations of the Order. The total number of members in the Order is 472,078 and the number of delegates present, 152, representing 26 States. The Directory held a meeting to-day and issued.

AN ADDRESS TO THE PEOPLE.

of the United States, declaring that the Order has no connection with the famous "Mollie Maguires" of Pennsylvania, styling them a terrible band of misguided men, that has committed crimes in Pennsylvania. That the States officers had made a searching investigation into the matter and found that there was no connection between the A. O. H. and the Mollie Maguires, and that the officers had cut off all connection with the former organization in the counties of Schuylkill, Columbia, Carbon and Northumberland; that they had removed all objectionable clauses in their Constitution, which conflicted with their holy church; and that their object was to unite their race and creed for benevolent purposes, and to this end they desired the encouragement of ministers of their holy religion.

and not to the party so brutally murdered at Mountain Meadow the September previous. The survivor states that he was a teamster in General Johnston's expedition against Utah in 1857. He and eight other teamsters separated from that command and started for California. They got lost in the mountains, wandering about for a month, finally coming out into Molada Valley, where they were captured by a Mormon sergeant and taken to Box Elder city. From thence they were taken to Salt Lake City. At that point a party of forty-two teamsters were gathered, who wanted to go to California, and Colonel Lee, then in command there, gave permission for their departure, turning them over to Captain Smith, with an escort of seventy-two men, proposing to accompany them to Castle Rocks, a distance of 150 miles. Before starting they accidentally heard of the order from Young for their massacre at a point 100 miles away, but concluded to arm themselves and take the risk. They purchased guns and ammunition of apostate Mormons, the guns being taken apart and secreted with their ammunition in sacks of flour, constituting part of their supplies. The party of forty-two were only allowed to take one double-barrelled gun and a revolver. The teamsters and their escort had separated camps, and at the end of the first day's march, on entering camp for the night, the teamsters prepared their guns and were ready by morning to give 121 shots without reloading. In the morning the Mormons were astonished to find an armed party in charge, but moved on in another day's march, which took them fifty miles away. On the morning of the third day the Mormons announce their determination to leave the party there, instead of accompanying them to Castle Rocks, and did so, returning to Salt Lake City. Had the teamsters been unarmed they would doubtless have been slaughtered in obedience to Brigham Young's order. They proceeded in safety, reaching California June, 1858.—N. Y. Herald.

A YOUTHFUL TRAVELLER.

One of the youngest travellers on record reached Liverpool lately in the City of Richmond. The person in question is an orphan named Maggie Woods who by her father's and mother's death was left at the age of four years an orphan in Chicago. Her only relation in the world is an aunt living at Stockport. This aunt, desiring the presence of the little one in England, communicated with the United States Consul in Manchester who wrote to friends in Chicago. By kind assistance there she was equipped for the voyage and placed in the hands of a guard of a railway train, under whose care she made a railway journey of 1,000 miles to New York. In that city she was received by strangers, who entertained her, and on March 3rd placed her, supplied with tops and amusements, on the City of Richmond, in the care of Capt. Leitch and the stewards. In due course she was landed from the steamer and turned over to her aunt. At the age of four and a half years she has travelled over 4,500 miles without seeing familiar face during the entire journey.

STEAM ON CANALS.

Almost the only steam canal boat in use on New York canals last season was the Rapid, a new boat with improved wheel and other devices, which was put on toward the latter part of the season and which is represented to have demonstrated greater speed; combined with larger carrying capacity and more economy in running expenses, than any of its predecessors. There is some talk of forming a company to place a line of these steamers on the Erie Canal. It is proposed to run with each steam barge as consort to be pushed ahead of the steamer instead of towed astern in the usual manner, the carrying capacity of the two to be 15,600 bushels of wheat. On account of the stringency of the time and the misfortunes of the Baxter line of steamers, capitalists do not look upon the enterprise with great favour.

Police Court.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

"Brickey" (alias. David) Boyd rather roughly maltreated one Robin on the 11th inst. He also assaulted Albert Brooks for interfering. Mr. James fined him $5, and $5.20 costs—being out of funds, he was committed for 40 days.

John Windrum, our popular pound-keeper—and the terror of every stray duck on the street—was charged with using forcible means to eject. Mrs. Hill—Presley, a tenant, who refused to vacate his premises, after receiving due notice. Fined by Mayor Williams $1.00 and costs.

TOWN COUNCIL.

At the meeting on Monday night the following petitions were presented.—

From D. Hayes and others for a plank walk on the south side of Graham street, from the west side of West street to Robinson st. Third time of asking.

From P. D. Burl and others for a plank walk from the turn on the Newburgh road, to the limits of the corporation.

From T. Scott and others for a plank walk on the Kingston road from the bridge to the Newburgh road and along said road.

Mr. Cliff said he understood the Agricultural Society intended removing the fence and they should be consulted.

Mr. James said the Proprietor, Mr. Cartwright, had better be consulted, lest ground not belonging to the town be taken.

From W. S. Bennett and others for a plank walk west side of Donald street from Dundas to Mill street.

From S. W. Bartles and others for a drain on the east side of Center street, south of the river. W. Everts agreeing to pay $10 of the cost.

From J. G. Chatterson and others for repairs on Mill street, from Richard street west. All of the above petitions were referred to the Street Committee.

THE PRINGLE CASE.

The Reeve read a report regarding Mr. Pringle's communication, he being the only member who had signed it. The report stated that, in addition to the costs ($114) already paid, Mr. Reeve's costs were about $150, judging from the remarks of the judge who decided the appeal he did not think Mr. Pringle could recover damages, but he (Mr. Reeve) would not forgo his fees; and recommended the appointment of a special committee to ascertain upon what terms Mr. Pringle would settle and report to this council.

The following committee was then appointed, viz.: Messrs. James, Miller and Geddes.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Mr. James said that the Committee had been unable to find a precedent for paying the auditors $25 each, and were likewise at a loss to find the authority upon which $20 each was paid last year, except the Treasurer's voucher. He moved that the account be referred back to the committee.

The West Ward Collector's Roll for 1875 had been examined, and the committee believed that of the $279 returned as back-taxes, a good part was collectable, and they therefore recommended that it be returned back to the collector. There was a balance of $165.43 still unpaid.

The committee had issued an order for the payment of the cost of the appeal in the Pringle case, amounting to $114.

THE GAS LAMPS.

Mr. Miller presented the report of the Town Property Committee, stating that they had examined the street lamps and found the flame flickering, and the Ellis' burner poorer than those first used, and recommending that lighting the street lamps be discontinued for the present; they had given an order for one month's gas, $1.50 for cleaning the Council Chamber and street lamps, renewed the insur-

UNSUITABLE EMIGRANTS.

MONTREAL YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION'S CIRCULAR TO YOUNG MEN CONTEMPLATING EMIGRATION TO CANADA.

Having experienced great difficulties in our work among young men coming from Great Britain seeking employment in Canada as salesmen, clerks, &c., and knowing that hundreds, if not thousands, of such have been sadly disappointed, while large numbers have totally failed in their object, we desire to raise a warning voice to all who may contemplate coming out to Canada during the coming season. We frankly state, from actual experience, that there are hundreds out of employment, all of whom are willing to work if work could possibly be obtained. The sufferings of many have been distressing in the extreme, and, notwithstanding every effort made by our associations and other societies, many have been compelled to accept of menial work. Not a few from actual want have sought admittance to Homes of Industry and Refuge, while others have been glad to secure a night's lodging in the Police Station.

As the commercial depression continues, there is every probability that the coming season will find more unemployed labor than ever. We therefore strongly advise young men—clerks, salesmen, &c.,—not to think of Canada as a place offering any inducement, at least for the present. This class of labor, poorly paid at all times (with but few exceptions, and those where the parties have had a training in Canada), will absolutely not be wanted.

We would also impress upon those who may decide to come in after years, that, as a rule, young men coming from Great Britain as clerks, &c., are not sought after. The trade of Canada is conducted on a different plan, and those trained in Canada are more valued. We would have it clearly understood that our sole object in issuing this circular is to prevent young men from being disappointed, and if possible to hinder much suffering and sorrow, the experience of which has saddened our hearts during the past two years.

We would also say that the prospects for the artisan class are not good for the coming year, but agricultural laborers or small farmers, whether young men or with families, if they are but willing to work, will find that Canada offers inducements equal to, if not surpassing, any other country. Here, such persons will be sure to make progress and secure comfortable homes for themselves, with almost certain prospects of still greater advantages for their families.

T. JAMES CLAXTON,
President Montreal Association.
D. A. BUDGE,
Secretary Montreal Association.

P.S. A copy of this circular was sent to the Association at Toronto, Ontario, but for prudential reasons they declined signing it. The following resolution adopted by their Board and officially communicated to us fully bears out the statement made in this circular:—

"That while feeling the force of the argument contained in your circular, and the need there is of some action being taken in the matter, we are of the opinion that such action should be brought about through our Government, and that our issuing such a circular would be injurious to our cause and entirely outside of our legitimate sphere."

The Montreal Association feels that it would be wrong to refrain from publishing this circular. Before more positive action would be taken by Government many young men may be led to take a step which will be regretted for years, if not for a lifetime.

T. J. C., President.

BRIGHAM YOUNG'S INFAMY.

Mr. George Lowery, of Haverhill, Mass., is one of the few survivors of the body of teamsters for the murder of whom

IMPORTANT SHIPMENT OF CANADIAN CATTLE AND HORSES.

Says the Turf and Field, of New York:—The steamer Othello, of the Wilson Line, will leave this port to-morrow for Southampton, England, with an important shipment of live stock—important from its being exclusively a Canadian enterprise, and as developing the fact that the Blue Grass lands of Kentucky and Tennessee, and the rich rolling prairies of the West are not destined to monopolize the foreign trade hereafter, at least in beef cattle. The shipment in question is made by the Messrs. Spears Brothers, of Guelph, Ontario, Canada, and consists of nineteen head of beef cattle and twenty-four head of horses. The former is worthy of special mention, not only on account of the superiority and weight of the animals, but as being the product of the Canadian Dominion. The 19 head are all grade cattle, principally from Durham stock, a small proportion being crossed upon Devon and Ayrshire stock, and the native cattle of the Dominion. They are all steers, and will average about 2,200 lbs. Two of the lot weigh together over 5,000 pounds. The same paper thinks the above stock will compete, on equal grounds, with any raised in the States.

Foreign Meat-Trade.

The N. Y. Graphic sums up the following changes as likely to follow upon the institution of the meat trade in England:—1. The meat consumed in the North Atlantic States will, in the not distant future, be killed and dressed in Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky, Texas, and the other great grazing States and territories of the Union. 2. Our meat exports are destined to become enormous; but the meat sent abroad as well as that sold on the Atlantic slope, will be killed and dressed in the West, and will be forwarded by refrigerator cars and refrigerator ships to its destination. 3. The whole business of selling, killing, and preparing beef and pork for market will be transferred to the West, and the occupation of cattle dealers, pork and beef packers and commission merchants in the Eastern and Middle States will be reduced to a minimum. 4. The value of grazing lands in the West will be greatly enhanced, and local abattoirs and packing houses will be established on the lines of the principal railroads. 5. What the East will lose in the handling of cattle and the preparing and packing of meat, will be gained by the West in the enhanced value of land and of cattle where they are grown.

A GOOD-NATURED STRANGER.

The following story is told of an adventure which lately befell Mr. W. J. Florence, the celebrated comedian, who is to make his first appearance at the Grand Opera House this week. Mr. Florence dined at a New York restaurant the other day, and when the time came to pay the shot, found that he had forgotten his purse. A little embarrassment ensued, the waiter not knowing the customer. A gentleman who was present interposed, politely said "Pray, allow me," handed the official a $50 bill, took the change, and the obliger and obliged left the place together. Before parting Mr. Florence thanked his unknown friend, and handing him his card said he would take care to return the cash at once. "Oh, no," said the other, "the obligation is all the other way. The bill was a counterfeit, which I was tremendously glad to get rid of, and you gave me the chance. Adieu." Mr. Florence, amazed, gazed into a space, for with a pleasant smile the "gentleman" had gone, and the place thereof knew him no more.

HURRYING TO THE STORE.

During the last dull season a well-

THE TOMB.

MATHESON—On the 13th April, of diphtheria, David youngest child of R. Matheson, Esq., B. A., Head Master of the High School aged 2 years and 6 days.
HAYES—At Napanee, on the 16th inst., Mrs. Rachel Hayes, aged 84 years, 4 months, 5 days.
LOTT—At Napanee Mills, on the 14th inst., Mrs. Rachel Lott, aged 77 years, and 3 months.

NAPANEE MARKETS.

EXPRESS OFFICE.
Friday, April 20th, '77.

Barley—50c.
Wheat—$1.25.
Oats—50c.
Rye—60c. to 65c.
Peas—70c. to 72c.
Buckwheat—75c. to 80c.
Wheat Flour—$3.00 to $3.40 retail.
Hay—$11.00 to $12.00 per ton.
Hides—$3.00 to $5.00.
Onions—80c. to $1.00 per bushel.
Butter—23c. to 25c. per lb.
Eggs—10c. to 12c. per dozen.
Lamb and Pelts—$1.00 to $1.25.
Apples—80c. to $1.20 per bag.
Potatoes—$1.00 to $1.20 per bag.
Chickens—30c. to 40c. per pair.
Geese—50c. to 60c. each.
Ducks—40c. to 50c. per brace.
Turkeys—50c. to $1.00 each.
Wood hard—$2.50 to $3.00 per cord.
" soft—$1.50 to $2.00 " "
Beef per cwt.—$5.00 to $7.00.
Pork " "—$7.00 to $7.50.
Lard " "—13c. to 15c.
Calf skins 8c. per lb. rough.
" " " " 10c. " " trimmed.
Straw—$3.00 to $1.00 per load.
Clover Seed—$7 per bushel.
Timothy Seed—$2.00 to 2.60 per bush.
Tallow—7c. to 8c. per lb.
Oatmeal—$1.00 per cwt. retail.
Cheese—11c. to 12c. per lb.
Deacon skins 25c.

MILLI

DOWNEY &

HAVE A LARGE, CHEAP,

Stock of M

SOMETHING NEW AND FRES

All Orders Executed with

DRESS M

Pringle's communication, he being the only member who had signed it. The report stated that, in addition to the costs ($114) already paid, Mr. Reeve's costs were about $150, judging from the remarks of the judge who decided the appeal he did not think Mr. Pringle could recover damages, but he (Mr. Reeve) would not forgo his fees; and recommended the appointment of a special committee to ascertain upon what terms Mr. Pringle would settle and report to this council.

The following committee was then appointed, viz.: Messrs. James, Miller and Geddes.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Mr. James said that the Committee had been unable to find a precedent for paying the auditors $25 each, and were likewise at a loss to find the authority upon which $20 each was paid last year, except the Treasurer's voucher. He moved that the account be referred back to the committee.

The West Ward Collector's Roll for 1875 had been examined, and the committee believed that of the $279 returned as back-taxes, a good part was collectable, and they therefore recommended that it be referred back to the collector. There was a balance of $165 43¹/₂ still unpaid.

The committee had issued an order for the payment of the cost of the appeal in the Pringle case, amounting to $114.

THE GAS LAMPS.

Mr. Miller presented the report of the Town Property Committee, stating that they had examined the street lamps and found the flame flickering, and the Ellis' burner poorer than those first used, and recommending that lighting the street lamps be discontinued for the present; they had given an order for one month's gas, $1.50 for cleaning the Council Chamber and street lamps, renewed the insurance on the Engine and Engine house for $2,000 in the Northern, and $2,000 in the Scottish Imperial each at 1 per cent. and recommending the payment of T. H. Waller's account less two dollars. Part of the report was adopted, and that relating to the street lamps was referred back with instructions to confer with the Gas Company and have it arranged.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. Roe introduced a by-law which was passed through its several stages, appointing J. Windrum, pound-keeper; C. B. Perry, fence viewer, East ward; A. Fraser, do, Center ward and P. Bogart, do, West ward.

The Council then adjourned.

ST. PETER'S SUCCESSOR.

The death of Pio Nono may be expected any day. He is now past the first half of his ninth decade, and was he a man of the simplest habits and the most vigorous vitality he could hardly expect to live much longer in the ordinary course of nature. Though His Holiness has been shorn of all his temporal power and through his influence over the minds and consciences of men has been greatly diminished with the extension of education, yet the subject of his succession to the throne is far from being a matter of indifference to several of the powers of Europe. Spain, Italy, France, Germany, and Austria all feel the liveliest interest in the succession, and all would play cross-purposes, if they intrigue in the matter at all Spain would, if she could, place a bigoted reactionist—an Ultramontano on the throne. France would have Cardinal Bonaparte elected, and French ideas control the Papal administration. Germany is hostile to any one closely identified with the infallibility dogma. Austria has indicated the kind of a Pope she wants and she will refuse to ratify the election, if her wishes are not regarded, while Italy, of course, wants a man who will recognize, and somewhat in accord with the present school of Italian politics.

There are several candidates spoken of for the position. The French candidate is Cardinal Bonaparte. Germany has two—Archbishop Liebochowski and Cardinal Hohenlohe; England presents its hearts during the past two years.

We would also say that the prospects for the artisan class are not good for the coming year, but agricultural laborers or small farmers, whether young men or with families, if they are but willing to work, will find that Canada offers inducements equal to, if not surpassing, any other country. Here, such persons will be sure to make progress and secure comfortable homes for themselves, with almost certain prospects of still greater advantages for their families.

T. JAMES CLAXTON,
President Montreal Association.
D. A. BUNGE,
Secretary Montreal Association.

P.S. A copy of this circular was sent to the Association at Toronto, Ontario, but for prudential reasons they declined signing it. The following resolution adopted by their Board and officially communicated to us fully bears out the statement made in this circular:—

'That while feeling the force of the argument contained in your circular, and the good wishes of some action being taken in the matter, we are of the opinion that such action should be brought about through our Government, and that our issuing such a circular would be injurious to our cause and entirely outside of our legitimate sphere.'

The Montreal Association feels that it would be wrong to refrain from publishing this circular. Before more positive action would be taken by Government many young men may be led to take a step which will be regretted for years, if not for a lifetime.

T. J. C., President.

BRIGHAM YOUNG'S INFAMY.

Mr. George Lowery, of Haverhill, Mass., is one of the few survivors of the body of teamsters for the murder of whom while under Mormon escort, Brigham Young is alleged to have issued an order on the 19th of April, 1858. Mr. Lowery is very positive that the order had reference to the party of which he was one, and not to the party so brutally murdered at Mountain Meadow the September previous. The survivor states that he was a teamster in General Johnston's expedition against Utah in 1857. He and eight other teamsters separated from that command and started for California. They got lost in the mountains, wandering about for a month, finally coming out into Molada Valley, where they were captured by a Mormon sergeant and taken to Box Elder city. From thence they were taken to Salt Lake City. At that point a party of forty-two teamsters were gathered, who wanted to go to California, and Colonel Lee, then in command there, gave permission for their departure, turning them over to Captain Smith, with an escort of seventy-two men, proposing to accompany them to Castle Rocks, a distance of 150 miles. Before starting they accidentally heard of the order from Young for their massacre at a point 100 miles away, but concluded to arm themselves and take the risk. They purchased guns and ammunition of apostate Mormons, the guns being taken apart and secreted with their ammunition in sacks of flour, constituting part of their supplies. The party of forty-two were only allowed to take one double-barrelled gun and a revolver. The teamsters and their escort had separated camps, and at the end of the first day's march, on entering camp for the night, the teamsters prepared their guns and were ready by morning to give 121 shots without reloading. In the morning the Mormons were astonished to find an armed party in charge, but moved on in another day's march, which took them fifty miles away. On the morning of the third day the Mormons announce their determination to leave the party there, instead of accompanying them to Castle Rocks, and did so, returning to Salt Lake City. Had the teamsters been unarmed they would doubtless have been slaughtered in obedience to Brigham Young's order. They proceeded in safety, reaching California June, 1858.—N. Y. Herald

A YOUTHFUL TRAVELLER.

dealers, pork and beef packers and commission merchants in the Eastern and Middle States will be reduced to a minimum. 4. The value of grazing lands in the West will be greatly enhanced, and local abattoirs and packing houses will be established on the lines of the principal railroads. 5. What the East will lose in the handling of cattle and the preparing and packing of meat, will be gained by the West in the enhanced value of land and of cattle where they are grown.

A GOOD-NATURED STRANGER.

The following story is told of an adventure which lately befell Mr. W. J. Florence, the celebrated comedian, who is to make his first appearance at the Grand Opera House this week. Mr. Florence dined at a New York restaurant the other day, and when the time came to pay the shot, found that he had forgotten his purse. A little embarrassment ensued, the waiter not knowing the customer. A gentleman who was present interposed, politely said "Pray, allow me," handed the official a $50 bill, took the change, and the obliger and obliged left the place together. Before parting Mr. Florence thanked his unknown friend, and handing him his card said he would take care to return the cash at once. "Oh, no," said the other, "the obligation is all the other way. The bill was a counterfeit, which I was tremendously glad to get rid of, and you gave me the chance. Adieu." Mr. Florence, amazed, gazed into a space, for with a pleasant smile the "gentleman" had gone, and the place thereof knew him no more.

HURRYING TO THE STORE.

During the last dull season a well-known King street (Toronto) merchant was discovered taking giant steps in the direction of his place of business at 7 o'clock in the morning. A rival tradesman, who was well assured that large sales was not the motive that induced this rapid transit, hailed the swift "commercial traveller," and interviewed him as follows:

"What's broke loose, Charlie? Where are you going in such a hurry?"

"I'm going to the store."

"Trade must be active with you!"

"It's not the trade that has called me out."

"It's not a woman, is it?"

"No; of course not. But I'll explain the thing to you to keep down your internal suspicions. There are three partners in our store, and we have only two chairs. The last man that comes in the morning has to stand up all day. It is very important for me to get to the store early this morning—good day."

And Charley "lit out" like a reporter for a newspaper en route for a fire.

A ROYAL DOG FIGHT.

The king of Denmark, when returning in Copenhagen the other day, from his usual daily walk, accompanied by a little white rat terrier, passed by the Butchers' Market, a place nearly in the centre of the town, where some two hundred butchers have their shops. Suddenly a large mastiff attacked the terrier, which, naturally enough, the King attempted to chase away by beating him about the head with his walking stick. The owner of the mastiff, however, not recognizing the King, and being a very violent person rushed out and began to abuse his Majesty, using the most choice language in his vocabulary, finally threatening to use even stronger measures. Fortunately a police constable happened to pass who recognized the King, and explained to the butcher who the owner of the dog was.

"BULLS AND BEARS."

A party of Wall street, New York, speculators came to Montreal two weeks ago, and "beared" Bank of Montreal stock, laying with $10,000 profit. They came back again and commenced to

HAVE A LARGE CH

Stock of

SOMETHING NEW AND I

All Orders Executed v

DRESS

MISS

DRESS

DOWNEY

IS PREPARED TO

MANTLES A

ON THE S

SATISFACTION GU

DOWI

SPRING

SLAVEN

of the report was adopted, and that that ing to the street lamps was referred back with instructions to confer with the Gas Company and have it arranged.

MR. LEE INTRODUCED A BY-LAW WHICH was passed through its several stages, appointing J. Windham, pound-keeper, C. B. Perry, fence viewer, East ward; A. P. Perry, fence viewer, East ward; A. P. Perry, fence viewer, East ward; A. P. Perry, fence viewer, East ward.

THE COUNCIL THEN ADJOURNED.

ST. PETER'S SUCCESSOR.

The death of Fr. Xomo may be expected any day. He is now past the first half of his ninth decade, and was the most vigorous of his order. He could hardly expect to have much longer in the ordinary course of nature. Through his Holiness has been shown of all his temporal power and through his influence over the minds and consciences of men has been greatly diminished with the extension of education, yet the subject of his succession to the throne is far from being a matter of indifference to several of the powers of Europe. Spain, Italy, France, Germany, and Austria all feel the liveliest interest in the succession, and all would play an active part in it. They are all closely interested with the inability of French troops to control the rapid administration. Germany is hostile to any one closely identified with the inability of French troops to control the rapid administration. Germany is hostile to any one closely identified with the inability of French troops to control the rapid administration.

ST. PETER'S SUCCESSOR.

The death of Fr. Xomo may be expected any day. He is now past the first half of his ninth decade, and was the most vigorous of his order. He could hardly expect to have much longer in the ordinary course of nature. Through his Holiness has been shown of all his temporal power and through his influence over the minds and consciences of men has been greatly diminished with the extension of education, yet the subject of his succession to the throne is far from being a matter of indifference to several of the powers of Europe. Spain, Italy, France, Germany, and Austria all feel the liveliest interest in the succession, and all would play an active part in it. They are all closely interested with the inability of French troops to control the rapid administration. Germany is hostile to any one closely identified with the inability of French troops to control the rapid administration.

ST. PETER'S SUCCESSOR.

The death of Fr. Xomo may be expected any day. He is now past the first half of his ninth decade, and was the most vigorous of his order. He could hardly expect to have much longer in the ordinary course of nature. Through his Holiness has been shown of all his temporal power and through his influence over the minds and consciences of men has been greatly diminished with the extension of education, yet the subject of his succession to the throne is far from being a matter of indifference to several of the powers of Europe. Spain, Italy, France, Germany, and Austria all feel the liveliest interest in the succession, and all would play an active part in it. They are all closely interested with the inability of French troops to control the rapid administration. Germany is hostile to any one closely identified with the inability of French troops to control the rapid administration.

ST. PETER'S SUCCESSOR.

The death of Fr. Xomo may be expected any day. He is now past the first half of his ninth decade, and was the most vigorous of his order. He could hardly expect to have much longer in the ordinary course of nature. Through his Holiness has been shown of all his temporal power and through his influence over the minds and consciences of men has been greatly diminished with the extension of education, yet the subject of his succession to the throne is far from being a matter of indifference to several of the powers of Europe. Spain, Italy, France, Germany, and Austria all feel the liveliest interest in the succession, and all would play an active part in it. They are all closely interested with the inability of French troops to control the rapid administration. Germany is hostile to any one closely identified with the inability of French troops to control the rapid administration.

ST. PETER'S SUCCESSOR.

The death of Fr. Xomo may be expected any day. He is now past the first half of his ninth decade, and was the most vigorous of his order. He could hardly expect to have much longer in the ordinary course of nature. Through his Holiness has been shown of all his temporal power and through his influence over the minds and consciences of men has been greatly diminished with the extension of education, yet the subject of his succession to the throne is far from being a matter of indifference to several of the powers of Europe. Spain, Italy, France, Germany, and Austria all feel the liveliest interest in the succession, and all would play an active part in it. They are all closely interested with the inability of French troops to control the rapid administration. Germany is hostile to any one closely identified with the inability of French troops to control the rapid administration.

ST. PETER'S SUCCESSOR.

The death of Fr. Xomo may be expected any day. He is now past the first half of his ninth decade, and was the most vigorous of his order. He could hardly expect to have much longer in the ordinary course of nature. Through his Holiness has been shown of all his temporal power and through his influence over the minds and consciences of men has been greatly diminished with the extension of education, yet the subject of his succession to the throne is far from being a matter of indifference to several of the powers of Europe. Spain, Italy, France, Germany, and Austria all feel the liveliest interest in the succession, and all would play an active part in it. They are all closely interested with the inability of French troops to control the rapid administration. Germany is hostile to any one closely identified with the inability of French troops to control the rapid administration.

ST. PETER'S SUCCESSOR.

The death of Fr. Xomo may be expected any day. He is now past the first half of his ninth decade, and was the most vigorous of his order. He could hardly expect to have much longer in the ordinary course of nature. Through his Holiness has been shown of all his temporal power and through his influence over the minds and consciences of men has been greatly diminished with the extension of education, yet the subject of his succession to the throne is far from being a matter of indifference to several of the powers of Europe. Spain, Italy, France, Germany, and Austria all feel the liveliest interest in the succession, and all would play an active part in it. They are all closely interested with the inability of French troops to control the rapid administration. Germany is hostile to any one closely identified with the inability of French troops to control the rapid administration.

FAST SHIPMENT OF CANA-AN CATTLE AND HORSES.

the Turf and Field, of New York: steamer Othello, of the Wilson ill leave this port to-morrow for apton, England, with an impor- pment of live stock—important being exclusively a Canadian se, and as developing the fact that e Grass lands of Kentucky and ee, and the rich rolling prairies of it are not destined to monopolize in trade hereafter, at least in the. The shipment in question by the Messrs. Spears Brothers, h, Ontario, Canada, and consists en head of beef cattle and twenty- d of horses. The former is worthy d mention, not only on account of riority and weight of the animals, eing the product of the Canadian n. The 19 head are all grade rincipally from Durham stock, a roposition being crossed upon nd Ayrshire stock, and the native The Dominion. They are all nd will average about 2,200 lbs. he lot weigh together over 5,000 " The same paper thinks the stock will compete, on equal , with any raised in the States.

Foreign Meat-Trade.

Y. Graphic sums up the following as likely to follow upon the in- of the meat trade in England:— neat consumed in the North States will, in the not distant e killed and dressed in Illinois, i, Kentucky, Texas, and the other izing States and territories of the 2. Our meat exports are destined e enormous; but the meat sent s well as that sold on the At- pe, will be killed and dressed in t, and will be forwarded by re- cars and refrigerator ships to nation. 3. The whole business , killing, and preparing beef and market will be transferred to the nd the occupation of cattle pork and beef packers and com- merchants in the Eastern and States will be reduced to a mini- t. The value of grazing lands in t will be greatly enhanced, and ttoirs and packing houses will ished on the lines of the principal . 5. What the East will lose in ling of cattle and the preparing ing of meat, will be gained by t in the enhanced value of land ttle where they are grown.

MOD-NATURED STRANGER.

llowing story is told of an adven- ch lately befell Mr. W. J. Flor- celebrated comedian, who is to : first appearance at the Grand ouse this week. Mr. Florence a New York restaurant the other when the time came to pay the nd that he had forgotten his A little embarrassment ensued, r not knowing the customer. A n who was present interposed, said "Pray, allow me," handed a $50 bill, took the change, obli- ger and obliged left the place . Before parting Mr. Florence his unknown friend, and hand- his card said he would take care i the cash at once. "Oh, no," other, "the obligation is all the y. The bill was a counterfeit, was tremendously glad to get rid ou gave me the chance. Adieu." ence, amazed, gazed into s ace, a pleasant smile the "gentleman" , and the place thereof knew him

THE TOMB.

MATHERSON—On the 13th April, of diphtheria, David youngest child of R. Matheson, Esq., B. A., Head Master of the High School aged 2 years and 6 days.
HAYES—At Napanee, on the 16th inst., Mrs. Rachel Hayes, aged 84 years, 4 months, 5 days.
LOTT—At Napanee Mills, on the 14th inst., Mrs. Rachel Lott, aged 77 years, and 5 months.

NAPANEE MARKETS.

EXPRESS OFFICE.
Friday, April 20th, '77.

Barley—50c.
Wheat—$1.25.
Oats—50c.
Rye—60c. to 65c.
Peas—70c. to 72c.
Buckwheat—75c. to 80c.
Wheat Flour—$3.00 to $3.40 retail.
Hay—$11.00 to $12.00 per ton.
Hides—$3.00 to $5.00.
Onions—60c. to $1.00 per bushel.
Butter—23c. to 25c. per lb.
Eggs—10c. to 12c. per dozen.
Lamb and Pelts—$1.00 to $1.25.
Apples—80c. to $1.20. per bag.
Potatoes—$1.00. to $1.20. per bag.
Chickens—30c. to 40c. per pair.
Geese—50c. to 60c. each.
Ducks—40c. to 50c. per brace.
Turkeys—50c. to $1.00. each.
Wood hard—$2.50 to $3.00. per cord.
" soft—$1.50. to $2.00. "
Beef per cwt.—$5.00 to $7.00.
Pork " "—$7.00. to $7.50.
Lard " lb—13c. to 15c.
Calf skins 8c. per lb rough.
" 9c. " trimmed.
Straw—$3.00 to $4.00 per load.
Clover Seed—$7 per bushel.
Timothy Seed—$2.00 to 2.60 per bush.
Tallow—7c. to 8c. per lb.
Oatmeal—$1.00. per cwt. retail.
Cheese—11c. to 13c. per lb.
Deacon skins 25c.

SEE! LOOK! BEHOLD!

A NEW SIGHT HAS COME TO TOWN

IT IS PATENTED EYE-SIGHT!

F. W. SMITH,

IS THE HAPPY POSSESSOR.]

He will provide all who desire it at reasonable rates. Call and look at

JOHNSTON & CONRATH'S

Economical Spectacles,

EASY-FITTING.

Eye-Glasses and Superior Eye Tryer.

This firm has appointed me sole agent of their goods in this vicinity.

F. W. SMITH,

Napanee.

Optician and Jeweler.

No-47

JOB

PRINTING!

THE JOBBING DEPARTMENT

—OF THE—

NAPANEE EXPRESS

IS EXCELLED BY

No Office In The Dominion,

DOWNEY & SPENCE,

HAVE A LARGE, CHEAP, AND WELL ASSORTED

Stock of Millinery.

SOMETHING NEW AND FRESH ARRIVING EVERY DAY.

All Orders Executed with Promptness and Taste.

MISS PHALEN,

MILLINER.

DRESS MAKING

LARGE STOCK

OF THE

Very Latest Styles Of New Type,

And every Facility exists for turning out

JOB PRINTING

IN THE

of cattle and the preparing of meat, will be gained by the enhanced value of land where they are grown.

D-NATURED STRANGER.

A wing story is told of an adventure which befell Mr. W. J. Florence, a celebrated comedian, who is to make his first appearance at the Grand Theatre this week. Mr. Florence, who is a New York restaurant the other day, when the time came to pay the bill, that he had forgotten his little embarrassment ensued, not knowing the customer. A who was present interposed, and "Pray, allow me," handed a $50 bill, took the change, and obliged left the place. Before parting Mr. Florence's unknown friend, and hand-card said he would take care to cash at once. "Oh, no," he said, "the obligation is all the other way." The bill was a counterfeit, and he was tremendously glad to get rid of it. He gave me the chance. Adieu." He was amazed, gazed into space, and then a pleasant smile the "gentleman" and the place thereof knew him.

GOING TO THE STORE.

At the last dull season a well-known street (Toronto) merchant was taking giant steps in the of his place of business at 7 in the morning. A rival tradesman was well assured that large not the motive that induced him to go. He hailed the swift "con- veller," and interviewed him.

"broke loose, Charlie? Where are you in such a hurry?" "Going to the store." "Must be active with you!" "The trade that has called me."

"woman, is it." "Of course not. But I'll explain to you to keep down: your incisions. There are three part- store, and we have only two the last man that comes in the store to stand up all day. It is tant for me to get to the store morning—good day." "Play 'lit out' like a reporter paper en route for a fire."

ROYAL DOG FIGHT.

of Denmark, when returning on the other day, from his walk, accompanied by a little terrier, passed by the Butchers' place nearly in the centre of where some two hundred live their shops. Suddenly a dog attacked the terrier, which, though, the King attempted to by beating him about the his walking stick. The owner, however, not recognizing and being a very violent person and began to abuse his dog, using the most choice language, finally threatening to stronger measures. Fortunately a stable happened to pass who the King, and explained to the owner of the dog.

MULLS AND BEARS.

of Wall street, New York, came to Montreal two weeks ago, "beared" Bank of Montreal with $10,000 profit. They again and commenced to but were discovered on Friday, lost all they made. A further argu has been made on them. lians were too smart for them.

CITY! THOMAS' EXCELSIOR OIL!—WORTH TEN TIMES ITS

Stock of Millinery.

SOMETHING NEW AND FRESH ARRIVING EVERY DAY.

All Orders Executed with Promptness and Taste.

MISS PHALEN,

MILLINER.

DRESS MAKING

MISS ALLISON,

DRESS MAKER.

—AT—

DOWNEY & SPENCE'S,

IS PREPARED TO EXECUTE ORDERS FOR

MANTLES AND DRESSES,

ON THE SHORTEST NOTICE.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED OR NO PAY.

DOWNEY & SPENCE

SPRING OPENING!

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE,

OPENED THEIR

MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

ITS OUTFIT INCLUDES A

LARGE STOCK

OF THE

Very Latest Styles Of New Type,

And every Facility exists for turning out

JOB PRINTING

IN THE

BEST STYLE

OF THE ART.

LAW WORK A SPECIALITY.

Assessment Blanks,
Auction Bills,
Articles of Agreement,
Briefs,
Bill Heads,
Ball Programmes,
Bills of Fare,
Circulars,
Chancery Bills,
Cards,
Catalogues,
Debentures,

Dodgers,
Date Lines,
Envelopes,
Exhibition Bills,
Funeral Circulars,
Financial Reports,
Headings,
Horse Bills,
Indentures,
Invitations

Letter Headings,
Law Forms,
Lawyers' Briefs,
Labels,
Monthly Statements,
Mourning Cards,
Municipal Forms,
Note Headings,
Notarial Circulars.

Obituary Notices,
Pamphlets,
Posters,
Programmes,
Promissory Notes,
Receipt Books,

visit, hailed the swift "commiler," and interviewed him
 "oke loose, Charlie? Where in such a hurry!"
 to the store."
 "st be active with you!"
 ie trade that has called me

"oman, is it."
 urse not. But I'll explain you to keep down your in-ons. There are three part-ore, and we have only two e last man that comes in the to stand up all day. It is nt for me to get to the store rning—good day."
 y "lit out" like a reporter
 er en route for a fire.

ROYAL DOG FIGHT.

of Denmark, when returning n the other day, from his alk, accompanied by a little ier, passed by the Butchers' ce nearly in the centre of here some two hundred a their shops. Suddenly a attacked the terrier, which, ough, the King attempted to by beating him about the walking stick. The owner
 , however, not recognizing l being a very violent person and began to abuse his ng the most choice language lary, finally threatening to nger measures. Fortunately table happened to pass who he King, and explained to who the owner of the dog

WALLS AND BEARS."

[Wall street, New York, ame to Montreal two weeks heard" Bank of Montreal g with $10,000 profit. They again and commenced to t were discovered on Friday, t all they made. A further
 gn has been made on them.
 ns were too smart for them.

TY ! THOMAS' EXCELSIOR OIL.—WORTH TEN TIMES ITS GOLD.—Pain cannot stay ed. It is the cheapest medi-
 de. One dose cures common One bottle has cured broncents' worth has cured an old gh. It positively cures catarrh croup. Fifty cents' worth has in the back, and the same e back of eight years standing.
 ng are extracts from a few of tters that have been republit parts of Canada, which we l be sufficient to satisfy the d: J. Collard, of Sparta, Ont., nd me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' have sold all I had from you ore now; it cures are truly Wm. McGuire, of Franklin, age sold all the agents left, it iam—it was slow at first, but id now." H. Cole, of Iona, ase forward 6 dozen Thomas'
 I am nearly out, nothing equals hly recommended by those who
 " J. Bedford, Thamesville, d at once a further supply of
 I have only one bottle left, anything sell so well and give faction." J. Thompson, Wood-
 "Send me some more Electric e sold entirely out. Nothing
 " Miller & Reid, Ulverton, P.
 "The Electric Oil is getting a tion here, and is daily called a further supply without de-

OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr.
 etric Oil See that the signature MAS is on the wrapper, and the drop and Lyman are blown in nd "Take no other." Sold by dealers. Price, 25 cts. NOH YMAN, Toronto, Ont., Pro-
 the Dominion.
 ELECTRIC—Selected and Elec-

DRESS MAKER.

—AT—

DOWNEY & SPENCE'S,

IS PREPARED TO EXECUTE ORDERS FOR

MANTLES AND DRESSES,

ON THE SHORTEST NOTICE.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED OR NO PAY.

DOWNEY & SPENCE
 SPRING OPENING!

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE,

OPENED THEIR

MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

FOR THE SEASON, ON

Saturday Last, April 14th,

WITH THE

LARGEST AND FINEST STOCK OF

MILLINERY

Ever shown. We have not time to send Special Cards of Invitation, and we hope this will be accepted as a general invitation for every one to come.

Old and Young, Rich and Poor,

Everybody will be welcome and be treated with the same attention.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE

LAW WORK A SPECIALITY.

- Assessment Blanks,
- Auction Bills,
- Articles of Agreement,
- Briefs,
- Bill Heads,
- Ball Programmes,
- Bills of Fare,
- Circulars,
- Chancery Bills,
- Cards,
- Catalogues,
- Debentures,
- Dodgers,
- Date Lines,
- Envelopes,
- Exhibition Bills,
- Funeral Circulars,
- Financial Reports,
- Headings,
- Horse Bills,
- Indentures,
- Invitations
- Letter Headings,
- Law Forms,
- Lawyers' Briefs,
- Labels,
- Monthly Statements,
- Mourning Cards,
- Municipal Forms,
- Note Headings,
- Notarial Circulars.
- Obituary Notices,
- Pamphlets,
- Posters,
- Programmes,
- Promissory Notes,
- Receipt Books,
- Shipping Tags,
- Statements,
- Sale Bills,
- Tickets,
- Tax Collectors Rolls,
- Tax Receipts,
- Visiting Cards,
- Voters' Lists,
- Wheat Receipts,
- Wedding Cards.

ALL THE ABOVE

PRINTED WITH DESPATCH,

AT THE

"EXPRESS" OFFICE.

J. B. BENSON,

Proprietor.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

A PROPAGATING SECRET.

Cuttings of shrubs and trees are taken off at the beginning of July, from 6 in. to 12 in. long, according to the kind. The leaves are removed from the lower portion which is to enter the ground, but those which will come above ground are left. Beds are prepared for them in the open air by thorough digging and levelling, and afterwards applying a superficial layer, about 2 in. thick, of rotten manure from a spent hot-bed. The cuttings are then stuck in about 2 in. apart and in a somewhat oblique direction. Each bed when filled is surrounded with a lath fence so that the shade may be given when the sun is very hot, and the cuttings are well watered with a rose-spouted can. This completes the operation. The only further care necessary is a sprinkling overhead three or four times a day during the first week, if the weather be very hot, and once a day afterwards. In the course of five or six weeks, treated in the manner indicated, the cuttings of most plants will have formed a callus, and further shading will be unnecessary. Late in the autumn a layer of rough manure, 2 in. or 3 in. thick, is spread over for winter protection. It also serves as manure when the cuttings start growing in the spring; and cuttings treated thus make extraordinary progress, forming plants equal to two-years old plants from winter or spring cuttings. Very few, fail. The new method of grafting roses is the insertion of growing eyes early in the spring, instead of dormant eyes in the summer. They are inserted in the main stem one on each side, to form symmetrical heads. These make, it is said, as much growth the first season as the dormant eyes the second season.

PETROLEUM ON SHINGLES.

In regard to applying petroleum to shingles to preserve them, a writer says: "It enters the pores of the wood at once, and as it hardens makes it more compact in texture, and rather less liable to take fire. The petroleum also prevents the surface of the shingles from rising in downy fibres, or 'fuzz,' and it is on the whole not so liable to fire from sparks when treated with it. We have tried the experiment with shingles oiled some time previously, and find they are not so easily ignited by outside fire, although when once burning, they will, of course, produce more flame than the wood without the petroleum." Petroleum is also very good to apply to the iron work and steel of farm implements to prevent their rusting when not in use. The crude article costs but $3 or $4 per barrel—the price may be higher at present—and it is useful to keep on hand. When any out-building, or even your dwelling, house is to be painted, one-half of the expense may be saved by applying a coat of petroleum with a fine whitewash brush, let it dry several weeks, and then put on one coat of paint, and by so doing a second coat of paint is rendered unnecessary.

HARROWING AND TOP DRESSING WINTER WHEAT IN SPRING.

When sowing winter wheat in the fall, it is not advisable to make the surface of the ground too fine and smooth, and thus expose the young plants to the cutting winds of winter and early spring. A moderately-rough surface not only affords shelter to the young plants at the most critical period of their existence, but it retains snow, which is at the same time a manure and a protection from the cutting winds and alternate freezing and thawing which is so hurtful to young plants of every kind. It improves winter wheat wonderfully to break the crust of the sod, pulverize the lumps, and destroy annual weeds by harrowing and rolling

VARIOUS ITEMS.

Scene in Texas—hotel table—"Good morning, stranger; it looks like rain." Stranger—"I think not." A shot is heard, and the stranger is rolled out of the back door. Moral—Texas is a fine grazing country. —N. Y. Herald.

A huge rhinoceros got loose in the steamer Colon in a storm off Cape Hatteras, and killed two dogs and a horse before being recaptured. It seemed to be infuriated by the rocking of the vessel, but became tractable when a calm ensued.

Live lobsters are the latest imported edible from the United States to Great Britain, one steamer having recently carried a tank containing 700. A constant flow of sea water was kept in the tank by means of a small engine.

A correspondent in Egypt writes:—"A line of laughing girls, each bearing on her head an enormous earthen jar, causes you to stand aside and make way for them on the narrow path. They draw their hoods across their faces as they pass, but gaze at you with unfeigned interest out of one black eye. Very often the extemporized veil drops and reveals a brown but not always ugly face, set off with necklaces and ear-rings of colored beads, and tattooed on chin and forehead. A smiling mouth and rows of magnificent white teeth redeem the otherwise expressionless countenance, and your salute is returned politely without any disturbance of the well-balanced water-jar."

The fury of the gales on the Atlantic during the past four months may be judged by the effect. The losses to cargoes and vessels are estimated at $2,000,000. There have been four hundred persons drowned, and three hundred and fifty ship-owners have been ruined. Reports from all quarters for the four months show a total of one hundred and forty-nine vessels wrecked and two thousand and fifty-three damaged some of them almost past repair.

A Montreal policeman on Antoine Street, attracted by the cries of an infant, made search and found a baby in a roll of cloth lying at the door of a house on Richmond Square. The little waif was removal to the Grey Nunnery.

Mrs Mary Fielding, of Astoria New York while standing upon a bed-post white-washing, on Tuesday, fell, the post penetrating her abdomen. She died in great agony.

Burglars chloroformed the family of George Schneider, embracing eight persons, in West Hoboken early in the morning, and stole $900 worth of property.

The President's son, Mr. Webb Hayes, that when he returned from college it occurred to him that he might be a more muscular Christian than his distinguished father. Accordingly he gave a good-humoured challenge to a wrestling match to that kindly person, and it was instantly accepted. There was a picturesque struggle for a few minutes, and somebody emphatically measured his length on the floor. The young gentleman has never challenged his venerable father since.

A Chinawoman was sold by her husband to a fellow countryman in California for $250. She was then healthy, but she soon fell sick, and was disabled for work, so the purchaser killed her with a cleaver.

The rowdies of Oakland, Ind., to the number of over twenty, recently went on a spree together. After getting drunk they went to a church in which a revival meeting was in progress and drove out the congregation. They then took possession of a graveyard, built bonfires on the graves, and broke down the tombstone to dance on. The respectable citizens rallied under the leadership of a

FARMERS

LENNOX & ADDINGTON,

Diamond & Sherwood,

Being alive to your interests as well as our own, wish to say to you we now have on hand all kinds of

SEED GRAINS.

Wheat, Best "fyfe" especially imported from the west.

Barley, Canadian No 1 Prize Centennial Medal,

Peas, Buckwheat, Rye, Oats and Corn.

We also have on hand a quantity of No 1 Western Corn, and with the facilities for manufacturing which we possess, we can in a few minutes please the most fastidious, as to manner they wish it ground.

BRAN AND SHORTS.

We also present to your notice our

FLOUR,
OAT MEAL,
CRACKED WHEAT,
CORN MEAL,
GRAHAM FLOUR,
CRACKED CORN.

Each and every article of which stands unrivalled, and in which we intend to maintain our reputation both as to quality and price.

We ask for our goods a fair trial only, leaving it to our customers to answer any misrepresentation by our detractors, as we are assured no adverse judgement will be pressed by a jury composed of the general community who have once patronized us. To them we leave our case.

--ALSO--

MESS PORK,
BACON,
LARD,
TIMOTHY AND CLOVER SEEDS.

DIAMOND & SHERWOOD,
49-41in.

BOYS AND GIRLS
WANTED.

10,000 OR MORE
LITTLE CHRISTIAN BOYS & GIRLS,
TO WORK FOR JESUS,

In helping to circulate Little Books, Tracts, &c.

WE will send FREE, complete Catalogue of Books, &c., on hand to any address, and for each Order received, to the amount of ONE DOLLAR, we will send the LITTLE BOY OR GIRL (sending the order) Books to the value of FIFTY CENTS on each dollar. Address:

WILLARD TRUST DEPOSITORY,
Shaftesbury Hall Toronto.

On the 1st of July, 1877, we will send to the six Boys or Girls sending the Largest number of orders up to that date, one nice Pocket Bible, each.

For the information of Christian generally, it may be briefly stated that this Institution, now in full operation, owes its origin to the liberality of a Christian gentleman, a resident of Toronto, who has invested a portion of his means in the enterprise, as a free-will offering to the Lord, with the view of scattering broadcast over our land, Tracts, Books, &c., which unfold the exalted privileges of the believers, and treat

JOB

PRINTING

THE JOBBING DEPARTMENT

—OF THE—

NAPANEE EXPRESS

IS EXCELLED BY

No Office In The Dominion

LARGE STOCK

OF THE

Very Latest Styles Of New Type

And every Facility exists for turning,

JOB PRINTING

IN THE

These make, it is said, as much gain the first season as the dormant eyes the second season.

PETROLEUM ON SHINGLES.

In regard to applying petroleum to shingles to preserve them, a writer says: "It enters the pores of the wood at once, and as it hardens makes it more compact in texture, and rather less liable to take fire. The petroleum also prevents the surface of the shingles from rising in downy fibres, or 'fuz,' and it is on the whole not so liable to fire from sparks when treated with it. We have tried the experiment with shingles oiled some time previously, and find they are not so easily ignited by outside fire, although when once burning, they will, of course, produce more flame than the wood without the petroleum." Petroleum is also very good to apply to the iron work and steel of farm implements to prevent their rusting when not in use. The crude article costs but $3 or $4 per barrel—the price may be higher at present—and it is useful to keep on hand. When any out-building, or even your dwelling, house is to be painted, one-half of the expense may be saved by applying a coat of petroleum with a fine whitewash brush, let it dry several weeks, and then put on one coat of paint, and by so doing a second coat of paint is rendered unnecessary.

HARROWING AND TOP DRESSING WINTER WHEAT IN SPRING.

When sowing winter wheat in the fall, it is not advisable to make the surface of the ground too fine and smooth, and thus expose the young plants to the cutting winds of winter and early spring. A moderately-rough surface not only affords shelter to the young plants at the most critical period of their existence, but it retains snow, which is at the same time a manure and a protection from the cutting winds and alternate freezing and thawing which is so hurtful to young plants of every kind. It improves winter wheat wonderfully to break the crust of the sod, pulverize the lumps, and destroy annual weeds by harrowing and rolling at the right time in spring, and the right time occurs generally in April or early in May, when the wheat plants have taken a strong hold of the soil, and the seeds of annual weeds have vegetated. A top dressing of some suitable manure should be applied before the harrowing. If clover or grass seed is to be sown, it should be spread after the harrowing and before the rolling.

LABELLING TREES.

No other tree combines within itself more perfectly the elements of both utility and ornament than the apple tree. Its fragrant flowers are beautiful in the spring-time, and the painted fruit is glorious all the summer months. A farm without an orchard is robbed of half its beauty, and the owner loses much of his pleasure and income. A book should be kept containing a plan of the orchard and all the trees named and numbered as they stand in the rows. The trees should also be labelled, and the Wilder plan is perhaps the best yet employed for this purpose. Strips of zinc cut four inches long and one inch wide, after being put in water for a day or two to oxydize, are written on with a common lead pencil. It will not show very plainly at first, but blackens with age and will last as long as the trees themselves. The wire must be kept loose enough to allow the branch to increase in size.

WASH FOR FRUIT TREES.

The following is a wash used by William Saunders, of the Government Gardens at Washington: Put half a bushel of lime and four pounds of powdered sulphur in a tight barrel, slacking the lime with hot water, the mouth of the barrel being covered with a cloth; this is reduced to the consistency of ordinary white wash, and, at the time of application, half an ounce of carbolic acid is added to each gallon of the liquid. Mr. Saunders says:

vessels are estimated at $2,000,000. There have been four hundred persons drowned, and three hundred and fifty ship-owners have been ruined. Reports from all quarters for the four months show a total of one hundred and forty-nine vessels wrecked and two thousand and fifty-three damaged some of them almost past repair.

A Montreal policeman on Antoine Street, attracted by the cries of an infant, made search and found a baby in a roll of cloth lying at the door of a house on Richmond Square. The little waif was removal to the Grey Nunnery.

Mrs Mary Fielding, of Astoria New York while standing upon a bed-post white-washing, on Tuesday, fell, the post penetrating her abdomen. She died in great agony.

Burglars chloroformed the family of George Schneider, embracing eight persons, in West Hoboken early in the morning, and stole $900 worth of property.

The President's son, Mr. Webb Hayes, that when he returned from college it occurred to him that he might be a more muscular Christian than his distinguished father. Accordingly he gave a good-humoured challenge to a wrestling match to that kindly person, and it was instantly accepted. There was a picturesque struggle for a few minutes, and somebody emphatically measured his length on the floor. The young gentleman has never challenged his venerable father since.

A Chinawoman was sold by her husband to a fellow countryman in California for $250. She was then healthy, but she soon fell sick, and was disabled for work, so the purchaser killed her with a cleaver.

The rowdies of Oakland, Ind., to the number of over twenty, recently went on a spree together. After getting drunk they went to a church in which a revival meeting was in progress and drove out the congregation. They then took possession of a graveyard, built bonfires on the graves, and broke down the tombstone to dance on. The respectable citizens rallied under the leadership of a sheriff, and arrested the sacrilegious revellers.

There is a newsboy in San Francisco, Jas. Handley by name, who is rapidly acquiring a fortune by the sale of papers. He is but fourteen years old, yet owns two houses and several building lots on Telegraph Hill. He recently built a third house there for $1,800, and sold it to his brother for $2,200. The brother, also a newsboy sold it again for $3,100 Jimmy aspires to a profession, and attends the the Lincoln School, where he stands high in his class.

A surviving Chinaman, who was taken into the Cincinnati hospital for resuscitation a few days ago, attributed his woful plight to the fact that he had started a laundry in Louisville. He sums up his experience in a single line:—"Kentuckee—two weekes—one shirtee."

At a recent funeral in Perpignan, France, the friends of the deceased not content with dispensing with anything in the shape of religious consolation, carried their want of common decency so far as to follow him to the grave with pipes in their mouths and bottles under their arms. As soon as the body was lowered into the grave, mourners began singing and drinking, and having exhausted their liquor, threw the empty bottle on the coffin exclaiming, "Tiens, voilà ta part!" This done they returned to the winelops.

The minister of War has decided that the French regiments shall resume the use of silk flags, instead of the cotton flags, instead of the cotton flags which most of them have carried for reasons of economy since the war. Consequently, 100 large standards of silk, of the handsomest kind, will be ordered shortly from the Lyons establishments.

The lemonade sellers of Paris, gave their annual ball recently at the Grand Hotel. The attendance was large; supper was served at two o'clock in the morning, and dancing was kept up until

Each and every article of which stands unrivalled, and in which we intend to maintain our reputation both as to quality and price.

We ask for our goods a fair trial only, leaving it to our customers to answer any misrepresentation by our detractors, as we are assured no adverse judgement will be pressed by a jury composed of the general community who have once patronized us. To them we leave our case."

-ALSO-

MESS PORK,
BACON,
LARD,
TIMOTHY AND
CLOVER SEEDS.

DIAMOND & SHERWOOD,
49-4in.

BOYS AND GIRLS
WANTED.

10,000 OR MORE
LITTLE CHRISTIAN BOYS & GIRLS,
TO WORK FOR JESUS,

In helping to circulate Little Books, Tracts, &c.

WE will send FREE, complete Catalogue of Books, &c., on hand, to any address, and for Each Order received, to the amount of ONE DOLLAR, we will send the LITTLE BOY OR GIRL (sending the order) Books to the value of FIFTEEN CENTS on each dollar. Address.

On the 1st of July, 1877, we will send to the six Boys or Girls sending the Largest number of orders up to that date, one nice Pocket Bible, each.

For the information of Christian generally, it may be briefly stated that this Institution, now in full operation, owes its origin to the liberality of a Christian gentleman, a resident of Toronto, who has invested a portion of his means in the enterprise, as a free-will offering to the Lord, with the view of scattering broadcast over our land, Tracts, Books, &c., which unfold the exalted privileges of the believers, and treat of the "LIFE OF FAITH" or Trust, and of the power and peace of HOLINESS, and Gospel and Evangelical Literature.

Special notice is called to the fact that this is

No Denominational Institution.

It is neither connected with, nor under the patronage of any particular church. All the Publications it issues will be strictly evangelical, and will meet the wants of all Christians. Largely the Books, &c., &c., will be those published by the Willard Tract Repository of Boston, under the care of the well known DR. CULLIS.

ALL PROFITS that may be made will be devoted to the establishment of a fund for gratuitous distribution of the Tracts and Books to persons and places where they are needed as may be directed by the Committee. We beg also to say that this Fund for free distribution is open for donations to all who may desire to help in this work of God.

We ask all who may desire to promote the higher spiritual life of the churches and to help in winning souls for Christ, to co-operate with us by circulating sound religious literature throughout the land.

References for further information may be made to the following brethren (and others who may be added) who will act as a Committee for selection and distribution.

Rev. JOHN POTTS, Methodist.
" R. WALLACE, Presbyterian.
" T. GUTTERY, Primitive Methodist.
" J. A. R. DICKSON, Congregationalist.
" J. DOUGLAS, Presbyterian, Cobourg.
" R. CAMERON, Baptist, Brantford.
Mr. G. HAGUE, Congregationalist.
" R. W. JAHID, Baptist.
" W. T. MASON, Methodist.
" COL. BURTON, Christian.
" W. A. PARIANE, Episcopal.
" T. J. WILKIE, Congregationalist.
S. R. BRIGGS, Manager, Toronto.
A. PURSON, Manager, Manchester, England.
W. H. VAN TASSEL, General Agent, Toronto.

P. S.—Nearly all of D. L. MOODY'S sermons, and many other precious little gems in book form at only 2c. and 13c. each.

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED !

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, of this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequence

IS EXCELLED BY

No Office In The Dominion

ITS OUTFIT INCLUDES A

LARGE STOCK

OF THE

Very Latest Styles Of New Type

And every Facility exists for turning

JOB PRINTING

IN THE

BEST STYLE

OF THE ART.

LAW WORK A SPECIALTY

Assessment Blanks,
Auction Bills,
Articles of Agreement,
Briefs,
Bill Heads,
Ball Programmes,
Bills of Fare,
Circulars,
Chancery Bills,
Cards,
Catalogues,
Debentures

Dodgers,
Date Lines,
Envelopes,
Exhibition Bills,
Funeral Circulars,
Financial Reports,
Headings,
Horse Bills,
Indentures,
Invitations

LABELLING TREES.

No other tree combines within itself more perfectly the elements of both utility and ornament than the apple tree. Its fragrant flowers are beautiful in the spring-time, and the painted fruit is glorious all the summer months. A farm without an orchard is robbed of half its beauty, and the owner loses much of his pleasure and income. A book should be kept containing a plan of the orchard and all the trees named and numbered as they stand in the rows. The trees should also be labelled, and the Wilder plan is perhaps the best yet employed for this purpose. Strips of zinc cut four inches long and one inch wide, after being put in water for a day or two to oxydize, are written on with a common lead pencil. It will not show very plainly at first, but blackens with age and will last as long as the trees themselves. The wire must be kept loose enough to allow the branch to increase in size.

WASH FOR FRUIT TREES.

The following is a wash used by William Saunders, of the Government Gardens at Washington: Put half a bushel of lime and four pounds of powdered sulphur in a tight barrel, slacking the lime with hot water, the mouth of the barrel being covered with a cloth; this is reduced to the consistency of ordinary white wash, and, at the time of application, half an ounce of carbolic acid is added to each gallon of the liquid. Mr. Saunders says: "I generally apply it in the spring, before the leaves make their appearance, but I am convinced that it would be more effective if applied later; but then it is difficult to do, so when the tree is in foliage," Mr. Saunders applies the wash not only to the stem of the tree, but to some extent to the main branches.

CAUSE OF HEAVES.

The American Agriculturist says that one frequent cause of heaves in horses is the dust from over ripe or mildewed hay: this causes irritation, which finally ends in debility of the nerve which controls the action of the respiratory organs. The disease may be greatly relieved, if not cured in time, by cutting the hay and wetting it before reeding it, and giving no dry feed whatever. Occasional doses of half an ounce of copperas, with equal quantities of ginger and gentian roots powdered, are helpful temporarily.

CURE FOR CORNS.

There is but one cure for corns, and that is take a lemon and roll it until soft cut a thick slice and bind it on the corn on retiring at night. In the morning, if the corn is white and disintegrated, pull it out with your finger nails—never cut a corn. Sometimes several applications of the lemon slices will be necessary, but the corns are bound to succumb, and you can dance the next night if you like—After you remove the corns wear shoes that fit and are not stiff in the soles.

LIME IN THE EYES.

The caustic effect of lime accidentally introduced into the eye may be entirely neutralized by the use of cold sugar water. The lime and sugar form a compound that has no action upon the eyes.

To keep buffalo robes over summer without injury from moths, etc., they should be thoroughly cleaned by whipping them with a light rod, and then packed away in paper to keep from the air. A cedar chest will add to the protection. Fine tobacco or camphor sprinkled over them will be good.—Prairie Farmer.

The Latter-day Saints have purchased a place of worship at Blenheim.

a newsboy sold it again for $3,100 Jimmy aspires to a profession, and attends the the Lincoln School, where he stands high in his class

A starving Chinaman, who was taken into the Cincinnati hospital for resuscitation a few days ago, attributed his woful plight to the fact that he had started a laundry in Louisville. He sums up his experience in a single line:—"Kentuckee—two weeks—one shirtlee."

At a recent funeral in Perpignan, France, the friends of the deceased not content with dispensing with anything in the shape of religious consolation, carried their want of common decency so far as to follow him to the grave with pipes in their mouths and bottles under their arms. As soon as the body was lowered into the grave, mourners began singing and drinking, and having exhausted their liquor, threw the empty bottle on the coffin exclaiming, "Tiens, voila ta part!" This done they returned to the wineshops.

The minister of War has decided that the French regiments shall resume the use of silk flags, instead of the cotton flags, instead of the cotton flags which most of them have carried for reasons of economy since the war. Consequently, 100 large standards of silk, of the handsomest kind, will be ordered shortly from the Lyons establishments.

The lemonade sellers of Paris, gave their annual ball recently at the Grand Hotel. The attendance was large; supper was served at two o'clock in the morning, and dancing was kept up until long after daylight.

At the last opera ball in Paris, when the public had departed, the watchman on going his round found the body of a well-dressed lady in one of the private boxes; she had been stabbed, but whether her death was due to suicide or murder is not stated.

A French woman of any position will never show her self in the street without having paid the most scrupulous attention to her toilet. If you surprise the same lady at home of a morning you will find her in a slovenly negligee, which inspires anything rather than admiration.

A farmer of Western France lives on the simplest and coarsest fare, never dreams of going to the village shops for anything for which he can find a home-made substitute, and denies himself every indulgence which would leave him a few sous out of pocket. His only beverage besides water is home-made cider.

A Catholic priest at Aasen, Baden, has been sentenced to two months' imprisonment for having spoken ill of Protestants in his sermon.

The soldiers of England may be employed in the harvest field under certain restrictions. Such work is to be at the discretion of the general officers in command, provided the employment of ordinary laborers is not interfered with, nor can such permission be granted where strikes and disputes between farmers and hired men exist.

NINETEEN YEARS IN A CAVERN.—The French papers say that the discovery has just been made in the environs of Pont-Anthon, of a young woman whom her parents have kept confined in a cavern for nineteen years. They fed her on the refuse of vegetables and state bread. The unfortunate creature had lost nearly all remembrance to a human being. The nails of the hands and toes had grown to an extraordinary length, and curving round had penetrated into the flesh. She has completely lost the faculty of speech, and ever and anon utters cries and groans most horrible to hear. Great precautions had to be taken in bringing her from the den into the light. An investigation has been commenced.

A wedding, in which the contracting parties were aged 66 and 20, the latter being the age of the bride, took place in Kingsville lately.

ALL PROFITS that may be made will be devoted to the establishment of a fund for gratuitous distribution of the Tracts and Books, to persons and places where they are needed as may be directed by the Committee. We beg also to say that this Fund for free distribution is open for donations to all who may desire to help in this work of God.

We ask all who may desire to promote the higher spiritual life of the churches and to help in winning souls for Christ, to co-operate with us by circulating sound religious literature throughout the land.

References for further information may be made to the following brethren (and others who may be added) who will act as a Committee for selection and distribution.

Rev. JOHN POTTS, Methodist.
" R. WALLACE, Presbyterian.
" T. GUTHRIE, Primitive Methodist.
" J. A. R. DICKSON, Congregationalist.
" J. DOUGLAS, Presbyterian, Coburg.
" R. CAMERON, Baptist, Brantford.
Mr. G. HAGUE, Congregationalist.
" R. W. LATHI, Baptist.
" W. T. MASON, Methodist.
" COL. BURTON, Christian.
" W. A. PARLANE, Episcopist.
" T. J. WILKIE, Congregationalist.
S. R. BRIGGS, Manager, Toronto.
A. BURSON, Manager, Manchester, England.
W. H. VAN TASSEL, General Agent, Toronto.

P. S.—Nearly all of D. L. MOODY'S sermons, and many other precious little gems in book form at only 2c. and 3c. each. 12-11.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, of this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address
THE CULVERTWELL MEDICAL CO., 41 Ann St., New York.
Post Office Box, 4586. 45-yl.

Dr. William Gray's Specific Medicine.

Before Taking After Taking
follow as a sequence of Self Abuse, as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave, all of which as a rule are first caused by deviating from the path of nature and over-indulgence.

The Specific Medicine is the result of a life study and many years of experience in treating these special diseases. Pamphlet free by mail. The Special Medicine is sold by all Druggists at $1 per package, or six packages for $5, or will be sent by mail on receipt of the money by addressing.

WILLIAM GRAY & Co., Windsor, Ont.

GOOD ADVERTISING!

$250.00 worth of space in various newspapers distributed through thirty states, will be sold for $700 cash. Accurate insertions guaranteed. A list of papers giving daily and weekly circulation and printed schedule of rates, sent free on application to GEO. P. ROWELL & Co., Newspaper Advertising Agents, No. 41 Park Row, New York. 34-ly.

NEW TAILORING ESTABLISHMENT,

MAX FOX

Begs leave to inform the gentlemen of Napae and vicinity, that he has opened a shop over

SWEENEY BROS.,

where he is prepared to cut and make-up GENTLEMENS CLOTHING in the Latest Style, as Cheap as the Cheapest and as Good as the Best.

LAW WORK A SPECIALITY

Assessment Blanks,
Auction Bills,
Articles of Agreement,
Briefs,
Bill Heads,
Ball Programmes,
Bills of Fare,
Circulars,
Chancery Bills,
Cards.
Catalogues,
Debenture

Dodgers,
Date Lines,
Envelopes,
Exhibition Bills,
Funeral Circulars,
Financial Reports,
Headings,
Horse Bills,
Indentures,
Invitations
Letter Headings,
Law Forms,
Lawyers' Briefs,
Labels,
Monthly Statements,
Mourning Cards,
Municipal Forms,
Note Headings,
Notarial Circular

Obituary Notices,
Pamphlets,
Posters,
Programmes,
Promissory Notes,
Receipt Books,
Shipping Tags,
Statements,
Sale Bills,
Tickets,
Tax Collectors Rolls,
Tax Receipts,
Visiting Cards,
Voters' Lists,
Wheat Receipts,
Wedding Cards.

ALL THE ABOVE

PRINTED WITH DESPATCH

AT THE

"EXPRESS" OFFICE.

J. B. BENSON,

Proprietor

FARMERS

--OF--

LENNOX & ADDINGTON,

--WE--

Diamond & Sherwood,

Being alive to your interests as well as our own, wish to say to you we now have on hand all kinds of

SEED GRAINS.

Wheat, Best "fye" especially imported from the west.

Barley, Canadian No 1 Prize Centennial Medal,
Peas, Buckwheat, Rye,
Oats and Corn.

We also have on hand a quantity of No 1 Western Corn, and with the facilities for manufacturing which we possess, we can in a few minutes please the most fastidious, as to manner they wish it ground.

BRAN AND SHORTS.

We also present to your notice our

FLOUR,
OAT MEAL,
CRACKED WHEAT,
CORN MEAL,
GRAHAM FLOUR,
CRACKED CORN.

Each and every article of which stands unrivalled, and in which we intend to maintain our reputation both as to quality and price.

We ask for our goods a fair trial only, leaving it to our customers to answer any misrepresentation by our detractors, as we are assured no adverse judgement will be pressed by a jury composed of the general community who have once patronized us. To them we leave our case.

--ALSO--

MESS PORK,
BACON,
LARD,
TIMOTHY AND
CLOVER SEEDS.

DIAMOND & SHERWOOD,
49-41in.

BOYS AND GIRLS WANTED.

10,000 OR MORE

LITTLE CHRISTIAN BOYS & GIRLS,
TO WORK FOR JESUS,

In helping to circulate Little Books, Tracts, &c.

WE will send FREE, complete Catalogue of Books, &c., on hand, to any address, and for Each Order received, to the amount of ONE DOLLAR, we will send the LITTLE BOY OR GIRL (sending the order) Books to the value of FIFTEEN CENTS on each dollar. Address.
WILLARD TRUST DEPOSITORY,
Shaftesbury Hall Toronto.

On the 1st of July, 1877, we will send to the six Boys or Girls sending the Largest number of orders up to that date, one nice Pocket Bible, each.

For the information of Christian generally, it may be briefly stated that this Institution, now in full operation, owes its origin to the liberality of a Christian gentleman, a resident of Toronto, who has invested a portion of his means in the enterprise, as a free-will offering to the Lord with the view of scattering broadcast over

JOB

PRINTING

THE JOBBING DEPARTMENT

--OF THE--

NAPANEE EXPRESS

IS EXCELLED BY

No Office In The Dominion,

--O--

ITS OUTFIT INCLUDES A

LARGE STOCK

OF THE

Very Latest Styles Of New Type,

And every Facility exists for turning out

JOB PRINTING

SPRING OPENING

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE,

WILL OPEN THEIR

MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

FOR THE SEASON, ON

Saturday Next, April 14th,

WITH THE

LARGEST AND FINEST STOCK

MILLINERY

Ever shown. We have not time to send Special Cards of Invitation, and hope this will be accepted as a general invitation for every one to come

Old and Young, Rich and Poor,

Everybody will be welcome and be treated with the same attention.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF

PARLOUR and BEDROOM

FURNITURE,

--AT--

CREATLY REDUCED PRICES

CRACKED WHEAT,
CORN MEAL,
GRAHAM FLOUR,
CRACKED CORN.

Each and every article of which stands unrivalled, and in which we intend to maintain our reputation both as to quality and price.

We ask for our goods a fair trial only, leaving it to our customers to answer any misrepresentation by our detractors, as we are assured no adverse judgement will be pressed by a jury composed of the general community who have once patronized us. To them we leave our case.

--ALSO--

MESS PORK, BACON,
LARD,
TIMOTHY AND
CLOVER SEEDS.

DIAMOND & SHERWOOD,
49-41in.

BOYS AND GIRLS
WANTED.

10,000 OR MORE
LITTLE CHRISTIAN BOYS & GIRLS,
TO WORK FOR JESUS,

In helping to circulate Little Books, Tracts, &c.

WE will send FREE, complete Catalogue of Books, &c., on hand, to any address, and for Each Order received, to the amount of ONE DOLLAR, we will send the LITTLE BOY OR GIRL (sending the order) Books to the value of FIFTEEN CENTS on each dollar. Address.

WILLARD TRACT DEPOSITORY,
Shaftesbury Hall Toronto.

On the 1st of July, 1877, we will send to the six Boys or Girls sending the Largest number of orders up to that date, one nice Pocket Bible, each.

For the information of Christian generally, it may be briefly stated that this Institution, now in full operation, owes its origin to the liberality of a Christian gentleman, a resident of Toronto, who has invested a portion of his means in the enterprise, as a free-will offering to the Lord, with the view of scattering broadcast over our land, Tracts, Books, &c., which unfold the exalted privileges of the believers, and treat of the "LIFE OF FAITH" or Trust, and of the power and peace of HOLINESS, and Gospel and Evangelical Literature.

Special notice is called to the fact that this is
No Denominational Institution.

It is neither connected with, nor under the patronage of any particular church. All the Publications it issues will be strictly evangelical, and will meet the wants of all Christians. Largely the Books, &c., &c., will be those published by the Willard Tract Repository of Boston, under the care of the well known Dr. COLLIER.

ALL PROFITS that may be made will be devoted to the establishment of a fund for gratuitous distribution of the Tracts and Books to persons and places where they are needed as may be directed by the Committee. We beg also to say that this Fund for free distribution is open for donations to all who may desire to help in this work of God.

We ask all who may desire to promote the higher spiritual life of the churches and to help in winning souls for Christ, to co-operate with us by circulating sound religious literature throughout the land.

References for further information may be made to the following brethren (and others, who may be added), who will act as a Committee for selection and distribution.

Rev. JOHN POTTS, Methodist.
" R. WALLACE, Presbyterian.
" T. GUTTERY, Primitive Methodist.
" J. A. R. DICKSON, Congregationalist.
" J. HUGHES, Presbyterian, Cobourg.
" R. CAMERON, Baptist, Dorchester.
Mr. G. HAGUE, Congregationalist.
" R. W. LAIRD, Baptist.
" W. T. MASON, Methodist.
" COL. BURTON, Christian.
" W. A. PARLANE, Episcopal.
" T. J. WILKIE, Congregationalist.
S. R. BRIGGS, Manager, Toronto.
A. BURSON, Manager, Manchester, England.
W. H. VAN TASSEL, General Agent, Toronto.

P. S.—Nearly all of D. L. MOODY'S sermons, and many other precious little gems in book form at only 2c. and 3c. each.

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and

NAPANEE EXPRESS

IS EXCELLED BY

No Office In The Dominion,

—o—

ITS OUTFIT INCLUDES A

LARGE STOCK

OF THE

Very Latest Styles Of New Type,

And every Facility exists for turning out

JOB PRINTING

IN THE

BEST STYLE

OF THE ART.

LAW WORK A SPECIALITY.

—o—

Assessment Blanks,
Auction Bills,
Articles of Agreement,
Briefs,
Bill Heads,
Ball Programmes,
Bills of Fare,
Circulars,
Chancery Bills,
Cards,
Catalogues,
Debentures,

Dodgers,
Date Lines,
Envelopes,
Exhibition Bills,
Funeral Circulars,
Financial Reports,
Headings,

WITH THE

LARGEST AND FINEST STOCK OF MILLINERY

Ever shown. We have not time to send Special Cards of Invitation, and hope this will be accepted as a general invitation for every one to come.

Old and Young, Rich and Poor,

Everybody will be welcome and be treated with the same attention.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF

PARLOUR and BEDROOM

FURNITURE,

—AT—

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY!

WILL UNDERSELL

Any Other House in this part of the Province

FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

ALWAYS IN STOCK.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

J. GIBBARD & SON.

MONEY TO LOAN.

We have received instructions from England, to lend a large amount of Money,

ALL PROFITS that may be made will be devoted to the establishment of a fund for gratuitous distribution of the Tracts and Books, to persons and places where they are needed, as may be directed by the Committee. We beg also to say that this Fund for free distribution is open for donations to all who may desire to help in this work of God.

We ask all who may desire to promote the higher spiritual life of the churches and to help in winning souls for Christ, to co-operate with us by circulating sound religious literature throughout the land.

References for further information may be made to the following brethren (and others, who may be added), who will act as a Committee for selection and distribution.

Rev. JOHN POTTS, Methodist.
 " R. WALLACE, Presbyterian.
 " T. GUTTERY, Primitive Methodist.
 " J. A. R. DICKSON, Congregationalist.
 " J. DOUGLAS, Presbyterian, Cobourg.
 " R. CAMERON, Baptist, Brantford.
 Mr. G. HAGE, Congregationalist.
 " R. W. LAIRD, Baptist.
 " W. T. MASON, Methodist.
 " COL. BURTON, Christian.
 " W. A. FARLANE, Episcopal.
 " T. J. WILKIE, Congregationalist.
 S. R. BRIGGS, Manager, Toronto.
 A. BURSON, Manager, Manchester, England.
 W. H. VAN TASSEL, General Agent, Toronto.

P. S.—Nearly all of D. L. MOODY'S sermons, and many other precious little gems in book form at only 2c. and 3c. each. 12-11.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED !

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, of this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequence may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address
THE CULVERWELL MEDICAL CO.,
 41 Ann St., New York.
 Post Office Box, 1586. 45-yl.

Dr. William Gray's Specific Medicine.

The Great English Remedy is especially recommended as an unfailing cure for Seminal Weakness, Spermatocoe, Impotency, and all diseases that follow as a sequence of Self Abuse, as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave, all of which as a rule are first caused by deviating from the path of nature and over-indulgence.

The Specific Medicine is the result of a life study and many years of experience in treating these special diseases. Pamphlet free by mail. The Specific Medicine is sold by all Druggists at $1 per package, or six packages for $5, or will be sent by mail on receipt of the money by addressing.

WILLIAM GRAY & Co.,
 Windsor, Ont.

GOOD ADVERTISING !

$250,000 worth of space in various newspapers distributed through thirty states, will be sold for $700 cash. Accurate insertions guaranteed. A list of papers giving daily and weekly circulation and printed schedule of rates, sent free on application to GEO. P. ROWELL & Co., Newspaper Advertising Agents, No. 41 Park Row, New York. 34-1y.

NEW TAILORING ESTABLISHMENT,

MAX FOX

Begs leave to inform the gentlemen of Nanawee and vicinity, that he has opened a shop over

SWEENEY BROS.,
 where he is prepared to cut and make-up

GENTLEMENS CLOTHING
 in the Latest Style, as Cheap as the Cheapest and as Good as the Best.

LAW WORK A SPECIALITY.

Assessment Blanks,
 Auction Bills,
 Articles of Agreement,
 Briefs,
 Bill Heads,
 Ball Programmes,
 Bills of Fare,
 Circulars,
 Chancery Bills,
 Cards,
 Catalogues,
 Debentures.

Dodgers,
 Date Lines,
 Envelopes,
 Exhibition Bills,
 Funeral Circulars,
 Financial Reports,
 Headings,
 Horse Bills,
 Indentures,
 Invitations
 Letter Headings,
 Law Forms,
 Lawyers' Briefs,
 Labels,
 Monthly Statements,
 Mourning Cards,
 Municipal Forms,
 Note Headings,
 Notarial Circulars.

Obituary Notices,
 Pamphlets,
 Posters,
 Programmes,
 Promissory Notes,
 Receipt Books,
 Shipping Tags,
 Statements,
 Sale Bills,
 Tickets,
 Tax Collectors Rolls,
 Tax Receipts,
 Visiting Cards,
 Voters' Lists,
 Wheat Receipts,
 Wedding Cards.

ALL THE ABOVE

PRINTED WITH DESPATCH,

AT THE

"EXPRESS" OFFICE.

J. B. BENSON.

Proprietor.

WILL UNDERSELL

Any Other House in this part of the Province

FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

ALWAYS IN STOCK.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

J. GIBBARD & SON.

MONEY TO LOAN.

We have received instructions from England, to lend a large amount of Money,

AT LOWER RATES THAN HAS YET BEEN OFFERED.

CALL IN AND EXAMINE RATES.

NO COMMISSION CHARGED.

WILLIAMS & HOOPER.

The Largest, Best Equipped, Most Thorough

AND

Practical Business School in Canada.

HAVING increased our facilities, we now offer better advantages than ever before. The Business Course is under the supervision of

S. G. BEATTY, Principal Actual Business Department.
 W. B. ROBINSON, Principal Practical Department.
 G. A. SWAYZE, Principal Theoretical Department.

IT IS SHORT, PRACTICAL AND USEFUL.

Able and Practical Instructors in the other Departments.

The whole time and attention of Students are devoted to just such subjects as every Farmer, Mechanic, Merchant, and Professional man requires in transacting every day business.

When desired by parents, boys will be placed in a boarding house, under the supervision of a teacher, who will assist them in their evening studies, and see that they keep proper hours.

Specimens of Penmanship and circular containing full information respecting Terms, Nature of Course, etc., sent free of charge.

Address, S. G. BEATTY & Co.,
 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO.

APRIL, 20 1877.

SPRING OPENING! HARDWARE CHEAP

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE,

WILL OPEN THEIR

LLINERY DEPARTMENT

FOR THE SEASON, ON

Saturday Next, April 14th,

WITH THE

LARGEST AND FINEST STOCK OF

MILLINERY

own. We have not time to send Special Cards of Invitation, and we e this will be accepted as a general invitation for every one to come.

Old and Young, Rich and Poor,

only will be welcome and be treated with the same attention.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF

PARLOUR AND BEDROOM

FURNITURE,

—AT—

AT THE SIGN OF THE

GOLDEN AUGER,

RALPH PURDY.

Napanee, April 6th, 1877.

50

MORE NEW GOODS.

Every Department is now Complete,

AND WE INVITE

INSPECTION OF OUR STOCK AND PRICES.

CUTLERY,

SILVER-PLATED WARE.

SHELF HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION

CARRIAGE HARDWARE,

BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS AND STOCK,

CARPENTER'S AND JOINER'S TOOLS,

BUILDER'S HARDWARE,

CABINETMAKER'S SUPPLIES,

SAW MILL SUPPLIES,

CHEESE FACTORY APPARATUS AND SUPPLIES

PLOUGHS AND PLOUGH CASTING,

WOODENWARE, TINWARE, HOUSE FURNISHINGS

PAINTS, OILS AND VARNISH,

GLASS AND PUTTY,

STEAM AND GAS FITTING, ETC., ETC

All of the above goods will be sold at Rock-Bottom Prices.
Call and See.

WRIGHT & CO.

No-48.

SAVE YOUR MONEY!

Times are hard and you can avoid buying new clothes if you will get those you have dyed
and scoured so as to

LOOK AS GOOD AS NEW.

at a trifling expense. Remember that at

Montgomery's Steam Dye Works,

Opposite Madden's Tanney, near the River, all kinds of goods are cleaned and dyed on the

will be accepted as a general invitation for every one to come.

Old and Young, Rich and Poor,

will be welcome and be treated with the same attention.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF

PARLOUR and BEDROOM

FURNITURE,

—AT—

GREATLY EDUCED PRICES.

IT IS THE TIME TO BUY!!

WILL UNDERSELL

Other House in this part of the Province

NEEDFUL FURNISHINGS

ALWAYS IN STOCK.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

J. GIBBARD & SON.

MONEY TO LOAN.

we received instructions from England, to Lend a large amount of Money,

LOWER RATES THAN HAS YET BEEN OFFERED.

CALL IN AND EXAMINE RATES.

NO COMMISSION CHARGED.

WILLIAMS & HOOPER.

BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS AND STOCK,
CARPENTER'S AND JOINER'S TOOLS,
BUILDER'S HARDWARE,
CABINETMAKER'S SUPPLIES,
SAW MILL SUPPLIES,
CHEESE FACTORY APPARATUS AND SUPPLIES
PLOUGHS AND PLOUGH CASTING,
WOODENWARE, TINWARE, HOUSE FURNISHINGS
PAINTS, OILS AND VARNISH,
GLASS AND PUTTY.
STEAM AND GAS FITTING, ETC., ETC

All of the above goods will be sold at Rock-Bottom Prices.
Call and See.

WRIGHT & CO.

No-48.

SAVE YOUR MONEY!

Times are hard and you can avoid buying new clothes if you will get those you have dyed and scoured so as to

LOOK AS GOOD AS NEW.

at a trifling expense. Remember that at

Montgomery's Steam Dye Works,

Opposite Madden's Tanney, near the River, all kinds of goods are cleaned and dyed on the shortest notice, and at the cheapest rates.

GENTLEMEN'S CLOTHING, MOURNING GOODS KID GLOVES,
PLUMES, &c.

CLEANED AND DYED.

Call and give Montgomery a trial and be satisfied.

"BEST PIANOS, LOWEST PRICES."

CHARLES D. BLAKE & Co's.

Grand Square and Upright Piano-Fortes.

JOHN N. LAZIER,

BELLEVILLE,

General Agent for the Dominion of Canada.

MERITS OF THE BLAKE PIANO-FORTE

Its Great Durability

WILL UNDERSELL

Other House in this part of the Province

THEAL FURNISHINGS

ALWAYS IN STOCK.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

J. GIBBARD & SON.

MONEY TO LOAN.

received instructions from England, to Lend a large amount of Money,

AT LOWER RATES THAN HAS YET BEEN OFFERED.

CALL IN AND EXAMINE RATES.

NO COMMISSION CHARGED.

WILLIAMS & HOOPER.

Largest, Best Equipped. Most Thorough

AND

Practical Business School in Canada.

increased our facilities, we now offer better advantages than ever before. The Business Course is under the supervision of BEATTY, Principal Actual Business Department.

ROBINSON, Principal Practical Department.
SWAYZE, Principal Theoretical Department.

IT IS SHORT, PRACTICAL AND USEFUL.

1 Practical Instructors in the other Departments.

the time and attention of Students are devoted to just such subjects as the Mechanic, Merchant, and Professional man requires in transacting business. Sired by parents, boys will be placed in a boarding house, under the care of a teacher, who will assist them in their evening studies, and see that they get their hours. Mens of Penmanship and circular containing full information respecting the Course, etc., sent free of charge.

Address. S. G. BEATTY & Co.,
BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO.

CHARLES D. BLAKE & Co's.

Grand Square and Upright Piano-Fortes.

JOHN N. LAZIER,

BELLEVILLE,

General Agent for the Dominion of Canada.

MERITS OF THE BLAKE PIANOE-FORTE

Its Great Durability

In Workmanship it Cannot be Surpassed, if Equaled.

In Power, Solidity, Purity and Equality of Tone.

It has no Competitor.

As a Safe Investment, it is the Best.

It is Warranted in the most Satisfactory Manner.

Every Improvement that has been recognized by people of cultivated taste, to be of real benefit and utility, has been adopted by the Manufacturers of these pianos, and the grand result is, that for power, sweetness, brilliancy and singing quality of tone, even throughout the entire scale, delicacy and elasticity of touch, strength, durability and beauty of finish, these Instruments stand unrivalled.

MOST SATISFACTORY TERMS OF PAYMENT

EVERY PIANO WARRANTED FOR 7 YEARS.

AGENTS WANTED.

Illustrated Catalogues sent on application.

JOHN N. LAZIER, Belleville,

"Napanee Express,"

A Reform Political and Family Newspaper,

IS PUBLISHED
EVERY FRIDAY MORNING, AT THE OFFICE,

Warner's Block, East Street, Napanee, a few
doors north of Soby House Corner.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.
$1.00 per annum in advance, free of postage, or
$1.50 if not so paid.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.
Column for one year, $80 00
Column for six months, 45 00
Column for three months, 24 00
Half a column for one year, 40 00
Half a column for six months, 24 00
Half a column for three months, 15 00
Quarter of a column for one year, 20 00
Quarter of a column for six months, 15 00
Quarter of a column for three months, 10 00
Notices under ten lines, three times, 1 00
Over ten lines, first insertion, per line, 10
Each subsequent insertion, per line, 03
Business Cards under ten lines per year, 4 00

Displayed Advertisements are measured by a scale of solid Nonpareil, and charged accordingly.

Advertisements sent without written instructions inserted until forbidden, and charged for full time.

Orders for discontinuing advertisements must be in writing, otherwise the publisher will not be responsible.

A liberal discount for contract advertisements
by the year.

Business notices in local columns, first insertion
ten cents per line of Nonpareil; five cents per line each subsequent insertion. Five cents
per line per annum.

To Subscribers.—No paper will be stopped until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the proprietor. A post office notice to discontinue is not sufficient.

Yearly and half yearly Contracts are
payable every THREE MONTHS.

Correspondence solicited from all parts of the county or neighboring townships. Correspondents are requested to send in their communications as promptly as possible.

JOB PRINTING

In every style and of every description, executed
with neatness and despatch at reasonable rates.
J. B. BENSON,
Publisher and Proprietor.

Business Cards.

Alex. C. Davis,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Napanee
Ontario

James Aylsworth,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Tam-
worth.

S. D. Clarke,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Odessa,
Ontario.

J. J. Watson,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates, Adolphustown.

Peter E. R. Miller,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Switzer-
ville Ont.

Robert Graham,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses. Office
In the Dominion Store, Enterprise.

J. B. Allison,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Parma P. O., South
Fredericksburg.

Charles Lane,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Office—Front of Grammar
School, Bridge Street, Napanee.

A. B. Randall,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Also Agent for the Beaver and
Toronto Fire Insurance Company and the
Mutual Life Association of Canada. Residence—Shannerville, Ont.

Murphy & Bedford,

BARRISTERS, &c., MILL POINT.
Money to lend on improved Real Estate.

H. M. Deroche.

Napanee

J. B. BENSON, Publisher.)

VOL. 16.

NAPANEE TICKET AGENCY.

Grand Trunk Railway Tickets for sale at Grange & Bro's Drug Store.

For all stations east and west. American money taken at par, from Napanee to Milwaukee, Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha, San Francisco &c., toll Lake Ports. Passengers purchasing tickets from the undersigned avoid
the double and delay of exchanging tickets
and re-checking baggage to Toronto. Cheapest route to the west. Return tickets to Kingston Belleville, Toronto, Montreal, Portland
etc. For further particulars apply at GRANGE
& BRO'S Exchange Office. Passenger agent
G. T. R. Uncurrent money bought and sold

Imperial Life Insurance Co.
OFFICE LONDON (ESTABLISH-ED 1803,) Capital and Reserved
Fund

$1,969,000 - - - Sterling.
Funds invested in Canada.—$105,000
RINTOUL BROS., General Agents.
24 St. Sacramento St. Montreal.
H. L. GEDDES, Agent,
Napanee and vicinity.

THE PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY
MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE CO
HEAD OFFICE—PICTON, ONT.
(Established 30th Sept., 1854).

PRESIDENT—LEWIS B. STINSON
VICE-PRESIDENT—W. BOULTER
MANAGER—L. B. STINSON
SECRETARY—JOHN TWIGG
TREASURER—PHILIP LOW, Q. C.
INS. OF LOSSES & A's.—J. HOWELL
SOLICITOR—W. H. R. ALLISON
DIRECTORS.—JAS. JOHNSTON, WM.
DELONG, JOHN PRINYER,
S. B. HUBBS, J. VANALSTINE.
HONORARY DIRECTORS.—G. Striker, Esq.
M. P. P., Pictou; R. Clapp, Esq., Mil-
ford; K. Graham, Esq., Belleville; P.
Allan, C. A. Lloyd, J. P. Dorland, Esqs., Adolphustown; J. C. Hoffman, Esq., J. T.
Grange, Esq., M. P. P., Napanee; J. E.
Proctor, Esq., Brighton; G. W. Webb,
Esq., Colborne; G. Jones, Esq., Trenton;
J. Redner, Esq., Rednersville; Owen
Roblin, Esq., Ameliasburg; H. A.
McFaul, Esq., Hillier.

This Company is established upon strictly
Mutual principles, insuring farm property
Townships, and property not more hazardous in Towns and Villages and offers great advantages to insure at low rates for Three or Four Years either, on the Premium
Note or Cash System.
March 9th, 1875. 521-y.

CATARRH!

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Cat-
arrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs,
and Droppings in Throat Disappear.

See Mayo's, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

MR. T. J. B. HARDING,
DEAR SIR:—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about
five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines,
without receiving any permanent benefit, but
continued rather to grow worse, until last fall,

BRISCO HOUSE,
NAPANEE, ONT.

JOHN SOBY, - - Proprietor.

A First-Class Hotel

in all its Appointments.
Omnibuses meet all Trains and Steamers.

PAISLEY HOUSE.

(John St. opposite the Market.)

NAPANEE, ONT.

A First Class Hotel centrally located, with excellent yard and stabling accommodations.

CHAS. PAISLEY,

PROPRIETOR.

CAMPBELL HOUSE,

NAPANEE, ONT.

THE PRINCIPAL HOTEL
IN TOWN.

Good Stabling & Attentive Ostler.
CHARGES AS USUAL.

MARSDEN & MOORE,

PROPRIETORS.

TICHBORNE HOUSE,

(Corner Dundas & John Streets.)

NAPANEE.

ROBERT McDONALD,
Proprietor.

A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL.
CHARGES MODERATE.

QUEEN'S HOTEL,
BELLEVILLE

Every Accommodation for Commercial
Travellers.

A. P. FARRELL,

PROPRIETOR.

McDONALD HOUSE,

(Late Clark House)

BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.

Bus to and from the cars. 39-y.

Land for Sale

30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for
the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and
Wild Timber Lands to the extent of 30,000 acres;
also of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low
prices and easy terms.
Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets
Napanee.

JAMES F. BARTLES.

Napanee, Sept. 12th 1876.

FOR CHEAP

GROCERIES,
CROCKERY &

"THE GREATEST

NAPANEE, ONT.

SINGING CHURCH NOTICE

The Rev. E. P. Parker, in the Christi-proposes that church notices, whiusually read during service, should be chantered. He argues that the delivery othe solemn order of the hour is an inteand are received as an element foreign service. He proposes the reduction of notices, on Saturday night, to the hymn that they may be properly sung by t Here are some examples:—

H. M.

"The deacon of this church
And the committee, too,
Will meet on Monday night,
Grave matters to review,
A full attendance is desired,
And is most urgently required."

L. M.

"On Thursday evening will be held
The weekly gathering for prayer
The pastor feels himself impelled
To urge the brethren to be there."

S. M.

"The Busy Bees will meet
On Friday evening next;
Young gentlemen to tea, at six.
They eagerly expect."

C. M.

"The Ladies' Sewing Circle meets
On Saturday p. m.;
All garments for the Mission Box
May then be sent to them."

CHANT.

"The Cold Water Lodge of Good Templars
ber Two,
Will hold a festival and fair on Tuesday,
Soda water, ice cream, and fancy article be sold.
All friends of temperance are cordially invited."

A BRAVE CANADIAN WOMAN

Deeds of heroism have always commanded the highest admiration, particularly female heroism. We are proud to look upon women as the weaker part of our race, and as dependent upon the sterner and firmer part, to sustain them in hours of trial and places of when the strong arm of man is put to succor and to save human lives.
are cases, and they are few in number in the world's history, where this act reversed—where woman stands for say men. It is often the case who plank, delicate form of women has posed to save human life, when the forts of stalwart men have proved tent and futile. It is of such a case will speak in a few words on this occasion. The shores of our great lakes have the scene of terrible disasters, they also furnished many deeds of heroism bravery unsurpassed in any country will tell you one of these, one, I think stands forth the grandest greatest ever known on these lakes will tell you of a noble Becker, the line of Long Point. The scene that attempt to describe to you occurred twenty odd years ago. Mention made of it then, and later, not years ago the writer sent to the Whittier a condensed statement of fact, and ask him to weave into a the noble and brave deed of Al-Becker. He published my story in Atlantic Monthly, in prose, as written him. I had thought as the scene was unlike the beach of New England (his his old home and mine was) who wrote his poem "The Tent on the Beach" it might inspire him to weave from facts and deeds of heroism, such a

James Aylsworth,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Tamworth.

S. D. Clarke,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Odessa, Ontario.

J. J. Watson,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates, Adolphustown.

Peter E. R. Miller,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Switzer-ville Ont.

Robert Graham,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses. Office in the Dominion Store, Enterprise.

J. B. Allison,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Parma P. O., South Fredericksburg.

Charles Lane,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Office—Front of Grammar School, Bridge Street, Napanee.

A. B. Randall,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Also Agent for the Beaver and Toronto Fire Insurance Company and the Mutual Life Association of Canada. Residence—Shannville, Ont.

Murphy & Bedford,
BARRISTERS, &c., MILL POINT.
Money to lend on improved Real Estate.

H. M. Deroche,
BARRISTER and Attorney-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Conveyancer, Notary Public, etc. OFFICE—In Grange Block, John Street, Napanee, Ont.

E. B. Stone,
Attorney-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Conveyancer, &c. OFFICE—Over T. Molloy's Dry Goods Store. Money to Lend at 8 per cent.

Cartwright & Gibson,
BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery and Insolvency, Notaries Public, etc. OFFICE—Grange Block John Street, Napanee.
J. S. CARTWRIGHT. J. GIBSON.

R. Tracy, M. D.,
BELLEVILLE.
PHYSICIAN, Surgeon and Accoucheur. Office and Residence, two doors east on the Bank of Montreal, near the Constitutional Church, Hotel St. 39

Reeve & Morden,
BARRISTERS and Attorneys-at-Law. Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, etc. OFFICE—Perry's New Block Dundas Street, Napanee, Ontario.
W. A. REEVE, M. A. L. MORDEN.
Crown Attorney.

E. A. Deroche,
OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE under New Act of 1875.
Office in H. M. Deroche's Law Office.

Williams & Hooper,
BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery and Insolvency, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc., Napanee, Ontario.
W. S. WILLIAMS. E. HOOPER, M. A.
Official Assignee

W. F. Hall,
OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, under Insolvent Act of 1875. Fire Insurance Agent, &c. Office of Napanee Paper Mills, East Street.

Henderson & Coats,
LAW, Chancery, and Conveyancing. Solicitors in Insolvency and Bankruptcy. OFFICE—In Grange Block, John Street, Napanee.
ROBERT L. HENDERSON,
Attorney Solicitor and Notary Public, Canadian Courts.

MANAGER—L. B. STINSON.
SECRETARY—JOHN TWIGG.
TREASURER—PHILIP LOW, Q. C.
INS. OF LOSSES & A's.—J. HOWELL.
SOLICITOR—W. H. R. ALLISON.
DIRECTORS.—JAS. JOHNSTON, WM. DELONG, JOHN PRINYER, S. B. HUBBS, J. VANALSTINE.
HONORARY DIRECTORS.—G. Striker, Esq., M. P. P., Picton; R. Clapp, Esq., Milford; K. Graham, Esq., Belleville; P. Allan, C. A. Lloyd, J. P. Dorland, Esqs., Adolphustown; J. C. Huffman, Esq., J. T. Grange, Esq., M. P. P., Napanee; J. E. Proctor, Esq., Brighton; G. W. Webb, Esq., Colborne; G. Jones, Esq., Trenton; J. Redner, Esq., Rednersville; Owen Roblin, Esq., Ameliasburg; H. A. McFaul, Esq., Hillier.

This Company is established upon strictly Mutual principles, insuring farm property Townships, and property not more hazardous in Towns and Villages and offers great advantages to insure at low rates for Three or Four Years, either, on the Premium Note or Cash System.
March 9th, 1875. 521-y.

CATARRH

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs, and Droppings in Throat Disappear.

ST. MARY'S, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

MR. T. J. B. HARDING,
DEAR SIR:—Being desirous that others may know the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do any work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very lame back, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual droppings in the throat, and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced taking your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.
Yours truly HENRY NIDER.
Price $1 per bottle. For sale by all Druggists.

Consumption Cured!

An old physician, retired from active practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a Vegetable Remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat and Lung Affections: also a Positive and Radical Cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send FREE OF CHARGE, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail, by addressing, with stamp, naming this paper.
DR. W. C. STEVENS,
Box 86, Brockville, Ont.

Box 86, Brockville, Ont.

700 Doz. have been sold since April last, of Briston's Rheumatic Absorbent and Diastolic Fluid.
The Rheumatic Absorbent will positively relieve all pains from Rheumatism or other inflammatory swellings in 12 hours.
The Diastolic Fluid has never failed to cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion, &c. in a few hours. The most obstinate cases have been cured within a week.
A Lady writes: "I have been saved from Life-Threatening Pains. I had Bronchitis, Catarrh and Dyspepsia, and was cured in a few days by its use. Sold by Druggists, price 50 cts. Wholesale by Northrup & Adams. Advice for particular cases free. Address—
W. V. BRUNTON, London.

WANTED.
We want reliable, energetic canvassing agents in every town in the Dominion for the new "Illustrated History of the Dominion of Canada." This work is truly valuable, and is a double-edged sword. It is a work of 2,000 double

NAPANEE.
ROBERT McDONALD,
Proprietor.

A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL.
CHARGES MODERATE.

QUEEN'S HOTEL,
BELLEVILLE.
Every Accommodation for Commercial Travellers.
A. P. FARRELL,
35. PROPRIETOR.

McDONALD HOUSE,
(Late Clark House)
BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.
Buss to and from the cars. 39-y.

 Land for Sale
30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and Willim's Lands to the extent of 30,000 acres; also of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low prices and easy terms.
Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets Napanee.

JAMES F. BARTLES.
Napanee, Sept. 12th 1875.

FOR CHEAP
GROCERIES,
CROCKERY &
GLASSWARE
GO TO

GEORGE REID'S
NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE.

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.
A. PETERS, ODESSA,
DEALER IN

Sash, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese Boxes, Tubs, Firkins, etc.

I am now making a very superior article in a sawed cheese box, which I will sell at 12s. All orders intrusted to me will receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS.,
LIVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE ERISCO HOUSE.)
NAPANEE, ONT.
We keep nothing but First-Class Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE PRICES

J. NO. A. REID

VET. SURGEON
NAPANEE ONT.
GRADUATE OF

College of Veterinary Medicine

NAPANEE.
A BRAVE CANADIAN V

Deeds of heroism have always commanded the highest admiration, particularly female heroism. We a lock upon women as the weak of our race, and as dependent upon the sterner and firmer part, to them in hours of trial and place when the strong arm of men is to succor and to save human lives are cases, and they are few in the world's history, where this reversed—where woman stands sly men. It is often the case, I say, delicate form of women is posed to save human life, while the forts of stalwart men have proven and futile. It is of such a will speak in a few words on this. The shores of our great lakes, in the scene of terrible disasters, they also furnished many deeds of heroism, un surpassed in any country will tell you one of these, one, think you is forth the grand greatest ever known on these lakes will tell you of Abigail Becker, of Long Point. The scene to attempt to describe to you occurred twenty odd years ago. Men made of it then, and later, many years ago the writer sent to a Whittier a condensed statement of fact, and ask him to weave into the noble and brave deed of Becker. He published my story Atlantic Monthly, in prose, as we him. I had thought as the scene unlike the beach of New England his old home and mine was) wrote his poem "The Tent on the it might inspire him to weave facts and deeds of heroism, such story as might equal this former. When asked by me, why he failed so, he replied: "Friend Do knows but little of making poem are made of cobwebs, something in the air and men's brains; a fragment of Abigail's great deed drive all poetry from man's mind could not do it, I tried to, over again."

This story will be new to most I venture to relate it. Looking at the map or chart of Lake Erie, you see Long Point Island on the (side, near and between Port Rowan and Port Dover, the ports above the island. It is about seven miles from Buffalo running parallel the main shore of Canada, its point terminating upon Port Rowan where is formed what is called "I named so, as it is formed of quiet the violent gales and great was the rapid current formed by the turning through the main shore in Rowan Bay, making for awhile a that vessels may sail through, and into also an inland of Long Point otherwise it is only a peninsula, a trace being almost or quite with the drifting quicksand. The island is made from the upheaving of the lake. It is covered here with dwarf, sparse trees and shrubbery, the land made up of hillocks, with intervening ponds, the wild fowl in great numbers their season, and the muskrat occasionally other are found. The island's Port Rowan bay approaches a owned and kept as a private preserve an association of gentlemen, who stocked the waters with fish, and improve an breed for the past three until last fall. I was told recently of the proprietors that last fall they were fishing ten, twelve and fifteen the results of rest and allowing to breed and multiply without mole and destruction. The approach inland side of Port Rowan Bay of wild rice, the food of wild ducks, geese, where myriads of them reside, the best shooting exists for the few who own it.

At the time of which I write Long Point Island was owned land by the British or Canadian

Money to Lend at 8 per cent.

Cartwright & Gibson,

BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery and Insolvency, Notaries Public, etc. OFFICE—Grange Block John Street, Napanee.
J. S. CARTWRIGHT.

A. GIBSON.

R. Tracy, M. D., BELLEVILLE.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon and Accoucheur Office and Residence, two doors east of the Bank of Montreal, near the Con-ational Church, Hotel St.

Reeve & Morden,

BARRISTERS and Attorneys-at-Law Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, etc. OFFICE—Perry's New Block Dundas Street, Napanee, Ontario.
W. A. REEVE, M. A., L. MORDEN.
Crown Attorney.

E. A. Deroche,

OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE under the New Act of 1875.
Office in H. M. Deroche's Law Office.

Williams & Hooper,

BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery and Insolvency, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc., Napanee, Ontario.
W. S. WILLIAMS, E. HOOPER, M. A.
Official Assignee

W. F. Hall,

OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, under Insolvent Act of 1875. Fire Insurance Agent, &c. OFFICE of Napanee Paper Mills, East Street.

Henderson & Coats,

LAW, Chancery, and Conveyancing Solicitors in Insolvency and Bankruptcy. OFFICE—In Grange Block, John Street, Napanee.
ROBERT L. HENDERSON,
Attorney Solicitor and Notary Public, Canadian Courts.
COATS,
Solicitor in High Courts of Judicature, and Notary Public, English Courts.
Money to Loan.

James Grange, M. D.,

GRADUATE University of Victoria College, Canada, and Collegian Physicians and Surgeons, Ontario, Member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Ontario.
Special Attention paid to Diseases of the Eye.
Office and Residence: Centre Street, Napanee, Ont.

James F. Bartles,

LAND AGENT, Fire, Life and Accident Insurance Agent OFFICE—corner of Dundas and West Streets, Napanee.

F. Bartlett

ARCHITECT AND BUILDER, West Street, Napanee Plans, Specification and Detail Drawings furnished. Builders work measured, and value computed.

Mair's Machine Shop.

STEAM ENGINES and all kinds of Machinery made to order. Also all kinds of Machinery repaired on the shortest notice. Remember the place, opposite the old City Hotel, corner of Adelaide and Bridge Streets.

Hamilton Life Insurance Co.

ESTABLISHED 1810.
CAPITAL, $1,000,000.

A MOUNT DEPOSITED IN CANADA in accordance with the Act 30,000.

Insures property against fire as low as any other reliable company. All losses equitably adjusted and promptly paid in Canada funds or Gold. Isolated dwellings insured at exceedingly low rates.

H. L. CEDDES, Agent.
for Napanee and vicinity.

ping and clearing land, which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY NIDER,
Price $1 per bottle. For sale by all Druggists

Consumption Cured!

An old physician, retired from active practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a Vegetable Remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat and Lung Affections; also a Positive and Radical Cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send FREE OF CHARGE, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail, by addressing with stamp, naming this paper.
DR. W. C. STEVENS,
Box 86, Brockville, Ont.

700 Doz. have been sold since April last, of Brant's Rheumatic Absorbent and Digestive Fluid.
The Rheumatic Absorbent will positively relieve all pain from Rheumatism or other inflammatory swellings in 12 hours.

The Digestive Fluid has never failed to cure Dyspepsia. Relief is felt in a few hours. The most obstinate cases are cured within a week.
A lady writes: "I have been saved from Life Lingering Pains. I had Bronchitis, Catarrh and Dyspepsia, and was cured in a few days by its use. Sold by Druggists, price 50 cts. Wholesale by Northrop & Lyman. Advice for particular cases free. Address:
W. V. BRUNTON, London

WANTED.

We want reliable, energetic canvassing agents in every town in the Dominion for the new "Illustrated History of the Dominion of Canada." This work is truly magnificent, containing over 2,000 double column quarto pages, and over 300 superb full page engravings. The work is published in Parts, on a plan which insures its welcome to every English reading family. To energetic young men and ladies, who are willing to work, we will guarantee a permanent position for two years, and ~~we~~ ^{we} ~~will~~ ^{will} ~~not~~ ^{not} fail to write to for our private terms, sample pages, etc. This is a grand opportunity for school teachers to make more than double their salaries without interfering with their professional duties. The works being manufactured at a cost of over $20,000 for the literary, artistic and mechanical work of producing the plates by the old well known, reliable Lovell Printing and Publishing Co., of Montreal. All letters from agents must be addressed to the Publishers General agents as follows:
HAZEN B. BIGNEY & Co.,
28 and 30 St. Francis Xavier Street,
MONTREAL, QUE.

NEW

TAILORING ESTABLISHMENT,

MAX FOX

has come to inform the gentlemen of Napanee and vicinity, that he has opened a shop over

SWEENEY BROS.,

where he is prepared to cut and make up

GENTLEMEN'S CLOTHING

in the Latest Style, as Cheap as the Cheapest and as Good as the Best.

PLANER TOOTH CHISEL TOOTH

AND

SOLID SAWS

ADDRESS

THE WATERLOO ENGINE WORKS CO.

Brantford, Ont.

*State where you saw this advertisement.

NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE.

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

A. PETER'S, ODESSA,

DEALER IN

Sash, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese Boxes, Tabs, Firkins, etc.

I am now making a very superior article in a sawed cheese box, which I will sell at 12. All orders intrusted to me will receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS.,

LIVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE ERISCO HOUSE.)
NAPANEE, ONT.

We keep nothing but First-Class Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE PRICES

J. A. REID

VET. SURGEON
NAPANEE ONT.

GRADUATE OF

Ontario Veterinary College.

May be consulted on all diseases of Domesticated Animals, personally at Campbell House or by letter.

TERMS MODERATE

OFFICE—Warner Block

OCEAN TICKETS.

OCEAN Tickets for sale via Quebec or Halifax in summer, Halifax or Portland in winter, by the Allen S. S. Line, White Star Line, Canadian and National, New York. Also return tickets at reduced rates to any point in the Old Country.

RAILWAY TICKETS.

Tickets by the Great Western Railway, to all points and return at reduced rates.

EXCHANGE OFFICE.

American money bought and sold, and drafts on New York.

ACCIDENTAL INSURANCE.

Agent for the Accidental Insurance Co. of Canada.

A. H. MILLSON, Agent.

Montreal Telegraph Office.

4-111. 1077 Mallory's Drug Store

THE GREAT FEMALE REMEDY.

JOB MOSES' PERIODICAL PILLS.

This well known medicine is no imposition, but a sure and safe remedy for Female Difficulties and Obstructions, from any cause whatever and although a powerful remedy, it contains nothing hurtful to the constitution.

To MARKED LADIES it is peculiarly suited. It will, in a short time bring on the monthly period, with regularity.

In all cases of Nervous and spinal Affections, pain in the Back and Limbs, Heaviness, Fatigue on slight exertion, Palpitation of the Heart, Lowness of Spirits, Hysteria, Sick Headaches, Whites, and all the painful diseases occasioned by a disordered system, these Pills will effect a cure when all other means have failed.

These Pills have never been known to fail where the directions on the 2nd page of pamphlet are well observed.

For further particulars, get a pamphlet, from the agent.

JOB MOSES NEW YORK, SOLE PROPRIETOR.

$1.00 and 12 cents for postage, enclosed to Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., general agents for the Dominion, will insure a bottle containing over 50 pills, by return mail. Sold in Napanee by all Druggists. Mill Point by W. G. Egar, Taworth, Aylsworth & Huff man, and all medicine dealers.

again.

This story will be new to most. I venture to relate it. Looking up the map or chart of Lake Erie, you see Long Point Island on the Can side, near and between Port Rowa Port Dover, the ports above and the island. It is about seven miles from Buffalo running parallel the main shore of Canada, its w point terminating upon Port Rowa where is formed what is called "The named so, as it is formed of quick the violent gales and great waves the rapid current formed by them, ting through the main shore into Rowan bay, making for awhile a p that vessels may sail through, and ing also an inland of Long Point, otherwise it is only a peninsula, th trance being almost or quite chol with the drifting quicksand. The island is made from the upheaving of the lake. It is covered here and with dwarf, sparse trees and t shrubbery, the land made up of l hillocks, with intervening ponds, the wild fowl in great numbers re their season, and the muskrat and sionally other are found. The isla its Port Rowan bay approaches are owned and kept as a private preser an association of gentlemen, who stocked the waters with fish, and let improve an breed for the past three until last fall. I was told recently l of the proprietors that last fall they several white fish from their v w ighing ten, twelve and fifteen p the results of rest and allowing th to breed and multiply without mole and destruction. The approaches inland side of Port Rowan Bay are of wild rice, the food of wild ducks geese, where myriads of them reser the best shooting exists for the priv few who own it.

At the time of which I write, Long Point Island was owned as land by the British or Canadian G ment. Upon its eastern end, str out to a long point of sand, sta light-house built by the Canadian G ment, to guide the mariner by its strong light, up and down the lake, is a point of departure to assure se of their true position. The light-l and point of land on which it stood in a direct line several miles from main shore of Canada, its keeper families being the only inhabitants upon the island. Towards the end, near the cut, some eight or miles from the light-house (the Island probably is about twenty long) there were squatted and live porately Johnny Becker, with hi Abigail, and some half a dozen ch Johnny was a trapper; he let a lo life, trapping muskrats, beaver and game, shooting ducks and fishing, out a poor existence from these prec modes of life. He had built a shanty home from the slabs and wood that had been accumulated on beach. Here let us turn to it.

On a cold stormy November nig 1864 Johnny Becker was away on main land at Port Rowan to gwapin for supplies, and to return when he housed in the shanty, was Abigail wife the heroine of our story. us leave her there with the chi while we turn to another scene in our story. The Canadian threeed schooner Conductor of Amherst Canada, owned by John McLe Scotch gentleman and member of dian Parliament, her commander, Robert Hackett, now of Detroit (father kept a light house on Island opposite Amherstburg many, and manned by a crew of seven n all. The vessel loaded with wheat, l from Detroit to a lower lake throug Welland Canal, on the night in qu was in the vicinity of Long Point I and near Abigail Becker's rude l It was blowing a terrible gale, o the weather bitter cold, the tops o waves freezing in the air as

Napanee Express

"THE GREATEST GOOD TO THE GREATEST NUMBER."

NAPANEE, ONT., FRIDAY, APRIL 27 1877.

BRISCO HOUSE, NAPANEE, ONT.

JOHN SOBY, -- Proprietor.

A First-Class Hotel

in all its Appointments.
Omnibuses meet all Trains and Steamers.

PAISLEY HOUSE.

(John St. opposite the Market.)
NAPANEE, ONT.

A First Class Hotel centrally located, with excellent yard and stabling accommodations.

CHAS. PAISLEY,
PROPRIETOR.

CAMPBELL HOUSE, NAPANEE, ONT.

THE PRINCIPAL HOTEL
IN TOWN.

Good Stabling & Attentive Ostler.
CHARGES AS USUAL.

MARSDEN & MOORE,
PROPRIETORS.

TICHBORNE HOUSE, (Corner Dundas & John Streets.) NAPANEE.

ROBERT McDONALD,
Proprietor.

A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL.
CHARGES MODERATE.

QUEEN'S HOTEL, BELLEVILLE

Every Accommodation for Commercial Travellers.

35. A. P. FARRELL,
PROPRIETOR.

McDONALD HOUSE, (Late Clark House)

BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.
Buses to and from the cars. 39-yl.

 Land for Sale
30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and Wild Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres, also of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low prices and easy terms.

Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets Napanee.
JAMES F. BARTLES.
Napanee, Sept. 12th 1876.

FOR CHEAP

GROCERIES,
CROCKERY &
GLASSWARE

SINGING CHURCH NOTICES.

The Rev. E. P. Parker, in the Christian Union, proposes that church notices, which are usually read during service, should be sung or chanted. He argues that the delivery of them in the solemn order of the hour is an interruption, and are received as an element foreign to the service. He proposes the reduction of all such notices, on Saturday night, to the hymnic form, that they may be properly sung by the choir. Here are some examples:—

H. M.
"The deacon of this church
And the committee, too,
Will meet on Monday night,
Grave matters to review,
A full attendance is desired,
And is most urgently required."

L. M.
"On Thursday evening will be held
The weekly gathering for prayer;
The pastor feels himself impelled
To urge the brethren to be there."

S. M.
"The Busy Bees will meet
On Friday evening next;
Young gentlemen to tea, at six.
They eagerly expect."

C. M.
"The Ladies' Sewing Circle meets
On Saturday p. m.;
All garments for the Mission Box
May then be sent to them."

CHANT.
"The Cold Water Lodge of Good Templars I Number Two,
Will hold a festival and fair on Tuesday evening,
Soda water, ice cream, and fancy articles I will be sold.
All friends of temperance are cordially invited."

A BRAVE CANADIAN WOMAN.

Deeds of heroism have always commanded the highest admiration, particularly female heroism. We are not to look upon women as the weaker portion of our race, and as dependent upon man the sterner and firmer part, to sustain them in hours of trial and places of peril, when the strong arm of man is put forth to succor and to save human lives. There are cases, and they are few in number in the world's history, where this action is reversed—where woman stands forth to save men. It is often the case where the pliant, delicate form of woman has interposed to save human life, when the efforts of stalwart men have proved impotent and futile. It is of such a case I will speak in a few words on this occasion. The shores of our great lakes have been the scene of terrible disasters, they have also furnished many deeds of heroism and bravery unsurpassed in any country. I will tell you one of these, one, that I think stands forth the grandest and greatest ever known on these lakes. I will tell you of Abigail Becker, the heroine of Long Point. The scene that I will attempt to describe to you occurred some twenty odd years ago. Mention was made of it then, and later, not many years ago the writer sent to the poet Whittier a condensed statement of the fact, and ask him to weave into a poem, the noble and brave deed of Abigail Becker. He published my story in the Atlantic Monthly, in prose, as written to him. I had thought as the scene was not unlike the beach of New England (where his old home and mine was) where he wrote his poem "The Tent on the Beach," it might inspire him to weave from the facts and deeds of heroism, such a poetic story as might equal his former efforts. When asked by me, why he failed to do so, he replied: "Friend Dorr, these broke, filling it with frozen spray, so that nothing could be seen twenty feet away from the vessel.

The Conductor was scudding before the wind under close-reefed sails; they judged they were a safe and proper distance from the land and running parallel with it, on toward their port of destination, in which they were deceived. They were nearer the Canadian shore than they supposed, and at midnight struck the outer bar of Long Point, beat over it, and sunk between the two bars, a little above the place where Abigail Becker and the children were situated on that fearful night. The vessel's hull was entirely submerged; the crew took to the rigging of the three masts, their only refuge. It was about midnight of a fearful, stormy November night the sky in murky darkness all around them, the storm of waters dashing and roaring with fury, calling for their apparent victims to engulf them; no possible succor near; clinging to their frail supports in the rigging just above the certain death that seemed to await them. Who could imagine their terrible forebodings of an imminent horrid death; no relief apparent no help to look up to, but the Great Father who cares for all? How they prayed to Him on that awful night, to save their precious lives, I had from their own lips at the time, more than twenty years ago, and is as fresh to me now as then. Here they clung for daylight which would never seem to come. But come it did at last, that awful November morning, with no abatement of the terrible raging storm. It brought no comfort with it, no greater hopes of succor; all they could see was the wild icy waves around them, making it really more terrible than when hidden by the pall of night. Let us turn now to our heroine. Abigail rose after daylight and looked out. She took her pal as were her custom, and went down to a point to get some water to fill her tea-kettle. At her feet on the beach, she saw the Conductor's yawl boat, wrecked and breaking to pieces. Her beach experience taught her that some disaster had occurred. She looked around towards the Lake, peering through the gloom and storm; and walking up the beach, finally discovered the masts, and people clinging to them. She went up opposite on the beach, and saw their terrible helpless condition. She waved to them and they saw her. She returned to her shanty, and, leaving the children in charge of her oldest girl of ten or twelve years of age, took her iron pot, some tea and matches, went up again opposite the vessel, built a fire of logs and driftwood, filled the pot with water and boiled it, making the tea ready, to warm and refresh them, if they could reach the shore alive. Here she passed the day. Every drop of water that struck the beach was a particle of ice in a moment. She frequently waded into the water to encourage and let them see that a human being on the wished for shore was caring for them, with the expectation that they would be saved.

Meanwhile the day was wearing on, night was fast approaching, another of them awful nights in prospect, and no other hope for succor than the faithful woman watch on shore. Imagine the terrors of the scene; no abatement of the proportioned, never having worn a stay or a corset in her life, ignorant of the use of whalebone or padding, barefooted and all her children so. She stood up before me in all the grace of noble uncultured womanhood, her great blue eyes gleaming with modest benignity. I could not forbear expressing my great admiration for her noble deeds. She said she had not done more than she ought to have done, nor more than she should do again if her help was wanted. I measured her foot and those of her children, and when I arrived home had some shoes made for her and the children, got stockings and made up a box of things and sent her all I was able to. I bought her a Bible, inscribed her name in gold letters upon it, and sent it with her package to her. Her oldest girl had a white swelling on her knee. I told her I would get a steamer to stop for her in the spring, one that run up the shore of Canada, and, if she would come to Buffalo with her girl, would get her into the Sisters' Hospital, and Dr. Hamilton would cure her. She came and stayed at my house and at Mr. Aurelia Conkling's; her girl was put into the hospital and cured. I went to Mr. Hodges, who kept the American Hotel, and asked him for his parlors for a levee for Abigail. I went among the people; ex-President Fillmore, Judge Hall and many prominent citizens attended. We collected over one thousand dollars for her in those rooms. I had written an article and published it in the Commercial Advertiser. It found its way down to Quebec, where the Canadian Parliament was sitting. It was read by permission of the Speaker, a committee was appointed to investigate the facts, and, when found to be true, the Government gave Abigail one hundred acres of land near Port Rowan, where she now lives. I have a letter from her, written last year, now in my pocket.

Another pretty incident connected with this story is this:

The late Joseph Walker, Quaker, President of the Life Saving Benevolent Association of New York, hearing of this, wrote me, "The giving of our medal is confined to the saving of American life. If thee will find that there was an American life saved from on board the Conductor Abigail shall have our best medal." Enquiry showed that there were two Americans on board and saved: the mate, Jerome, and one other of the crew. The medal, a fine large one, made specially for her, was sent me to give her. I was asked to get a receipt. I sent it up to the Collector at Port Rowan, an old army officer, to give her, and return me a receipt. He found Abigail could not write, so he took her to a daguerrean artist, and seating her with my bible on a table, one arm resting upon it, and her medal in an open case in the other hand, took her picture and sent me as her receipt. I had it put on stone, making a nice engraving, and sent the original to New York to Joseph Walker.

Abigail was taught by the ladies of Port Rowan to write, and she is quite improved. And thus, gentlemen, you have the story of Abigail Becker, the heroine of Long Point. It will be new to most of you; it has never been so fully written before, and it has never been placed with our Historical Society. This is specially prepared for it, as a matter of local interest. I gave it as a tribute to a Travellers.

35.
A. P. FARRELL,
PROPRIETOR.
McDONALD HOUSE,
(Late Clark House)
BRIGHTON, ONT.
Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.
Buses to and from the cars. 30-yl.

 Land for Sale
30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for
the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and Wild Timor Lands to the extent of 30,000 acres;
also of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low
prices and easy terms.
Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets
Napanee.

JAMES F. BARTLES.
Napanee, Sept. 12th 1876.

FOR CHEAP
GROCERIES,
CROCKERY &
GLASSWARE

GO TO
GEORGE REID'S
NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE.

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

A. PETER'S, ODESSA,
DEALER IN

Sash, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese
Boxes, Tubs, Pickins, etc.

I am now making a very superior article
in a sawed cheese box, which I will sell at 12. All orders entrusted to me
will receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS.,
LIVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE ERISCO HOUSE.)
NAPANEE, ONT.

We keep nothing but First-Class
Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE
PRICES

JNO. A. REID

VET. SURGEON
NAPANEE ONT.
GRADUATE OF

Ontario Veterinary College.

May be consulted on all diseases of Domestic Animals, personally at Campbell House
or by letter.

FEEL'S MODERATE
Office—Warner Block

OCEAN TICKETS.

OCEAN Tickets for sale via Quebec or Halifax
in summer, Halifax or Portland in winter, by Atlantic or White Star Line, and are cases, and they are few in number in the world's history, where this action is reversed—where woman stands forth to save men. It is often the case where the pliant, delicate form of woman has interposed to save human life, when the efforts of stalwart men have proved impotent and futile. It is of such a case I will speak in a few words on this occasion.

The shores of our great lakes have been the scene of terrible disasters, they have also furnished many deeds of heroism and bravery unsurpassed in any country. I will tell you one of these, one, that I think stands forth the grandest and greatest ever known on these lakes. I will tell you of Abigail Becker, the Heroine of Long Point. The scene that I will attempt to describe to you occurred some twenty odd years ago. Mention was made of it then, and later, not many years ago the writer sent to the poet Whittier a condensed statement of the fact, and ask him to weave into a poem, the noble and brave deed of Abigail Becker. He published my story in the Atlantic Monthly, in prose, as written to him. I had thought as the scene was not unlike the beach of New England (where his old home and mine was) where he wrote his poem "The Tent on the Beach," it might inspire him to weave from the facts and deeds of heroism, such a poetic story as might equal his former efforts.
When asked by me, why he failed to do so, he replied: "Friend Dorr, these knows but little of making poems, they are made of cobwebs, something floating in the air and men's brains; why, one fragment of Abigail's great deed would drive all poetry from man's mind. I could not do it, I tried to, over and over again."

This story will be new to most of you.
I venture to relate it. Looking upon the the map or chart of Lake Erie, you will see Long Point Island on the Canadian side, near and between Port Rowan and Port Dover, the ports above and below the island. It is about seventy five miles from Buffalo running parallel with the main shore of Canada, its western point terminating upon Port Rowan bay, where is formed what is called "The Cut"
named so, as it is formed of quicksands, the violent gales and great waves, with the rapid current formed by them, cutting through the main shore into Port Rowan bay, making for awhile a passage that vessels may sail through, and forming also an inland of Long Point, when otherwise it is only a peninsula, the entrance being almost or quite choked up with the drifting quicksand. The whole island is made from the upheaving sands of the lake. It is covered here and there with dwarf, sparse trees and trailing shrubby, the land made up of broken hills, with intervening ponds, where the wild fowl in great numbers resort in their season, and the muskrat and occasionally otter are found. The island and its Port Rowan bay approaches are now owned and kept as a private preserve by an association of gentlemen, who have stocked the waters with fish, and let them improve an breed for the past three years.
until last fall. I was told recently by one of the proprietors that last fall they took several white fish from their waters.
weighing ten, twelve and fifteen pounds,
the results of rest and allowing the fish to breed and multiply without molestation and destruction. The approaches on the inland side of Port Rowan Bay are full of wild rice, the food of wild ducks and geese, where myriads of them resort, and the best shooting exists for the privileged few who own it.

At the time of which I write, 1854,
Long Point Island was owned as wild land by the British or Canadian Government. Upon its eastern end, stretched out to a long point of sand, stands a light-house built by the Canadian Government, to guide the mariner by its clear strong light, up and down the lake, and it is a point of departure to assure seamen of their true position. The light-house, and point of land on which it stood, were in a direct line several miles from the main shore of Canada, its keepers and families being the only inhabitants proper upon the island. Towards the upper end of the island some eight or nine her custom, and went down to a point to get some water to fill her tea-kettle. At her feet on the beach, she saw the Conductor's yawl boat, wrecked and breaking to pieces. Her beach experience taught her that some disaster had occurred. She looked around towards the Lake, peering through the gloom and storm; and walking up the beach, finally discovered the masts, and people clinging to them. She went up opposite on the beach, and saw their terrible helpless condition. She waved to them and they saw her. She returned to her shanty, and, leaving the children in charge of her oldest girl of ten or twelve years of age, took her iron pot, some tea and matches, went up again opposite the vessel, built a fire of logs and driftwood, filled the pot with water and boiled it, making the tea ready, to warm and refresh them, if they could reach the shore alive. Here she passed the day. Every drop of water that struck the beach was a particle of ice in a moment. She frequently waded into the water to encourage and let them see that a human being on the wished for shore was caring for them, with the expectation that they would be saved.

Meanwhile the day was wearing on.
night was fast approaching, another of them awful nights in prospect, and no other hope for succor than the faithful woman watch on shore. Imagine the terrors of the scene; no abatement of the storm; it still raged as fearfully as ever.
Abigail knew that a climax was fast approaching; she knew that these exposed men could not survive another night, with chilled inactive blood, clinging in the unsheltered rigging where they had been so many hours. A happy thought came to her; God sent it. Alone on that dangerous beach, night rapidly coming on, God inspired her with that happy thought of how to save them. Their prayers were answered; God had heard them cry for help and succor, when men was powerless, and not there to save.
Abigail waded out towards them a short distance, to attract their sight towards her; she beckoned them to jump overboard and swim to shore, explaining by pantomime that she would catch and save them. These men well knew their great danger was when they reached the shore.
They could not land in their exhausted state without human assistance to aid them; the under tow, and moving quicksand would wash them back and drown them; this was Captain Hackett's fear when he cried to the mate in the other rigging. Capt. Hackett, from the rigging cries to his mate Jerome: "That is a good idea; if I am drowned you can run your chances, remaining here another night, or, if I am saved you can follow me one by one." The mate says: "If you go I will follow." Captain answers:
"Don't you try it until you see that I get ashore." Captain Hackett came down the rigging close to the water, stripping off his oversoot. Looking for a smooth chance, he jumped and swam for the shore, watched by his comrades with intense interest. He did well until he reached the backwater of the quicksand, which was the great point of danger. The back wave overwhelmed him; his blood chilled with his long exposure, helplessly succumbed to his apparent fate, and gave up, as far as his own efforts went, to save himself. At this critical moment Abigail dashed in with impetuous spirit and speed.
Grasping the drowning man in her arms,
she quickly bore him safely to the shore and laid him by her great fire of logs, giving hot tea. His young Scotch blood soon revived. But there was no time to lose. The passing minutes were too precious with those lives yet imperilled, the mate preparing to try it. The Captain says: "I will assist him when he gets to the bad place, as he termed it. The Mate came with the result, when reaching the back reacting waves, doubling up as the Captain did. Against the remonstrances of Abigail, Captain Hackett rushed in, attempting to save him; the Mate grasped the Captain with the desperate embrace of a drowning man, pulling him down with him. They were both exhausted and helpless, locked together, powerless to save themselves. At this perilous

Another pretty incident connected with this story in this:

The late Joseph Walker, Quaker, President of the Life Saving Benevolent Association of New York, hearing of this,
wrote me, "The giving of our medal is confined to the saving of American life.
If there will find that there was an American life saved from on board the Conductor Abigail shall have our best medal." Enquiry showed that there were two Americans on board and saved: the mate, Jerome, and one other of the crew. The medal, a fine large one, made specially for her, was sent me to give her. I was asked to get a receipt. I sent it up to the Collector at Port Rowan, an old army officer, to give her, and return me a receipt. He found Abigail could not write,
so he took her to a daguerrean artist,
and seating her with my bible on a table, one arm resting upon it, and her medal in an open case in the other hand, took her picture and sent me as her receipt. I had it put on stone, making a nice engraving, and sent the original to New York to Joseph Walker.

Abigail was taught by the ladies of Port Rowan to write, and she is quite improved. And thus, gentlemen, you have the story of Abigail Becker, the heroine of Long Point. It will be new to most of you; it has never been so fully written before, and it has never been placed with our Historical Society. This is specially prepared for it, as a matter of local interest. I gave it as a tribute to a noble woman and of the great deed performed by Abigail Becker in saving from otherwise certain death the lives of Captain Hackett, first mate Jerome, four sailors and cook—each persons in all—of the schooner Conductor, of Amherstburg, Canada.

Maritime history affords no parallel to this, requiring such physical effort, such clear judgment, adopting the only possible means to save those people, surrounded as they were by such desperate circumstances, carrying out her plan when formed with such unflinching courage and devotion in that freezing cold exposure. Having left her home early in the morning, not daring to return or leave the beach, not knowing what moment the vessel might break up and go to pieces, throwing the crew struggling into the waters. There the heroic woman stood all day long, watching and waiting to save them, not knowing how her children fared at home, the oldest not twelve years old, sacrificing maternal instincts and love of them, to her higher duty of saving human life.

We can readily understand how, under the impulse of excited warm emotions, surrounded perhaps by applauding multitudes, men and women may be inspired to do brave deeds, but picture to yourself this noble woman, exposed all day on the beach, without food or rest, to that terrible driving storm of sleet and snow chilled and cold, wading barefooted into the freezing waters repeatedly to encourage that suffering crew.

Was not this a supreme triumph of the nobler qualities of our nature, the surrounding impulses that generally move and inspire to brave and meritorious deeds? Was it not a great exhibition of the Divine in poor human nature, and did she not deserve all the honors she received, and to leave her enabling deed placed upon the records of our Buffalo Historical Society, even at this late day.
I think so, and am quite sure it will have our hearty and genuine endorsement, as one of the most meritorious acts ever performed by a human being, and worthy of a special commendation as done by a noble woman.

ABOUT BRIDAL VEILS.

We have learned to consider white essentially a bridal costume, but it has not been always so, and even now the Bokhara bride wears a rose colored veil on her marriage day, and in the modern Greek islands the bridal veil of red silk—a custom which has descended, no doubt from the "flamme" or red bridal veil of ancient Greece; the Romans in old days wearing yellow veils. The Armenian bride, on the most important day of her life, wears a blue and white checkered

NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE.

DUNDAS STREET, N. PANEE.

A. PETERS, ODESSA,

DEALER IN

Sash, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese Boxes, Tubs, Firkins, etc.

I am now making a very superior article in a sawed cheese box, which I will sell at 12. All orders entrusted to me will receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS.,
LIVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE PRINCE OF WELLS HOUSE.)

NAPANEE, ONT.

We keep nothing but First-Class Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE PRICES

J. A. REID

VET. SURGEON
NAPANEE, ONT.

GRADUATE OF

Ontario Veterinary College.

May be consulted on all diseases of Domesticated Animals, personally at Campbell House or by letter.

FEES MODERATE

Office—Warner Block

OCEAN TICKETS.

OCEAN Tickets for sale via Quebec or Halifax in summer, Halifax or Portland in winter, by the Alton S. S. Line, White Star Line, Inman and National Line, New York. Also return tickets at reduced rates to any point in the Old Country.

RAILWAY TICKETS.

Tickets by the Great Western Railway, to all points and return at reduced rates.

EXCHANGE OFFICE.

American money bought and sold, and drafts on New York.

ACCIDENTAL INSURANCE.

Agent for the Accidental Insurance Co. of Canada.

A. H. ARLISON, Agent.
Montreal Telegraph Office.
141 St. Malley's Drug Store

THE GREAT FEMALE REMEDY.

JOB MOSES' PERIODICAL PILLS.

This well known medicine is no imposition, but a sure and safe remedy for Female Difficulties and Obstructions, from any cause whatever and although a powerful remedy, it contains nothing hurtful to the constitution. It will, in a short time, bring on the monthly period with regularity.

In all cases of Nervous and spinal Affections, pain in the Back and Limbs, Headaches, Fatigue on slight exertion, Palpitation of the Heart, Lowness of spirits, Hysterical Sick Headaches, Whites, and all the painful diseases occasioned by a disordered system, these Pills will effect a cure when all other means have failed.

These Pills have never been known to fail where the Directions on the 2nd page of pamphlet are well served.

For further particulars, get a pamphlet, from the agent.
JOB MOSES, NEW YORK, SOLE PROPRIETOR.
$1.00 and 125 cents for postage, enclosed to Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., general agents for the Dominion, will insure a bottle containing over 60 pills, by return mail.
Sold in Napanee by all Druggists, Mill Point by W. G. Egar, Tanworth Aylsworth & Huff man, and all medicine dealers.

could not do it, I tried to, over and over again."

This story will be new to most of you. I venture to relate it. Looking upon the map or chart of Lake Erie, you will see Long Point Island on the Canadian side, near and between Port Rowan and Port Dover, the ports above and below the island. It is about seventy five miles from Buffalo running parallel with the main shore of Canada, its western point terminating upon Port Rowan bay, where is formed what is called "The Cut" named so, as it is formed of quicksands, the violent gales and great waves, with the rapid current formed by them, cutting through the main shore into Port Rowan bay, making for awhile a passage that vessel may sail through, and forming also an inland of Long Point, when otherwise it is only a peninsula, the entrance being almost quite choked up with the drifting quicksand. The whole island is made from the upheaving sands of the lake. It is covered here and there with dwarf, sparse trees and trailing shrubbery, the land made up of broken hillocks, with intervening ponds, where the wild fowl in great numbers resort in their season, and the muskrat and occasionally otter are found. The island and its Port Rowan bay approaches are now owned and kept as a private preserve by an association of gentlemen, who have stocked the waters with fish, and let them improve an breed for the past three years, until last fall. I was told recently by one of the proprietors that last fall they took several white fish from their waters, weighing ten, twelve and fifteen pounds, the results of rest and allowing the fish to breed and multiply without molestation and destruction. The approaches on the inland side of Port Rowan Bay are full of wild rice, the food of wild ducks and geese, where myriads of them resort, and the best shooting exists for the privileged few who own it.

At the time of which I write, 1854, Long Point Island was owned as wild land by the British or Canadian Government. Upon its eastern end, stretched out to a long point of sand, stands a light-house built by the Canadian Government, to guide the mariner by its clear strong light, up and down the lake, and it is a point of departure to assure seamen of their true position. The light-house, and point of land on which it stood, were in a direct line several miles from the main shore of Canada, its keepers and families being the only inhabitants proper upon the island. Towards the upper end, near the cut, some eight or nine miles from the light-house (the whole island probably is about twenty miles long) there were squatted and lived temporarily Johnny Becker, with his wife Abigail, and some half a dozen children, Johnny was a trapper; he led a romantic life, trapping muskrats, beaver and other game, shooting ducks and fishing, eking out a poor existence from these precarious modes of life. He had built a sort of shanty home from the stabs and drift-wood that had been accumulated on the beach. Here let us turn to it.

On a cold stormy November night in 1864 Johnny Becker was away on the main land at Port Rowan, gathering supplies, and to return when he could. Housed in the shanty was Abigail, his wife the heroine of our story. Let us leave her there with the children, while we turn to another scene and fact in our story. The Canadian three masted schooner Conductor of Amherstburg, Canada, owned by John McLeod, a Scotch gentleman and member of Canadian Parliament, her commander, Capt. Robert Hackett, now of Detroit (whose father kept a light house on Bobo Island opposite Amherstburg many years) and manned by a crew of seven men in all. The vessel loaded with wheat, bound from Detroit to a lower lake through the Welland Canal, on the night in question was in the vicinity of Long Point Island, and near Abigail Becker's rude home. It was blowing a terrible gale of wind, the weather bitter cold, the tops of the waves freezing in the air as they with chilled inactive blood, clinging in the unsheltered rigging where they had been so many hours. A happy thought came to her; God sent it. Alone on that dangerous beach, night rapidly coming on, God inspired her with that happy thought of how to save them. Their prayers were answered; God had heard them cry for help and succor, when men was powerless, and not there to save. Abigail waded out towards them a short distance, to attract their sight towards her; she beckoned them to jump overboard and swim to shore, explaining by pantomime that she would catch and save them. These men well knew their great danger was when they reached the shore. They could not land in their exhausted state without human assistance to aid them; the under tow, and moving quicksand would wash them back and drown them; this was Captain Hackett's fear when he cried to the mate in the other rigging. Capt. Hackett, from the rigging cries to his mate Jerome: "That is a good idea; if I am drowned you can run your chances, remaining here another night, or, if I am saved you can follow me one by one." The mate says: "If you go I will follow." Captain answers: "Don't you try it until you see that I get ashore." Captain Hackett came down the rigging close to the water, stripping off his overcoat. Looking for a smooth chance, he jumped and swam for the shore, watched by his comrades with intense interest. He did well until he reached the backwater of the quicksand, which was the great point of danger. The back wave overwhelmed him; his blood chilled with his long exposure, helplessly succumbed to his apparent fate, and gave up, as far as his own efforts went, to save himself. At this critical moment Abigail dashed in with impetuous spirit and speed. Grasping the drowning man in her arms, she quickly bore him safely to the shore and laid him by her great fire of logs, giving hot tea. His young Scotch blood soon revived." But there was no time to lose. The passing minutes were too precious with those lives yet imperilled, the mate preparing to try it. The Captain says: "I will assist him when he gets to the bad place, as he termed it. The Mate came with the result, when reaching the back reacting waves, doubling up as the Captain did. Against the remonstrances of Abigail, Captain Hackett rushed in, attempting to save him; the Mate grasped the Captain with the desperate embrace of a drowning man, pulling him down with him. They were both exhausted and helpless, locked together, powerless to save themselves. At this perilous moment Abigail again rushed in; woman as she was, she did what not one man in a thousand could have done. She picked up these men with the strength of a giantess, and bore them safely to the shore in her strong arms. God gave her strength for the occasion, and in like manner she saved each one of that crew; before the light of day had entirely passed, they were all borne in safety to the shore by this heroic woman. Not a mouthful of food had passed her lips since the night before. So intent was her desire to save them that all that day she had passed on that beach, without a thought of herself; her heroic soul had sustained her. She guided these men, snatched from the jaws of death, by her hands, to her humble shanty-home, she fed and cared for them for three or four days, the continuous storm preventing them from leaving the island. When they crossed over to the main land and to their homes, they did it with hearts of gratitude for their safety. A few days after I was at Port Rowan to visit a vessel that had been wrecked the same night, above that point. Captain Davis, an old friend of mine, told me the story of Abigail's noble work. The bays were then frozen over. I hired a sleigh and with Capt. Davis drove down to her house. I saw the spars of the Conductor just sticking above the frozen snow and ice. I passed some time in her house. She stood up all the time I was there, and would not sit before me. Let me describe her. A tall woman, over six feet high, as straight as an arrow, stout, well with a high forehead, large eyes, fair hair, and a good complexion—seven persons in all—of the schooner Conductor, of Amherstburg, Canada.

Maritime history affords no parallel to this, requiring such physical effort, such clear judgment, adopting the only possible means to save these people, surrounded as they were by such desperate circumstances, carrying out her plan when formed with such unflinching courage and devotion in that freezing cold exposure. Having left her home early in the morning, not daring to return or leave the beach, not knowing what moment the vessel might break up and go to pieces, throwing the crew struggling into the waters. There the heroic woman stood all day long, watching and waiting to save them, not knowing how her children fared at home, the oldest not twelve years old, sacrificing maternal instincts and love of them, to her higher duty of saving human life.

We can readily understand how, under the impulse of excited warm emotions, surrounded perhaps by applauding multitudes, men and women may be inspired to do brave deeds, but picture to yourself this noble woman, exposed all day on the beach, without food or rest, to that terrible driving storm of sleet and snow, chilled and cold, wading barefooted into the freezing waters repeatedly to encourage that suffering crew.

Was not this a supreme triumph of the nobler qualities of our nature, the surrounding impulses that generally move and inspire to brave and meritorious deeds? Was it not a great exhibition of the Divine in poor human nature, and did she not deserve all the honors she received, and to leave her enabling deeds placed upon the records of our Buffalo Historical Society, even at this late day? I think so, and am quite sure it will have our hearty and genuine endorsement as one of the most meritorious acts ever performed by a human being, and worthy of a special commendation as done by a noble woman.

ABOUT BRIDAL VEILS.

We have learned to consider white as essentially a bridal costume, but it has not been always so and even now the Bohemian bride wears a rose colored veil on her marriage day, and in the modern Greek islands the bridal veil of red silk—a custom which has descended, no doubt, from the "flamen," or red bridal veil of ancient Greece; the Romans in old days wearing yellow veils. The Armenian bride, on the most important day of her life, appears in what closely resembles a sack made of rich silk, completely enveloping the figure, feet and head. The face is further hidden by a linen veil over which falls another of gold tinsel, and a part of the ceremonial is for the priest's wife to dye the nails of the bride a deep red with henna. In Turkey, the bride appears in rich white satin brocade, shot with silver, and bedizened with pearls, a jeweled girdle around her waist, her face painted—a crimson patch the shape of a heart on her chin, the rest of the visage a mass of white, except the black-penciled eyebrows. Our marriage ceremonies are remarkable for their antiquity, and have varied but little. The wedding ring, which the Puritans repudiated as a Satanic bauble, has always been worn from time to time on the right or left hand, and the reason for its present assignment to the later being a tradition, whether authentic or not, that some vein in the third finger of the left hand has a special connection with the heart. Our bridal veil is of modern introduction, though it is said to have replaced the Anglo-Saxon custom of the bride wearing her hair floating on her shoulders. For many years nothing but the wreath was worn over loose tresses. Bridal favors are said to be of Danish origin, and at one time these were made not of white, but in the bride's own colors whatever they might be.—Cassell's Magazine.

Patti has just reached her thirty-seventh year.

Express.

THE GREATEST NUMBER."

($1.00 per annum, if paid in advance.

DAY, APRIL 27 1877.

NO. 1.

e, filling it with frozen spray, so that ing could be seen twenty feet away the vessel.

e Conductor was scudding before wind under close-reefed sails; they d they were a safe and proper dis-from the land and running parallel it, on toward their port of desti-n, in which they were d c o v d. They nearer the Canadian shore than supposed, and at midnight struck uter bar of Long Point beat over it, unk between the two bars, a little e the place where Abigail Becker he children were s i l t e d on that il night. The vessel's hull was eng submerged; the crew took to the g of the three masts, their only
e. It was about midnight of a feartormy November night the sky in y darkness all around them, the y of waters dashing and roaring with calling for their apparent victims to lph them; no possible succor near;
ng to their frail supports in the g just above the certain death that ed to await them. Who could im-their terrible forebodings of an out horrid death; no relief apparent lp to look up to, but the Great r who cares for all? How they d d Him on that awful night, to their precious lives, I had from their ips at the time, more than twenty ago, and is as fresh to me now as

Here they clung for daylight i would never seem to come. But it did at last, that awful November morning, with no abatement of the le raging storm. It brought no ort with it, no greater hopes of sucil they could see was the wild icy around them, making it really terrible than when hidden by the f night. Let us turn now to our ie. Abigail rose at er daylight and l out. She took her pail as were ism, and went down to a point to me water to fill her tea-kettle. At et on the beach, she saw the Cond's yawl boat, wrecked and break-pieces. Her beach experience ther that some disaster had oc-
l. She looked around toward the peering through the gloom and
; and walking up the beach, finally ered the masts, and people clinging
m. She went up opposite on the y, and saw their terrible helpless ion. She waved to them they saw her. She return-her shanty, and, leaving the en in charge of her oldest girl of twelve years of age, took her iron ome tea and matches, went up again to the vessel, built a fire of logs ifwood, filled the pot with water oiled it, making the tea ready, to and refresh them, if they could the shore alive. Here she passed
y. Every drop of water that the beach was a particle of ice in a nt. She frequently waded into the to encourage and let them see that can being on the wished for shore ing for them, with the expectation they would be saved.

unwhile the day was wearing on,
was fast approaching, another of awful nights in prospect, and no hope for succor than the faithful smooth sea above. Therefore she proportioned, never having worn a stay or a corset in her life, ignorant of the use of whalebone or padding, barefooted and aid her children so. She stood up before me in all the grace of noble uncultured womanhood, her great blue eyes gleaming with modest benignity. I could not forbear expressing my great admiration for her noble deeds. She said she had not done more than she ought to have done, nor more than she could do again if her help was wanted. I measured her foot and those of her children, and when I arrived home had some shoes made for her and the children, got stockings and made up a box of things and sent her all I was able to. I bought her a Bible, inscribed her name in gold letters upon it, and sent it with her package to her. Her oldest girl had a white swelling on her knee. I told her I would get a steamer to stop for her in the spring, one that run up the shore of Canada, and, if she would come to Buffalo with her girl, would get her into the Sisters' Hospital, and Dr. Hamilton would cure her. She came and stayed at my house and at Mr.

Aurelia Cookling's; her girl was put into the hospital and cured. I went to Mr.
Hodges, who kept the American Hotel, and asked him for his parlors for a levee for Abigail. I went among the people; ex President Fillmore, Judge Hall and many prominent citizens attended. We collected over one thousand dollars for her in those rooms. I had written an article and published it in the Commercial Advertiser. I found its way down to Quebec, where the Canadian Parliament was sitting. It was read by permission of the Speaker, a committee was appointed to investigate the facts, and, when found to be true, the Government gave Abigail one hundred acres of land near Port Rowan, where she now lives. I have a letter from her, written last year, now in my pocket.

Another pretty incident connected with this story is this:

The late Joseph Walker, Quaker, President of the Life-Saving Benevolent Association of New York, hearing of this,
wrote me, "The giving of our medal is confined to the saving of American life.
If thee will find that there was an American life saved from on board the Conductor Abigail shall have our best medal."
Enquiry showed that there were two
Americans on board and saved: the mate,
Jerome, and one other of the crew. The medal, a fine large one, made specially for her, was sent me to give her. I was asked to get a receipt. I sent it up to the Collector at Port Rowan, an old army officer, to give her, and return me a receipt. He found Abigail could not write,
so he took her to a daguerrean artist,
and seated her with my bible on a table,
one arm resting upon it, and her medal in an open case in the other hand, took her picture and sent me her receipt. I had it put on stone, making a nice engraving, and sent the original to New York to Joseph Walker.

Abigail was taught by the ladies of Port Rowan to write, and she is quite improved. And thus, gentlemen, you have the story of Abigail Becker, the heroine of Long Point. It will be new
to most of you; it has never been so fully written before, and it has never been placed with our Historical Society. This

COME, LOVELY SPRING.

Come, lovely Spring, with all thy flowers,
Primrose and violet come;
Sweet verdure, clothe again the bowers—
Bee, let us hear thy hum!
And hearts shall leap, and tongues shall sing,
And welcome forth the new-born Spring.

Thus, 'ere as Winter stern departs,
Shall all our sorrows go;
This is the spring-time of the heart,
The spirit's genial glow:
The sun of Hope, with glorious ray,
Drives all the clouds of Care away.

A DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

A London correspondent writes:—
"The Duchess of Edinburgh is not comfortably placed in her husband's family, and does not get on with her Royal sisters-in-law, save with Louise, who is in a false position. When the Duke of Edinburgh was in England last, alone, while his wife and children were in Russia, he and Louise went about together perpetually, and probably often compared notes on the hardness of their lot. The one member of the Royal family with whom the Grand Duchess gets on worst is said to be Beatrice. These two, says rumour, hate each other with that lively intensity of detestation which generally exists between sisters-in-law, the chief cause of hatred being the old trouble of the question of precedence. It is also said that the Queen is desirous that Beatrice should marry the Marquis of Stafford, grandson of her Majesty's warmly attached old friend, the dead Duchess of Sutherland. One day, not long ago, the Marquis, being in company with a lot of his friends, was asked by one of them when he was going to marry that fair Princess. "Never," he answered haughti-ly, "I don't choose to walk behind my wife as my cousin Lorne does." Such is the tale the gossip tell. If it is not true, it is well told, for it is a fact that in State processions Louise is generally paired off with some Prince, such as one of her brothers or brothers-in-law, and poor Lorne follows miles behind, perhaps with a lady of honour. And yet in every respect, the question of descent included, he is, save for ranking, neither as Royal nor Serene Highness, immeasurably the superior of every one of his brothers-in-law, especially of Christian, Lord Lorne's grandmother, the dead
Duchess of Sutherland, already mentioned, was so beautiful and regal looking that, when she and the Queen used in years past to appear together in public, people said the Duchess always looked as if she should have been the Queen. The House of Brunswick may be illustrious, at least it is, perhaps, the duty of us Britishers so to consider it, but as a family it is anything rather than autocratic-looking, sadly lacking that divinity which should, but seldom does, hedge a King."

RUSSIAN TORTURE.

THE KNOT.

A barrister-at-law supplies the Telegraph with some very interesting notes on that well-known instrument of Russian civilization—the knout. The writer after pointing out what the new Turkish Constitution proposes, says that by Russian law a magistrate can knout a man to death. What the knout is, and how applied, will be seen from the following:

TO THE FIRST ROBIN.

Welcome again, from the land of the summer,
Bird in the maple, with jubilant song!
Nodding and singing thy rapturous greeting—
Where hast thou stayed from our garden so long?
Often the little one looked from the window
When the soft snowflakes fell fleecy and dumb, Saying, "See mother! the white bees are swarm-
ing,
When will they go, and the red robins come?"

Rocked on the bough of the silver leaved maple
Hast thou one sigh for the orange and palm?
Could the magnolia's sweet-scented blossoms
Waft o'er thy sleep a more exquisite balm?
Bird of the North! thou hast winged thy way homeward,
Led by a love that was constant and strong;
On the same bough that in other days rocked thee
Build a new nest, but, oh! sing the old song.

Herald art thou of the pageant approaching—
The floral procession of Summer, our queen;
Let the winds listen, and hasten the sunbeams
To speed for her chariot carpet of green.
Bid the trees hang out their banners of welcome,
Red and white banners of beautiful bloom!
Sing, happy bird! till thy comrades, advancing,
Shall rout the last spectre of winter and gloom.
—Francis L. Mace, in the Cottage Hearth.

WHY LADY CLERKS ARE POPULAR WITH LADY CUSTOMERS.

Scene—A store. Lady clerk putting a finishing touch to her longest curl with her forefinger. To her—

Enter Female Customer.
Female Customer—"I wish to see some linen collars, please."

Lady Clerk, after a brief pause and with a feeble show of pitying interest —"Underlinen at the second counter to the left." (Relapses into contemplation of the Infinite.)

F. C.—"Linen collars, I wished to see."

L. C., after mentally appraising the customer's wardrobe and resolving if ever she has a black silk dress to have more bugles on it—O! (Takes down and lazily opens box, and becomes absorbed in flirtation between the shop-walker and the red-headed Thing at the lace counter.)

F. C.—"These are very common.
Have you nothing better?"

L. C., recovering her consciousness and politely smothering a yawn—"The others are twenty cents each: I didn't know you would care to pay so much.
(Takes down other box and sighs.)

F. C.—"These will do, but these are too large. Twelve is the size I wear."

L. C., taking the measure of the F. C.'s neck as if for the guillotine, with some vacillancy—"Oh, not fifteen inches at least.
Here are the collars you want." (Takes down box of 15's.)

F. C., demonstratively—"But I know the size of my own neck. I wear twelves."

L. C., making a grudging concession —"I am sure you are mistaken. Try these." (Prepares to take down box of 14's.)

F. C., getting used—"Will you show me some twelves, or I shall go, and see if I can find some one who can?"

L. C., slumping down box—"There!
(Glances at Still you had better take thirteen, for I know that twelves are too small.)

F. C., after selection, pays and exits, passed through life by the implacable tooth of L. C.'s New York World.

FRENCH EXECUTIONS.

THE GUILLOTINE.

The correspondent of the New York Times gives the following account of the way executions are conducted in Paris:

Executions take place before the prison of La Roquette in the gray of the morning. The prisoner is left in docks about his fate until 4 o'clock, and generally condemned men are buoyed up with the hope of a reprieve. When the hour comes an officer with a lantern enters the cell to wake the prisoner and to tell him that the hour has come. In a moment M. Roch comes in to sign a receipt for his man; a priest has a few moments for prayer; and then the condemned is led on to a small chamber, where he is seized by the aids of M. Roch, who makes the final toilet. His shirt collar is cut off and the hair at the back darkness all around them, the waters dashing and roaring with lling for their apparent victims to them; no possible succor near; to their frail supports in the just above the certain death that to await them. Who could imieir terrible forebodings of an horrid death; no relief apparent to look up to, but the Great who cares for all? How they o Him on that awful night, to ir precious lives, I had from their at the time, more than twenty o, and as fresh to me now as Here they clung for daylight could never seem to come. But did at last, that awful Novem-ning, with no abatement of the raging storm. It brought no with it, no greater hopes of suc- they could see was the wild icy ound them, making it really rible than when hidden by the ight. Let us turn now to our

Abigail rose after daylight and ut. She took her pail as were on, and went down to a point to water to fill her tea-kettle. At on the beach, she saw the Con-yawl boat, wrecked and break-icees. Her beach experience er that some disaster had oc- She looked around towards the uring through the gloom and nd walking up the beach, finally d the masts, and people clinging She went up opposite on the nd saw their terrible helpless y. She waved to them y saw her. She returner shanty, and, leaving the in charge of her oldest girl of elve years of age, took her iron ea and matches, went up again the vessel, built a fire of logs wood, filled the pot with water d it, making the tea ready, to d refresh them, if they could e shore alive. Here she passed

Every drop of water that e beach was a particle of ice in a She frequently waded into the ousage and let them see that eing on the wished for shore g for them, with the expectation ould be saved.

While the day was wearing on, s fast approaching, another of ful nights in prospect, and no pe for succor than the faithful vatch on shore. Imagine the f the scene; no abatement of the still raged as fearfully as ever, new that a climax was fast ap- g; she knew that these exposed id not survive another night, led inactive blood, clinging in eltered rigging where they had many hours. A happy thought her; God sent it. Alone on that is beach, night rapidly coming inspired her with that happy of how to save them. Their were answered; God had heard for help and succor, when men- less, and not there to save, raded out towards them a short to attract their sight towards beckoned them to jump over- d swim to shore, explaining by e that she would catch and save These men well knew their great as when they reached the shore, ld not land in their exhausted hout human assistance to aid he under tow, and moving quick- ld was then back and down is was Captain Hackett's fear- eried to the mate in the other

Capt. Hackett, from the rig- s to him to Jerome: "That is ea; if I am drowned you can 'chances, remaining here another , if I am saved you can follow by one." The mate says "If will follow." Captain answers: you try it until you see that I get

Captain Hackett came down igo close to the water, stripping vercoat. Looking for a smooth he jumped and swam for the atched by his comrades with in- terest. He did well until he the backwater of the quicksand, my knee. I told her I would get a steamer to stop for her in the spring, one that run up the shore of Canada, and, if she would come to Buffalo with her girl, would get her into the Sisters' Hospital, and Dr. Hamilton would cure her. She came and stayed at my house and at Mr. Aurelia Conkling's; her girl was put into the hospital and cured. I went to Mr. Hodges, who kept the American Hotel, and asked him for his parlors for a love- for Abigail. I went among the people; ex-President Fillmore, Judge Hall and many prominent citizens attended. We collected over one thousand dollars for her in those rooms. I had written an article and published it in the Commercial Advertiser. It found its way down to Quebec, where the Canadian Parliament was sitting. It was read by permission of the Speaker, a committee was appointed to investigate the facts, and, when found to be true, the Government gave Abigail one hundred acres of land near Port Rowan, where she now lives. I have a letter from her, written last year, now in my pocket.

Another pretty incident connected with this story is this:

The late Joseph Walker, Quaker, President of the Life Saving Benevolent Association of New York, hearing of this, wrote me, "The giving of our medal is confined to the saving of American life. If they will find that there was an American life saved from on board the Conductor Abigail shall have our best medal." Enquiry showed that there were two Americans on board and saved: the mate, Jerome, and one other of the crew. The medal, a fine large one, made specially for her, was sent me to give her. I was asked to get a receipt. I sent it up to the Collector at Port Rowan, an old army officer, to give her, and return me a receipt. He found Abigail could not write, so he took her to a daguerrean artist, and seating her with my bible on a table, one arm resting upon it, and her medal in an open case in the other hand, took her picture and sent me as her receipt. I had it put on stone, making a nice engraving, and sent the original to New York to Joseph Walker.

Abigail was taught by the ladies of Port Rowan to write, and she is quite improved. And thus, gentlemen, you have the story of Abigail Becker, the heroine of Long Point. It will be new to most of you; it has never been so fully written before, and it has never been placed with our Historical Society. This is specially prepared for it, as a matter of local interest. I gave it as a tribute to a noble woman and of the great deed performed by Abigail Becker in saving from otherwise certain death the lives of Captain Hackett, first mate Jerome, four sailors and cook—seven persons in all—of the schooner Conductor, of Amherstburg, Canada.

Maritime history affords no parallel to this, requiring such physical effort, such clear judgment, adopting the only possible means to save those people, surrounded as they were by such desperate circumstances, carrying out her plan when formed with such unflinching courage and devotion in that freezing cold exposure. Having left her home early in the morning, not daring to return or leave the beach, not knowing what moment the vessel might break up and go to pieces, throwing the crew struggling into the waters. There the heroic woman stood all day long, watching and waiting to save them, not knowing how her children fared at home, the oldest not twelve years old, sacrificing maternal instincts and love of them, to her higher duty of saving human life.

We can readily understand how, under the impulse of excited warm emotions, surrounded perhaps by applauding multitudes, men and women may be inspired to do brave deeds, but picture to yourself this noble woman, exposed all day on the beach, without food or rest, to that terrible driving storm of sleet and snow, chilled and cold, waiting barefooted into the freezing waters repeatedly to encourage that suffering crew.

Was not this a supreme triumph of the nobler qualities of our nature, the surrounding impulses that generally move and inspire to brave and meritorious

Edinburgh was in England last, alone, while his wife and children were in Russia. he and Louise went about together perpetually, and probably often compared notes on the hardness of their lot. The one member of the Royal family with whom the Grand Duchess gets on worst is said to be Beatrice. These two, says rumour, hate each other with that lively intensity of detestation which generally exists between sisters-in-law, the chief cause of hatred being the old trouble of the question of precedence. It is also said that the Queen is desirous that Beatrice should marry the Marquis of Stafford, grandson of her Majesty's warmly attached old friend, the dead Duchess of Sutherland. One day, not long ago, the Marquis, being in company with a lot of his friends, was asked by one of them when he was going to marry that fair Princess. "Never," he answered laughingly, "I don't choose to walk behind my wife as my cousin Lorne does." Such is the tale the gossip tell. If it is not true, it is well told, for, it is a fact that in State processions Louise is generally paired off with some Prince, such as one of her brothers or brothers-in-law, and poor Lorne follows miles behind, perhaps with a lady of honour. And yet in every respect, the question of descent included, he is, save for ranking, neither as Royal nor Serene Highness, immeasurably the superior of every one of his brothers-in-law, especially of Christian. Lord Lorne's grandmother, the dead Duchess of Sutherland, already mentioned, was so beautiful and regal looking that, when she and the Queen used in years past to appear together in public, people said the Duchess always looked as if she should have been the Queen. The House of Brunswick may be illustrious—at least it is, perhaps, the duty of us Britishers to consider it—but as a family it is anything rather than aristocratic-looking, sadly lacking that divinity which should, but seldom does, hedge a King.

RUSSIAN TORTURE.

THE KNOT.

A barrister-at-law supplies the Telegraph with some very interesting notes on that well-known instrument of Russian civilization—the knot. The writer after pointing out what the new Turkish Constitution proposes, says that by Russian law a magistrate can knot a man to death. What the knot is, and how applied, will be seen from the following passage:—"The knot is a lash of leather, dipped in glue, and then thickly encrusted with iron filings and powdered glass. It is not so very long since the knot was applied to a Russian man-of-war sailor in the Mediterranean for insubordination. One lash laid him bare of flesh from the nape of his neck to the middle of his back; another, 'whipped' his eye from the socket and took off part of his nose. I need hardly add that he died under such cruel torture. These facts are well known at Malta. Ask our supercargoes who trade to the corn producing countries of Russia as to the numbers of disfigured Russian peasants maimed for life by the torture of the knot. Ask British naval officers who have visited the Russian penal settlements on the Amour as to the 'knouted' appearance of the unhappy victims to Russian tyranny and misrule they saw up there."

SLIGHTLY MISTAKEN.

The present Archbishop of Dublin, the gifted author of the work, so widely known, on the Study of Words, is not in very robust health, and has been for many years apprehensive of paralysis. At a recent dinner in Dublin, given by the Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, his Grace sat on the right of his hostess, the Duchess of Abercorn. In the midst of the dinner the company was startled by seeing the archbishop rise from his seat, and still more startled to hear him exclaim, in a dismal and sepulchral tone, "It has come! it has come!"

"What has come, your Grace?" eagerly cried half a dozen voices from different parts of the table.

"What I have been expecting for

F. C.—"Linen collars, I wished to see."

L. C., after mentally appraising the customer's wardrobe and resolving if ever she has a black silk dress to have more bugles on it—O! (Takes down and languidly opens box, and becomes absorbed in flirtation between the shop-walker and the red-headed Thing at the lace counter.)

F. C.—"These are very common. Have you nothing better?"

L. C., recovering her consciousness and politely smothering a yawn—"The others are twenty cents each: I didn't know as you would care to pay so much. (Takes down other box and sighs.)

F. C.—"These will do, but these are too large. Twelve is the size I wear."

L. C., taking the measure of the F. C.'s neck as if for the guillotine, with some civility—"O, no; fifteen inches at least. Here are the collars you want." (Takes down box of 15's.)

F. C., remonstratingly—"But I know the size of my own neck. I wear twelves."

L. C., making a grudging concession—"I am sure you are mistaken. Try these." (Prepares to take down box of 14's.)

F. C., getting mad—"Will you show me some twelves, or I shall go and see if I can find some one who can?"

L. C., slamming down box—"There!—(Glances.)—Still you had better take thirteen's, for I know that twelve's are too small."

F. C. makes selection, pays and exit, pursued through life by the implacable hatred of the L. C.—New York World

FRENCH EXECUTIONS.

THE GUILLOTINE

The Correspondent of the New York Times gives the following account of the way executions are conducted in Paris:

"Executions take place before the prison of La Roquette in the gray of the morning. The prisoner is left in doubt about his fate until 4 o'clock, and generally condemned men are buoyed up with the hope of a reprieve. When the hour comes an officer with a lantern enters the cell to wake the prisoner and to tell him that the hour has come. In a moment M. Roch comes in to sign a receipt for his man; a priest has a few moments for prayer; and then the condemned is led out to a small chamber, where he seized by the aids of M. Roch, who make the final toilet. His shirt collar is cut off and the hair at the back of the head clipped close. Few men can bear the touch of the cold scissors without a shudder. When this is done the prisoner's hands are tied behind him, and he is thrown over his shoulders, and the procession starts out. A few yards away stands the fatal machine; the condemned man is marched up to an upright plank, to which he is strapped in a twinkling. It is hung on a pivot, a slight push sends it over, and as the man's head falls into the groove of the block, a bit of wood comes down to hold it. Five or six seconds are only occupied with this work, and in a second more the axe falls and the criminal's head rolls into the basket."

NEGRO JUSTICE.

They tell a good story in North Carolina of the way one of the colored magistrates decides cases which come before him. Soon after the war the custom was for the white men who owned the land and the mules to lease them to the colored men and receive therefor one half the crop. Such a bargain was made, but before the crop was grown the colored man died. His widow and children went on with the farm, and when the crop was grown the wife man went down to get his share. But the woman repudiated the contract and claimed all the crop. The case was brought before a colored magistrate, who, having heard the woman's story, that she raised the crop, promptly decided in her favor. The white man put in his objections, and urged that the land and mules were his and half the crop belonged to him. The old magistrate, who could not read and who was a good specimen of a North Carolina negro, pondered the case for a moment and then men could not survive another night, with chilled inactive blood, clinging in the unsheltered rigging where they had been so many hours. A happy thought came to her; God sent it. Alone on that dangerous beach, night rapidly coming on, God inspired her with that happy thought of how to save them. Their prayers were answered; God had heard them cry for help and succor, when men were powerless, and not there to save. Abigail waded out towards them a short distance, to attract their sight towards her; she beckoned them to jump overboard and swim to shore, explaining by pantomime that she would catch and save them. These men well knew their great danger was when they reached the shore. They could not land in their exhausted state without human assistance to aid them; the under tow, and moving quicksand would wash them back and drown them; this was Captain Hackett's fear when he cried to the mate in the other rigging. Capt. Hackett, from the rigging cries to his mate to Jerome: "That is a good idea; if I am drowned you can run your chances, remaining here another night, or, if I am saved you can follow me one by one." The mate says: "If you go I will follow." Captain answers: "Don't you try it until you see that I get ashore." Captain Hackett came down the rigging close to the water, stripping off his overcoat. Looking for a smooth chance, he jumped and swam for the shore, watched by his comrades with intense interest. He did well until he reached the backwater of the quicksand, which was the great point of danger. The back wave overwhelmed him; his blood chilled with his long exposure, helplessly succumbed to his apparent fate, and gave up, as far as his own efforts went, to save himself. At this critical moment Abigail dashed in with impetuous spirit and speed. Grasping the drowning man in her arms, she quickly bore him safely to the shore and laid him by her great fire of logs, giving hot tea. His young Scotch blood soon revived." But there was no time to lose. The passing minutes were too precious with those lives yet imperilled, the mate preparing to try it. The Captain says: "I will assist him when he gets to the bad place, as he termed it. The Mate came with the result, when reaching the back reacting waves, doubling up as the Captain did. Against the remonstrances of Abigail, Captain Hackett rushed in, attempting to save him; the Mate grasped the Captain with the desperate embrace of a drowning man, pulling him down with him. They were both exhausted and helpless, locked together, powerless to save themselves. At this perilous moment Abigail again rushed in; woman as she was, she did what not one man in a thousand could have done. She picked up these men with the strength of a giantess, and bore them safely to the shore in her strong arms. God gave her strength for the occasion, and in like manner she saved each one of that crew; before the light of day had entirely passed, they were all borne in safety to the shore by this heroic woman. Not a mouthful of food had passed her lips since the night before. So intent was her desire to save them that all that day she had passed on that beach, without a thought of herself; her heroic soul had sustained her. She guided these men, snatched from the jaws of death, by her hands, to her humble shanty-house, she fed and cared for them for three or four days, the continuous storm preventing them from leaving the island. When they crossed over to the main land and to their homes, they did it with hearts of gratitude for their safety. A few days after I was at Port Rowan to visit a vessel that had been wrecked the same night, above that point. Captain Davis, an old friend of mine, told me the story of Abigail's noble work. The boys were then frozen over. I hired a sleigh and with Capt. Davis drove down to her house. I saw the spars of the Conductor just sticking above the frozen snow and ice. I passed some time in her house. She stood up all the time I was there, and would not sit before me. Let me describe her. A tall woman, over six feet high, as straight as an arrow, stout, well otherwise certain death the lives of Captain Hackett, first mate Jerome, four sailors and cook—seven persons in all—of the schooner Conductor, of Amherstburg, Canada.

Maritime history affords no parallel to this, requiring such physical effort, such clear judgment, adopting the only possible means to save these people, surrounded as they were by such desperate circumstances, carrying out her plan when formed with such unflinching courage and devotion in that freezing cold exposure. Having left her home early in the morning, not daring to return or leave the beach, not knowing what moment the vessel might break up and go to pieces, throwing the crew struggling into the waters. There the heroic woman stood all day long, watching and waiting to save them, not knowing how her children fared at home, the oldest not twelve years old, sacrificing maternal instincts and love of them, to her higher duty of saving human life.

We can readily understand how, under the impulse of excited warm emotions, surrounded perhaps by applauding multitudes, men and women may be inspired to do brave deeds, but picture to yourself this noble woman, exposed all day on the beach, without food or rest, to that terrible driving storm of sleet and snow, chilled and cold, wading barefooted into the freezing waters repeatedly to encourage that suffering crew.

Was not this a supreme triumph of the nobler qualities of our nature, the surrounding impulses that generally move and inspire to brave and meritorious deeds? Was it not a great exhibition of the Divine in poor human nature, and did she not deserve all the honors she received, and to leave her emulating deeds placed upon the records of our Buffalo Historical Society, even at this late day? I think so, and am quite sure it will have our hearty and genuine endorsement as one of the most meritorious acts ever performed by a human being, and worthy of a special commendation as done by a noble woman.

ABOUT BRIDAL VEILS.

We have learned to consider white as essentially a bridal costume, but it has not been always so and even now the Bohemian bride wears a rose colored veil on her marriage day, and in the modern Greek islands the bridal veil of red silk—a custom which has descended, no doubt, from the "bouca," or red bridal veil of ancient Greece; the Romans in old days wearing yellow veils. The Armenian bride, on the most important day of her life, appears in what closely resembles a sack made of rich silk, completely enveloping the figure, feet and head. The face is further hidden by a linen veil over which falls another of gold tinsel, and a part of the ceremonial is for the priest's wife to dye the tails of the bride a deep red with henna. In Turkey, the bride appears in rich white satin brocade, shot with silver, and bedizened with pearls, a jeweled girdle around her waist, her face painted—a crimson patch the shape of a heart on her cheek, the rest of the visage a mass of white, except the black-penciled eyebrows. Our marriage ceremonies are remarkable for their antiquity, and have varied but little. The wedding ring, which the Puritans repudiated as a Satanic bauble, has always been worn from time to time on the right or left hand, and the reason for its present assignment to the latter being a tradition, whether authentic or not, that some vein in the third finger of the left hand has a special connection with the heart. Our bridal veil is of modern introduction, though it is said to have replaced the Anglo-Saxon custom of the bride wearing her hair floating on her shoulders. For many years nothing but the wreath was worn over loose tresses. Bridal favors are said to be of Danish origin, and at one time these were made not of white, but in the bride's own colors whatever they might be.—Cassell's Magazine.

Patti has just reached her thirty-seventh year.

It is not so very long since the knout was applied to a Russian man-of-war sailor in the Mediterranean for insubordination. One lash laid him bare of flesh from the nape of his neck to the middle of his back; another, "whipped" his eye from the socket and took off part of his nose. I need hardly add that he died under such cruel torture. These facts are well known at Malta. Ask our supercargoes who trade to the corn producing countries of Russia as to the numbers of di-figured Russian peasants maimed for life by the torture of the knout. Ask British naval officers who have visited the Russian penal settlements on the Amour as to the "knouted" appearance of the unhappy victims to Russian tyranny and misrule they saw up there.

SLIGHTLY MISTAKEN.

The present Archbishop of Dublin, the gifted author of the work, so widely known, on the Study of Words, is not in very robust health, and has been for many years apprehensive of paralysis. At a recent dinner in Dublin, given by the Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, his Grace sat on the right of his hostess, the Duchess of Abercorn. In the midst of the dinner the company was startled by seeing the archbishop rise from his seat, and still more startled to hear him exclaim, in a dismal and sepulchral tone, "It has come! it has come!"

"What has come, your Grace?" eagerly cried half a dozen voices from different parts of the table.

"What I have been expecting for twenty years," solemnly answered the archbishop—"a stroke of paralysis. I have been pinching myself for the last twenty minutes, and find myself entirely without sensation."

"Pardon me, my dear archbishop," said the duchess, looking up to him with a somewhat quizzical smile—"pardon me for contradicting you, but it is I that you have been pinching."—EDITOR'S DRAWER, in Harper's Magazine for May.

AN ORIENTAL PRAYER.

A singular prayer is printed in the Brahma newspaper of Calcutta as follows:—"It is not the hope of an uncertain future Heaven, but a present Heaven, that I implore Thee to vouchsafe. I will not go away with a mere promise; but I will remain prostrated at Thy feet till Thy redeeming grace creates in me a small Heaven amid the things of this world. Give me cash, O Lord, out of Thy inexhaustible treasury, and do not send me away, I beseech Thee, with a promissory note." The spirit of this, says the Independent, is devout and earnest, if the language is somewhat financial. But it no more so than that of a somewhat familiar Christian hymn, which describes Christ as a banker, and tells how the dying thief presented his note, and immediately had it cashed.

SKUNK BITES.

"In The Plains of the Great West," being the experiences of military and sporting life in the Western States. Colonel Dodge, makes some extraordinary revelations regarding the skunk. He tells us that in the tract of the country between the Republican River and the Indian Territory, the skunk is more feared on account of its bites than the most powerful "grizzly." The animal is nocturnal in its habits, and is much given to prowling around camps and tents in search of food. It finds nothing more tempting, it falls to consuming the face, hands, or any part of the exposed body of a sleeping man. The bite is not itself so much to be dreaded, but it frequently results in hydrophobia. This result seems, from the observation of Colonel Dodge, to be quite peculiar to the region indicated where skunks are very numerous. The writer states that at one place which he visited he knew by report of sixteen fatal cases of rabies caused by skunk bites. Nor is there wanting other testimony corroborative of the Colonel's assertions.

prisoner's hands are tied behind him, a hat is thrown over his shoulders, and the procession starts out. A few yards away stands the fatal machine; the condemned man is marched up to an upright plank, to which he is strapped in a twinkling. It is hung on a pivot, a slight push sends it over; and as the man's head falls into the groove of the block, a bit of wood comes down to hold it. Five or six seconds are only occupied with this work, and in a second more the axe falls and the criminal's head rolls into the basket.

NEGRO JUSTICE.

They tell a good story in North Carolina of the way one of the colored magistrates decides cases which come before him. Soon after the war the custom was for the white men who owned the land and the mules to lease them to the colored men and receive therefor one-half the crop. Such a bargain was made, but before the crop was grown the colored man died. His widow and children went on with the farm, and when the crop was grown the white man went down to get his share. But the woman repudiated the contract and claimed all the crop. The case was brought before a colored magistrate, who, having heard the woman's story, that she raised the crop, promptly decided in her favor. The white man put in his objections, and urged that the land and mules were his and half the crop belonged to him. The old magistrate, who could not read and who was a good specimen of a North Carolina negro, pondered the case for a moment and then issued his "descrip" in the following words—"De earthman de Lord's and de business thereof—de crops belong to de woman," and it was with great difficulty that the decision was reversed and the white man got his dues.

ALL IN THE FAMILY.

A travelling show in the West consisted of "human curiosities" all from one family. The head of the concern was a Samson and sword swallower. His daughter, with her hair bleached and her eyes painted, was the Circassian girl. His son-in-law was the doortender. His three-year-old son, dressed in trowsers, was the dwarf, "aged fifteen." His son, in a cage, was a Fiji cannibal. In a Wisconsin village there was a family row, and in the ensuing trial in court the secret of their business came out. But they have become reconciled, and once more the old man lifts weights and swallows swords, the Circassian girl flirts with the fellows, the doortender shouts the merits of the exhibition, the dwarf tumbles on his platform and kisses the women, and the cannibal howls in his cage.

The Prince of Wales wants his salary raised.

In her latest walking feat Miss Von Hellen made her fiftieth mile in twelve minutes and and twelve seconds.

Married at Battleboro March 28, by Rev. Wm. Brown, John Sard to Mary Dean.—Battleboro paper. And now they are Sard Deans—only two in a box.

The Speaker of the British House of Commons had his pocket picked of a gold watch while coming out of the Folly Theatre a few days back.

From the 16th to the 19th inst. a great gathering of Catholics for a religious object was arranged to take place in Vienna. The Pope has sent the Apostolic Benediction in advance.

The manufacture and sale of cigars in Italy is a Government monopoly. It is believed that most of the cigars are made from cabbage leaves, in proof of which it is stated that a man the other day found a small lizard in one.

By the law of Scotland, wherever parents are living apart, it is left entirely to the discretion of one of the divisions of the Supreme Court to determine, according to the circumstances of each case, which parent should have the custody of children under 7 years of age.

DIRECTORY

TRAVELER'S GUIDE

U. T. RAILWAY.

GOING EAST.	GOING WEST.
Express.....1:10 A. M.	Express.....5:12 P. M.
Express.....12:58 P. M.	Express.....5:52 A. M.
Mixed.....11:28 P. M.	Mixed.....7:55 A. M.

STAGES ARRIVE AT NAPANEE.

From Newburgh and Tamworth.....	10 1/2 a. m.
From Picton and Mill Point.....	7 p. m.
From Brinsville.....	10 1/2 a. m.

DEPART FROM NAPANEE.

To Newburgh and Tamworth.....	2 1/2 p. m.
To Mill Point and Picton.....	3 1/2 a. m.
To Brinsville.....	2 1/2 p. m.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Hon. R. J. Cartwright.....	Finance Minister.
Schuyler Shibley.....	M. P.

ONTARIO PARLIAMENT.

J. T. Grange.....	M. P. P.
H. M. Deroche.....

COUNTY AND TOWN OFFICIALS.

W. H. Wilkinson.....	Judge.
O. T. Prayn.....	Sheriff.
W. A. Reeve, Clerk of the Peace and County At- torney.
J. B. McGuin, Clerk of the County Court, and Deputy Clerk of the Crown.
Do.....	Surrogate Registrar.
W. N. Dollar.....	Warden.
F. Burrows.....	County School Inspector.
W. V. Dettlor.....	County Clerk.
E. Hooper.....	Treasurer.
M. P. Robin.....	Registrar.
W. S. Williams.....	Mayor.
John Herring.....	Reeve.
Chas. R. Miller.....	Deputy Reeve.
Wm. Chamberlain.....	Town Clerk.
Robert Easton.....	Town Treasurer.
Jas. Allen.....	Chief of Police.
J. Benson, Collector of Customs and Registrar of Shipping.
C. B. Perry.....	Landing Waiter and Searcher.
T. G. Pile, Landing Waiter and Searcher, Mill Point.
G. Bogart.....	Postmaster, Napanee.
G. B. Sills, Inspector of Weights and Measures.
Wm. Hogle.....	Inspector of Licenses.
Chas. James, Clerk 1st Division Court, Napanee.
C. L. Rogers.....	Bath.
J. J. Watson.....	Adolphustown.
Peter Johnston.....	4th " Clarks Mills.
Wm. Wheelan.....	5th " Centreville.
Henry Pultz.....	6th " Wilton.
Thos. Miller.....	7th " Tamworth.

POST OFFICE.

The Post Office Napanee is open from 8 a. m. till 6 p. m.
Day Train East Mail closes, 12:05 p. m.
West " 4:30 p. m.
Night Train East " 9:00 p. m.
West " 9:00 p. m.
Camden Route—Tamworth, Centreville, Camden Express, Newburgh and Napanee Mills—Mail closes
2:15 p. m.
Mill Point and Prince Edward County Route—Mill Point, Picton, Northport, and Demorestville—Mail closes 6:30 a. m.
Fredericksburg Route—Morven, Hamburg, Sils-ville, Parma and Conway—Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays—Mail closes 1 p. m.
Switzerville—Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays—Mail closes 1:15 p. m.
Gosport and Gretina—Saturday—Mail closes
1 p. m.
Erinsville, Robin and Selby, daily—Mail closes
1:30 p. m.
Overtown, Forest Mills and Leinster, daily—Mail closes 1:30 p. m.

CHURCHES.

HOURS OF SERVICES.

Episcopal Methodist—Rev. R. M. Pope. Services
10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School,
2 p. m.
Canada Methodist—Rev. W. S. Blackstock. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School,
2 p. m.
Episcopal—Rev. J. J. Bogart, Rector. Services
11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
Presbyterian—Rev. A. Young. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
Roman Catholic—Rev. Father MacDonagh.
Mass 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School
2:30 p. m.
The Brethren—Meet at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30 p. m., every Sunday in Grange Block.

GEO. P. ROWELL & Co.,

40 PARK ROW, NEW YORK,

—AND—

ROWELL & CHESMAN,

ST. LOUIS.

AGENTS for the "NAPANEE EXPRESS".
Napanee, Ont.

THE EXPRESS.

investigation such as they tried by an unworthy piece of sharp practice to deny to the Speaker. Till that is done, and ministers are proven guilty, we have every right to regard them as innocent. The fact is the slanders have been set and kept in circulation with the idea that their authors might with safety impudently presume upon the forbearance of the Premier. That the limit of that forbearance has been reached, some of the organs will soon be convinced. The tirades of abuse of which Sir John gave the key-note in his violent pic-nic harangues have been reiterated ad nauseum in the party sheets, but why not try these things before the only responsible tribunal? The High Court of Parliament is in session and it will be quite time enough to expect an intelligent public to pronounce sentences when the representative jury has returned a verdict of guilty. Till this is done it is an insult to the common sense which can discriminate between a random and malicious charge against a respectable citizen, and the undoubted guilt of a convicted criminal, to compare the slanders against the present ministry with the enormous political crimes of which their predecessors, after a fair and even generous trial, were convicted, and for the commission of which they are shivering in the cold shades of opposition to day.—
Stratford Beacon.

BELLEVILLE.

ST. THOMAS' CHURCH.

At an adjourned Easter meeting of the Vestry of St. Thomas' Church, held on the 16th, at the Town Hall, Belleville (owing to the destruction by fire of the Church). It was moved by A. R. Dougall and seconded by Dr. Hope, "That in the opinion of this Vestry, it is expedient to rebuild St. Thomas' Church, and that steps for that purpose be taken by this Vestry on condition, and as soon as and not before, the Rector of St. Thomas' Church shall signify in writing to this Vestry that he will hereafter use in St.
Thomas' Church a fit and proper Communion-table, and not a box altar, and that he will not (except when standing and reading the proper service at the end of the table), turn his back to or side-ways to the congregation when reading the services in St. Thomas' Church, but conduct the services as such were conducted in St. Thomas' Church before he took charge of the parish; and that no other innovation will be introduced by him in the services, furniture, or ornaments either in the Church to be rebuilt or where such service may be held pro tempore, and on condition that he will endeavour to work harmoniously with the Churchwardens and congregation,—and that the obnoxious articles in St. Thomas' Church where the congregation now worship, and St. Paul's Church, be forthwith removed."
Yeas 31 : nays none. Carried unanimously.—Intelligencer.

Upwards of six hundred persons have professed conversion during the nine weeks' revival in the Methodist Church, which still continues.

BELLEVILLE, April 24.—The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club met last night, and elected the following officers:—Commodore, Thomas Kelso; Vice-Commodore, R. M. Roy; Captain, W. H. Campbell
Secretary, R. S. Bell; Treasurer, A. M.
Foster; Messenger, S. T. Greene, and an Executive Committee of nine members, of which Morgan Jellett is Chairman.
The club promises to be highly successful this season.

KINGSTON.

Mr. Offord's yacht Emma was lunched Monday morning at McCorkell's boat yard. During the past winter she has been completely overhauled and her appearance wonderfully changed. Her bow that they have been so from a period prior to the revolution. Every effort was made during that struggle to induce the Canadians to unite with us in gaining their independence, but without avail.

Another similar effort was made during the war of 1812, which resulted in a similar failure. The Canadians, with very rare exceptions, are proud of their government, their institutions, their progress and prosperity. The present Governor-General is a more popular ruler than this country has had since James Monroe, for there is literally no party hostility to him. More can be found in the columns of a single issue of an American paper in opposition to our government than the files of Canadian papers reaching back forty years will show in regard to the government of that country.
There are a few dissatisfied persons in Canada whose sympathies are with the people of France, but not with those of the United States.

"Again, it is a very questionable if the majority of the people of this country are favorable to the acquisition of any more territory or foreign people. There is a limit to the extent of territory that can be well managed by one government.
Most of our troubles have come from our having so broad a domain and a people so dissimilar as regards race, education, and domestic institutions. A great deal has been said on Fourth of July occasions about the manifest destiny of the nation being to include the entire continent of America and the islands within easy sailing distance of the coast, but no one has pointed out any particular good that would result from this extension. All history shows that the most prosperous and best governed countries have been those that had a comparatively small territory and a people belonging to one race."—Chicago Times.

THE SPITZ DOG.

HYDROPHOBIA.

A good deal of alarm has been caused in New York by several cases of hydrophobia, alleged to have been caused by the bite of the Spitz dog, which is a favorite with ladies. According to the N. Y.
Herald this animal comes from the forests of Pomerania, where he exists in a semi-savage state, and where he is in constant contact with the still more savage wolf.
Although domesticated, the savage instincts of the brute remain, and unlike other canines which have long dwelt with man, the Spitz seems incapable of forming a lasting friendship with his benefactor. It is well ascertained that he is liable to turn upon his master at any moment, and those who have visited houses where the Spitz has been admitted as a pet probably entertain a lively impression of his pronounced hostility to strangers. It is stated that death almost invariably results from the bite of the dog, whether rabid or not.

A MINISTER KILLS HIS WIFE TO MARRY A RICH GIRL.

Rev. S. H. McGee, of the Ashton (Ill.)
Christian Church, is in jail, charged with killing his wife to marry the daughter of one of his parishioners. The girl is 20, pretty, and was engaged when McGee began to pay her special attentions and he had been in the place but a few months when he was caught kissing the girl at a camp-meeting. His wife, who had borne him two children, was much loved by the people. Latterly, she had been having mysterious attacks of illness, and a week or so ago died in spasms, one of her last acts being to throw her arms about her husband's neck and saying,
"How can I leave you?" An examination reveals much strychnine in her stomach, and it is proved that the parson bought the poison of a neighboring druggist and substituted it for the powder left

THE POPE'S HEALTH.

In discussing his health with a visitor, the Pope is reported as sayin-
"I am well, my son, though one can be an octogenarian with impunity."
I must not hide from you that in recent years I have learned some alarming things myself. I had not expected it, it seems that I am very sick. The doctors are uneasy. I had an awful fainting
The Vatican is upside-down. The Jesuits those crafty Jesuits, who have managed so far to conceal my illness, are interfering for the choice of my successor.
There is any truth in these reports plots and schemes, you will see me, I am hearty, assisting at the election this successor myself. And to think that I never suspected! Well, I know the enemies of the church dropping off every day, and I remember "I am in the hands of God," he said an English gentleman; "I shall my hour when it comes. But, my when I take up certain newspapers days and do not find the news of my illness and the end it always seems to as if the editors had forgotten something. He comes of a long-lived family.
Grandfather died at 96, his father at and his mother at 88, his brother at 90.
The foreign papers tell us also of a policy that is forming at the Vatican. "Holy father," said a distinguished visitor one day, "will you explain policy to me?" "Yes," he replied: "Father who art in heaven, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done." That is policy, I have no other."

POTATOES.

LARGE CARGOES FOR THE STATES.

The country east, west, north south, is being travelled by buyers the States of Maine and Vermont search of potatoes. The different li-railway are bringing them towards lines where a duty of ten per cent, I be paid. The bags containing the tatoes bear the Imperial Arms with words, "Customs Department" un-neath. Grand Trunk carters are employed conveying them this morning from the Montreal and Ottawa Rails to the Grand Trunk line at Point Charles. The price paid by the American buyers varies from 50c to 55c per bushel delivered at the different stations the railway lines, but it is said they them at a less price than this when ranging for their transfer across the and that they obtain $1 per bushel
New York and other cities in the U-States. Housekeepers here complain when they have to pay $1 per bag containing a bushel and a half. The demand is so great now that it is feared the habitants will leave themselves seed. It is amusing to see them around the stations along the Montreal and Ottawa line to deliver their load get paid, being in a hurry to return the spring work. Some of them barrels of maple syrup also in the hope procuring purchasers, as the sap-pleafest this year that many have enough vessels to contain it.—Montreal Witness.

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.

A romance in real life is told by cure Conway in his last letter from land to the Cincinnati Commercial young sportsmen, a gentleman of cation and good connections, but w-fortune, was out shooting, when a shot entered one of his eyes, destr-the sight. He was taken to his lohouse in London, where he lay suff-But a wealthy and handsome widow, on whose estate he happened shooting when the accident occurred took up her abode in the same ho-order to nurse him. Her care was extended through several weeks, but, alas, she was sympathized with that

Episcopal Methodist—Rev. R. M. Pope. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
 Canada Methodist—Rev. W. S. Blackstock. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
 Episcopal—Rev. J. J. Bogart, Rector. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
 Presbyterian—Rev. A. Young. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
 Roman Catholic—Rev. Father MacDonagh. Mass 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School 2:30 p. m.
 The Brethren—Meet at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30 p. m., every Sunday in Grange Block.

GEO. P. ROWELL & Co.,
 40 PARK ROW, NEW YORK,

—AND—
ROWELL & CHESMAN,
 St. Louis.
 AGENTS for the "NAPANEE EXPRESS",
 Napanee, Ont.

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, APRIL 27th, 1877.

OPPOSITION SLANDERS.

Some Tory writers are still hurling steel rails at the Premier. In every indictment against the Government this is almost sure to be a conspicuous count. Being a railway transaction—Pacific Railway at that, it is regarded as a peculiarly suitable set off to that Tory cap sheet of political immorality, the bartering of a public contract for money with which to buy a renewal of the lease of power. The cases, however, are far from parallel. Both transactions have been made the subject of Parliament investigation, and in each case in a House elected under the direct auspices of the accused ministry. The upshot of that inquiry in the case of Sir John was the subject of world wide notoriety, and is the darkest blot on the recent pages of Canadian history. The independent press of Canada, journalistic critics of Great Britain and America animated in the strongest terms upon it as being perfectly indefensible, and the prime mover in the plot was by almost universal consent cast aside as too far gone in political depravity to be fit for the trusts of Government. Has it been so with the present Prime Minister? The charge was only a factious one in the first place. The Hon. Mr. Mackenzie was in this matter tried by a jury of his peers in Parliament and acquitted of the least taint of corrupt intent. The nepotism which was the principal sting in the charge, that is, that the Premier's brother, Mr. Charles Mackenzie, had any pecuniary interest in the transaction, was proved to have no existence whatever, save in the political spleen of his traducers, and the whole transaction, was proved to have no existence whatever, save in the political spleen of his traducers, and the whole transaction was found to have been honestly intended to promote the public interest. A vast majority in the House voted for this finding, the acquittal of the Premier in this matter being sustained not only by his straight party friends, but by all members making the least genuine pretensions to independence or fair play.

Much store was set by this slander. So confident, or at least so hopeful were opposition critics that it would bring home their wild charge of corruption against the Government that they are even yet exceedingly loth to relinquish it. Still among the more bigoted Tory journals, when the changes are rung upon the imaginary sins of the Ministry, the clangour of steel rails may always be detected in the deafening medley. We venture to predict that this may be fairly taken as a specimen slander, and that the scandalous charges with which loud Tory talkers are filling the air, will be found to be equally false when brought by ex-to be rebuilt or where such service may be held pro tempore, and on condition that he will endeavour to work harmoniously with the Churchwardens and congregation,—and that the obnoxious articles in St. Thomas' Church where the congregation now worship, and St. Paul's Church, be forthwith removed.

 Yeas 81 : nays none. Carried unanimously.—Intelligencer.

Upwards of six hundred persons have professed conversion during the nine weeks' revival in the Methodist Church, which still continues.

BELLEVEILLE, April 24.—The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club met last night, and elected the following officers:—Commodore, Thomas Kelso; Vice-Commodore, R. M. Roy; Captain, W. H. Campbell; Secretary, R. S. Bell; Treasurer, A. M. Foster; Measurer, S. T. Greene, and an Executive Committee of nine members, of which Mr. J. J. Sellett is Chairman. The club promises to be highly successful this season.

KINGSTON.

Mr. Offord's yacht Emma was lunched Monday morning at McCorkell's boat yard. During the past winter she has been completely overhauled and her model considerably changed. Her bow has been made sharper and her stern has been lengthened 16 inches on the same lines, so that she will be a good deal faster. At three o'clock this afternoon the yacht Zitella was launched at Cunningham's boat yard. During the winter she also has been fixed, her stern having been raised and lengthened.

CANADIAN.

A notorious Ottawa character named Mary Walsh, escaped from the jail yard here by means of a scaffolding of benches placed against the wall, in the absence of the guardian, and a rope made of bed quilts torn in strips. Several other female prisoners were in the plot, but it was discovered before they could follow their leader.

A body of immigrants, numbering nearly 100 souls, arrived in Montreal from England. There were 77 adults, fine hardy-looking men, and blooming, comely women and girls. Mr. Daley, the agent, provided a good breakfast, and saw them off for the West.

Mrs. Kidd, of Aylmer, was putting coal oil on the fire from a five-gallon can, which exploded, setting the house on fire, also the clothing of Mrs. Kidd, and another woman by the name of Helliker, severely, if not fatally, burning both of them. The house was consumed; loss not known.

FOREIGN.

An insurrection has occurred in China, the army of Si-Hung-Clang, 3,000 troops becoming desperate by deprivation of their pay and rations, mutinied, murdered their officers, and scattered throughout Chihli and Shantung. There is a distressing famine in these provinces. Thousands are dying daily.

The Chinese Government has issued an edict granting toleration to native Christians.

The French Cabinet has resolved that Minister Martel shall address an official letter to all the bishops, pointing out the dangers and complications which might arise from the political manifestations of the clergy.

It is now suspected that the Pope is afflicted with heart disease.

MADRID, April 22.—Amnesty is proclaimed to soldiers and officers who participated in the Carlist or Cantonalist insurrections if they surrender within thirty days.

The quarrel with the King of Dahomey has been settled. Great Britain remits a large part of the fine of 500 puncheons of palm oil.

SPORTING NEWS.

with his benefactor. It is well ascertained that he is liable to turn upon his master at any moment, and those who have visited houses where the Spitz has been admitted as a pet probably entertain a lively impression of his pronounced hostility to strangers. It is stated that death almost invariably results from the bite of the dog, whether rabid or not.

A MINISTER KILLS HIS WIFE TO MARRY A RICH GIRL.

Rev. S. H. McGee, of the Ashton (Ill.) Christian Church, is in jail, charged with killing his wife to marry the daughter of one of his rich parishioners. The girl is 20, pretty, and was engaged when McGee began to pay her special attentions and he had been in the place but a few months when he was caught kissing the girl at a camp-meeting. His wife, who had borne him two children, was much loved by the people. Latterly, she had been having mysterious attacks of illness, and a week or so ago died in spasms, one of her last acts being to throw her arms about her husband's neck and saying, "How can I leave you?" An examination reveals much strychnine in her stomach, and it is proved that the parson bought the poison of a neighboring druggist and substituted it for the powers left by the physician. He at various times before the examination said poison might be found in the stomach; was very anxious to bury his wife immediately after her death, and was once heard saying to himself, "I wish I had not done it." McGee is a dandified man of 36, and his attentions to the girl had broken up her previous marriage engagement, his intention was to marry her and secure the large dowry the father was to give her. One of the peculiarities of the case is that the girl's father sides with the parson and will pay the expenses of his trial.

NOVEL WEDDING SCENE.

A strange incident recently occurred at Stoke church Devonport. The Rev. J. Hector de Courcelles, the curate, was officiating at a wedding, and when asked for, the ring was missing. The bridegroom declared that the bride had it; the bride said to the contrary. The service was stopped; both turned out their pockets, and meanwhile the bridegroom rated the bride somewhat soundly for alleged carelessness, whilst the bride persisted that she had given the ring previously to the bridegroom, and that he must have lost it. Mr. de Courcelles had no ring on not did anyone in the church, and bride and bridegroom departed to the porch the one grumbling and other scolding to look for the missing link. At length it struck the clerk that a small ring attached to his watch-guard, on which hung a locket, might be detached and lent for the occasion. It was very small but it just went on the orthodox finger, and the clergyman therefore returned to the altar and the two were made man and wife. Directly they were married, however, the railing and quarrelling commenced again and continued until the ring was found in the bowl of a pipe that was in the man's pocket.

SUTTEE IN INDIA.

WIFE-BURNING.

The news of the suttie performed by three Ranees, wives of the late Sir Jung Bahadur, comes with something of a shock to people who thought that suttie was extinct. A native paper gives the following account of the ceremony:—The 25th of February being Holec day he went to bathe at Bagonuttee; he entered the river before sunrise for that purpose in the highest spirits, and after performing his ablutions he sat on the bank to perform pooja. Soon after he was noticed to be motionless. On his followers approaching him they found that life was extinct. An express was sent to the capital, and orders arrived to postpone the funeral rites to March 1. The three principal Ranees, his brother, and son, arrived, and the Ranees expressed their desire to States. Housekeepers here complain when they have to pay $1 per bag containing a bushel and a half. The demand is so great now that it is feared that habitués will leave themselves short seed. It is amusing to see them crowd around the stations along the Montreal and Ottawa line to deliver their loads a get paid, being in a hurry to return the spring work. Some of them convert barrels of maple syrup also in the hope of procuring purchasers, as the sap is plentiful this year that many have enough vessels to contain it.—Montreal Witness.

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.

A romance in real life is told by McCure Conway in his last letter from England to the Cincinnati Commercial. A young sportsman, a gentleman of education and good connections, but without fortune, was out shooting, when a stray shot entered one of his eyes, destroyed the sight. He was taken to his lodgings in London, where he lay suffering. But a wealthy and handsome young widow, on whose estate he happened to be shooting when the accident occurred, took up her abode in the same household to nurse him. Her care was extended through several weeks, but, alas! the other eye sympathized with that which had been put out, and it, too, was extinguished, leaving the youth and scholar hopelessly and totally blind. But the pretty widow was equal to the occasion. She proposed to him—marriage. The result was a splendid company alighted the door of a fashionable church in the neighborhood; a beautiful dame of 30, attended by her two little children, leading a blind youth of 23 to altar.

THE LIFEBOAT.

At the 53rd annual meeting of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution recently at London, it was announced that besides the two lifeboats to be established with the munificent gift of £40,000 recently voted to the Institution by the English Freemasons, twelve new lifeboats had been placed on the coasts of the United Kingdom during the past few months, thus raising the number to 21. The fleet saved during the year 515 persons and rescued 19 vessels from destruction. The number of lives saved from the first establishment of the institution the end of the year 1876, either by lifeboats or by special exertions for which it has granted rewards, is 24,389. For those services the institution voted gold and 878 silver medals, besides pecuniary rewards, to the amount of £4,000. The total amount of the donations, subscriptions, and dividends received during the year 1875 amounted to £2,801; the expenditure, including liabilities was £96,193.

MOODY IN BOSTON.

Mr. Moody's noon meeting in Boston has been subdivided into a number of noon meetings, some of them held in churches and others in halls and store rooms. The business men's noonday semblances have all been spontaneous. One is held in a "slipper factory" High-street, the worshippers sitting on boxes and benches; another over a market, which is attended by market-men in their working attire; another meeting represents the "dry goods and cloth trades," and gathers four or five hundred persons. A furniture-men's prayer meeting has been organized. A women's meeting is also held daily in Dr. W. Row's church. Breakfasts for the poor with singing and prayer, have become common. Ninety churches co-operate the house to house visitation. Each district is organized under the direction of a superintendent; the number of visitors reported to be two thousand. As to the total result, there can be no question. The churches add continually to their numbers; the intemperance and vice are rechecked, and it is to be hoped, some extent are reclaimed. The Rev. Phillips Brooks is an active co-operator with Mr. Moody. Mr. Cook's lectures at the Tremont Temple continue to attract

Being a railway transaction—Pacific Railway at that, it is regarded as a particularly suitable set off to that Tory cap-sheaf of political immorality, the bartering of a public contract for money with which to buy a renewal of the lease of power. The cases, however, are far from parallel. Both transactions have been made the subject of Parliamentary investigation, and in each case in a House elected under the direct auspices of the accused ministry. The upshot of that inquiry in the case of Sir John was the subject of world wide notoriety, and is the darkest blot on the recent pages of Canadian history. The independent press of Canada, journalistic critics of Great Britain and America animadverted in the strongest terms upon it as being perfectly indefensible, and the prime mover in the plot was by almost universal consent cast aside as too far gone in political depravity to be fit for the trusts of Government. Has it been so with the present Prime Minister? The charge was only a factious one in the first place. The Hon. Mr. Mackenzie was in this matter tried by a jury of his peers in Parliament and acquitted of the least taint of corrupt intent. The nepotism which was the principal sting in the charge, that is, that the Premier's brother, Mr. Charles Mackenzie, had any pecuniary interest in the transaction, was proved to have no existence whatever, save in the political spleen of his traducers, and the whole transaction, was proved to have no existence whatever, save in the political spleen of his traducers, and the whole transaction was found to have been honestly intended to promote the public interest. A vast majority in the House voted for this finding, the acquittal of the Premier in this matter being sustained not only by his straight party friends, but by all members making the least genuine pretensions to independence or fair play.

Much store was set by this slander. So confident, or at least so hopeful were opposition critics that it would bring home their wild charge of corruption against the Government that they are even yet exceedingly loth to relinquish it. Still among the more bigoted Tory journals, when the charges are rung upon the imaginary sins of the Ministry, the clangour of steel rails may always be detected in the deafening medley. We venture to predict that this may be fairly taken as a specimen slander, and that the scandalous charges with which loud Tory talkers are filling the air, will be found to be equally false when brought by examination to the touch stone of truth. For example, there was the dotting charge of premature superannuation, which served the momentary purposes of grievance, till Hon. Mr. Cartwright exploded it by adducing the fact that there were now in the public service more than two hundred persons over 70 years of age, many of whom should be superannuated, and would have been but for the desire of the Government, not at present to increase the charge on the Superannuation fund. A great many "jobs" are charged against the Government, but as far as we can gather the facts from impartial sources the charges themselves are put up "jobs," made of whole cloth or distorted and exaggerated to answer the designs of party malignity. Considerable party thunder has been expended on the Goderich harbor transaction. On this question we have no reason to be afraid to speak our minds in the plainest terms. Other things being equal, of course public work should be awarded to the lowest tender. But things are not always equal. Men are not equally reliable, efficient or responsible. On these points we cannot possibly judge between the men who tendered for the work. With all necessary information in their possession Ministers have a decided advantage over journalists in such a matter. For ourselves, we have confidence that the honor of the Government has not been compromised in this matter. If the Opposition in parliament share the suspicions with which the Opposition press is reeking, then let them ask for a parliamentary raised and lengthened.

CANADIAN.

A notorious Ottawa character named Mary Walsh, escaped from the jail yard here by means of a scaffolding of benches placed against the wall, in the absence of the guardian, and a rope made of bed quilts torn in strips. Several other female prisoners were in the plot, but it was discovered before they could follow their leader.

A body of immigrants, numbering nearly 100 souls, arrived in Montreal from England. There were 77 adults, fine hardy-looking men, and blooming, comely women and girls. Mr. Daley, the agent, provided a good breakfast, and saw them off for the West.

Mrs. Kidd, of Aylmer, was putting coal oil on the fire from a five-gallon can, which exploded, setting the house on fire, also the clothing of Mrs. Kidd, and another woman by the name of Helliher, severely, if not fatally, burning both of them. The house was consumed; loss not known.

FOREIGN.

An insurrection has occurred in China, the army of Si-Hung-Ciang, 3,000 troops becoming desperate by deprivation of their pay and rations, mutinied, murdered their officers, and scattered throughout Chihli and Shantung. There is a distressing famine in these provinces. Thousands are dying daily.

The Chinese Government has issued an edict granting toleration to native Christians.

The French Cabinet has resolved that Minister Martel shall address an official letter to all the bishops, pointing out the dangers and complications which might arise from the political manifestations of the clergy.

It is now suspected that the Pope is afflicted with heart disease.

MADRID, April 22.—Amnesty is proclaimed to soldiers and officers who participated in the Carlist or Cantonalist insurrections if they surrender within thirty days.

The quarrel with the King of Dahomey has been settled. Great Britain remits a large part of the fine of 500 puncheons of palm oil.

SPORTING NEWS.

THE COUNTESS OF DUFFERIN.—Captain Cuthbert, the sailing master of the Countess of Dufferin, arrived in New York a few days ago, and at once attached the yacht for wages due him as captain. The Countess of Dufferin is nominally owned by Major Gifford, V. C. of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club. She is really a stock concern (limited) with numerous stockholders, and Capt. Cuthbert is one of the largest stockholders. The yacht lies at Staten Island, dismantled, with a marshal on board. If Capt. Cuthbert gets control of her, certain alterations will be made that will the captain says, increase her speed. Her stem will be altered, the heavy overhang cut down, rudder carried further aft, top hamper lightened over 1,000 pounds, and masts shifted. Then the captain will challenge for the Queen's cup again.—New York Sun April 17.

The race between boat crews of the United States steamer "Gettysburg" and the English gunboat "Coeatrice," at Constantinople, was won by the Americans.

ANNEXATION

AN AMERICAN VIEW.

"There are several quite formidable objections to the annexation of the British provinces to the United States, and the first is found in the opposition of the people themselves. It is perhaps, not too much to say that the majority of the people of these provinces are the most loyal subjects of the British crown, and attentions to the girl had broken up her previous marriage engagement, his intention was to marry her and secure the large dowry the father was to give her. One of the peculiarities of the case is that the girl's father sides with the parson and will pay the expenses of his trial.

NOVEL WEDDING SCENE.

A strange incident recently occurred at Stoke Newchurch, Devonport. The Rev. J. Hector de Courcelles, the curate, was officiating at a wedding, and when asked for the ring was missing. The bridegroom declared that the bride had it; the bride said to the contrary. The service was stopped; both turned out their pockets, and meanwhile the bridegroom rated the bride somewhat soundly for alleged carelessness, whilst the bride persisted that she had given the ring previously to the bridegroom, and that he must have lost it. Mr. de Courcelles had no ring on not did anyone in the church, and bride and bridegroom departed to the porch—the one grumbling and other scolding to look for the missing link. At length it struck the clerk that a small ring attached to his watch-guard, on which hung a locket, might be detached and lent for the occasion. It was very small but it just went on the orthodox finger, and the clergyman therefore returned to the altar and the two were made man and wife. Directly they were married, however, the railing and quarrelling commenced again and continued until the ring was found in the bowl of a pipe that was in the man's pocket.

SUTTEE IN INDIA.

WIFE-BURNING.

The news of the suttee performed by three Ranees, wives of the late Sir Jung Bahadoor, comes with something of a shock to people who thought that suttee was extinct. A native paper gives the following account of the ceremony:—The 25th of February being Holi day he went to bathe at Bagonuttee; he entered the river before sunrise for that purpose in the highest spirits, and after performing his ablutions he sat on the bank to perform poojah. Soon after he was noticed to be motionless. On his followers approaching him they found that life was extinct. An express was sent to the capital, and orders arrived to postpone the funeral rites to March 1. The three principal Ranees, his brother, and son, arrived, and the Ranees expressed their desire to sacrifice themselves. The brother tried to dissuade them, but he failed, and the funeral pyre was prepared with sandalwood, resin, and a large quantity of ghee. When the arrangements had been made the ladies bathed, performed poojah, and made presents to the Brahmins. The next step was they took measures for the government of the country and to maintain peace; then general directions were given to the brother-in-law. Their last act was to relieve some prisoners. They then entered the funeral pyre quite unconcernedly, muttering prayers. The corpse was then laid on its back, and the eldest Ranee took its head in her lap, and the two others took the feet. They were then surrounded by odorous combustibles, and the Ranees gazed upon the features of their husband, as if forgetful of every other consideration. The fire was then applied by his son, and all was over in a few minutes.

The Daily Telegraph says:—The death of Sir Jung Bahadoor, it has been said, will lead to a crisis in Nepal. Any "crisis" in the independent State on the frontier of British possessions offers an opportunity of approaching the subject of suttee. This story of the sacrifice of the windows of Sir Jung Bahadoor has the air of a revival of a practice which was falling into disuse. English influence in Nepal is surely strong enough to destroy all lingering attachment to one of the most wicked rites that human fanaticism has ever devised. It may be hoped that this striking instance will prove the last, or nearly the last, in Nepal.

neighborhood; a beautiful dame of 90 attended by her two little children, leading a blind youth of 23 to altar.

THE LIFEBOAT.

At the 53rd annual meeting of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution held recently at London, it was announced that besides the two lifeboats to be established with the munificent gift of £400 recently voted to the Institution by the English Freemasons, twelve new lifeboats had been placed on the coasts of the United Kingdom during the past twelve months, thus raising the number to 250. The fleet saved during the year 515 persons and rescued 19 vessels from destruction. The number of lives saved from the first establishment of the institution to the end of the year 1876, either by lifeboats or by special exertions for which it has granted rewards, is 24,389. For those services the institution voted £ gold and 878 silver medals, besides pecuniary rewards, to the amount of £5,000. The total amount of the donations, subscriptions and dividends received during the year 1875 amounted to £33,601; the expenditure, including liabilities was £36,193.

MOODY IN BOSTON.

Mr. Moody's noon meeting in Boston has been subdivided into a number of noon meetings, some of them held in churches and others in halls and store rooms. The business men's noonday assemblages have all been spontaneous. One is held in a "slipper factory" on High-street, the worshippers sitting on boxes and benches; another over a market, which is attended by market-men in their working attire; another meeting represents the "dry goods and clothing trades," and gathers four or five hundred persons. A furniture-men's prayer meeting has been organized. A woman's meeting is also held daily in Dr. Withrow's church. Breakfasts for the poor with singing and prayer, have become common. Ninety churches co-operate in the house to house visitation. Each district is organized under the direction of a superintendent; the number of visitors reported to be two thousand. As to the total result, there can be no question. The churches add continually to their numbers; the intemperate and vicious are reached, and it is to be hoped, to some extent are reclaimed. The Rev. Phillips Brooks is an active co-operator with Mr. Moody. Mr. Cook's lectures in the Tremont Temple continue to attract audiences of several thousand persons.

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY IN VIRGINIA.

The address of the Mayor of Petersburg (Virginia) and Committee of Management of the International British Celebration, which will take place in honour of Queen Victoria's Birthday, a Petersburg, on May 24th, and several days preceding and following, have issued their address, to the St. George's Societies, St. Andrew's Societies, Albion Societies, Irish Societies, Caledonian Associations and all other British Associations throughout the United States and Canada. A full programme of the proceedings of the Celebration, which will include a Banquet on Queen Victoria's Birthday, Excursions and Festivities, will be issued on May 1st, and may be obtained of the Assistant Secretary, Petersburg Va.

The Committee wind up with the following sentiments:

"We ask the members of British Societies in the United States and Canada to unite in honoring the birthday of Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, and in adding one more link to the golden chain of affection which binds together the citizen of the United States and the British people.

At all the British Celebrations, the presence of the ladies has appropriately greeted the proceedings, in honor of the first lady in Christendom. Ladies are therefore especially invited to the International Celebration."

THE POPE'S HEALTH.

In discussing his health with a recent visitor, the Pope is reported as saying:

"I am well, my son, though one cannot be an octogenarian with impunity. But I must not hide from you that in reading one of the Roman newspapers this morning I learned some alarming things about myself. I had not suspected it, but it seems that I am very sick. The doctors are uneasy. I had an awful fainting fit. The Vatican is upside-down. The Jesuits, those crafty Jesuits, who have managed so far to conceal my illness, are intriguing for the choice of my successor. If there is any truth in these reports of plots and schemes, you will see me, stout and hearty, assisting at the election of this successor myself. And to think that I never suspected! Well, this I know; the enemies of the church are dropping off every day, and I remain." "I am in the hands of God," he said to an English gentleman; "I shall bless my hour when it comes. But, my son, when I take up certain newspapers nowadays and do not find the news of my last illness and the end it always seems to me as if the editors had forgotten something." He comes of a long-lived family. His grandfather died at 98, his father at 83, and his mother at 88, his brother at 90. The foreign papers tell us also of a new policy that is forming at the Vatican. "Holy father," said a distinguished visitor one day, "will you explain your policy to me?" "Yes," he replied. "Our Father who art in heaven, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done." That is my policy, I have no other."

POTATOES.

LARGE CARGOES FOR THE STATES.

The country east, west, north and south, is being travelled by buyers from the States of Maine and Vermont in search of potatoes. The different lines of railway are bringing them towards the lines where a duty of ten per cent, has to be paid. The bags containing the potatoes bear the Imperial Arms with the words, "Customs Department" underneath. Grand Trunk carters are busily employed conveying them this morning from the Montreal and Ottawa Railway to the Grand Trunk line at Point St. Charles. The price paid by the American buyers varies from 50c to 55c per bushel delivered at the different stations along the railway lines, but it is said they enter them at a less price than this when arranging for their transfer across the lines, and that they obtain $1 per bushel in New York and other cities in the United States. Housekeepers here complain when they have to pay $1 per bag containing a bushel and a half. The demand is so great now that it is feared the habitants will leave themselves short of seed. It is amusing to see them crowd around the stations along the Montreal and Ottawa line to deliver their loads and get paid, being in a hurry to return to the spring work. Some of them convey barrels of maple syrup also in the hope of procuring purchasers, as the sap is so plentiful this year that many have not enough vessels to contain it.—Montreal Witness.

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.

A romance in real life is told by Moncure Conway in his last letter from England to the Cincinnati Commercial. A young sportsman, a gentleman of education and good connections, but without fortune, was out shooting, when a stray shot entered one of his eyes, destroying the sight. He was taken to his lodging house in London, where he lay suffering. But a wealthy and handsome young widow, on whose estate he happened to be shooting when the accident occurred, took up her abode in the same house in order to nurse him. Her care was extended through several weeks, but, alas! the other eye sympathized with that which had been put out, and it, too, was extin-

Notice! Notice!!

NOTICE.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE,

Beg leave to notify their customers and the public generally, that on and after Tuesday next, May 1st, they will give

No Credit Whatever,

To any man, woman, or child, except their wholesale customers. Our reasons for doing so are that we have a large amount of capital locked up in book accounts which we should have at our command in buying goods.

2nd.—We have lost a considerable amount every year since we have been in business by bad debts.

3rd.—We find that several customers who have owed us since last year are now going to other stores and paying cash for their goods and leaving us unpaid.

4th.—The keeping of our books and rendering accounts entails a large amount of extra labor for us at night, which is very tiresome as well as injurious to the health, and the labor has become so great that we must either give up the credit business or else employ a book-keeper at a large salary, and as our profits are too small to admit of any more expenses, we have chosen the former alternative, and we feel quite confident that it will be better for our customers as well as for ourselves, as we will be able then to pay cash for our goods and buy them a great deal cheaper on that account, and therefore we will sell them cheaper.

We hope, therefore, and it will be distinctly understood that we do not intend this only for those who have been slow in paying their accounts, nor for those who do not pay at all, but we mean it for YOU, dear reader, and for every one who may in future visit our store, that we will not give credit to any retail customer under any pretence whatever, not even to the salesmen in the store.

Every person in our employment will be paid in cash every Saturday night, and if they want goods out of our store they must pay cash for them.

All persons who have accounts of any kind against us are requested to send in their accounts every week and get their pay, and anything that we want to purchase, either on the market or in the stores, we will pay cash for it.

All the Goods in the store will be marked down, on the first of May, to the LOWEST LIVING CASH PRICE, and all the Goods that are coming in, as well as those on hand, will be sold at Lower Prices than they have ever been offered before in Napanee.

We would, therefore, respectfully request customers to not purchase any goods, nor to leave their measure for clothing,

THE SPITZ DOG.

HYDROPHOBIA.

A good deal of alarm has been caused New York by several cases of hydrophobia, alleged to have been caused by a bite of the Spitz dog, which is a favorite with ladies. According to the N. Y. Herald this animal comes from the forests of Pomerania, where he exists in a semi-savage state, and where he is in constant contact with the still more savage wolf. Though domesticated, the savage instincts of the brute remain, and unlike her canines which have long dwelt with man, the Spitz seems incapable of forming a lasting friendship with his benefactor. It is well ascertained that he is liable to turn upon his master at any moment, and those who have visited houses where the Spitz has been admitted as a pet probably entertain a lively impression of his pronounced hostility to strangers. It is stated that at almost invariably results from the bite of the dog, whether rabid or not.

MINISTER KILLS HIS WIFE TO MARRY A RICH GIRL.

Rev. S. H. McGee, of the Ashton (Ill.) Christian Church, is in jail, charged with killing his wife to marry the daughter of one of his rich parishioners. The girl is 20, pretty, and was engaged when McGee began to pay her special attentions. He had been in the place but a few months when he was caught kissing the girl at a camp-meeting. His wife, who had borne him two children, was much loved by the people. Latterly, she had been having mysterious attacks of illness, and a week or so ago died in spasms, one of her last acts being to throw her arms about her husband's neck and saying, "How can I leave you?" An examination reveals much strychnine in her stomach, and it is proved that the parson bought the poison of a neighboring druggist and substituted it for the powder left by the physician. He at various times admitted as a pet probably entertain-ly impression of his pronounced lity to strangers. It is stated that a almost invariably results from the of the dog, whether rabid or not.

MINISTER KILLS HIS WIFE TO MARRY A RICH GIRL.

v. S. H. McGee, of the Ashton (Ill.) stian Church, is in jail, charged killing his wife to marry the daugh- of one of his rich parishioners. The s 20, pretty, and was engaged when ce began to pay her special attentions he had been in the place but a few his when he was caught kissing the t a camp-meeting. His wife, who borne him two children, was much l by the people. Latterly, she had having mysterious attacks of illness, a week or so ago died in spasms, one r last acts being to throw her arms t her husband's neck and saying, w can I leave you?" An examina- reveals much strychnine in her ach, and it is proved that the parson ht the poison of a neighboring drug- and substituted it for the powers left e physician. He at various times e the examination said poison might und in the stomach; was very anxi- o bury his wife immediately after leath, and was once heard saying: to self, "I wish I had not done it." ee is a dandified man of 36, and his tions to the girl had broken up her ious marriage engagement, his inten- y to marry her and secure the large y the father was to give her. One e peculiarities of the case is that the father sides with the parson and pay the expenses of his trial.

NOVEL WEDDING SCENE.

strange incident recently occurred at e church Devonport, The Rev. J. or de Courcelles, the curate, was ating at a wedding, and when asked the ring was missing. The bride- n declared that the bride had it; ride said to the contrary. The ser- was stopped; both turned out their ets, and meanwhile the bridegroom t the bride somewhat soundly for ed carelessness, whilst the bride per- d that she had given the ring pre- sly to the bridegroom, and that he t have lost it. Mr. de Courcelles noring on nor did anyone in the eh, and bride and bridegroom depart- e the porch the one grumbling and rscolding to look for the missing . At length it struck the clerk that all ring attached to his watch-guard, hich hung a locket, might be detach- nd lent for the occasion. It was small but it just went on the orth- finger, and the clergyman therefore ed to the altar and the two were e man and wife. Directly they were ed, however, the railing and quar- commenced again and continued l the ring was found in the bowl of a that was in the man's pocket.

SUTTEE IN INDIA.

WIFE-BURNING.

ic news of the suttee performed by e Ranees, wives of the late Sir Jung door, comes with something of a k to people who thought that suttee extinct. A native paper gives the wing account of the ceremony:—The of February being Hallee day he went the at Bagomuttee; he entered the before sunrise for that purpose in highest spirits, and after performing blutions he sat on the bank to per- poojah. Soon after he was noticed motionless. On his followers ap- ing him they found that life was ex- . An express was sent to the capital, orders arrived to postpone the funeral to March 1. The three principal es, his brother, and son, arrived, he Ranees expressed their desire to ice themselves. The brother tried suade them, but he failed, and the al pyre was prepared with sandal- , resin, and a large quantity of admittants will leave themselves short of seed. It is amusing to see them crowd around the stations along the Montreal and Ottawa line to deliver their loads and get paid, being in a hurry to return to the spring work. Some of them convey barrels of maple syrup also in the hope of procuring purchasers, as the sap is so plentiful this year that many have not enough vessels to contain it.—Montreal Witness.

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.

A romance in real life is told by Mon- cure Conway in his last letter from Eng- land to the Cincinnati Commercial. A young sportsman, a gentleman of edu- cation and good connections, but without fortune, was out shooting, when a stray shot entered one of his eyes, destroying the sight. He was taken to his lodging house in London, where he lay suffering. But a wealthy and handsome young widow, on whose estate he happened to be shooting when the accident occurred, took up her abode in the same house in order to nurse him. Her care was extend- ed through several weeks, but, alas! the other eye sympathized with that which had been put out, and it, too, was extin- guished, leaving the youth and scholar hopelessly and totally blind. But the pretty widow was equal to the occasion. She proposed to him—marriage. The result was a splendid company alighted at the door of a fashionable church in the neighborhood; a beautiful dame of 30, attended by her two little children, lead- ing a blind youth of 23 to altar.

THE LIFEBOAT.

At the 53rd annual meeting of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution held recently at London, it was announce! that besides the two lifeboats to be estab- lished with the munificent gift of £4,000 recently voted to the Institution by the English Freemasons, twelve new life- boats had been placed on the coasts of the United Kingdom during the past twelve months, thus raising the number to 256. The fleet saved during the year 515 per- sons and rescued 19 vessels from destruc- tion. The number of lives saved from the first establishment of the institution to the end of the year 1876, either by its lifeboats or by special exertions for which it has granted rewards, is 24,389. For those services the institution voted 92 gold and 878 silver medals, besides pecuniary rewards, to the amount of £51, 000. The total amount of the donations, subscriptions and dividends received during the year 1875 amounted to £33, 801; the expenditure, including liabilities, was £36,193.

MOODY IN BOSTON.

Mr. Moody's noon meeting in Boston has been subdivided into a number of noon meetings, some of them held in churches and others in halls and store- rooms. The business men's noonday as- semblages have all been spontaneous. One is held in a "slipper factory" on High-street, the worshippers sitting on boxes and benches; another over a mar- ket, which is attended by market-men in their working attire; another meeting represents the "dry goods and clothing trades," and gathers four or five hundred persons. A furniture-men's prayer meet- ing has been organized. A woman's meeting is also held daily in Dr. With- row's church. Breakfasts for the poor, with singing and prayer, have become common. Ninety churches co-operate in the house to house visitation. Each dis- trict is organized under the direction of a superintendent; the number of visitors is reported to be two thousand. As to the total result, there can be no question. The churches add continually to their numbers; the intemperate and vicious are reached, and, it is to be hoped, to some extent are reclaimed. The Rev. Phillips Brooks is an active co-operator with Mr. Moody. Mr. Cook's lectures in the Tremont Temple continue to attract audiences of several thousand persons.

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY IN VIR- GINIA.

not even to the salesmen in the store.

Every person in our employment will be paid in cash every Saturday night, and if they want goods out of our store they must pay cash for them.

All persons who have accounts of any kind against us are requested to send in their accounts every week and get their pay, and anything that we want to purchase, either on the market or in the stores, we will pay cash for it.

All the Goods in the store will be marked down, on the first of May, to the LOWEST LIVING CASH PRICE, and all the Goods that are coming in, as well as those on hand, will be sold at Lower Prices than they have ever been offered before in Napanee..

We would, therefore, respectfully request customers to not purchase any goods, nor to leave their measure for clothing, unless they are prepared to pay cash for them before the goods are delivered.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE

Napanee, April, 27th, 1877.

No-1

SPECIALTIES.

DOWNNEY & SPENCE

EXCELLENT VALUE IN BLACK LUSTRES,
from 15c. per yard upwards.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN GREY AND BROWN LUSTRES,
from 12½c. per yard upwards.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN GREY COTTON,
at 8c. and 10c. per yard—36 inches wide.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN PRINTS,
7½c., 9c. and 10c. per yard.

SPLENDID LINE OF KID GLOVES,
50c. per pair, warranted perfect.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN TWEEDS,
at 75c. per yard.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN TWEEDS,
at $1.00 per yards.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN COATINGS,
at $2.00 per yard and upwards.

peculiarities of the case is that the other sides with the parson and by the expenses of his trial.

NOVEL WEDDING SCENE.

A range incident recently occurred at church Devonport. The Rev. J. de Courcelles, the curate, was sitting at a wedding, and when asked the ring was missing. The bride declared that the bride had it; the bride said to the contrary. The service stopped; both turned out their heads, and meanwhile the bridegroom the bride somewhat soundly for carelessness, whilst the bride perceived that she had given the ring prey to the bridegroom, and that he had lost it. Mr. de Courcelles being on not did anyone in the church, and bride and bridegroom departed the porch the one grumbling and scolding to look for the missing ring. At length it struck the clerk that the ring attached to his watch-guard, which hung a locket, might be detached for the occasion. It was small but it just went on the other finger, and the clergyman therefore led to the altar and the two were man and wife. Directly they were seated, however, the railing and quarrelling commenced again and continued the ring was found in the bowl of a hat was in the man's pocket.

SUTTEE IN INDIA.

news of the suttee performed by Ranees, wives of the late Sir Jung Bahadur, comes with something of a shock to people who thought that suttee extinct. A native paper gives the following account of the ceremony:—The 1st February being Holi day he went to Bagmati; he entered the house before sunrise for that purpose in ghostly spirits, and after performing his duties he sat on the bank to perjure himself. Soon after he was noticed notwithstanding. On his followers asking him they found that life was extinct. An express was sent to the capital, and the funeral was postponed to the 1st of March. The three principal Ranees, his brother, and son, arrived, and the Ranees expressed their desire to die themselves. The brother tried to dissuade them, but he failed, and the funeral pyre was prepared with sandal-wood, and a large quantity of wood. When the arrangements had been made the ladies bathed, performed pooda, and made presents to the Brahmins. The next step was they took measures for the ornament of the country and to insure peace; then general directions were given to the brother-in-law. Their object was to relieve some prisoners. When entered the funeral pyre quite calmly, uttering prayers. The Ranees were then laid on their backs, and the Ranees took its head in her lap, and two others took the feet. They were then surrounded by odoriferous incense, and the Ranees gazed upon the faces of their husband, as if forgetful of any other consideration. The fire was applied by his son, and all was over in a few minutes. Daily Telegraph says:—The death of Sir Jung Bahadur, it has been said, will lead to a crisis in Nepal. Any change in the independent State on the part of British possessions offers an opportunity of approaching the subject of the story of the sacrifice of the Ranees of Sir Jung Bahadur has the effect of a revival of a practice which was almost extinct. English influence in Nepal is surely strong enough to demolish lingering attachment to one of the most wicked rites that human fanaticism has ever devised. It may be hoped that this striking instance will prove to be, or nearly the last, in Nepal.

THE LIFEBOAT.

At the 53rd annual meeting of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution held recently at London, it was announced that besides the two lifeboats to be established with the munificent gift of £4,000 recently voted to the Institution by the English Freemasons, twelve new lifeboats had been placed on the coasts of the United Kingdom during the past twelve months, thus raising the number to 256. The fleet saved during the year 515 persons and rescued 19 vessels from destruction. The number of lives saved from the first establishment of the institution to the end of the year 1876, either by its lifeboats or by special exertions for which it has granted rewards, is 24,389. For those services the institution voted 92 gold and 878 silver medals, besides pecuniary rewards, to the amount of £51,000. The total amount of the donations, subscriptions and dividends received during the year 1875 amounted to £33,801; the expenditure, including liabilities, was £36,193.

MOODY IN BOSTON.

Mr. Moody's noon meeting in Boston has been subdivided into a number of noon meetings, some of them held in churches and others in halls and store-rooms. The business men's noonday assemblies have all been spontaneous. One is held in a "slipper factory" on High-street, the worshippers sitting on boxes and benches; another over a market, which is attended by market-men in their working attire; another meeting represents the "dry goods and clothing trades," and gathers four or five hundred persons. A furniture-men's prayer meeting has been organized. A woman's meeting is also held daily in Dr. Withrow's church. Breakfasts for the poor, with singing and prayer, have become common. Ninety churches co-operate in the house to house visitation. Each district is organized under the direction of a superintendent; the number of visitors is reported to be two thousand. As to the total result, there can be no question. The churches add continually to their numbers; the intemperate and vicious are reached, and, it is to be hoped, to some extent are reclaimed. The Rev. Phillips Brooks is an active co-operator with Mr. Moody. Mr. Cook's lectures in the Tremont Temple continue to attract audiences of several thousand persons.

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY IN VIRGINIA.

The address of the Mayor of Petersburg (Virginia) and Committee of Management of the International British Celebration, which will take place in honour of Queen Victoria's Birthday, at Petersburg, on May 24th, and several days preceding and following, have issued their address, to the St. George's Societies, St. Andrew's Societies, Albion Societies, Irish Societies, Caledonian Associations and all other British Associations throughout the United States and Canada. A full programme of the proceedings of the Celebration, which will include a Banquet on Queen Victoria's Birthday, Excursions and Festivities, will be issued on May 1st, and may be obtained of the Assistant Secretary, Petersburg, Va.

The Committee wind up with the following sentiments:

"We ask the members of British Societies in the United States and Canada to unite in honoring the birthday of Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, and in adding one more link to the golden chain of affection which binds together the citizens of the United States and the British people."

At all the British Celebrations, the presence of the ladies has appropriately preceded the proceedings, in honor of the first lady in Christendom. Ladies are therefore especially invited to the International Celebration."

DOWNNEY & SPENCE

EXCELLENT VALUE IN BLACK LUSTRES, from 15c. per yard upwards.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN GREY AND BROWN LUSTRES, from 12½c. per yard upwards.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN GREY COTTON, at 8c. and 10c. per yard—36 inches wide.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN PRINTS, 7½c., 9c. and 10c. per yard.

SPLENDID LINE OF KID GLOVES, 50c. per pair, warranted perfect.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN TWEEDS, at 75c. per yard.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN TWEEDS, at $1.00 per yards.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN COATINGS, at $2.00 per yard and upwards.

PATTERNS ALL GOOD.

A First-class Cutter, Mr. Jas. Blair,

ALWAYS

ON HAND TO RECEIVE ORDERS FOR CLOTHING!

Suits Made to Order at $12 and upwards.

DOWNNEY & SPENCE

otice! Notice!!

NOTICE.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE,

ave to notify their customers and the public generally, hat on and after Tuesday next, May 1st, they will give

o Credit Whatever,

y man, woman, or child, except their wholesale custo-
Our reasons for doing so are that we have a large at of capital locked up in book accounts which we should at our command in buying goods.

..—We have lost a considerable amount every year since ve been in business by bad debts.

..—We find that several customers who have owed us last year are now going to other stores and paying cash ier goods and leaving us unpaid.

..—The keeping of our books and rendering accounts enlarge amount of extra labor for us at night, which is iresome as well as injurious to the health, and the labor ecome so great that we must either give up the credit ess or else employ a book-keeper at a large salary, and r profits are too small to admit of any more expenses, ve chosen the former alternative, and we feel quite conthat it will be better for our customers as well as for ives, as we will be able then to pay cash for our goods uy them a great deal cheaper on that account, and there-ve will sell them cheaper.

o hope, therefore, and it will be distinctly understood we do not intend this only for those who have been in paying their accounts, nor for those who do not pay
, but we mean it for YOU, dear reader, and for every ho may in future visit our store, that we will not give to any retail customer under any pretence whatever, ven to the salesmen in the store.

ery person in our employment will be paid in cash every day night, and if they want goods out of our store they pay cash for them.

persons who have accounts of any kind against us are sted to send in their accounts every week and get their and anything that we want to purchase, either on the et or in the stores, we will pay cash for it.

the Goods in the store will be marked down, on the f May, to the LOWEST LIVING CASH PRICE, and e Goods that are coming in, as well as those on hand, e sold at Lower Prices than they have ever been offered e in Napanee..

o would, therefore, respectfully request customers to not 1877 any goods...

LICENSES.

THE Board of License Commissioners for the Electoral District of Lennox, will meet on Saturday the 28th day of April inst., in the County Court Judges Chambers, at the Court House in Napanee, at 10 o'clock a. m.

A. L. MORDEN,
Sec., B. L. C.

Napanee April 17th 1877. 52-2in.

CUSTOMS' DEPARTMENT.

Ottawa, 13th April, 1877.

Authorized Discount on American Invoices
until further notice 6 per cent.
J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner.

52-2in.

List of Music Books

NOW IN STOCK, AT

HENDERSON'S BOOKSTORE,
DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

Any Book not on this list can be ordered, and be had on Short Notice.

Books mailed post free to any part of Canada, on receipt of the annexed price.

- Marr's Concertina Tutor, price 15 cts.
- Regoudi's German Concertina
Tutor, price 15 "
- " One Hundred Sacred Airs
for the Concertina 15 "
- " One Hundred Melodies for
the Concertina 15 "
- " Sacred Album for the Con-
certina 15 "
- Westrops Universal Harmonium
Tutor 15 "
- 50 Christy's Minstrel's Songs 15 "
- Adams 100 Scottish Airs for the Violin, price 20 "
- 100 Christy's Minstrel's melodies
for the Flute 20 "
- Adams 115 Dancing Tunes for
the Concertina 20 "
- " 115 Scottish Dancing tunes
for the Concertina 20 "
- Marr's Army and Navy tunes
for the Concertina 20 "
- " Selection of Dance Music
for the Concertina 20 "
- " Repository of Music for
the Concertina 20 "
- " Christy's Minstrel's tunes
for the Concertina 20 "
- " Concertina Companion 20 "
- Joussé's Musical Catechism 25 "
- Wales Songs and Ballads arranged for the Guitar 30 "
- Westrops 50 selected Polkas for
the Pianoforte 30 "
- Regoudis 200 Melodies for the Concertina 30 "
- Sedgwick's 200 Melodies for the English Concertina 30 "
- Regoudi's 20 sets of Quadrilles
for the Concertina 30 "
- 50 Christy's Minstrel's Melodies
for the Pianoforte 30 "
- 58 English and National Melo-
dies for the Pianoforte 30 "
- 46 Operatic Melodies for the Pianoforte 30 "
- 54 Scottish Melodies for the Pianoforte 30 "
- 46 Moores Irish Melodies for
the Pianoforte 30 "
- 36 Pieces of Scottish Dance
Music for the Pianoforte 30 "
- 32 Waltzes, Polkas & Schottisches for the Pianoforte 30 "

Public Attention

Is directed to the following Provisions of the Fishery and Game Laws in the Province of Ontario.

CLOSE SEASONS FOR FISH.

Whitefish cannot be caught from 1st
November to 10th November, both days
inclusive.

Salmon Trout, and Lake Trout, cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th
November, both days inclusive.

Speckled Trout, Brook or River Trout, cannot be caught from 15th September
to 1st May.

Bass, cannot be caught from 15th May
to 15th June.

Pickeral, cannot be caught from 15th April to 15th May.

Maskinonge, cannot be caught from 15th
April to 15th May.

CLOSE SEASONS FOR GAME.

Deer and Cariboo, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.

Moose, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.

Partridge, cannot be killed from 1st
January to 1st September.

Duck, cannot be killed from 1st January
to 15th August.

Woodcock, cannot be killed from 1st
January to 1st July.

Snipe, cannot be killed from 1st May to 15th August.

Quail, cannot be killed from 1st January
to 1st October.

All well-disposed persons are requested to afford the local Fishery Officers whatever information and assistance they can towards carrying out these provisions of the Fishery Laws.

Fishing without Licenses is prohibited.
Indians are forbidden to fish or shoot
illegally the same as whitemen.

Complainants will receive one-half of the fines imposed, and be paid for their cost and attendance as witnesses.

Each person guilty of violating these regulations is liable to find and costs, or in default of payment is subject to imprisonment.

No person shall, during such prohibited times, fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or have in possession any of the above-mentioned kind of Fish or Game.

In Quebec, Fishery Officers exercise
Magisterial powers under the Game
Laws.

BY ORDER.

W. F. WHITCHER,

Commissioner of Fisheries.

N. B.—Deer killed before the 1st December, cannot be legally disposed of
after the 1st of January following.
Department of Marine and Fisheries,
Fisheries Branch, Ottawa.

ALFRED KNIGHT,

Fishery Overseer,
Petworth.

44

Valuable Farm for Sale

BEING composed of west half Lot No.
17, in the 4th Concession of the Township of Richmond, containing 100 acres; 80 acres of which is cleared and in a good state of cultivation, half mile from the Village of Selby and four and a half from the Town of Napanee. Terms liberal.

For full particulars apply to Grange &
Bros., Napanee. 47-2in.

Harmond Town Print

do not intend this only for those who have been paying their accounts, nor for those who do not pay out we mean it for YOU, dear reader, and for every one may in future visit our store, that we will not give to any retail customer under any pretence whatever, not to the salesmen in the store.

any person in our employment will be paid in cash every night, and if they want goods out of our store they pay cash for them.

persons who have accounts of any kind against us are asked to send in their accounts every week and get their money for anything that we want to purchase, either on the spot or in the stores, we will pay cash for it.

The Goods in the store will be marked down, on the 1st of May, to the LOWEST LIVING CASH PRICE, and all Goods that are coming in, as well as those on hand, sold at Lower Prices than they have ever been offered in Napanee.

would, therefore, respectfully request customers to not take away any goods, nor to leave their measure for clothing, as they are prepared to pay cash for them before the goods are delivered.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE

Nap., April, 27th, 1877. No-1

(SPECIALTIES.)

OWNLEY & SPENCE

EXCELLENT VALUE IN BLACK LUSTRES,
from 15c. per yard upwards.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN GREY AND BROWN LUSTRES,
from 12½c. per yard upwards.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN GREY COTTON,
at 8c. and 10c. per yard—36 inches wide.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN PRINTS,
7½c., 9c. and 10c. per yard.

SPLENDID LINE OF KID GLOVES,
50c. per pair, warranted perfect.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN TWEEDS,
at 75c. per yard.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN TWEEDS,
at $1.00 per yards.

Selection of Dance Music for the Concertina	20 "
Repository of Music for the Concertina	20 "
Christy's Minstrel's tunes for the Concertina	20 "
Concertina Companion	20 "
Jousse's Musical Catechism	25 "
Wales Songs and Ballads arranged for the Guitar	30 "
Westrop's 50 selected Polkas for the Pianoforte	30 "
Regoudis 200 Melodies for the Concertina	30 "
Sedgwick's 200 Melodies for the English Concertina	30 "
Regoudis's 20 sets of Quadrilles for the Concertina	30 "
50 Christy's Minstrel's Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
58 English and National Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
46 Operatic Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
54 Scottish Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
46 Moore's Irish Melodies for the Pianoforte	30 "
36 Pieces of Scottish Dance Music for the Pianoforte	30 "
32 Waltzes, Polkas & Schottisches for the Pianoforte	30 "
Boasy & Cos. Violin Tutor	30 "
" " Concertina Tutor	30 "
Winnowed Hymns	30 "
Batemans 200 Sacred Melodies	30 "
Gospel Hymns and Sacred songs by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Gospel Hymns No. 2 (a new collection) by P. P. Bliss and Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Brightest and Best	35 "
Pure Gold	35 "
Royal Diadem	35 "
Accordeon with a Master	50 "
Moore's Eclectic School for the Piano	50 "
Canadian Sunday School Organ	50 "
The Standard Singer by Philip Phillips	50 "
The Singing Pilgrim by Philip Phillips	50 "
The Song Queen by H. R. Palmer	60 "
The Song King by H. R. Palmer	75 "
White's Piano with a Master	75 "
Winners New Primer for the Guitar	75 "
" New School for the Violin	75 "
The Song Echo by H. S. Perkins	75 "
Reinhardt's Instruction book for the Organ	$1.25
The Songs of Ireland by J. L. Mollov	1 25
Hullah's Method of Teaching Singing	1.65
Hautens Pianoforte School	2.00
The Welcome Guest	2.50
The Home Circle No. 1	2 50
The Home Circle No. 2	2 50
The Home Circle No. 3	2 50
Richardson's New Method for the Pianoforte reduced to	$3.25.
JOHN HENDERSON, Bookseller, Grange's Block, Napanee.

REMOVED

Mrs. Jackson
Begs to inform the public that she has removed from the premises formerly occupied by her, and will now be found in the rooms above
SYMINGTON'S FLOUR STORE,
and opposite Grange's Drug Store, where she is still prepared to do all kinds of hair-work, such as
SWITCHES,
PUFFS,
BRAIDS,

times, fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or have in possession any of the above-mentioned kind of Fish or Game.
In Quebec, Fishery Officers exercise Magisterial powers under the Game Laws.
BY ORDER.
W. F. WHITCHER,
Commissioner of Fisheries.
N. B.—Deer killed before the 1st December, cannot be legally disposed of after the 1st of January following.
Department of Marine and Fisheries, Fisheries Branch, Ottawa.
ALFRED KNIGHT,
Fishery Overseer,
Petworth.

Valuable Farm for Sale

BEING composed of west half Lot No. 17, in the 4th Concession of the Township of Richmond, containing 100 acres; 80 acres of which is cleared and in a good state of cultivation, half mile from the Village of Selby and four and a half from the Town of Napanee. Terms liberal.
For full particulars apply to Grange & Bros., Napanee. 47-2in.

Farm and Town Property FOR SALE.

A NUMBER of farms in the Counties of Northumberland and Hastings, also some very valuable city property in Belleville, and both village and farming property, in and near the village of Brighton.
Apply to
J. B. BENSON,
Napanee.
March 12th, 1877. 47-4f.

FARM FOR SALE.

FARM of 175 Acres, the most desirable property in the County of Northumberland, for Sale. Being all that portion of lot No. 34 in Concession A, of the Village and Township of Brighton, lying North of the old Kingston Road, and only quarter of a mile from the P. O. and the centre of the village. Upon the premises are good brick and wooden buildings; a large orchard of young and bearing trees; a beautiful grove of pine and hardwood timber; spring creeks, and other advantages which rendered it desirable. Also several other good Farms and Village Properties for sale.
I. O. PROCTOR.
Brighton.
47-4f.

Land PLASTER

Now grinding and ready for use.
Superior Fine Ground Land Plaster,
AT THE LOW RATE OF
$5 per Ton, or 25 cts. per Hundred.
ALL orders left at the Mill, or at the Woollen Factory, for Williams' and Lasher's Water Lime, or Quick Lime, will be promptly attended to Lime delivered when required. No Credit.
JAMES PERRY.
Napanee, March 5th, 1877. 46.

T. T. T.

SEE OUR NEW STOCK OF TEAS.

SPECIALTIES.

WNEY & SPENCE

EXCELLENT VALUE IN BLACK LUSTRES,
from 15c. per yard upwards.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN GREY AND BROWN LUSTRES,
from 12½c. per yard upwards.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN GREY COTTON,
at 8c. and 10c. per yard—36 inches wide.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN PRINTS,
7½c. 9c. and 10c. per yard.

SPLENDID LINE OF KID GLOVES,
50c. per pair, warranted perfect.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN TWEEDS,
at 75c. per yard.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN TWEEDS,
at $1.00 per yards.

EXCELLENT VALUE IN COATINGS,
at $2.00 per yard and upwards.

ATTERNS ALL GOOD.

First-class Cutter, Mr. Jas. Blair,

ALWAYS

HAND TO RECEIVE ORDERS FOR CLOTHING!

Made to Order at $12 and upwards.

DO WNEY & SPENCE

lection) by P. F. Buss and	35 "
Ira D. Sankey	35 "
Brightest and Best	35 "
Pure Gold	35 "
Royal Diadem	35 "
Accordeon with a Master	50 "
Moore's Eclectic School for the
Piano	50 "
Canadian Sunday School Organ	50 "
The Standard Singer by Philip
Phillips	50 "
The Singing Pilgrim by Philip
Phillips	50 "
The Song Queen by H. R.
Palmist	60 "
The Song King by H. R. Pamer	75 "
White's Piano with a Master	75 "
Winners New Primer for the
Guitar	75 "
" New School for the Violin	75 "
The Song Echo by H. S. Perkins	75 "
Reinhardt's Instruction book for
the Organ	$1.25
The Songs of Ireland by J. L.
Molloy	1 25
Hullah's Method of Teaching
Singing	1.65
Hautens Piano-forte School	2.00
The Welcome Guest	2.50
The Home Circle No. 1	2 50
The Home Circle No. 2	2 50
The Home Circle No. 3	2 50
Richardson's New Method for the Piano-forte reduced to $3.25.

JOHN HENDERSON,
Bookseller,
Grange's Block, Napanee.

REMOVED

Mrs. Jackson

Begs to inform the public that she has removed from the premises formerly occupied by her, and will now be found in the rooms above

SYMINGTON'S FLOUR STORE,
and opposite Grange's Drug Store, where she is still prepared to do all kinds of hair-work, such as

SWITCHES,

PUFFS,

BRAIDS,

CURLS,

SWITCHES DYED ON SHORT NOTICE.

ALL WORK DONE SATISFACTORILY.

Roots of curls being all turned one way. Instructions given in the art on reasonable terms. Highest price paid for human hair.

SWITCHES FOR SALE.

LIVERY at MILL POINT.

MR. JOHN FINLAYSON is prepared to furnish the best of rigs, either single or double.

At the Old Commercial Hotel
MAIN STREET.

Mill Point, Jan 30th, 1877. 45

LOST.

ON Saturday evening March 24th, between O'Selly and Griev's corners, a sample case of pictures, the finder will confer a favor by leaving it at the Weekly Express Office Napanee, or at H. Walrath's Griev's Corners.

J. T. CLARK Agent.
Ardan Ont.

51-46.

PORTABLE SAW MILLS
20 and 25 Horse Power.
ADDRESS
THE WATEROUS ENGINE WORKS CO.
Brantford, Ont.
* State where you saw this advertisement.

property, in and near the village of Brighton.

Apply to

J. B. BENSON,

Napanee.

March 12th, 1877.

47-4f.

FARM FOR SALE.

FARM of 175 Acres, the most desirable property in the County of Northumberland, for Sale. Being all that portion of lot No. 34 in Concession A, of the Village and Township of Brighton, lying North of the old Kingston Road, and only quarter of a mile from the P. O. and the centre of the village. Upon the premises are good brick and wooden buildings; a large orchard of young and bearing trees; a beautiful grove of pine and hardwood timber; spring creeks, and other advantages which rendered it desirable. Also several other good Farms and Village Properties for sale.

I. O. PROCTOR.

47-4f.

Brighton.

Land PLASTER

Now grinding and ready for use.

Superior Fine Ground

Land Plaster,

AT THE LOW RATE OF

$5 per Ton, or 25 cts. per Hundred.

ALL orders left at the Mill, or at the Woollen Factory, for Williams' and Lusher's Water Lime, or Quick Lime, will be promptly attended to. Lime delivered when required. No Credit.

JAMES PERRY.

Napanee, March 5th, 1877. 46.

T. T. T.

SEE OUR NEW STOCK OF TEAS,

NEW SEASON

1877,

GREAT STRENGTH AND FINE FLAVOR,

TRY THEM! BUY THEM!!

A LARGE STOCK OF CHOICE

Family Groceries,

NEW AND FRESH, JUST TO HAND.

Brisco Block, opposite Wright & Co's.

SMITH & ANDERSON.

List of New Advertisements.

Notice—Slaven and Ironside.
Specialties—Downey & Spence.
Bargains—Wright & Co.
Notice—C. L. Rodgers.
Teachers' Examination—F. Burrows.
To Rent—J. B. Benson.
For Sale—A. W. Benson.
Special Notice—Dr. Pierce.

Notice to Subscribers!

A misunderstanding with some of our subscribers, has arisen in regard to the meaning conveyed by the wording of certain circulars, sent to them by Mr. T. W. Casey, late proprietor of the EXPRESS, asking for payment of arrears of subscriptions. We wish it distinctly understood, that Mr. Casey's connection with the EXPRESS, expired on the 15th day of October, 1876, and all subscriptions due him, expired with that date. We hope that our subscribers will not infer from the said circulars, that we are, at this early date, pushing them for their subscriptions.

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, APRIL, 27th, 1877.

P. B.'s District Lodge.

The first annual meeting of the District Lodge of "Prentice Boys" for Lennox and Addington will be opened in Tamworth, on Thursday 3rd May, by Wm. D. Madden, D. M.

Notice to Fisherman.

The close season for pickerel and mascolunge extends from the 1st to the 15th of May.

Rose & Fralick have a very large and well selected stock of Boots and Shoes, Hats and caps, Clothing, Gents furnishings &c. &c. See them before purchasing as they will not be undersold.

Personal.

Our young friend Johnny Cameron, formerly a book-keeper at Boyle & Wrights, left on the 15th inst., for Chicago to seek his fortune.

The rush for Damaged Good since the fire has been great, DAVIS & BRO.

Personal.—Silver Leaf B. B. C.

The above club returns thanks to their subscribers for the present year, and hopes to retain the reputation they have won for Napanee and themselves, also, to Mr. Geddes for kindly allowing them the use of the ground they play upon. They would also be pleased to receive challenges from any club under 18 years. Address Capt. of Silver Leaf B. B. C.

Laugh and Grow Fat.

It was a real pleasure to witness such an excellent entertainment as was given in our Town Hall by Gowan's Organization on Friday last. This troupe was not heralded in advance with the usual flourish of trumpets, but simply by the appearance of Mr. Joe Chenet, the gen'l agent, who by his affable and obliging manner, at once paved the way for the cordial feeling with which the company was greeted upon its arrival. Although a drizzling rain continued throughout the day and evening, yet the programme was completed to the letter. Commencing with the street parade at 11 a. m., most excellent music was given by the company's Silver Cornet Band, which was repeated in front of the Hall, before the opening of the evening's entertainment, which consisted of fine Orchestral music—Feats of balancing, contortions and wire-walking—Droll and side-splitting Ethiopian songs and medleys—Infantile clog-dancing—Sentimental and humorous songs—Dutch comiques &c. &c. Closing with a laughable farce, and "God save the Queen." Considering the weather, the attendance was very good and every one was evidently well pleased with the excellence and variety of the Veni, Vidi, Vici.

Mr. "Dunkin"—the notorious and irrepressible, makes his first, and we suppose his politest how before a Napanee audience, on Tuesday Morning.

We are repairing up our store, and will sell the whole stock regardless of cost.

DAVIS & BRO.

Sheep Pasture in our Streets.

In anticipation of a rich harvest through the forthcoming adoption, of the Dunkin Act, a certain humorous individual, was seen on Saturday last busily engaged sowing his "wild oats" from a two-bushel basket containing a supply of choice clover seed, furnished gratuitously for the occasion. He passed up and down Main Street and over the Market Square until his stock was exhausted. If the expected grass-crop comes to maturity a harvest may be reaped through the extensive importation and sale of lawn mowers, Croquet parties in the principal streets, will be the order of the day. Majestic ganders in solemn file will parade unmolested, and the solitary milk-men will have ample time to talk soft nonsense to their female customers, while their nags quietly browse by the wayside.

Dr. Hodgins' Lecture.

Our readers will please remember the lecture this Friday evening in the Town Hall, by Dr. Hodgins, Deputy Minister subject—Educational features of the Centennial. From the Dr's well known ability we are able to promise those who attend, a real intellectual treat.—Free

We purpose selling off our whole stock, from 10 to 20 per cent, cheaper than any House in town. DAVIS & BRO.

Cat Fish.

Is the latest luxury on the market, huge waggon-loads find ready purchasers at 20 cents per bushel, and still they come. We suggest, a cat-fish social as a novelty not yet thought of, and if carried out with a few extra inducements would be sure to "draw" and prove a pleasant diversion from the usual attractions of these popular gatherings.

Teacher's Examinations.

We call the attention of these interested, to the advertisement, regarding the Annual Examination for Teachers' Certificates.

Our entire new stock of Millinery to select from. DAVIS & BRO.

"Down in a Coal Mine."

Some prospecting genius has sent a telegram to the Globe, with the astounding statement of a coal-vein discovery, about ten miles from Napanee—competent judges pronouncing it A. 1. &c. This is either a hoax or a mistake, as the late Sir Wm. Logan—a competent authority—long since announced that there was no coal in Canada.

The True Principles of Economy—Slaven & Ironside.

A thoughtless disregard of the inestimable value of money, is evident by the continual waste in the minor matters of every-day life. Every cent saved through a cash purchase, amounts in the aggregate, to a large sum annually. All persons are desirous of knowing to a certainty, where there is an excellent and varied assortment to choose from, where there are prompt and civil attendants to wait upon them, and last but not least, where they will be most liberally dealt with. Messrs. Slaven and Ironside thoroughly convinced of the many-adable evils attendant upon the credit system, have taken a new departure, and from the 1st of May will adopt a CASH basis, both for buyer and seller. The candid and convincing arguments of this popular firm speak for themselves, and even the most skeptical, will, upon reading their advertisement, be both pleased and satisfied, that this straight forward way of doing business is the best for one and all.

THE AGREEMENT.

We, the undersigned, in consideration of Samuel Jesse Potter, of the town of Napanee, having purchased the furniture of the Brisco House, and agreed to carry the same on as a temperance hotel, do hereby for ourselves, our heirs, executors, administrators or assigns, promise and agree to pay our equal proportion of any loss that may be sustained by any party or parties who may assist or furnish the said Samuel Jesse Potter the funds to purchase the said Brisco House furniture, for the purpose aforesaid. The said loss not to exceed in the whole the sum of two thousand dollars, and the said guarantee to expire within one year from this date. The loss to be paid to the party or parties who furnish the money to the said Potter.

Dated Napanee, April 24th, 1877.

(Signed),

A. L. Morden.	John Herring,
A. H. Roe,	W. S. Williams,
T. W. Casey,	Chas. La...
S. Gibson,	T. James,
W. Hanson,	R. B. Clark,
Wilder Joy,	J. W. Bristol,
A. C. Davis,	J. T. Grange,
C. R. Miller,	John Gibbard,
A. M. Fraser,	R. A. Wees,
Jas. Grange,	M. B. Mallory ($25),
Uriel Tobey,	W. A. Rose,
W. Anderson,	G. I. Smith,
G. B. Sills,	L. Asseltine,
James Shorey,	W. N. Dolier,
J. E. Richardson,	D. Jackson,
N. W. Scott,	D. N. Parks,
Ed. Green,	S. Mahood,
G. M. Elliott,	M. N. Hawley,
W. Tilley,	J. McCay,
P. Matheson,	N. German,
Alex. Henry, ($25)	C. James, ($25)
C. E. Hall,	Jas. Blakely,
W. T. Gibbard,	N. S. Bristol,
A. Fraser,	N. Empey,
Thos. Dickens,	W. J. Jackson,
James Belch,	J. A. Hawley,
Wm. Ewart,	James Burgess,
R. McAfee,	Webster & Boyes,
H. V. Fralick,	J. J. Perry,
T. Symington,	F. Burrows,
Wilson & Bro. ($20),	F. S. Richardson,
	($20),
S. T. Clements,	H. R. Spencer, $10,
C. B. Perry, ($20),	James Allen,
E. B. Stone,	M. Neville.

The Mayor announced that a dinner would be given in the Brisco House on the 16th of May, at which delegates from every state in the Union and Canada, would be present.

MILL POINT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The friends of Mr. McPherson invited that gentleman to a supper at the O'Connor House on the eve of his departure for the Capital of Canada.

The supper was served in Mr. O'Connor's, best style and was one of the best ever got up in the Point. After justice was done to the good things, the following loyal and patriotic toasts were drunk.

Dr. Newton proposed the Health of the Earl of Dufferin, which was drunk with due respect—a song—"Grass grows green," by Mr. Phillips—Mr. Bedford, the chairman proposed, the guest of the evening, coupled with Mrs. McPherson—song—"Jolly good fellows," Mr. McPherson responded in very appropriate remarks—the health of the Rathburn firm was proposed, coupled with the names of Dryden, McCulloch, and Jameson, which was responded to by these gentlemen, all regretting the loss of Mr. McPherson—song by Mr. Phillips, "English melody"—Mr. Newton proposed the health of the ladies, coupled with the names of Millener, Dismouth, and Strond, Millener and Dismouth gave a few very appropriate remarks. Strond enlarged on the dear ladies as he loved them—song—"St. Patrick's Day in the Morning," by Phillips—song, "Nora McShane," by Mr. Millener, Recitation, "Charge of of supplying those that could no well help themselves, and time them to pay for it.

Mr. EXPRESS, don't you think our leading men are a set of good fellows with their eyes open to see, and hearts open to feel for the distressed? I think they are worthy of praise! movement, some will say "it dear grain," true, all grain is present. But would it not be de the end, to let the land lie idle. are others besides Napaneeans who hated for their virtues.

Oh yes, Mr. EXPRESS, I must not by without telling you that there sugar social in the Town Hall at worth to-night. I am told the friends anticipating a great turnout for the take of "the delicious article." wish I was there, I am very fond especially the maple, without doubt dict lively times at the social, as the some lively fellows around Tamworth as a fine sweet, smacking of the by the way, toward home. There enough of that.

On the 9th, there was a child of nine months, christened (sprink the neighbourhood of Beaver Lake, Rev. J. A. Rogers.

A crowd of friends were there And to their great delight. The mother had her little dame, Dressed beautiful in white.

This much at present from—GOHEBYDD O LAN Y LL (Correspondent near the April 17th, 1877.

BEAVER LAKE.

All seems pretty lively around Lake at present. Fishermen are their nets and spears, and some are very successful, one of our prominent sports has moved to a neighborhood, and I presume the cats will rejoice over the fact. told some leading men from Tai had a jolly time, fishing near Mills on Friday night—more droll fishing, I guess.

Beaver Lake opened on the 20th the earliest for some years past, will soon throng with sailing and parties.

Our farmers are busy toiling early, to get in their seed grain, in pation of good times coming.

The grass is growing moderate! the fall grain has revived during beautiful warm weather, after the of Thursday and Friday.

GOHEBYDD O LAN Y LL

April 23rd 1877

MANITOBA.

(Correspondence of the Express)

Ice breaking up on Red River have the first rain of the season with distinct thunder. Wild duck in all directions. Blackbirds in less numbers, woods vocal with the songsters.

De Havard, U. S. surgeon For bina, has been ordered to join the expedition against "Sitting Bull," leaves for Bismark and Fort Linn start with the U. S. troops for the Lands." Two surgeons were killed Custer's expedition last summer Perley takes the place of De H. Pembina.

It is thought that this will be expedition against "Sitting Bull" "Crazy Horse" with his band rendered.

Emerson, Manitoba April 14th 18

ON ITS TRIAL.

What is on its trial? Why some say that Christianity is on its trial has been ever since the time divine author trod the earth. The tried it, the martyrs and confessors it, and our fathers and mothers

Personal.—Silver Leaf B. C.

The above club returns thanks to their subscribers for the present year, and hopes to retain the reputation they have won for Napanee and themselves, also, to Mr. Geddes for kindly allowing them the use of the ground they play upon. They would also be pleased to receive challenges from any club under 18 years. Address Capt. of Silver Leaf B. C.

Laugh and Grow Fat.

It was a real pleasure to witness such an excellent entertainment as was given in our Town Hall by Gowan's Organization on Friday last. This troupe was not heralded in advance with the usual flourish of trumpets, but simply by the appearance of Mr. Joe Chenet, the gen'l agent, who by his affable and obliging manner, at once paved the way for the cordial feeling with which the company was greeted upon its arrival. Although a drizzling rain continued throughout the day and evening, yet the programme was completed to the letter. Commencing with the street parade at 11 a. m., most excellent music was given by the company's Silver Cornet Band, which was repeated in front of the Hall, before the opening of the evening's entertainment, which consisted of fine Orchestral music—Feats of balancing, contortions and wire-walking—Droll and side-splitting Ethiopian songs and medleys—Infantile clog-dancing—Sentimental and humorous songs—Dutch comedies &c. &c. Closing with a laughable farce, and "God save the Queen." Considering the weather, the attendance was very good and every one was evidently well pleased with the excellence and variety of the programme, and the gentlemanly appearance of the performers.

If you want a stylish New Hat, cheap, go to Rose & Fralick in the Perry Block.

Go West Young Man.

So said old Horace Greeley; and his advice followed by every pushing individual who wishes to keep ahead of the times. Mr. Thomas H. Walter, finding the corner of East and Main street rather inconvenient for his rapidly increasing business, and desirous of securing a permanent location, has removed to the old Parish stand (lately occupied by Angus McLeod, which is now under his supervision, being renovated and improved from roof to cellar. His well-assorted stock of staves and tinware will be fully up to the mark as formerly, and the jobbing department will be personally attended to, with the promptness, characteristic of our hard-working friend, Thomas.

We expect all past due accounts to be settled up. DAVIS & BRO.

Navigation.—First Boat In.

The Nellie P. Downey was the first inward bound schooner on Friday last, she loaded with 4000 bushels of rye for Oswego. The steamer Shannon having arrived on Saturday from Picton, commenced her daily trips between Napanee and the Bay ports. The W. B. Grant came in on Wednesday from Mill Point, and will lie here for repairs. The Oswego Belle leaves on her first trip Monday, the 8th of May. A drive of logs belonging to Rathbun & Son, lately came over the falls and will soon be removed to Mill Point. No other signs of life around our unusually dull harbor except here and there a solitary catfish-catcher patiently angling for his noon-day meal.

Apron Bazaar.

The Ladies Aid Society, in connection with the Methodist Church, will hold an apron bazaar in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, May 1st. Doors open at 7 o'clock. Refreshments furnished. Admission 15 cents.

Effects of Lightning.

On Tuesday at 2 p. m., Mr. Hindsons barn about a mile west of Napanee was consumed by lightning. No insurance a telegraph pole on the north side of Dundas st. west of Beeman's corner was slightly shattered, also several poles be-

We call the attention of these interested, to the advertisement, regarding the Annual Examination for Teachers' Certificates.

Our entire new stock of Millinery to select from. DAVIS & BRO.

"Down in a Coal Mine."

Some prospecting genius has sent a telegram to the Globe, with the astounding statement of a coal-vein discovery, about ten miles from Napanee—competent judges pronouncing it A. 1. &c., This is either a hoax or a mistake, as the late Sir Wm. Logan—a competent authority—long since announced that there was no coal in Canada.

The True Principles of Economy—Slaves & Ironsides.

A thoughtless disregard of the inestimable value of money, is evident by the continual waste in the minor matters of every-day life. Every cent saved through a cash purchase, amounts in the aggregate, to a large sum annually. All persons are desirous of knowing to a certainty, where there is an excellent and varied assortment to choose from, where there are prompt and civil attendants to wait upon them, and last but not least, where they will be most liberally dealt with. Messrs. Slaves and Ironsides thoroughly convinced of the unavailing evils attendant upon the credit system, have taken a new departure, and from the 1st of May will adopt a CASH basis, both for buyer and seller. The candid and convincing arguments of this popular firm speak for themselves, and even the most skeptical, will, upon reading their advertisement, be both pleased and satisfied, that this straight forward way of doing business is the best for one and all.

We have still on hand a lot of last years goods, warranted not damaged, which we will sell at one half the usual price, these goods are a bargain for those buying them as they are as good as new, call and see them. ROSE & FRALICK

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held in the Council Chamber on Thursday evening, 19 inst., in consequence of the attempt to set fire to the West ward school.

The Secretary reported that two policies were in force on the West ward school for $9,000, and one on the East ward school for $3,000.

It was decided not to hold an investigation.

Moved by Mr. R. McCay, sec. by Mr. C. B. Perry, that a man be appointed to take charge of the school buildings and that he reside in the basement of the West ward school; that Messrs. Lane, Davis, and Webster be a special committee to ascertain on what terms a man can be engaged, and report at the next meeting of the Board, and said Committee may report the employment of one or more Janitors for the care of the school property. Carried.

E. M. McCay and J. M. Wagar voted the sum of $2.00 each for watching the school house on the night of the 17th, after the fire was extinguished by them.

Moved by Mr. R. McCay, sec. by Mr. Jas. Perry, that the Chairman be authorized to offer a reward of $100 to any person or persons who will give such information as may lead to the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who attempted to destroy the West ward school house by fire on the evening of the 17th day of April, 1877.—Carried.

The meeting adjourned.

TEMPERANCE MASS MEETING.

THE DUNKIN BY-LAW.

A meeting of all those favourable to the Dunkin by-law was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday night. The report of the committee on the securing of a public house for the accommodation of travellers and others was received and ratified.

Mr. Herring, Chairman of the Committee, presided. He explained that the arrangements were not fully completed,

James Allen, E. B. Stone, M. Neville.

The Mayor announced that a dinner would be given in the Brisco House on the 16th of May, at which delegates from every state in the Union and Canada, would be present.

MILL POINT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The friends of Mr. McPherson invited that gentleman to a supper at the O'Connor House on the eve of his departure for the Capital of Canada.

The supper was served in Mr. O'Connor's, best style and was one of the best ever got up in the Point. After justice was done to the good things, the following loyal and patriotic toasts were drank.

Dr. Newton proposed the Health of the Earl of Dufferin, which was drank with due respect—a song "Grass grows green," by Mr. Phillips—Mr. Bedford, the chairman proposed, the guest of the evening, coupled with Mrs. McPherson—song "Jolly good fellows," Mr. McPherson responded in very appropriate remarks—the health of the Rathbun firm was proposed, coupled with the names of Dryden, McCullough, and Jameson, which was responded to by these gentlemen, all regretting the loss of Mr. McPherson—song by Mr. Phillips, "English melody"—Mr. Newton proposed the health of the ladies, coupled with the names of Millener, Donough, and Strond, Millener and Donough gave a few very appropriate remarks. Strond enlarged on the dear ladies as he loved them—song "St. Patrick's Day in the Morning," by Phillips—song, "Norah McShane," by Mr. Millener, Recitation, "Charge of the Light Brigade," by Mr. Beaford, song, "Maggie Lander" by Mr. McRea—song, "Queer folks in the shows," by Mr. Millener—song, "Rat Terrier," Mr. Strond—song, "Robin Samsons Sunday," Millener—song, "Red White and Blue," Mr. McPherson—Recitation, "Vulgar Boys," Mr. Bedford—The health of the hosts and hostess, song, "They're Jolly Good Fellows," by the company—Mr. O'Connor, responded in a becoming manner—song, "Auld Lang Syne" by the company—Happy to meet, sorry to part, happy to meet again.

Over twenty five gentlemen were present, Mr. Bedford was chairman, and Dr. Newton, vice-chairman, speeches were made by, Dryden, Brook, Clinie, Wm. McRea, A. Jameson, Edgar McCullough and others. Mr. McPherson carries the best wishes of the village at large to his new home.

The steamer Hastings, made her first trip on Monday.

The Str. Alexandria will be ready to go on her regular trips Monday next, she is fitted up with every accommodation.

The steamer Armenia left yesterday, she is greatly improved and is to run between Picton and Belleville, daily. The popularity of her captain—a gentleman who knows how to use the public—will ensure her success.

The Big Mill is sawing more lumber than ever, everything is in full blast. The Cedar Mill, ditto, under J. McCullough.

A sailor boy named Williams got badly hurt by a falling tree but will recover under Dr. Newton.

Mr. Jas. Wilson is not expected to live, Chief Seth Powlas is very ill, no hopes of his recovery.

Three hams were stolen by a prominent citizen, but returned by the conscience-checked thief, which speaks well for the morality of the village.

FLINTON.

Flinton, April, 17th, 1877.

DEAR MR. EDITOR.—Since I last wrote, (about three weeks ago,) considerable changes have taken place. Then we had to break fresh roads on account of the large fall of snow. Now all the snow has disappeared, and we are having beautiful spring weather, so much so, that those little horney pests, the mosquitoes have begun their crusade.

paries.

Our farmers are busy toiling early late, to get in their seed grain, in a pation of good times coming.

The grass is growing moderately the fall grain has revived during beautiful warm weather, after the of Thursday and Friday.

GOHEBYDD O LAX Y LI

April 23rd 1877

MANITOBA.

(Correspondence of the Express)

Ice breaking up on Red River, have the first rain of the season to with distant thunder. Wild ducks in all directions. Blackbirds in c less numbers, woods vocal with fea songsters.

De Havard, U. S. surgeon Fort bina, has been ordered to join the expedition against "Sitting Bull," leaves for Bismark and Fort Line start with the U. S. troops for the Lands." Two surgeons were killed Custer's expedition last summer. Perley takes the place of De H. at Pembina.

It is thought that this will be th expedition against "Sitting Bull," "Crazy Horse" with his band has rendered.

Emerson, Manitoba April 14th 1877

ON ITS TRIAL.

What is on its trial? Why some p say that Christianity is on its trial has been ever since the time the divine author trod the earth. The ap tried it, the martyrs and confessors, it, and our fathers and mothers tri too; and there are millions of the that are trying it to day. As it has on trial in the past, so will it contin be on trial in the future. It could r otho wise, and for this good and suff reason, that the trial which one makes, however satisfactory to hir will not be satisfactory to others. one must make the trial for himsel is no disparagement, therefore, of t anything else to say it on trial.

We have seen some editorials rec intimating "that life insurance is no trial before the American people." out entering up on the discussion at we accept the situation. It has bee trial in this country for about t years, and the verdict of an intell and discerning public, is that life i ance, of itself, is a most excellent t Its abuses have been criticised, and t things which are not life insurance, have been mislabelled by that hono name, or fostered upon it, have be cised severely and justly. But life i ance itself has been on trial, and verdict is favorable.

We will go a step further, and f admit that life insurance is on trial. than ten thousand are trying life i ance in the Travelers this very year, more are coming. We want ten d and more able-bodied men to try it don't care how soon. We are firmly ynced that it is a good and valuable —we are quite sure about that. We our policies to young men, middle men, business men, professional and say, try one.

There is nothing the matter with insurance. Every day there are proofs of its great value. It is bene without being charitable. It confe right which is better than charity.

Life insurance does not offer to take a collection at your funeral—it guaran to pay the sum named in the cont The life companies of this country paying upwards of a million and a every month to the families of dece policy holders. It saves widows poverty and orphans from suffering is to be regarded as a protection, r than an investment. Yet in the t stitudes of business it often proves t the best investment, even in a m pecuniary point of view. It doesn't money, but it is first rate for saving i

Yes, we like to have life insurance trial, and we are glad to know tha many persons are inclined to try life insurance in the Travelers. We advice followed by every pushing individual who wishes to keep ahead of the times. Mr. Thomas H. Walter, finding the corner of East and Main street rather inconvenient for his rapidly increasing business, and desirous of securing a permanent location, has removed to the old Parish stand (lately occupied by Angus McLeod), which is now under his supervision, being renovated and improved from roof to cellar. His well-assorted stock of stoves and tinware will be fully up to the mark as formerly, and the jobbing department will be personally attended to, with the promptness, characteristic of our hard-working friend, Thomas.

We expect all past due accounts to be settled up. DAVIS & BRO.

Navigation—First Boat In.

The Nellie P. Downey was the first inward bound schooner on Friday last, she loaded with 4600 bushels of rye for Oswego. The steamer Saunton having arrived on Saturday from Picton, commenced her daily trips between Nanapanee and the Bay ports. The W. H. Grant came in on Wednesday from Mill Point, and will lie here for repairs. The Oswego Belle leaves on her first trip Monday, the 8th of May. A drive of logs belonging to Rathbun & Son, lately came over the falls and will soon be removed to Mill Point. No other signs of life around our unusually dull harbor except here and there a solitary catfish-catcher patiently angling for his noon-day meal.

Apron Bazaar.

The Ladies Aid Society, in connection with the Methodist Church, will hold an apron bazaar in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, May 1st. Doors open at 7 o'clock. Refreshments furnished. Admission 15 cents.

Effects of Lightning.

On Tuesday at 2 p. m., Mr. Hudsons barn about a mile west of Nanapanee was consumed by lightning. No insurance a telegraph pole on the north side of Dundas st. west of Beaman's corner was slightly shattered, also several poles between Nanapanee and Mill Point.

Our Millinery Show Rooms will be opened on or about, 20 to the 25th, under Mrs. Mills. DAVIS & BRO.

Robbery of the Grand Trunk.

On Thursday night of last week the G. T. R. freighted, was robbed of two bags, of sugar and tapioca. The company's detective being sent for, he with constable Storms found the missing articles in the house of John Vandewaters and also a box of tea previously stolen from the station. Vandewaters (who has been a sub-constable,) plead guilty before the Mayor, and was committed for trial.

The Literary Society's Meeting.

Twelve members and sixteen invited guests sat down to a private dinner at the Paisley House on Friday night, several songs and speeches and very appropriate toasts were given, with cold water as a beverage, forming a very enjoyable entertainment.

$20,000 worth of Damaged Goods at Discount. DAVIS & BRO.

Street Cleaning.

On Friday a gang of fifty men under the watchful eye of Jimmy Emberson were busily engaged scraping the winters accumulation from a large portion of Dundas, Centre and John streets and the Market square, it was removed on the following Monday, leaving the streets with a clean and tidy appearance.

Incendiarism.

Charles McGreer's barn on Bridge Street west of the Academy, was set on fire Wednesday night in two places, but discovered and extinguished before damage was done.

Davis & Bro., get up the best clothing in town. DAVIS & BRO.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held in the Council Chamber on Thursday evening, 19 inst., in consequence of the attempt to set fire to the West ward school.

The Secretary reported that two policies were in force on the West ward school for $9,000, and one on the East ward school for $3,000.

It was decided not to hold an investigation.

Moved by Mr. R. McCay, sec. by Mr. C. B. Perry, that a man be appointed to take charge of the school buildings and that he reside in the basement of the West ward school; that Messrs. Lane, Davis, and Webster be a special committee to ascertain on what terms a man can be engaged, and report at the next meeting of the Board, and said Committee may report the employment of one or more Janitors for the care of the school property. Carried.

E. M. McCay and J. M. Wagar were voted the sum of $2.00 each for watching the school house on the night of the 17th, after the fire was extinguished by them.

Moved by Mr. R. McCay, sec. by Mr. Jas. Perry, that the Chairman be authorized to offer a reward of $100 to any person or persons who will give such information as may lead to the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who attempted to destroy the West ward school house by fire on the evening of the 17th day of April, 1877—Carried.

The meeting adjourned.

TEMPERANCE MASS MEETING.

THE DUNKIN BY-LAW.

A meeting of all those favourable to the Dunkin by-law was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday night. The report of the committee on the securing of a public house for the accommodation of travellers and others was received and ratified.

Mr. Herring, Chairman of the Committee, presided. He explained that the arrangements were not fully completed, owing to some unforeseen events, and accommodation had not been fully assured. The Committee had purchased Mr. John S. By's entire interest, in the Brisco House for $1,000. Mr. Brisco had abandoned a large portion of his rent in order to render assistance. They had agreed to pay $1,000 and security had to be given, and every man having the success of the movement at heart should become equally responsible with his neighbor for that amount so that no loss would overtake the gentleman who was will to step forward and take the hotel.

Mayor Williams said that a bond had been prepared for signatures and he wanted the temperance men to come forward, and by signing it, agree to save Mr. Potter from loss by sharing it, if there was any, between them.

Mr. Herring said Mr. Potter would assume $1,000 and the endorsers would receive an assignment of the insurance policy and a chattel mortgage on the whole furniture, to cover the remaining $3,000.

Mr. Roe said in the bargain was included provisions and fuel to the amount of $500. There was a standing offer of $5,500 for the bargain if licenses were again granted.

Mr. Siorden said he proposed to sign the bond. (cheers). He thought the hotel-keepers had a perfect right to turn their hotels into private houses if they chose; their motive was to convince the public that the Dunkin By-law would not answer, and thereby secure its repeal. When Mr. Potter came forward and opened a house, the sympathies of the community should be with him, and they were morally bound to assist him in testing whether or not a hotel could be carried on without whiskey. (hear hear). He thought the request of the Committee not unfair, and continued a capital speech by showing that the utmost support should be given to Mr. Potter.

Boy," Mr. Bedford—The health of the hosts and hostess, song, "They're Jolly Good Fellows," by the company—Mr. O'Connor, responded in a becoming manner—song, "Auld Lang Syne" by the company—Happy to meet, sorry to part, happy to meet again."

Over twenty five gentlemen were present, Mr. Bedford was chairman, and Dr. Newton, vice-chairman, speeches were made by, Dryden, Brook, Clinie, Wm. McRae, A. Jameson, Edgar McCullough and others. Mr. McPherson carries the best wishes of the village at large to his new home.

The steamer Hastings, made her first trip on Monday.

The Str. Alexandria will be ready to go on her regular trips Monday next, she is fitted up with every accommodation.

The steamer Armenia left yesterday, she is greatly improved and is to run between Picton and Belleville, daily. The popularity of her captain—a gentleman, who knows how to use the public—will ensure her success.

The Big Mill is sawing more lumber than ever, everything is in full blast. The Cedar Mill, ditto, under J. McCullough.

A sailor boy named Williams got badly hurt by a falling tree but will recover under Dr. Newton.

Mr. Jas. Wilson is not expected to live, Chief Seth Powlas is very ill, no hopes of his recovery.

Three hams were stolen by a prominent citizen, but returned by the conscience-checked thief, which speaks well for the morality of the village.

FLINTON.

Flinton, April, 17th, 1877.

DEAR MR. EDITOR,—Since I last wrote, (about three weeks ago,) considerable changes have taken place. Then we had to break fresh roads on account of the large fall of snow. Now all the snow has disappeared, and we are having beautiful spring weather, so much so, that those little horney pests, the mosquitoes have began their crusade.

Mr. Back the enterprising Lumber Merchant, is in full swing with his men, getting his immense pile of Square Timber down the river, which by the way is no small matter, on account of the men ugly fells the timbers has to be floated over, and the river being unusually low makes the track all the more difficult. And his men too, the blood and muscle of the country, regardless of the hazards they run of being drowned, or smashed to pieces, hop about from log to log as tho' they had charmed lives, and mostly in soaping wet clothes, camp at night on the bank of the stream, after walking perhaps six miles from their work.

Then we have recently had a Wagon, a Carriage shop built, and opened by Mr. Jones, and Mr. P. York, if working till midnight is any criterion, of success they certainly have it.

We also have noticed yet another Tradesman, the latest arrival in the person of Mr. Papin, Boot and Shoe maker, whose sign of "the Boot" gives the front street quite an additional air of industry.

The Saw and Grist Mill also, under the proprietorship of Mr. D. Sedgwick, seems to be making up for lost time, and the whole of his little nest in the back woods seems alive with animation.

Yours etc., R. O. P.

TAMWORTH AND BEAVER LAKE.

(From our Special.)

A word or two now and then from this part of the world may be acceptable.

There was lively times about Tamworth on Thursday and Friday the 12th, and 13th, when the grain was delivered to the farmers of this township who had applied for it. This grain was bought by the Council of Sheffield, for the purpose will not be satisfactory to others. One must make the trial for himself is no disparagement, therefore, of anything else to say it is on trial.

We have seen some editorials recommending that life insurance is now trial before the American people. Without entering up on the discussion at we accept the situation. It has been trial in this country for about 14 years, and the verdict of an intelligent and discerning public, is that life insurance, of itself, is a most excellent thing. Its abuses have been criticised, and things which are not life insurance, have been mis-called by that honor name, or foisted upon it, have been criticised severely and justly. But life insurance itself has been on trial, and the verdict is favorable.

We will go a step further, and admit that life insurance is on trial. More than ten thousand are trying life insurance in the Travelers this very year, more are coming. We want ten thousand more able-bodied men to try it, don't care how soon. We are firmly convinced that it is a good and valuable thing—we are quite sure about that. We our policies to young men, middle-aged men, business men, professional men, and say, try one.

There is nothing the matter with insurance. Every day there are fresh proofs of its great value. It is beneficial without being charitable. It confers right which is better than charity. Life insurance does not offer to take a collection at your funeral—it guarantees to pay the sum named in the contract. The life companies of this country paying upwards of a million and a every month to the families of deceased policy holders. It saves widows from poverty and orphans from suffering, it is to be regarded as a protection, rather than an investment. Yet in the vicissitudes of business it often proves to be the best investment, even in a pecuniary point of view. It doesn't run money, but it is first rate for saving it. Yes, we like to have life insurance trial, and we are glad to know that many persons are inclined to try life insurance in the Travelers. We know that company intimately since its Life Department was organized. It is able and prudently managed. It sells life insurance pure and simple. Its contract is definite. It does a cash business. Its premiums are low. It does promise what it cannot perform. Its cash assets are over four millions, and surplus to Policy holders over one million and a half dollars after providing all its liabilities. Its security is unquestioned. It is relatively as strong as any Company in the world.

Will you try life insurance in the Travelers? Make up your mind the next time you come to town to call and Hansen in regard to this important matter.

A CLERICAL VILLAIN.

"Rev." Paul T. Valentini, the Italian who was the proprietor of the cheap lodging and eating house and school children, 48 Pearl street, and who arrested on a charge of debauching boys and girls who visited his place, placed on trial before Recorder Hack on one of seven indictments. He convicted by the jury after a deliberation of about five minutes. Recorder Hack addressing the prisoner, said that crime was the most detestable known to the law, and he was sorry that he could not sentence him to death. As it was would impose the severest penalty, years in State Prison. Valentini has a varied career. In his own country, Italy, he joined the priesthood, and detected in committing a crime similar that for which he was sentenced yesterday. He fled to this country, obtained position in Drew Theological Seminary which he retained a short time, subsequently was ordained a minister of Episcopal Church in this city, was detected, and then started the cheap lodging house.—N. Y. World.

THE AGREEMENT.

We, the undersigned, in consideration of Samuel Jesse Potter, of the town of Napanee, having purchased the furniture of the Brisco House, and agreed to carry the same on as a temperance hotel, do hereby for ourselves, our heirs, executors, administrators or assigns, promise and agree to pay our equal proportion of any loss that may be sustained by any party or parties who may assist or furnish the said Samuel Jesse Potter the funds to purchase the said Brisco House furniture, for the purpose aforesaid. The said loss not to exceed in the whole the sum of two thousand dollars, and the said guarantee to expire within one year from this date. The loss to be paid to the party or parties who furnish the money to the said Potter.

Dated Napanee, April 24th, 1877.
(Signed),

A. L. Morden, John Herring,
A. H. Roe, W. S. Williams,
T. W. Casey, Chas. Lane,
S. Gibson, T. Jameson,
W. Hanson, R. B. Clark,
Wilder Joy, J. W. Bristol,
A. C. Davis, J. T. Grange,
C. R. Miller, John Gibbard,
A. M. Fraser, R. A. Wees,
Jas. Grange, M. B. Mallory ($25),
Uriel Tobey, W. A. Rose,
W. Anderson, G. I. Smith,
G. B. Sills, L. Asseltine,
James Shorey, W. N. Dolier,
J. E. Richardson, D. Jackson,
N. W. Scott, D. N. Parks,
Ed. Green, S. Mahood,
G. M. Elliott, M. N. Hawley,
W. Tilley, J. McCay,
P. Matheson, N. German,
Alex. Henry, ($25) C. James, ($25)
C. E. Hall, Jas. Blair,
W. T. Gibbard, N. S. H. J.,
A. Fraser, N. Empey,
Thos. Dickens, W. J. Jackson,
James Blech, J. A. Hawley,
Wm. Ewart, James Burgess,
R. McAfee, Webster & Boyes,
H. V. Fralick, J. J. Perry,
T. Symington, F. Burrows,
Wilson & Bro. ($20), F. S. Richardson,
(S20),
S. T. Clements, H. R. Spencer, $10,
C. B. Perry, ($20), James Allen,
E. B. Stone, M. Neville.

The Mayor announced that a dinner would be given in the Brisco House on the 16th of May, at which delegates from every state in the Union and Canada, would be present.

MILL POINT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The friends of Mr. McPherson invited that gentleman to a supper at the O'Connor House on the eve of his departure for the Capital of Canada.

The supper was served in Mr. O'Connor's best style and was one of the best ever got up in the Point. After justice was done to the good things, the following loyal and patriotic toasts were drank.

Dr. Newton proposed the Health of the Earl of Dufferin, which was drank with due respect—a song, "Grass grows green," by Mr. Phillips—Mr. Bedford, the chairman proposed, the guest of the evening, coupled with Mrs. McPherson—song "Jolly good fellows," Mr. McPherson responded in very appropriate remarks—the health of the Rathbun firm was proposed, coupled with the names of Dryden, McCullough, and Jameson, which was responded to by these gentlemen, all regretting the loss of Mr. McPherson—song by Mr. Phillips, "English melody"—Mr. Newton proposed the health of the ladies, coupled with the names of Millener, Donough, and Strond, Millener and Donough gave a few very appropriate remarks. Strond enlarged on the dear ladies as he loved them—song "St. Patrick's Day in the Morning," by Phillips—song, "Norah McShane," by Mr. Millener. Recitation, "Charge of

of supplying those that could not very well help themselves, and time given them to pay for it.

Mr. Express, don't you think that our leading men are a set of good fellows, with their eyes open to see, and their hearts open to feel for the distressed? I think they are worthy of praise for this movement, some will say "it will be dear grain," true, all grain is dear at present. But would it not be dearer in the end, to let the land lie idle. There are others besides Napaneeans who are hated for their virtues.

O! yes, Mr. Express, I must not pass by without telling you that there is a sugar social in the Town Hall at Tamworth to-night. I am told the friends are anticipating a great turnout for to partake of 'the delicious article.' I only wish I was there, I am very fond of sugar especially the maple, without doubt I predict lively times at the social, as there are some lively fellows around Tamworth—as well as some sweet, smacking of the lips by the way, toward home. There that is enough of that.

On the 9th, there was a child of about nine months, christened (sprinkled) in the neighborhood of Beaver Lake, by the Rev. J. A. Rogers.

A crowd of friends were there
And to their great delight
The mother had her little dame,
Dressed beautiful in white.

This much at present from—
GOHEBYD O LAN Y LLYN.
(Correspondent near the Lake.)
April 17th, 1877.

BEAVER LAKE.

All seems pretty lively around the Lake at present. Fishermen are using their nets and spears, and some of them are very successful, one of our most prominent sports has moved to another neighborhood, and I presume the mud-cats will rejoice over the fact. I am told some leading men from Tamworth had a jolly time, fishing near Smith's Mills on Friday night—more drink than fishing, I guess.

Beaver Lake opened on the 20th inst., the earliest for some years past, and it will soon throng with sailing and fishing parties.

Our farmers are busy toiling early and late, to get in their seed grain, in anticipation of good times coming.

The grass is growing moderately, and the fall grain has revived during the beautiful warm weather, after the rain of Thursday and Friday.

GOHEBYD O LAN Y LLYN

April 23rd 1877

MANITOBA.

(Correspondence of the EXPRESS)

Ice breaking up on Red River. We have the first rain of the season to day, with distant thunder. Wild ducks flying in all directions. Blackbirds in countless numbers, woods vocal with feathered songsters.

De Havard, U. S. surgeon Fort Pembina, has been ordered to join the new expedition against "Sitting Bull." He leaves for Bismark and Fort Lincoln to start with the U. S. troops for the "Bad Lands." Two surgeons were killed in Custer's expedition last summer. Dr. Perley takes the place of Dr. H. at Fort Pembina.

It is thought that this will be the last expedition against "Sitting Bull," as "Crazy Horse" with his band has surrendered.

J. S.

Emerson, Manitoba April 14th 1877.

ON ITS TRIAL.

What is on its trial? Why some people say that Christianity is on its trial. It has been ever since the time that its divine author trod the earth. The apostles tried it, the martyrs and confessors tried it, and our fathers and mothers tried it.

GERMAN vs. ENGLISH BEER.

"An English brewer" writes as follows to the London Times: "As Mr. Walker has put forth the proposal that English beer be, as much as possible, assimilated to the German beer in its invigorating but non-intoxicating character, it will be interesting to point out wherein the difference of the two national beverages exists. The difference is wholly in the fermentation. If fermentation be conducted at a temperature above the normal temperature of water in a well, viz.: 52½ degrees Fahrenheit, the yeast in the process of fermentation will rise to the surface of the liquid; if it be conducted at a temperature lower than this, the yeast will be precipitated. The English fermentation is the former, being usually started at 60 degrees, more or less; the German fermentation is the latter, being started usually about 44 degrees or less. The English fermentation occupies from five to seven days, the German 14 to 21. It is obvious that, except in mid-winter, the German fermentation has to be carried on in the artificial temperature of an ice-house. On the face of it, it appears a very easy thing to reduce the English fermentation temperature to the German, but it is to be observed that the two fermentations yield beers of essentially different flavors. It would take years, perhaps generations, to educate the English popular taste to the distinctive flavor of the low temperature fermentation. It is true that the German fermentation has the strong recommendation that it yields a malt liquor of far less intoxicating power, but even there a curious anomaly is presented. Not only does the German lager beer contain as much malt as the English pale ale, but, on being tested for alcohol, it will be found to contain a greater percentage of spirit than the latter. Notwithstanding this fact, universal experience shows that, while the German beer is eminently nourishing and invigorating, it scarcely affects the brain at all. Thus the true solution of the (so called) temperance question lies in the hands of the English brewers. The work before them is not without grave difficulty, but it may be put in a nutshell thus: "How to ferment a malt liquor which shall combine the non-intoxicating character of the German lager beer with the incomparable flavor of English pale ale."

DRUNK IN THREE LANGUAGES.

A ragged, red-nosed man, with tangled hair and bleared eyes, stood in the prisoner's dock in the Jefferson Market Police Court.

"Augustus Luviois," said His Honor, "you were arrested for being intoxicated." The man looked stupidly at the Judge and remained silent.

"Don't you understand English?" asked the Court.

"Oui, certainement; yaw, meinherr; yes, sar, I understand de English and de German and de French, but I do not understand for what I was arrest."

"You are a linguist."

"It may be, sar, that I am; what you call one linguist? Is it for that I am arrest?"

"You were arrested for being drunk. What do you do for a living?"

"I wor not, sar, for four month, but I was not drunk, sar. I do not know if I am a linguist; it may be, but I was not drunk."

"A man that can't find work when he can ask for it in three languages deserves no pity. Ten days," said His Honor.—N. Y. World.

MERCANTILE AGENCIES.

The Cobourg Sentinel, speaking of mercantile agencies, alludes to them in the following truthful, yet severe manner: "It is notorious that the mercantile agencies are influenced in their reports by pecuniary considerations; the demand for a subscription to their worthless and on their druggists and get Dr. Pierce's Memorandum book free. The Doctor's Grand Invalids' Hotel at Buffalo, which costs, when finished, two hundred thousand dollars, will be opened early in June next, for the reception of patients afflicted with chronic diseases and deformities. It will afford the most perfect facilities for the cure of such affections, and its Faculty of physicians and surgeons will embrace graduates from both American and European Medical Schools who have become distinguished for their skill. The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, by Dr. B. V. Pierce, a work of over nine hundred large pages, illustrated by two hundred and eighty-two engravings, and elegantly bound in cloth and gilt, is sent to any address by the Author on receipt of one dollar and fifty cents. Almost one hundred thousand copies have already been sold.

S. A. CRAIG, Esq., druggist, of West Alexander, Pa., says: "I sell more of Dr. Pierce's preparations than all others combined. They give satisfaction in every case and I can cheerfully recommend them to the public."

THE CRADLE.

HENRY—At Napanee, on the 23rd inst., the wife of Alex. Henry Esq. of a son.

In Newburgh, on the 21st inst., the wife of Mr. Fry, of a daughter.

THE ALTAR.

SCOTT—HILL—At Napanee, on the 24th inst., at the residence of the bride's mother, by the Rev. J. J. Bogart, Mr. S. T. Scott, of Emerson, Manitoba, son of the Rev. John Scott, late of Napanee, to Miss E. J. Hill, daughter of the late Thomas Hill, of South Fredricksburgh.

HANNAH—JONES—On the third ult., Mr. Robt. Hannah, son of Robt. Hannah, Esq., Camden to Miss Williamina Jones, daughter of Richard Jones Esq., Woolen Manufacturer, Tamworth.

Long life to this, now worthy pair,
In matrimony join'd
May their career through life be fair,
And lovely to each mind.

THE TOMB.

BULGERS—On the morning of the 16th, a child of Mr. Geo. Bulgars, near Tamworth.

About eighteen months old, I am told,
Every age is doomed to die—

MOWBERRY—On Friday morning last, near Tamworth, Mrs. Mowberry, aged 64 years.

At Ernestown Station, on the 22nd inst., infant child of Mr. A. Dawson.

At Napanee Mills, on the 24th inst., infant child of George Shane, aged 7 years and 8 months.

At Selby, on the 21st inst., infant child of J. W. Mains.

At Wilton, on the 17th inst., Michael Amey, aged 75 years.

NAPANEE MARKETS.

"EXPRESS OFFICE
Friday, April 27th, '77.

Barley—50c.
Wheat—$1.25.
Oats—50c.
Rye—60c. to 65c.
Peas—70c. to 72c.
Buckwheat—75c. to 80c.
Wheat Flour—$3.00 to $3.40 retail.
Hay—$11.00 to $12.00 per ton.
Hides—$3.00 to $5.00.
Onions—80c. to $1.00 per bushel.
Butter—23c. to 25c. per lb.
Eggs—10c. to 12c. per dozen.
Lamb and Pelts—$1.00 to $1.25.
Apples—80c. to $1.20, per bag.
Potatoes—$1.00 to $1.20, per bag.
Chickens—30c. to 40c. per pair.
Geese—50c. to 60c. each.
Ducks—40c. to 50c. per brace.
Turkeys—50c. to $1.00, each.
Wood hard—$2.50 to $3.00, per cord.
" soft—$1.50 to $2.00, " "
Beef per cwt.—$5.00 to $7.00.
Pork " " —$7.00 to $7.50.
Lard " lb.—13c. to 15c.
Calf skins 8c. per lb rough.
" " " " trimmed.
Straw—$3.00 to $4.00 per load.
Clover Seed—$7 per bushel.
Timothy Seed—$2.00 to 2.60 per bush.
Tallow—7c. to 8c. per lb.
Oatmeal—$4.00, per cwt., retail.
Chickens—10c. to 12c. per lb.
Deacon skins 25c.

ELECTRICITY! THOMAS' EXCELSIOR ELECTRIC OIL!—WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.—Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bron-

Dr. Newton proposed the Health of the Dr. of Dufferin, which was drunk with respect—a song, "Grass grows green," Mr. Phillips—Mr. Bedford, the airman proposed, the guest of the evening, coupled with Mrs. McPherson—ng "Jolly good fellows," Mr. McPherson responded in very appropriate remarks—the health of the Rathbun firm is proposed, coupled with the names of ryd-n, McCullough, an! Jameson, rich, all regretting the loss of Mr. McPherson—song by Mr. Phillips, "English elody"—Mr. Newton proposed the health of the ladies, coupled with the names of Millener, Donough, and Strond, illener and Donough gave a few very appropriate remarks. Strond enlarged the dear ladies as he loved them—ng "St. Patrick's Day in the Morning," Phillips—song, "Norah McShane," Mr. Millener, Recitation, "Charge of the Light Brigade," by Mr. Bedford, ng, "Maggie Lander" by Mr. McRea—ng, "Queer folks in the shows," by r. Millener—song, "Rat Terrier," Mr. rind—song, "Robin Samsons' Sunday," illener—song, "Red White and Blue," r. McPherson—Recitation, "Vulgar y," Mr. Bedford—The health of the ts and hostess, song, "They're Jolly and Fellow," by the company—Mr. Connor, responded in a becoming manner—song, "Auld Lang Syne," by a company—Happy to meet, sorry to rt, happy to meet again.

Over twenty five gentlemen were present, Mr. Bedford was chairman, and r. Newton, vice-chairman, speeches remained by, Dryder, Brook, Clinie, m. McLean, A Jameson, Egar McCullough and others. Mr. McPherson carries the best wishes of the village at large his new home.

The steamer Hastings, made her first p on Monday.

The Str. Alexandria will be ready on her regular trips Monday next, she fitted up with every accommodation.

The steamer Armenia left yesterday, e is greatly improved and is to run between Pictou and Belleville, daily. e popularity of her captain—a gentleman who knows how to use the public—ll ensure her success.

The Big Mill is sawing more lumber in ever, everything is in full blast. The ar Mill, ditto, under J. McCullough.

A sailor boy named Williams got dly hurt by a falling tree but will recover under Dr. Newton.

Mr. Jas. Wilson is not expected to e, Chief St. Paulas is very ill, no pes of his recovery.

ree men were stolen by a prominent izeu, but returned by the conscience-acked thief, which speaks well for the rality of the village.

FLINTON.

Flinton, April, 17th, 1877.

DEAR MR. EDITOR.—Since I last ate, (about three weeks ago,) consider e changes have taken place. Then had to break fresh roads on account of a large fall of snow. Now all the snow is disappeared, and we are having beautiful spring weather, so much so, that one little horney pest, the mosquitoes ve began their crusade.

Mr. Back the enterprising Lumber merchant, is in full swing with his men, ting his immense pile of Square mber down the river, which by the way no small matter, on account of the ugly falls the timbers has to be ated over, and the river being unusual- low makes the track all the more diffi- cult. And his men too, the blood and isle of the country, regirless of the zards they run of being drowned, smashed to pieces, hop about from g to log as tho' they had charmed lives, d mostly in soaping wet clothes, camp night on the bank of the stream, after lking perhaps six miles from their rk.

Then we have recently had a Waggon, harriage shop, built, and, opened by

De Havard, U. S. surgeon Fort Pembina, has been ordered to join the new expedition against "Sitting Bull." He leaves for Bismark and Fort Lincoln to start with the U. S. troops for the "Bad Lands." Two surgeons were killed in Custer's expedition last summer. Dr. Perley takes the place of Dr. H. at Fort Pembina.

It is thought that this will be the last expedition against "Sitting Bull," as "Crazy Horse" with his band has surrendered.

J. S.

Emerson, Manitoba April 14th 1877.

ON ITS TRIAL.

What is on its trial? Why some people say that Christianity is on its trial. It has been ever since the time that its divine author trod the earth. The apostles tried it, the martyrs and confessors tried it, and our fathers and mothers tried it too; and there are millions of the race that are trying it to-day. As it has been on trial in the past, so will it continue to be on trial in the future. It could not be otherwise, and for this good and sufficient reason, that the trial which one man makes, however satisfactory to himself, will not be satisfactory to others. Each one must make the trial for himself. It is no disparagement, therefore, of this or anything else to say it is on trial.

We have seen some editorials recently, intimating that life insurance is now on trial before the American people. Without entering upon the discussion at all, we accept the situation. It has been on trial in this country for about thirty years, and the verdict of an intelligent and discerning public, is that life insurance, of itself, is a most excellent thing. Its abuses have been criticised, and many things which are not life insurance, but have been mislabelled by that honorable name, or forced upon it, have been criticised severely and justly. But life insurance itself has been on trial, and the verdict is favorable.

We will go a step farther, and freely admit that life insurance is on trial. More than ten thousand are trying life insurance in the Travelers this very year, and more are coming. We want ten thousand more able-bodied men to try it, we don't care how soon. We are firmly convinced that it is a good and valuable thing—we are quite sure about that. We offer our policies to young men, middle aged men, business men, professional men, and say, try one.

There is nothing the matter with life insurance. Every day there are fresh proofs of its great value. It is beneficent, without being charitable. It confers a right which is better than charity. Real life insurance does not offer to take up a collection at your funeral—it guarantees to pay the sum named in the contract. The life companies of this country are paying upwards of a million and a half every month to the families of deceased policy holders. It saves widows from poverty and orphans from suffering. It is to be regarded as a protection, rather than an investment. Yet in the vicissitudes of business it often proves to be the best investment, even in a merely pecuniary point of view. It doesn't make money, but it is first rate for saving it.

Yes, we like to have life insurance on trial, and we are glad to know that so many persons are inclined to try life insurance in the Travelers. We have known that company intimately ever since its Life Department was organized. It is ably and prudently managed. It sells life insurance pure and simple. Its contract is definite. It does a cash business. Its premiums are low. It does not promise what it cannot perform. Its cash assets are over four millions, and its surplus to Policy holders over one million and a half dollars after providing for all its liabilities. Its security is unquestioned. It is relatively as strong as any Company in the world.

Will you try life insurance in the Travelers? Make up your mind the next time you come to town to call and see Hanson in regard to this important matter.

"You are a linguist." "It may be, sar, that I am; what you call one linguist? Is it for that I am arrested?" "You were arrested for being drunk. What do you do for a living?" "I wor not, sar, for four month, but I was not drunk, sar. I do not know if I am a linguist; it may be, but I was not drunk."

"A man that can't find work when he can ask for it in three languages deserves no pity. Ten days," said His Honor.—N. Y. World.

MERCANTILE AGENCIES.

The Cobourg Sentinel, speaking of mercantile agencies, alludes to them in the following truthful, yet severe manner: "It is notorious that the mercantile agencies are influenced in their reports by pecuniary considerations; the demand for a subscription to their worthless and unreliable periodical reports is virtually a threat that if the subscription is not forthcoming the rating of the merchant will be lowered and his credit impaired. They are nothing more or less than legalized black-mailing institutions, parasites of commerce who prey upon the fears of the business community, and are just as ready to give a fictitious paper capital to the shrewd schemer who keeps on their right side by liberal contributions, as to write down as insolvent the honest tradesman who refuses to pay them tribute." True enough. We thoroughly endorse the sentiments of the Sentinel.

NOVELTY OF NOVELTIES!!

A SERVANT OF THE LORD OUT ON A STRIKE!

The Rev. J. C. Smith has absented himself from the pulpit of St. Paul's Church for the last two Sundays. He has said that he will not preach there until the congregation has acquired the church—a most tyrannical act as I understand Mr. Smith's salary for one quarter ending April 1st, has been paid in advance. In ordinary cases of hiring, a servant desirous of honestly doing his duty would not have made such a threat to those who have employed him, but who have performed the duty for which he had been paid until his quarter expired, when he would have been at liberty to do as he liked. JAMES REID, Hamilton, April 17, 1877.

AMERICAN.

SCRANTON, Pa.—Fifty-four families left for Nebraska yesterday. It is expected before May 500 families of unemployed workmen will follow.

A tornado at Laverghie, Tenn., on Wednesday night the 19th, blew down nine buildings. A girl lying in bed was killed. An old lady was carried forty rods by the hurricane and fatally injured. Timber was blown three-quarters of a mile.

Martin Higgins, a wealthy religious N. Y. lunatic, has been arrested. He took several people in his office and offered them $1,000 each to listen to his preaching. Over $30,000 were found on his person.

Roxanna Pinney drowned herself in a bath tub. Brooklyn. She had been sick for three years and was a contributor to several periodicals.

Information was received in New York of the massacre of Rev. W. Bolfe, Moravian Minister at Lance Settlement, Labrador, together with his family, consisting of his son Ernard and his daughters Charlotte and Ann. The deed was perpetrated by four Esquimaux who had been refused rum at his mission.

One hundred persons of both sexes were arrested on Saturday night at a Stanton-street, New York, dance house.

A revenue cutter has been ordered to cruise along the Alaska coast during the summer, for the purpose of protecting the seal fisheries.

A grand reception was tendered to the Irish Canadian pilgrims Friday night at the St. Nicholas Hotel, New York, by Catholic societies of that city. It was a brilliant affair, several hundred being Lands and Reeds—$1.00 to $1.20. Apples—8c. to $1.20, per bag. Potatoes—$1.00 to $1.20, per bag. Chickens—9c. to 4c. per pair. Geese—50c. to 60c. each. Ducks—40c. to 50c. per brace. Turkeys—50c. to $1.00, each. Wood hard—$2.50 to $3.00, per cord. " soft—$1.50 to $2.00, " " Beef per cwt.—$5.00 to $7.00. Pork " " —$7.00, to $7.50. Lard " lb.—13c. to 15c. Calf skins 8c. per lb rough. " " 9c. " " trimmed. Straw—$1.00 to $1.00 per load. Clover Seed—$7 per bushel. Timothy Seed—$2.00 to 2 60 per bush. Tallow—7c. to 8c. per lb. Oatmeal—$1.00, per cwt., retail. Cheese—11c. to 12c. per lb. Deacon skins 25c.

ELECTRICITY! THOMAS' EXCELSIOR ELECTRIC OIL!—WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.—Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle cures cured bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth cures an old standing cough. It positively cures catarrh asthma and croup. Fifty cents' worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years standing. The Following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most sceptical: J. Collard, of Sparta, Ont., writes, "Send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, I have sold all I had from you, and want more now; it cures are truly wonderful." Wm. McGuire, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agents left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendid now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "Please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Electric Oil, I am newly out, nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes, "Send at once a further supply of Electric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well and give general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford writes, "Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reid, Ulverton, P. Q., writes, "The Electric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the name of Northrop and Lyman are blown in the bottle, and "Take no other." Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cts. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE.—Electricians Selected and Electrized.

TO ALL

Whom it May Concern.

THE Court of Revision for the Municipality of St. Bath, will be held at the Town Hall in the said Municipality on Wednesday, May 30th, 1877, at 12 o'clock noon. By order of Council. C. L. ROGERS, Clerk.

Bargains!

IN ORDER TO REDUCE

STOCK OF

WE SHALL

GREAT RED

ts and hostess, song, "They're Jolly od Fellow," by the company—Mr.
Donnor, responded in a becoming under-song, "Auld Lang Syne," by company—Happy to meet, sorry to rt, happy to meet again."
Over twenty five gentlemen were pre-nt. Mr. Bedford was chairman, and Newton, vice-chairman, speeches re made by, Dryden, Brook, Clinie,
n. McRea, A. Jameson, Edgar McTurugh and others. Mr. McPherson ens the best wishes of the village at large his new home.

The steamer Hastings, made her first p on Monday.

The Str. Alexandria will be ready to on her regular trips Monday next, she lited up with every accommodation.

The steamer Armenia left yesterday, is greatly improved and is to run between Pictou and Belleville, daily.
The popularity of her captain—a gentle-n, who knows how to use the public—ll ensure her success.

The Big Mill is sawing more lumber in ever, everything is in full blast. The lar Mill, ditto, under J. McCullugh.

A sailor boy named Williams got lly hurt by a falling tree but will rever under Dr. Newton.

Mr. Jas. Wilson is not expected to
e. Chief Seth Powles is very ill, no es of his recovery.

ree hams were stolen by a prominent zen, but returned by the consciencecked thief, which speaks well for the rality of the village.

FLINTON.

Flinton, April, 17th, 1877.

DEAR MR. EDITOR.—Since I last te, (about three weeks ago,) consider e changes have taken place. Then had to break fresh roads on account of large fall of snow. Now all the snow is disappeared, and we are having beautiful spring weather, so much so, that we have little homey pests, the mosquitoes re began their crusade.

Mr. Back the enterprising Lumber merchant, is in full swing with his men, ting his immense pile of Square lumber down the river, which by the way no small matter, on account of the nyugly fall the timbers has to be sted over, and the river being unusual-low makes the track all the more diffi-
c. And his men too, the blood and iscle of the country, regardless of the zards they run of being drowned, smashed to pieces, hop about from to log as tho' they had charmed lives, t mostly in soaping wet clothes, camp night on the bank of the stream, after lking perhaps six miles from their rk.

Then we have recently had a Waggon, rriage shop, built, and opened by Jones, and Mr. P. York, if working midnight is any criterion, of success
y certainly have it.

We also have noticed yet another desman, the latest arrival in the son of Mr. Papin, Boot and Shoe ker, whose sign of "the Boot" gives front street quite an additional air of ustry.

The Saw and Grist Mill also, under the priorship of Mr. D. Sedgwick, seems e making up for lost time, and the ole of his little nest in the back woods ms alive with animation.

Yours etc.,

H. O. P.

TAMWORTH AND BEAVER LAKE.

(From our Special.)

A word or two now and then from this t of the world may be acceptable.
There was lively times about Tamworth Thursday and Friday the 12th, and h, when the grain was delivered to farmers of this township who had apped for it. This grain was bought by Council of Sheffield, for the purpose will not be satisfactory to others. Each one must make the trial for himself. It is no disparagement, therefore, of this or anything else to say it is on trial.

We have seen some editorials recently, intimating that life insurance is now on trial before the American people. Without entering up on the discussion at all, we accept the situation. It has been on trial in this country for about thirty years, and the verdict of an intelligent and discerning public, is that life insurance, of itself, is a most excellent thing.
Its abuses have been criticised, and many things which are not life insurance, but have been mis-called by that honorable name, or foisted upon it, have been cri-tised severely and justly. But life insurance itself has been on trial, and the verdict is favorable.

We will go a step farther, and freely admit that life insurance is on trial. More than ten thousand are trying life insurance in the Travelers this very year, and more are coming. We want ten thousand more able-bodied men to try it. We don't care how soon. We are firmly convinced that it is a good and valuable thing —we are quite sure about that. We offer our policies to young men, middle aged men, business men, professional men, and say, try one.

There is nothing the matter with life insurance. Every day there are fresh proofs of its great value. It is beneficent, without being charitable. It confers a right which is better than charity. Real life insurance does not offer to take up a collection at your funeral—it guarantees to pay the sum named in the contract.
The life companies of this country are paying upwards of a million and a half every month to the families of deceased policy holders. It saves widows from poverty and orphans from suffering. It is to be regarded as a protection, rather than an investment. Yet in the vicissitudes of business it often proves to be the best investment, even in a merely pecuniary point of view. It doesn't make money, but it is first rate for saving it.

Yes, we like to have life insurance on trial, and we are glad to know that so many persons are inclined to try life insurance in the Travelers. We have known that company intimately ever since its Life Department was organized.
It is ably and prudently managed. It sells life insurance pure and simple. Its contract is definite. It does a cash business. Its premiums are low. It does not promise what it cannot perform. Its cash assets are over four millions, and its surplus to Policy holders over one million and a half dollars after providing for all its liabilities. Its security is unquestioned. It is relatively as strong as any Company in the world.

Will you try life insurance in the Travelers? Make up your mind the next time you come to town to call and see Hanson in regard to this important matter.

A CLERICAL VILLAIN.

"Rev." Paul T. Valentini, the Italian, who was the proprietor of the cheap lodging and eating house and school for children 548 Pearl street, and who was arrested on a charge of debauching the boys and girls who visited his place, was placed on trial before Recorder Hackett on one of seven indictments. He was convicted by the jury after a deliberation of about five minutes. Recorder Hackett, addressing the prisoner, said that his crime was the most detestable known to the law, and he was sorry that he could not sentence him to death. As it was, he would impose the severest penalty, ten years in State Prison. Valentini has had a varied career. In his own country, Italy, he joined the priesthood and was detected in committing a crime similar to that for which he was sentenced yesterday. He fled to this country, obtained a position in Drew Theological Seminary, which he studied a short time, subsequently was ordained a minister of the Episcopal Church in this city, was deposed, and then started the cheap lodging-house.—N. Y. World.

the business community, and are just as ready to give a fictitious paper capital to the shrewd schemer who keeps on their right side by liberal contributions, as to write down as insolvent the honest tradesman who refuses to pay them tribute." True enough. We thoroughly endorse the sentiments of the Sentinel.

NOVELTY OF NOVELTIES!!

A SERVANT OF THE LORD OUT ON A STRIKE!

The Rev. J. C. Smith has absented himself from the pulpit of St. Paul's Church for the last two Sundays. He has said that he will not preach there until the congregation has acquired the church
—a most tyrannical act as I understand.
Mr. Smith's salary for one quarter ending April 1st, has been paid in advance.
In ordinary cases of hiring, a servant desiring of honestly doing his duty would not have made such a threat to those who have employed him, but would have performed the duty for which he had been paid until his quarter expired, when he would have been at liberty to do as he liked. JAMES REID,
Hamilton, April 17, 1877.

AMERICAN.

SCRANTON, Pa.,—Fifty-four families left for Nebraska yesterday. It is expected before May 500 families of unemployed workmen will follow.

A tornado at Laverghie, Tenn., on Wednesday night the 19th, blew down nine buildings. A girl lying in bed was killed. An old lady was carried forty rods by the hurricane and fatally injured.
Timber was blown three-quarters of a mile.

Martin Higgins, a wealthy religious N. Y. lunatic, has been arrested. He took several people in his office and offered them $1,000 each to listen to his preaching. Over $30,000 were found on his person.

Roxana Pinney drowned herself in a bath at Brooklyn. She had been sick for three years and was a contributor to several periodicals.

Information was received in New York of the massacre of Rev. W. Wolfe, Moravian Minister at Lance Settlement, Labrador, together with his family, consisting of his son Ernand and his daughters Charlotte and Ann. The deed was perpetrated by four Esquimaux who had been refused rum at his mission.

One hundred persons of both sexes were arrested on Saturday night at a Stanton-street, New York, dance house.

A revenue cutter has been ordered to cruise along the Alaska coast during the summer, for the purpose of protecting the seal fisheries.

A grand reception was tendered to the Irish Canadian pilgrims Friday night at the St. Nicholas Hotel, New York, by Catholic societies of that city. It was a brilliant affair, several hundred being present.

NEW YORK, April 21.—The Irish Roman Catholic pilgrims attended Mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral this morning, which was celebrated by Cardinal Mc-Closkey. The pilgrims occupied seats within the sanctuary, and the church was filled with Catholic organizations. The Cardinal bestowed a blessing on the voyagers, and bade them God speed.

The Grand Jury have refused to indict the Rev. Mr. McCaffrey, in N. Y. charged with kissing a lady of his congregation.

The monopoly of the use of the entire water of Niagara Falls on the American side of the river, with a canal, etc., is to be sold at auction on May 1st.

Scotch and Canadian Tweed Suits from $12 to 20 at,
DAVIS & BRO.

FARMERS, MECHANICS, and all people who appreciate the value of keeping a memorandum of business transactions, daily events, and items of interest or importance, for future reference, should call most sceptical: J. Collard, of Sparta, Ont., writes, "Send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, I have sold all I had from you, and want more now; it cures are truly wonderful." Wm. McGuire, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agents left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendid now." H. Cole, of Iona,

writes, "Please forward 6 dozen Thomas'
Electric Oil, I am never out, nothing equals
it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, of Thamesville, writes, "Send at once a further supply of Electric Oil, I have only one bottle left.
I never saw anything sell so well and give general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford writes, "Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reid, of Uxbridge, P. Q., writes, "The Electric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called
for. Send us a further supply without delay."

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr.
Thomas' Electric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the names of Sorthrop and Lyman are blown in the bottle, and "Take no other." Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cts. NOR-THROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE.—ELECTRIC—Selected and Elec-
trized.

TO ALL

Whom it May Concern.

THE Court of Revision for the Municipality of Bath, will be held at the Town Hall in the said Municipality on Wednesday, May 30th, 1877, at 12 o'clock noon. By order of Council.
C. L. ROGERS, Clerk.

1-1mo.

Bargains!

IN ORDER TO REDUCE

STOCK OF

WE SHALL

GREAT REDUCTIONS

FOR THIRTY

COME AND

Repairing and Gr

DONE NEATLY AND E

WR

Napance, April 27th, 1877.

GERMAN vs. ENGLISH BEER.

An English brewer writes as follows in the London Times: "As Mr. Walker set forth the proposal that English beer, as much as possible, assimilated to German beer in its invigorating and intoxicating character, it will be interesting to point out wherein the difference of the two national beverages is. The difference is wholly in the fermentation. If fermentation be conducted at a temperature above the normal temperature of water in a well, viz.: 52° Fahrenheit, the yeast in the process of fermentation will rise to the surface of the liquid; if it be conducted at a temperature lower than this, the yeast will be precipitated. The English fermentation is the former, being usually conducted at 60 degrees, more or less; the German fermentation is the latter, being usually about 44 degrees or less. English fermentation occupies from seven to ten days, the German 14 to 21. obvious that, except in mid-winter, German fermentation has to be carried on in the artificial temperature of an ice-house. On the face of it, it appears an easy thing to reduce the English fermentation temperature to the German, but it is to be observed that the two fermentations yield beers of essentially different flavors. It would take years, perhaps generations, to educate the English palate to the distinctive flavor of low temperature fermentation. It is true that the German fermentation has strong recommendation that it yields a liquor of far less intoxicating power, but even there a curious anomaly is presented. Not only does the German beer contain as much malt as the English pale ale, but, on being tested for alcohol, it will be found to contain a larger percentage of spirit than the latter. Notwithstanding this fact, universal experience shows that, while the German beer is eminently nourishing and invigorating, it scarcely affects the brain at all. The true solution of the (so called) German question lies in the hands of English brewers. The work before them is not without grave difficulty, but they are put in a nutshell thus: "How to ferment a malt liquor which shall combine the non-intoxicating character of the German lager beer with the invigorating flavor of English pale ale."

DRUNK IN THREE LANGUAGES.

Aged, red-nosed man, with tangled and bleared eyes, stood in the corner's dock in the Jefferson Market Court. "Augustus Luvois," said His Honor, "were arrested for being intoxicated," the man looked stupidly at the Judge and remained silent. "Don't you understand English?" said the Court. "Oui, certainement; yaw, meinher; ar, I understand de English and de an and de French, but I do not stand for what I was arrest." "You are a linguist." "May be, sar, that I am; what you are linguist? Is it for that I am arrested?" "You were arrested for being drunk. do you do for a living?" "I wor not, sar, for four mouth, but I do drunk sar. I do not know if I linguist; it may be, but I was not." "A man that can't find work when he is drunk is in three languages deserves sympathy." "Ten days," said His Honor.—World.

MERCANTILE AGENCIES.

The Cobourg Sentinel, speaking of mercantile agencies, alludes to them in a flowing truthful, yet severe manner: "It is notorious that the mercantile agencies are influenced in their reports by many considerations; the demand for subscription to their worthless and on their druggists and get Dr. Pierce's Memorandum book free. The Doctor's Grand Invalids' Hotel at Buffalo, which costs, when finished, two hundred thousand dollars, will be opened early in June next, for the reception of patients afflicted with chronic diseases and deformities. It will afford the most perfect facilities for the cure of such affections, and its Faculty of physicians and surgeons will embrace graduates from both American and European Medical Schools who have become distinguished for their skill. The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, a work of over nine hundred large pages, illustrated by two hundred and eighty-two engravings, and elegantly bound in cloth and gilt, is sent to any address by the Author on receipt of one dollar and fifty cents. Almost one hundred thousand copies have already been sold.

S. A. CRAIG, Esq., druggist, of West Alexander, Pa., says: "I sell more of Dr. Pierce's preparations than all others combined. They give satisfaction in every case and I can cheerfully recommend them to the public."

THE CRADLE.

HENRY—At Napanee, on the 23rd inst., the wife of Alex. Henry Esq., of a son.
In Newburgh, on the 21st inst., the wife of Mr. Fry, of a daughter.

THE ALTAR.

SCOTT—HILL—At Napanee, on the 24th inst., at the residence of the bride's mother, by the Rev. J. J. Bogart, Mr. S. T. Scott, of Emerson, Manitoba, son of the Rev. John Scott, late of Napanee, to Miss E. J. Hill, daughter of the late Thomas Hill, of South Fredricksburgh.
HANNAN—JONES—On the third ult., Mr. Robt. Hannan, son of Robt. Hannan, Esq., Camden to Miss Williamina Jones, daughter of Richard Jones Esq., Woolen Manufacturer, Tamworth.
Long life to this, now worthy pair,
In matrimony join'd
May their career through life be fair,
And lovely to each mind.

THE TOMB.

BULGERS—On the morning of the 16th, a child of Mr. Geo. Bulgers, near Tamworth.
About eighteen months old, I am told,
Every age is doomed to die—
MOWBERRY—On Friday morning last, near Tamworth, Mrs. Mowberry, aged 64 years.
At Ernestown Station, on the 22nd inst., infant child of Mr. A. Dawson.
At Napanee Mills, on the 24th inst., infant child of George Shane, aged 7 years and 8 months.
At Selby, on the 21st inst., infant child of J. W. Mains.
At Wilton, on the 17th inst., Michael Amey, aged 75 years.

NAPANEE MARKETS.

EXPRESS OFFICE
Friday, April 27th, '77.

Barley—50c.
Wheat—$1.25.
Oats—50c.
Rye—60c. to 65c.
Pease—70c. to 72c.
Buckwheat—70c. to 80c.
Wheat Flour—$3.00 to $3.40 retail.
Hay—$11.00 to $12.00 per ton.
Hides—$3.00 to $5.00.
Onions—80c. to $1.00 per bushel.
Butter—28c. to 25c. per lb.
Eggs—10c. to 12c. per dozen.
Lambs and Pelts—$1.00 to $1.25.
Apples—80c. to $1.20 per bag.
Potatoes—$1.00 to $1.20 per bag.
Chickens—30c. to 40c. per pair.
Geese—50c. to 60c. each.
Ducks—40c. to 50c. per brace.
Turkeys—50c. to $1.00 each.
Wood hard—$2.50 to $3.00 per cord.
" soft—$1.50 to $2.00 " "
Beef per cwt.—$5.00 to $7.00.
Pork " " $7.00 to $7.50.
Lard " lb—13c. to 15c.
Calf skins Se. per lb rough.
" " " " trimmed.
Straw—$3.00 to $4.00 per load.
Clover Seed—$7 per bushel.
Timothy Seed—$2.00 to 2.60 per bush.
Tallow—7c. to 8c. per lb.
Oatmeal—$4.00 per cwt. retail.
Cheese—11c. to 12c. per lb.
Deacon skins 25c.

ELECTRICITY! THOMAS' EXCELSIOR ELECTRIC OIL!—WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.—Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth rescues an old

YACHT VENUS

FOR SALE.

That staunch little sloop-rigged, centre-board and fast sailing yacht,

VENUS

WILL BE SOLD

Cheap for Cash

For further information apply to A. W. Benson, or Thos. A. Huffman.
No. 1

TO RENT.

A BRICK COTTAGE on Graham, East of Centre Street. Well finished inside, four rooms on first floor, and four on second. An excellent Well, Cistern, and Cellar. Wood-shed and good facilities for a garden. Possession 1st of May. Apply to
J. B. BENSON.
Express Office.

TEACHERS'

EXAMINATION

THE Examination of Candidates for Public School Teachers' First, Second and Third-Class Certificates will be held in the

HIGH SCHOOL, NAPANEE.

COMMENCING ON

Monday, 9th of July,

At 9 A. M. for First Class, and at 1:30 P. M. for Second Class, and

TUESDAY, 10th JULY, at 9 A.M.
FOR THIRD CLASS.

Forms of Notice, to be previously given by the Candidate, can be obtained from the Inspector.

It is indispensable that Candidates should notify the Inspector not later than the 1st of June, of their intention to present themselves for examination.

FREDERICK BURROWS,
Inspector.

Beaver and Reporter, will each please give three insertions of foregoing notice. 1-3n

JOB

PRINTING!

THE JOBBING DEPARTMENT

—OF THE—

NAPANEE EXPRESS

IS EXCELLED BY

No Office In The Dominion,

ITS OUTFIT INCLUDES A

LARGE STOCK

OF THE

Very Latest Styles Of New Type,

And every Facility exists for turning out

JOB PRINTING

SEE! LOOK! BEHOLD!

IN THE

...d not seem to be in any hurry, but put in a nutshell thus: "How rent a malt liquor which shall come into intoxicating character of rman lager bier with the incom- flavor of English pale ale."

NEW IN THREE LANGUAGES.

aged, red-nosed man, with tangled and bleared eyes, stood in the r's dock in the Jefferson Market Court.

gustus Lavois, said His Honor, "are arrested for being intoxicated." man looked stupidly at the Judge and said silent.

n't you understand English?" he Court.

l, certainement; yaw, meinherr; r, I understand de English and de n and de French, but I do not tand for what I was arrest."

I are a linguist."

may be, sar, that I am; what you a linguist? Is it for that I am ari were arrested for being drunk. to you do for a living?"

or not, sar, for four month, but I t drunk sar. I do not know if I nguist; it may be, but I was not an that can't find work when he for it in three languages deserves . Ten days," said His Honor.— World.

MERCANTILE AGENCIES.

Cobourg Sentinel, speaking of tile agencies, alludes to them in owing truthful, yet severe manner: "notorious that the mercantile s are influenced in their reports by ury considerations; the demand bscription to their worthless and ble periodical reports is virtually a hat if the subscription is not forth- the rating of the merchant will be l and his credit impached. They hing more or less than legalized railing institutions, parasites of ree who prey upon the fears of iness community, and are just as o give a fictitious paper capital to ewd schemer who keeps on their d by liberal contributions, as to own as insolvent the honest trades- o refuses to pay them tribute." ough. We thoroughly endorse timents of the Sentinel.

NOVELTY OF NOVELTIES!!

NT OF THE LORD OUT ON A STRIKE!

Rev. J. C. Smith has absented from the pulpit of St. Paul's for the last two Sundays. He has t he will not preach there until gregation has acquired the church st tyrannical act as I understand ith's salary for one quarter end- il 1st, has been paid in advance. ary cases of hiring a servant de- f honestly doing his duty would e made such a threat to those who ployed him, but would have per- the duty for which he had been il his quarter expired, when he ave been at liberty to do as he lton, April 17, 1877.

AMES REID,

AMERICAN.

STON, Pa.—Fifty-four families left raska yesterday. It is expected ay 500 families of unemployed men will follow.

nado at Laverghie, Tenn., on day night the 19th, blew down ldings. A girl lying in bed was A old lady was carried fortye the hurricane and fatally injured. was blown three-quarters of a n Higgins, a wealthy religious matic, has been arrested. He eral people in his office and offer- $1,000 each to listen to his g. Over $30,000 were found on on.

ma Pinney drowned herself in a Brooklyn. She had been sick years and was a contributor to MOWBERRY—ON FRIDAY MORNING LAST, about four- worth, Mrs. Mowberry, aged 64 years.

At Ernestown Station, on the 22nd inst., infant child of Mr. A. Dawson.

At Napanee Mills, on the 24th inst., infant child of George Shane, aged 7 years and 8 months.

At Selby, on the 21st inst., infant child of J. W. Mains.

At Wilton, on the 17th inst., Michael Amey, aged 75 years.

NAPANEE MARKETS.

“EXPRESS OFFICE
Friday, April 27th, '77.

Barley—50c.
Wheat—$1.25.
Oats—50c.
Rye—60c. to 65c.
Peas—70c. to 72c.
Buckwheat—75c. to 80c.
Wheat Flour—$3.00 to $3.10 retail.
Hay—$11.00 to $12.00 per ton.
Hides—$3.00 to $5.00.
Onions—80c. to $1.00 per bushel.
Butter—23c. to 25c. per lb.
Eggs—10c. to 12c. per dozen.
Lamb—80c. to $1.20, per bag.
Potatoes—$1.00 to $1.20, per bag.
Chickens—30c. to 40c. per pair.
Geese—50c. to 60c. each.
Ducks—40c. to 50c. per brace.
Turkeys—50c. to $1.00, each.
Wood—$2.50 to $3.00, per cord.
“ soft—$1.50 to $2.00, per cord.
Beef per cwt.—$5.00 to $7.00.
Pork “ “—$7.00 to $7.50.
Lard “ “—11c. to 15c.
Calf skins 8c. per lb. rough.
“ “ “ 9c. “ , trimmed.
Straw—$3.00 to $4.00 per load.
Clover Seed—$7 per bushel.
Timothy Seed—$2.00 to 2.60 per bush.
Tallow—7c. to 8c. per lb.
Oatmeal—$1.00, per cwt., retail.
Chicose—10c. to 12c. per lb.
Deacon skins 25c.

ELECTRICITY! THOMAS' EXCELSIOR ELECTRIC OIL.—WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.—Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures catarrh, asthma and croup. Fifty cents' worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. The Following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most sceptical: J. Collard, of Sparta, Ont., writes, "Send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, have sold all I had from you and want more now; it cures are truly wonderful." Wm. McGuire, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agents left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendid now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "Please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Electric Oil, I am nearly out, nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes, "Send at once a further supply of Electric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well and give general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford writes, "Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reid, Ulverton, P. Q., writes, "The Electric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the name of Northrop and Lyman are blown in the bottle, and "Take no other." Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cts. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE.—Electric—Selected and Electrized.

TO ALL
Whom it May Concern.

THE Court of Revision for the Municipality of St. Bath, will be held at the Town Hall in the said Municipality on Wednesday, May 30th, 1877, at 12 o'clock noon. By order of Council.
C. L. ROGERS,
Clerk.

Bargains! Bargains!!

A BRICK COTTAGE on Graham, East of Centre Street. Well finished inside, four rooms on first floor, and four on second. An excellent Well, Cistern, and Cellar. Wood-shed and good facilities for a garden. Possession 1st of May. Apply to
J. B. BENSON,
Express Office.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

THE Examination of Candidates for Public School Teachers, First, Second and Third-Class Certificates will be held in the
HIGH SCHOOL, NAPANEE, COMMENCING ON Monday, 9th of July,
At 9 A. M. for First Class, and at 1:30 P. M. for Second Class, and TUESDAY, 10th JULY, at 9 A.M.
FOR THIRD CLASS.

Forms of Notice, to be previously given by the Candidate, can be obtained from the Inspector.

It is indispensable that Candidates should notify the Inspector not later than the 1st of June, of their intention to present themselves for examination.

FREDERICK BURROWS,
Inspector.

Beaver and Reporter, will each please give three insertions of foregoing notice. 1-3n

SEE! LOOK! BEHOLD!

A NEW SIGHT HAS COME TO TOWN
IT IS PATENTED EYE-SIGHT!
F. W. SMITH,
IS THE HAPPY POSSESSOR!
He will provide all who desire it at reasonable rates. Call and look at

JOHNSTON & CONRATH'S
Economical Spectacles,
EASY-FITTING.

Eye-Glasses and Superior Eye Tryer.

This firm has appointed me sole agent of their goods in this vicinity.

F. W. SMITH,
Napanee.
Optician and Jeweler. No-47

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, of this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequence may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

★ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address
THE CULVERTWELL MEDICAL CO., 11 Ann St., New York.
Post Office Box, 4586. 45-yl.

No Office In The Dominion,

ITS OUTFIT INCLUDES A LARGE STOCK

OF THE

Very Latest Styles Of New Type,

And every Facility exists for turning out

JOB PRINTING

IN THE BEST STYLE

OF THE ART.

LAW WORK A SPECIALITY.

- Assessment Blanks,
- Auction Bills,
- Articles of Agreement,
- Briefs,
- Bill Heads,
- Ball Programmes,
- Bills of Fare,
- Circulars,
- Chancery Bills,
- Cards,
- Catalogues,
- Debentures,
- Dodgers,
- Date Lines,
- Envelopes,
- Exhibition Bills,
- Funeral Circulars,
- Financial Reports,
- Headings,
- Horse Bills,
- Indentures,
- Invitations

- Letter Headings,
- Law Forms,
- Lawyers' Briefs,
- Labels,
- Monthly Statements,
- Mourning Cards,
- Municipal Forms,
- Note Headings,
- Notarial Circulars.

give a circulation paper capricious and schemer who keeps on their by liberal contributions, as to win as insolvent the honest trades- refuses to pay them tribute." ough. We thoroughly endorse iments of the Sentinel.

VELTY OF NOVELTIES!!

OF THE LORD OUT ON A STRIKE!

ev. J. C. Smith has absented from the pulpit of St. Paul's or the last two Sundays. He has he will not preach there until regation has acquired the church tyranical act as I understand th's salary for one quarter end- 1st, has been paid in advance. ry cases of hiring, a servant de- honestly doing his duty would made such a threat to those who ployed him, but would have per- he duty for which he had been l his quarter expired, when he ve been at liberty to do as he MES REID, ton, April 17, 1877.

AMERICAN.

ron, Pa. — Fifty-four families left aska yesterday. It is expected ay 500 families of unemployed nen will follow.

ado at Laverghie, Tenn., on lay night the 19th, blew down dings. A girl lying in bed was As old lady was carried forty- he hurricane and fatally injured. was blown three-quarters of a Higgins, a wealthy religious natic, has been arrested. He al people in his office and offer- $1,000 each to listen to his 5. Over $30,000 were found on n.

na Pinney drowned herself in a Brooklyn. She had been sick years and was a contributor to eridicals.

ation was received in New York ssacre of Rev. W. Bolfe, Mora- ster at Lance Settlement, Labra- ther with his family, consisting a Ernand and his daughters and Ann. The deed was per- by four Exquimaux who had sed rum at his mission.

ndred persons of both sexes were on Saturday night at a Stanton- w York, dance house.

nue cutter has been ordered to ng the Alaska coast during the for the purpose of protecting sheries.

d reception was tendered to the adian pilgrims Friday night at icholas Hotel, New York, by societies of that city. It was a affair, several hundred being York, April 21.—The Irish atholic pilgrims attended Mass trick's Cathedral this morning, s celebrated by Cardinal Mc- The pilgrims occupied seats e sanctuary, and the church was h Catholic organizations. The bestowed a blessing on the voy- l bade them God speed.

and Jury have refused to indict Mr. McCaffrey, in N. Y. charg- issing a lady of his congrega-nopoly of the use of the entire Niagara Falls on the American e river, with a canal, etc., is to auction on May 1st.

and Canadian Tweed Suits from at, DAVIS & BRO.

ts, MECHANICS, and all people eciate the value of keeping a lum of business transactions, its, and items of interest or in- for future reference, should call writes, "Send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, have sold all I had from you and want more now; it cures are truly wonderful." Wm. McGuire, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agents left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendid now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "Please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Electric Oil, I am newly out, nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Phamesville, writes, "Send at once a further supply of Electric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well and give general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Wood- ford writes, "Send me some more Electric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reid, Ulverton, P. Q., writes, "The Electric Oil is getting a great reputation here and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the name of Sorthrop and Lyman are blown in the bottle, and "Take no other." Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cts. NOR THROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Pro- paietors for the Dominion.

NOTE.—ELECTRIC—Selected and Elec- trized.

TO ALL Whom it May Concern.

THE Court of Revision for the Municipality of Bath, will be held at the Town Hall in the said Municipality on Wednesday, May 30th, 1877, at 12 o'clock noon. By order of Council. C. L. ROGERS, Clerk.

Bargains! Bargains!!

IN ORDER TO REDUCE OUR VERY LARGE STOCK OF TINWARE,

WE SHALL MAKE GREAT REDUCTIONS

FOR THIRTY DAYS,

COME AND SEE.

Repairing and General Jobbing

DONE NEATLY AND EXPEDITIOUSLY.

WRIGHT & CO.

Napance, April 27th, 1877.

F. W. SMITH,

IS THE HAPPY POSSESSOR. He will provide all who desire it at reasonable rates. Call and look at

JOHNSTON & CONRATH'S Economical Spectacles,

EASY-FITTING. Eye-Glasses and Superior Eye Tryer.

This firm has appointed me sole agent of their goods in this vicinity.

F. W. SMITH, Napance. No-47 Optician and Jeweler.

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!!

WE have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps. The celebrated author, of this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequence may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land. Address THE CULVERTWELL MEDICAL CO., 41 Ann St., New York. Post Office Box, 1586. 15-yl.

LAW WORK A SPECIALITY.

Assessment Blanks, Auction Bills, Articles of Agreement, Briefs, Bill Heads, Ball Programmes, Bills of Fare, Circulars, Chancery Bills, Cards, Catalogues, Debentures,

Dodgers, Date Lines, Envelopes, Exhibition Bills, Funeral Circulars, Financial Reports, Headings, Horse Bills, Indentures, Invitations

Letter Headings, Law Forms, Lawyers' Briefs, Labels, Monthly Statements, Mourning Cards, Municipal Forms, Note Headings, Notarial Circulars.

Ordinary Notices, Pamphlets, Posters, Programmes, Promissory Notes, Receipt Books, Shipping Tags, Statements, Sale Bills, Tickets, Tax Collectors Rolls, Tax Receipts, Visiting Cards, Voters' Lists, Wheat Receipts, Wedding Cards,

ALL THE ABOVE

PRINTED WITH DESPATCH,

AT THE

"EXPRESS" OFFICE.

J. B. BENSON,

Proprietor.

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

HOUSE CLEANING.

As far as practicable, move everything out of the room to be cleaned. If clothes or pieces of carpeting are stored in the attic, or in any room to be cleaned, take them into the yard, brush well, hang on the line, and let them remain there for the sun and wind to free from dust and dampness. While one is attending to the clothes, trunks, bags and boxes that unusually fill up the attic, to expedite the work another with clean brushes, brooms and dusters can begin the cleaning. Brush every cobweb from the walls with a long-handled brush, and sweep down the walls with a stiff broom. Take up the dust and put it in a pail—never leave it standing in a shallow dustpan to be blown back into the room. If the walls are hard-finished they can be washed off with some warm soap-suds and wiped dry. Then wash and polish the windows, and scrub all wood-work and floors with very hot suds; rinse off with very hot water, made hotter with a good quantity of cayenne and red pepper. If this is faithfully used this peppered rinsing-water will find its way into every crack or crevice in the wall or on the floor. Mice and rats will seek a (cooler) boarding place, and insects of all kinds will keep at a respectful distance.

When the floor is well scrubbed and dried, blow with a small bellows which comes for this purpose cayenne, pepper, Persian Powder or Pool's Moth Powder into every hole or crack that can be reached, and then replace whatever belongs in the room unless the walls, not being hard finish, need to be white washed. This must be done after the wood-work is washed and scrubbed, but before scrubbing that any white-wash that may drop from the brush may be removed.

The attic finished descend to the next story, and so on till all parts of the house have been faithfully cleaned. But never attempt more than one or two rooms at a time. Do not make the family wretched by making the house unfit to stay in. It sometimes happens that all the family is absent except the mistress, and the whole house may be dismantled and cleaned at once. This is always a comfort, because the work can be done much easier and better. Then all the help that can work to advantage can be called in, and the whole work speedily accomplished. A half a dozen cleaners for three days are no more troublesome or expensive than half the number for twice as many days.

In clearing a room remove everything that can be removed without injury. Take down curtains and cover up such articles as must remain in the room. Take up such carpets as need cleaning, and if not sent to a carpet-sweeping establishment, remove them to the back yard, stretch across the clothes-line, and get a man to beat and brush them faithfully. While the carpets are receiving their share of attention another hand can clean whatever is removed from the room. Brush the upholstered furniture with a furniture brush, cleaning around each button or tuft. Turn sofas and chairs down, and beat them with a carpet or furniture whip, then brush again, and wipe the covers with a clean damp cloth to take off what dust that may have settled. Take a basin of warm soap suds and wash all the wood work and carving with a soft cloth. Wash only a small part of one thing at a time, and then wipe dry as quickly as possible, and polish with a chamois skin. If left wet till the whole piece is well washed the soap-suds may turn the varnish. But if carefully done it cleans furniture of all finger marks.

—Mrs. Beecher in Christian Union.

VARIOUS ITEMS.

between fifty and sixty thousand people took part in the Tichborne demonstration in London. Their Leader, De Morgan, proceeded alone to the house of Commons. He wrote to the Home Secretary, who replied that he would receive the deputation to-morrow, and, if good reasons were given, he would move that De Morgan be heard at the bar of the House. The crowd peaceably dispersed.

Three wealthy New York merchants hired a horse and carriage from a livery stable in Montreal, and driving round the Mountain began whipping the horse, which ran away. One of the men was nearly killed by the carriage passing over him. They refused to pay for the rig and the proprietor issued a capias against them.

Twenty years ago a young German couple named Staninhoff came to Harrison Wis., and a year or two afterwards a child was born to them, but it was bald at birth, and up to the present time has never had a hair on its head. Since then eleven children have been born to the couple, five of whom—three boys and two girls—are perfectly bald.

Peter Dehelert, a wealthy Brooklynite, in January, six weeks after his wife's death, married a young girl, to whom his eldest son was engaged. His children left home and sued him for $40,000, claimed to have been left by their mother. Yesterday Dehelert caused the imprisonment of his daughters, on a charge of stealing the garments they were wearing.

A sad case of home-sickness is reported from France. A young soldier in garrison at Mortimer fell a prey to this malady to such a degree that he excited the compassion of the officers, who tried by indulgence and kindness to cheer him up; but the mountains of his native Correeze were ever before the eyes of the poor conscript, and one evening he failed to answer the roll-call. His body was found on the railroad track, where it had been severed from the head by a passing train.

"Don't put too much confidence in lovers' vows and sighs," said Mrs. Partington to her niece: "let him tell you that you have lips like strawberries and cream, cheeks like a tarnation and eyes like an asterisk; but such things oftener come from a tender head than a tender heart."

NEW YORK, April 18.—The Fire Commissioners to-day ordered all places of amusement, hotels, churches, factories, etc., to provide at once such means for communicating alarms and extinguishing fires as the Commissioners may prescribe.

Representatives of the regiment of Coloured Militia in Charlestown S. C., presented the Governor with a memorial, asking him to leave their organization intact, and to commission field officers of their own selection. The Governor replied that coloured regiments should stand upon the same footing as white regiments.

A punster was once thrust into a closet with the threat that he would not be released until he made a pun. Almost instantaneously he exclaimed, "O—gun the door!"

In Cincinnati J. L. Cain was convicted of manslaughter, but before his sentence, his victim's mother sought the Judge and begged him to make the punishment as light as he could. She had known what it was to lose her boy and tearfully prayed that the law would not rob the murderer's mother as he had robbed his intercessor.

On the morning of 13th inst., a boy, in playing on the Traxler wharf in North Chatham, fell off into the river. Mr. John Forman, a printer, then at work on

MILLINERY

DOWNEY & SPENCE,

HAVE A LARGE, CHEAP, AND WELL ASSORTED

Stock of Millinery

SOMETHING NEW AND FRESH ARRIVING EVERY

All Orders Executed with Promptness and Taste

MISS PHALEN,

MILLIN

DRESS MAKING

MISS ALLISON,

DRESS MAKER,

—AT—

DOWNEY & SPENCE'S,

IS PREPARED TO EXECUTE ORDERS FOR

MANTLES AND DRESS

ON THE SHORTEST NOTICE.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED OR NO P

DOWNEY & SPENCE

in, and the whole work speedily accomplished. A half a dozen cleaners for three days are no more troublesome or expensive than half the number for twice as many days.

In clearing a room remove everything that can be removed without injury. Take down curtains and cover up such articles as must remain in the room. Take up such carpets as need cleaning, and if not sent to a carpet-sweeping establishment, remove them to the back yard, stretch across the clothes-line, and get a man to beat and brush them faithfully. While the carpets are receiving their share of attention another hand can clean whatever is removed from the room. Brush the upholstered furniture with a furniture brush, cleaning around each button or tuft. Turn sofas and chairs down, and beat them with a carpet or furniture whip, then brush again, and wipe the covers with a clean damp cloth to take off what dust that may have settled. Take a basin of warm soap suds and wash all the wood work and carving with a soft cloth. Wash only a small part of one thing at a time, and then wipe dry as quickly as possible, and polish with a chamois skin. If left wet till the whole piece is well washed the soap-suds may turn the varnish. But if carefully done it cleans furniture off all finger marks.

—Mrs. Beecher in Christian Union.

HOW TO ACT WHEN A DRESS IS IN FLAMES.

It may not be inappropriate to give a few hints as to the best method of extinguishing the flames, when a woman's or child's dress has unfortunately caught fire. If the sufferer has presence of mind enough to throw herself on the ground and roll over and over again until the by-standers can envelop her in some thick and non-inflammable covering, her chances of escape from serious injury will be much increased; but, unfortunately, the terror of the moment ordinarily overcomes every other feeling, and the sufferer rushes into the open air—the very worst thing she could do. The first thing for a by-stander to do is to provide himself with some non-inflammable article with which to envelop the patient, and a coat or cloak or, better, a table cloth or rug—will answer the purpose. Throwing this around the sufferer, he should, if possible, lay her on the ground and then rapidly cover over and beat out all the fire, keeping on the covering until every spark is extinguished. To attempt to extinguish fire by water is useless, unless the whole body of flame can be put out at one blow; and for one lightly-clad female to attempt to succor another when other persons are at hand is simply to imperil two lives instead of one. In the case of a house on fire, it is to be remembered that death is more frequently the result of suffocation from smoke than from contact with flame, and every effort should be made to reach the open air by crawling along the floor (where there is usually breathing space) so as to reach a window, or if necessary, by enveloping the head in a thick shawl to exclude the smoke while making a rush along a passage or down a staircase.—From "Domestic Surgery", in Cassell's Household Guide for March.

BAIT FOR THE POTATO BEETLE.

We have, as our readers know, regarded the use of Paris Green on the growing potato plant with distrust, but a correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune makes a suggestion, which we look upon as both wise and timely. Here it is:

By putting small heaps of bruised potatoes here and there in the field, early in Spring, and sprinkling the heaps with a little Paris Green the labor of fighting the Colorado Potato-beetle may be lessened a thousand-fold and the chances of a crop of potatoes correspondingly increased. The bugs began to fly the first warm days, long before a potato top was in sight. It appears to be taking a general survey and cogitating on main chances. At this early day its appetite is keen and come from a tender head than a tender heart."

NEW YORK, April 18.—The Fire Commissioners to-day ordered all places of amusement, hotels, churches, factories, etc., to provide at once such means for communicating alarms and extinguishing fires as the Commissioners may prescribe.

Representatives of the regiment of Coloured Militia in Charlestown S. C., presented the Governor with a memorial, asking him to leave their organization intact, and to commission field officers of their own selection. The Governor replied that coloured regiments should stand upon the same footing as white regiments.

A punster was once thrust into a closet with the threat that he would not be released until he made a pun. Almost instantaneously he exclaimed, "O-pun the door!"

In Cincinnati J. L. Cain was convicted of manslaughter, but before his sentence, his victim's mother sought the Judge and begged him to make the punishment as light as he could. She had known what it was to lose her boy and tearfully prayed that the law would not rob the murderer's mother as he had robbed his intercessor.

On the morning of 13th inst., a boy, in playing on the Traxler wharf in North Chatham, fell off into the river. Mr. John Forman, a printer, then at work on the steamer City of Montreal, gallantly sprang of the stage, a height of sixteen feet, into the water rescued him as he was on the point of sinking. The current is quiet strong, and Mr. Forman's courageous act cannot be too highly commended. The lad and his rescuer were well exhausted when they reached shore.

The shipwrights on the Clyde, to the number of 3,000 went out on strike on the 4th inst., as was determined upon a day or two before, for an increase of a penny per hour in their wages. The masters held a meeting in the course of the afternoon, and resolved to still resist the demands of the men, who also held a meeting later on and reiterated their resolution to fight out the question. In recent contracts which have been entered into by the masters a strike clause has been introduced under which the operations of contracts during the course of a strike are suspended. This, it is thought, will enable them to successfully contend with the men.

One of the most painful scenes which has taken place at an execution for many years was witnessed at Leeds, Eng. The bolt being drawn the rope broke, and Johnson fell to the ground. A second rope was procured by the executioner, and the condemned man was again led to the scaffold, but on this occasion his convulsions continued for some minutes.

A shantyman, in Ottawa named Larocque, came down from the woods and drew his winter's pay, $260. He spent $15 on clothes and then went on a spree. The next morning he was left without a cent. The police have the case in hand.

The incredible story is told of a young woman in Reading, Pa., that she visited a cemetery a day ago, and forcibly overturned a tombstone placed over the grave of another, who had enticed away her lover.

The following, epitomizes the whole history of the forty years conflict over the slavery question: An old man from Maryland came into Marshal Fred. Douglass's office to-day, and stood looking around as if in search of somebody. "Do you want to see marshal Douglass?" asked the clerk. "Yes," the man responded; "I was looking for him once when he was a fugitive slave, and I haven't seen him since." Mr. Douglass came in soon and the visitor's curiosity was gratified.

Somewhat remarkable is the fact that the United States sent more immigrants to Great Britain than she received immigrants from that country, during the

—AT—

DOWNEY & SPENCE'S,

IS PREPARED TO EXECUTE ORDERS FOR

MANTLES AND DRESSES

ON THE SHORTEST NOTICE.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED OR NO PAY

DOWNEY & SPENCE

"BEST PIANOS, LOWEST PRICES"

CHARLES D. BLAKE & Co's.

Grand Square and Upright Piano-For

JOHN N. LAZIER,
BELLEVILLE,

General Agent for the Dominion of Canada

MERITS OF THE BLAKE PIANO-FORTE

Its Great Durability

In Workmanship it Cannot be Surpassed, if Equaled.

In Power, Solidity, Purity and Equality of Tone.

It has no Competitor.

terror of the moment ordinarily overcomes every other feeling, and the sufferer rushes into the open air—the very worst thing she could do. The first thing for a by-stander to do is to provide himself with some non-inflammable article with which to envelop the patient, and a coat or cloak or, better, a table cloth or drugget—will answer the purpose. Throwing this around the sufferer, he should, if possible, lay her on the ground and then rapidly cover over and beat out all the fire, keeping on the covering until every spark is extinguished. To attempt to extinguish fire by water is useless, unless the whole body of flame can be put out at one blow; and for one lightly-clad female to attempt to succor another when other persons are at hand is simply to imperil two lives instead of one. In the case of a house on fire, it is to be remembered that death is more frequently the result of suffocation from smoke than from contact with flame, and every effort should be made to reach the open air by crawling along the floor (where there is usually breathing space) so as to reach a window, or if necessary, by enveloping the head in a thick shawl to exclude the smoke while making a rush along a passage or down a staircase.—From "Domestic Surgery", in Cassell's Household Guide for March.

BAIT FOR THE POTATO BEETLE.

We have, as our readers know, regarded the use of Paris Green on the growing potato plant with distrust, but a correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune makes a suggestion, which we look upon as both wise and timely. Here it is:

By putting small heaps of bruised potatoes here and there in the field, early in Spring, and sprinkling the heaps with a little Paris Green the labor of fighting the Colorado Potato-beetle may be lessened a thousand-fold and the chances of a crop of potatoes correspondingly increased. The bugs began to fly the first warm days, long before a potato top was in sight. It appears to be taking a general survey and cogitating on main chances. At this early day its appetite is keen and it will smell a bruised potato a long way. The heaps should be visited every day or two and the potatoes rebruised and sprinkled to keep up the odor. If the sun be very hot the heaps should be shaded from the direct rays or the potatoes soon dry and make poor bait. According to entomologists one beetle may be the mother of a hundred million in a single season. If this be true or one-tenth true, it will be seen that much is gained by giving the prolific mother a bite of green before she lays an egg. It is astonishing how many bugs can be killed at one small heap. Any small, worthless potatoes will do. Care should be taken to place the heaps where stock cannot get to them, and above all every farmer and every one owning a garden should work in concert.

MOLES.

In some parts of Belgium attempts have been made to extirpate the moles from the soil. At one of the most elegant chateaus in that country, surrounded by a park adorned by magnificent lawns, men were employed to catch and kill the moles. After a time they were killed off and disappeared entirely, in consequence of which the velvety grass of the lawn soon withered. The cause of the mischief was a small white insect which had kept down by the moles. These little animals, though troublesome at times, are, as the above incident proved, very useful on an estate. The proprietor of the chateau after he had made the discovery, was obliged to stock his place with a fresh supply of moles, after which the lawns flourished as formerly.

day or two before, for an increase of a penny per hour in their wages. The masters held a meeting in the course of the afternoon, and resolved to still resist the demands of the men, who also held a meeting later on and reiterated their resolution to fight out the question. In recent contracts which have been entered into by the masters a strike clause has been introduced under which the operations of contracts during the course of a strike are suspended. This, it is thought, will enable them to successfully contend with the men.

One of the most painful scenes which has taken place at an execution for many years was witnessed at Leeds, Eng. The bolt being drawn the rope broke, and Johnson fell to the ground. A second rope was procured by the executioner, and the condemned man was again led to the scaffold, but on this occasion his convulsions continued for some minutes.

A shantyman, in Ottawa named Larocque, came down from the woods and drew his winter's pay, $260. He spent $15 on clothes and then went on a spree. The next morning he was left without a cent. The police have the case in hand.

The incredible story is told of a young woman in Reading, Pa., that she visited a cemetery a day ago, and forcibly overturned a tombstone placed over the grave of another, who had enticed away her lover.

The following, epitomizes the whole history of the forty years conflict over the slavery question: An old man from Maryland came into Marshal Fred. Douglass's office to-day, and stood looking around as if in search of somebody. "Do you want to see marshal Douglass?" asked the clerk. "Yes," the man responded; "I was looking for him once when he was a fugitive slave, and I haven't seen 'im since." Mr. Douglass came in soon and the visitor's curiosity was gratified.

Somewhat remarkable is the fact that the United States sent more immigrants to Great Britain than she received immigrants from that country, during the year 1876, the respective numbers being 54,697 and 54,554. This is according to an article in the London Times reviewing the state of emigration and immigrations in that country for the past year. The hard times with us is, of course, responsible for this.

Robert Dicket, aged 14, was bitten by a cat on January 2nd., and now lies in a N. Y. hospital in a critical condition, from hydrophobia.

John B. Young while looking from a third floor window on Broadway, N. Y., fell, and was impaled upon an iron rod projecting from the sidewalk, inflicting fatal injuries.

Eliza Sanderon, aged 19, was found unconscious on the street last night, in N. Y., having attempted suicide by taking laudanum. Not long ago she jumped from a ferry boat, but was rescued. She accuses a Philadelphia Roman Catholic priest of seducing her while a member of his choir.

Whs was "Uncle Tom's Cabin" not written by a female hand? Because it was written by Mrs. Beechers Stowe (Beecher's toe.)

George Macdonald, the novelist has a family of eleven children. Girls and boys have succeeded each other in alternate order, and the unusual regularity in the Macdonald family has been utilized by giving to each girl the sole charge of the brother next in age, and expecting her to exercise over him a maternal care.

"What would you do, madam, if you were a gentleman?" "Sir, what would do if you were one?"

CHARLES D. BLAKE & Co's..

Grand Square and Upright Piano-Forte

JOHN N. LAZIER,
BELLEVILLE,

General Agent for the Dominion of Canada

MERITS OF THE BLAKE PIANOE-FORTE

Its Great Durability

In-Workmanship it Cannot be Surpassed, if Equaled.

In Power, Solidity, Purity and Equality of Tone.

It has no Competer.

As a Safe Investment, it is the Best.

It is Warranted in the most Satisfactory Manner

Every Improvement that has been recognized by people of cultivated taste to be of real benefit and utility, has been adopted by the Manufacturer of these pianos, and the grand result is, that for power, sweetness, brilliancy, singing quality of tone, even throughout the entire scale, delicacy and elasticity of touch, strength durability and beauty of finish, these Instruments stand unrivalled.

MOST SATISFACTORY TERMS OF PAYMENT

EVERY PIANO WARRANTED FOR 7 YEARS

AGENTS WANTED.

Illustrated Catalogues sent on application.

JOHN N. LAZIER, Belleville,

NAPANEE EXPRESS, APRIL, 27 1877.

MILLINERY . HARDWARE CHEAP

DOWNEY & SPENCE,

HAVE A LARGE, CHEAP, AND WELL ASSORTED

Stock of Millinery.

SOMETHING NEW AND FRESH ARRIVING EVERY DAY.

All Orders Executed with Promptness and Taste.

MISS PHALEN,

MILLINER.

DRESS MAKING.

MISS ALLISON,

DRESS MAKER.

—AT—

DOWNEY & SPENCE'S,

IS PREPARED TO EXECUTE ORDERS FOR

MANTLES AND DRESSES,

ON THE SHORTEST NOTICE.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED OR NO PAY.

DOWNEY & SPENCE

AT THE SIGN OF THE

GOLDEN AUGER,

RALPH PURDY

Napanee, April 6th, 1877.

MORE NEW GOODS

Every Department is now Complete,

AND WE INVITE

INSPECTION OF OUR STOCK AND PRICES.

CUTLERY,

SILVER-PLATED WARE,

SHELF HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION

CARRIAGE HARDWARE,

BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS AND STOCK,

CARPENTER'S AND JOINER'S TOOLS,

BUILDER'S HARDWARE,

CABINETMAKER'S SUPPLIES,

SAW MILL SUPPLIES,

CHEESE FACTORY APPARATUS AND SUPPLIES

PLOUGHS AND PLOUGH CASTING,

WOODENWARE, TINWARE, HOUSE FURNISHINGS

PAINTS, OILS AND VARNISH,

GLASS AND PUTTY,

STEAM AND GAS FITTING, ETC., ETC.

All of the above goods will be sold at Rock-Bottom Prices
Call and See.

WRIGHT & CO.

No-48.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF

PARLOUR and BEDROOM

FURNITURE,

—AT—

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

DRESS MAKER,

—AT—

DOWNEY & SPENCE'S,

IS PREPARED TO EXECUTE ORDERS FOR

MANTLES AND DRESSES,

ON THE SHORTEST NOTICE.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED OR NO PAY.

DOWNEY & SPENCE

"BEST PIANOS, LOWEST PRICES."

CHARLES D. BLAKE & Co's..

Grand Square and Upright Piano-Fortes.

JOHN N. LAZIER,
BELLEVILLE,

General Agent for the Dominion of Ganada.

MERITS OF THE BLAKE PIANOE-FORTE

Its Great Durability

In Workmanship it Cannot be Surpassed, if Equaled.

In Power, Solidity, Purity and Equality of Tone.

PLUGHS AND PLOUGH CASTING,
WOODENWARE, TINWARE, HOUSE FURNISHINGS
PAINTS, OILS AND VARNISH,
GLASS AND PUTTY,
STEAM AND GAS FITTING, ETC., ETC

All of the above goods will be sold at Rock-Bottom Prices.
Call and See.

WRIGHT & CO.
No. 48.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF

PARLOUR AND BEDROOM

FURNITURE,

—AT—

GREATLY EDUCED PRICES.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY!!

WILL UNDERSELL

Any Other House in this part of the Province

FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

ALWAYS IN STOCK.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

J. GIBBARD & SON.

MONEY TO LOAN.

We have received instructions from England, to Lend a large amount of Money,

AT LOWER RATES THAN HAS YET BEEN OFFERED.

CALL IN AND EXAMINE RATES.

NO COMMISSION CHARGED.

WILLIAMS & HOOPER.

CHARLES D. BLAKE & Co's..

Grand Square and Upright Piano-Fortes.

JOHN N. LAZIER,
BELLEVILLE,

General Agent for the Dominion of Canada.

MERITS OF THE BLAKE PIANOE-FORTE

Great Durability

In Workmanship it Cannot be Surpassed, if Equaled.

In Power, Solidity, Purity and Equality of Tone.

It has no Competitor.

As a Safe Investment, it is the Best.

It is Warranted in the most Satisfactory Manner

Every Improvement that has been recognized by people of cultivated taste, of real benefit and utility, has been adopted by the Manufacturers of these pianos, and the grand result is, that for power, sweetness, brilliancy and lasting quality of tone, even throughout the entire scale, delicacy and elasticity touch, strength durability and beauty of finish, these Instruments stand unequalled.

MOST SATISFACTORY TERMS OF PAYMENT

EVERY PIANO WARRANTED FOR 7 YEARS.

AGENTS WANTED.

Illustrated Catalogues sent on application.

JOHN N. LAZIER, Belleville,

FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

ALWAYS IN STOCK.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

J. GIBBARD & SON.

MONEY TO LOAN.

We have received instructions from England, to Lend a large amount of Money,

AT LOWER RATES THAN HAS YET BEEN OFFERED.

CALL IN AND EXAMINE RATES.

NO COMMISSION CHARGED.

WILLIAMS & HOOPER.

The Largest, Best Equipped, Most Thorough

AND

Practical Business School in Canada.

HAVING increased our facilities, we now offer better advantages than ever before. The Business Course is under the supervision of

S. G. BEATTY, Principal Actual Business Department.

W. B. ROBINSON, Principal Practical Department.

G. A. SWAYZE, Principal Theoretical Department.

IT IS SHORT, PRACTICAL AND USEFUL.

Able and Practical Instructors in the other Departments.

The whole time and attention of Students are devoted to just such subjects as every Farmer, Mechanic, Merchant, and Professional man requires in transacting every day business.

When desired by parents, boys will be placed in a boarding house under the supervision of a teacher, who will assist them in their evening studies, and see that they keep proper hours.

Specimens of Penmanship and circular containing full information respecting Terms, Nature of Course, etc., sent free of charge.

Address, S. G. BEATTY & Co.,
BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO.

8, APRIL, 27 1877.

HARDWARE CHEAP SPRING OPENING!

AT THE SIGN OF THE

GOLDEN AUGER,
RALPH PURDY

ancee, April 6th, 1877.

50

MORE NEW GOODS.

Every Department is now Complete,

AND WE INVITE

INSPECTIN OF OUR STOCK AND PRICES.

- FLERY,
SIVER-PLATED WARE,
SHELF HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION
BRIAGE HARDWARE,
BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS AND STOCK,
CARPENTER'S AND JOINER'S TOOLS,
BUILDER'S HARDWARE,
CABINETMAKER'S SUPPLIES,
SAW MILL SUPPLIES,
CHEESE FACTORY APPARATUS AND SUPPLIES
OUGHES AND PLOUGH CASTING,
WOODENWARE, TINWARE, HOUSE FURNISHINGS
PAINTS, OILS AND VARNISH,
GLASS AND PUTTY.
STEAM AND GAS FITTING, ETC., ETC

l of the above goods will be sold at Rock-Bottom Prices.
Call and See.

WRIGHT & CO.
No-48.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF

PARLOUR and BEDROOM
FURNITURE,

-AT-

GREATLY EDUCED PRICES.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE,

OPENED THEIR

MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

FOR THE SEASON, ON

Saturday Last, April 14th,

WITH THE

LARGEST AND FINEST STOCK OF MILLINERY

Ever shown. We have not time to send Special Cards of Inyitation, and we hope this will be accepted as a general invitation for every one to come.

Old and Young, Rich and Poor,

Everybody will be welcome and be treated with the same attention.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE

SAVE YOUR MONEY!

Times are hard and you can avoid buying new clothes if you will get those you have dyed and scoured so as to

LOOK AS GOOD AS NEW,

at a trifling expense. Remember that at

Montgomery's Steam Dye Works,

Opposite Madden's Tanney, near the River, all kinds of goods are cleaned and dyed on the shortest notice, and at the cheapest rates.

GETNLEMEN'S CLOTHING, MOURNING GOODS KID GLOVES, PLUMES, &c.

CLEANED AND DYED.

Call and give Montgomery a trial and be satisfied.

INSPECTIN OF OUR STOCK AND PRICES.

ERY,
SIVER-PLATED WARE,
SHELF HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION
PAGE HARDWARE,
BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS AND STOCK,
CARPENTER'S AND JOINER'S TOOLS,
BUILDER'S HARDWARE,
CABINETMAKER'S SUPPLIES,
SAW MILL SUPPLIES,
CHEESE FACTORY APPARATUS AND SUPPLIES
GHS AND PLOUGH CASTING,
WOODENWARE, TINWARE, HOUSE FURNISHINGS
PAINTS, OILS AND VARNISH,
GLASS AND PUTTY,
STEAM AND GAS FITTING, ETC., ETC

f the above goods will be sold at Rock-Bottom Prices.
Call and See.

WRIGHT & CO.
No-48.

GIBBARD & SON,

ARE SELLING OFF THEIR LARGE STOCK OF
PARLOUR and BEDROOM
FURNITURE,
-AT-
GREATLY EDUCED PRICES.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY!!

WILL UNDERSELL
y Other House in this part of the Province

UNEQUAL FURNISHINGS
ALWAYS IN STOCK.

CALL AND EXAMINE.
J. GIBBARD & SON.

MONEY TO LOAN.

Ve have received instructions from England, to lend a large amount of Money,
LOWER RATES THAN HAS YET BEEN OFFERED.
CALL IN AND EXAMINE RATES.

LARGEST AND FINEST STOCK OF

MILLINERY

Ever shown. We have not time to send Special Cards of Invitation, and we hope this will be accepted as a general invitation for every one to come.

Old and Young, Rich and Poor,

Everybody will be welcome and be treated with the same attention.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE

SAVE YOUR MONEY!

Times are hard and you can avoid buying new clothes if you will get those you have dyed and scoured so as to

LOOK AS GOOD AS NEW,

at a trifling expense. Remember that at

Montgomery's Steam Dye Works,

Opposite Madden's Tanney, near the River, all kinds of goods are cleaned and dyed on the shortest notice, and at the cheapest rates.

GETNLEMEN'S CLOTHING, MOURNING GOODS KID GLOVES, PLUMES, &c.

CLEANED AND DYED.
Call and give Montgomery a trial and be satisfied.

BOY AND GIRLS. FARMERS
WANTED.

10,000 OR MORE
LITTLE CHRISTIAN BOYS & GIRLS,
TO WORK FOR JESUS,

In helping to circulate Little Books, Tracts, &c.

WE will send FREE, complete Catalogue of Books, &c., on hand to any address, and for each Order received, to the amount of ONE DOLLAR, we will send the LITTLE BOY OR GIRL (sending the order) Books to the value of FIFTEEN CENTS on each dollar. Address.

WILLARD TRACT DEPOSITORY,
Shattisbury Hall Toronto.
On the 1st of July, 1877, we will send to the six Boys or Girls sending the Largest number of orders up to that date, one nice Pocket Bible each.

For the information of Christian generally, it may be briefly stated that this Institution, now in full operation, owes its origin to the liberality of a Christian gentleman, a resident of Toronto, who has invested a portion of his means in the enterprise, as a free-will offering to the Lord, with the view of scattering broadcast over our land, Tracts, Books, &c., &c., which unfold the exalted privileges of the believers, and treat of the "LIFE OF FAITH" or Trust, and of the power and peace of HOLINESS, and Gospel and Evangelical Literature.

Special notice is called to the fact that this is
No Denominational Institution.

It is neither connected with, nor under the patronage of any particular church. All the Publications it issues will be strictly evangelical, and will meet the wants of all Christians. Largely the Books, &c., &c., will be those published by the Willard Tract Repository of Boston, under the care of the well known DR. CULLIS.

ALL PROFITS that may be made will be devoted to the establishment of a fund for gratuitous distribution of the Tracts and Books to persons and places where they are needed as may be directed by the Committee. We beg also to say that this Fund for free distribution, is open for donations to all who may desire to help in this work of God.

We ask all who may desire to promote the higher spiritual life of the churches and to help in winning souls for Christ, to co-operate with us by circulating sound religious literature throughout the land.
References for further information may be

LENNOX & ADDINGTON,

Diamond & Sherwood,

Being alive to your interests as well as our own, wish to say to you we now have on hand all kinds of

SEED CRAINS.

Wheat, Best "fyfe" especially imported from the west,
Barley, Canadian No 1 Prize Centennial Medal,
Peas, Buckwheat, Rye,
Oats and Corn.

We also have on hand a quantity of No 1 Western Corn, and with the facilities for manufacturing which we possess, we can in a few minutes please the most fastidious, as to manner they wish it ground.

BRAN AND SHORTS.

We also present to your notice our

FLOUR,
OAT MEAL,
CRACKED WHEAT,
CORN MEAL,
GRAHAM FLOUR,
CRACKED CORN.

Each and every article of which stands unrivalled, and in which we intend to maintain our reputation both as to quality and price.

We ask for our goods a fair trial only, leaving it to our customers to answer any misrepresentation by our distribution.

WILL UNDERSELL

Other House in this part of the Province

NEED FURNISHINGS

ALWAYS IN STOCK.

CALL AND EXAMINE.

J. GIBBARD & SON.

MONEY TO LOAN.

ve received instructions from England, to Lend a large amount of Money,

WER RATES THAN HAS YET BEEN OFFERED.

CALL IN AND EXAMINE RATES.

NO COMMISSION CHARGED.

WILLIAMS & HOOPER.

Largest, Best Equipped, Most Thorough

AND

Practical Business School in Canada.

NG increased our faculties, we now offer better advantages than ever be
e. The Business Course is under the supervision of

J. BEATTY, Principal Actual Business Department.
B. ROBINSON, Principal Practical Department.
C. SWAYZE, Principal Theoretical Department.

IT IS SHORT, PRACTICAL AND USEFUL.

and Practical Instructors in the other Departments.

whole time and attention of Students are devoted to just such subjects as mer, Mechanic, Merchant, and Professional man, requires in transacting business.
i desired by parents, boys will be placed in a boarding house under the n of a teacher, who will assist them in their evening studies, and see that proper hours.
pecimens of Penmanship and circular containing full information respectin ature of Course, etc., sent free of charge.

Address, S. G. BEATTY & Co.,
BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO.

In helping to circulate Little Books, Tracts, &c.

WE will send FREE, complete Catalogue of Books &c. on hand to any address, and
for Each Order received, to the amount of ONE DOLLAR, we will send the LITTLE BOY OR GIRL
(sending the order) Books to the value of FIF-TEEN CENTS on each dollar. Address.

WILLARD TRACT DEPOSITORY,
Shaftesbury Hall Toronto.

On the 1st of July, 1877, we will send to the six Boys or Girls sending the Largest number of orders up to that date, one nice Pocket Bible
each.

For the information of Christians generally,
it may be briefly stated that this Institution,
now in full operation, owes its origin to the liberality of a Christian gentleman, a resident of Toronto, who has invested a portion of his means in the enterprise, as a free will offering to the Lord, with the view of scattering broadcast over our land, Tracts, Books, &c., &c., which unfold the exalted privileges of the believers, and treat of the "LIFE OF FAITH" or Trust, and of the power and peace of HOLINESS, and Gospel and Evangelical Literature.

Special notice is called to the fact that this is
No Denominational Institution.

It is neither connected with, nor under the patronage of any particular church. All the Publications it issues will be strictly evangelical, and will meet the wants of all Christians. Largely the Books, &c., &c., will be those published by the Willard Tract Repository of Boston, under the care of the well known Dr. CULLIS.

ALL PROFITS that may be made will be devoted to the establishment of a fund for gratuitous distribution of the Tracts and Books, to persons and places where they are needed, as may be directed by the Committee. We beg also to say that this Fund for free distribution is open for donations to all who may desire to help in this work of God.

We ask all who may desire to promote the higher spiritual life of the churches and to help in winning souls for Christ, to co-operate with us by circulating sound religious literature throughout the land.

References for further information may be made to the following brethren (and others who may be added) who will act as a Committee for selection and distribution.

Rev. JOHN POTTS, Methodist.
" R. WALLACE, Presbyterian.
" T. GUTTERY, Primitive Methodist.
" J. A. L. DICKSON, Congregationalist.
" J. DOUGLAS, Presbyterian, Cobourg.
" R. CAMERON, Baptist, Brantford.
Mr. G. HAGUE, Congregationalist.
" R. W. LAIRD, Baptist.
" W. T. MASON, Methodist.
" COL. BURTON, Christian.
" W. A. PARLANE, Episcopal.
" T. J. WILKIE, Congregationalist.
S. R. BRIGGS, Manager, Toronto.
A. BURSON, Manager, Manchester, England.
W. H. VAN TASSEL, General Agent,
Toronto.

P. S.—Nearly all of D. L. MOODY'S sermons, and many other precious little gems in book form at only 2c. and 3c. each. 42-47.

Dr. William Gray's Specific Medicine.

Before Taking
The Great
English Remedy is especially recommended
as an unfaultering cure for Semenal Weakness, Spermatorrhoea, Impe-
tency, and all diseases that follow as a sequence of Self Abuse, as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave, all of which as rules are first caused by deviating from the path
of nature and over indulgence.

The Specific Medicine is the result of a life
study and many years of experience in treating these special diseases. Pamphlet free by mail.
The Specific Medicine is sold by all Druggists
at 5-1 per package, or six packages for $5, or will be sent by mail on receipt of the money by addressing.

WILLIAM GRAY & Co.,
Windsor, Ont.

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED ! !

WE have recently published a new edition
of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage,
etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or
two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, of this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequence
may be radically cured without the dangerous
use of internal medicine, or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Address
THE CULVERTWELL MEDICAL CO.,

Post Office Box, 486. 41 Ann St., New York.
45-51.

DIAMOND & SHERWOOD,

Being alive to your interests as well as our own, wish to say to you we now have
on hand all kinds of

SEED CRAINS.

Wheat, Best "fyfe" especially imported
from the west,
Barley, Canadian No 1 Prize Centennial Medal,
Peas, Buckwheat, Rye,
Oats and Corn.

We also have on hand a quantity of
No 1 Western Corn, and with the facilities for manufacturing which we possess,
we can in a few minutes please the most fastidious, as to manner they wish it ground.

BRAN AND SHORTS.

We also present to your notice our

FLOUR,
OAT MEAL,
CRACKED WHEAT,
CORN MEAL,
GRAHAM FLOUR,
CRACKED CORN.

Each and every article of which stands unrivaled, and in which we intend to maintain our reputation both as to quality and price.

We ask for our goods a fair trial only, leaving it to our customers to answer any misrepresentation by our detractors, as we are assured no adverse judgment will be passed by a jury composed of the general community who have once patronized us. To them we leave our case.

-- ALSO --

MESS PORK,
BACON,
LARD,
TIMOTHY AND
CLOVER SEEDS.

DIAMOND & SHERWOOD,

49-41.

IT IS A FACT, THAT PHOSFOZONE,

is a preparation of Phosphorus which restores to the human frame the most essential elements of life, giving Energy and Vitality to the whole muscular and nervous system, strengthens the Lungs, Liver, Stomach, Heart and Kidneys. A fresh supply just received by

DETLOF & SCOTT, Napanee.

Fish! Fish!! Fish!!!

RECEIVED DAILY.

Fresh and good at S. McLaughlins, also New Oranges, Lemons, Dates, &c., kept constantly on hand.
S. McLAUGHLIN
Dundas St.

Head Quar ters.

PURE BRED, WHITE LEGHORNS.

I am prepared to furnish Eggs, from the best prize winning strains in the country. $2.00 per 13 eggs.

ROBERT WEBSTER,
East Street,
3-in.

"Napanee Express,"

A Reform Political and Family Newspaper,
IS PUBLISHED
EVERY FRIDAY MORNING, AT THE OFFICE,

Warner's Block, East Street, Napanee, a few
doors north of Soby House Corner.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.
$1.00 per annum in advance, free of postage, or
$1.50 if not so paid.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.

Column for one year,	$80 00
Column for six months,	45 00
Column for three months,	24 00
Half a column for one year,	40 00
Half a column for six months,	24 00
Half a column for three months,	20 00
Quarter of a column for one year,	15 00
Quarter of a column for six months,	10 00
Quarter of a column for three months,	10 00
Notices under ten lines, three times,	1 00
Over ten lines, first insertion, per line,	10
Each subsequent insertion, per line,	3
Business Cards under ten lines per year,	4 00

Displayed Advertisements are measured by a scale of solid Nonpareil, and charged accordingly.
Advertisements sent without written instructions inserted until forbidden, and charged for full time.

Orders for discontinuing advertisements must be in writing, otherwise the publisher will not be responsible.

A liberal discount for contract advertisements
by the year.

Business notices in local columns, first insertion ten cents per line of Nonpareil; five cents per line each subsequent insertion. Five cents
per line per annum.

To Subscribers.—No paper will be stopped until all arrears are paid, except at the option of the proprietor. A post office notice to discontinue is not sufficient.

25-Yearly and half yearly Contracts are payable every THREE MONTHS.

Correspondence solicited from all parts of the county or neighboring townships. Correspondents are requested to send in their communications as promptly as possible.

JOB PRINTING

In every style and of every description, executed with neatness and dispatch at reasonable rates.
J. B. BENSON, Publisher and Proprietor.

Business Cards.

Alex. C. Davis,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Napanee
Ontario

James Aylsworth,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Tam-
worth.

S. D. Clarke,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Odessa,
Ontario.

J. J. Watson,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates, Adolphustown.

Peter E. R. Miller,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Switzer-
ville Ont.

Robert (Graham),

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Office
In the Dominion Store, Enterprise.

J. B. Allison,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Licentiate. Parma P. O., South
Fredericksburg.

Charles Lane,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Ce-
rificates. Office—Front of Grima
School, Bridge Street, Napanee.

A. B. Randall,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Also Agent for the Beaver and
Toronto Fire Insurance Company and the
Mutual Life Association of Canada. Residence—Shanleyville, Ont.

Murphy & Bedford,

BARRISTERS, &c., MILL POINT.
Money to lend on improved Real Estate.

H. M. Deroche,

Attorney-at-Law, So

Napanee

J. B. BENSON, Publisher.)

VOL. 16.

NAPANEE, C

NAPANEE TICKET AGENCY.

Grand Trunk Railway Tickets for sale at Grange & Bro's Drug Store,

For all stations east and west. American money taken at par, from Napanee to Milwaukee, Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha, San Francisco &c., to all Lake Ports. Passengers purchasing tickets from the undersigned avoid
the double and delay of exchanging tickets,
and re-checking baggage to Toronto. Cheapest route to the west. Return tickets to Kingston Belleville, Toronto, Montreal, Portland
etc. For further particulars apply at GRANGE & BRO'S Drug Store, Office, Passenger agent
G.T.R. Uncurrent money bought and sold

Imperial Life Insurance Co.

OFFICE LONDON (ESTABLISHED 1803), Capital and Reserved
Fund

£1,969,000 - - - - - Sterling.
Funds invested in Canada.—$105,000

RINROUL Bros., General Agents,
24 St. Sacramento St. Montreal.

H. L. GEDDES, Agent,
Napanee and vicinity.

THE PRICE EDWARD COUNTY

MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE CO

HEAD OFFICE—PICTON, ONT.

(Established 30th Sept., 1854).

PRESIDENT—LEWIS B. STINSON

VICE-PRESIDENT—W. BOULTER.

MANAGER—L. B. STINSON.

SECRETARY—JOHN TWIGG.

TREASURER—PHILIP LOW, Q. C.

INS. OF LOSSES & A's.—J. HOWELL.

SOLICITOR—W. H. R. ALLISON

DIRECTORS.—JAS. JOHNSTON, WM.

DELONG, JOHN PRINYER.

S. B. HUBBS, J. VANALSTINE.

HONORARY DIRECTORS.—G. Striker, Esq.

M. P. P., Pictou; R. Clapp, Esq., Mil-

ford; K. Graham, Esq., Belleville; P.

Allan, C. A. Lloyd, J. P. Dorland, Esq.,

Adolphustown; J. C. Hallman, Esq., J. T.

Grange, Esq., M. P. P., Napanee; J. E.

Proctor, Esq., Brighton; G. W. Webb,

Esq., Colborne; G. Jones, Esq., Trenton;

J. Redner, Esq., Rednersville; Owen

Roblin, Esq., Ameliasburg; H. A.

McFaul, Esq., Hillier.

This Company is established upon strictly
Mutual principles, insuring farm property
Townships, and property not more hazardous in Towns and Villages and offers great

advantages to insure at low rates for Three or Four Years either, on the Premium
Note or Cash System.

March 9th, 1875. 521-y.

CATARRH!

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Cat-
arrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs,
and Droppings in Throat Disappear.

SE. MAY 1, 1875. 13-12 14, 1876

MR. T. J. B. HARDING,

Dear Sir:—Being desirous that others may know of a cure for the benefits of your ONTI-TARRH, I wish to inform you that it has done for me. I am twenty-five years old; had been out of health for about
five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines,
without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued to get worse, until last fall,
when I had become so bad as to be unable to work at a time. Had severe sore-

BRISCO HOUSE, NAPANEE, ONT.

JOHN SOBY, -- Proprietor.

A First-Class Hotel

in all its Appointments.
Omnibuses meet all Trains and Steamers.

PAISLEY HOUSE.

(John St. opposite the Market.)

NAPANEE, ONT.

A First-Class Hotel centrally located, with excellent yard and stabling accommodations.

CHAS. PAISLEY,

PROPRIETOR.

CAMPBELL HOUSE, NAPANEE, Ont.

THE PRINCIPAL HOTEL IN TOWN.

Cool Stabling & Attentive Ostler.
CHARGES AS USUAL.

MARSDEN & MOORE,
PROPRIETORS.

TICHBORNE HOUSE, (Corner Dundas & John Streets.)

NAPANEE.

ROBERT McDONALD,
Proprietor.

A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL. CHARGES MODERATE.

QUEEN'S HOTEL, BELLEVILLE

Every Accommodation for Commercial
Travellers.

A. P. FARRELL,
PROPRIETOR.

McDONALD HOUSE, (Late Clark House)

BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Pictou and Campbellford.

Pass to and from the cars. 33-y.

Land for Sale 30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for
the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and
Wild Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres;
also of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low
prices and easy terms.

Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets
Napanee.

JAMES F. BARTLES.

Napanee, Sept. 12th 1876.

FOR CHEAP

GROCERIES,
CROCKERY &
GLASSWARE

ALMIRY JANE'S MIS

Almiry Jane had gone to school,
And studied under the masters'
Geometry she had studied,
But Almiry Jane couldn't make a

She was extreme on geography.
Knew about electricity,
Globes and spheres and plenty in
But Almiry Jane couldn't sweep

Posted on latitude, on longitude
Laws of heat like a book she knew Knew the cause of cold and wet,
But Almiry Jane couldn't dinner

Knew the names of Grecian King
Likewise what birds had the long Knew to the pole how the needle
But with her own needle she not

Almiry Jane she had married to Off went her learning and off went Husband who married her quick
All she'd learned she'd be better

Almiry Jane she agreed with him
Said of the school board sharp we Settled to business, and as time
What she should have learned firing at last.

Mothers, be warned, and don't let fill
With humming their heads; useful still.

For there are but few daughters complain)
Who will learn after marriage li-
-Grip.

THE DEAD BR

—OR—

THE THREE THROWS OF

One lovely autumn fore-months after the close of a war, Robert Arundel and m into Warne's pistol gallery
street, in Baltimore.

Let me pause a moment a retrospective view.

Rob and I had been chum
I not only loved him as a looked up to him with a fee-reverence. His mental and superiority over the rest of was unquestioned; he out-his studies, was exceedingly and the best rider, shot and miles around. At the sanamiability, liveliness and ge-armed all envy. Not for breaking out of the rob although a native of southern which was intense in its
the cause of the Confedera-ranks of the Union army.
him again, till about a moto the time at which this Heavens! what a change.
gard, gloomy and taciturn
scarcely the shadow of his
All his old blitheness of sprand occasionally fits of obsting which he gnashed his tetered unintelligibly, almost for his sanity. I must not tion that he had a long,
above his right temple, in r-origin of which I asked him
casion, but he evaded the fact, he avoided, as much as conversation relating to the dict which had recently be-understood, however, from which he once inadvertently that he was still suffering from

In every style and at every price, from the most elaborate with neatness and despatch, at reasonable rates.
J. B. BENSON.
Publisher and Proprietor.

Business Cards.

Alex. C. Davis,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Napanee
Ontario.

James Aylsworth,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Tam-
worth.

S. D. Clarke,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Odessa,
Ontario.

J. J. Watson,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates, Adolphustown.

Peter E. R. Miller,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Switzer-
ville Ont.

Robert Graham,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Office
In the Dominion Store, Enterprise.

J. B. Allison,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Parma P. O., South
West Dericksburg.

Charles Lane,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Office—Front of Grima
School, Bridge Street, Napanee.

A. B. Randall,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses and Certificates. Also Agent for the Beaver and
Toronto Fire Insurance Company and the
Mutual Life Association of Canada. Residence—Shannerville, Ont.

Murphy & Bedford,
BARRISTERS, &c., MILL POINT.
Money to lend on improved Real Estate.

H. M. Deroche,
BARRISTER and Attorney-at-Law, Solicitor in Chancery, Conveyancer, No-
tary Public, etc. OFFICE—In Grange
Block, John Street, Napanee, Ont.

E. B. Stone,
Attorney-at-Law, Solicitor in Chan-
cery, Conveyancer, &c. OFFICE—
Over T. Molloy's Dry Goods Store.
Money to Lend at 8 per cent.

Cartwright & Gibson,
BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law. So-licitors in Chancery and Insolvency. No-
taries Public, etc. OFFICE—Grange Block
John Street, Napanee.
S. CARTWRIGHT. S. GIBSON.

R. Tracy, M. D.,
BELLEVILLE.
PHYSICIAN, Surgeon and Accoucheur.
Office and Residence, two doors east
from the Bank of Montreal, near the Congregation, Church, Hotel St.

Reeve & Morden,
BARRISTERS and Attorneys-at-Law
Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers,
etc. OFFICE—Perry's New Block Dundas
Street, Napanee, Ontario.
W. A. REEVE, M. A., L. MORDEN.
Co. Crown Attorney.

E. A. Deroche,
OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, under New Act
of 1875.
Office in H. M. Deroche's Law Office.

Williams & Hooper,
BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, So-
licitors in Chancery and Insolvency.
Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.
Napanee, Ontario.
W. S. WILLIAMS, E. A. HOOPER, M. A.
Official Assignee.

W. F. Hall,
OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, under Insol-
vent Act of 1875. Fire Insurance
Agent, &c. Office of Napanee Paper Mills.

THE PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY
MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE CO
HEAD OFFICE—PICTON, ONT.
(Established 30th Sept., 1874).

PRESIDENT—LEWIS B. STINSON
VICE-PRESIDENT—W. BOULTER.
MANAGER—L. B. STINSON.
SECRETARY—JOHN TWIGG.
TREASURER—PHILIP LOW, Q. C.
INS. OF LOSSES & A's.—J. HOWELL.
SOLICITOR—W. H. R. ALLISON.
DIRECTORS.—JAS. JOHNSTON, W. M.
DELONG, JOHN PRINER.
S. B. HUBBS, J. VANALSTINE.
HONORARY DIRECTORS.—G. Striker, Esq.
M. P. P., Picton; R. Clapp, Esq., Mil-
ford; K. Graham, Esq., Belleville; P.
Allan, C. A. Lloyd, J. P. Dorland, Esqs., Adolphustown; J. C. Haffman, Esq., J. T.
Grange, Esq., M. P. P., Napanee; J. E.
Proctor, Esq., Brighton; G. W. Webb,
Esq., Colborne; G. Jones, Esq., Trenton;
J. Redner, Esq., Rednersville; Owen
Roblin, Esq., Ameliasburg; H. A.
McFaul, Esq., Hildier.
This Company is established upon strictly
Mutual principles, insuring farm property
Townships, and property not more hazardous in Towns and Villages and offers great advantages to insure at low rates for Three or Four Years either on the Premium
Note or Cash System.
March 9th, 1875. 521-y.

CATARRH!

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Cat-
arrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Lungs,
and Droppings in Throat Disappear.

SE. MAY 10, 1875. 14, 1876.
MR. T. J. B. HARDING,
Dear Sir:—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTI-TUTIONAL REMEDY, I wish to inform you that it has done for me. I am twenty-five years old; had been out of health for about
five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines,
without receiving any permanent benefit, but
continued rather to grow worse, until last fall,
when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe sore-ness and pain under the shoulder blades and
through the shoulders, with very lame back,
and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual droppings in the throat and down upon the stomach, such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which cured my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to engage in an arduous labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use
of your Catarrh Remedy.
Yours truly, HENRY RIDER.
Price 1 per bottle. For sale by all Druggists.

Consumption Cured!

An old physician, retired from active
practice, having had placed in his hands
by an East India Missionary the formula
of a Vegetable Remedy, for the speedy
and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat
and Lung Affections: also a Positive and
Radical Cure for Nervous Debility and
all Nervous Complaints, after having
thoroughly tested its wonderful curative
powers in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering
fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send FREE OF CHARGE, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper.
DR. W. C. STEVENS,
Box 86, Brockville, Ont.

700 Doz. have been sold since April last, of Brant's Rheumatic Absorbent and Dis-
gestive Fluid.
The Rheumatic Absorbent will positively relieve all pain from rheumatism or other inflammatory swellings in 12 hours.
The Digestive Fluid has never failed to cure
Erysipelas. Relief is felt in a few hours.
The most obstinate cases are cured within a week.
A Lady writes: I have been cured from the Lingering Pneumonia, and Bronchitis, Catarrh and Dyspepsia, and all other ailments, in a few days by its use. Each bottle costs 12 cents. Wholesale

IN TOWN.
Good Stabling & Attentive Ostler.
CHARGES AS USUAL.
MARSDEN & MOORE,
PROPRIETORS.

TICHBORNE HOUSE,
(Corner Dundas & John Streets.)
NAPANEE.
ROBERT McDONALD,
Proprietor.

A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL.
CHARGES MODERATE.

QUEEN'S HOTEL,
BELLEVILLE.
Every Accommodation for Commercial
Travellers.
A. P. FARRELL,
PROPRIETOR.

McDONALD HOUSE,
(Late Clark House).
BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Campbellford.
Buss to and from the cars. 39-y.

 Land for Sale
30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for
the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and
Wild Timber Lands to the extent of 30,000 acres;
also of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low
prices and easy terms.
Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets
Napanee.
JAMES F. BARTLES.
Napanee, Sept. 12th 1876.

FOR CHEAP
GROCERIES,
CROCKERY &
GLASSWARE
GO TO
GEORGE REID'S
NEXT DOOR TO POST OFFICE.

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.
A. PETTIS, ODESSA,
DEALER IN

Sast, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese
Boxes, Tubs, Pickins, etc.
I am now making a very superior article
in a sawed cheese box, which I will sell at 72. All orders intrusted to me
will receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS.,
LIVERY AND SALE STABLES
(ADJOINING THE BRISCH HOUSE.)
NAPANEE, ONT.
We keep nothing but First-Class
Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE
PRICES.

 J. W. A. REID

With humping their heads; useful
still.
For there are but few daughters
complain!
Who will learn after marriage li-
-Grip.

THE DEAD BR
—OR—
THE THREE THROWS OF

One lovely autumn fore-months after the close of a war, Robert Arundel and my into Warne's pistol gallery
street, in Baltimore.
Let me pause a moment at a retrospective view.

Rob and I had been chum
I not only loved him as a looked up to him with a fee
reverence. His mental and periority over the rest of was unquestioned; his out-his studies, was exceedingly
and the best rider, shot and miles around. At the same amiability, liveliness and ge-armed all envy. Not long breaking out of the rebel although a native of southern
which was intense in its
the cause of the Confederacy
ranks of the Union army.

him again until about a mon-
to the time at which this Heavens! what a change.
gard, gloomy and taciturn
scarcely the shadow of his
All his old blitheness of spirit and occasionally fits of abstracting which he gnashed his tee-tered unintelligibly, almost for his sanity. I must not fo-tion that he had a long, I above his right temple, in re-origin of which I asked him casual, but he evaded the fact, he avoided, as much as conversation relating to the dict which had recently ter-understood, however, from which he once inadvertently
that he was still suffering from
of this wound internally, altho apparently healed. But in a surprising alteration, he was true and affectionate friend and we saw each other every
To resume.

At the shooting stand we some six or eight gentlemen, alone, whose back was turned him. At every discharge struck the centre of the targ-erring accuracy. After a marksman playfully addressing companions:—

"Three bottles of champagne
bull's eye every shot in two!

No one, however, seem-take the proffered bet.

"Very well then," he con-will try it for my own amusement.
Eleven times in succession he
the centre. The twelfth time
With an oath, out at the sam-ing, he turned. I now recognia slight assistance, and each other. Then glancing Arundel, I was amazed to find riven by an indelible sion upon the countenance of
man. Clutching my arm, he whispered:—

"Come, George, let us leave at once, or I shall choke!"

Silently I followed him out.
Suddenly he inquired:—
"Who is that—that man, to spoke?"

"That is Major Beverly, of the Confederate army. He is but came to Baltimore on a short and is now doing business here
you ask, Bob?"

"You shall know all when at my lodging. Now let me thoughts."

My friend seemed to be lab-some great excitement, while time we reached the room, he well nigh in a fever. I also Barristers in Chancery and Insolvency, Notaries Public, etc. OFFICE—Grange Block John Street, Napanee.

S. CARTWRIGHT. S. GIBSON.

R. Tracy, M. D.,
BELLEVILLE.

PHYSICIAN, Surgeon and Accoucheur
Office and Residence, two doors east
from the Bank of Montreal, near the Congregation, Church, Hotel St. 39

Reeve & Morden,

BARRISTERS and Attorneys-at-Law
Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers,
etc. OFFICE—Perry's New Block Dundas
Street, Napanee, Ontario.
W. A. REEVE, M. A., L. MORDEN.
Co. Crown Attorney.

E. A. Deroche,

OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, under New Act
of 1875.
Office in H. M. Deroche's Law Office.

Williams & Hooper,

BARRISTERS, Attorneys-at-Law, So-
licitors in Chancery and Insolvency,
Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.,
Napanee, Ontario.
W. S. WILLIAMS, E. J. HOOPER, M. A.
Official Assignee

W. F. Hall,

OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE, under Insol-
vent Act of 1875. Fire Insurance
Agent, &c. Office of Napanee Paper Mills,
East Street.

Henderson & Coats,

LAW, Chancery, and Conveyancing
Solicitors in Insolvency and Bankruptcy. OFFICE—In Grange Block,
John Street, Napanee.
ROBERT L. HENDERSON,
Attorney Solicitor and Notary Public,
Canadian Courts.
COATS,
Solicitor in High Courts of Judicature, and Notary Public, English
Courts.
Money to Loan.

James Grange, M. D.,

GRADUATE University of Victoria
College, Canada, and College and
Physicians and Surgeons, Ontario,
Member of the College of Physicians
and Surgeons, Ontario.
Special Attention paid to Diseases of
the Eye.
Office and Residence, Centre Street,
Napanee, Ont.

James F. Bartles,

LAND AGENT, Fire, Life and Accident Insurance Agent OFFICE—
corner of Dundas and West Streets, Napanee.

F. Bartlett

ARCHITECT AND BUILDER, West Street, Napanee Plans, Specification
and Detail Drawings, furnished. Builder's work measured, and value computed

Kair's Machine Shop,

STEAM ENGINES and all kinds of Boilers made to order. Also all kinds of Machinery repaired on the shortest notice. Remember the place, opposite the old City Hotel, corner of Adelaide and Bridge Streets.

Patfield Life Insurance Co.

ESTABLISHED - 1816.
CAPITAL, $1,000,000.

A MOUNT DEPOSITED IN CAN-ADA in accordance with the Act
30,000.

Insures property against fire as low
as any other reliable company. All losses equitably adjusted and promptly paid in Canada funds or Gold. Isolated dwellings insured at exceedingly
low rates.

H. L. GEDDES, Agent.
for Napanee and vicinity.

Consumption Cured!

An old physician, retired from active
practice, having had placed in his hands
by an East India Missionary the formula
of a Vegetable Remedy, for the speedy
and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat
and Lung Affections: also a Positive and
Radical Cure for Nervous Debility and
all Nervous Complaints, after having
thoroughly tested its wonderful curative
powers in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering
fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send FREE OF CHARGE, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper.

DR. W. C. STEVENS,
Box 56, Brockville, Ont.

700 Doz. have been sold since April last, of Brantons Rheumatic Absorbent and Digestive Fluid.
The Rheumatic Absorbent will positively relieve all pain from rheumatism or other inflammatory swellings in 12 hours.
The Digestive Fluid has never failed to cure
Dyspepsia. Relief is felt in a few hours. The most obstinate cases are cured within a week.
A lady writes: "I have been saved from Life
Longing Pains. I had Bronchitis, Catarrh and Dyspepsia, and was cured in a few days by its use. Sold by Druggists, price 75c. Wholesale by Northrop & Lyman. Advice for particular
cases free. Address:
W. Y. BRUNTON, London

WANTED,

We want reliable, energetic canvassing
agents in every town in the Dominion for the new "Illustrated History of the Dominion of Canada." This work is truly magnificent, containing over 2,000 double column quarto pages, and over 300 superb
full page engravings. The work is published in Parts, on a plan which insures
its welcome to every English reading
family. To energetic young men and ladies,
who are willing to work, we will guarantee a permanent position for two years,
and good pay. Don't fail write! to for our private terms, sample pages, etc. This is a grand opportunity for school teachers to make more than double their salaries
without interfering with their professional duties. The works being manufactured at a cost of over $20,000, for the literary, artistic and mechanical work of producing the plates by the old well
known, reliable Lovell Printing and Publishing Co., of Montreal. All letters from agents must be addressed to the Publishers.
General agents as follows:
HAZEN B. BIGNEY & Co.,
28 and 30 St. Francis Xavier Street,
MONTREAL, QUE.

NEW

TAILORING ESTABLISHMENT,

MAX FOX

Boys leave to inform the gentlemen of Napanee and vicinity, that he has opened a shop over

SWEENEY BROS.,

where he is prepared to cut and make-up

GENTLEMENS CLOTHING

in the latest style, as cheap as the Cheapest
and as good as the Best.

Economical ENGINES

TO DRIVE
GRIST MILLS, FACTORIES, ETC.,

ADDRESS THE
WATROUS ENGINE WORKS CO
Brantford, Ont.

*State where you saw this advertisement.

A. PETTIS, ODESSA,

DEALER IN

Sast, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese
Boxes, Tubs, Pickins, etc.

I am now making a very superior article
in a sawed cheese box, which I will sell at 25c. All orders entrusted to me
will receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS.,

LIVERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE BRISCH HOUSE.)

NAPANEE, ONT.

We keep nothing but First-Class
Horses and Vehicles, and at REASONABLE
PRICES

J. NO. A. REID

VET. SURGEON
NAPANEE ONT.

GRADUATE OF

Ontario Veterinary College.

May be consulted on all diseases of Domesticated Animals, personally at Campbell House
or by letter.

TERMS MODERATE

OFFICE—Warner Block

OCEAN TICKETS.

OCEAN Tickets for sale via Quebec or Halifax
in summer, Halifax or Portland in winter, by the Allan S. S. Line, White Star Line, Imman and National, via New York. Also return tickets at reduced rates to any point in the Old Country.

RAILWAY TICKETS.

Tickets by the Great Western Railway, to all
points and return at reduced rates.

EXCHANGE OFFICE.

American money bought and sold, and drafts
on New York.

ACCIDENTAL INSURANCE.

Agent for the Accidental Insurance Co. of Canada.

A. H. ABLISSON, Agent.

Montreal Telegraph Office.

4-10. 100 St. Malheur's Drug Store

THE GREAT FEMALE REMEDY.

JOB MOSES' PERIODICAL PILLS.

This well known medicine is no imposition,
but a sure and safe remedy for Female Difficulties and Obstructions, from any cause whatever
and although a powerful remedy, it contains nothing hurtful to the constitution.

To MAHEDD LADIES it is peculiarly suited. It will, in a short time bring on the monthly period
with regularity.
In all cases of Nervous and spinal Affections,
Pain in the Back and Limbs, Headaches, Fatigue on slight exertion, debility of the Heart, Low-ness of Spirits, Hysteria, Sick Headaches, Whites, and all the painful diseases occasioned
by a disordered system, these pills will effect a cure when all other means have failed.

These Pills have never been known to fail where the directions on the 2nd page of pamphlet are well observed.

For further particulars, see a pamphlet, from
the agent.

JOB MOSES, NEW YORK, SOLE PROPRIETOR.

Six and 12c. packets for postage, enclosed to Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., general
agents for the Dominion, will insure a bottle containing over 50 pills, by return mail.

Sold in Napanee by all Druggists. Mill Point
by W. G. Eggar, Tamworth Aylsworth & Huff man, and all medicine dealers.

ing companions—

"Three bottles of champagne
bull's eye every shot in two
No one, however, seem take the proffered bet.

"Very, well then," he co-
will try it for my own amusement.
Eleven times in succession he
the centre. The twelfth time
With an oath, out at the sam-ing, he turned. I now recoga slight acquaintance, and each other. Then glancing Ample, I was amazed to find riveted with an indescribable
sion upon the countenance of
man. Clutching my arm, he whispered—

"Come, George, let us leave
at once, or I shall choke!"

Silently I followed him into Suddenly he inquired—

"Who is that—that man, to spoke?"

"That is Major Beverly, of
the Confederate army. He is but came to Baltimore a short and is now doing business here
you ask, Bob?"

"You shall know all when
at my lodging. Now let me
thoughts."

My friend seemed to be lab-
some great excitement, while time we reached the room, he well nigh in a fever. I also the region of the ear on his fi-swollen and inflamed. So towel with cold water, he aphis brow, saying in a low voice—

"The wound burns into brain; we had no surgeon innie did the best she could, but was not sufficient to—"

It was the first time I heard that name.

Gradually the inflammation layed, and, casting himself upon his bed, he began—

"We had fought a victorious the valley of Virginia, in which ed this wound. My companpatched to an isolated post camped on a farm of a gent was well known for his union
I, the nearly dying captain, into the house and tenderly the loyalist's daughter. I wi-the details of our passionate ening. One day, just as I convalescent, we were attacked band of guerrillas. Nearly a man was killed, wounded or the old loyalist was shot down eyes, and his mansion set on succeeded in securing a couple which Annie and I mounted, we sped like the wind. The had no one now in the world We determined to do our best the federal lines. We had run hours through a thicket, when a loud "halt!" arrested us. I I beheld a confederate officer back but a few paces ahead of revolver leveled. A short the right was a small encansoldiers of the same stripe.

lost. Silently and secretly, grasped my revolver. Yo prisoner," said the officer to me once into yonder camp; in th
I will speak to the lady." "SI-trothed, and shall not be part I replied. "Obey, you dog; will take care of the lady!"

sion of his face was sardonic, now very close. Quicker than I spurred my horse upon his,
and a terrible blow upon the his weapon spinning to the g-little girl and I darted off like score of rebels were at once to the officer, who had dismounted van. Turning to look back my infinite relief, that we

Napanee Express

"THE GREATEST GOOD TO THE GREATEST NUMBER."

NAPANEE, ONT., FRIDAY, MAY 4 1877.

BRISCO HOUSE,
NAPANEE, ONT.
JOHN SOBY, -- Proprietor.
A First-Class Hotel
all its appointments.
Omnibuses meet all Trains and Steamers.

PAISLEY HOUSE.
(John St. opposite the Market.)
NAPANEE, ONT.
A First Class Hotel centrally located, with excellent yard and stabling accommodations.
CHAS. PAISLEY,
PROPRIETOR.

CAMPBELL HOUSE,
NAPANEE, Ont.
THE PRINCIPAL HOTEL
IN TOWN.
Good Stabling & Attentive Ostler.
CHARGES AS USUAL.
MARSDEN & MOORE,
PROPRIETORS.

TICHBORNE HOUSE,
(Corner Dundas & John Streets.)
NAPANEE.
ROBERT McDONALD,
Proprietor.

A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL.
CHARGES MODERATE.

QUEEN'S HOTEL,
BELLEVILLE
Every Accommodation for Commercial Travellers.
A. P. FARRELL,
PROPRIETOR.

McDONALD HOUSE,
(Late Clark House)
BRIGHTON, ONT.

Trains leave this House daily, for Picton and Municipality.
Pass to and from the cars. 33-yl.

 Land for Sale
30,000 ACRES.
The subscriber has been appointed Agent for the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and 16 Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres, of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low and easy terms.
Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets, Napanee.
JAMES F. BARTLES.
Advertiser, Sept. 12th 1876.

FOR CHEAP

ALMIRY JANE'S MISTAKE.
Almiry Jane had gone to school, And studied under the masters' rule, Geometry she had studied, But Almiry Jane couldn't make a bed.
She was extreme on geography, Knew about electricity, Globes and spheres and plenty more, But Almiry Jane couldn't sweep a floor.
Posted on latitude, on longitude too, Laws of heat like a book she knew, Knew the cause of cold and wet, But Almiry Jane couldn't dinner get.
Knew the names of Grecian Kings, Likewise what birds had the longest wings, Knew to the pole how the needle was true, But with her own needle she nothing could do.
Almiry Jane she had married to be, Off went her learning and off went she, Husband who married her quickly found out All she'd learned she'd be better without.

Almiry Jane she agreed with him too, Said of the school board sharp words not a few, Settled to business, and as time goes past, What she should have learned first she is learning at last.
Mothers, be warned, and don't let your daughter's fill With humbug their heads; useful knowledge is still. For there are but few daughters (so husband's complain) Who will learn after marriage like Almiry Jane.

THE DEAD BRIDE.
—OR—
THE THREE THROWS OF THE DICE.

One lovely autumn forenoon, a few months after the close of our late civil war, Robert Arundel and myself strolled into Warne's pistol gallery on Fayette street, in Baltimore.
Let me pause a moment to take a brief retrospective view.
Rob and I had been chums at college. I not only loved him as a brother, but looked up to him with a feeling akin to reverence. His mental and physical superiority over the rest of the students was unquestioned; he out-stripped all in his studies, was exceedingly handsome, and the best rider, shot and swimmer for miles around. At the same time, his amiability, liveliness and generosity disarmed all envy. Not long after the breaking out of the rebellion, Rob, although a native of southern Maryland, which was intense in its sympathy with the cause of the Confederacy, entered the ranks of the Union army. I did not see him again till about a month previous to the time at which this story opens. Heavens! what a change. Pale, haggard, gloomy and taciturn, he was scarcely the shadow of his former self. All his old blitheness of spirits was gone, and occasionally fits of abstraction, during which he gnashed his teeth and muttered unintelligibly, almost made me fear for his sanity. I must not forget to mention that he had a long, hideous scar above his right temple, in regard to the origin of which I asked him on one occasion, but he evaded the enquiry. In fact, he avoided, as much as possible, all conversation relating to the war.

away from them; but I also saw the officer level his revolver."
Robert paused and pressed his hand to his temple. "I cannot bear the memory. Quick, George, some water, or I faint!"
I changed the cloth on his forehead and gave him some cold water to drink. In a few minutes he resumed.
"He fired. Annie's form quivered, but I thought nothing of it at the moment — on we sped at a mad gallop, and ere long our pursuers were out of sight."
All at once, turning to Annie, I saw that her face was pale as marble, and her back covered with blood. Horrified, I clasped her in my arms. I embraced a corpse! That villain's bullet had struck and killed her! Around almost serene in rage and agony. After a while he concluded mournfully:—"In less than an hour thereafter I arrived within our lines with my burden, and on the following day interred my dead bride in a neighboring church-yard."

Robert sank upon his couch overcome. "Leave me now, please, dear George," he said, faintly. "and come to me again to-morrow morning early, I have some thing particular to talk over with you."
Going down stairs I met Dr. S— with whom I was acquainted, coming up, topping for a moment to converse with him, I learn that he had been treating Arundel for several weeks past. The wound in the head, he told me, was but imperfectly healed, and that a sudden shock, mental or physical, might produce death or insanity.

The next morning I called on Rob. He was dressed, prepared for going out, and held a satchel in his hand.
"George," he said "I want you to accompany me on a little jaunt into the country."

We left the house, entered a city car, and rode to Druid Hill. Here we got out, and strolled into the park. Thus far his remarks had been few and common place, but now he suddenly said:—"George, that—that man you spoke to yesterday in the pistol gallery is the murderer of my Annie." Just what I had suspected. "I would have known him had an age elapsed. Since her death my sole thought and purpose in life has been revenge. Nemesis has, at last, given the wretch into my hands. I was seized by an almost irresistible impulse yesterday to kill him on the spot, but then I would have been as bad as he—a murderer. He shall have an equal chance—I will meet him face to face."

"In other words, you mean a duel."
"Precisely."
"Have you forgotten the terrible skill he displayed?"
"No, nor have I forgotten that once he missed his mark. When his eye meets that of the lover of the woman he murdered his nerve will be even less sure. George, you remember how I used to shoot in our college days; well, during the war I improved considerably. I am a dead shot and mean to kill that man."
We had arrived on the outskirts of the park and entered a field beyond

"So I had hoped. Your reply to the cartel!"

For several minutes Beverly strode hurriedly up and down the room, evidently in a conflicting and anguished state of mind. "I can conceive your friend's bitterness," he finally said, "but think it strange to be called to account in private life, during time of peace, for a bullet fired in war."
"I was not aware that you and your comrades warred against women."
"The shot was intended for the escaping prisoner who had assaulted me."
"And killed a poor defenceless girl, not to speak of blasting the life of as noble a man as ever breathed. Now, do you intend to give my friend satisfaction?"
"Well, then, in Heaven's name, yes! Weapons, pistols."

"Agreed. But in view of your perfect marksmanship, and my friend's utter inability to handle the weapon, he proposes a combat somewhat out of the common order."
I then explained the nature of the duel proposed. Beverly was fearfully startled and agitated, and for a while remonstrated against the unusual and appalling terms. I would have taunted him, but saw how deeply the consciousness of his having killed poor Annie distressed and stupefied him. I could not help pitying the man. Finally he acquiesced in the terms.

"Come to Captain Arundel's lodgings to-morrow evening, at seven," said I. "Remember, the loser fulfils his pledge within the space of one week."
"Be it so. There will be no need of seconds; you may make all arrangements. And tell your friend, that if it were anything in all my life that I regret and lament, it is that unholy, but, as God knows, unintended shot."
"I shall do so. Adieu."

Until the time of meeting, on the following day, I lived and moved as if enveloped by some horrid dream. Here I was negotiating for a death as if it were a mere business transaction. I cannot help now thinking that my mind must have been diseased at that time, by the weird and terrible strangeness of my experience.

At six o'clock I was with Rob. He appeared melancholy, but calm and resigned, and conversed abstractedly upon ordinary topics. The time was getting heavy and long for me. I picked up a sheet of note paper and tore it into several strips.

"What are you doing?" asked Rob.
"Throw them away. Every possible appearance of unfair pre arrangement must be avoided."
Thereupon sounded a rap at the door, and the next moment Major Beverly entered. Eagerly and curiously he scanned the features of his implacable foe.
Nothing could describe the play of Robert's countenance. Not hate or rage was depicted therein, but utter annihilation. His unmeasured passion gave the vantage to his enemy, who smiled disdainfully, and half turning his back to Robert, bowed.

McDONALD HOUSE,
(Late Clark House)
BRIGHTON, ONT.

Stages leave this House daily, for Picton and Mphellford.
Pass to and from the cars.

Land for Sale
30,000 ACRES.

THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for
the sale of Splendid Improved Farms, and 14 Timber Lands, to the extent of 30,000 acres;
of City, Town and Village property, in all parts of the Province of Ontario, at very low and reasonable terms.
Office, corner of Dundas and West Streets
pauce,
JAMES F. BARTLES.
Sydney, Sept. 12th 1876.

FOR CHEAP
ROCKIES,
CROCKERY &
GLASSWARE
GO TO

GEORGE REID'S
EXT. DOOR TO POST OFFICE,
DUNDAS STREET, N. PANEE.
A. PETROS, ODESSA,
DEALER IN

Sash, Doors, and Mouldings, Cheese
boxes, Tubs, Pickins, etc.
I am now making a very superior article in a sawed cheese box, which I will take 12¢. All orders entrusted to me
I receive prompt attention.

POTTER BROS.,
VERY AND SALE STABLES

(ADJOINING THE BRISCH HOUSE.)
NANANEE, ONT.
We keep nothing but First-Class
Horses, and at REASONABLE
TERMS.

GRADUATE OF
Ontario Veterinary College.
I have resided on all diseases of Domestic Animals, personally at Campbell House
by Order.
TERMS MODERATE.
Office—Warner Block.

OCEAN TICKETS.

OCEAN Tickets for sale via Quebec or Halifax
in summer, and via Portland in winter, by Allen S. S. Line, White Star Line, Messageries Maritimes, and New York. Also return tickets at reduced rates to any point in the Old Country.
RAILWAY TICKETS.

his studies, was exceedingly handsome, and the best rider, shot and swimmer for miles around. At the same time, his amiability, liveliness and generosity disarmed all envy. Not long after the breaking out of the rebellion, Rob, although a native of southern Maryland, which was intense in its sympathy with the cause of the Confederacy, entered the ranks of the Union army. I did not see him again until about a month previous to the time at which this story opens. Heavens! what a change. Pale, haggard, gloomy and taciturn, he was scarcely the shadow of his former self. All his old blitheness of spirits was gone, and occasionally fits of abstraction, during which he gnashed his teeth and muttered unintelligibly, almost made me fear for his sanity. I must not forget to mention that he had a long, hideous scar above his right temple, in regard to the origin of which I asked him on one occasion, but he evaded the enquiry. In fact, he avoided, as much as possible, all conversation relating to the great conflict which had recently terminated. I understood, however, from a remark which he once inadvertently dropped, that he was still suffering from the effects of this wound internally, although it was apparently healed. But in spite of Rob's surprising alteration, he was the same true and affectionate friend as of yore, and we saw each other every day.

To resume.
At the shooting stand were grouped some six or eight gentlemen, one of whom alone, was back was turned to us, was firing. At every discharge the bullet struck the centre of the target with unerring accuracy. After a while the marksman playfully addressed his admiring companions—

"There he hits of champagne I hit the bull's eye every shot in twelve!"

No one, however, seem disposed to take the proffered bait.

"Very well then," he continued—"I will try it for my own amusement."

Eleven times in succession he had struck the centre. The twelfth time he missed. With an oath, but at the same time smiling, he turned. I now recognized in him a slight acquaintance, and we saluted each other. Then glancing casually at Arundel, I was amazed to find his eyes riveted with an indelible wild expression upon the countenance of the marksman. Clutching my arm convulsively, he whispered—

"Come, George, let us have this place at once, or I shall choke!"

Silently I followed him into the street.

"Who is that—that man, to whom you spoke?"

"That is Major Beverly, formerly of the Confederate army. He is a Virginian but came to Baltimore a short time ago and is now doing business here. Why do you ask, Rob?"

"You shall know all when we arrive at my lodgings. Now let me collect my thoughts."

My friend seemed to be laboring under some great excitement, which by the time we reached the room, had increased well nigh to a fever. I also remarked the region of the scar on his forehead was swollen and inflamed. Saturating a towel with cold water, he applied it to his brow, saying in a low, trembling voice—

"The wound burns into my inmost brain; we had no surgeon in camp. Annie did the best she could, but her love was not sufficient to—"

It was the first time I heard him mention that name.

Gradually the excitement became allayed, and, resting himself languidly upon his bed, he began—

"We had fought a victorious battle in the valley of Virginia, in which I received this wound. My company was dispatched to a distant post, and I was accompanied on a train of a gentleman who was well known for his unionist activities. I, the nearly dying captain, was taken into the house and tenderly nursed by the loyalist's daughter. I will spare you the details of our passionate love's awakening. One day, just as I was growing murderer of my Annie." Just what I had suspected. "I would have known him had an age elapsed. Since her death my sole thought and purpose in life has been revenge. Nemesis has, at last, given the wretch into my hands. I was seized by an almost irresistible impulse yesterday to kill him on the spot, but then I would have been as bad as he—a murderer. He shall have an equal chance—I will meet him face to face."

"In other words, you mean a duel."

"Precisely."

"Have you forgotten the terrible skill he displayed?"

"No, nor have I forgotten that once he missed his mark. When his eye meets that of the lover of the woman he murdered his nerve will be even less sure. George, you remember how I used to shoot in our college days; well, during the war I improved considerably. I am a dead shot and mean to kill that man."

We had arrived on the outskirts of the park, and entered a field beyond. Opening the satchel Rob produced a pistol and ammunition. He had come out here to make certain of his skill. We improvised a target, about a foot and a half in diameter, and he took his stand at twenty paces.

He fired, I approached the target, examined it, and found it—untouched!

Rob was incredulous, and came up to see for himself. His inspection confirmed the correctness of mine. Bewildered he returned to his place and fired again, this time taking very careful aim. The result was the same as before. Six times he fired—the bullet never striking the board.

The situation had become painful. I suggested that he stand nearer the target say a dozen paces. He did so. His lips were pressed together convulsively, and his countenance was distorted and sallow as death. He fired again some seven or eight times, striking the target but once, and then near the outer edge.

I knew what was wrong. The two wounds, the one in the head the other in the heart, had completely shattered his nervous system. He was trembling like an aspen.

"Come, Rob," I finally said, "let us go; you are sick and weak."

He silently obeyed. He understood me. On our way back to the city he plunged into a deep and dark brooding. Arrived at his lodgings, there came to pass what I had anticipated. He was attacked by a fever. I sent for Dr. S—, who soon afterwards came and gave directions for Arundel's treatment. I nursed my poor friend carefully through out the afternoon and evening, and at last, overcome by weariness, went to sleep by his side.

The following morning Robert woke me. He was apparently quite well. But almost the first word he uttered showed how intensely he still nourished plans of revenge.

"What?" I exclaimed, "You mean to—"

"Challenge him to a duel? Yes, but not a duel of the ordinary mode. There would be too great a disparity in the chances, and I do not intend to let him murder me as he did her. I hate and loathe that man, and mean that he shall die. The chances shall be perfectly equal, but Nemesis will strike him. I once heard of two mortal enemies, who drew life and death by lot. That is what I intend to do. The looser shoots himself through the head within a specified time."

"What?" I ejaculated in horror.

"Would you dare take monstrously with death and eternity?"

"I cannot help it. 'You know that, sooner or later, the conflict between us must come, one way or another. This plan suits me best of any.'

"But if you should lose?"

"I have reflected over all that. I shall meet my fate unshrinking. Besides, I am tired of life. I long for the blessed moment when I shall be reunited to Annie."

I did all in my power to dissuade him from his fearful purpose, but in vain. The sophistries of a morbid mind, and the help now thinking that my mind must have been diseased at that time, by the weird and terrible strangeness of my experience.

At six o'clock I was with Rob. He appeared melancholy, but calm and resigned, and conversed abstractedly upon ordinary topics. The time was getting heavy and long for me. I picked up a sheet of note paper and tore it into several strips.

"What are you doing?" asked Rob.

"Throw them away. Every possible appearance of unfair pre arrangement must be avoided."

Thereupon sounded a rap at the door, and the next moment Major Beverly entered. Eagerly and curiously he scanned the features of his implacable foe.

Nothing could describe the play of Robert's countenance. Not hate or rage was depicted therein, but utter annihilation. His unencumbered passion gave the vantage to his enemy, who smiled disdainfully, and half turning his back to Robert, bowed to me. Some measured and artificial sentences were exchanged between us, and I enquired of him whether he had any particular mode of casting or drawing lots to suggest.

"I think dice will do," he said, after reflecting a moment.

I called a servant into the room, and, giving him some money, sent him to a neighboring shop to purchase the dice. The five minutes that elapsed before his return, during which not a word was spoken, seemed an age to me. At last I heard him coming up the stairs. I went to the door, and with a peculiar sensation of loathing, took from him the tiny arbiters of life and death.

"I suggest," said I, "that each make three throws; the lowest two indicate the loser."

Arundel and Beverly nodded a dumb acquiescence. Both moved their chairs nearer to the table. I threw the three into a cup, and handed it to the latter, saying—

"Will you begin, Major Beverly?"

He seized the cup, his hand trembling but little, and made the first throw.

Six, four and two—total, twelve. Not a bad throw.

Now came Robert's turn. He grasped the box convulsively, and brought it rather violently down upon the table.

Six, four and three—in all, thirteen.

To my astonishment, the countenances of the two adversaries expressed the same emotion—disappointment and disquietude. It was natural in the Major, but I could not account for it in my friend.

Beverly again seized the cup, and threw a second time. The result was a five, a two and a one—total eight.

I breathed more lightly. Robert gloomily took the cup and cast the dice. Five, one and one—total, seven.

Again the look of both men evinced a similar feeling over the result—serenity and satisfaction. What was I to make of it?

Major Beverly before throwing for the third and last time, paused to collect himself; in vain, he could not master his emotion. With a quivering hand he turned the cup down upon the table.

Two, two and four—total, six.

I was almost moved into the air by my lightness of heart. Beverly sunk into his chair with a despairing look. Robert started, and the gloom upon his countenance deepened. His manner was painfully inexpressible to me.

As Arundel raised the cup for the deciding cast, the death-like stillness of suspense was almost suffocating. All three now bent eagerly forward. Robert paused fully half a minute before he threw.

One, one and one—total, three!

Robert Arundel had lost, and was now pledged to become a suicide? But what meant this? A ray of beatitude and bliss seemed to illumine his countenance. Suddenly a light dawned upon my mind—I began to comprehend his strangeness of manner; within the last few minutes he had ceased to desire that man's death, and longed but for his own. He yearned to be reunited in the spirit

"There she is again—she beckons, she

Express.

THE GREATEST NUMBER."

DAY, MAY 4 1877.

($1.00 per annum, if paid in advance)

NO. 2.

from them; but I also saw the level his revolver."

bert pained and pressed his hand to temple. "I cannot bear the memory. George, some water, or I faint!"

anged the cloth on his forehead and gave him some cold water to drink. A few minutes he resumed.

o, fired. Annie's form quivered, thought nothing of it at the moment we sped at a mad gallop, and ere our pursuers were ought of sight at once, turning to Annie. I saw her face was pale as marble, and her cheek covered with blood. Horrified, I fell in my arms. I embraced her. "That villain's bullet had struck her!" Arundel almost screamed in agony. After a while he died mournfully:—"In less than an hour thereafter I arrived within our with my burden, and on the following day interred my dead bride in a quiet church-yard."

ert sank upon his couch overcome. I have now, please, dear George, I faintly. "And come to me again morning early, I have some particular to talk over with you." I went down stairs I met Dr. S— whom I was acquainted, coming up for a moment to converse with me. I learned that he had been treating el for several weeks past. The doctor in the head, he told me, was but ectly healed, and that a sudden mental or physical might produce or insanity.

next morning I called on Rob. He was dressed, prepared for going out, and I saw a satchel in his hand. "Where is he?" he said. "I want you to accompany me on a little jaunt into the city." I left the house, entered a city car, and went to Druid Hill. Here we got out and strolled into the park. Thus remarks had been few and far between, but now he suddenly said:—"Remember that man you spoke of yesterday in the pistol gallery is the man who shot your Annie." Just what I expected. "I would have known it an age elapsed. Since her death I thought and purposed in life has been vengeance. Nemesis has, at last, brought me into my hands. I was an almost irresistible impulse to kill him on the spot, but would have been as bad as he—a murderer. He shall have an equal—I will meet him face to face." "Other words, you mean a duel," I said. "Precisely."

re you forgotten the terrible skill I displayed?"

nor have I forgotten that once he shot me. When his eye meets the lover of the woman he murders, his nerve will be even less sure. You remember how I used to shoot my college days; well, during the day I improved considerably. I am now a shot and mean to kill that ad arrived on the outskirts of the city, and entered a field beyond. The satchel Rob produced contained ammunition. He had come

"So I had hoped. Your reply to the cartel?"

For several minutes Beverly strode hurriedly up and down the room, evidently in a conflicting and anguished state of mind. "I can conceive your friend's bitterness," he finally said, "but think it strange to be called to account in private life, during time of peace, for a bullet fired in war."

"I was not aware that you and your comrades warred against women."

"The shot was intended for the 'escaping prisoner who had assaulted me.'"

"And killed a poor defenceless girl, not to speak of blasting the life of as noble a man as ever breathed. Now, do you intend to give my friend satisfaction?"

"Well, then, in Heaven's name, yes! Weapons, pistols."

"Agreed. But in view of your perfect marksmanship, and my friend's utter inability to handle the weapon, he proposes a combat somewhat out of the common order."

I then explained the nature of the duel proposed. Beverly was fearfully startled and agitated, and for a while remonstrated against the unusual and appalling terms. I would have taunted him, but saw how deeply the consciousness of his having killed poor Annie distressed and stupefied him. I could not help pitying the man. Finally he acquiesced in the terms.

"Come to Captain Arundel's lodgings to-morrow evening, at seven," said I. "Remember, the loser fulfils his pledge within the space of one week."

"Be it so. There will be no need of seconds; you may make all arrangements. And tell your friend, that if there is anything in all my life that I regret and lament, it is that unholily, but, as God knows, unintended shot."

"I shall do so. Adieu."

Until the time of meeting, on the following day, I lived and moved as if enveloped by some horrid dream. Here I was negotiating for a death as if it were a mere business transaction. I cannot help now thinking that my mind must have been diseased at that time, by the weird and terrible strangeness of my experience.

At six o'clock I was with Rob. He appeared melancholy, but calm and resigned, and conversed abstractedly upon ordinary topics. The time was getting heavy and long for me. I picked up a sheet of note paper and tore it into several strips.

"What are you doing?" asked Rob. "Throw them away. Every possible appearance of unfair pre-arrangement must be avoided."

Thereupon sounded a rap at the door, and the next moment Major Beverly entered. Eagerly and curiously he scanned the features of his implacable foe.

Nothing could describe the play of Robert's countenance. Not hate or rage was depicted therein, but utter annihilation. His unconcealed passion gave the vantage to his enemy, who smiled disdainfully, and, half turning his back to Robert, bowed to me. Some measured and artificial sentences were exchanged between us, and I concluded of this beckons, she calls to me—I must join her, George—I—"

His form was trembling and tottering. In great alarm I led him to the sofa, and applied a wet cloth to his head. Calling in a servant, I almost shrieked to him to go for Dr. S—. In fifteen minutes thereafter the physician entered. In the interim, Arundel had been breathing heavily and muttering incoherently.

Dr. S— shook his head ominously, and said:—

"It is the old wound again; I fear he will never entirely recover from its effects."

We put him to bed and the doctor did everything in his power to relieve him, but with little avail; Arundel was entirely out of his mind, and was attacked by several fearful paroxysms.

At a late hour of the night Dr. S— said to me:—

"You are very much in need of rest, and had better go home and retire. I will remain with your friend throughout the night."

In truth I was utterly prostrated. I went home, and to bed, and sank into a profound, dreamless sleep.

The next morning, shortly after rising, a note, with the words "in haste," beside the subscription, was delivered to me. Quickly tearing it open, I read:—

"I absolve Captain Arundel from his pledge, and beseech him not to add the weight of another life upon my deeply afflicted soul. CHARLES BEVERLY."

I flew to Arundel's lodging.

Dr. S— was standing silently contemplating Robert's countenance. When I caught sight of it I stood like one petrified.

"I had anticipated it," said Dr. S—, in a low voice, "but did not think it would happen so soon. His system must recently have received some severe shock, which hastened the crisis. Ten minutes ago he breathed his last in my arms."

Death had thus already absolved my poor friend from his terrible pledge. Free from the stain of self-murder, his soul had taken its departure to be united through eternity with that of his beloved Annie.

This happened seven years ago, several weeks since I heard of Major Beverly's decease. Thus I felt released from my self-imposed silence in regard to this tragic history.

HORSE JOCKEYS.

"There is one feature of jockey life which is likely in the course of time to die out—that is, 'sweating' which jockeys had to undergo, and have still occasionally to endure, in order that they may be able to ride at a given weight. It is almost impossible for a growing well-fed lad to keep from 'making weight' and even set jockeys, men of mature years, must occasionally work hard to keep themselves down, or bring themselves up after a winter's indulgence. In the old 'wasting' days there were fewer jockeys than there are now, and no railways to admit of a jockey being whirled from Newmarket to Newcastle on an hour's notice. At the present time there is

WHERE IS GOD?

"Oh, where is the sea?" the fishes cried, As they swam to the crystal clearness through. "We've heard from old of the ocean's tide, And we long to look on the waters blue. The wise ones speak of the infinite sea; Oh, who can tell us if such there be?"

The lark flew up in the morning bright, And sung and balanced on sunny wings; And this was its song: I see the light, And look o'er a world of beautiful things; But flying and singing everywhere, In vain I have searched to find the air."

A RING.

Only a time-worn circle of gold, Only a common thing; But eyes grow dim with a grief untold, At sight of the pearls all blackened and old In this little worthless ring.

A face long dead, so dear of yore, Smiles out from a bygone spring, And loving fingers cling once more, And play again as they played before, With this little worthless ring.

It passes: the vision sweet and fair, That vanished years still bring; And I keep but the treasure of dear brown hair, Wreathed round in pearls so dull with wear, On this little priceless ring. —From "Touches of Human Love."

FASHION GOSSIP.

Bridal dresses are considered in better taste when not too elaborately trimmed.

The finger-nails of fashionable Frenchwomen are professionally attended, and there are women nail-doctors in Paris who obtain as high as $2 a visit.

Pockets, which have so long formed a part of every dress, are going out of fashion; large bows are set on in the place they occupied; even small pockets are dispensed with.

The rage for orange tints in trimming has compelled the Parisian belles to change the color of their hair. Blondes have suddenly become brunettes, and it is now difficult to recognize one's acquaintances of the fair sex.

The latest freak in Paris fashion, by which dresses are to be retained in position, is to attach a strong elastic to a garter just below the knee, carried over and fastened to another. This regulates the steps of the unfortunate wearer, and the folds of the costume are kept in place.

A sad story is related of a lady at a party in London whose dress and form were faultless. Just before dinner an admirer offered her a flower from his button-hole, which she fastened to her dress with a pin. As they went down to dinner, the gentleman thought he heard a noise as though wind were escaping from a balloon. The lady had soon lost her fair proportions, and the tightly-fitting dress was most bulky. It appears that the latest fashion for thin ladies' dresses is an airtight lining blown out to the proper size. The pin put to keep the flower in had penetrated the airtight lining and caused a grand collapse.

P. T. BARNUM.

The great showman, in a recent interview, was questioned regarding the extent of the inducements offered for attendance at his immense multitudes which through his exertions made the following answer:

"The gratuity—and we have is my own price now. People will come fifty miles to see me, and I have no speech. And the more they see me and stand this so well that I have no need to travel with the show and make a speech in the ring in all the principal towns we are going to visit. We are in, for instance, New England next, and will travel through Canada, New York, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Iowa, and then South as far as Texas. And next year, as I said, we go to England. It is curious to see the delight with which people see me and the curiosity with which they appear to regard me, and the great curiosity in the show. I met a countryman once who watched as ascribed into the park. Thus remarks had been few and com-

-ence, but now he suddenly said:—
-orge, that—that man you spoke to -lay in the pistol gallery is the -rer of my Annie." Just what I
-poted. "I would have known
-d an age elapsed. Since her death
-e thought and purpose in life has -venged. Nemesis has, at last,
-he wretch into my hands. I was
-y an almost irresistible impulse
-la to kill him on the spot, but -would have been as bad as he—
-er. He shall have an equal
-I will meet him face to face."
-other words, you mean a duel."

ve you forgotten the terrible skill
-laved?"
-nor have I forgotten that once he
-his mark. When his eye meets
-the lover of the woman he mur-
-is nerve will be even less sure.
-you remember how I used to -our college days; well, during
-I improved considerably. I am
-shot and mean to kill that ad arrived on the outskirts of -k, and entered a field beyond.

-the satchel Rob produced a -nd ammunition. He had come -to make certain of his skill. We -ed a target, about a foot and a -diameter, and he took his stand at -paces.

red. I approached the target,
-d it, and found it—untouched!
-was incredulous, and came up -to myself. His inspection confir-med my own. Bewildered
-ned to his place and fired again,
-e taking very careful aim. The
-as the same as before. Six times
-the bullet never striking the ituation had become painful. I

-d that he stand nearer the target
-zen paces. He did so. His lips
-essed together convulsively, and
-itance was distorted and sallow.
-He fired again some seven or -ne, striking the target but once,
-near the outer edge.

what was wrong. The two
-the one in the head the other in
-t, had completely shattered his -system. He was trembling like

"Rob," I finally said, "let us go;
-sick and weak."
-iently obeyed. He understood
-our way back to the city he
-into a deep and dark brooding.
-at his lodgings, there came to
-at I had anticipated. He was
-by a fever. I sent for Dr. S
-who soon afterwards came and
-ections for Arundel's treatment.
-my poor friend carefully through -afternoon and evening, and at
-come by weariness, went to -his side.

ollowing morning Robert woke
-e was apparently quite well. But -he first word he uttered showed
-nsely he still nourished plans of at?" I exclaimed, "You mean

-venge him to a duel? Yes, but
-el of the ordinary mode. There
-e too great a disparity in the
-and I do not intend to let him
-me as he did her. I hate and -at man, and mean that he shall
-e chances will be perfectly equal.
-e will strike him. I once -two mortal enemies, who drew
-death by lot." That is what I -do. The looser scoffs himself
-the head within a specified time."
-at?" I ejaculated in horror.
-you dare thus monstrosity with
-d eternity?"

not help it. "You know that,
-r later, the conflict between us
-ne, one way or another. This -is me best of any."

ve reflected over all that. I shall -fate unshrinking. Besides, I
-of life. I long for the blessed
-when I shall be reunited to the time of meeting, on the fol-lowing day. I lived and moved as if -enveloped by some horrid dream. Here I -was negotiating for a death as if it were a -mere business transaction. I cannot -help now thinking that my mind must -have been diseased at that time, by the -weird and terrible strangeness of my ex-perience.

At six o'clock I was with Rob. He -appeared melancholy, but calm and re-signed, and conversed abstractedly upon -ordinary topics. The time was getting -heavy and long for me. I picked up a -sheet of note paper and tore it into -several strips.

"What are you doing?" asked Rob.
-"Throw them away. Every possible -appearance of unfair pre-arrangement
-must be avoided."

Thereupon sounded a rap at the door,
-and the next moment Major Beverly -entered. Eagerly and curiously he scan-ned the features of his implacable foe.

Nothing could describe the play of -Robert's countenance. Not hate or rage
-was depicted therein, but utter annihila-tion. His unconcealed passion gave the -vantage to his enemy, who smiled dis-
-dainfully, and, half turning his back to
-Robert, bowed to me. Some measured -and artificial sentences were exchanged
-between us, and I enquired of him
-whether he had any particular mode of -casting or drawing lots to suggest.

"I think dice will do," he said, after re-flecting a moment.

I called a servant into the room, and,
-giving him some money, sent him to a
-neighboring shop to purchase the dice.
-The five minutes that elapsed before his -return, during which not a word was -spoken, seemed an age to me. At last I -heard him coming up the stairs. I went -to the door, and, with a peculiar sensation
-of boiling, took from him the tiny
-arbiters of life and death.

"I suggest," said I, "that each make -three throws; the lowest two indicate the -loser."

Arundel and Beverly nodded a dumb
-acquiescence. Both moved their chairs
-nearer to the table. I threw the three
-into a cup, and handed it to the latter,
-saying:—

"Will you begin, Major Beverly?"

He seized the cup, his hand trembling
-but little, and made the first throw.

Six, four and two—total, twelve. Not -a bad throw.

Now came Robert's turn. He grasped
-the box convulsively, and brought it
-rather violently down upon the table.

Six, four and three—in all, thirteen.
-To my astonishment, the countenances
-of the two diversities expressed the same
-emotion—disappointment and disqui-
-etude. It was natural in the Major, but I -could not account for it in my friend.

Beverly again seized the cup, and threw -a second time. The result was a five, a
-two and a one—total eight.

I breathed more lightly. Robert -gloomily took the cup and cast the dice.
-Five, one and one—total seven.

Again the look of both men evinced a -similar feeling over the result—serenity
-and satisfaction. What was I to make of
-it?

Major Beverly before throwing for the -third and last time, paused to collect -himself; in vain, he could not master his -emotion. With a quivering hand he turned
-the cup down upon the table.

Two, two and two—total, six.

I was almost bowed into the air by -my lightness of heart. Beverly sank in-
-to his chair with a despairing look.
-Robert started, and the gloom upon his -countenance deepened. His manner was -painfully inexpressible to me.

As Arundel raised the cup for the -deciding cast, the death-like stillness of -suspense was almost suffocating. All -three now bent eagerly forward. Robert -paused fully half a minute before he -threw.

One, one and one—total, three!

Robert Arundel had lost, and was now
-pledged to become a suicide? But what -meant this? A ray of beatitude and
-bliss seemed to illumine his counte-nance. Suddenly a light dawned upon my -mind—I began to comprehend his which hastened the crisis. Ten minutes

-ago he breathed his last in my arms."

Death had thus already absolved my -poor friend from his terrible pledge.
-Free from the stain of self-murder, his -soul had taken its departure to be united
-through eternity with that of his beloved
-Annie.

This happened seven years ago, several -weeks since I heard of Major Beverly's
-decease. Thus I felt released from my -self-imposed silence in regard to this -tragic history.

HORSE JOCKEYS.

"There is one feature of jockey life
-which is likely in the course of time to -die out—that is, 'sweating' which jock-
-eys had to undergo, and have still occasion-ally to endure, in order that they may be -able to ride at a given weight. It is -almost impossible for a growing well fed
-lad to keep from 'making weight' and
-even set jockeys, men of mature years,
-must occasionally work hard to keep -themselves down, or bring themselves up
-after a winter's indulgence. In the old
-'wasting' days there were fewer jockeys
-than there are now, and no railways to -admit of a jockey being whirled from -Newmarket to Newcastle on an hour's -notice. At the present time there is a -fair choice of jockeys at all weights to -select from, so that sweating does not re-quire to be much resorted to, or at least
-not in the same degree as formerly."

"A great feat of jockeyship was that -accomplished by Benjamin Smith, who -rode and won a race after having one of -his legs broken in the struggle. The -rider of Caractacus, in a race at Bath,
-was so unfortunate as to break his stirrup
-leather, but he nevertheless defeated all
-his opponents, and was so clever as to -bring the detached stirrup home with him,
-so that he was able to scale the correct
-weight. A clever horseman once upon a -time won the St. Leger after his horse -had run into a ditch, and seemed to -have lost all chance of victory. George
-Herring, a jockey of the olden time,
-achieved a feat which is recorded among
-the miscellaneous of the turf: he was so -fortunate as to win nineteen races in suc-cession, without one single intervening -defeat—a triumph that we are not aware
-has been attained by any other jockey."

An article in Temple Bar Magazine in-forms us that "the chief jockey of 1876
-received more for his efforts of horseman-ship than did my Lord Beaconsfield for -carrying on the Queen's Government."
-According to the writer it has been cal-culated that Fred Archer acquired last -year no less a sum in retainers, fees, and
-presents than eight thousand seven hun-dred and forty pounds.

THE HERO OF THE ST. LOUIS FIRE.

The hero of the St. Louis fire was -Charles Tiernan, the proprietor of a bar-
-bank, a professional gambler. When -the alarm bells rang and the red flames
-shot upward he left the victims at his
-gaming-table to rescue the innocent
-victims wrecked in the sea of fire. With -a heroism such as has seldom been rec-orded in song or story, or witnessed on -the field of battle, he braved his way through
-flame to one of the upper stories,
-where women were screaming in the wild
-agony of despair. One by one he took them -to a window where a ladder had been -ejected, and assisted them to descend.
-When the flames had made such head-way as to prevent his rescuing another -female, and not till then, he sought to -save his own life. He came to the -window, where the ladder had been -placed only to find that it had been re-moved. Blinded by the smoke, frantic -from the burns and scalds he had receiv-ed, weak from his tireless exertions, he -sprang to reach the round of the ladder,
-missed them, and fell a distance of nearly
-fifty feet on the stone pavement, dead.

Charles Tiernan had no friend or -kindred to rescue from the sea of fire.
-The only motive that drew him up the -burning stairway was the impulse of -humanity. An hour before the very -person he rescued would have shrank
-from his presence. They would have -regarded the touch of his hand as polluting proportions, and the tightly-fitting -dress was most baggy. It appears that -the latest fashion for thin ladies' dresses

-is an air-tight lining blown out to the -proper size. The pin put to keep the -flower in had penetrated the air-tight lin-ing and caused a grand collapse.

P. T. BARNUM.

The great showman, in a recent inter-view, when questioned regarding the ex-tensive literary inducements offered for -attracting the immense multitudes which -through his exhibitions, made the follow-ing answer:

"The greatest card we have is my own
-presence. People will come fifty miles to -see me and hear me make a speech. And -the managers understand this so well that -I have a need to travel with the show and -make a speech in the ring in all the -principal towns we are going to visit. We -are going to a number of New England
-towns, and will travel through Canada,
-New York, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin,
-Indiana, Iowa, and then South as far as -Texas. And next year, as I said, we go -to England. It is curious to see the de-light with which people see me and the -sincerity with which they appear to regard
-me as the greatest curiosity in the show.
-I sat next a countryman once who watch-ed the show keenly, and as each perform-er came out he would say, 'That's all
-very well, but I wish I could see Barnum.'
-He repeated this again and again, until
-at length one star rider came out on four -horses and rode around the ring, turning -his somersaults and things. Then the -countryman jumped up in great excite-ment and, throwing up his hat, yelled,
-'There he is. That's Barnum. I'll bet
-500 that's Barnum. Nobody could do -that but Barnum.' It is astonishing how -everybody knows all about me. Why, the -other day I got a letter from New Zea-land that was directed 'Mr. Barnum,
-America.' That was all. Not another -word on the envelope. And it came to -me as straight as if it had been shot. It -was not delayed a single day. That is -why I want to go over and have one
-swoop with my show on the other side
-before I get too old."

BACKWOODS BARBARIANS.

Civilization does sometimes move back-ward, after all. A family named Babbler -went into the Maine forest about fifty -years ago, completely isolating them-selves. Recently they were discovered
-by a newspaper correspondent. Their
-hovel was scattered about in the patches
-of cleared and which they had made.
-The vagrant family had multiplied into -several families, including over fifty
-persons, and was dwelling in poverty,
-in name, and squalor. The log houses
-were unprovided with anything that -could contribute to human comfort. There -was no furniture except blocks and pieces
-of logs. But one person could read, and -he wouldn't. Not a book or a scrap of -printed paper was to be found in the -place. None of the younger generation
-had ever been to the nearest town. All -were profoundly ignorant of the world,
-and devoid of other religion or morality.
-They obtained a precarious subsistence
-from such scanty crops as their lazy
-habits prompted them to obtain, and -from the game of the forest and the fish of -Dead River. In short, the Babblers, under -the influence of nature and solitude, had
-relapsed into barbarism more depressing
-than that of the savages that dwell in
-these woods three centuries ago.

A SOUND TEMPERANCE ARGUMENT.

Francis Murphy, leader of the blue -ribbon temperance movement, which is -similar in many respects to the red rib-bon movement, thus promulgates his
-creed:—"I make no trade against liquor
-because there are some good men in the -business, but they cannot be driven out
-by abuse. The only true method of total
-abstinence is to prevail upon men to stop -drinking, and then the other men will -stop selling. There can be no reduction -in the sale of intoxicating drink so long
-as men continue to use it. Therefore,

—the bullet never striking the situation had become painful. I had that he stand nearer the target than he did so. His hips pressed together convulsively, and stentation was distorted and sallow. He fired again some seven or eight times, striking the target but once, a near the outer edge. What was wrong. The two, the one in the head the other in the chest, had completely shattered his system. He was trembling like a leaf. "Rob," I finally said, "let us go; I am sick and weak." He obediently obeyed. He understood our way back to the city he into a deep and dark brooding. At his lodgings, there came to me at I had anticipated. He was lashed by a fever. I sent for Dr. S. who soon afterwards came and ordered for Arundel's treatment. I my poor friend carefully through afternoon and evening, and at last came by weariness, went to his side. Following morning Robert woke and was apparently quite well. But the first word he uttered showed me he still nourished plans of revenge. "You mean to challenge him to a duel? Yes, but not in the ordinary mode. There is too great a disparity in the arms, and I do not intend to let him use his as he did here. I hate and despise that man, and mean that he shall have no chance shall be perfectly equal. We will strike ven. I once killed two mortal enemies, who drew death by lot." That is what I intend. The loser shoots himself in the heart within a specified time." at!" I ejaculated in horror. "You dare trifles monstrously with eternity!" "You know that, and later, the conflict between us me, one way or another. This is me best of any." "If you should loose?" "I have reflected over all that. I shall be fatal unshrinking. Besides, I love life. I long for the blessed when I shall be reunited to all in my power to dissuade him from a fearful purpose, but in vain. The presence of a morbid mind, and the presence of an embittered, blighted side him unyielding as a rock. I oppressively distressed and shocked, did do nothing; I could not even be passive in the affair. Much my will I consented to be my messenger to his enemy. A shot into my head to advise me to fly, but a moment's reflection convinced me that he would not let me from a threatened danger. I then fled. Captivated officer, courteously received. He was athletic, and rather fine looking out thirty. A few words sufficed in the object of my visit. "I do not remember," he said, astonishing at Arundel's card, "that I let the honor of meeting that gentleman as about a year ago, I think, in the city of Virginia. Captain Arundel and his betrothed, were flying to the south."

of loathing, took from him the tiny arbiters of life and death. "I suggest," said I, "that each make three throws; the lowest two indicate the loser." Arundel and Beverly nodded a dumb acquiescence. Both moved their chairs nearer to the table. I threw the three into a cup, and handed it to the latter, saying:—"Will you begin, Major Beverly?" He seized the cup, his hand trembling but little, and made the first throw. Six, four and two—total, twelve. Not a bad throw. Now came Robert's turn. He grasped the box convulsively, and brought it rather violently down upon the table. Six, four and three—in all, thirteen. To my astonishment, the countenances of the two diversely expressed the same emotion—disappointment and disquietude. It was natural in the Major, but I could not account for it in my friend. Beverly again seized the cup, and threw a second time. The result was a five, a two and a one—total eight. I breathed more lightly. Robert gloomily took the cup and cast the dice. Five, one and one—total, seven. Again the look of both men evinced a similar feeling over the result—serenity and satisfaction. What was I to make of it? Major Beverly before throwing for the third and last time, paused to collect himself; in vain. He could not master his emotion. With a quivering hand he turned the cup down upon the table. Two, two and two—total, six. I was almost bowed into the air by my lightness of heart. Beverly sank into his chair with a despairing look. Robert started, and the gloom upon his countenance deepened. His manner was painfully inexpressible to me. As Arundel raised the cup for the deciding cast, the death-like stillness of suspense was almost suffocating. All three now bent eagerly forward. Robert paused fully half a minute before he threw. One, one and one—total, three! Robert Arundel had lost, and was now pledged to become a suicide? But what meant this? A ray of beatitude and bliss seemed to illumine his countenance. Suddenly a light dawned upon my mind—I began to comprehend his strangeness of manner; within the last few minutes he had ceased to desire that man's death, and longed for his own. He yearned to be reunited in the spirit world to his lost, idolized love. When Major Beverly realized the result of the last cast of the dice, he drew a long, deep inspiration. He was saved; but he did not exult in his adversary's doom. Slowly he rose from the chair, and silently, as if endeavoring to recover from a state of stupefaction, moved towards the door. I accompanied him thither, and, with compressed lips, said:—"Within seven days, Major Beverly, my friend will have fulfilled his pledge." Shuddering, and without making any reply, he staggered down the stairs. Returning into the apartment, I was clasped in Robert's arms. "My good, kind friend," he said tenderly, "how can I ever return your self-sacrificing affection, or make amends for the distress you have suffered through me?" Overcome by emotion, I was powerless to speak. Suddenly, he continued.—"George, as I sat there a few minutes ago, brooding over my vengeance, what do you think I saw? She—Annie appeared before me, in a halo of ethereal loveliness, and beckoned to me. Then I forgot all about that man, and thought only of her, meeting her again." A quiver ran through his frame, and his eyes began to sparkle strangely, unnaturally, and stare into vacancy. "Look!" he whispered, in quick, agitated tones—"There she is again—she beckons, she bringing the detached stirrup home with him, so that he was able to scale the correct weight. A clever horseman once upon a time won the St. Leger after his horse had run into a ditch, and seemed to have lost all chance of victory. George Herring, a jockey of the olden time, achieved a feat which is recorded among the miscellanies of the turf: he was so fortunate as to win nineteen races in succession, without one single intervening defeat—a triumph that we are not aware has been attained by any other jockey. An article in Temple Bar Magazine informs us that "the chief jockey of 1876 received more for his efforts of horsemanship than did my Lord Beaconsfield for carrying on the Queen's Government." According to the writer it has been calculated that Fred Archer acquired last year no less a sum in retainers, fees, and presents than eight thousand seven hundred and forty pounds. THE HERO OF THE ST. LOUIS FIRE. The hero of the St. Louis fire was Charely Tiernan, the proprietor of a faro bank, a professional gambler. When the alarm bells rang and the red flames shot upward he left the victims at his gaming-table to rescue the innocent victims wrecked in the sea of fire. With a heroism such as has seldom been recorded in song or story, or witnessed on the field of battle, he braved his way through flame to one of the upper stories, where women were screaming in the wild agony of despair. One by one he took them to a window where a ladder had been elevated, and assisted them to descend. When the flames had made such headway as to prevent his rescuing another female, and not till then, he sought to save his own life. He came to the window, where the ladder had been placed only to find that it had been removed. Blinded by the smoke, frantic from the burns and scalds he had received, weak from his tireless exertions, he sprang to reach the end of the ladder, missed them, and fell a distance of nearly fifty feet on the stone pavement, dead. Charles Tiernan had no friend or kindred to rescue from the sea of fire. The only motive that drew him up the burning stairway was the impulse of humanity. An hour before the very person he rescued would have shrank from his presence. They would have regarded the touch of his hand as polluting. Few of the guests in that aristocratic hotel would have accepted his society, as his profession branded him as a social outcast and a foe to law, order, and common morality. But the gambler and social outcast gave his life to save the lives of persons who knew him not or only knew him as a being to be shunned.—Chicago Times. MRS. HAYES' DRESS REFORM. A Philadelphia correspondent writes that Mrs. Hayes appears as much at home in her difficult station as the President does in his. She has received every afternoon thus far, and scarcely an evening passes without a score or two of calls. Everybody praises her, unless it be the very fashionable ladies, who think she ought not to dress so plainly. The truth is, they feel a little ashamed of their gorgeous attire when they see the "first lady in the land" receiving them in an inexpensive, black dress, without any jewelry, and with her hair innocent of puffs, bangs or frizzes. If Mrs. Hayes only succeeds in getting the women of the country to stop their extravagant overdressing, she will accomplish as much good as will her husband with his civil service reform project. A Sacramento (Cal.) Chinaman who had failed, turned over as his only assets three women. One of these he valued at $500. The judge gave him a sound lecture, and said that the court would not recognize such property.

everybody knows about me—why, the other day I got a letter from New Zealand that was directed "Mr. Barnum, America." That was all. Not another word on the envelope. And it came to me as straight as if it had been shot. It was not delayed a single day. That is why I want to go over and have one swoop with my show on the other side before I get too old." BACKWOODS BARBARIANS. Civilization does sometimes move backward, after all. A family named Bubbler went to the Maine Forest about fifty years ago, completely isolating themselves. Recently they were discovered by a newspaper correspondent. Their levels were scattered about in the patches of cleared and which they had made. The vagrant family had multiplied into several families, including over fifty persons, and was dwelling in poverty, ignorance, and sloth. The log houses were unprovided with anything that could contribute to human comfort. There was no furniture except blocks and pieces of logs. But one person could read, and he wouldn't. Not a book or a scrap of printed paper was to be found in the place. None of the younger generation had ever been to the nearest town. All were probably ignorant of the world, and devoid of either religion or morality. They obtained a precarious subsistence from such scanty crops as their lazy habits prompted them to obtain, and from the game of the forest and the fish of Dead River. In short, the Bubbler, under the influence of nature and solitude, had relapsed into barbarism more depressing than that of the savages that dwelt in these woods three centuries ago. A SOUND TEMPERANCE ARGUMENT. Francis Murphy, leader of the blue ribbon temperance movement, which is similar in many respects to the red ribbon movement, thus promulgates his creed:—"I make no tirade against liquor stores; there are some good men in the business, but they cannot be driven out by abuse. The only true method of total abstinence is to prevail upon men to stop drinking, and then the other men will stop selling. There can be no reduction in the sale of intoxicating drink so long as men continue to use it. Therefore, my plan is to persuade men to abstain, for you have a stronger sentiment in the community than that in the real life of the people. You may legislate and legislate about the closing of saloons, but you do not reach the hearts of the people. You must prevail upon a man to stop drinking and turn his attention to his home, and instead of spending his money in the saloon let him carry it to his wife and children."

The mail of President Hayes astonishes even the postal authorities in Washington, who are used to delivering large numbers of letters to individuals. Usually the letters for the Executive Mansion are carried from the postoffice by a messenger on horseback, but since the 4th of March it has been necessary to send it down in a wagon specially detailed from the Post-office Department for the purpose. Mr. Frank Leslie, the celebrated New York publisher, has started on a two months' trip across the continent. He is accompanied by Mrs. Leslie and a party of ten artists, photographers and literary men attached to his publishing house. It is his intention to visit every place of special scenic or historical importance on the route. A Memphis (Tenn.) girl was married the other day, and immediately sold her piano, bought her a sewing machine, and made her husband a suit of clothes and herself two calico dresses; and now fourteen young men are seeking the hand of her unmarried sister.

DIRECTORY

TRAVELER'S GUIDE.

G. T. RAILWAY.

GOING EAST.	GOING WEST.
Express.....1:10 a. m.	Express.....5:12 p. m.
Express.....12:58 p. m.	Express.....5:52 a. m.
Mixed.....11:28 p. m.	Mixed.....7:55 a. m.

STAGES ARRIVE AT NAPANEE.

From Newburgh and Tamworth,	10 1/2 a. m.
From Pictou and Mill Point,	7 p. m.
From Erinsville,	10 1/2 a. m.

DEPART FROM NAPANEE.

To Newburgh and Tamworth,	2 1/2 p. m.
To Mill Point and Pictou,	3 1/2 a. m.
To Erinsville,	2 1/2 p. m.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Hon. R. J. Cartwright,	Finance Minister.
Schuyler Shibley,	M. P.

ONTARIO PARLIAMENT.

J. T. Grange,	M. P. P.
H. M. Deroche,

COUNTY AND TOWN OFFICIALS.

W. H. Wilkins,	Judge.
O. T. Prayn,	Sheriff.
W. A. Reeve, Clerk of the Peace and County Attorney,
J. B. McQuinn, Clerk of the County Court, and Deputy Clerk of the Crown,
Do,	Surrogate Registrar.
W. N. Dollar,	Warden.
F. Burrows,	County School Inspector.
W. V. Dettlor,	County Clerk.
E. Hooper,	Treasurer.
M. P. Roblin,	Registrar.
W. S. Williams,	Mayor.
John Herring,	Deputy Reeve.
Chas. R. Miller,	Town Clerk.
Wm. Chamberlain,	Town Treasurer.
Robert Easton,	Chief of Police.
Jas. Allen,
J. Benson, Collector of Customs and Registrar of Shipping,
C. B. Perry,	Landing Waiter and Searcher.
T. G. Pile, Landing Waiter and Searcher, Mill Point.
G. Bogart,	Postmaster, Napanee.
G. B. Sills, Inspector of Weights and Measures.
V. A. Hogie,	Inspector of Licenses.
Chas. James, Clerk 1st Division Court, Napanee.
C. L. Rogers,	2d " "
J. J. Watson,	3d " "
Peter Johnston,	4th " "
Wm. Wheelan,	5th " "
Henry Pultz,	6th " "
Thos. Miller,	7th " "

POST OFFICE.

The Post Office Napanee is open from 8 a. m. till 6 p. m.
Day Train East Mail closes,	12:05 p. m.
West	4:30 p. m.
Night Train East	9:00 p. m.
West	9:00 p. m.
Camden Route—Tamworth, Centreville, Camden East, Newburgh and Napanee Mills—Mail closes 2:15 p. m.
Mill Point and Prince Edward County Route—Mill Point, Pictou, Northport, and Demorestville—Mail closes 6:30 a. m.
Fredericksburg Route—Morven, Hamburg, Sillsville, Parma and Conway—Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays—Mail closes 1 p. m.
Switzerville—Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays—Mail closes 1:15 p. m.
Gosport and Gretna—Saturday—Mail closes 1 p. m.
Erinsville, Roblin and Selby, daily—Mail closes 1:30 p. m.
Overton, Forest Mills and Leinster, daily—Mail closes 1:30 p. m.

CHURCHES.

HOUSES OF SERVICES.

Episcopal Methodist—Rev. R. M. Pope. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
Canada Methodist—Rev. W. S. Blackstock. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
Episcopal—Rev. J. J. Bogart, Rector. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
Presbyterian—Rev. A. Young. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
Roman Catholic—Rev. Father MacDonagh. Mass 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2:30 p. m.
The Brethren—Meet at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30 p. m., every Sunday in Grange Block.

GEO. P. ROWELL & Co.,

40 PARK ROW, NEW YORK,

—AND—

ROWELL & CHESMAN,

ST. LOUIS,

AGENTS for the "NAPANEE EXPRESS," Napanee, Ont.

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, MAY 4th, 1877.

THE GRAND DUKE NICHOLAS' ORDER TO THEIR ROOFS.

KICHENEFF, April 27.—The Christians oppressed by the Turkish yoke rose against their oppressors, and their blood has been shed for the last two years. The efforts of Russia and the Powers to ameliorate their condition having been vain, the last word of the Czar has been spoken and war has been declared. The Czar entrusts me with the mission of accomplishing his will. We do not march to make conquests, but to defend our brethren oppressed for Christ's sake. I am convinced each of you will do his duty and not dishonour the Russian name. All peaceable inhabitants, without distinction of religion or nationality, will be sacred in our eyes. You will take nothing without payment. I require that extremely severe discipline be maintained. We pass on our way through Roumania, where I am sure we shall meet with the same hospitality as our ancestors. I demand that you respect the established laws of the country, and, if necessary, afford the Roumanians disinterested aid against the Turks.

THE SULTAN'S PROCLAMATION TO THE ARMY.

"Russia has declared war. We are forced to take up arms. We have always wished for peace, listening to the advice of the Powers in this respect, but Russia wants to destroy our independence, and so if Russia attacks us, God, who protects right and justice, will grant us victory. Our soldiers will defend with their blood the country gained by their ancestors, and, with the help of God, maintain the independence of the Osmanli nation, which will protect the wives and children of the soldiers. Should it be necessary the Sultan will go to the army and raise the Standard of Khalifat and the Sultanat. The Sultan is ready to sacrifice his life for the honour and independence of the country.

THE CZAR'S ADDRESS TO HIS SOLDIERS.

The Emperor at a general review spoke as follows:—"I have done everything in my power to avoid war and bloodshed. Nobody can say we have not been patient. We have practised patience to the last degree, and there comes a time when even patience must end. When that time comes I know the young Russian army will show itself worthy of the fame which the old army won in former days. If you should encounter the enemy show yourselves brave, and uphold the ancient glory of your regiments. I hope the young men among you who have not been under fire will not show themselves inferior to their veteran comrades. I trust you may soon return covered with glory. A fuller report of the Czar's speech shows that he spoke as if war was determined upon. The Emperor began with the words, "Before your departure I give you my blessing;" and closing, said to the officers, "Good-bye, gentlemen;" and to the men, "Farewell, my children." "I felt grief at sending you into the field of battle, and therefore delayed action as long as possible, hesitating to shed your blood; but now that the honour of Russia is attacked I am convinced that you will all to the last man know how to vindicate it. May God be with you. I wish you complete success."

PROTECTION TO NONCOMBATANTS.

A Kichenev despatch says: As the Russian army advances proclamations will be issued to the Christians and Muslims that all who remain quietly in their homes will not be molested. Nothing will be without payment. Christians wishing to take part in the war can come to the Russian lines where they will be enrolled in a special division under Russian officers. No irregular bands of Guerrillas will be allowed. No enquiries will be made respecting the atrocities of last year except in the cases mentioned in the reports of Mr. Bauna Schuyler. If

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 30.—The Porte in dealing with neutral shipping reserves the right of searching suspected vessels both on the coast and at sea.

LONDON, April 30.—A Constantinople telegram makes the following announcement:—"During the night entry into or departure from the Bosphorus and Dardanelles is absolutely prohibited. All lights will be extinguished except two at the entrance of the Bosphorus and two in the Dardanelles, and these may also be put out."

A VIOLATION OF TREATY.

VIENNA, April 28.—Turkish ironclads are cruising in the Danube off Galatz. The navigation of that port is stopped. Vessels belonging to neutral powers now at Galatz will be allowed time to complete loading, but all inward bound vessels will be stopped on and after Sunday.

The closing of the Danube by Russia seems rather a serious matter. The freedom of navigation is notoriously a stipulation of the Treaty of Paris. Besides eight gunboats which the Russians have brought down in sections and put together on the Pruth or Danube, a Russian fleet is at Nicolaieff, and will eventually come down to the mouth of the Danube.

ENGLAND'S POSITION.

LONDON, April 30.—A proclamation has been issued by the Queen stating that she is determined to maintain strict and impartial neutrality in the war between Russia and Turkey, and commanding her subjects to abstain from violating the laws relating thereto.

The Gazette contains a letter from Lord Derby to the heads of the Departments of State, announcing certain rules according to which men of war of both belligerents are forbidden from using any British port as a station for any warlike purpose, bringing their prizes thereto, embarking any warlike stores or more coal and provisions than are sufficient for immediate wants, or remaining longer than twenty-four hours, except in case of stress of weather, damage, or necessity for obtaining provisions.

It is announced at the War Office that the Government has made preparations to send 50,000 men at a moment's notice to Egypt, 25,000 from England, and 25,000 from India.

The Times says the orders to the Deyenport dockyards are to press forward the necessary works on commissioned ships with all speed, and to direct sole attention to such necessary works, leaving all else for future completion.

The British ironclads stationed at Malta have sailed for Corfu.

Serious complications will arise in the event of the Russian fleet returning to the Mediterranean from China, as it is reported Russia will demand the passage of the fleet through the Suez canal.

An army corps of 30,000 or 40,000 men is being rapidly prepared for despatch to any point where English interests require. It is probable this corps will rendezvous at Malta or Gibraltar. The command is to be offered to Lord Napier, of Magdala.

A declaration of neutrality will immediately be promulgated in the Queen's name forbidding British subjects from aiding either belligerent.

British officers on leave of absence have been requested to rejoin their regiments.

The London press unanimously condemns the Russian manifesto.

England is negotiating with the Porte for the cession to her of the Suez Canal.

LONDON, April 27.—In the House of Lords, Lord Stratheden asked how far the Government concurred in the statement of the Russian circular that the Czar represented the views and interests of Europe.

Earl Derby replied—"England is in no

AMERICAN.

A large whale was landed at Southampton, L. I., on Tuesday.

A party of seventy men took a man from jail, in Nashville, Tenn., and him, and fired eight shots into his back.

Four of the Chicago incendiaries been sentenced to the penitentiary.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The Russian fleet in the harbour to-day celebrated fifty-ninth anniversary of the Czar's birth.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 28.—strike of the Reading locomotive engine appears to have been practically adoned.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The sailing of the steamer John Bras early on Saturday morning, with a shipment of arms and ammunition Turkey, was owing to the fact the number of men had conspired to seize ship and land the cargo at St. Petersburg. The ship slipped off, leaving the booked passengers behind.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The troubles between Russia and Turkey the unsettled condition of other European Powers growing out of these hostilities have already created a demand upon country for timber suitable for building, and the agents of several Powers are here for the purpose of purchasing such timber. cargoes were recently shipped to France and more has been purchased Great Britain.

NEW YORK, April 29.—A large number of applications have been made at the Russian and Turkish Consulates enlistment as soldiers which have been refused, there being no authority to receive recruits.

Within the past two months the emigration from the United States to Australia has amounted to nearly a thousand souls, more than one-third of the number sailing on Saturday last. The statement of the agent that more than ten times as many persons applied for passage in the ship which sailed then as ship could accommodate, is a proof the pressure of the hard times.

The Government will send two or three army officers to observe the military operations between Russia and Turkey.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The price of wheat has advanced between ten and fifteen per cent., and is cheaper in Europe than here.

The Commission on the settlement of the Fishing Claims under the Treaty of Washington will organize at Halifax July. The question is really between the United States and the Dominion, Imperial Government having transferred its fishing rights to the Dominion.

Capt. Gifford, of the barque Yon Phanix, who rescued the Strathmore survivors, as been presented by British Government with a silver clasp.

From September, 1876, to April, 1877, 1,000,000 bushels of American wheat were in England, against 60,000,000 for the corresponding period of the previous year. The importations of Great Britain for same date from other sources was 1,000,000 bushels, against 84,000,000 the previous year. This shows a large deficit in England.

A delegation of the Labour League, twenty-six white and thirty-five colored called upon the President, and presented an address asking him in his message to Congress to recommend an appropriation for internal improvements throughout the country, the restoration of the suffrage in this district, and payment of 10,000 working men who were defrauded by the contractors on the Board of Public Works. The President said the questions were serious and would require consideration.

FOREIGN.

HOURS OF SERVICES.
 Episcopal Methodist—Rev. R. M. Pope. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
 Canada Methodist—Rev. W. S. Blackstock. Services 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2 p. m.
 Episcopal—Rev. J. J. Bogart, Rector. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
 Presbyterian—Rev. A. Young. Services 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School 3 p. m.
 Roman Catholic—Rev. Father MacDonagh. Mass 10:30 a. m., and 6:30 p. m. Sunday School, 2:30 p. m.
 The Brethren—Meet at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30 p. m., every Sunday in Grange Block.

GEO. P. ROWELL & Co.,
 40 PARK ROW, NEW YORK.

ROWELL & CHESMAN,
 ST. LOUIS.

AGENTS for the "NAPANEE EXPRESS",
 Napanee, Ont.

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, MAY 4th, 1877.

THE EAST.

THE CZAR'S MANIFESTO.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 24.—The Czar's manifesto:—"Our faithful and beloved subjects know the strong interest we have constantly felt in the destinies of the oppressed Christian population of Turkey. Our desire to ameliorate and assure their lot has been shared by the whole Russian nation which now shows itself ready to bear fresh sacrifices to alleviate the position of the Christians in the Balkan peninsula. The blood and property of our faithful subjects have always been dear to us, and our whole reign attests our constant solicitude to preserve to Russia the benefit of peace. This solicitude never failed to actuate us during the deplorable events which occurred in Herzegovina, Bosnia, and Bulgaria. Our object before all was to effect amelioration in the position of the Christians in the east by means of pacific negotiations, and in concert with the great European Powers our allies and friends for two years we have made incessant efforts to induce the Porte to effect such reforms as would protect the Christians in Bosnia, Bulgaria, and Herzegovina from the arbitrary measures of the local authorities. The accomplishment of these reforms was absolutely stipulated by the interior engagement contracted by the Porte toward the whole of Europe. Our efforts, supported by diplomatic representations made in common with other Governments, have not attained their object. The Porte has remained unshaken in its formal refusal of any effective guarantee for the security of its Christian subjects, and has rejected the conclusions of the Constantinople Conference. Wishing to essay every possible means of conciliation in order to persuade the Porte, we proposed to the other Cabinets to draw up a special protocol, comprising the most essential conditions of the Constantinople Conference, and to invite the Turkish Government to adhere to this international act, which states the extreme limits of our peaceful demands but our expectation was not fulfilled. The Porte did not defer to this unanimous wish of Christian Europe, and did not adhere to the conclusions of the protocol. Having exhausted pacific efforts, we are compelled by the haughty obstinacy of the Porte to proceed to more decisive acts, feeling that our equity and our own dignity enjoin it. By her refusal, Turkey places us under the necessity of having recourse to arms. Profoundly convinced of the justice of our cause, and humbly committing ourselves to the grace and help of the Most High, we make known to our faithful subject that the moment foreseen when we pronounced the words to which all Christians are united, among you who have not been under fire will not show themselves inferior to their veteran comrades. I trust you may soon return covered with glory. A fuller report of the Czar's speech shows that he spoke as if war was determined upon. The Emperor began with the words, "Before your departure I give you my blessing;" and closing, said to the officers, "Good-bye, gentlemen;" and to the men, "Farewell, my children." "I felt grief at sending you into the field of battle, and therefore delayed action as long as possible, hesitating to shed your blood; but now that the honour of Russia is attacked I am convinced that you will all to the last man know how to vindicate it. May God be with you. I wish you complete success."

PROTECTION TO NONCOMBATANTS.

A Kichenev despatch says: As the Russian army advances proclamations will be issued to the Christians and Mussulmans that all who remain quietly in their homes will not be molested. Nothing will be without payment. Christians wishing to take part in the war can come to the Russian lines where they will be enrolled in a special division under Russian officers. No irregular bands of Guerillas will be allowed. No enquiries will be made respecting the atrocities of last year except in the cases mentioned in the reports of Mr. Bauna Schuyler. If the perpetrators of these atrocities are caught they will be summarily punished. If more massacres occur punishment will be swift.

THE COMMENCEMENT.

VIENNA, April 25.—The Russian advance guard, which commenced crossing the Pruth at sunrise yesterday, numbers 50,000, half cavalry and half infantry. They took the direction of Galatz.

THE FIRST BATTLES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April, 26.—Savfet Pasha has addressed the following despatch to the Turkish Ambassador at London:—"The first engagement has just been fought at Tchurukon near Batoun. After some fighting the enemy was defeated and put to rout with the loss of 800 men."

NEW YORK, April 28.—A London despatch says advises through Turkish sources in Asia Minor report that the battle at Batoun between the Turks and Russians raged throughout the whole of yesterday. The Russians, commanded by the Grand Duke Michael, were severely repulsed. The Turks, under Hassan Pasha suffered slight losses, but the Russians lost heavily. The Russians resumed the attack last night, and were again defeated and driven across the frontier.

RUSSIA.

The Czar has telegraphed to the Prince of Montenegro—"I am firmly resolved this time to realize the sacred mission of Russia and of my predecessor. God will aid us."

A clerk in the Russian Ordnance Office at Alexandropol has just been condemned to penal servitude for life for selling a plan of the fortress there to the Turks for 400 roubles.

After the promulgation of the Czar's manifesto to the municipality of Moscow, voted funds to provide thousands of beds for the wounded, and an additional million roubles for hospital purposes.

The Russian press severely denounces the action of England in regard to the Eastern question.

Intense enthusiasm prevails throughout the Czar's dominions. Russia has 300,000 men on the Danube, and 125,000 men on the Caucasus, while the opposing forces of the Turks are 100,000 along the Danube, and 50,000 or less in Asia Minor. Both sides exhibit weakness in skilled generals.

The Russian Imperial family have given forty million roubles from their private purse for the expenses of the war.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 26.—The Imperial manifesto was read in all the churches of the Empire to-day and was attended to with much necessary works, leaving all else for future completion.

The British ironclads stationed at Malta have sailed for Corfu.

Serious complications will arise in the event of the Russian fleet returning to the Mediterranean from China, as it is reported Russia will demand the passage of the fleet through the Suez Canal.

An army corps of 30,000 or 40,000 men is being rapidly prepared for despatch to any point where English interests require. It is probable this corps will rendezvous at Malta, or Gibraltar. The command is to be offered to Lord Napier, of Magdala.

A declaration of neutrality will immediately be promulgated in the Queen's name forbidding British subjects from aiding either belligerent.

British officers on leave of absence have been requested to rejoin their regiments.

The London press unanimously condemns the Russian manifesto.

England is negotiating with the Porte for the cession to her of the Suez Canal.

LONDON, April 27.—In the House of Lords, Lord Stratheden asked how far the Government concurred in the statement of the Russian circular that the Czar represented the views and interests of Europe.

Earl Derby replied—"England is in no way bound by the expression of opinion in the circular. As a matter of fact the Government does not accept or adopt either conclusion or the arguments embodied therein."

The Channel fleet has been ordered to reinforce the English squadron in the Mediterranean. Several regiments of English troops will embark.

"A telegram was received at Plymouth on Wednesday from the Controller of the Navy ordering full particulars to be sent of all ships in reserve at London port, which possibly could be made ready for sea by the 1st of June."

Sir Stafford Northcote stated that a Russian officer had been allowed to visit the dockyards English. He said there was no object at the present in altering the regulation nor would there be any so long as reciprocity exists.

AMERICAN NEUTRALITY.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—By treaty No. 2 with Russia, in 1854, it was agreed that property not contraband of war and belonging to subjects of the State at war found on neutral vessels, is free from capture, as is also the property of neutrals on board an enemy's vessels. The last treaty with Turkey contains no such provisions. Our treaty with Great Britain binds neutral Governments to prevent the fitting out of vessels in its jurisdiction intended for service against a Government with which we are at peace, also to use diligence to prevent the departure from our jurisdiction of vessels intended to carry on war, if such vessel has been adopted wholly or in part within such jurisdiction to warlike use; secondly, not to suffer either belligerent to use its waters as the basis of naval operations.

Spain will send an ironclad squadron to the Levant.

There is great activity at Naples, where Italian men-of-war are being prepared for sea.

Germany intends to put into commission several additional men-of-war.

The Grand Duke Alexis has just received from his mother a magnificent gold bracelet, studded with diamonds, to be worn on his left wrist until the end of the war. It was accompanied with his mother's blessing and an injunction to heroism.

The son of Schamyl, the famous Circassian chieftain, has been sent to Kars to assume command of the Circassian irregulars. The Porte is very sanguine this move will excite a rebellion in Circassia.

CANADIAN.

Washington will organize at Halifax July. The question is really between the United States and the Dominion, the Imperial Government having transferred its fishing rights to the Dominion.

Capt. Gifford, of the barque You Phanix, who rescued the Strathmair survivors, as been presented by the British Government with a silver clasp.

From September, 1876, to April, 1877, 5,000,000 bushels of American wheat were in England, against 60,000,000 for the corresponding period of the previous year. The importations of Great Britain for the same date from other sources was 1,000,000 bushels, against 84,000,000 the previous year. This shows a large deficit in England.

A delegation of the Labour League, twenty-six white and thirty-five coloured, called upon the President, and presented an address asking him in his message to Congress to recommend an appropriation for internal improvement throughout the country, the restoration of the suffrage in this district, and payment of 10,000 working men who were defrauded by the contractors under the Board of Public Works. The President said the questions were serious and would require consideration.

FOREIGN.

A severe shock of earthquake occurred on the 23rd, ult at Oban, country of Argyle, Scotland.

Squatter sovereignty has been revived in Egypt. A man who insists that owns the ground in which Cleopatra's Needle is imbedded has built a high fence around the obelisk and demands of the British Government several thousand pounds as compensation.

A further outbreak of the cattle plague has occurred in the parish of Willedd Middlesex, England. 150 head were slaughtered on the 24th.

An extensive conflagration occurred Phanar, a quarter of Constantinople. A hundred houses were destroyed. The fire originated accidentally 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and raged until nine in the evening. The Nookale district is entirely destroyed. The Mosque built of stone, was ruined. Two women were killed.

Flour in Belfast, Ireland, on Monday cost £2 sterling per ton. It has risen 27 in three weeks.

Great distress prevails through Russia, the south typhus fever and other epidemics are rife.

ODESSA, April 29.—The river Dniep is overflooded at Kremenchug, which is completely flooded, 20,000 inhabitants are homeless.

LONDON, April 28.—A Rome despatch reports that some of the Catholic government have sought information relating to the basis on which it is desired that negotiations should be opened in favour of the Holy See. The Vatican desires that the Pope should be insured complete personal and spiritual freedom with being called upon to reassess or renounce his claim to the temporal power. The Pope has instructed Cardinals Simeoni Bartolini and Nina to act as a kind committee of observation to guard against anything which might militate against the liberty of the next conclave to elect his successor.

READY FOR WAR.

Turkey is much better supplied with arms than was at first supposed, she having received over 800,000 stand of arms from Providence, R. I., within the past two years, under a contract for 500,000 Peabody guns, a breech-loading rifle similar to the Martini-Henry rifle as in England. These rifles are still being manufactured for and delivered to the Turkish Government, several officers which have been in the United States some months past inspecting the arms and superintending their manufacture. The Turks also having contracts with

Our desire to ameliorate and assure their lot has been shared by the whole Russian nation which now shows itself ready to bear fresh sacrifices to alleviate the position of the Christians in the Balkan peninsula. The blood and property of our faithful subjects have always been dear to us, and our whole reign attests our constant solicitude to preserve to Russia the benefit of peace. This solicitude never failed to actuate us during the deplorable events which occurred in Herzegovina, Bosnia, and Bulgaria. Our object before all was to effect amelioration in the position of the Christians in the east by means of pacific negotiations, and in concert with the great European Powers our allies and friends for two years we have made incessant efforts to induce the Porte to effect such reforms as would protect the Christians in Bosnia, Bulgaria, and Herzegovina from the arbitrary measures of the local authorities. The accomplishment of these reforms was absolutely stipulated by the interior engagement contracted by the Porte toward the whole of Europe. Our efforts, supported by diplomatic representations made in common with other Governments, have not attained their object. The Porte has remained unshaken in its formal refusal of any effective guarantee for the security of its Christian subjects, and has rejected the conclusions of the Constantinople Conference. Wishing to essay every possible means of conciliation in order to persuade the Porte, we proposed to the other Cabinets to draw up a special protocol, comprising the most essential conditions of the Constantinople Conference, and to invite the Turkish Government to adhere to this international act, which states the extreme limits of our peaceful demands. But our expectation was not fulfilled. The Porte did not defer to this unanimous wish of Christian Europe, and did not adhere to the conclusions of the protocol. Having exhausted pacific efforts, we are compelled by the haughty obstinacy of the Porte to proceed to more decisive acts, feeling that our equity and our own dignity enjoin it. By her refusal, Turkey places us under the necessity of having recourse to arms. Profoundly convinced of the justice of our cause, and humbly committing ourselves to the grace and help of the Most High, we make known to our faithful subject that the moment foreseen when we pronounced the words to which all Russia responded with complete unanimity has now arrived. We expressed the intention to act independently when we deemed it necessary and when Russia's honour should demand it. In now invoking the blessing of God upon our valiant armies, we give them the order to cross the Turkish frontier.

(Signed) "ALEXANDER."

TURKEY'S REPLY TO THE RUSSIAN MANIFESTO.

After quoting the eighth article of the Treaty of Paris, says:—"Although it is not the Ottoman Government which threatens and takes the initiative of aggression, and although, consequently, it was by right the part of Russia to appeal to these stipulations of the treaty, the Imperial Government, in order to avoid all misunderstanding, applies to the signatory Powers to use their good office in the grave circumstances in which it is placed by applying the article before mentioned and thus putting an end to the dangerous tension affecting the relations of the two States." The Porte expresses the conviction that the friendly Powers true to the feeling of the benevolent interests which they have never ceased to manifest to the Ottoman empire will seize this opportunity to arrest the outbreak of a great war, thus sparing those countries the painful extremities with which they are threatened and Europe herself the trouble and danger resulting from a conflict between the two States, a conflict for which the sublime Porte can justly repudiate the entire responsibility.

50,000, half cavalry and half infantry. They took the direction of Galatz.

THE FIRST BATTLES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 26.—Savfet Pasha has addressed the following despatch to the Turkish Ambassador at London:—"The first engagement has just been fought at Tehurukoon near Batum. After some fighting the enemy was defeated and put to rout with the loss of 800 men."

NEW YORK, April 28.—A London despatch says advice through Turkish sources in Asia Minor report that the battle at Batum between the Turks and Russians raged throughout the whole of yesterday. The Russians, commanded by the Grand Duke Michael, were severely repulsed. The Turks, under Hassan Pasha suffered slight losses, but the Russians lost heavily. The Russians resumed the attack last night, and were again defeated and driven across the frontier.

RUSSIA.

The Czar has telegraphed to the Prince of Montenegro—"I am firmly resolved this time to realize the sacred mission of Russia and of my predecessor. God will aid us."

A clerk in the Russian Ordnance Office at Alexandropol has just been condemned to penal servitude for life for selling a plan of the fortress there to the Turks for 600 roubles.

After the promulgation of the Czar's manifesto the municipality of Moscow, voted funds to provide thousands of beds for the wounded, and an additional million roubles for hospital purposes.

The Russian press severely denounces the action of England in regard to the Eastern question.

Intense enthusiasm prevails throughout the Czar's dominions. Russia has 300,000 men on the Danube, and 125,000 men on the Caucasus, while the opposing forces of the Turks are 100,000 along the Danube, and 50,000 or less in Asia Minor. Both sides exhibit weakness in skilled generals.

The Russian Imperial family have given forty million roubles from their private purse for the expenses of the war.

St. PETERSBURG, April 26.—The Imperial manifesto was read in all the churches of the Empire to-day and was enthusiastically received.

The reports that special measures have been taken against American vessels on account of the transport of war material to Turkey are contradicted. Russia's relations with America are excellent, and disavowance of them is carefully avoided.

St. PETERSBURG, April 30.—All the war news must be submitted for the approval of a Special Committee of the Central Staff Office before publication.

TURKEY.

A special from Constantinople states that the Sultan, in his proclamation to the troops declares that in case of need he will join the army with the Standard of the Prophet and sacrifice his life for his people.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 26.—The Sultan has issued a proclamation to the officers and men of the fleet especially recommending them to protect the Mussulman population of the Crimean and Caucasian coasts now groaning under Russian yoke.

By decree of the Porte all Russian subjects must quit Turkey immediately.

Turkey is about to issue a proclamation respecting the search of neutral vessels for contraband of war.

A Paris despatch says not only has Russia warned the Khedive against sending troops to aid the Sultan, but France was warned him against diverting any sums he has set apart for creditors to such purpose.

The Khedive's son Hassan's mission is to explain the Khedive's inability to comply with the Sultan's request for troops.

"A telegram was received at Plymouth on Wednesday from the Controller of the Navy ordering full particulars to be sent of all ships in reserve at London port, which possibly could be made ready for sea by the 1st of June."

Sir Stafford Northcote stated that a Russian officer had been allowed to visit the dockyards English. He said there was no object at the present in altering the regulation nor would there be any so long as reciprocity exists.

AMERICAN NEUTRALITY.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—By treaty No. 2 with Russia, in 1854, it was agreed that property not contraband of war and belonging to subjects of the State at war found on neutral vessels, is free from capture, as is also the property of neutrals on board an enemy's vessels. The last treaty with Turkey contains no such provisions. Our treaty with Great Britain binds neutral Governments to prevent the fitting out of vessels in its jurisdiction intended for service against a Government with which we are at peace, also to use diligence to prevent the departure from our jurisdiction of vessels intended to carry on war, if such vessel has been adopted wholly or in part within such jurisdiction to warlike use; secondly, not to suffer either belligerent to use its waters as the basis of naval operations.

Spain will send an ironclad squadron to the Levant.

There is great activity at Naples, where Italian men-of-war are being prepared for sea.

Germany intends to put into commission several additional men-of-war.

The Grand Duke Alexis has just received from his mother a magnificent gold bracelet, studded with diamonds, to be worn on his left wrist until the end of the war. It was accompanied with his mother's blessing and an injunction to heroism.

The son of Schanayl, the famous Circassian chieftain, has been sent to Paris to assume command of the Circassian irregulars. The Porte is very sanguine this move will excite a rebellion in Circassia.

CANADIAN.

The price of white bread in Montreal has been advanced from 20 to 22c per loaf. A flour firm in this city has made $75,000 by the advance in flour. They hold 30,000 barrels.

70 French-Canadian emigrants from here left Montreal for Manitoba.

A party of young men attempted to charivari a newly-married couple at Chapeau on the Upper Ottawa, when one of the number, named C. P. Gray, was shot in the breast, and died almost instantly.

A fatal accident, due to carelessness in leaving loaded firearms within the reach of children, occurred at Seaton Village on Saturday. Two children of Robert Roberts, a girl aged 9 and a boy seven years old, took a loaded revolver from a box while their parents were out, and began playing with it, alternately putting it in each others' mouths. About 3 o'clock, when the boy was handling the revolver, and when it was in his sister's mouth it went off and lodged the bullet in the brain of the poor child, who expired instantly.

The City Hall and Council Chamber in Quebec, was mobbed on Monday night by over a thousand men and boys, who completely demolished the windows by stone throwing, the police force being powerless to prevent them. The cause was an unjust levy to pay last year's tax deficiency, and an objection to an increased police force.

General Iso has again engaged in a wholesale slaughter of defenceless prisoners of all ages, women, at Manas China.

British Government several thousand pounds as compensation.

A further outbreak of the cattle plague has occurred in the parish of Willdes Middlesex, England. 150 head were slaughtered on the 24th.

An extensive conflagration occurred Phanar, a quarter of Constantinople. Six hundred houses were destroyed. The fire originated accidentally 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and raged on nine in the evening. The Nookali district is entirely destroyed. The Mosque built of stone, was ruined. Two women were killed.

Flour in Belfast, Ireland, on Monday rose £2 sterling per ton. It has risen £27 in three weeks.

Great distress prevails throughout Russia, the south typhus fever and other epidemics are rife.

ODESSA, April 29.—The river Dniep has overflowed at Kremenchug, which is completely flooded, 20,000 inhabitants are homeless.

LONDON, April 28.—A Rome despatch reports that some of the Catholic government have sought information relative to the basis on which it is desired that negotiations should be opened in favor of the Holy See. The Vatican desires that the Pope should be insured complete personal and spiritual freedom without being called upon to reassert or renounce his claim to the temporal power. The Pope has instructed Cardinals Simeoni Bartolini and Nina to act as a kind committee of observation to guard against anything which might militate against the liberty of the next conclave to appoint his successor.

READY FOR WAR.

Turkey is much better supplied with arms than was at first supposed, she having received over 800,000 stand of arms from Providence, R. I., within the past two years, under a contract for 500,000 Peabody guns, a breech-loading rifle similar to the Martini-Henry rifle used in England. These rifles are still being manufactured for and delivered to the Turkish Government, several officers, which have been in the United States for some months past inspecting the arm and superintending their manufacture. The Turks also having contracts with various firms in the country for 200,000 rounds of metallic cartridges and for a large number of cartridge cases, which are now being made at Bridgeport and New Haven, Conn., and other places. That Government is also well supplied with breech-loading steel guns for field service, and it is not probable that there will be any great demand for arms of obsolete patterns upon this or any other country. Russia has also received a good supply of revolvers from the United States.

EMIGRATION TO AUSTRALIA.

The London Times inserts a letter from Mr. Henry Taylor, four columns in length, speaking highly of Australia as an emigration field. Mr. Taylor's letter concludes as follows:—"Altogether I conclude that South Australia offers advantages in country and climate which should claim the attention of those wishing to push their way in life. The kind of employment most required here are of just the same kind that we want at home. Difficulties will have to be met here as at home; the only difference here being better pay on a wider field of opportunities. Let me advise none to emigrate who do so simply for a change; let those come who desire to get on, and the advantage to themselves and the Colony will be mutual. The South Australians are a thorough British, law respecting, homely, an generous people, but they are also industrious and provident; the lazy and improvident find very little favour. Such are wanted neither in prison nor in society."

AMERICAN.

A large whale was landed at Southampton, L. I. on Tuesday.

A party of seventy men took a murderer from gaol, in Nashville, Tenn., hung him, and fired eight shots into his body.

Four of the Chicoo incendiaries have been sentenced to the penitentiary.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The Russian fleet in the harbour to-day celebrated the fifty-ninth anniversary of the Czar's birth.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 28.—The strike of the Reading locomotive engineers appears to have been practically abandoned.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The sudden sailing of the steamer John Bramall, early on Saturday morning, with a consignment of arms and ammunition for Turkey, was owing to the fact that a number of men had conspired to seize the ship and land the cargo at St. Petersburg. The ship slipped off, leaving thirty booked passengers behind.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The existing troubles between Russia and Turkey and the unsettled condition of other European Powers growing out of these hostilities have already created a demand upon this country for timber suitable for ship building, and the agents of several foreign Powers are here for the purpose of purchasing such timber. Two cargoes were recently shipped to France, and more has been purchased for Great Britain.

NEW YORK, April 29.—A large number of applications have been made at both the Russian and Turkish Consulates for enlistment as soldiers which have been refused, there being no authority to receive recruits.

Within the past two months the emigration from the United States to Australia has amounted to nearly a thousand souls, more than one-third of the number sailing on Saturday last. The statement of the agent that more than three times as many persons applied for passage in the ship which sailed then as the ship could accommodate, is a proof of the pressure of the hard times.

The Government will send two or three army officers to observe the military operations between Russia and Turkey.

NEW YORK, April 26.—The price of wheat has advanced between ten and fifteen per cent., and is cheaper in Europe now than here.

The Commission on the settlement of the Fishing Claims under the Treaty of Washington will organize at Halifax in July. The question is really between the United States and the Dominion, the Imperial Government having transferred its fishing rights to the Dominion.

Capt. Gifford, of the barque Young Phoenix, who rescued the Strathmore survivors, as been presented by the British Government with a silver claret jug.

From September, 1876, to April, 50,000,000 bushels of American wheat were in England, against 60,000,000 for the corresponding period of the previous year. The importations of Great Britain for the same date from other sources was 24,000,000 bushels, against 84,000,000 in the previous year. This shows a large deficit in England.

A delegation of the Labour League, twenty-six white and thirty-five coloured, called upon the President, and presented an address asking him in his message to Congress to recommend an appropriation for internal improvements throughout the country, the restoration of the suffrage in this district, and the payment of 10,000 working men who were defrauded by the contractors under the Board of Public Works. The President said the questions were serious and

PROF. TYNDALL'S WARNING.

In concluding an address to the students of University College (London) Prof. Tyndall, who is unquestionably one of the most indefatigable brain workers of our century, said, "take care of your health. Imagine Hercules as oarsman in a rotten boat; what can he do there but by the very force of his stroke expedite the ruin of his craft. Take care of the timbers of your boat." The distinguished scientist's advice is equally valuable to all workers. We are apt to devote all our energies to wielding the oars, our strokes fall firm and fast, but few of us examine or even think of the condition of our boats until the broken or rotten timbers suddenly give way and we find ourselves the victims of a calamity which could have been easily avoided by a little forethought. What began with a slight fracture, or perhaps even a careless exposure to disorganizing influence, ends in the complete wreck of the life-boat. The disease which began with a slight headache or an undue exposure to cold terminates in death, unless its progress be checked, and the disease remedied. The first symptoms, the heralds of disease, give no indication of the strength of the on-coming foe, and the victim trusts that his old ally, Nature, will exterminate the invader. But Disease in an old general and accomplishes his most important movements in the night-time, and some bright morning finds him in possession of one of the strongest fortifications; and when he has once gained a stronghold in the system Nature ignominiously turns traitor and secretly delivers up the whole physical armory to the invader. Like the wily politician, Nature is always on the strongest side, and the only way to insure her support is to keep your vital powers in the ascendant. Keep your strongest forts—the stomach and liver—well guarded. Do not let the foe enter the arterial highways, for he will steal or destroy your richest merchandise and impoverish your kingdom. To repulse the attacks of the foe you can find no better ammunition than Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines. (Full directions accompany each package.) His Pleasant Purgative Pellets are especially effective in defending the stomach and liver. His Golden Medical Discovery for purifying the blood and arresting coughs and colds. If you wish to become familiar with the most approved system of defense in this warfare, and the history of the foe's method of invasion, together with complete instructions for keeping your forces in martial order in time of peace, you can find no better manual of these tactics than "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., of the World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y. Sent to any address on receipt of $1.50. It contains over nine hundred pages, illustrated by two hundred and eighty-two engravings and colored plates, and elegantly bound in cloth and gilt.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE WAR QUESTION.

The N. Y. Express, commenting on the opinions of other journals as to the good effect of a European war on American business prospects, looks beyond the immediate to the ultimate results, and says: War means more cost to the consumers of bread and meat to eat at home, bonds to be returned to the United States for payment, a higher interest on gold, less income on foreign imports, war speculations and productions, which often end in disaster than proceed to profit. War undoubtedly means business, but unfortunately it is not the right kind of business. It may break the commercial stagnation which hangs like a pall over the land and almost over the world. It will substitute soldiers in Russia, Turkey, and elsewhere for growers of wheat and producers of other grains. There will be a

CASH

SLAV

STRICTLY

Tuesday

BY

Right Down

AND THEY NOW QUOTE THE

VANTAGE THAT CUST

2000 yards of American
1000 yards of Brown D
200 dozen Huckaback
1000 yards of Ashton's
500 yards of White Cotton
500 yards heavy Cotton
500 yards of Straw Ties
500 yards of Feather Ties
50 dozen white Cotton Fine Suits of Worsted Fine Tweed Suits at $ 50 dozen Ladies' Sun
50 dozen Ladies' Rusti
10 dozen Boy's Panam
Rich reversable Paisley
Rich Tissue and Gren
Rich Cashmere Shawls
Best Fringed White Q
Wide Twilled Bleache
Rich Black Lustre at Very Rich Black Silk
Fine black and white
Fine blue and black ch
Very wide Peach Color
Matalasse Cloaking, ve
Black and white check
Double width Scotch J
Fine Canadian Tweeds
Very Heavy Canadian Fine all-wool French I
Fine white Shaker Flan
Splendid Oxford Shirti

And everything else in th

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 30.—The Porte in dealing with neutral shipping reserves the right of searching suspected vessels both on the coast and at sea.

LONDON, April 30.—A Constantinople telegram makes the following announcement:—"During the night entry into or departure from the Bosphorus and Dardanelles is absolutely prohibited. All lights will be extinguished except two at the entrance of the Bosphorus and two in the Dardanelles, and these may also be put out."

A VIOLATION OF TREATY.

VIENNA, April 28.—Turkish ironclads are cruising in the Danube off Galatz. The navigation of that port is stopped. Vessels belonging to neutral powers now at Galatz will be allowed time to complete loading, but all inward bound vessels will be stopped on and after Sunday.

The closing of the Danube by Russia seems rather a serious matter. The freedom of navigation is notoriously a stipulation of the Treaty of Paris. Besides eight gunboats which the Russians have brought down in sections and put together on the Pruth or Danube, a Russian fleet is at Nicolajeff, and will eventually come down to the mouth of the Danube.

ENGLAND'S POSITION.

LONDON, April 30.—A proclamation has been issued by the Queen stating that she is determined to maintain strict and impartial neutrality in the war between Russia and Turkey, and commanding her subjects to abstain from violating the laws relating thereto.

The Gazette contains a letter from Lord Derby to the heads of the Departments of State, announcing certain rules according to which men of war of both belligerents are forbidden from using any British port as a station for any warlike purpose, bringing their prizes thereto, embarking any warlike stores or more coal and provisions than are sufficient for immediate wants, or remaining longer than twenty-four hours, except in case of stress of weather, damage, or necessity for obtaining provisions.

It is announced at the War Office that the Government has made preparations to send 50,000 men at a moment's notice to Egypt, 25,000 from England, and 25,000 from India.

The Times says the orders to the Deyenport dockyards are to press forward the necessary works on commissioned ships with all speed, and to direct sole attention to such necessary works, leaving all else for future completion.

The British ironclads stationed at Malta have sailed for Corfu.

Serious complications will arise in the event of the Russian fleet returning to the Mediterranean from China, as it is reported Russia will demand the passage of the fleet through the Suez canal.

An army corps of 30,000 or 40,000 men is being rapidly prepared for despatch to any point where English interests require. It is probable this corps will rendezvous at Malta or Gibraltar. The command is to be offered to Lord Napier, of Magdala.

A declaration of neutrality will immediately be promulgated in the Queen's name forbidding British subjects from aiding either belligerent.

British officers on leave of absence have been requested to rejoin their regiments.

The London press unanimously condemns the Russian manifesto.

England is negotiating with the Porte for the cession to her of the Suez Canal.

LONDON, April 27.—In the House of Lords, Lord Stratheden asked how far the Government concurred in the statement of the Russian circular that the Czar tention to such necessary works, leaving all else for future completion.

The British ironclads stationed at Malta have sailed for Corfu.

Serious complications will arise in the event of the Russian fleet returning to the Mediterranean from China, as it is expected Russia will demand the passage of the fleet through the Suez canal.

An army corps of 30,000 or 40,000 men is being rapidly prepared for despatch to any point where English interests require. It is probable this corps will rendezvous at Malta or Gibraltar. The command is to be offered to Lord Napier, of Magdala.

A declaration of neutrality will immediately be promulgated in the Queen's name forbidding British subjects from aiding either belligerent.

British officers on leave of absence have been requested to rejoin their regiments.

The London press unanimously condemns the Russian manifesto.

England is negotiating with the Porte or the cession to her of the Suez Canal.

London, April 27.—In the House of Lords, Lord Strathearn asked how far the Government concurred in the statement of the Russian circular that the Czar represented the views and interests of Europe.

Earl Derby replied—"England is in no way bound by the expression of opinion in the circular. As a matter of fact the Government does not accept or adopt either conclusion or the arguments embodied therein."

The Channel fleet has been ordered to reinforce the English squadron in the Mediterranean. Several regiments of English troops will embark.

"A telegram was received at Plymouth on Wednesday from the Controller of the Navy ordering full particulars to be sent of all ships in reserve at London port, which possibly could be made ready for sea by the 1st of June."

Sir Stafford Northcote stated that a Russian officer had been allowed to visit the dockyards English. He said there was no object at the present in altering the regulation nor would there be any so long as reciprocity exists.

AMERICAN NEUTRALITY.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—By treaty No. 1 with Russia, in 1854, it was agreed that property not contraband of war and belonging to subjects of the State at war should on neutral vessels, is free from capture, as is also the property of neutrals on board an enemy's vessels. The last treaty with Turkey contains no such provisions. Our treaty with Great Britain finds neutral Governments to prevent the fitting out of vessels in its jurisdiction intended for service against a Government with which we are at peace, also to use diligence to prevent the departure from our jurisdiction of vessels intended to carry on war, if such vessel has been adopted wholly or in part within such jurisdiction to warlike use; secondly, not to suffer either belligerent to use its waters as the basis of naval operations.

Spain will send an ironclad squadron to the Levant.

There is great activity at Naples, where Italian men-of-war are being prepared for sea.

Germany intends to put into commission several additional men-of-war.

The Grand Duke Alexis has just received from his mother a magnificent gold bracelet, studded with diamonds, to be worn on his left wrist until the end of the war. It was accompanied with his mother's blessing and an injunction to heroism.

The son of Schamyl, the famous Circassian chieftain, has been sent to Kars to assume command of the Circassian regulars. The Porte is very sanguine his move will excite a rebellion in Circassia.

the fishing claims under the Treaty of Washington will organize at Halifax in July. The question is really between the United States and the Dominion, the Imperial Government having transferred its fishing rights to the Dominion.

Capt. Gifford, of the barque Young Phoenix, who rescued the Strathmore survivors, as been presented by the British Government with a silver claret jug.

From September, 1876, to April, 50,000,000 bushels of American wheat were in England, against 60,000,000 for the corresponding period of the previous year. The importations of Great Britain for the same date from other sources was 24,000,000 bushels, against 84,000,000 in the previous year. This shows a large deficit in England.

A delegation of the Labour League, twenty-six white and thirty-five coloured, called upon the President, and presented an address asking him in his message to Congress to recommend an appropriation for internal improvements throughout the country, the restoration of the suffrage in this district, and the payment of 10,000 working men who were defrauded by the contractors under the Board of Public Works. The President said the questions were serious and would require consideration.

FOREIGN.

A severe shock of earthquake occurred on the 23rd, ult at Oban, country of Argyll.

Squatter sovereignty has been revived in Egypt. A man who insists that he owns the ground in which Cleopatra's Needle is imbedded has built a high fence around the obelisk and demands of the British Government several thousand pounds as compensation.

A farther outbreak of the cattle plague has occurred in the parish of Willesden, Middlesex, England. 150 head were slaughtered on the 24th.

An extensive conflagration occurred in Phanar, a quarter of Constantinople. Six hundred houses were destroyed. The fire originated accidentally 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and raged until nine in the evening. The Nookalic district is entirely destroyed. The Mosque, built of stone, was ruined. Two women were killed.

Flour in Belfast, Ireland, on Monday, rose £2 sterling per ton. It has risen $27 in three weeks.

Great distress prevails throughout Russian, the south typhus fever and other epidemics are rife.

Odessa, April 29.—The river Dnieper has overflowed at Kremenchug, which is completely flooded. 20,000 inhabitants are homeless.

London, April 28.—A Rome despatch reports that some of the Catholic government have sought information relative to the basis on which it is desired that negotiations should be opened in favour of the Holy See. The Vatican desires that the Pope should be insured complete personal and spiritual freedom without being called upon to reassert or renounce his claim to the temporal power. The Pope has instructed Cardinals Simeoni, Bartolini and Nina to act as a kind of committee of observation to guard against anything which might militate against the liberty of the next conclave to appoint his successor.

READY FOR WAR.

Turkey is much better supplied with arms than was at first supposed, she having received over 800,000 stand of arms from Providence, R. I., within the past two years, under a contract for 500,000 Peabody guns, a breech-loading rifle similar to the Martini-Henry rifle used in England. These rifles are still being manufactured for and delivered to the Turkish Government, several officers of which have been in the United States for some months past inspecting the arms and superintending their manufacture. The Turks also having contracts with peace, you can find no better manual of these tactics than "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., of the World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y. Sent to any address on receipt of $1.50. It contains over nine hundred pages, illustrated by two hundred and eighty-two engravings and colored plates, and elegantly bound in cloth and gilt.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE WAR QUESTION.

The N. Y. Express, commenting on the opinions of other journals as to the good effect of a European war on American business prospects, looks beyond the immediate to the ultimate results, and says: War means more cost to the consumers of bread and meat to eat at home, bonds to be returned to the United States for payment, a higher interest on gold, less income on foreign imports, war speculations and productions, which often end in disaster than proceed to profit. War undoubtedly means business, but unfortunately it is not the right kind of business. It may break the commercial stagnation which hangs like a pall over the land and almost over the world. It will substitute soldiers in Russia, Turkey, and elsewhere for growers of wheat and producers of other grains. There will be a great slaughter of men and horses, towns burned, cities devastated, and all the beauties and glories and consequences of war, but it can hardly be that our national prosperity will depend upon such an aggregation of evils as war. Look on the war picture of inflation. Speculation and false expectations even at home, and against it offset the little present gain against the present and ultimate cost, and the balance, even in national profits, will not be much upon our side."

FIFTY YEARS OLD.

The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Guelph was celebrated on the 23 ult. on a scale of great magnificence. Mr. Justice Galt, son of the founder of Guelph, and his two sons, were the guests of the Corporation, besides a number of the first and second years settlers.

Early in the morning over two thousand children of the town met at the drill shed, and were regaled with oranges, &c.

At twelve o'clock the Wellington Field Battery fired twenty-one rounds of blank cartridge, and the Guelph Rifles a de joie.

The main features of the celebration was the procession, headed by the Field Battery, and followed by the Mayor and guests of the Corporation in carriages, the Town Council, Board of Education, and the St. George's, St. Patrick's, St. Andrew's and Caledonian Societies, to the number of about 2,000.

The first male child born in Guelph carried the Royal Standard. Each society was headed by a band, and besides a band, the sons of Scotland had eight pipers. Several trades were represented in the procession, and various articles of manufacture were made on the route, and distributed among the crowd.

The celebration eclipses anything ever before held in this part of the country. The proceedings terminated with fireworks, and a bon-fire.

A DESPERATE SITUATION.

This morning the company belonging to Montgomery Queen's circus passed through the public streets. The last wagon in the caravan consisted of a cage containing a lion and a tigre, and their keeper. The tiger crouched stealthily in one corner of the cage, the lioness in another, and between them sat the keeper. During the entire parade the lion manifested a good deal of uneasiness at the presence of the tiger in the cage, and made several attempts to approach it, but was prevented from doing so by the keeper. When opposite the Nevada block, on Montgomery street, however, the two animals managed to rush upon one another. Then followed one of the most exciting scenes imaginable. The keeper rushed in between the infuriated animals, and the company

50 dozen Ladies' Sun H
50 dozen Ladies' Rustic
10 dozen Boy's Panama
Rich reversable Paisley
Rich Tissue and Grenad
Rich Cashmere Shawls
Best Fringed White Qu
Wide Twilled Bleached
Rich Black Lustre at 30
Very Rich Black Silk at Fine black and white ch
Fine blue and black che
Very wide Peach Colore
Matalasse Cloaking, ver
Black and white check
Double width Scotch T
Fine Canadian Tweeds
Very Heavy Canadian T
Fine all-wool French Da
Fine white Shaker Flan
Splendid Oxford Shirts

And everything else in the reductions ranging from ten to goods for last month.

Napanee, May 2nd, 1877.

ROOM

PAPER

—AT—

HENDERSON'S

BOOK STORE.

FRESH

Spring Supplies

JUST ARRIVED

Wednesday from the Controller of the navy ordering full particulars to be sent of all ships in reserve at London port, which possibly could be made ready for service by the 1st of June."

Sir Stafford Northcote stated that a Russian officer had been allowed to visit the dockyards English. He said there was no object at the present in altering the regulation nor would there be any so long as reciprocity exists.

AMERICAN NEUTRALITY.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—By treaty No. 12, with Russia, in 1854, it was agreed that property not contraband of war and belonging to subjects of the State at war and on neutral vessels, is free from capture, as is also the property of neutrals on board an enemy's vessels. The 1st treaty with Turkey contains no such provisions. Our treaty with Great Britain binds neutral Governments to prevent the fitting out of vessels in its jurisdiction intended for service against a Government with which we are at peace, also to use diligence to prevent the departure from our jurisdiction of vessels intended to carry on war, if such vessel has been adopted wholly or in part within such jurisdiction to warlike use; secondly, not to suffer either belligerent to use its waters as the basis of naval operations.

Spain will send an ironclad squadron to the Levant.

There is great activity at Naples, where Italian men-of-war are being prepared for sea.

Germany intends to put into commission several additional men-of-war.

The Grand Duke Alexis has just received from his mother a magnificent old bracelet, studded with diamonds, to be worn on his left wrist until the end of the war. It was accompanied with his mother's blessing and an injunction to cherish it.

The son of Schamyl, the famous Circassian chieftain, has been sent to Kars to assume command of the Circassian regulars. The Porte is very sanguine his move will excite a rebellion in Circassia.

CANADIAN.

The price of white bread in Montreal has been advanced from 20 to 22c per lb. A flour firm in this city has made 75,000 lbs of the advance in flour. They sold 30,000 barrels.

70 French-Canadian emigrants from the left bank of the St. Lawrence have been sent to Manitoba.

A party of young men attempted to harp a newly-married couple at a house on the Upper Ottawa, when one of the number, named C. P. Gray, was shot in the breast, and died almost instantly.

A fatal accident, due to carelessness in having loaded firearms within the reach of children, occurred at Seaton Village on Saturday. Two children of Robert Roberts, a girl aged 9 and a boy seven years old, took a loaded revolver from a box while their parents were out, and began playing with it, alternately putting it in each other's mouths. About 3 o'clock, when the boy was handling the revolver, and when it was in his sister's mouth, it cut off and lodged the bullet in the brain of the poor child, who expired instantly.

The City Hall and Council Chamber in Quebec, was mobbed on Monday night by over a thousand men and boys, who completely demolished the windows by one throwing, the police force being powerless to prevent them. The cause was an unjust levy to pay last year's tax deficiency, and an objection to an increased police force.

General Iso has again engaged in a wholesale slaughter of defenceless prisoners of all ages, women, at Manas China.

pounds as compensation.

A further outbreak of the cattle plague has occurred in the parish of Willesden, Middlesex, England. 150 head were slaughtered on the 24th.

An extensive conflagration occurred in Phanar, a quarter of Constantinople. Six hundred houses were destroyed. The fire originated accidentally 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and raged until nine in the evening. The Nookalic district is entirely destroyed. The Mosque, built of stone, was ruined. Two women were killed.

Flour in Belfast, Ireland, on Monday, rose £2 sterling per ton. It has risen £27 in three weeks.

Great distress prevails throughout Russia, the south typhus fever and other epidemics are rife.

ODESSA, April 29.—The river Dnieper has overflowed at Kremenchug, which is completely flooded; 20,000 inhabitants are homeless.

LONDON, April 28.—A Rome despatch reports that some of the Catholic government have sought information relative to the basis on which it is desired that negotiations should be opened in favour of the Holy See. The Vatican desires that the Pope should be insured complete personal and spiritual freedom without being called upon to reassert or renounce his claim to the temporal power. The Pope has instructed Cardinals Simeoni, Bartolini and Nina to act as a kind of committee of observation to guard against anything which might militate against the liberty of the next conclave to appoint his successor.

READY FOR WAR.

Turkey is much better supplied with arms than was at first supposed, she having received over 300,000 stand of arms from Providence, R. I., within the past two years, under a contract for 500,000 Peabody guns, a breech-loading rifle similar to the Martini-Henry rifle used in England. These rifles are still being manufactured for and delivered to the Turkish Government, several officers of which have been in the United States for some months past inspecting the arms and superintending their manufacture. The Turks also having contracts with various firms in the country for 200,000, 000 rounds of metallic cartridges and for a large number of cartridge cases, which are now being made at Bridgeport and New Haven, Conn., and other places. That Government is also well supplied with breech-loading steel guns for field service, and it is not probable that there will be any great demand for arms of obsolete patterns upon this or any other country. Russia has also received a good supply of revolvers from the United States.

EMIGRATION TO AUSTRALIA.

The London Times inserts a letter from Mr. Henry Taylor, four columns in length, speaking highly of Australia as an emigration field. Mr. Taylor's letter concludes as follows:—"Altogether I conclude that South Australia offers advantages in country and climate which should claim the attention of those wishing to push their way in life. The kind of men most required here are of just the same kind that we want at home. Difficulties will have to be met here as at home; the only difference here being better pay and a wider field of opportunities. Let me advise none to emigrate who do so simply for a change; let those come who desire to get on, and the advantage to themselves and the Colony will be mutual. The South Australians are a thoroughly British, law respecting, homely, and generous people, but they are also industrious and provident; the law and the provident find very little favour. Such are wanted neither in prison nor in society."

FIFTY YEARS OLD.

The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Guelph was celebrated on the 23 ult. on a scale of great magnificence. Mr. Justice Galt, son of the founder of Guelph, and his two sons, were the guests of the Corporation, besides a number of the first and second years settlers.

Early in the morning over two thousand children of the town met at the drill shed, and were regaled with oranges, &c.

At twelve o'clock the Wellington Field Battery fired twenty-one rounds of blank cartridge, and the Guelph Rifles a feu de joie.

The main feature of the celebration was the procession, headed by the Field Battery, and followed by the Mayor and guests of the Corporation in carriages, the Town Council, Board of Education, and the St. George's, St. Patrick's, St. Andrew's and Caledonian Societies, to the number of about 2,000.

The first male child born in Guelph carried the Royal Standard. Each society was headed by a band, and besides a band, the sons of Scotland had eight pipers. Several trades were represented in the procession, and various articles of manufacture were made on the route, and distributed among the crowd.

The celebration eclipses anything ever before held in this part of the country. The proceedings terminated with fireworks, and a bon-fire.

A DESPERATE SITUATION.

This morning the company belonging to Montgomery Queen's circus passed through the public streets. The last wagon in the caravan consisted of a cage containing a lion and a tiger, and their keeper. The tiger crouched stealthily in one corner of the cage, the lioness in another, and between them sat the keeper. During the entire parade the lion manifested a good deal of uneasiness at the presence of the tiger in the cage, and made several attempts to approach it, but was prevented from doing so by the keeper. When opposite the Nevada block, on Montgomery street, however, the two animals managed to push upon one another. Then followed one of the most exciting scenes imaginable. The keeper rushed in between the infuriated animals for the purpose of separating them, and the curious and horror-stricken crowd rushed instinctively toward the cage to render assistance, were it possible. While engaged in separating the beasts, the lion seized the keeper's thigh and drove his teeth deep in the flesh. The excited crowd on the outside then began to raise their voice in alarm, but the man whose life was thus placed in jeopardy coolly told them to be quiet, and seizing an iron bar he struck the lion on the head several times, finally compelling him to release his hold and return to his corner. Blood flowed freely from his wounds — San Francisco Bulletin, April 2.

CO-OPERATION IN ENGLAND.

The strong vitality of the co-operative movement in England is made manifest in the report of the co-operative societies of the United Kingdom, and in the proceedings of the ninth annual congress which has just been sitting at Leicester. Last year sixty-four new societies were established, and the army of co-operative customers increased 36,000. The capital turned over was nearly nine millions sterling within the same limit of time, being an increase of one million on the previous year. The profits on this prodigious business were not more than three-quarters of a million, and herein lies the benefit of the system. It is distribution at a cheap rate—and this is the object of the co-operative movement, as opposed to the ordinary system of trading.

Scotch and Canadian Tweed Suits from $12 to 20 at, DAVIS & BRO.

PAPER

—AT—

HENDERSON'S

BOOK STORE.

FRESH

Spring Supplies

JUST ARRIVED

New Designs,

Good Quality,

Prices Low.

FIGURED

Window Shades,

GOOD VARIETY,

All Cheap as ever, at

HENDERSON'S,

PROF. TYNDALL'S WARNING.

concluding an address to the its of University College (London) Tyndall, who is unquestionably one most indefatigable brain workers century, said, "take care of your Imagine Hercules as oarsman in on boat; what can he do there but very force of his stroke expedite in of h's craft. Take care of the rs of your boat." The distinguished ist's advice is equally valuable to all rs. We are apt to devote all our es to wielding the oars, our strokes m and fast, but few of us examine r, think of the condition of our until the broken or rotten timbers nly give way and we find ourselves stims of a calamity which could been easily avoided by a little fore-ht. What began with a slight re, or perhaps even a careless exe to disorganizing influence, ends in mplete wreck of the life-boat. The e which began with a slight head-or an undue exposure to cold ter-es in death, unless its progress be ed, and the disease remedied. The ymptoms, the heralds of disease, o indication of the strength of the ning-foe, and the victim trusts that d ally, Nature, will exterminate the er. But Disease in an old general accomplishes his most important ments in the night-time, and some morning finds him in possession of f the strongest fortifications; and he has once gained a stronghold in stem Nature ignominiously turns r and secretly delivers up the whole al armory to the invader. Like the olitician, Nature is always on the rest side, and the only way to insure upport is to keep your vital powers ascendant. Keep your strongest -the stomach and liver well guard-
Do not let the foe enter the arterial rays, for he will steal or destroy richest merchandise and impoverish kingdom. To repulse the attacks of e you can find no better ammuni-han Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines.
directions accompany each package.
'pleasant Purgative Pellets are espeffective in defending the stomach
ver. His Golden Medical Discovery rifying the blood and arresting is and colds. If you wish to become lar with the most approved system ense in this warfare, and the history foe's method of invasion, together complete instructions for keeping forces in martial order in time of you can find no better manual of tactics than "The People's Common Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, of the World's Dispensary, Buffalo.
Sent to any address on receipt of It contains over nine hundred illustrated by two hundred and y-two engravings and colored plates, elegantly bound in cloth and gilt.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE WAR QUESTION.

e N. Y. Express, commenting on the ons of other journals as to the good of a European war on American ess prospects, looks beyond the imsto the ultimate results, and says:
means more cost to the consumers ad and meat to eat at home, bonds returned to the United States for ent. a higher interest on gold, less e on foreign imports, war specuand productions, which often end aster than proceed to profit. War btedly means business, but unforely it is not the right kind of busi-
It may break the commercial stag-n which hangs like a pall over the and almost over the world. It will itute soldiers in Russia, Turkey, and here for growers of wheat and pros of other grains. There will be a slaughter of men and horses, towns d, cities devastated, and all the CASH vs. CREDIT.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE

COMMENCED A

STRICTLY CASH SYSTEM

OF DOING BUSINESS, ON Tuesday Last, the First of May,

BY MARKING ALL THEIR GOODS

Right Down to Bottom Prices,

AND THEY NOW QUOTE THE PRICES OF A FEW OF THEIR LEADING LINES, TO SHOW THE AD-VANTAGE THAT CUSTOMERS WILL GAIN BY IT, FOR INSTANCE THEY OFFER

- 2000 yards of American Print at 7 cents, our credit price was 9 cents.
- 1000 yards of Brown Duck at 14 cents, our credit price was 18 cents.
- 200 dozen Huckaback Towels at 5 cents, our credit price was 10 cents.
- 1000 yards of Ashton's best Prints at 12 cents, our credit price was 15 cents.
- 500 yards of White Cotton at 8 cents, our credit price was 10 cents.
- 500 yards heavy Cotton Tweeds at 20 cents, our credit price was 30 cents.
- 500 yards of Straw Ticking at 20 cents, our credit price was 25 cents.
- 500 yards of Feather Ticking at 20 cents, our credit price was 25 cents.
- 50 dozen white Cotton Hose at 8 cents, our credit price was 13 cents.
- Fine Suits of Worsted Coating at $17, our credit price was $22.
- Fine Tweed Suits at $12, our credit price was $15.
- 50 dozen Ladies' Sun Hats, at 5 cents, our credit price was 10 cents.
- 50 dozen Ladies' Rustic Hats at 25 cents, our credit price was 50 cents.
- 10 dozen Boy's Panama Hats at 40 cents, our credit price was $1.00.
- Rich reversible Paisley Shawls at $6.00, our credit price was $8.00.
- Rich Tissue and Grenadine Shawls at $1.50, our credit price was $2.50.
- Rich Cashmere Shawls at $4.00, our credit price was $5.00.
- Best Fringed White Quilts at $2.50, our credit price was $3.50.
- Wide Twilled Bleached Sheeting at 40 cents, our credit price was 50 cents.
- Rich Black Lustre at 30 cents, our credit price was 37 cents.
- Very Rich Black Silk at $1.10, our credit price was $1.35.
- Fine black and white checked Silks at 80 cents, our credit price was $1.00.
- Fine blue and black checked Silks at 75 cents, our credit price was $1.00.
- Very wide Peach Colored Silks at 90 cents, our credit price was $1.50.
- Matalasse Cloaking, very wide, at $1.75, our credit price was $2.50.
- Black and white check Poplin Dresses at $5.00, our credit price was $6.50.
- Double width Scotch Tweeds at 90, our credit price was $1.15.
- Fine Canadian Tweeds at 90 cents, our credit price was $1.20.
- Very Heavy Canadian Tweeds at 70 cents, our credit price was 90 cents.
- Fine all-wool French Delaines at 20 cents, our credit price was 30 cents.
- Fine white Shaker Flannel at 25 cents, our credit price was 35 cents.
- Splendid Oxford Shirting at 14 cents, our credit price was 17 cents.

And everything else in the house is marked right down to the Lowest Cash Price, the reductions ranging from ten to twenty-five per cent, off the prices that we sold the same goods for last month.

turned to the United States for nt, a higher interest on gold, less on foreign imports, war specula-nd productions, which offer end ster than proceed to profit. War-tedly means business, but unfory it is not the right kind of busi-
It may break the commercial stag-which hangs like a pall over the id almost over the world. It will te soldiers in Russia, Turkey, and ere for growers of wheat and proof other grains. There will be a laughter of men and horses, towns cities devastated, and all the s and glories and consequences of it can hardly be that our nationerty will depend upon such an ation of evils as war. Look on the sture of inflation. Speculation and pectations even at home, and it offset the little present gain the present and ultimate cost, and ance, even in national profits, will much upon our side."

FIFTY YEARS OLD.
fiftieth anniversary of the found-Guelph was celebrated on the
on a scale of great magnificence.
justice Galt, son of the founder of
and his two sons, were the guests Corporation, besides a number of
and second years settlers
y in the morning over two thou-children of the town met at the drill and were regaled with oranges. At twelve o'clock the Wellington Field
y fired twenty-one rounds of blank ge, and the Guelph Rifles a feet.
main feature of the celebration
a procession, headed by the Field
y, and followed by the Mayor and of the Corporation in carriages,
wn Council, Board of Education,
e St. George's, St. Patrick's, St. w's and Caledonian Societies, to mber of about 2,000.
first male child born in Guelph
the Royal Standard. Each soras headed by a band, and besides the sons of Scotland had eight Several trades were represented procession, and various articles of ature were made on the route,
tributed among the crowd.
celebration eclipses anything ever
held in this part of the country.
ceedings terminated with fire-
and a bon-fire.

DESPERATE SITUATION.
morning the company belonging
ntgomery Queen's circus passed h the public streets. The last in the caravan consisted of a cage sing lion and tigers, and tiger keeper. The tiger crouched ily in one corner of the cage, the in another, and between them sat
per. During the entire parade manifested a good deal of uneass at the presence of the tiger in e, and made several attempts to ch it, but was prevented from do-by the keeper. When opposite vada block, on Montgomery street,
r, the two animals managed to pon one another. Then followed the most exciting scenes imagi-
The keeper rushed in between riated animals for the purpose of ing them, and the curious and stricken crowd rushed instinctward the cage to render assist-ere it possible. While engaged rating the beasts, the lion seized per's thigh and drove his teeth
the flesh. The excited crowd on side then began to raise their alarm, but the man whose thus placed in jeopardy coolly
m to be quiet, and seizing an iron struck the lion on the head sever-s, finally compelling him to res hold and return to his corner.
lowed freely from his wounds —
"San Francisco Bulletin, April 2.

Black and white check Poplin Dresses at $5.00, our credit price was $6.50.
Double width Scotch Tweeds at 90, our credit price was $1.15.
Fine Canadian Tweeds at 90 cents, our credit price was $1.20.
Very Heavy Canadian Tweeds at 70 cents, our credit price was 90 cents.
Fine all-wool French Delaines at 20 cents, our credit price was 30 cents.
Fine white Shaker Flannel at 25 cents, our credit price was 35 cents.
Splendid Oxford Shirtings at 14 cents, our credit price was 17 cents.
And everything else in the house is marked right down to the Lowest Cash Price, the reductions ranging from ten to twenty-five per cent, off the prices that we sold the same goods for last month.

SLAVEN & IRONSIDE
Napanee, May 2nd, 1877.

ROOM PAPER
—AT—
HENDERSON'S
BOOK STORE.

FRESH
Spring Supplies
JUST ARRIVED
New Designs,
Good Quality,
Prices Low.

LIVERY at MILL POINT.

MR. JOHN FINLAYSON is prepared to furnish the best of rigs, either single or double.
At the Old Commercial Hotel
MAIN STREET.
Mill Point, Jan 30th, 1877. 45
LOST.
ON Saturday evening, March 24th, between Sally and Gilbey's corners, a sample case of pictures, the finder will confer a favor by leaving it at the Weekly Express Office, Napanee, or at H. Walrath's Griefs Corners.
J. T. CLARK, Agent.
Arden Ont.
54-46.

REMOVED
Mrs. Jackson
Begs to inform the public that she has removed from the premises formerly occupied by her, and will now be found in the rooms above
SYMLINGTON'S ELDER STORE, and opposite Grace's Drug Store, where she is still prepared to do all kinds of hair-
work, such as
SWITCHES,
PUFFS,
BRAIDS,
CURLS,
SWITCHES DYED ON SHORT NOTICE.
ALL WORK DONE SATISFACTORILY.
Roots of curls all turned one way. Instructions given in the art on reasonable terms. Highest price paid for human hair.
SWITCHES FOR SALE.
Land PLASTER
Now grinding and ready for use,
Superior Fine Ground
Land Plaster,
AT THE LOW RATE OF
$5 per Ton, or 25 cts. per Hundred.
ALL orders left at the Mill, or at the
A Woolen Factory, for Williams' and Lasher's Water Lime, or Quick Lime, will be promptly attended to. Lime delivered
when required. No Credit.
JAMES PERRY.
Napanee, March 5th, 1877. 46.

Land and Town Property
FOR SALE.
A NUMBER of farms in the Counties
of Northumberland and Hastings,
also some very valuable city property in Belleville, and both village and farming property, in and near the village of Brighton.
Apply to
J. B. BENSON,
Napanee.
March 12th, 1877. 47-46.

Public Attention

Is directed to the following Provisions of the Fishery and Game Laws in the Province of Ontario.
CLOSE SEASONS FOR FISH.
Whitefish cannot be caught from 1st
November to 10th November, both days
inclusive.
Salmon Trout, and Lake Trout, cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th
November, both days inclusive.
Speckled Trout, Brook or River Trout, cannot be caught from 15th September
to 1st May.
Bass, cannot be caught from 15th May
to 15th June.
Pickereel, cannot be caught from 15th April to 15th May.
Maskinonge, cannot be caught from 15th
April to 15th May.
CLOSE SEASONS FOR GAME.
Deer and Cariboo, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.
Moose, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.
Partridge, cannot be killed from 1st
January to 1st September.
Duck, cannot be killed from 1st January
to 15th August.
Woodcock, cannot be killed from 1st
January to 1st July.
Snipe, cannot be killed from 1st May to 15th August.
Quail, cannot be killed from 1st January
to 1st October.

All well-disposed persons are requested
to afford the local Fishery Officers whatever information and assistance they can towards carrying out the provisions of
the Fishery Laws.
Fishing without License is prohibited.
Indians are forbidden to fish or shoot
illegally the same as whitemen.
Complainants will receive one-half of the fines imposed, and be paid for their
cost and attendance as witnesses.
Each person is liable to find and costs, or
in default of payment is subject to imprisonment.
No person shall, during such prohibited
times, fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or have in possession any of the above-mentioned kind of Fish or Game.
In Quebec, Fishery Officers exercise
Magisterial powers under the Game
Laws.
BY ORDER.
W. F. WHITCHER,
Commissioner of Fisheries.
N. B.—Deer killed before the 1st December, cannot be legally disposed of
after the 1st of January following.
Department of Marine and Fisheries,
Fisheries Branch, Ottawa.
ALFRED KNIGHT,
Fishery Overseer,
Petworth.

fiftieth anniversary of the found-Guelph was celebrated on the
on a scale of great magnificence.
stee Galt, son of the founder of
and his two sons, were the guests Corporation, besides a number of
and second years settlers
y in the morning over two thou-ldren of the town met at the drill nd were regaled with oranges. At velve o'clock the Wellington Field
y fired twenty-one rounds of blank
ge, and the Guelph Rifles a main features of the celebration

a procession, headed by the Field
y, and followed by the Mayor and
of the Corporation in carriages,
wn Council, Board of Education,
St. George's, St. Patrick's, St.
v's and Caledonian Societies, to
mber of about 2,000.
first male child born in Guelph
the Royal Standard. Each soas headed by a band, and besides the sons of Scotland had eight Several trades were represented procession, and various articles of ecture were made on the route,
tributed among the crowd.
celebration eclipses anything ever
held in this part of the country.
ceedings terminated with fire-
and a bon-fire.

DESPERATE SITUATION.
morning the company belonging
ntgomery Queen's circus passed the public streets. The last
in the caravan consisted of a cage in a lion and a tigre, and a tiger keeper. The tiger crouched ly in one corner of the cage, the
in another, and between them sat
per. During the entire parade
manifested a good deal of uneas-at the presence of the tiger in e, and made several attempts to sh it, but was prevented from do-
by the keeper. When opposite cada block, on Montgomery street,
r, the two animals managed to on one another. Then followed he most exciting scenes imagi-
The keeper rushed in between riated animals for the purpose of
ing them, and the curious and stirred crowd rushed instinctward the cage to render assist-ere it possible. While engaged rating the beasts, the lion seized
per's thigh and drove his teeth
the flesh. The excited crowd on side then began to raise their alarm, but the man whose
thus placed in jeopardy coolly
m to be quiet, and seizing an iron
struck the lion on the head severl, finally compelling him to res hold and return to his corner.
lowed freely from his wounds—
ancisco Bulletin, April 2.

OPERATION IN ENGLAND.
strong vitality of the co-operative out in England is made manifest eport of the co-operative societies ited Kingdom, and in the proof the ninth annual congress as just been sitting at Leicester.
ar sixty-four new societies were hed, and the army of co-operative re increased 36,000. The capital ver was nearly nine millions sterin the same limit of time, being ase of one million on the previous e profits on this prodigious busi-re not more than three-quarters lion, and herein lies the benefit of em. It is distribution at a cheap qd this is the object of the co-opera-vement, as opposed to the ordi-stem of trading.
1 and Canadian Tweed Suits from 0 at, DAVIS & BRO.

PAPER

—AT—

HENDERSON'S

BOOK STORE.

FRESH

Spring Supplies

JUST ARRIVED

New Designs,

Good Quality,

Prices Low.

FIGURED

Window Shades,

GOOD VARIETY,

All Cheap as ever, at

HENDERSON'S,

GRANGE BLOCK.

MAIN STREET.
Mill Point, Jan 30th, 1877. 45

LOST.
ON Saturday evening March 24th, between Selby and Elgin, a sample case of pictures, the finder will confer a favor by leaving it at the Weekly Express Office Napanee,
or at H. Walrath's Griefs Corners.
J. T. LARK Agent.
Arden Ont.

REMOVED
Mrs. Jackson
Hers to inform the public that she has removed from the premises formerly occupied by
her, and will now be found in the rooms above
SYMINGTON'S FLOUR STORE,
and opposite Grange's Drug Store, where she is still prepared to do all kinds of hair-
work, such as
SWITCHES, POFFS, BRAIDS,
CURLS,
SWITCHES DYED ON SHORT NOTICE.
ALL WORK DONE SATISFACTORILY.
Roots of extrahings all turned one way. Intutions given in the art on reasonable terms. Highest price paid for human hair.
SWITCHES FOR SALE.
Land PLASTER
Now grinding and ready for use,
Superior Fine Ground
Land Plaster,
AT THE LOW RATE OF
$5 per Ton, or 25 cts. per Hundred.
All orders left at the Mill, or at the Woolen Factory, for Williams' and Lasher's Water Lime, or Quick Lime, will be promptly attended to. Lime delivered when required. No Credit.
JAMES PERRY.
Napanee, March 5th, 1877. 46.

Farm and Town Property
FOR SALE.
A NUMBER of farms in the Counties
of Northumberland and Hastings,
also some very valuable city property in Belleville, and both village and farming property, in and near the village of Brighton.
Apply to
J. E. BENSON,
Napanee.
March 12th, 1877. 47-48.

FARM FOR SALE.
FARM of 175 Acres, the most desirable property in the County of Northumberland, for Sale. Being all that portion of lot No. 31 in Concession A, of the Village and Township of Brighton, lying North of the old Kingston Road, and only quarter of a mile from the P. O. and the centre of the village. Upon the premises are good brick and wooden buildings; a
large orchard of young and bearing trees;
a beautiful grove of pine and hardwood
timber; spring creeks, and other advantages which rendered it desirable. Also several other good Farms and Village
Properties for sale.
I. O. PROCTOR.
Brighton.
52-2in.

is directed to the following Provisions of the Fishery and Game Laws in the Province of Ontario.

CLOSE SEASONS FOR FISH.
Whitefish cannot be caught from 1st
November to 10th November, both days
inclusive.
Salmon Trout, and Lake Trout, cannot be caught from 1st November to 10th
November, both days inclusive.
Speckled Trout, Brook or River Trout, cannot be caught from 15th September
to 1st May.
Bass, cannot be caught from 15th May
to 15th June.
Pickerel, cannot be caught from 15th April to 15th May.
Maskinonge, cannot be caught from 15th
April to 15th May.

CLOSE SEASONS FOR GAME.
Deer and Cariboo, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.
Moose, cannot be killed from 1st December to 1st September.
Partridge, cannot be killed from 1st
January to 1st September.
Duck, cannot be killed from 1st January
to 15th August.
Woodcock, cannot be killed from 1st
January to 1st July.
Snipe, cannot be killed from 1st May to 15th August.
Quail, cannot be killed from 1st January
to 1st October.

All well-disposed persons are requested
to afford the local Fishery Officers whatever information and assistance they can towards carrying out the provisions of
the Fishery Laws.
Fishing without Licenses is prohibited.
Indians are forbidden to fish or shoot
illegally the same as whitemen.
Complainants will receive one-half of the fines imposed, and be paid for their cost and attorney's witnesses.
Each person is guilty of violating these regulations is liable to find and costs, or
in default of payment is subject to imprisonment.
No person shall, during such prohibited
times, fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or have in possession any of the above-mentioned kind of Fish or Game.
In Quebec, Fishery Officers exercise
Magisterial powers under the Game
Laws.
BY ORDER.
W. F. WHITCHER,
Commissioner of Fisheries.
N. B.—Deer killed before the 1st December, cannot be legally disposed of
after the 1st of January following.
Department of Marine and Fisheries,
Fisheries Branch, Ottawa.
ALFRED KNIGHT,
Fishery Overseer,
Petworth.

Valuable Farm for Sale
BEING composed of west half Lot No.
17, in the 4th Concession of the Township of Richmond, containing 100 acres; 80 acres of which is cleared and
in a good state of cultivation, half mile
from the Village of Selby and four and a half from the Town of Napanee. Terms liberal.
For full particulars apply to Grange &
Bros., Napanee. 47-2in.

CUSTOMS' DEPARTMENT.
Ottawa, 13th April, 1877.
Authorized Discount on American Invoices
until further notice 6 per cent.
J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner.

List of New Advertisements.

Cash System—Slaven & Ironside.
To Contractors—R. Gage.
Special Notices—A. C. Davis & Bro.
Crockery and Glassware—Smith & Anderson.
Fits Epilepsy—Ash & Robbins.
Consumption—Ash & Robbins.
Notice—Jas. Davidson.
Room Paper—Henderson.
Special Notice—Dr. Pierce.

Notice to Subscribers!

A misunderstanding with some of our subscribers, has arisen in regard to the meaning conveyed by the wording of certain circulars, sent to them by Mr. T. W. Casey, late proprietor of the Express, asking for payment of arrears of subscription. We wish it distinctly understood, that Mr. Casey's connection with the Express, expired on the 16th day of October 1876, and all subscriptions due him, expired with that date. We hope that our subscribers will not infer from the said circulars, that we are, at this early date, pushing them for their subscriptions.

THE EXPRESS.

NAPANEE, MA., 4th, 1877.

Customs.

Duty collected for April, $202.03.
Clothing 10 per cent. cheaper than any house in town.
Bin. DAVIS & BRO.

Inland Revenue.

Duty collected for April, on spirits $830.15; on cigars, $20.40. Total $850.55.

Quarterly Meeting.

The last quarterly meeting of the ecclesiastical year, will take place in the Methodist Church, here, on Sunday next.

A few Building Lots for sale, situated on East street south part of Bristol property. We would exchange for a small House and Lot in central Napanee.
Bin. A. C. DAVIS & BRO.

Corn in Egypt.

Within the last ten days, twelve carloads of corn—about 50,000 bushels—have arrived from the Western States, via Sarnia. To be disposed of in the Napanee Market.

New Store.

The Messrs. Daly, the well-known tea merchants, have opened a tea and grocery store, on the corner of John st. and the Market Square.

License Granted.

Mr. M. W. Pruyn, only was granted a wholesale license by the commissioners on Saturday last. The fee was $100. Not less than five gallons, or a dozen bottles can be sold.

We intend selling out our whole stock of damaged goods without reserve.

Bin. DAVIS & BRO.

A Secret Session.

Of the Town Council was held on Thursday night of last week. We believe the prevalence of incendiaryism, and a means of checking the evil, were the subjects of debate.

The Apron Bazaar.

In the Town Hall on Tuesday night, was not so successful as was expected, considering the efforts of the lady promoters, and the attractions offered. A portion of the stock yet remains unsold.

Those who have bought Clothing of us pronounce it the best value in Town.
Bin. DAVIS & BRO.

War Maps.

The Witness of Monday, and the Globe of Tuesday, each publishes a map, showing all places of importance in connection with the war in the East. Something of this kind is needed for reference, if the war itself proves as interminable as the talk which preceded it.

Dr. Oronhyatekha—In Luck.

Our former fellow citizen—the erratic Doctor—has been heard from, this time in connection with a monster temperance meeting in Liverpool (Eng.) on the night of the 30th ult., when a Dr. Lees presented £300 stg. to the Oronhyatekha testimonial. We congratulate the Doc on his good luck, and the thorough appreciation of his talents by Johnnie Bull.

The rush for Damaged Good since the fire has been great,
DAVIS & BRO.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education was held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday evening, 1st of May.

A communication from Mr. Sills, in reference to the suspension of his son, was read. It asked the reference of the matter to a committee and vaguely hinted at a law suit in case of refusal.

Messrs. J. Perry, C. B. Perry, Davis, Henry, and Lane spoke on the subject favouring its reference to a Committee. A motion was made giving a Committee power to act, but objection being taken it was withdrawn, and again.

Moved by Mr. C. B. Perry, sec. by Mr. Mr. R. McCay, that the communication be referred to a Committee composed of the Chairman, Mr. Lane, and Dr. Rutan, with instructions to report at the next meeting of the Board.—Carried.

The monthly Public School reports were submitted and read. The Inspector's summary showed the following averages:

	NO. ON ROLL.	AV'GE.
J. Bowerman,	72	61
Miss Walsh,	44	37
" Anderson,	46	37
" Ballantyn,	41	34
" Aylsworth,	70	57
" Van Dyck,	46	34
" Davy,	52	42
R. R. Lemnox,	42	38
Miss Fraser,	46	43
" James,	44	37
" Caton,	84	29
" Phelan,	62	54
West Ward,	273	223
Centre Ward,	98	79
East Ward,	228	201
Total for all schools,	599	504

On motion of Mr. C. B. Perry, the Committee on Teachers was instructed to look into the matter of school accommodation with a view to the discontinuance of the Centre ward school, and relieving from further duties two teachers and report at the next meeting.

The secretary presented the monthly pay-list, and said that there being no money in the treasury the amounts, Public Schools $266.57, High Schools $208.19, had not been paid. An account of Gibbard & Son for $11.75, and also of J. B. Benson for $1.50 were passed.

The Special Committee appointed to procure a janitor were first allowed further time to report and the motion was immediately afterwards rescinded. The chairman read a list of the tenders, and after a little further discussion further time was allowed. The Board adjourned to meet again on Tuesday evening next.

EDUCATIONAL.

OFFICIAL VISIT OF THE DEPUTY MINISTER OF EDUCATION.

A special meeting of the Lemnox and Addington Teachers' Association was held in the High School building, Napanee, on Friday and Saturday of last week, in order to meet the Deputy Minister of Education, J. George Hodgins, Esq., LL.D., hear his address and lecture, and transact other necessary business. In order to make the most of the occasion a Departmental order constituted Friday a legal school holiday, about 150 persons, principally teachers, awaited him, at the place of meeting. The Association was opened at one o'clock p. m., by Bowerman.

Chemical experiments were shown and

and the firemen themselves were hard pressed; however, they stuck to their places, obeying every order. By half-past five the roof of the main building had fallen in and the entire side of the extension behind having burned out the south wall, about fifty feet in height and eighty feet long, tottered and fell outward with a rumbling noise. A portion of the wall fell upon, cut off and crushed exactly one-half of a double tenement house facing on St. Urban street from which the inmates had a few moments before providentially escaped. The fall of this wall left the main building a crumbling wreck, about ten minutes past six, a portion of the rear of the north wall came crashing down and buried three firemen named Reddy, Nolan and Holtby, their comrades and several fearless civilians rushed into the alley of death to their rescue, regardless of the fact that the lofty and tottering wall was even then quivering before the final destruction, while working with superhuman efforts to save their fellow beings, the remainder of the wall came down, tons upon tons of the bricks and mortar fell with resistless force. The effect was dreadful. Where a moment before had been a party of stalwart men, busily engaged, was now to the spectator nothing more than a smoking waste of brick and charred wood. The excitement of the spectators now grew to frenzy. The rescuers set to work pitching back the scalding hot bricks, regardless of the burns they received, and the work went on systematically.

It was a sickening spectacle, the dismembering of one corpse after another, while the groans of the wounded and dying were heartrending. Nolan could be heard calling for help, and with much difficulty he was reached. One after the other, the dead and wounded were removed till all had been recovered. The dead were placed in coffins saved from the coffin shop, and the living were taken to the Hospital.

The list of those who perished is as follows:—

THE KILLED.

T. Higgins, Richard Scholes, Michael Barry, Wm. Perry and Geo. Lynch, firemen; Mr. Benichamp, Antoine Sanders, John Hamel, Joseph Parker, and Pierre Camelle, civilians.

The total number who perished was ten.

THE WOUNDED.

In addition the following were injured more or less severely:—Chief Patton, severe scalp wounds and a large gash on the right temple, very much bruised and burned.

J. Nolan, legs badly fractured, one broken, and bruised about the head.

John Livingstone, one leg badly smashed, since amputated.

Ben Harrison, back broken, still living.

Chas. Reddy, Skinner, head bruised.

A. Ferguson, leg broken and head bruised.

Chas. Beance, Skinner, badly hurt.

Alfred Holtby, burnt badly about the hands and face.

Israel Bishop, leg broken and badly burned.

Edward Hovey, one leg broken, and badly burned about the head.

Besides the above many civilians were badly injured and carried to the homes by their friends. The firemen were all taken to the hospital, except those killed, the latter being taken to their homes.

MONTREAL, May 1.—John Livingstone, who had his leg amputated on account of injuries received at the fire, died from exhaustion at six o'clock this morning. He leaves a wife and three children. Ferguson, the hosenmaker, died in the General Hospital this afternoon. This makes the seventh death in the brigade. The others are progressing favourably.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY.

THE COMMANDERS OF THE HOSTILE ARMIES.

to defend our interests if they attacked, and meanwhile we the strictest neutrality. We better than follow the precedent set ourselves. Our interests are manifold and great, but it is easy to exaggerate them so long as the war keeps within certain limits at present they cannot be of importance to those of Antwerp; but we have pre- self-interest of the principal Russia, whatever be her faults, at least, a peculiar keen sense of interests. To presume she would court a collision with the naval Powder in the world is to she would suddenly become a ed as Turkey. It is sometime that Constantinople might be a dashing attack but in reality, of the strongest places in the v Turks might, so long as they the sea, hold it single-handed, naps, the knowledge of this fa phasis to Russia's declaration will not besiege Constantinople events, it sufficiently rebukes of undignified alarm and undis pens to ignorant passion. Th can afford to regard the prese caluly, for the simple reason t be perfectly well able to defe terest if and when, they are al

In the House of Commons stone gave notice that he sh due five resolutions. They England has a just cause of ec the conduct of the Porte; that is a change of conduct and gus given the Porte has no claim t port of the British Crown; th most of the complications, an actually begun, the House ear res that the influence of Engli councils of Europe be employe effectual development of libert self-government in the disti vices; that the House ferti that the influence of England ed to the promotion of harmon among the European Powers.

We expect all past due acco settled up. D2

PERCAUTIONS AGAINST FIRES.

The Illinois Legislature has mitted to it a Bill providing owners and proprietors of hot stories in height and upward State, shall keep rope ladders good material, in each and e ing-room in their houses ground floors, of sufficient len; one end is securely fastened to or walls, to reach the ground other end is thrown out of the

The Cincinnati Gazette, making a excellent suggestion:— best appendages to lofty buildi iron staircases fastened to the so many hotels and large tenen in New York. They run fron of the building to the second s directly accessible from each they pass. They terminate n to the ground to be within rea ladders, and yet are so high t cannot readily get upon them Southern Hotel been provided apparatus, many less lives v been lost. The ladders need sightly, as they can be easily fancy patterns, that would ad than diminish the architectura the structure to which they ar But beauty is a secondary co when the lives of hundreds ar

$20,000 worth of Damage disount. D

THE PARIS EXHIBI

THE PARIS EXHIBI

of damaged goods without reserve.

3in. DAVIS & BRO.

A Secret Session.

Of the Town Council was held on Thursday night of last week. We believe the prevalence of incendiarism, and a means of checking the evil, were the subjects of debate.

The Apron Bazaar.

In the Town Hall on Tuesday night, was not so successful as was expected, considering the efforts of the lady promoters, and the attractions offered. A portion of the stock yet remains unsold.

Those who have bought Clothing of us pronounce it the best value in Town.

3in. DAVIS & BRO.

War Maps.

The Witness of Monday, and the Globe of Tuesday, each publishes a map, showing all places of importance in connection with the war in the East. Something of this kind is needed for reference, if the war itself proves as interminable as the talk which preceded it.

Base Ball Match.

The Silver Leaf Club will play their first match for the summer of 1877, with the "Clippers" of Belleville, on the latter's ground, on the 24th of May. The Leafs will appear in their new outfit as we described in a previous issue, and will doubtless come out ahead as usual.

Sentenced to Imprisonment.

John Vandewater, charged with theft, was on Friday last sentenced by Judge Wilkinson to fifteen days imprisonment at hard labour. His excellent previous character, coupled with a largely signed petition, greatly mitigated the sentence.

All parties with past due accounts had better pay up at once and save cost.

3in. DAVIS & BRO.

The New Temperance House.

According to agreement, the Brisco House, was opened at 12 m. on Monday by Mr. Potter as a temperance hotel. The excellent reputation attained by the house under the management of Mr. Soby, the late proprietor, will be sustained by Mr. Potter. The other hotels, will, for the present remain open at their usual rates.

Caution to Emigrants

"The Winnipeg Free Press asserts, that the notorious gambler called 'Farmer Brown' has recommenced operations at Fisher's Landing, the point of embarkation for Red River. Boat-owners earnestly warn emigrants to shun all invitations to play cards, and call upon the Canadian press to circulate the warning."

We have still on hand a lot of last years goods, warranted not damaged, which we will sell at one half the usual price, these goods are a bargain for those buying them as they are as good as new, call and see them, ROSE & FRALICK

Honorable Acquittal.

Dr. Lucas formerly of Napanee, charged with procuring an abortion, was honorably acquitted at the strafford assizes on the 26th ult. before Judge Galt. After hearing the prosecuting evidence the Judge said there was not the slightest foundation for a conviction, and the jury acquitted him before leaving the room, amid loud applause.

Napanee Academy Athletic Sports Association.

A Club bearing the above title was organized on Tuesday May 1st. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year. President, Prof. W. Chipman; Vice President, J. Bowerman; Secretary and Treasurer, Prof. R. Matheson. Committee, A. Richardson, F. Bickely, J. Loggie, C. Bartlett, and P. Rutan. Excellent facilities for developing bone and muscle, are afforded by the complete apparatus in possession of the Academy.

Rose & Fralick have a very large and well selected stock of Boots and Shoes, through a jury who were allowed further time to report and the motion was immediately afterwards rescinded. The chairman read a list of the tenders, and after a little further discussion further time was allowed. The Board adjourned to meet again on Tuesday evening next.

EDUCATIONAL.

OFFICIAL VISIT OF THE DEPUTY MINISTER OF EDUCATION.

A special meeting of the Lennox and Addington Teachers' Association was held in the High School building, Napanee, on Friday and Saturday of last week, in order to meet the Deputy Minister of Education, J. George Hodgins, Esq., LL.D., hear his address and lecture, and transact other necessary business. In order to make the most of the occasion a Departmental order constituted Friday a legal school holiday, about 150 persons, principally teachers, awaited him, at the place of meeting. The Association was opened at one o'clock p.m., by Bowerman.

Chemical experiments were shown and explained by Mr. J. M. Bowerman. gave an exhibition of calisthenics, which were made simultaneously by the members of the class.

Dr. Hodgins, arrived at this juncture and was received with loud applause. The President, Mr. Burrows, Public School Inspector, took the chair and besides the Deputy Minister of Education, there were on the platform Dr. Agnew, P. S. I. for Frontenac, Rev. Mr. Blackstock, Dr. Bristol, and Messrs. Dorland (Headmaster Newburgh High School), Matheson (Napanee High School), Tilley, Morden, Bowerman and others.

Mr. Burrows after some preliminary remarks introduced the Doctor, who dwelt at length upon the duties and trials surrounding the lives of teachers, trustees and others taking an active part in the progress of education. He suggested various changes necessary for ameliorating their labors and showed how all money invested in the cause should be amply repaid by increased efficiency in every department, concluding his remarks by saying. Reliance would be placed on the people for Education, and if wisely directed from head quarters he was assured the result would be successful. (Applause.)

Mr. Burrows replied in a few pertinent remarks, followed by Rev. Mr. Blackstock, Dr. Bristol and Mr. Morden.

A Series of calisthenic exercises were gone through by the classes, under Misses Ballentyne, James, and Fraser, showing the benefit to health resulting from this mode of exercise. Rev. J. J. Bogart and Dr. Agnew followed in short speeches. Mr. Bowerman by the aid of the blackboard, gave a practical and lucid exposition of his system of map drawing. Dr. Hodgins said he had been much pleased with the calisthenic exercises. Apart from their physical importance, they afforded an agreeable means of breaking the tediousness of routine.

Mr. Matheson moved that a hearty vote of thanks be presented to the Deputy Minister of Education for coming to meet the Association, and his lucid and interesting explanations; and that he be enrolled as an honorary member of the Lennox and Addington Teachers' Association.

Mr. Dorland seconded the motion, and it was carried amid applause.

Dr. Hodgins said that he accepted the enrollment as a great honor, and evidence of oneness of interest between himself and the teachers. None but who had given their hearts to God could appreciate the high position of teachers or rightly estimate their capabilities. On their country largely relied to stem the tide of evil. Much would be prevented if teachers implanted in the plastic minds of children the highest sentiments of religion. It was hard to tell what would not be accomplished if that were done, and the example of the great Dr. Arnold more closely followed. He also referred to high position taken by Ontario at the Centennial, and stated his conviction that all were mutually with

Chas. Beance, Skinner, badly hurt.

Alfred Holtby, burnt badly about the hands and face.

Israel Bishop, leg broken and badly burned.

Edward Hovey, one leg broken, and badly burned about the head.

Besides the above many civilians were badly injured and carried to the homes by their friends. The firemen were all taken to the hospital, except those killed, the latter being taken to their homes.

MONTREAL, May 1.—John Livingstone, who had his leg amputated on account of injuries received at the fire, died from exhaustion at six o'clock this morning. He leaves a wife and three children. Ferguson, the hosenmaker, died in the General Hospital this afternoon. This makes the seventh death in the brigade. The others are progressing favourably.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY.

THE COMMANDERS OF THE HOSTILE ARMIES.

Abdul-Kerim Pasha is an unassuming man over seventy years of age, with no pretensions to a brilliant pedigree, but with a solid reputation as an excellent soldier. Abdul-Kerim Pasha's official title is that of Sendar-i-Ekrem, or Commander-in-Chief, as distinguished from the Minister of War, Redif Pasha. He is however, the senior of the Minister, both in age and experience, and Redif Pasha is much under his control. The old soldier was himself Minister of War during the reign of Abdul-Aziz. The fame of the old General has not hitherto been special in the outside world, partly on account of his modesty and constant desire to keep in the background, partly because the living military men of Turkey have had only one chance to show their abilities, and that was during the war of 1853-54. But the part played by the French and English during that war was so much more prominent that nobody except the Turks themselves took any interest in what was done by their army. Otherwise, the name of Abdul-Kerim Pasha would have been much more widely celebrated, as he was one of the most successful of Turkish generals, both on the Danube and in the Crimea.

The Grand Duke Nicholas is fine-looking, tall, forty-six years old, a brother of the Czar, as haughty a prince as the House of Romanoff has ever produced, and a soldier as devoid of a military history as any review and parade guardsmen. Abdul-Kerim Pasha is the actual commander-in-chief of his army. The Grand Duke Nicholas is a mere figure-head, guided and commanded by his chief of staff, General Nepokoytchizky, the Mother of Russia. He has been in active service since the age of sixteen, or for thirty years past; but he has had scarcely any field experience. He spent a few days in Sebastopol during the siege, and was, when quite a youth, attached for some two years to the general staff of the Army of the Caucasus, where he took part in a few skirmishes with the Cherkesses. He was brought up as a field engineer, and is at present he chief of all the military engineers of the empire, with General Totleben as his assistant. The Grand Duke is married to the daughter of Prince Peter of Oldenburg, and has two sons, one of whom, the Grand Duke Nicholas, Jr., a youth of twenty, is with him in the capacity of an aide-de-camp. The Grand Duke is the third son of Czar Nicholas, and is accordingly an uncle of the two princely sailors at present in this country.

The chief of the general staff in the Danubian army and the man who will actually lead and command the Russian forces is a Pole. General Nepokoytchizky's origin has for a long time been a hindrance to his promotion, but his abilities are too great not to be ultimately acknowledged. He was, during the war of 1853-54, chief of staff in the Fifth Army Corps, commanded by General Inders. He was the leading spirit in all the operations on the Danube during that war, and has now the incalculable advantage of other hands, to reach the ground.

The Cincinnati Gazette, making excellent suggestion:—Costly appendages to lofty buildings, iron staircases fastened to the so many hotels and large tenements in New York. They run from the building to the second story directly accessible to each as they pass. They terminate near the ground to be within reach of ladders, and yet are so high that cannot readily get upon them. Southern Hotel been provided apparatus, many less lives would be lost. The ladders need slightly, as they can be easily by fancy patterns, that would add but diminish the architectural structure to which they are. But beauty is a secondary consideration when the lives of hundreds are $20,000 worth of Damaged discount.

THE PARIS EXHIBIT.

The exhibition of 1878 will Paris with as complete a system as that which benefits. But even these means of transport considered likely to be insufficient to meet the wants of the enormous who will be moving constantly streets of Paris thirteen months. It is an ingenious Frenchman who hit upon a novel idea for them without additional press public resources. He proposes the coach builders of the earth invited to give specimens of the motion, and that they shall be ply for hire at tariffs to be fixed selves as remunerative, and unarrangements with the existing omnibus companies who have rights; He further suggests shall run exclusively on the boulevards from the Place de la Bon Trocadero, and from the Palais the Champ de Mars, so that they seen to the fullest advantage, competent judges may be able what is the most convenient and cheap mode of transport for the people or common use. The building will be a permanent structure.

Our Millinery Show Room opened on or about, 20 to the 2 Mrs. Mills, DA

We purpose selling off our w from 10 to 20 per cent, cheaper House in town. DA

We are repairing up our will sell the whole stock of cost. DA

THE NORTH-WEST.

In answer to intending se Winnipeg Free Press says:—superabundance of book-keepers class, also of printers. Far more only interest which cannot be T. ere are good openings for large capitalists.

Bishop Soghers, of the Roman Diocese in Victoria, preached a nouncing the Free School system, and proclaiming the position to secular schools.

The express rate from St. P. niage has been reduced to pounds since the opening of

The miners on strike in the collieries refuse to vacate the houses or obey the Sheriff, and a Government steamer sent to arrest them.

James Dominick, of the I Winnipeg, was fined $25 and for selling liquor to an Indian.

The Winnipeg Free Press of 13th, says:—The complete the leading roads has brought from the country, to nearly a standstill. Wheat, 85 to 93 c 50 to 55 cents. Barley, 50 cents. Pork very scarcely a beef inclining upwards, being we described in a previous issue, doubtless come out ahead as usual.

Sentenced to Imprisonment.

John Vandewater, charged with theft, was on Friday last sentenced by Judge Wilkinson to fifteen days imprisonment at hard labour. His excellent previous character, coupled with a largely signed petition, greatly mitigated the sentence.

All parties with past due accounts had better pay up at once and save cost.

3in. DAVIS & BRO.

The New Temperance House.

According to agreement, the Brisco House was opened at 12 m. on Monday by Mr. Potter as a temperance hotel. The excellent reputation attained by the house under the management of Mr. Selby, (the late proprietor) will be sustained by Mr. Potter. The other hotels, will, for the present remain open at their usual rates.

Caution to Emigrants

"The Winnipeg Free Press" asserts that the notorious gambler called "Farmer Brown" has recommenced operations at Fisher's Landing, the point of embarkation for Red River. Boat-owners earnestly warn emigrants to shun all invitations to play cards, and call upon the Canadian press to circulate the warning.

We have still on hand a lot of last year's goods, warranted not damaged, which we will sell at one half the usual price, these goods are a bargain for those buying them as they are as good as new, call and see them, ROSE & FRALICK

Honorable Acquittal.

Dr. Lucas formerly of Napanee, charged with procuring an abortion, was honorably acquitted at the straitford assizes on the 26th ult. before Judge Galt. After hearing the prosecuting evidence the Judge said there was not the slightest foundation for a conviction, and the jury acquitted him before leaving the room, amid loud applause.

Napanee Academy Athletic Sports Association.

A club bearing the above title was organized on Tuesday May 1st. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year. President, Prof. W. Chipman; Vice President, J. Bowerman; Secretary and Treasurer, Prof. R. Matheson. Committee, A. Richardson; F. Binkely; J. Loggie; C. Bartlett, and F. Rattan. Excellent facilities for developing bone and muscle, are afforded by the complete apparatus in possession of the Academy.

Rose & Fralick have a very large and well selected stock of Boots and Shoes, Hats and caps, Clothing, Gents furnishings &c. &c. See them before purchasing as they will not be undersold.

Dr. Hodgins' Lecture.

A large and appreciative audience listened with wrapt attention to the Doctor's lecture on "Lessons for Canadians at the Centennial." The Mayor was in the chair, and the Rev. Wm. Scott of Brockville, Dr. Agnew of Frontenac, Rev. W. S. Blackstock, Rev. R. Pope, Dr. Rutan, Dr. Bristol, R. Matheson, A. B. F. Burrows, P. S. I., W. N. Deller, J. Herring, A. L. Morden, and J. B. McGuin were seated on the platform. The lecturer was, as is well known, perfectly at home on the subject, and carried his hearers through the history and progress of International exhibitions, from that in Venice in 1208, to the late Centennial. He showed the advanced position Canada held as compared with the educational systems of Europe, and thought that greater efforts should be forthcoming in order to still further perfect the workings of this great agent of civilization. The lecture was replete with information from beginning to end, and a mere sketch will convey but a very inadequate view of its instructive merits. A vote of thanks was tendered, and acknowledged in eloquent terms.

School Inspector, took the chair and besides the Deputy Minister of Education, there were on the platform Dr. Agnew, P. S. I. for Frontenac, Rev. Mr. Blackstock, Dr. Bristol, and Messrs. Dorland (Headmaster Newburgh High School), Matheson (Napanee High School), Tilley, Morden, Bowerman and others.

Mr. Burrows after some preliminary remarks introduced the Doctor, who dwelt at length upon the duties and trials surrounding the lives of teachers, trustees and others taking an active part in the progress of education. He suggested various changes necessary for ameliorating their labors and showed how all money invested in the cause should be amply repaid by increased efficiency in every department, concluding his remarks by saying, Reliance would be placed on the people for Education, and if wisely directed from head quarters he was assured the result would be successful. (Applause.)

Mr. Burrows replied in a few pertinent remarks, followed by Rev. Mr. Blackstock, Dr. Bristol and Mr. Morden.

A series of calisthenic exercises were gone through by the classes, under Misses Ballentyne, James, and Fraser, showing the benefit to health resulting from this mode of exercise. Rev. J. J. Bogan and Dr. Agnew followed in short speeches. Mr. Bowerman by the aid of the blackboard, gave a practical and lucid exposition of his system of map drawing. Dr. Hoggins said he had been much pleased with the calisthenic exercises. Apart from their physical importance, they afforded an agreeable means of breaking the tediousness of routine.

Mr. Matheson moved that a hearty vote of thanks be presented to the Deputy Minister of Education for coming to meet the Association, and his lucid and interesting explanations; and that he be enrolled as an honorary member of the Lennox and Addington Teachers' Association.

Mr. Dorland seconded the motion, and it was carried amid applause.

Dr. Hoggins said that he accepted the enrollment as a great honor, and evidence of oneness of interest between himself and the teachers. None but who had given their hearts to God could appreciate the high position of teachers, or rightly estimate their capabilities. On them the country largely relied to stem the tide of evil. Much would be prevented if teachers implanted in the plastic minds of children the highest sentiments of religion. It was hard to tell what would not be accomplished if that were done, and the example of the great Dr. Arnold more closely followed. He also referred to high position taken by Ontario at the Centennial, and stated his conviction that if all were imbued with a sense of the great responsibility resting upon them, they would succeed in getting the best system of education in the world.

The very interesting proceedings were brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem, by a class of school children.

If you want a stylish New Hat, cheap, go to Rose & Fralick in the Perry Block.

FATAL FIRE IN MONTREAL.

NINE KILLED AND TEN WOUNDED.

On Sunday morning a fire occurred in a five-storey brick-based building with extension, occupied by the Montreal Oil-Cabinet & Novelty Company's show-rooms and factory, and Mr. Spencer's shoe furnishing factory, situated on the east side of St. Urban street, between Vitre and Craig streets. About five o'clock, and when, apparently, the fire had been raging within the building for some time previously, a private alarm was given for it at the Central Fire Station. The firemen worked with remarkable energy and fearlessness, and rushed boldly into situations of the greatest danger. The heat was so intense as to rodden the faces of people who stood 300 yards away, the Minister of War, Redif Pasha. He is however, the senior of the Minister, both in age and experience, and Redif Pasha is much under his control. The old soldier was himself Minister of War during the reign of Abdul-Aziz. The fame of the old General has not hitherto been special in the outside world, partly on account of his modesty and constant desire to keep in the background, partly because the living military men of Turkey have had only one chance to show their abilities, and that was during the war of 1853-54. But the part played by the French and English during that war was so much more prominent that nobody except the Turks themselves, took any interest in what was done by their army. Otherwise the name of Abdul-Kerim Pasha would have been much more widely celebrated, as he was one of the most successful of Turkish generals, both on the Danube and in the Crimea.

The Grand Duke Nicholas is fine-looking, tall, forty-six years old, a brother of the Czar, as haughty a prince as the House of Romanoff has ever produced, and a soldier as devoid of a military history as any review and parade guardsman. Abdul-Kerim Pasha is the actual commander-in-chief of his army. The Grand Duke Nicholas is a mere figure-head, guided and commanded by his chief of staff, General Nepokoytchizky, the Moltke of Russia. He has been in active service since the age of sixteen, or for thirty years past; but he has had scarcely any field experience. He spent a few days in Sebastopol during the siege, and was, when quite a youth, attached for some two years to the general staff of the Army of the Caucasus, where he took part in a few skirmishes with the Cherkesses. He was brought up as a field engineer, and is at present he chief of all the military engineers of the empire, with General Tolstoben as his assistant. The Grand Duke is married to the daughter of Prince Peter of Oldenburg, and has two sons, one of whom, the Grand Duke Nicholas, Jr., a youth of twenty, is with him in the capacity of an aide-de-camp. The Grand Duke is the third son of Czar Nicholas, and is accordingly an uncle of the two princely sailors at present in this country.

